Benefit raises $1,200

A benefit dinner and bake sale held Saturday at the Shabbona United Methodist Church raised some $1,200 for a Bad Axe couple's cancer-stricken child.

Attendance at the 4-hour benefit, which included a soup and salad supper, is estimated at 150 to 200 persons, according to Janet Severance, who said the event was co-sponsored by the Shabbona and Elmer United Methodist churches.

Severance said the proceeds will go to Tom and Sharry Nesbit, Bad Axe, whose baby daughter, Rebecca, developed malignant tumors in both eyes. She was born June 27.

Surgeons at William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak have removed one eye and currently are trying to save the other with treatment. Please turn to page 10.

9mm combat pistol

Area police adopt new weapon

Reactions have been very good, to say the least, to the 9mm high capacity semiauto pistols which the state police and a number of other local police officers, including 2 in Cass City, now carry while on duty.

The switch to the 9mm was initiated by the state police, which received state approval in 1988 to replace the duty weapon at the time -- a 38-caliber Smith and Wesson revolver -- with a 9mm pistol.

State police troopers and officers have been training with the new weapon over the past year. A number of other law enforcement officers, meanwhile, also have made the switch.

A drug-related armed robbery in early 1988 helped the Cass City Police Department decide to follow the state police lead, according to Sgt. Don Miller, who said the local department has had the weapons since June.

A certified state firearms instructor, Miller is one of 2 full-time Cass City officers who have completed the 9mm training. "They're strictly a combat weapon," Miller said of the pistol, which he indicated, wins hands down in a comparison to the 357 magnum revolver he used to carry.

Aside from its light weight (40 ounces loaded), the 9mm is easier to sight, has a much greater fire capacity and is more accurate, he said.

"An officer can fire 46 rounds in less than 60 seconds with greater accuracy," Miller explained. "With the revolver, it will probably take a minimum 90 seconds to fire 18 rounds and hit the vital areas of a target," he said.

The number of rounds referred to by Miller is the same number carried by officers on duty. An officer with the 9mm has 16 rounds in the gun in addition to carrying 2 15-round magazines, while an officer with a revolver has 6 rounds in the gun with another 12 rounds carried on his belt.

LOADING TIME

Loading time is another key advantage with the 9mm, which takes almost no time and little attention to load.

That's important in terms of the safety of an officer, who, when loading a revolver, often must turn his attention away from a suspect and onto his gun, Miller commented, adding, "Once you take your eyes off your suspect, you're in trouble."

He noted the 9mm is a double-action pistol, meaning it takes a 12 1/2 pound trigger pull to fire the first shot, followed by a 4-pound trigger pull on subsequent shots.

"The bullets that we're using are jacketed hollow points. They're high velocity," Miller continued. "They disintegrate on impact, so chances are good you're not going to hurt an innocent bystander."

While the new weapon is impressive, some might question the need in a town where police officers rarely fire their weapons in the course of duty.

MODERNIZE

Acknowledging that question, Police Chief Gene Wilson said buying the new guns under state purchasing gave the department the opportunity to modernize its weapons, a move being considered by many other local departments.

Still, Wilson and Miller noted, the need for a better duty weapon can come without warning.

The pair recalled the February 1988 robbery of a young couple in their Cass City apartment by 2 armed Detroit men.

"That tells you it's not likely, but it's possible," Miller said. He pointed out that had Cass City Officer Craig Haynes happened on the scene a few minutes earlier, chances are good he would have come face to face with 2 suspects carrying loaded shotguns.

Park residents blast new bus policy

Twenty-two residents of Huntsville Trailer Park are up in arms because of a change in the way students are transported from the park to school.

Traditionally, the students had been transported into the park and let off at 2 locations. This year students (except kindergartners) will be picked up and let off at the entrance.

A spokesperson for the residents, Karen E. Wright, said that the reason for the change was that Jim Fox (transportation supervisor) was angry because of a dispute between some of the residents and a bus driver.

Fox said that the change was made because of the danger of many children getting off and going every which way so that the driver had virtually no chance to check all of them.

We are complying with the state regulations, Fox said. In that small park the most that any student would walk is .2 of a mile. That's just a little more than a big city block, Fox maintains, and much less than many students who live in the village travel.

Supt. Ken Micklash, who received a copy of the letter published in the Chronicle this week, said that he reviewed the situation with Fox again after he read the letter.

What bothered me at first was the inconsistency of transporting the kindergarten students to their homes in the park and leaving the other students off at the gate.

However, he said, I found that there are only 2 or 3 kindergarten students picked up at noon so the safety factor is much different than when the large number of students ride.

Because of this, the superintendent said, we do not anticipate any change in the system now.

Fox also maintained that his bus driver was cursed when the original squabble started. At that time park residents complained to the superintendent. That complaint was handled to the satisfaction of residents, Micklash and residents agreed.

Fox said that what really was at issue was the attitude of the residents, who, he claims, are impossible to please. They want their children delivered to the door.

It may be that the residents will try other avenues to have the bus revert to the schedule it was on before this year. We'll try this first, (the letter) and if that doesn't work we'll try something else, grimly announced Mrs. Wright.

Brinkman keeps Cass City - O-G school feud alive

The ever troubling issue of student transfer requests again split a vote of the Owen-Gage Board of Education Monday night.

Despite a continuing struggle to follow a set policy for such requests, however, a majority of board members made it clear they won't approve transfers without an equal "trade" from the other school district involved.

The board, during a special meeting Monday, denied a request from Cathy Czekai, Gagetown, who asked that her 2 children be allowed to continue attending Cass City Schools.

Czekai, whose request was tabled at the board's Sept. 11 regular meeting because she didn't appear to present her case, attended the special meeting.

She explained that she and her husband are divorced and are currently involved in custody proceedings. She said a decision in the matter is expected in court Oct. 16.

"What I'm trying to do, basically, is make this less traumatic for the kids," she remarked.

Czekai noted that she had to move from Cass City to Gagetown in late August because of circumstances related to the divorce, but that she plans to move back to Cass City, where her children have always attended school, as soon as she can find a place.

The children, in grades 3 and 6, have been through enough without having to be yanked out of the Cass City School District and placed into another, she said.

Czekai added that if her kids were forced to attend Owen-Gage now and later are awarded to her husband, they will have attended school in 3 districts this year, the third being Bad Axe, where her husband resides.

During discussion of the matter, Trustee Mary Ann Abbe said she would be willing to approve the request for one year only in the interest of the children's welfare.

She said she wouldn't be willing to approve the same request next year, however.

Board President William Kretzschmer also indicated he would be in favor of such a motion.

But board Treasurer Jack Brinkman disagreed, saying the district shouldn't be willing to give up students without an equal trade from the Cass City School District.

"If we've got someone to swap, I'm for it, but if we don't have someone to swap, I'm not for it," he added.

It was pointed out that the Cass City board earlier this month approved a request to allow a kindergartener to attend Owen-Gage Schools.

Brinkman, however, said he believes that decision was made with the knowledge that Czekai would be asking Owen-Gage officials to approve a transfer request for her 2 children.

"They (Cass City) like swaps, but somewhere down the line, we're going to get swapped. They've got enough of our (kids) now," he continued.

Brinkman, who later remarked that he's not willing to bend over backwards in the matter, said the Cass City board wouldn't listen to him when he approached the board last year on behalf of a request to allow his grandson to remain in the Owen-

Mild winter produces record numbers

DNR - farmers seek thinning of deer herd

Hunters: The Chronicle will publish the picture of the first deer brought to the office and any others that are trophy animals. All hunters are urged to report if they get their deer for publishing in our "Buck Luck" column.

Annual deer season projections have begun to sound like a broken record in recent years, with DNR officials predicting that hunters will take a record number of deer from plentiful herds throughout the state.

This year is no different. Hunters who plan to stalk woods and fields in the Thumb, as well as those across the state, are expected to find success, according to Bud Jarvis, a wildlife biologist stationed at the Cass City DNR Field Office.

Bow hunters will get the first crack at the state's growing deer herd, estimated at some 1.5 million animals, up by 200,000 to 300,000 deer over last year. The bow hunting season will get underway Sunday and continue through Nov. 14. Archers can return to the field Dec. 1 and hunt through Jan. 1.

The traditional firearm hunt will take place Nov. 15 through Nov. 30, and the 10-day muzzleloader season will be held Dec. 9-18 in the lower peninsula.

According to Jarvis, the biggest change in hunting regulations this year is the opportunity for hunters to take more deer.

Part of an effort to reduce the state's bulging deer herd, the DNR offered firearm deer hunters an opportunity this year (through Sept. 24) to apply for a bonus license, which replaces the hunter's choice permit of past years, permitting hunters to take only an antlerless deer, Jarvis said.

ANTLERLESS DEER

He explained that the regular firearm deer license allows a hunter to take a buck, while the $3 bonus license permits the taking of an antlerless deer in many lower peninsula counties, including Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac. An additional license to take another buck may also be purchased.

Bow hunters also will have a chance to take an extra deer or 2. In the lower peninsula, bow hunters may take a deer of either sex on their regular license, an antlerless deer on their bonus license during December and a buck on a second buck license.

Through these regulations, the DNR hopes to increase the total deer kill from 380,000 in 1988 to more than 450,000 in 1989. The antlerless kill should increase from about 146,000 to more than 200,000.

"We're hoping that with this bonus tag, we'll increase the antlerless harvest -- now that a hunter can get both a buck and an antlerless deer, he will not hesitate to use the doc or antlerless deer license first," Jarvis remarked.

He pointed out that deer herds in the Thumb as well as throughout the state have continued to thrive thanks to mild winters.

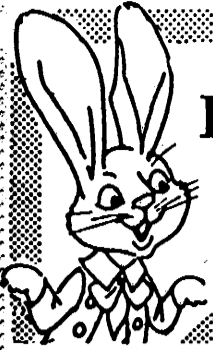

CROP DAMAGE

"I think (with) what the farmers are telling us about the size of the herd and the crop damage, we can't expect fewer deer," he said, adding complaints from farmers this year have been "the worst that we've had."

The average number of special deer permits issued for crop damage 2 years ago was about 30 in the 3 upper Thumb counties. That number jumped to 90 last year, according to Jarvis, who issued 100 this year.

And there were more complaints than the numbers. Please turn to page 10.

