Near Indianfields Park

Uncover 30-year-old human remains, foul play suspected

Questions surrounding the discovery of human remains near Indianfields Township Park last week remain unanswered.

But law enforcement officials hope an anthropologist and forensics experts in Lansing will be able to shed some light on the mystery.

For now, the case is being treated as a homicide, according to Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern, who announced the find Monday.

"We got a call Friday night around 5:30," Kern said, adding that assistant park manager Paul Tacey contacted the department after discovering what appeared to be a human skull while walking on a foot path about 100 yards south of the park on state land.

After confirming that the remains are human, Kern, sheriff's department Detective Larry Walker and officials from the state police crime lab in Bridgeport went to work at the site, spending more than 7 hours Friday night and Saturday morning removing the bones, Kern said.

He remarked that the body was lying in a shallow grave, no deeper than 6 inches, in an area that has been under water in the past.

"It's been there a long time," he commented. "We're just guessing, but we're looking at 30 years or 40 years."

Kern said foul play is a distinct possibility because a shoe was found on the chest area of the remains, as if it had fallen off and was tossed on the body prior to burial.

The sheriff pointed out that additional details are expected in a week or so following examination of the remains in Lansing.

"Hopefully, they can give us an idea of what we've got."

Walker noted the experts should be able to determine age, race, height and sex of the individual, as well as how long he or she has been buried near the park, which is located south of M-81 about 1 1/2 miles west of Caro. Some details also may be learned through examination of the shoe, he said.

Persons who believe they might have any information pertaining to the case are urged to contact the sheriff's department at 673-8161.

Novesta Township residents face trash removal charge

Novesta Township residents will begin paying some form of user fee to have their refuse hauled away and disposed of beginning next year.

The decision was made Monday night by the township board, which also voted to switch to a different refuse hauling contractor.

"We said we would hash it out next month - - what we're going to charge," township Clerk Nursie L. Kloc said.

Township officials haven't yet decided what form the user fee will take, but Kloc said the charge could be made on a per-bag basis, or tickets could be sold. Also not decided is what portion of the cost will be paid by residents.

The clerk commented that the primary purpose of implementing a fee schedule is to take some of the financial burden off the township, which will pay some $10,000 for refuse hauling and disposal this year.

Turning to the township's contractor, Kloc said the board decided to switch to Pollard Disposal Inc., Montrose, rather than continue with Gateway Sanitation Services Inc., Almont.

The cost will remain about the same, but Pollard, which guarantees its price for the next year, will accept heavy items throughout the year rather than only in the spring and fall, she said.

Kloc noted the township currently pays Gateway about $900 per month to Suspect faulty wiring in large tool shed fire

Electrical wiring is suspected in a blaze that destroyed a large tool shed and its contents at an Elmwood Township farm Thursday morning.

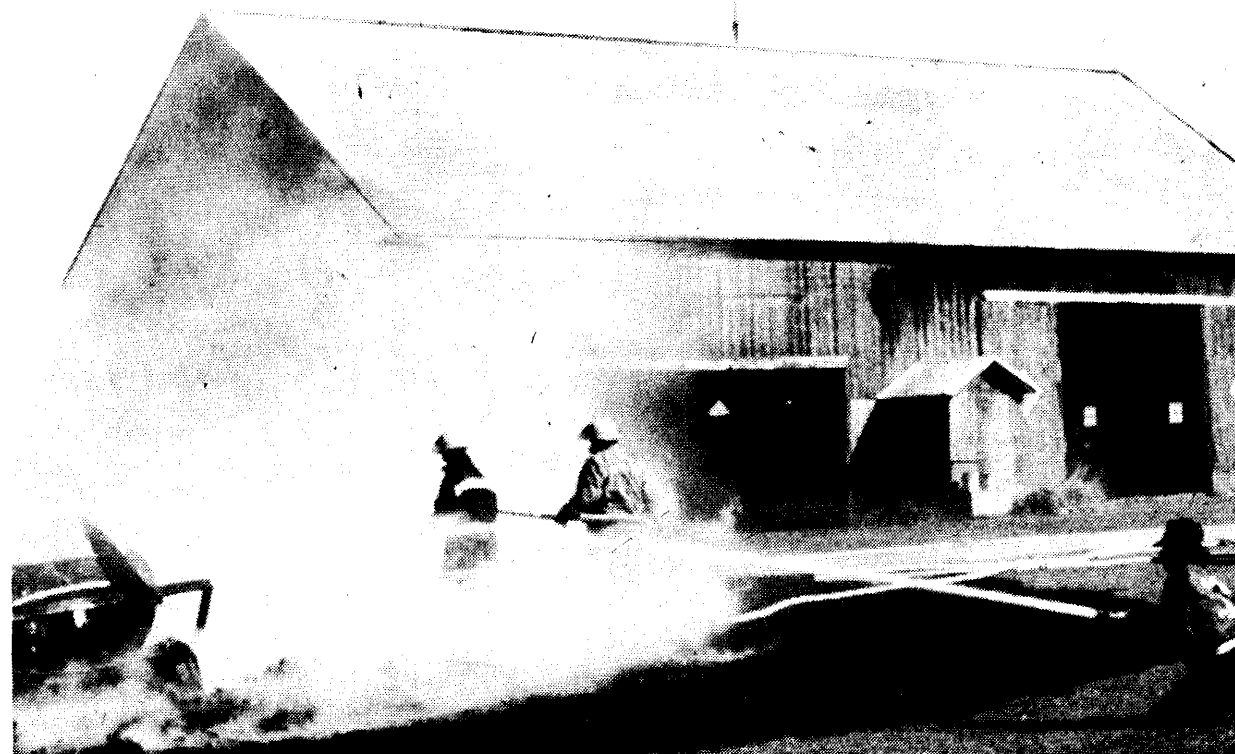

The structure was engulfed in flames when fire fighters were called to the scene, about 6 miles southwest of Gagetown at 2415 Hoppe Rd., shortly after 11:15 a.m. The shed as well as the contents, which included a car, snowmobile, boat, motorcycle and welders, could not be saved, according to Elmwood-Gagetown Fireman Mike Root, who noted fire fighters were able to save a nearby barn that caught fire.

The owner of the structures and equipment, Steve Kamrad Jr., 2682 Hoppe Rd., estimated the loss and damage at several thousand dollars. However, it would have been much worse had someone not been home, he indicated, adding that the barn saved by fire fighters housed his combine, tractors and other equipment.

Elmwood-Gagetown firemen were assisted at the scene by men and equipment from the Elkland Township, Caro and Unionville fire departments.

FIRE DESTROYED A large shed and its contents at an Elmwood Township farm Thursday. The efforts of fire fighters from 4 departments, however, saved a nearby barn housing several large pieces of farm equipment.

Enrollment declines at Cass City, O-G, Ubly

Officials from 3 of 4 area school districts reported enrollment declines ranging from 6 to 15 students following the annual Fourth Friday count conducted last week across the state.

Student tallies gathered on the fourth Friday after Labor Day weekend are used to determine the amount of state aid "in-formula" schools receive.

The news in the Cass City School District wasn't good, but it also wasn't nearly as bad as the 20-student decline officials had predicted earlier in the year.

School Supt. Ken Micklash said the enrollment Friday totaled 1,663, down by 6 pupils from last year.

"Our high school was down about 31 kids, but our intermediate (school) is up about 30 kids," he remarked, adding that, unlike the high school figure (466 pupils), the intermediate count (450 pupils) was surprising.

In the district's elementary schools, Deford was up by 14 students, while Campbell was down by 8 students and Evergreen, by a couple of students. The adult education county, which won't be finalized for another 2 weeks, also is expected to be down by a couple of students, Micklash said.

He pointed out that this year's student total marks a continuing trend of stabilization in the district's enrollment.

Cass City has remained in the 1,600-student range for the past 3 years, according to the superintendent, who noted the district peaked in the mid-1970s at 2,178 pupils. "Since then, we dropped every year until 1985-86," he added.

Micklash estimated the decrease in students will translate into about $16,800 less in membership state aid for the district than it would have received had there been no change in enrollment.

OWEN-GAGE

The count was less surprising in the Owen-Gage School District, where Supt. Harley Kirby had projected a decline this year of 16 students.

Friday's enrollment totaled 332.2 pupils, down by about 14 students from the previous year.

The count consists of 173.2 students at Gagetown Elementary (the .2 of a student represents a part-time Gagetown pupil who also attends the Huron Learning Center) and 159 students at Owendale High School, Kirby said, adding most of the enrollment decline occurred at the high school level.

Kirby had no estimate regarding the amount of membership the district would have received if enrollment hadn't changed, but he pointed out that such an estimate wouldn't be as high as that in a number of other area districts which receive more per-pupil aid based on the state formula.

UBLY

A decline in high school enrollment also was reported in the Ubly School District, where officials reported a total of 785 students, down by 15 students from the previous year.

The count is broken down into 264 high school students, 104 junior high students and 412 elementary

School district Business Manager Mark Tenbusch said this year's decline is typical of a trend seen in the district since the early 1970s, when the school system's enrollment peaked at some 1,400 pupils.

Among the reasons for the falling enrollment have been the loss of shared-time programs with 2 Catholic schools and the exodus of a number of families following the purchase of several thousand acres of land now owned by the state, Tenbusch said.

He noted the decline of 15 pupils will mean about $7,300 less in state aid for the district this year.

KINGSTON

There was no change in the regular enrollment in the Kingston School District, according to Friday's count, but school officials say there will be more state aid because of the decline.

Council okays bidless sales

New village ordinances related to the sale of public lands and buildings and use of a new walking trail received unanimous approval last week during a rescheduled Cass City Village Council meeting.

There was little discussion prior to approval of both ordinances, which take effect 20 days after their adoption.

The ordinance authorizing sale of public lands and buildings states the council may sell lands or buildings acquired by it for any purpose, excepting park use, at private sale to any purchaser upon such terms as the council deems to be in the public interest.

The ordinance, which allows village officials to authorize such sales without taking bids, is geared specifically towards the sale of industrial park land to new industry, according to village President L.E. Althaver.

"This gives us that flexibility to negotiate," he said, noting time as well as flexibility often are key in negotiating with company representatives considering a move to Cass City.

Turning to the walking trail, the council approved an ordinance which both states the use of the facility and outlines penalties for violations.

The ordinance establishes a public walking trail over and encompassing the abandoned Grand Trunk Railroad bed and right-of-way lying between the north village limits and the Cass River.

Motor vehicles, including motorcycles, snowmobiles and 3 and 4-wheel off-road vehicles, are prohibited from operating on any portion of the trail. Violations are punishable by a fine of not more than $100 or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than 90 days, or by both fine and imprisonment decided on by the court, plus costs.

Council members noted their concern that some persons who have used the trail in the past might not be aware of the new ordinance, but Althaver stated signs regarding the new rules will be placed at the trail.

TOO MANY CATS

In other business during the 50-minute monthly session, the council heard from 5 village residents who aired complaints regarding problems they're having with neighborhood cats.

Luis Salas, who acted as spokesman for the group, asked the council if the village has an ordinance related to cats and if not, could one be instituted.

"We feel there's a real problem. The cats seem to be multiplying—they're just all over," he remarked, adding some households have as many as 10 cats.

Animal droppings is among the problems, Salas and the other residents, all of whom live in the Leach Street-Garfield Avenue area, explained. The cats also raid garbage bags and climb on cars and houses, they said.

Salas, who remarked that dogs barking at night also continues to be a nuisance, said the cat owners involved are otherwise good neighbors, but that "some of it's just gotten ridiculous."

Althaver said the village doesn't have a cat ordinance, which would take 60 to 90 days to prepare and adopt. He acknowledged that even with an ordinance, "It's a very hard problem to deal with."

The council indicated it will look into drafting such an ordinance, but suggested that the residents approach their neighbors with the problem.

LIBRARY LAW

Turning to a new District Library Law, Rawson Memorial Library Director Barbara Hutchinson presented, and the council approved, a resolution in favor of allowing the library board to pursue enlarging the local library district.

Hutchinson explained that under the new law, an established district library such as Rawson Memorial Library can add municipalities to its district and levy a millage. The local library currently is made up of 2 municipalities, Elkland Township and the village of Cass City.

Hutchinson pointed out that the library serves part or all of 6 other townships, and that the library board would like to approach some or all of the townships to invite them to become part of the district.

To become part of the district, a municipality must vote the amount of tax presently being collected by the district (3/4 mill).

Cuckoo clocks

by Melva E. Guinther

We've never actually had a cuckoo clock, but we have several that aren't quite right.

The digital clock on the coffee maker had a nervous breakdown a while back. For no apparent reason, it just started zipping through the hours one day, like they were split seconds. Sometimes it zips in sequence, and sometimes randomly.

I've tried to get it under control by talking to it calmly while gently pushing the reset button, and our daughter whacked the thing mercilessly when she was home, all to no avail.

The malady, of course, precludes the possibility of setting the coffeepot on automatic the previous night, which is a wonderful feature for non-morning people like myself, who couldn't possibly be expected to make a decent pot of coffee in the morning before they've had a cup.

The clock on the kitchen stove just plain quit. I never realized how often I look at that clock until it became perpetually 9:12. At least it's still right twice a day.

Its demise not only makes it hard to tell the time, but it's also impossible to "time bake" anything or clean the dirty oven. (Once you get accustomed to a self-cleaning oven, you just can't bring yourself to get in there with Easy Off and paper towels.)

You see, the whole cleaning operation depends on setting the start and stop times. Once that oven door locks, there's no way in the world you can open it until the "lock" light goes off, and when it goes off is determined by the "stop time."