Stuart Merchant, who had garbage piled on his property on Wilsie Road, northwest of Cass City, said in a story in the Chronicle last week that he knew who dumped it.

Evidently he was right, for the person responsible came out and cleaned up the mess. Who was it? Merchant isn't saying. I'm letting it go this time, he said, implying that next time he won't be so generous.

While walking the .6 of a mile to work for the last 25 years I have found lots of change on the streets, pennies, nickels, quarters and even an occasional half dollar. I pick them all up.

You can make a case these days for not picking up a penny because it's not worth the effort.

Now I'm not superstitious, but it's well known that finding a penny is good luck. So why take chances?

Who has the most weed-free garden in town this fall. Elwyn Helwig doesn't claim that his is the most weed-free, but insists that none are any cleaner.

Come on by my house, he says, I challenge you to find a weed in it when many gardens are full of weeds at this time of the year.

Russ Schneeberger, who lives on Schwegler Road at the corner of M-81, says that a deer killed on the highway has been left rotting on the side of the road for about 6 weeks and is creating stench.

He said that a call to the Department of Natural Resources and other agencies has been ineffective.

This writer had no answer when he asked, "What can we do about this?"

If you play bridge and want to play duplicate bridge, a course planned by the community education department is for you. It meets Wednesdays at 7 p.m. starting Oct. 4 at the Cass City High School Home Economics room.

It's the opinion here that duplicate is the best card game going if you want to play and not gamble. Bridge is a card game with a challenge that doesn't need to be spiced up with a wager.

To Ontario

Girl Scouts air outing

Members of Cadette Girl Scout Troop 958 enjoyed a 6-day trip to Ontario this summer, according to troop Leader Pat Jamison.

Attending were scouts Linda Rands, Jennifer Knowlton, Jessica Langley, Nichole Marker, Ann Urban, Laura Jamison and Wendy Hurley, as well as Jamison and assistant Janet Hurley. Also along to help with the driving were Nancy and Dave Urban and their son, Joey.

Jamison said the group enjoyed a number of sights and tours during the trip, which began July 16 with a drive to Albion Hills Campground, north of Bolton, Ontario, Canada.

Among the other stops and activities that followed were a trip to Niagara Falls, including a view from Goat Island and a shopping trip; a day at Canada's Wonderland Amusement Park; stops in downtown Toronto, including the Toronto Science Center and Toronto Zoo; and, on the way back, a stop in Cambridge, Ontario, where they visited an African lion safari, and a stop in London for some shopping.

"They (girls) had a lot of fun," Jamison remarked. "It was a real nice trip."

Horner to share Peace Corps work

Cass City resident Sherri Horner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Horner, Cass City, will present her work with the U.S. Peace Corps Sunday at the Novesta Church of Christ, 2896 N. Cemetery Rd., starting at 7:30 p.m.

Horner has served 14 months in the Central African Republic village of Yolaki teaching health to teachers.

The program will be a slide presentation and personal experiences of the 1984 Cass City graduate's African work.

testimony to the value of some old neighborhood friendships that were never forgotten long after all the friends had left the neighborhood.

Begin with the ordinary: When Terrible Jean and I are invited to the same party, what she does is individually question each guest concerning his or her newspaper reading habits. When Terrible Jean finds a person who has never read one word I've written, she whoops with delight.

"HEY, JIM, HERE'S SOMEONE ELSE WHO NEVER HEARD OF YOU!" Terrible Jean shouts across a crowded room, then forces the non-reader to tell me face to face that I am a total nonentity.

NEEDED TO MAKE A DOUBLE

Terrible Jean measures a party's success by the amount of my obscurity she can discover around the buffet table. I never eat for fear she will ask how many guests can see my food going down.

This particular party was at the lovely lakeside home of Carol and Bud Johnson in Milford. It was a "couples shower" for Sheila Fitzgerald who, next month, will marry Brian Lysaght. I was there because Sheila is my niece, and our cat died, so my wife needed me to make a couple.

Terrible Jean was there because she is Sheila's mother (as already explained too often, our last names are the same because Terrible Jean married a Fitzgerald — Bill — so she wouldn't have to change the iron "Fitz" welded to her underwear).

Terrible Jean is attending several showers for Sheila and, because nobody reads this stuff, it will do no harm to report that Terrible Jean re-wraps the same gift — note paper — for each shower. "Oh, Mother, you really shouldn't have!" Sheila exclaims at each public reopening, and means it.

Along with the Johnsons, the shower was hosted by Bob and Ruth Kauffman, Peg and Joe Gerber, Ann and Bob Taylor and Therese King. For a few years, around 1960, they all lived on or near Milburn Street in Livonia. The first time I wrote about them was when they made Terrible Jean cry for several days during the summer of 1961.

That was the summer Terrible Jean almost died giving birth to twins. She cried for joy at the sight of everything her neighbors had done at her home while she was in the hospital. They scrubbed every wall and window, cleaned carpeting, ironed curtains, drapes and chair covers. They cleaned cupboards, stove and refrigerator, washed and waxed floors. They mowed the lawn and trimmed the shrubs.

'WHO ARE YOU STAYING WITH?'

"They had cribs ready in the nursery and fresh flowers throughout the house. I've never seen anything so gorgeous, and I have never been so touched," Terrible Jean said at the time. And for the next month, the neighbors took turns feeding the Fitz family of seven.

Those twins, Mary and Mo, are now 28 and planning to be 2 heads sticking out of one maid-of-honor-dress neckline for big sister Sheila's wedding. The Milburn neighbors haven't been neighbors for many years; they scattered as far as Traverse City. But they still have regular reunions at which they wear "Milburn" T-shirts and park in spots designated by old house numbers.

I've long claimed Terrible Jean has kept every friend she ever made so she'd always have a free guest room to sleep in, wherever she traveled. Just last week, in a funeral home an hour from her front door, Terrible Jean was twice asked "who are you staying with tonight?" But the truth is that friends are kept for 40 years because they are good friends, and the Milburn gang is the best ever. It's a shame they'll never read this praise, but they know Terrible Jean would never forgive them.

A couple of items in the passing parade brought the procession to a halt last week. The first was several articles suggesting that we have lost the drug war and should make drugs legal.

The second was that one of the premier high schools in Detroit, Henry Ford High, was a pigsty.

What's the connection between the 2? None that I can think of, except that they both struck a chord. The case for legal drugs is advocated by some heavyweights in the think tank department including Princeton University's assistant professor of politics and public affairs, Ethan Nadelmann, and Carl Sagan of television's Nova space series fame, among others.

What advocates are fond of doing is comparing drug use to prohibition, implying that when liquor became legal most of the trouble was cured. That it cured lawlessness goes without question, that it cured alcohol dependency is nonsense. There are more drunks today than ever.

If it's legal how do you tell our youth of its dangers and make them believe it? It's only been about a decade that the real dangers of drugs have been stressed. Marijuana was considered harmless in the 1970's, and cocaine was the glamour fix (regarded as better than booze) by the high society jet set.

That's changed in the last decade and the campaigns showing just what drugs do have resulted in a decrease in their use. It's too early to throw in the towel and say if you can't beat them join them.

Throwing in the towel is the way the story about Ford school struck me. The reason that the school was a pigsty was that the custodians which had been on strike weren't around to clean up and the filth continued to pile up so much that the teachers were bringing their own water to drink because the fountains were so dirty.

Now Ford is the school for some of the brightest kids in Detroit. How much trouble would it have been, really, for the teachers to get together one time with the students and declare a clean-up day and go to work.

Certainly there is nothing that requires that in a union contract, but if the union wants favorable public opinion and community support what better way? Every paper in town would eat it up. It's a classic man-bites-dog story.

There's a practical advantage, too. There will be a time when the school will seek more money from the taxpayer. According to the polls they are waiting to be shown the high taxes they pay are buying something more than a very marginal education.

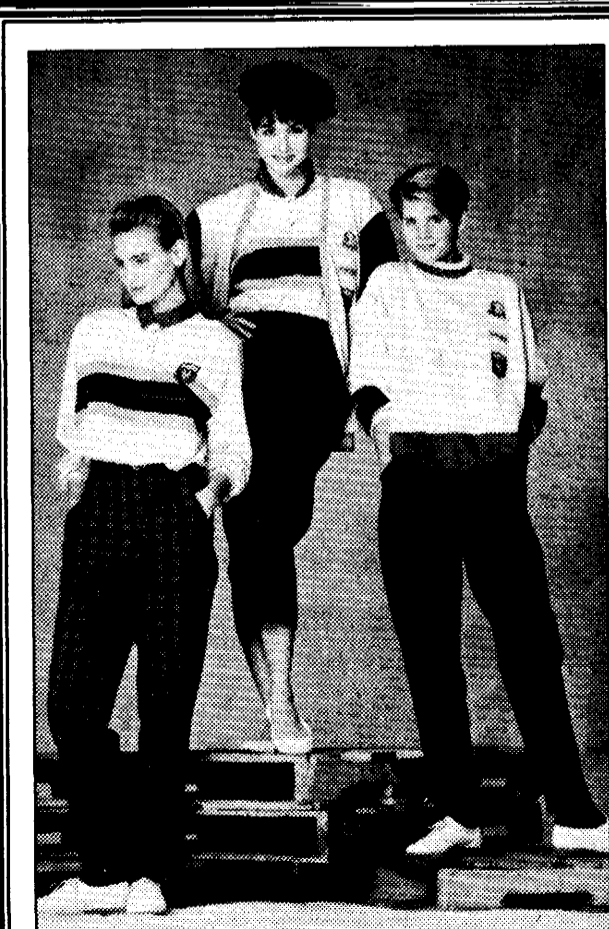

I know it's pie-in-the-sky thinking that this could ever happen. After all the math class in this "better" school went several weeks without a teacher.

Given conditions like these it's a wonder that the extra millage passed on the most recent attempt.

Who could blame the taxpayers if when tax time rolls around again the schools were given the cold shoulder.

In the conservative Thumb the schools wouldn't get nickel one with these conditions.

And they shouldn't.

Homecoming Queen candidates for the 1984 Owen-Gage High School Homecoming are, Marcy Enderle, Kim Olszak, Karen Goslin and Kendra Kretzschmer. Owen-Gage will face Carsonville-Port Sanilac in the Friday night game.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dobson of New Hampshire spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Krizman.