I'm afraid if I set the thing to "clean" it may go on cleaning forever and I'll never open the oven door again.

Now that I think about it,

Melva Guinther worked at the Chronicle as a proof reader deluxe for maybe a quarter of a century before she decided, by gum, that she wanted to do a little writing. She approached former editor Mike Eliasohn with a sample column and at that time he decided that it wasn't for the paper.

Undeterred, she took a course in writing and submitted other sample columns to me and since that time has been a weekly feature in the paper.

She has steadily improved over the years and her efforts (and talent) were recognized by her peers this week.

A Christmas column submitted to the Michigan Press Association was judged the third best submitted from all weekly papers in Michigan. That includes papers with circulations of 25,000 and more.

Found a new restaurant where the food is good and the ambience is too. I recommend it highly...if you won the lottery recently. It's the Holly Hotel in downtown Holly.

I guess the price isn't that high if you are used to dining at the Rattlesnake Club or the London Chop House, but otherwise, prepare for sticker shock when the bill arrives.

Our meal included swordfish and a specially prepared chicken dish and one mixed drink. I repeat, it was good.

I repeat, it was expensive. For the 2 of us with tip, $57.

Some of those predictions for the year 2001 in Gen-Tel's booklet quoted in this column of trivia from time to time I can agree with. One is this: "Expect the price of a paperback novel to average $10. Even the smallest hardcover books will cost $25-30."

Sunday I purchased a novel that cost 35 cents to buy back in the dark ages when I first started to read them. I paid $6.95 for it. That's 20 times higher than the first one 40 years ago or so. Certainly it can nearly double again in 11 years and probably will.

Car-deer collisions reported

Minor damage was reported Monday morning in a car-deer accident that occurred on East Cass City Road about a half mile east of Cemetery Road.

Gerald W. Vincent, 4460 Franklin St., Ubly, stated he was westbound on Cass City Road at about 7:30 a.m. when a deer leaped into his path, according to Cass City police.

Also reporting a car-deer mishap recently is Katherine S. O'Dell, 6585 Mushroom Rd., Deford, who told troopers at the state police post in Caro that she was westbound on Caro Road west of Romain Road in Almer Township Sept. 25 when she struck a deer. The accident occurred at about 7:40 a.m.

The Haire
Net

There's something horrifying about a car plunging off the Mackinac Bridge into those wave capped waters at the straits. Especially if you have crossed the bridge and looked down and experienced the mesmerizing, intimidating distance to the water below.

It's the stuff that big stories are made of because it has it all. The bridge itself is an engineering marvel that is instantly recognized by everyone. The horror of that 6 seconds it took for the car to hit the water and the suspense of wondering if the driver was dead before the car sank or if there was time to struggle before it all ended comes home in shuddering reality. Add to all of this that it is a rare, first of a kind accident and you know that all media will give it a big play.

Then the experts gathered around to come up with an explanation of how it occurred and how it could be prevented. It was suggested that because of the gale force winds, the bridge should have been closed. It was also pointed out that the bridge's guard rails were not up to safety standards of today although they were when the bridge was built.

Now you have to really feel for the family and friends of the woman whose life was snuffed before it really had a chance to fully begin. But we should also remember that the bridge is 32 years old and somewhere over 3 million vehicles a year are clocked using the facility. Prior to this year there was one other fatality recorded and the recent accident was the only one in which the car was swept into the water.

It doesn't appear that there is a concerted effort to modify the bridge to meet current standards for safety railings and there shouldn't be.

It might be wise, I guess, to be a little more cautious when high winds strike and close to traffic sooner than in the past, even though many knowledgeable people have been reported as saying that there is no way that the wind on the day of the accident could have picked up that sub-compact and tossed it over the edge.

We all tend to forget the real danger of getting in the car and taking off. Single, double and triple car accident fatalities are too commonplace to get more than a passing story on the inside pages of the big papers. They occur and then are quickly forgotten.

The truth is that there have been more, many more persons killed on the 6-mile stretch on Cemetery Road from Cass City to Decker-ville Road than have been killed (or injured) on the Mackinac Bridge.

What's true about that stretch is also true of any well-travelled road in the upper Thumb.

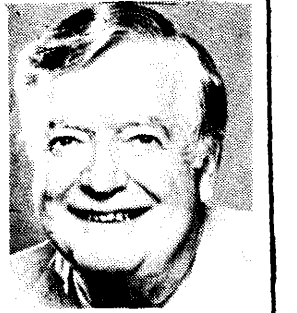

We live in a higher risk traffic area. It's more dangerous to drive to Deford than it is to go from the Detroit city limits to Detroit city hall.

We'd best not forget it.

Signals

By Jim Fitzgerald

My wife didn't know what she was getting me into when she sent me a signal. For 65 cents, she was getting me into the Book of Deuteronomy.

In recent years, it has become fashionable to send signals. Government officials send more signals than anybody. They are forever doing something for no other reason than that the right people will know they did it. Usually they shouldn't do it, but they justify their wrong-headed action by saying they are "sending a signal."

"I didn't blow up that car because it had cocaine in it, although it might have," the sheriff explained. "I blew it up to send a signal to crack dealers that we are going to run them out of town. It's too bad that 8 possibly innocent people had to die, but it was necessary for me to send the right signal."

My wife's signal — waving her right arm — told me a city bus was coming. If she'd waved her left arm, I would have walked downtown. She was in a window of our apartment, and I was 26 floors below, at the bus stop. It happens many mornings. As a lover of exercise, I'm eager to walk to work, but if I can get a bus without waiting a week, I figure the city needs the 65 cents.

stop, I can't see one block. If she sees a bus coming, she gives the right-arm signal and I wait. If she waves her left arm, I know I can walk to work as quickly as any yet-unseen bus will get me there. Lately I've been walking so much I'm endangering my hard-earned reputation as a champion marathon sitter.

But Monday morning the signal was favorable, and I soon boarded an East Lafayette bus. Once in a while, in my 14 years of Detroit bus riding, I've boarded buses containing 2 working uniformed bus drivers. The driver at the wheel is apparently a relatively new employee being checked out by a veteran driver from a few seats behind. Once I was amused to see the veteran driver sound asleep.

MORNING MINISTRY ON WHEELS

But Monday's nondriving driver was wide awake. He was preaching. Honest. He was preaching at a woman in an attractive sweatshirt. He was preaching that women must wear skirts to his church. He said that's what God ordered in Deuteronomy — that it's sinful for women to dress like men, or vice versa. He cited chapter and verse.

The driver-preacher was affable, preaching in a jocular tone. But he was serious about his message. When he detected doubt among his rolling congregation, he said, "I'll show you." He walked to the front of the bus, reached under the driver's seat, and pulled out a Bible.

Gee, I thought, this bus is as good as a hotel room. I wondered about calling room service.

The driver-preacher returned to his pulpit and read the applicable words from Deuteronomy. God, indeed, does not approve of cross-dressing. The driver-preacher pushed the Good Book under the nose of the nearest passenger to prove he'd cited the correct chapter and verse.

The woman in the sweatshirt got off at the next corner. I didn't get a chance to ask her if she'd gotten her dollar's worth, or 65 cents' worth.

I wouldn't have written about this except I wanted to send a signal to the ACLU on behalf of atheist bus riders.

The great Alaska brown bear weighs as much as 1,600 pounds and measures up to nine feet in length.

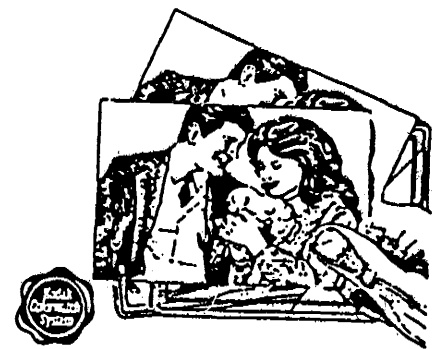

ENJOYING A DIFFERENT FARE

(Don't tell me bus fare is $1. If you live close enough to downtown, you can ride in for 35 cents less. But you must pay $1 for the same route returning home. That's because bus drivers don't trust passengers. Downtown-bound buses empty at the downtown station, so there's no chance of a 65-cent passenger getting a $1 ride. On buses leaving downtown, drivers are too busy to make sure a passenger gets off within the 65-cent zone, and there's no honor system. It is gratifying for a passenger to be treated like a potential thief on a bus system that stopped accepting dollar bills for the $1 fare because too many drivers stole the bills.)

Because I leave home at the same time every morning, you might wonder why I need a signal from my wife on high. You might think the bus goes by at the same time every morning, as though on a schedule. You might be trying to make me laugh.

From her 26th-floor perch, my wife can see dozens of blocks east. From the bus

SCHOOL INFORMATION

The 1988-89 audit shows a surplus of $14,378 for the year in the General Fund. As a result, the General Fund balance increased from $207,192 to $221,570. Though this was not a large surplus balance it does represent a turnaround from last year's $208,281 deficit. When considering the General Fund balance, it should be kept in mind that there are $175,157 in bus notes which the district is responsible for from general revenues.

All debt retirement payments were made on schedule and the accounts retain sufficient balances to meet payment needs.

The school hot lunch program showed a profit during the past year of $3,044. This also reverses a past two year trend of deficit spending in the food service program.

During the past year some of the needed maintenance work done on buildings has been undertaken;

1. Asbestos was removed from all boiler and air handling rooms in all five school buildings.
2. Multiple classrooms, hallways, restrooms, etc. were repainted in all buildings.
3. The following furniture was replaced; one classroom at Campbell, two classrooms at the Intermediate School and one classroom at the High School.
4. Chalkboards and/or bulletin boards were replaced at Deford and Evergreen.

Laubach honors House

A Cass City Literacy Council student was honored during a mid-Michigan conference on adult literacy, held Sept. 23 on the campus of Mid-Michigan Community College near Harrison. The student, John House, received a diploma acknowledging his completion of the Laubach Reading Series.

Presenting the diploma was Dr. Robert Laubach of Syracuse, N.Y. The conference's featured speaker, Laubach is president of Laubach International, the most widely used series for teaching and improving adult reading.

"Since I spend so much time lecturing and doing public relations work, it has been awhile since I've been privileged to congratulate a student," Laubach commented in presenting House with the diploma.

House, a native of Huron County, has been in the Cass City adult literacy program for almost 2 years. He currently is working with an advanced reading improvement series.

Editor's note: John House was featured in a recent feature story in the Chronicle for his efforts to overcome illiteracy. Other non- and weak readers are urged to seek the same free help by calling 872-4151.

Deputies investigate larceny

The larceny of some $450 worth of tools and other items from a Cass City area residence remains under investigation by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

According to reports, a person or persons entered a garage located adjacent to the John Krug residence, 6119 Schwegler Rd., and stole a large assortment of tools as well as 2 5-gallon cans of gas.

The theft occurred sometime Sept. 15 or Sept. 16, Krug told deputies.

Sheriff's employees get shift premiums, pay hike

Tuscola County commissioners last week approved a 2-year labor agreement affecting more than 30 sheriff's deputies, corrections officers and other support staff.

The contract, in effect from July 1, 1989 through June 30, 1991, covers the 32 members of the sheriff's department Unit One, Fraternal Order of Police.

Approved following a brief executive session held during the board's Sept. 26 regular meeting, the pact calls for premiums to be paid to employees working second and third shifts during both years of the contract, and a 40-cent hourly pay hike for all employees in the second year, county Controller Michael Hoagland said. He added that the premiums consist of an additional 5 cents per hour for second shift and 10 cents for third shift.

In addition, the county is going to pay an additional portion of the employees' retirement costs up to a capped amount of $26,700 on an annual basis, provided employees remain with the county for their 10-year vesting period, Hoagland said.

Overall, the contract means an increase in cost to the county of some $30,000 to $32,000 in the first year, and $63,000 to $65,000 in the second year.

Hoagland cautioned, however, that the figures are only estimates and could change based on a number of variables, particularly those involving the increased retirement contribution made by the county.

FEES OKAYED

Also last week, the board approved a fee schedule for services rendered by the Medical Examiner's Office.

The user-type fees, recommended by Medical Examiner Dr. Dennis Smallwood, are: $25 for complete record copies to non-governmental persons or agencies, $15 for copies of autopsy reports, and $10 for issuance of cremation permits.

The fee schedule, slated to go into effect Jan. 1, 1990, is comparable to that in place in other counties served by the medical examiner, according to Hoagland, who said the fees are expected to raise $300 to $400 annually. The revenue, he added, will be used to cover administrative costs related to the office.

In other business during the regular session, commissioners:

*Authorized the addition of 2 temporary part-time positions in District Court. The total number of hours authorized for the general office clerk positions is a maximum of 1,950 in a year with an hourly rate of $6.186

*Approved 2 motions related to senior citizen services funding.

A request of $13,000 for the Thumb Area Services for Seniors (TASS) was approved from the Voted Senior Citizens Fund. Making the request was Dale Hippensteel, director of the Huron County Health Department, which provides the primarily in-home services to Thumb seniors.

Also authorized from the senior millage fund was a first quarter appropriation of $20,000 for senior citizen programs provided by the Human Development Commission.

*Agreed to appropriate $600 to the Probation Enhancement Fund to keep the Worksite Program in operation through Sept. 30, 1989 (end of the fiscal year). The board noted the payment is a one-time supplement and is not intended to be repeated in subsequent years.

*Approved a Maintenance of Effort bill in the amount of $12,331.

*Adopted a resolution honoring the Caro Regional Mental Health Center and staff for dedication and a high standard of services provided over the past 75 years.

*Approved the reappointment of James White, Tom Dillon and Doreen Werner to the Thumb Area Private Industry Council.