Cass City Retired Persons held their regular monthly meeting Sept. 13 with 22 members and 2 guests attending. President Donna Wernette called the meeting to order. Rose Worstel gave the invocation. Lillian Dunlap showed slides of the famed redwood trees in California and Oregon.

Airman Dale P. Keyser recently completed his basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, and is now assigned to Chanute Air Force Base, Ill. Keyser, son of Mrs. Helen Keyser, Cass City, is a 1983 graduate of Cass City High School. He and his wife Lisa will be coming home for a 30-day leave before they leave for his assignment in England.

TEN YEARS AGO

Jamie Parrish of Gagetown spent the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stilson.

Community Chest officers this year are Iris Tuckey, president; Dale Deering, vice-president; Ron Keegan, secretary, and Nancy Weippert, treasurer. The goal this year is $13,500.

Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met for a potluck lunch Thursday at the Owendale Community building. Forty-one attended with 2 guests, Blake Sackett and Iva Peterson. Door prizes were won by Millie Munro and Harry Russell.

Mrs. Marie Snell returned home Thursday after an extended stay in Mexico. She accompanied Miss Lillian Dunlap and Mrs. Nina McComb of Caro on the trip.

John Zmierski Jr. was one of 8 Tuscola county men to volunteer to fill the October draft quota. Bruce Little, Leroy Damm, George Wald, Joseph Windy and Robert Wood completed their tour of duty.

Jim Gross, discussion chairman for the Cass City Gavel Club, told members that they had been on a 4-year "vacation" and said it was time that a new project was started.

Heading the Community Chest campaign this year will be Dale Kettlewell, who will be responsible for the village collection, and Jack Esau, in charge of collections in the township outside the village. This year's quota is $6,000.

The Crosswell-Lexington Pioneers soundly trounced the Hawks 31-13. The loss of Alvin Evans and the injuries of Bill Tuckey and Jack Clara were a decided handicap to the Hawks Friday.

O-G Seniors learn about Communi-Call

A communication service for seniors who live alone was among the topics discussed during a meeting of the Owen-Gage Senior Citizens, held Thursday at St. Agatha's Parish Hall.

Guest speakers Carol Corbishley of Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, and Lee Gascho of Scheurer Hospital, Pigeon, presented a video on the service, called "Communi-Call." The pair explained the system and said persons must fill out an application and pay a monthly charge for the service.

Corbishley and Gascho were among 5 guests at the meeting, attended by 41 persons. Other guests were Florence Volz, Sebawaing, and Susie Martines and Pat Scuryneck, both of Gagetown.

In other business during the meeting, it was noted that the ladies of the Methodist Church in Gagetown will be serving the group's Oct. 19 dinner. Members are to sign up Oct. 5 with a $3 deposit. Members also were reminded that a craft and hobby show will be held during the Oct. 5 meeting.

Also last week, euchre winners were Iva Peterson and Bob Schell (high), and Mary Kuehne and Louis Ouvry (low). Mary Thomas won the traveling prize, and Susie Martines and Don Schell received the door prizes.

Members of the October Committee are Amasa Anthes, Virginia Anthes, Louis and Irma Ouvry and Josephine Bartnik.

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:
 - a. 1/2c increase in sales/use tax;
 - b. Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes;
 - c. Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 68%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.
- 2) Distribute dedicated funds to school districts as provided by law.
- 3) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny 100% of state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans.

PROPOSAL B

A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE SALES/USE TAX FROM 4c TO 6c PER DOLLAR, REDUCE SCHOOL PROPERTY TAXES, SET PERMANENT SCHOOL OPERATING MILLAGES NOT SUBJECT TO VOTER RENEWAL AND CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:
 - a. 2c increase in sales/use tax;
 - b. Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes;
 - c. Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 75%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.
- 2) Reduce property taxes in most school districts. Replace school taxes with permanent statewide millage (9 - mills on residential/farm; 14 - mills on businesses) plus non-voted local millage not subject to voter rollback. Limit voter-approved increases to 4 - mills.
- 3) Set per-pupil funding guarantees subject to change by law requiring 2/3 vote.
- 4) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny all non-guaranteed state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans.

SANILAC COUNTY SHERIFF'S ROAD PATROL MILLAGE PROPOSAL

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be levied against all property in the County of Sanilac, State of Michigan, be increased and the county be authorized to levy 3/4ths of one mill (.75) per one thousand ($1,000.00) dollars of the state equalized value of such property in each of the four (4) years of 1989 through 1992 inclusive, for the operation of the Sanilac County Road Patrol?

Most Popular Blood Pressure Medicines

Diuretics or "water pills" are the most commonly prescribed medicines for the control of high blood pressure. These medicines are usually well tolerated by most individuals. Three types of diuretics are commonly used for high blood pressure.

Loop diuretics inhibit the reabsorption of sodium at the ascending portion of the loop of Henle, a segment of the kidney filtering apparatus. Loop diuretics, which include furosemide and bumetanide, are powerful and usually begin working within two to four hours.

Thiazide diuretics have a longer duration of action than the loop diuretics and usually do not work as quickly and as powerfully. The thiazides, which include hydrochlorothiazide, metolazone, and chlorthalidone, also prevent sodium reabsorption, but exert their action in a different area of the kidney.

Potassium-sparing diuretics, which include spironolactone, amiloride, and triamterene, prevent the excretion of potassium from the body, while, at the same time, cause sodium excretion. Because their anti-hypertensive effect is mild, potassium-sparing diuretics are often used with the thiazides.

Officers prefer 9mm handgun

Sauer P-226 9mm pistol. The Sig-Sauer is the same weapon carried by Cass City police officers. Other Thumb police officers also are using 9mm weapons, but some, like the Caro Police Department, have chosen Glock 9mm pistols, Newcomb said. "Our evaluation was so in-depth that our report is being used as a standard for a lot of departments in the nation that are going to other weapons," he continued. Of the 6 different weapons tested, the Sig-Sauer is the most expensive at $450 to $500 per gun, but not when maintenance and other costs are considered, according to Newcomb.

WELL MADE

"This weapon is so well made there's no problem with keeping (it) in the field," Newcomb said. He noted it cost an estimated $2 million, including training for some 2,200 officers statewide, for the state police to switch weapons. The switch has meant a number of changes. For example, troopers have gone from using a cross draw holster, used since 1918, to the strong hand holster, which is worn on the right side for right-handed officers and on the left for left-handed officers. Also different is the stance when firing. In firing a revolver, troopers used what is called the isosceles stance, where they stand square to their target. Now, a more comfortable position, called the weaver stance, is used. In this case the officer stands at a 45-degree angle to his target, Newcomb explained. "We find pretty much everybody is adapting to (the 9mm) real well. People who were shooting low scores with the revolver are now shooting in what we call the distinguished expert range," he said. "It really does make a big difference." Good comments about the 9mm also have been heard by Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern. The sheriff, who noted county officers generally must purchase their own duty weapons, remarked that about 50 percent are certified to carry a 9mm. "They're a lighter weapon, easier to maintain and have great fire power," he said. Kern added he believes the need for better weapons is growing in the Thumb. Newcomb agreed. "There's no place in Michigan anymore that can be considered crime-free. Anytime you run into a felony situation, you expect there's going to be a semi-automatic or automatic (weapon) involved. There's always the potential, no matter where you're at."

STATE POLICE Trooper Brian Newcomb demonstrates the proper stance for shooting the 9mm handgun.

Annual color display to peak next month across Thumb area forests

Michigan's annual autumn color display -- one of America's most picturesque -- will soon dazzle travelers with a magnificent spectrum of hues, AAA Michigan reports. "Color-seekers should plan trips between mid-September and late-October to fully appreciate the display," said Brian Potter, AAA Michigan Touring Manager. "During that period, the colors peak in stages, starting at the northern tip of the state and gradually moving south." Forests across the Upper Peninsula and around the northern rim of the Lower Peninsula begin their transition in early September, setting a parade of blazing autumn hues in motion between mid-September and early October. In the northern third of the Lower Peninsula, above Ludington and Standish, peak color occurs between late September and mid-October. The central section of the Lower Peninsula, above a line from Muskegon to Port Huron, flaunts vivid tints between early and mid-October. The best time to enjoy the fall cascade of changing colors in the southern third of the Lower Peninsula, between Lake Michigan and Metropolitan Detroit, comes in the latter half of October. The intensity of color painting Michigan's 65 species of trees is determined largely by summer weather. A good series of sunny days with sparse rainfall in August and early September produces brilliant results because sunlight affects chlorophyll, a substance found in tree leaves. Combined with sunshine, chlorophyll turns leaves green. When the substance breaks down, the leaves become yellow and orange. A high sugar content in leaves creates vivid red tones. Dr. Melvin Koelling, forestry professor at Michigan State University, said visitors to Michigan's nearly 19 million acres of woods will soon see the colorful effects of favorable weather. "The weather this August should give us a good start," Koelling expects. "Conditions so far are fine. Now, what we need in September are bright sunny days and brisk evening temperatures." Koelling cautioned that in scattered areas of the state, foliage on some trees may have been affected by a summer outbreak of gypsy moths and forest tent caterpillars. These may cause leaves to be smaller and colors less brilliant than elsewhere. For people planning fall color trips, AAA Michigan Travel Agency is sponsoring a motorcoach excursion to Mackinac Island on Oct. 13-15, featuring a horse-drawn carriage tour and 2 nights in the Lakeview Hotel. The price is $259. A one-day bus trip to Marshall is also scheduled for Sept. 27 for $40, including lunch at Schuler's Restaurant.

AAA Michigan suggests that travelers coordinate their color tours with a visit to one of the state's many cider mills, apple orchards and harvest festivals for an even more "tasty" autumn treat.