Millington woman charged with fraud

A 35-year-old Tuscola County woman was recently arraigned in Tuscola County District Court on 2 charges of welfare fraud.

Martha Binkowski, Millington, faces charges of welfare fraud over $500 and welfare fraud (failure to inform).

According to court records, she is accused of obtaining aid (Aid to Dependent Children and food stamps) to which she was not entitled, and failed to provide income related information to the Department of Social Services while receiving such aid during December 1988.

A preliminary examination has been scheduled for 1:30 Oct. 10. Bond was set at $5,000.

4-H Livestock Club to organize Thursday

Current members and newcomers are invited to an organizational meeting of the Cass City Livestock 4-H Club, slated for 7 p.m. Thursday in the Cass City Intermediate School home economics room.

"Many of the Cass City Livestock 4-H members excel in the raising and showing of all types of livestock, but the club has much to offer in many other project areas," club Administrative Leader Carol Stoeckle remarked.

"Crafts such as knitting, sewing, crocheting, needlework and basket weaving will be offered," she said, adding, "Conservation, electrical wiring, wood-working and fishing also are available."

Club members can pick from the project areas they're interested in and many of those projects can be exhibited at the Tuscola County Fair, Stoeckle noted. Bowling, sledding, Christmas caroling and swimming are examples of other activities members have an opportunity to enjoy both on a club and county-wide basis.

Stoeckle said former and new members are asked to attend Thursday's meeting. Children who will be 8 years old by Dec. 31 also are welcome. Parents, who are asked to consider becoming club leaders, also are requested to attend the sign-up meeting and are welcome at all activities.

Additional information is available by calling Stoeckle at 872-2334.

New books at the library

BLIND SIDE by William Bayer (mystery). The narrator is Geoffrey, a 40-year-old photographer famous for a shot he's taken of a Vietnamese mother holding in her arms the naked and lifeless body of her son. Because of the personal trauma that experience held for him, Geoffrey is now unable to capture the human face with his camera. But one night he meets a young woman who loosens this block. He and she become lovers, but then she abruptly leaves town. Geoffrey becomes determined to track her down; consequently, he discovers the sordid truth about her life - namely, that she was involved in kinky sex theatrics and he was being used by her in a blackmail scheme. Geoffrey eventually finds her and, the climax is staggering!

THE NINTH BUDDA (mystery). This mystery is set in the mountains of Tibet in the 1920's. The son of a former British intelligence officer has been kidnapped and is being held in a Buddhist monastery. The boy is believed to be the reincarnation of a holy man and the key to a deadly Buddhist prophecy. Add to this delectable situation these additional ingredients: an agent of Russia's Cheka, giant man-eating spiders, stakes on which human heads have been impaled, chopped-off heads of 10-year-old boys, and the quaint practice of monks leaving their dead to the vultures.

MURDER AT THE KENNEDY CENTER by Margaret Truman (mystery). The story begins with a grand performance at the Kennedy Center honoring Senator Ewald, favored to win his party's nomination for president. But hopes are dashed after the extravaganza when Professor MacKenzie (Mac) Smith finds an Ewald campaign worker, Andrea Feldman, shot dead behind the Center. The senator's son Paul, who has been sexually involved with Andrea, is arrested for the murder, whereupon his wife, Janet, disappears. As a professor of law and Ewald's friend, Mac uses his skills to investigate those in Ewald's orbit. The suspects include the senator's wife, Leslie, his campaign manager, Ed Farmer, and a host of others capable of murder so as to cause a scandal ruinous to the candidate. At last, Mac penetrates the mystery, thickly layered in the complexities of Washington political processes.

HEALTH TIPS Eating habits tell a lot about you

What type of eater are you? A Chase and Grabbit? Functional Feeder? Down Home Stoker?

Your eating habits tell a lot about you, according to a recent study, and no matter which category best describes you, the American Heart Association has information that can help you trim the fat and cut cholesterol for life.

"It's easier than you think. You can eat healthful foods without cutting back on taste. All it takes is a few simple modifications and the taste is still there, but the excess fat and cholesterol are gone," said Karen Jackson, R.D., American Heart Association of Michigan spokesperson.

During the American Heart Association's Food Festival, Sept. 10-16, nutrition education for all groups of eaters was a primary goal. "We want Americans to understand that high-fat, high-cholesterol foods can contribute to heart and blood vessel diseases," Jackson said.

An eating habits study commissioned by Pillsbury Corp. divides American food consumption patterns into 5 distinct clusters, according to an article in the June/July 1988 issue of Quirk's Marketing Research Review. These groups have been given names that describe their characteristics. Chase and Grabbits, Functional Feeders, Down Home Stokers, Careful Cooks and Happy Cookers should all monitor what they eat more closely.

Chase and Grabbits - The fastest growing eating group over the past 15 years, Chase and Grabbits represent about 26 percent of the population. They go for just about anything, as long as it's convenient. If these characteristics describe you, don't despair. You can still enjoy food in the fast lane, but take time to select foods that are lower in fat and cholesterol. Try salads, meatless entrees, and low-fat frozen and carry-out meals. Plan ahead when you eat on the run.

Functional Feeders - Representing about 18 percent of the study group, these eaters tend to be in larger households where pre-packaged convenience foods become side dishes or ingredients rather than the meal itself. The AHA recommends that you read the labels when you buy these convenience foods. Stick to items low in fat, cholesterol and sodium.

Down Home Stokers - Ethnic, home-cooked meals are the characteristic foods of this group, which formed 21 percent of the study sample. When cooking your favorite foods, use margarine in seasoned vegetables and toppings. Try broiling, boiling, baking, roasting, grilling, steaming or poaching meats instead of frying. If you must fry foods, use sunflower, corn, soybean, safflower or canola oils. Removing visible fat from red meats and the skin of chicken or turkey helps reduce the fat. Reducing food portions is another way to cut excess fat and cholesterol. If you follow these suggestions, you "down homers" can do yourself and your family proud.

Happy Cookers - These nurturers feed their families well, providing 3 full meals a day. Many of their meals are made from scratch. Happy Cookers, which represent 15 percent of the study group, often spare no ingredient to make themselves and their families happy. You can learn to substitute ingredients to help make your meals just as appealing, but lower in fat and cholesterol. Use margarine instead of butter. Go easy on the salt. Trim excess fat from meats. Remove the skin from chicken. Use egg whites instead of the entire egg. Try low-fat cheeses.

Careful Cooks - This group represents about 20 percent of the population. If you fall into this category, you are an informed consumer who tends to follow dietary guidelines for good health. The AHA recommends that you continue to monitor your consumption and explore your food options.

"It may take a while to modify your diet because habits are hard to break, but we are not recommending radical changes," said Jackson.

"There is no single path to heart health," she said. "But there are some milestones that can make it happen, no matter which road you travel."

For information and helpful hints, stop by participating supermarkets during the AHA Food Festival, or contact your local AHA office.

Hawks clinch first win

The Cass City Red Hawks broke into the win column with a narrow 29-27 decision over the Ubyly Bearcats Tuesday, Sept. 26, but are still seeking the first win in the Thumb B Association after losing a close game at Caro Thursday, 61-54.

The win over Ubyly was a turnaround for Cass City as the Hawks lost to the Bearcats in the first game of the season. Coach Marty Daniel said that a strong defense was the key to the victory.

Daniel pointed to the straight man-to-man defense that kept Ubyly's offense off stride and caused many turnovers as factors in the win, but feels that the key to the victory was his team's ability to handle Ubyly's full-court press that was so effective in the first game between the teams.

Things didn't look promising for the Hawks as the one bad quarter syndrome continued. This time it was the first quarter, when Cass City scored just 2 points and trailed at the end of the first period, 8-2.

Cass City still trailed at the intermission, 15-9, but started to close the gap in the third period in the low scoring game. The Hawks trailed by 4 going into the final 8 minutes.

The winning basket was scored when Jandi Hillaker penetrated into the paint and dished off to Sue Papp for the winning bucket.

Top scorer for the Hawks was Vicki Robinson with 8. Sue Papp and Jandi Hillaker led the rebounders with 7 each. Cass City was edged on the boards, 25 to 21.

CARO GAME

Cass City had its best offensive night of the year against the Tigers, but couldn't control the boards enough against the taller Tigers to chalk up the win.

The Hawks hit 22 of 47 shots from the field, for a very respectable 46 percent, but the Tigers out-rebounded Cass City, 36 to 24. The offensive boards produced 18 points for the winners.

For the first time this season, Cass City scored in double figures in every quarter. The Tigers were in front 15-12 after the first 8 minutes and outscored Cass City by narrow margins in each period after that.

Cass City had 3 players in double figures. Papp netted 13, Robinson added 14 and Beth Powell, 15. Jandi Hillaker had 5 assists.

Cass City was to have met Mayville at home Tuesday and then return to conference action against Bad Axe, Thursday, also at home.

What do family trips, meeting new friends and racing quadrunners have in common?

For Cass City resident Tom Coleman, racing his modified yellow and blue Suzuki 250 Quadrunner provides an opportunity to combine all 3.

The 26-year-old Coleman, however, is not your ordinary run-of-the-mill rider.

Coleman, who has been riding the 4-wheel all-terrain vehicles since their origin in 1985, is the state's top amateur rider.

A 1980 graduate of Cass City High School, Coleman earned the title of state champion by easily winning the "1989 AMA District 14 Series - 250CC Quad A-Class Division" held over the summer in Station Michigan at Morelands Motocross Park.

The AMA Series starts in early June, with the state championship race culminating the season on Labor Day weekend.

In between, many of the same competitors ride against one another for 9 weekends, accumulating points in respect to their finishes.

On each of those 9 weekends, the riders will participate in 2 races.

On Saturday all contenders ride the "flat track."

The "flat track" is a 1/4 mile oval dirt track.

On Sunday the field races the "TT scrambles."

The scrambles include both left and right turns, along with a succession of small jumps. The scrambles are favored by Coleman.

FAMILY TRIP

"We like to make it a family thing," says Coleman.

Explaining that, along with his wife Terri, the couple also used the events to take their son, Tyler, age 4, on vacation.

"We camp right at the track and would build big bonfires at nights," remembers Coleman who as a kid started out racing mini bikes and now fancies anything with a motor including his custom 650 Honda motorcycle.

Coleman added that part of the fun of races was being able to take his family out of town.

"It (racing) has always been something the entire family likes."

NEW FRIENDS

During the season Coleman, who is employed with Wright's Painting, has developed some good friendships with his rivals.

One is Kirk Petterson, the only racer to defeat Coleman in the AMA Series.

"If something of his broke I'd be the first to help. All the racers are that way. But when you're on the track it's always to win."

MODIFICATIONS

Another individual that Coleman developed a comradeship and respect for was Brian McMahan owner of McMahan Auto Supply & Machinery Inc in Cass City.

"You couldn't find a nicer guy than Brian," claims Coleman. "I'd credit him for the performance of the machine."

According to Coleman, McMahan was his unofficial sponsor providing parts at cost and free labor.

Coleman modified his quadrunner, which achieves speeds of 60-65 MPH during the race, to be quick from the start opposed to higher top end speeds.

Some of those modifications included a racing exhaust, to help keep his RPM up, a new carburetor, special Hoser racing tires, in addition to some porting and boring on the engine to allow a better mixture of fuel and air.

Coleman, who was married in 1982, also alters his clothes before racing.

Decorated in his yellow and blue racing colors, Coleman wears long sleeved padded riding shirts along with matching pants.

Coleman also wears a full face Shoe helmet, protective goggles, gloves and boots.

"When you're riding the edge, you can always go over," said Coleman with eyes gleaming and a smile.

STATE CHAMPION

Heading into the Labor Day weekend race, Coleman had amassed a total of 169 points while recording 6 first place finishes and 2 seconds (Coleman missed one race during the year where points were earned).

Coleman's chum Petterson who had a sum of 115 points, is in second place.

Each race is worth a maximum of 25 points.

"I knew I had the AMA championship won, but I still wanted to win the state championship race," confides Coleman.

Although Coleman led the 12-lap final from start to finish it wasn't without problems.

"On the 2nd lap I blew the tube in my back tire, but I was lucky enough to finish the race on just the tire without the tube," he explained modestly.

Unsure if he'll race next year Coleman gave this advice to future racers.

"You've got to love to race, it's always to win, but it's also for fun."

There's no money to be made and you spend a lot, but it's all worth it for that feeling of personal satisfaction."

Besides Tyler, the Colemans have a newborn daughter Tristen, 2 1/2 months.

COLEMAN loves to go airborne while racing the TT scrambles course.

HIGHLIGHTING the half-time festivities was the crowning of Krista Grassmann, the 1989 Owen-Gage homecoming queen. Andre' Damm was named homecoming king.

Bulldogs bow to A-F aerial circus, prep for tough Peck

It's out of the frying pan into the fire for the Owen-Gage Bulldogs Friday when they meet tough Peck, which will be playing at home following an upset win over the talented Kingston Cardinals.

The Bulldogs bowed to Akron-Fairgrove's aerial circus in a North Central Thumb League contest, 30-8. I'll take the blame for this one, veteran coach Arnie Besonen said. I just wasn't in it to get the boys prepared to play this game.

It was a strange game in that the touchdowns came thick and fast in the first half and then abruptly came to a screeching halt in the last half, when no points were put on the board.

It was the air arm of Pete Volk that decided the game. Three of the first 4 A-F touchdowns were scored on passes. The first air strike came in the first quarter when Bryan Germania took a Volk heave for 12 yards. The visitors stretched the lead to 16-0 on a pass from Volk to Jamie Williams that covered 37 yards.