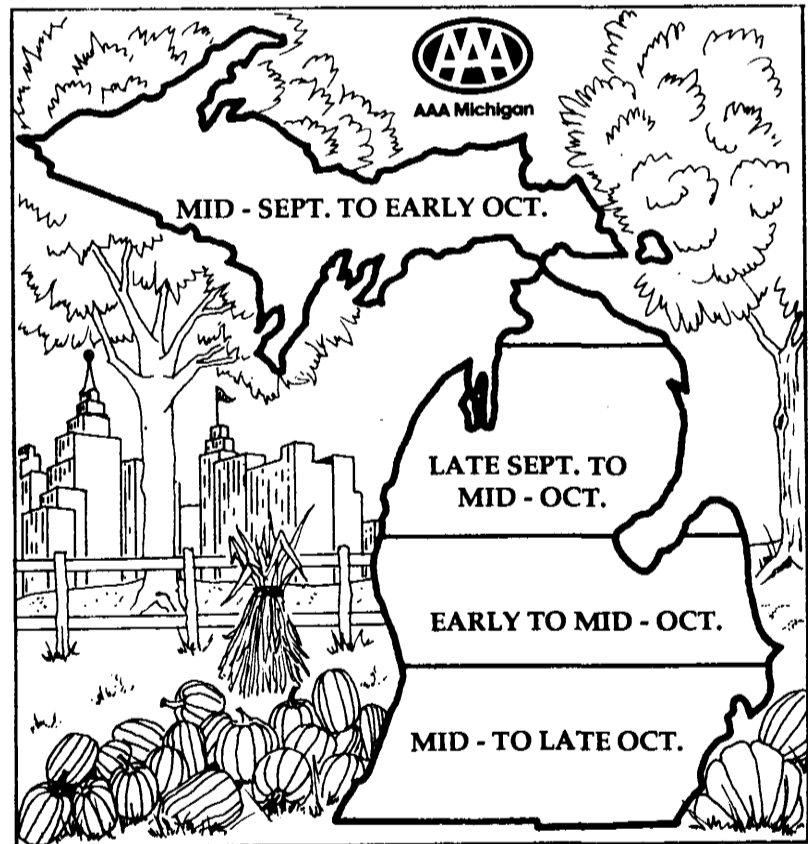

IT TAKES ONLY a moment to slide a 15-round clip into the German-made Sig-Sauer 9mm semiautomatic pistol, the duty weapon of choice for a number of area law enforcement officers.

NOTICE

TO USERS OF VILLAGE WATER SERVICE

During the flushing of the hydrants Thursday and Friday, Oct. 5 & 6, starting at 4 a.m. there may be an abundance of crystallized iron (rust) in the water supplied to your area of the village.

This condition does not render the water unfit or harmful for consumption; however, clothing washed in this water will probably become discolored.

Check the color of your water before placing your clothing into it.

The village is not liable for damage caused by this condition.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Bowler of the week

The Thumb Area Women's Bowling Association Bowler of the Week for Sept. 3-9 is Alma Moreno with a 570 actual series.

She bowls for the team of Al's Restaurant on the Wednesday Night Ladies' League at Blue Water Lanes, Harbor Beach.

Other 550 and higher series bowled were: Sue Lackowski, 550, Blue Water Lanes, Harbor Beach, and Delores Mathewson, 550, Charmont, Cass City.

2 minor mishaps reported

No injuries and only minor damage were reported in 2 vehicle accidents that occurred early last week in Cass City.

Cass City police reported Lester J. Kappen, 4297 Ale St., Cass City, was driving north on Seeger Street near Main Street Sept. 19 when he made an illegal U-turn and pulled into the path of a southbound vehicle, driven by Helen Paladi, 4311 Ale St., Cass City.

Also Sept. 19, Bernard J. Pilarski, 7350 Elmwood Rd., Cass City, was southbound on Hill Street when he failed to yield the right-of-way at the Church Street intersection. Police said Pilarski attempted to make a left turn and struck a westbound vehicle driven by Brent D. Sturtevant, 3550 Cedar Run Rd., Cass City.

In 1948, RCA Victor introduced the 45 rpm record, giving it the code name of "Madame X."

Your neighbor says

I watched Hugo from the beginning

He huffed and he puffed and he blew everything down. He, better known as Hugo, was a level 4 hurricane, that many South Carolina residents called the closest thing to a nuclear bomb that they ever want to experience.

Hurricane Hugo's rage left over $2 billion in damages and claimed more than 20 lives, while leaving most of the Charleston coast without water or power.

We asked your neighbor, Mark Patterson, if he had any relatives or friends affected by the catastrophe?

"I watched the storm from its beginning, says the Cass City resident.

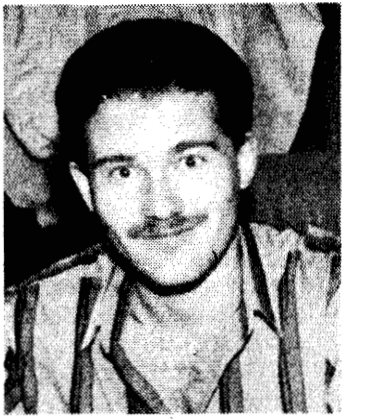

"My brother-in-law lives in Pompano Beach, Fla., and we were scared it might hit there."

The 26-year-old Patterson, who manages the new Premier Athletic Club in Caro, also felt that this weekend's windy weather was the aftereffect of Hugo's fury.

"No question about it," stressed Patterson, who moved to Cass City a few months ago from Portage, Ind., where he has worked in the sports medicine field for the last 8 years.

"I sure hope it (Hugo) is over," concluded Patterson cautiously. "But you never know, the cold air from the north mixes with the hot air from the south and - - - BAM."

Patterson and his wife Tammy, who works for Shop Rite in Caro, have been married for 4 years. The couple have no children.

New books at the library

DARKNESS FALLS by Joyce Schneider (fiction). Psychologist Amanda Hammond belongs to but sets herself apart from the rich, privileged crowd in a Connecticut town. Devoted to counseling troubled young people, Amanda mourns the death of a patient, a girl who had lived beside the Hammond mansion, virtually orphaned by her parents. The tragedy recalls the murder years earlier of the psychologist's mother, and involves her with the local police as well as with her former lover, Dr. Peter Barron, medical examiner. The romance blooms while the investigation continues, but the killer remains at large, apparently invisible, and piling up victims in securely locked houses. After a heart-stopping crash, the case is solved, thanks mostly to Amanda's insights and Peter's forensic skills.

THE FAVORED CHILD by Philippa Gregory (fiction). This book continues the story of the Lacey family, now decaying country gentry, into the late 18th century. The great house lies in ruins, after a calamity that also destroyed beautiful, vicious Beatrice Lacey. Heirs Julia and Richard are betrothed cousins, but each vies to be the legendary "favored child" who shall own Wildacre. Julia's trance-like dreams, which unite her to the dead Beatrice and hint at the past's dark secrets, enable her to save Acre village from disaster. Worried by her "gift," Julie's family hopes she can be "cured" in Bath, but there she meets James Fortescue, who is far kinder than the petulant Richard. Julia's growing assertiveness and recognition of Richard's tyranny keep the reader rooting for her.

JOURNEY by James Mitchener (fiction). This is the story of a British expedition's doomed trek across Canada to the Klondike gold fields in 1897-1899. The group's leader, Lord Evelyn Luton, is an arrogant individual whose colossal stubbornness costs the lives of 3 of the 5 men. Totally dissimilar is the party's poet, frail, sensitive Trevor Blythe. Accompanying the 4 well-bred Englishmen on the journey is a shrewd Irish poacher who acts as the "servant." This is a story of arrogance, courage, and redemption (Luton, humbled by the tragedy, goes on to help Lloyd George rearm England just before WW I), as the dazed adventurers meet Canadian hucksters and friendly Indians, and cope with frozen rivers, scurvy and little food.

21 attend AAUW meeting

The Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women held its monthly meeting at Rawson Memorial Library with a potluck meal Tuesday, Sept. 19, with 21 members and guests present.

President Barb Kosal presided and announced this is the 25th anniversary year of the local branch of AAUW. An anniversary celebration will be held in December.

The upcoming slate of monthly programs was presented by Vice-president Jane Hittler.

Annette Pinney is the new chairperson for cards and memorials.

"Connie Iwankovitch reported that a RIF distribution will be made this fall with a theme on career opportunities.

Art Expo will again be presented to students in grades 1-6. Jean de Sainte Marie is in charge of the program and indicated that anyone who wishes to be a volunteer may contact her.

The AAUW-sponsored Halloween Carnival will be held Wednesday, Oct. 25, at the Intermediate School under the direction of Linda Derfny. Girl Scouts will also assist with the carnival.

Elaine Makas-Howard presented information on the "Go For It" program which will be held Tuesday, Oct. 24, at Cass City High School. The program is designed to help adults and youth create an environment for healthy communication. AAUW members voted to co-sponsor this program.

Hostesses for the evening were Ann Craig and Joyce McConkey.

Amiben production discontinued

By Bill Bortel

On July 3, 1989, Rhone-Poulenc Ag. Company sent a letter to all distributors to inform them that they will not apply to the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) for re-registration of Amiben.

Rhone-Poulenc has requested EPA to allow 2 years (1990-1991) to sell the existing stocks of Amiben liquid, DS and Amiben G (granular). Re-registration and production costs, coupled with reduced Amiben sales volume, were cited as the reasons for discontinuing Amiben production.

In Tuscola County many soybean growers rely on Amiben for small-seeded broadleaf weed control where field soil pH is high, or where crop rotations restrict the use of many soybean herbicides. In dry edible bean production, the majority of the acreage is treated with Amiben for small, seeded broadleaf weed control.

In soybeans, we have numerous post-emergence weed control options that will have to be considered on the acreage where soil-applied herbicides are restricted for various reasons.

In dry beans, only Basagran is currently labeled for post-emergence broadleaf weed control. A full federal label is expected for Pursuit in 1990. The Pursuit label will be for pre-plant incorporation and pre-emergence applications, and may not include the post-emergence herbicide application option because of increased injury from post-emergence applications.

Secondly, Pursuit should NOT be used in dry beans where sugar beets or potatoes are the planned rotation crop in either of the following 2 years. Sugar beets are very sensitive to any Pursuit remaining in the soil, and should not be planted for a minimum of 2 years following a Pursuit application.

4 report car/deer accidents

At least 4 area motorists struck deer while driving on Thumb roads over the past week.

Troopers at the state police post in Caro reported that Michele M. Smith, 5074 Schwegler Rd., Cass City, hit a deer Saturday at about 3:10 p.m. while driving east on Deckerville Road west of Dodge Road in Ellington Township.

Also filing a report at the Caro post was Calvin D. Venema, 3466 Cass City Rd., Cass City, who struck a deer last Wednesday at 5:45 a.m. Venema said he was driving east on Wadsworth Road east of McMillian Road in Huron County's Sheridan Township when the mishap occurred.