Owen-Gage got back into the game briefly by taking a page from the visitors' book and scored on a big pass play that covered 52 yards as Brad Susalla hit Mickey Parks for the marker. Graham Besonen ran for the extra points.

That was it as far as the Bulldogs were concerned, but Akron-Fairgrove was far from finished, scoring twice more before the half. The only touchdown scored on the ground came when Todd Brink ran 7 yards. Volk passed to Germania for the extra points.

The scoring was completed for the night when Volk found Paul Fisher for 32 yards.

Brink was the leading ground gainer with 145 yards in 22 attempts, followed by Germania with 13 carries for 59 yards. For O-G it was Andre Damm with 46 yards in 11 carries and Besonen with 37 yards in 17 attempts.

BULLDOG SPEEDSTER ANDRE' DAMM breaks lose for a good gainer in Friday's homecoming game with Akron-Fairgrove.

O-G cagers break losing streak with wins over C-PS, Caseville

After a slow start this season, the Owen-Gage basketball team bounced back to take a pair of games last week.

The first victim of the Bulldogs was Carsonville-Port Sanilac, which bowed, 59-42. Coach Dean Roller said that he was very pleased with the offense and said that everyone contributed. It was by far our best effort of the season, he added.

There was no doubt that it was the best effort for Aimee Merchant, who posted a career high 14 points, including 6 in the first quarter, to help the Bulldogs race to an 18-8 first quarter lead.

O-G used balanced scoring to move into a comfortable 32-18 lead by half time, with a 14-10 second period advantage.

The 'Dogs were ahead 47-22 after 3 quarters and Roller emptied his bench to give his reserves playing experience.

Besides Merchant, Goslin, 14 points, and Vicki Ricker, 11, were in double figures for Owen-Gage. Ricker also had 5 assists. For Carsonville, Gwen Baranowski and Kathleen Sullivan each netted 14 points.

Probably the biggest excitement for the evening came in the junior varsity game, which Owen-Gage won in overtime, 42-41.

CASEVILLE GAME

A win is a win and we'll take it, Roller said in reviewing the 42-34 decision over Caseville Thursday, but it was a very sloppy game for us. We missed lay-ups, turned the ball over and shot poorly.

Against Caseville this year the Bulldogs were able to have a sloppy game and

Hawk defense dominant as Caro falls, 12-7

The Cass City Red Hawks stayed in the Thumb B Conference title hunt with a satisfying victory that spoiled Caro's homecoming Friday, 12-7. The win, coupled with the Lakers' loss to Millington, leaves the Hawks a game behind the league leading Cardinals.

The Hawks continue conference competition with a homecoming game this Friday against the Bad Axe Hatchets. The Hawks will be slight favorites.

You can chalk one up for the defense which, except for one play, dominated the Tigers the entire game.

The Hawks gained most of the yardage in the first quarter but were unable to score. One drive that penetrated deep into Tiger territory ended in a 36-yard field goal try by Gilherme Tiezzi that hit the cross bar.

The Hawks turned a break into the first score of the game in the second period. Jason Robertson's punt was fumbled and Mark Wark recovered on the Tiger 36. From there the Hawks rolled to the end zone on the ground with Scott Dillon picking up most of the yardage including a 9-yard run through the center of the Caro line for the touchdown. The try for extra points was a run which failed.

That ended the scoring in the first half. Cass City moved into Tiger territory several times, but some fine punting by Caro's Dirk DeBoer kept the Tigers out of serious trouble.

Cass City scored what proved to be the winning touchdown after taking the opening kickoff in the second half in an 80-yard drive. Dillon did most of the damage on this drive, including a 34-yard gallop that gave Cass City a first on the Tiger

9. Dillon scored the marker from a yard out. The extra points try failed again.

That looked like a very safe lead as the Hawk defense was completely dominating the Tigers. With 3 minutes left in the final period, the Tigers struck from far out. A pass was good for 66 yards and a first on the Cass City 9. DeBoer pounded over from the one. The kick was good and the Tigers were within striking distance, 12-7, with 2 1/2 minutes left to play.

But the Hawks took the kickoff and ran out the clock for the victory.

Dillon had the biggest night of his career with 164 yards rushing in 32 attempts for a 5.1 yard average. Leroy Beecher led the defense with 3 initial hits among 9 tackles.

SCOTT DILLON HAD the biggest night of his career against the Caro Tigers. He broke loose for a big gain on this play to take the ball deep into Tiger territory.

Suffer tough defeat

Cass City golfers split 2 matches

The Cass City Red Hawks split 2 Thumb B Association matches last week, losing a heart breaker to North Branch Wednesday before posting a win over the Bad Axe Hatchets Monday, Sept. 25.

The loss to the Broncos came after the 2 teams ended the match tied at 178, only to lose when the North Branch fifth man, Kelly Edwards, defeated Cass City's fifth player, Jeff Hockey, 50-52. In golf the 4 best scores among 5 players are counted unless the match ends in a tie, when the match is decided by the fifth player on each squad.

Medalist for the round was Chris Herringshaw, 39. Other Cass City scores were: Troy Osentoski and Mike Francis, 45 each, and Garen Barker, 49. For the Broncos, Chris Fike was low scorer with a 41. Other scores were: Jeff Edwards, 42; E. Van Haften, 46, and B. Kaldahl, 49.

The loss drops the Hawk record in the league to 3-2 with a 6-2 overall mark.

The game was played at Rolling Hills Golf Course, as was the win over the Hatchets. Coach Jim Fox said that the 181-188 decision over Bad Axe was a good win. The Hawks won despite the loss of Hockey, unable to finish because of an injury, and a poor round by Herringshaw, 55, who Fox feels has the ability to lead the Hawks when regional competition rolls around.

Troy Osentoski, who is becoming one of Cass City's better players, was medalist with a 40. Mike Francis posted a 44 and Garen Barker a 42.

For Bad Axe the scores were: Mike Lalonde, 46; Jeff Wittmuss, 45; Todd Carter, 47; Mark Briming, 50.

Tordai replaces Herron as chamber president

After 3 years as president of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, businessman Tom Herron turned the gavel over to his colleague and board member Jeri Tordai.

The brief ceremony climaxed a Sept. 26 board meeting.

In his resignation letter, Herron explained, "Earlier this year, I announced that I would retain my office until the end of the year. Business and health reasons forced me to reconsider this decision. I do, however, plan to retain my seat as a board member."

This was Herron's second term as chamber president. Three years ago, a group of businessmen, headed by village president L.E. Althaver, felt the need to revitalize a non-effective Chamber of Commerce.

Herron was approached to serve as president. "Based on the fact that he had successfully served as chamber president in years past, we felt he was the one man who could again provide our village with strong chamber leadership," Althaver said.

Since Herron assumed that office, Cass City's Chamber of Commerce membership has grown 3-fold. Herron insists that he owes today's Chamber image to his board of directors and to the people of the community.

"Our job is to promote this town to the people and the people to Cass City," he remarked. "I feel confident that this is happening every day. Jeri, herself a businesswoman, is a 'natural' to continue these goals."