Minor vehicle damage was reported by both motorists. Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported more extensive damage in one of 2 car-deer collisions Thursday.

Patricia A. Wolf of Unionville stated her vehicle sustained moderate damage when she collided with a deer at about 5:20 a.m. while driving east on Cass City Road east of Crawford Road in Elkland Township.

Slight vehicle damage was sustained by a vehicle driven by Judy K. Martin, 5943 Bruce St., Deford, who hit a deer while driving north on Cemetery Road south of DeLong Road in Novesta Township. The mishap occurred at about 6:30 a.m.

Homemakers announce

Fall Enrichment Day set Nov. 4 in Cass City

The Michigan Association of Extension Homemakers and 4-H Youth Programs in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties will be hosting a Fall Enrichment Day, Nov. 4, at Cass City High School, 4868 N. Seeger St., Cass City, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

These enrichment classes are open to the public. There is a minimal registration fee and class costs are minimal or have no cost.

Classes to be held include alternatives to hazardous household products, biking around town and country, food and fitness, planning for retirement, improve your quilting stitch, wallpaper magic and many more.

A special event this year is "A Day of Fun" for youth age 10 to 13 years.

The Mini classes include Christmas crafts, potpourri, making a first aid kit, making snacks and learning bicycle safety. The all day package costs $8 (plus registration fee).

A soup and sandwich lunch will be available for purchase or participants can brown bag their own.

The purpose of the Enrichment Day Program is for area homemakers, 4-H leaders and others to develop or enhance their skills on timely topics for family living.

Additional information of the classes can be obtained by calling the Cooperative Extension Service office in Huron, Sanilac or Tuscola County.

Cooperative Extension Service programs and services are open to all without regard to race, color, sex, national origin or handicap.

In circuit court

Guilty plea nets jail term

An 18-year-old Millington man was sentenced Sept. 15 in Tuscola County Circuit Court to 180 days in the county jail for his Aug. 4 plea of guilty to larceny in a building.

The defendant, Ronald Babcock, was granted permission to take part in the work site program. He also was ordered to serve one year of probation and pay $600 in court costs and fines plus restitution of $202.18.

Court records state he stole tools, CB radios, wrenches, a tool box, a battery charger and a weed trimmer from a garage at 7119 State Rd.,

Millington, July 18.

Also sentenced was Troy Hasse, 404 E. Frank St., Caro, who pleaded guilty July 10 to probation violation.

Hasse, 21, was ordered to serve 90 days in a special incarceration program. The court also ordered that his probation continue and that he pay all court fines and costs in full.

Records state Hasse violated his probation June 8, when he submitted a urine sample that tested positive for cocaine.

In other proceedings Friday, James Roskamp, 41, of Vassar, entered a plea of guilty to fourth degree Criminal Sexual Conduct.

Records state he was charged with engaging in sexual contact with another person using force or coercion to accomplish the act in January in Vassar Township.

Sterling Heights resident Karl F. Bause, 30, entered a plea of guilty to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense.

Sentencing is to be set, according to court records, which state the incident occurred Sept. 24 in Wells Township.

Also, Michael S. Patterson, 31, of Caro, entered a plea of guilty to probation violation during his arraignment Friday on the same charge.

Sentencing was scheduled for Oct. 13. Bond was set at $5,000. Patterson violated probation on or about Aug. 30, when he submitted a urine sample that tested positive for cocaine, records indicate.

Vassar man charged with damaging patrol vehicle

An 18-year-old Tuscola County man was arraigned last week in Tuscola County District Court on a charge of malicious destruction of police property.

Kristopher S. Pero, Vassar, faces a preliminary examination at 9 a.m. Oct. 4. Bond was set at $4,000.

Court records state Pero damaged a patrol vehicle belonging to the Vassar Police Department Sept. 10 in Vassar.

Rafeila R. Torrez, 20, of Caro, faces a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. His preliminary exam also will be held at 9 a.m. Oct. 4.

Torrez is charged with possessing a "dangerous stabbing weapon" in a motor vehicle Aug. 17 in Caro, according to records.

Also arraigned recently was a 34-year-old Caro man who faces a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

A preliminary examination for Frank E. Robinson, 205 N. State St., was to have been held last week. Bond was set at $4,000.

Court records state Robinson is charged with assaulting James Domanski with a 2-tined meat fork Sept. 10 in Caro.

Also arraigned recently were 2 men who face alcohol-related and other charges.

Gary W. Wickings, 29, of Vassar, is charged with malicious destruction of police property, escape from lawful custody and being a disorderly person (drunk).

A preliminary exam in the case also was to have been held last week. Bond was set at $4,000.

Records state Wickings damaged a pair of handcuffs owned by the Vassar Police Department, escaped while under arrest for being a disorderly person, and for causing a disturbance while intoxicated in a public place Sept. 10 in Vassar.

Arnold D. Swain Jr., 20, of Davisburg, faces charges of malicious destruction of property over $100 and

Wagon train, Plow Day events slated

The Thumb Draft Horse Association will sponsor its annual "Wagon Train" and Plow Day events over the next week.

A number of horse-drawn wagons will gather at the DeLong farm, 3447 N. Englehart Rd., Cass City, and then travel to Caro through back roads Friday, Saturday and Sunday for the annual wagon train.

The plow day, meanwhile, will be held Oct. 7 at a farm located 2 miles east of Kingston on M-46. Teams from all over the Thumb are expected to participate in the event, which will feature plowing as well as other field work.

Additional information on both events is available by calling Lucille DeLong at 872-3679.

Letters to the editor

Huntsville residents say

Bus pick-up unsafe

Mr. Jim Fox
Cass City Public Schools
Transportation Director

Mr. Fox:
This letter is in reference to the recent change in pick-up and dropoff location of the Cass City school bus in Huntsville Trailer Park. We, as parents and rent paying residents of the park, would like to have the bus pick up and drop off our children in the park proper as the school bus has always done.

hazardous for the children to be picked up at the entrance on Doerr Rd. There are at least 20 to 22 young children at that entrance location.

A number of instances of poor safety have caused concern amongst us. Then too, winter will be upon us soon with sleet, snow and slippery conditions.

There have been two school bus incidents in the news just in the last week. One in Texas and one in Vassar, Mich.

We recommend highly that you reconsider and allow the bus to enter the park proper and pick up and drop off our children safely.

Many of us have noticed, too, that the bus does go through the park proper at noon to pick kindergarten children up. Is this fair?

May we please have a reply, please, within one week and directly from you, to us.

Thank you,

22 parents and concerned residents of Huntsville Trailer Park

Resident lauds road improvements

It sure is great to have curb, gutter and new blacktop roads on both Pine St. and Brooker St. After living in the same house 52 years, sure do appreciate it.

Gage School District. The board only listened when there was an equal number of students to trade between the districts, he said.

Abbe closed the discussion with a motion to approve Czekai's request. The motion was rejected on a 4-2 vote, with Abbe and Tom Fritz casting yes votes, and Brinkman, Ron Good, Walt Swiastyn and Joseph Warack voting "no."

Despite the vote, Czekai's children could continue attending school in Cass City, but the district would not be able to collect state aid for the youngsters.

TRUTH IN TAXATION

In other business during the 40-minute special session, the board held a Truth in Taxation hearing in compliance with the Headlee amendment.

School Supt. Harley Kirby explained that the district stands to collect $14,917 more in revenue this year because of an increase of nearly $590,000 in the district's state equalized valuation.

He emphasized that the increase in revenue would be due to increasing land values, not an increase in the millage rate, which would remain the same at 41 mills for operations.

The superintendent recommended levying the full 41 mills, as opposed to rolling back the millage rate by .5248 of a mill, because of an expected loss of revenue due to declining enrollment. He noted a preliminary count revealed the district has about 330 students this year, a decrease of 16 students from last year.

Kirby also remarked that the district is just beginning to build badly needed fund equity, a significant amount of which will probably be used before the next school year.

Also Monday, the board approved an increase in the amount of pay for substitute teachers.

Kirby recommended a $5 hike, from $40 to $45 per day, to bring the district in line with the pay offered at other schools in the area. Currently, he said, finding substitute teachers is difficult because other districts are offering more money.

indicate, he said. "We've had quite a few complaints between the Deford State Game Area and the Cass City State Game area."

The local solution, Jarvis said, may be getting hunters to take as many antlerless deer as they do bucks in the upper Thumb. He added, "We're taking between 3 and 4 bucks per square mile and we're taking about 2 antlerless deer per square mile."

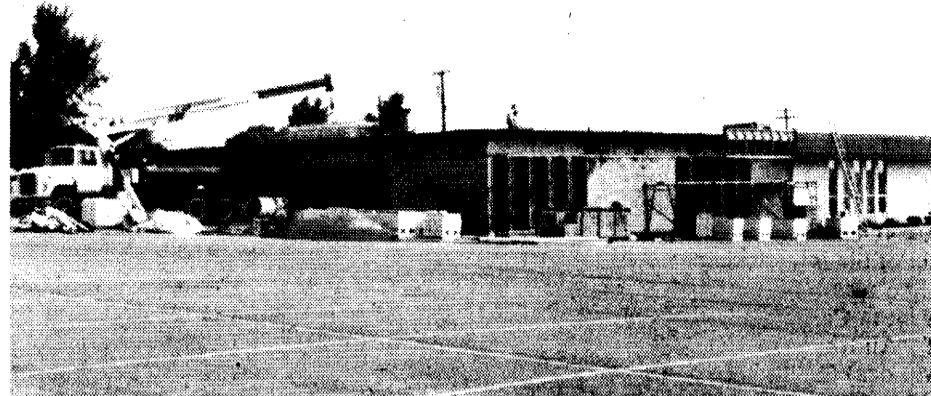

Traditionally, certain areas in the Thumb, including the northeast corner of Tuscola County, have proven to be top hunting areas, and the same should be true of this season.

But hunters who don't have a secret spot shouldn't be discouraged, Jarvis pointed out.

"I guess there aren't many places you're not going to be able to find deer," he said.

Ballots made of broken pottery were used by the citizens of Ancient Athens to get rid of unpopular politicians. Whenever 6000 or more were cast, the official was sent into exile for 10 years.

Nuclear strike exercise tests county officials

A large room in the basement of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department buzzed with activity Thursday morning as county officials prepared for the worst.

A number of persons in the room—referred to as an "emergency operations center"—discussed strategy, while others filled out reports. Two men sat in front of a computer monitor, while a woman placed small colored pins on a county map hanging on the wall.

The activity was all part of "Septex '89", a statewide emergency service exercise that provides county officials with an opportunity to practice what they would do in the event of a nuclear attack.

"It's really the county government functioning," county Emergency Services Coordinator Jim Jashinske said of the mock emergency center, manned by representatives of law enforcement and every county department as well as the chairman of the board of commissioners and others.

The purpose of last week's 4-hour exercise, Jashinske said, "is to see how we would react and what resources we have and don't have."

Under the exercise scenario, a build-up of tensions between the United States and Russia began in July, Jashinske explained, adding, "Yesterday (Wednesday) was the day that the president declared a national emergency and the governor declared a state emergency."

Jashinske pointed out that Tuscola County is not among the 14 projected target areas of attack in Michigan.

"This county is a shelter area," he said. "Our role here is basically to provide shelter, food and other resources, and to take care of the local people—that's our number one priority."

That may be more difficult than one might expect, he indicated, because the county has designated shelter facilities for some 21,000 persons, compared to a population of 57,000 in the county.

Other areas of concern, including power and transportation, also are considered, according to Jashinske, who said participation in the exercise not only gives officials a chance to practice their roles, but also makes the county eligible for state and federal emergency management funds if a real emergency does occur.

JUNE TAYLOR USES colored pins to mark the locations of shelters on a wall map of Tuscola County during last week's emergency services exercise, designed to help county officials practice their roles in the event of a nuclear attack.

STEVE HAMMETT

Hammett nets top off-road race honors

Steve Hammett of Cass City swept top honors in National Off-road Bicycle Association (NORBA) competition Saturday and Sunday at Sugar Loaf Mountain in northwestern Michigan.

Saturday he won the over-all championship time trials when he covered the 2 1/2 miles in 9:45.

Sunday he was the champion in the 35 to 44-year-old class 20-mile cross country race run over a cross-country ski trail.

Hammett is no stranger to the winner's circle in NORBA competition. In the perhaps 15 meets he has competed in this season he has been the winner several times and never finished worse than third.

There were 400 racers in the competition last weekend.

Riders will see a lot of Hammett in coming weeks. He has plans to compete this weekend near Oxford and in several more races before the end of the season. He has his sights set on the Eastern Championships at Toronto later this fall and will compete if his schedule permits.

It's a great sport, he concluded.

Eagles roll over injury-plagued Bulldogs, 35-0

Deckerville Eagles have been rolling over all competition in the North Central Thumb D League and injury-plagued Owen-Gage was added to the list Friday, 35-0.

Coach Arnie Besonen said that the Bulldogs were 2 different teams against the Eagles. In the first half the visitors dominated and in the second half his charges played much better. The team that played the second half had better be around for the entire game this Friday or else Akron-Fairgrove will ruin the Bulldogs' homecoming when they meet in another conference game.

The Eagles are a very fine defensive team, Besonen said. They are also a very opportunistic team. The Bulldogs had 5 turnovers and the Eagles cashed in on every one.

The scoring parade started early in the first quarter when Larry Wolf scored from 4 yards out.

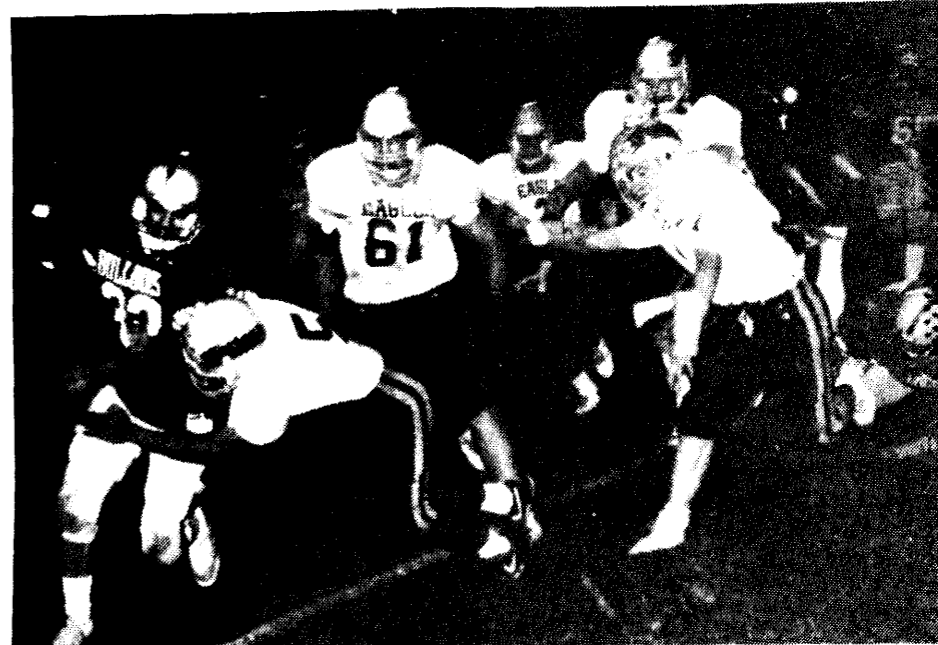

Ivan Fortusniak got credit for the second marker in the opening period when he dashed 9 yards. The Eagles passed around the scoring in the second period. Scott Cleland ran for 14 yards, David Castillo went 8 yards and Wolf scored his second 6-pointer in the period.

The Bulldogs were much better in the second half, partially because Besonen changed his defense. Kevin Koch led the defense with 11 tackles and 2 blocks of points after touchdowns kicks.

The Bulldogs have been hampered by injuries all year. Scott Norcross was the latest. He suffered a sprained knee and was listed as doubtful for Friday's homecoming game.

Shooting slump

Bulldogs face Caseville after back-to-back losses

When you combine a poor shooting streak that Coach Dean Roller calls a slump like he has never seen before and a schedule that pits his Owen-Gage Bulldogs against 2 of the powerhouse teams in the league, the results are inevitable. You lose.

That was the situation for the Bulldogs when they lost to North Central D League co-leaders Deckerville (5-0) Tuesday, Sept. 19, and to third place Peck Thursday, 56-36. While the losses are hard to take, O-G should have a chance to bounce back into the win column Thursday when they entertain Caseville.

Despite the one-sided loss to Deckerville, Roller said that he felt the team played better overall. The Eagles have 4 starters taller than any player that O-G puts on the floor. Combine that with 6 for 51 (12%) shooting and the results are predictable.

The game was actually decided in the first quarter when the Bulldogs were held to 3 free throws in 7 tries. It was not until the second period that one of the many Owen-Gage shots went through the hoop.

Meanwhile the Eagles were shooting and hitting early and often. By the half the game was decided as Deckerville left the floor with a 33-9 lead.

In the second half Deckerville went to its bench and outscored Owen-Gage, 27-13. Nine Eagles played and all shared in the scoring.

PECK GAME

The bright spot for the Bulldogs against Peck, Roller said, was that his charges rebounded much better than they have while playing against a much taller team.

But the shooting slump continued with many missed lay-ups and close-in shots. That was enough to assure defeat. While Peck jumped off to a first period lead and was never behind, Owen-Gage stayed reasonably close in the first half.

The Pirates were in front 19-10 at the end of the first period and led 34-19 at the half. The game turned into a rout in the third period, when the Bulldogs scored only 2 buckets while Peck netted 19.

Marla Goslin had a fine game with 10 points and 13 boards. Leading all scorers was Shelly Ross with 21 points for Peck. Also in double figures was Jennifer Kerr with 13.

Cass City police officer tops class in state shoot

A veteran Cass City police officer was named top shooter in his class following a statewide target shooting competition held earlier this month at the Jackson Police Department range in Jackson.

Sgt. Don Miller finished with the top score among 8 officers in one of 6 classes of competition broken down by department size.

More than 400 officers took part in the Sept. 7 event, which was open to all full-time certified law enforcement officers in Michigan, according to Miller, who said he competed in a class comprised of representatives from small police departments staffed by one to 7 officers.

Miller said the target shooting competition, consisting of 3 phases, was fashioned after the Camp Perry Pistol Course used in military training.

"It's strictly bull's-eye. You use one hand extended from the body" while shooting, he remarked.

"The first stage is 10 rounds in 5 minutes, slow fire. The second stage is timed fire, 5 rounds in 20 seconds (with) 2 intervals," he explained, adding the third stage of competition consisted of 2 intervals of firing 5 rounds in 10 seconds.

Miller, who put a week of practice in prior to the competition, used his own weapon, a 357 magnum revolver with a 6-inch barrel. Used only for hunting and target practice, the handgun's barrel is too long to be a service weapon, but it "has a real smooth trigger, and that's what you've got to have to be on target," he said.

Having left before all the scores were tallied, Miller said he was surprised when he learned a few days later that he had finished with the highest score in his class.

The 17 1/2-year Cass City police veteran also was surprised with the top prize given in each class -- a stainless steel Smith and Wesson L-frame 357 magnum revolver with a retail value of $285.

"My entry fee was $15, so I guess it was worthwhile," he said, grinning.

Belanger completes training

Cadet Patrick A. Belanger, Kingston, recently completed training in military leadership at the U.S. Army ROTC advanced camp at Fort Lewis, Wash.

The 6-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management and survival training.

Successful completion of the advance camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army, Army Reserve or National Guard for the cadet.

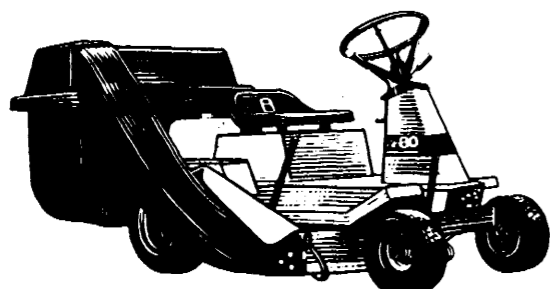

Belanger, the son of Arthur D. and Patricia A. Belanger, 6885 E. Sanilac Rd., Kingston, currently is a sophomore at Ferris State University, where he is majoring in computer repair and minor in electrical engineering.

The cadet, who also is a member of the National Guard, is a 1983 graduate of Brown City High School.

SHARP SHOOTER — Cass City Police Sgt. Don Miller won this stainless steel Smith and Wesson 357 magnum revolver in a recent statewide law enforcement target shooting competition.

Caro is next test

Hawk bid to end 10 year Laker loss streak fails

It has been 10 long years since the Cass City Red Hawks defeated the Elkton-Igeon-Bay Port Lakers in football and last Friday the Hawks came up short in their sternest challenge to the Green and White in the 10-year span.

Cass City picked up yardage in bunches between the 20-yard lines but still came up short when the final whistle sounded, 14-10.

Now it will be Coach Don Markel's task to pump up his charges for another tough team when they travel to Caro to meet the once defeated Tigers.

The Hawks did everything but score in the first half. In the first quarter Scott Dillon broke through for 35 yards to give the Hawks a first on the Laker 25. They moved the ball to the 15 but a pair of 5-yard penalties at crucial moments stymied the drive and Guilherme Tiezzi's field goal was short.

Later in the same period Jason Robertson broke loose for 34 yards for a first on the Laker 21, but again the visitors stiffened and another opportunity went by the boards.

The Lakers put the Hawks in a deep hole in the second period when Cass City took the ball on their own 7. Cass City controlled the ball for 5 minutes in the face of a sudden gale-force wind, to leave the field tied at the half.

The Lakers made one of their 2 sustained drives at the start of the third period. With Reggie Ignash picking up yardage in big chunks, the Lakers moved to the Hawk 2, from where Eric Wissner plunged off tackle for the touchdown. A pass for the extra point failed.

Another Hawk drive was halted on the Laker 25 before a big break enabled Cass City to score. A pass from center sailed over the Laker kicker's head and the Hawks took over on the Laker 5-yard line.

It looked for awhile as if the Hawks were going to blow another opportunity when 2 plays lost 2 yards. But on third and 7, Robertson skirted his own left end to score. Tiezzi's kick was good and the Hawks were in front, 7-6.

Cass City staged another drive that ended in a Tiezzi field goal. The Hawks lost a golden opportunity to score when they had a first and 7 for a TD after Robertson hit Scott Marshall with a pass good for 10 yards on fourth and 4 to keep a drive alive.

The Lakers showed why they are the Thumb B Association's strongest team in football year after year when they took the kick-off and marched down the field to score the winning marker. Key play in the drive was a pass on the left flat behind the line of scrimmage with a blocker in front that covered 38 yards. When the drive started there was just over 5 minutes left in the game. When the winning marker was shoved over on another short plunge by Wissner, there was 1:40 left in the game.

Cass City showed a diversified running attack with 3 backs rushing for 65 yards or more, led by Robertson with 75. Englehart gained only 25, but was a demon on defense with 13 tackles, including 5 solo efforts.

Table with 4 columns: Stat, CC, L, and another column. Rows include First Downs, Rushing attempts, Rushing yards, Passes complete, Passes inter., Passing yards, Fumbles lost, Penalties, yds.

JASON ROBERTSON, Hawk quarterback, was the leading ground gainer for Cass City against the Lakers. Here he skirted his own left end for a good gain behind some good blocking.

Hawk golfers lose to Caro, top Lakers

It doesn't take a genius to predict that the Caro Tigers will repeat as Thumb B Association champions this year and further proof was added Wednesday at Caro Golf Course when the Tigers easily brushed past the Hawks, 157-101.

Judging by comparative scores it is unlikely that Cass City could defeat the Tigers on even their better days.

The match was definitely not one of the team's better performances. We didn't play well, in fact we played poorly, Coach Jim Fox said. Our team has talent and is better than it was against Caro.

The Tigers had 3 players in the 30's, at Caro, one of the Thumb B Association's tougher courses.

Medalist was Josh Podczervinski with 37. Other Caro scores were Steve Hinderer, 38; Scott Frick, 39; and Mickey Meunier, 43.

Garen Barker led Cass City with 45. Jeff Hockey had 46; Mike Francis, 47, and Ken Micklash, 53.

The Hawks went into the Caro match undefeated after posting a league win over Lakers at Rolling Hills Monday, Sept. 18, 176-212.

It was an acceptable day, Fox said, although Chris Herringshaw who had been Cass City's top performer prior to the meet had an off day with numerous penalty shots to shoot 51.

Hockey was the medalist with a 41. Other Hawk scores were: Barker, 43; Francis, 44; Micklash, 48.

For the Lakers the scores were: Troy Kuch, 49; Marc Dubs, 52; Brian Williams, 55; Jody Beachy, 56.

CHRIS HERRINGSHAW LINES up a putt Monday, Sept. 18, as the Hawks defeated the Lakers.

Standings tables for Thumb B Association and North Central Thumb League. Columns include Team, W, L, W, L.

Hunter safety course slated

The Tuscola County Archers will host a hunter education course at their clubhouse, located off Bruisee Road south of the Caro Regional Center.

The dates are Oct. 12 and 13, from 6 to 9:30 p.m., and Oct. 14, from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The course will cover topics such as hunting ethics, gun safety, bow safety, survival, first aid, wildlife management and game care.

Hawk cagers still seek 1st victory

What the Cass City Red Hawk basketball team needs is 4 good quarters instead of 2 or 3 good quarters and one very bad quarter, to break into the win column this year after 5 straight losses, several of them by very close scores.

Cass City will have to overcome those lapses if they are to win, and a good time to start, Hawk fans feel, would be Thursday when the team travels to Caro to meet the Tigers, who are beatable with a 1-2 record in Thumb B Association play.

It looked for awhile Thursday as if the Hawks just might break into the win column against the Lakers, but the bad quarter bug-a-boo hit again and the visiting Lakers registered a 58-34 decision.

The game was not as one-sided as the final score indicated until late in the game, when the visitors went into a full court press and the Hawks just weren't able to handle it.

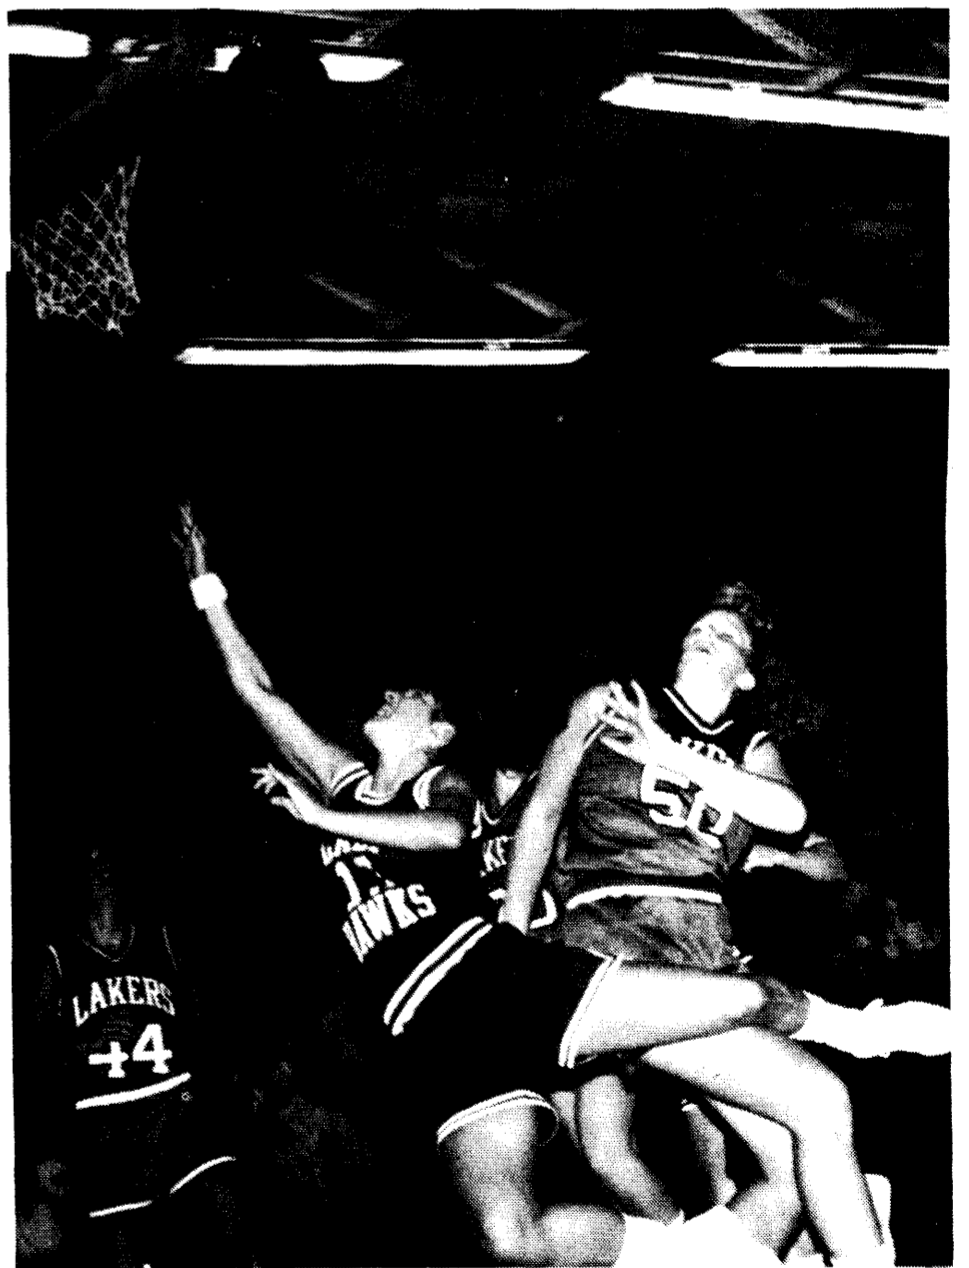

We need to relax and play our game, playing to win rather than not to lose, Coach Marty Daniel said after the game. Just when we should be aggressive and confident, we are unsure and passive.

As a result of the press, the Lakers converted many easy baskets and rapidly pulled the game out of reach. In the final 8 minutes the Lakers outscored Cass City, 28-6.

Before that it was anybody's game. At the end of the first quarter the score was tied, 11-11. The Lakers edged in front at the intermission, 23-18, but Cass City came back to trail by just a single basket, 30-28, going into the fatal final quarter.

The Hawks again suffered on the boards and were out-rebounded, 41-28. Sue Papp and Jandi Hillaker shared scoring honors with 8 points each.

SUE PAPP TRIES FOR A basket from close in against the Lakers while Hollie Born contests the shot. Watching is the Lakers' Tracie Henne.

Discount cards to aid track

The latest project to help pay for Cass City's new track at Cass City Recreational Park was announced this week by Larry Robinson, junior varsity football coach.

It is a "Cass City Community Discount Card" that will be sold at various retail outlets in the community and by all athletes at Cass City Schools.

The card entitles the owner to discounts at 18

Cass City businesses, is good until Oct. 1 next year and sells for $5. The project nets the track fund $4 for each ticket sold and it is hoped that 1,500 cards will be sold to net $6,000.

Discounts are offered through the card on bowling, food, clothing, golf carts, auto cleaning and repair work, videos, wallpaper and several other items.

Sanilac voters to decide road patrol millage Nov. 7

Sanilac County residents could see sheriff's road patrol cars back on the road as soon as January if voters are willing to approve a special millage this fall to fund the service.

County commissioners have agreed to place a request of .75 mills for 4 years on the Nov. 7 ballot for the road patrol.

If approved, county officials could seek state legislative action that would enable them to collect the tax this winter, according to District 5 Commissioner Bradley Appsey.

He noted approval of the special election, which would raise an estimated $375,000 annually, came during the board's regular Sept. 13 meeting, when a group of law enforcement officers and others presented commissioners with a petition signed by some 2,000 persons in support of the issue.

The signatures are the result of a 3-week petition drive that began shortly after voters soundly rejected an Aug. 15 millage request of .9 of a mill for 4 years for county operations. The measure was defeated by a margin of nearly 3 to one.

Following the election, commissioners sliced some $285,000 out of the County's $5.3 million budget. Among the casualties were 21 employees from a number of county departments and offices as well as the sheriff's department, which lost 8 deputies, one sergeant and one detective.

In recent weeks, however, 6 full-time employees have been reinstated, according to county Administrator John Dean.

The treasurer's office, cooperative extension office, district court and sheriff's department each have reinstated one employee, while probate court has reinstated 2 employees, Dean said, adding department heads in each case either shifted line items in their budget or came up with outside monies to fund the positions.

In the sheriff's department, for example, the road commission is paying the salary of the reinstated full-time employee because he will be supervising a work crew involved in roadside brush clearing, he explained. Another temporary employee also has been added to the department, via state marine safety funds, and will teach boater safety.

Despite the county's financial crunch, Dean said officials have determined that there will be enough money to pay for the upcoming election, which will cost an estimated $20,000.

"It appears we'll have somewhere in the neighborhood of $60,000 more (in revenue) than what was originally projected," he added.

Commissioners, meanwhile, are continuing their search for a candidate to replace Dean, who has resigned effective Oct. 20 to take the position of administrator in Branch County.

Dean said his decision to leave was prompted by several factors, including what he referred to as an "antagonistic, critical press" which, he added, has made it virtually impossible to remain in the position; and a desire to take a better job in a county where acceptance and cooperation, not controversy, go hand in hand with the position of administrator.

Dean noted that when he arrived in the county 10 years ago, the position of administrator had just been created amidst a flurry of controversy. He added, "It has never really subsided."

YOUR EYES

Dr. Ronald R. Watson

DRY EYES

Q. What is meant by dry eyes?
A. Dry eyes are generally caused when the glands under the upper lids reduce their production of tears. When the amount of tears is substantially reduced, they do not spread across the eye when you blink and, therefore, do not keep the eye moist. Tears also help regulate temperature and the lack of normal eye moisture produces a burning sensation.

Your optometrist can measure the amount of tear fluid secreted by the tear glands with a simple test. A special strip of paper is placed under the lids for a given amount of time and the quantity of wetness is then assessed. If the production of tears is inadequate, "artificial tears" may be recommended. In cases where there is an extreme shortage of tears, a soft contact lens may be suggested to help keep the eye moist and prevent burning and discomfort.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Four years ago this summer when I had nothing better to do, I compiled (with the help of Financial Weekly) a list of 19 stocks which had earned more every single year for the past 10.

That was a pretty good trick in the 10 years 1975-1985. Only 19 of some 2,000 met the test.

We wanted to see how important such a stern and demanding yardstick this might be to predict performance.

Two years later, shortly before the August 1987 market top we checked the results. The idea was a big flop. These choice stocks went up 64%. The S & P 500 averages went up 59. No big deal for those 2 years.

Another 2 years have gone by, and if my calculations are correct, it's August 1989. So we ran through these blue chips again.

Of the original 19, 10 either had a down year since 1985, or had merged or sold out. Ones that were winnowed out were Duke Power, First Kentucky Nat'l (sold out), General Electric, Genuine Parts, Hartmarx, Knight Ridder, McGraw Hill, Morrison Knudsen, Phillip Morris and RJR Nabisco.

So there were 9 little Indians left, and here's how they performed, 1985 to 1987 to 1989:

HEALTH TIPS

Lactose can be problem

* Some persons cannot adequately digest lactose, a naturally occurring sugar in milk. As a result, they may experience different symptoms of digestive discomfort. The type and severity of symptoms differ with the individual.

* The most common symptoms of lactose intolerance are stomach cramps, bloating and diarrhea.

* About 20 percent of the total U.S. population cannot adequately digest lactose, according to expert estimates. Approximately 21 percent of the U.S. white population, 51 percent of Hispanics and 75 percent of Blacks experience this phenomenon.

* Older persons are more likely to experience difficulty in digesting lactose than younger persons in any ethnic group.

* Most persons who experience symptoms associated with lactose intolerance do not have to give up milk and dairy foods entirely. By altering dairy food selection, -serving sizes and frequency of consumption, they can alleviate or eliminate symptoms.

* Eliminating dairy products from the diet can seriously reduce a person's calcium intake as well as reduce the intake of several other important nutrients such as protein, riboflavin and magnesium. This can ultimately increase one's risk to some diseases and undesirable health conditions, such as osteoporosis. * Don't diagnose yourself! Only a laboratory test, initiated by a physician, can reliably determine whether you're lactose intolerant.

How To Cope With Lactose Intolerance

* Eat dairy foods in small, frequent servings, comparatively speaking.

* Pick dairy foods that are slowly digested and therefore better tolerated. Whole or chocolate milk may be better tolerated than reduced fat milk. Aged or ripened cheeses contain very little lactose (Cheddar and Swiss, for instance).

* Choose yogurt and frozen yogurt with active cultures (i.e., yogurt that has not been pasteurized after being made, but contains pasteurized milk as an ingredient). * Look for lactose-reduced products, available in many parts of the country. These include milk, ice cream, cottage cheese and American process cheese food slices.

* Eat and drink dairy foods along with other foods, not in isolation.

* Try gradually increasing the amount of lactose-containing foods in the diet over time. Tolerance can and often does improve.

* Relax and don't anticipate problems. Stress never helps!

He's in the dog house for sure

Editor's note: Jim Sherman is the publisher of a string of newspapers and writes a column which I have been reading for over a quarter of a century in the Oxford Leader. This has to be one of his best. See if you agree.

Pete Kalohn has been in the dog house most of his life. Until recently his locale was only figuratively speaking. Now it's literal.

And, he put himself into his canine's residence. What's more he admits to it...through ridicule, laughter and no sympathy.

It takes some dogs longer than others to train their masters. Masters should understand their shortcomings and pick dogs with lesser intelligence. That was Peter's first mistake.

He bought a white Bouvier des Flandres to patrol and erect monuments on his Lake Orion lawn. Bouviers are big dogs. They are also smart, lovable, and hairy when left very long without trimmings.

Pete and his Bouvier have been as good friends as the dog wanted to be for 3 or 4 years. For some reason, the master decided his pet needed a new house. Pete built it under the deck/porch on his house.

Cubby (that's what Pete calls ol' lovable) would have nothing to do with it. Pete begged, promised, pushed, and threatened...he did a lot of threatening, his most experienced weapon.

Calling a Bouvier 'Cubby' is like calling Chubby Checkers 'Slim'.

Having run his fuse short, and reasoning having long left his mind, Pete got into the dog house and coaxed Cubby to join him. Cubby looked, smiled and stayed outside.

Irritated and sweaty, Pete gave up. He turned inside the house to crawl out...and got stuck. One shoulder was hard against the door jam. Pete yelled several times for his daughter. "Mary Beth, Mary Beth, Mary Beth."

Mary Beth came, saw and laughed.

Gentle Pete was gentle no longer. "Get me the saber saw and shut up," he shouted. More cursing followed. More laughter followed, also.

After sawing his way out of the coop, and simmered down only slightly, Pete asked Mary Beth, "OK, how would you have done it?"

"I would have taken a cookie and thrown it into the dog house," she said. And, she did. And, in went Cubby.

Later in the day grandson Timmy was told of his granddad's dilemma. Timmy, 11, said, "Grandpa, why didn't you throw a cookie in for Cubby?"

Pete responded, "Shut up!" What did the true master of the house have to say about all this? Edith said, "I always knew that's where he belonged."

Oct. 13 is fund deadline

Oct. 13 is the deadline for proposal submissions in the second round of funding under the Solid Waste Alternatives Program (SWAP) of the state's Protect Michigan's Future Bond.

Proposals to be considered for fiscal year 1991 funding are now being accepted by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Waste Management Division. First-time applicants, applicants with new or expanded projects, and those who did not receive funding in round one are eligible to apply.

Voter approval of Proposals C and D in November 1988 resulted in the availability of $150 million for projects addressing solid waste management needs in Michigan.

Grants and loans under the SWAP program are available to both public and private entities for projects in 11 categories: recycling, composting, resource recovery education, household hazardous waste centers, transfer stations, market development, waste-to-energy, market development research and demonstration, waste reduction research and demonstration, and marketing. The eleventh category, landfill/dump closures, has a separate, one-time application deadline of Dec. 28. Only municipalities are eligible for funding under this category.

Permanent rules for SWAP became effective July 12. To date, $2.8 million has been appropriated for 11 projects in fiscal year 1989. Grants and loans totaling some $22 million for 82 projects have been approved by the Natural Resources Commission for fiscal year 1990. Grant awards are scheduled to be distributed upon legislative appropriation of the funds.

Additional program information and applications may be obtained from the Resource Recovery Section of the DNR's Waste Management Division, by calling (517) 373-0540.