No stranger to village business and activities, Tordai is active in the Retailer division of the Chamber, recently retiring as president. She still serves as vice-president, as well as being a member of the village Rotary and Zonta clubs.

She has been on the Chamber Board for 3 years and has served as secretary. Presently, she prepares welcome baskets for newcomers as well as being Chamber spokesperson. The Chamber office is located at Special Scents Floral Shop, co-owned by Tordai and her husband, Frank.

"It's easy for me to be excited about being chamber president," Tordai said. "This area has been my home since I was born. The community has been good to Frank and me, so I'll have no trouble continuing to give energy and time back to Cass City."

"Right now, the Chamber is getting ready for a bigger and better Christmas Town display in December," she continued. "Some talented and enthusiastic people here already are working on the displays. We're also planning for holiday decorations and Santa's visit to Cass City."

Your neighbor says

I hope we get lots of snow

There is little doubt that the best is behind us now. At least that's the case if you're a warm weather devotee, according to your neighbor, Brad Hartel of Caro.

Hartel, employed as a laboratory technician with Walbro over the past year, feels that Michigan's Indian summer is at its tail end and the beautiful weather that we enjoyed this weekend, with temperatures reaching into the mid 70's, won't be duplicated again this year before the first snowfall from old man winter blankets the ground.

We asked the Cass City High School graduate if he took advantage of the summer like conditions over the weekend?

"Sure," responded Hartel softly, adding that he got some golf in on Saturday and on Sunday got some chores done that needed attention.

Hartel, 26 years old and single, is solicitously waiting for winter to march in.

"It will be cooling down shortly, says Hartel. "I hope we get a lot of snow this winter, but not before the farmers have a chance to get their crops in."

Hartel, a sports fancier, who played on numerous softball teams this summer, commented he's looking forward to doing a little downhill skiing this season.

"I hope to get out a few more times than last year," concluded Hartel.

Brad is the son of Lee Hartel and Lota Hartel.

Letter to the editor

Fox responds to bus pick-up dispute

Parents and Concerned Residents of Huntsville Trailer Park:

This is in response to your Sept. 22, 1989 letter. The following is a direct quote from the 1986, Head School Bus Driver Reference Manual, prepared by the Michigan Department of Education, Chapter III, Operations, Selecting Bus Stops, item 8., "Refrain from going into trailer parks or subdivisions. Establish stops at or near the main entrances."

The entrance pickup and drop off is much safer than in the park. In the park, up to 15 children got off at once, and ran in all directions, in front of and down both sides of the bus. It was impossible for the bus driver to keep track of all the children at once, and one could easily drop a book, or whatever, and get beneath the wheels of the bus without the driver seeing them. As it is now, all children board and deboard with the bus entrance door facing the park. No one has to cross the road or get near the wheels of the bus. This is a safe operation and will continue to be the way we load and unload the Huntsville Park children.

As for cold and walking distances, the furthest walk is .2 of a mile; one (1) block. Many youngsters in the country have driveways twice that long. Residents of the village walk the total distance to school. We do pick up and will continue to pick up kindergartners in the park, just because they are kindergartners. We pick up the kindergartners at Walnut Park on the south end of Cass City, at the park entrances. Once those youngsters reach 1st grade, however, they walk to school. It is .9 of a mile from there, if you are to move!

Reference the accidents in Texas and Vassar, neither has any remote connection with our operation here, having to do with failed truck brakes (preliminary finding) and improper unloading on a highway, respectively, and these incidents are not in any way compatible with our procedures or situation. If you wish to compare our procedures with another School District, you need go no further than Caro, where you will find it common to have as many as 20 children at a designated stop, at entrances to both trailer parks and subdivisions, and with considerable longer walks necessary, in the case of the latter, especially.

To summarize, I do not know why my predecessor in this job chose to have the school bus enter the park, but it was contrary to Michigan Department of Education policy and directions and will not be resumed, as it is unsafe and leads only to artificial and unrealistic problems totally avoided by using the correct unloading and loading procedures and bus stop.

Sincerely,
James Fox, Bus Supervisor

2 Caro teens on bike killed

Two Tuscola County teens died last week after the bicycle they were riding was struck by a car on West Caro Road west of Wagner Drive in Jupia Township.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies identified the victims as Michael D. Pomeroy, 14, and Darren H. Bohm, 15, both of Caro.

According to reports, Pomeroy and Bohm were riding on one bike in the eastbound lane of West Caro Road at about 7:50 p.m. when an eastbound car struck them from behind.

The driver of the vehicle, Jason R. Walters, 16, of Essexville, told deputies that the kids were in the middle of the lane and that another vehicle was approaching in the westbound lane. He stated that he did not see the bike until he struck it.

Council okays bidless sales

Hutchinson said the only change involved in expanding the district relates to representation on the library board. Because new municipalities would be represented, the village and Elkland Township might each lose one board appointment, she said, noting each currently have 3 members on the board.

Hutchinson added that the advantages of joining the district are ownership and board representation.

Also last week, the council:

*Approved a request from Rockwell Brothers Investors, owners of the post office building, 4544 Sherman St., to abandon the alley bordering that building and the new Jordan College campus.

The alley, which is 33 feet wide and 132 feet long, will now revert equally to both property owners.

Althaver said the action will allow a drive-through area to be set up in the post office parking lot, where roadside mailboxes will be relocated to insure a better flow of traffic in that area.

*Approved a high bid of $2,601 from a Midland man for the sale of the village's 1972 Ford Dump truck. Other bids received were in the amounts of $1,456.50, $1,333 and $769.50.

*Congratulated Cass City Police Officer Sgt. Don Miller for his first-place finish in a recent statewide law enforcement pistol shoot held in Jackson.

*Set this year's Halloween hours at 5:30 to 7 p.m., the same as last year.

The motion was approved 6-1. Councilman Elwyn Helwig, who stated he would like to see the hours set at 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., cast the lone dissenting vote.

3 schools report enrollment loss

cause of the district's responsibilities for educating youth offenders placed at Pioneer Work and Learn Center.

School Supt. Jerry H. Laycock said Kingston's on-campus enrollment tallied 754 students Friday. The count consists of 236 students in high school, 120 in junior high and 398 in elementary.

"However, in addition, we have the Pioneer Work and Learn camp (enrollment) of 50 students," he said.

Laycock explained that the district expects to receive state revenue totalling some $150,000, including more than $87,000 in membership state aid, related to the camp. Expenditures, meanwhile, are projected at $120,000 to $125,000, he said, noting the district has hired 3 regular instructors and a special education consultant to serve the camp youths.

"The super thing is, we haven't lost a student or gained a student" related to regular enrollment figures, he remarked, adding student numbers have remained the same or increased in each of the past 3 years. The district peaked at some 900 students in the early 1970s.

park a disposal truck at the Township Hall, where residents can take their refuse on the second and fourth Saturdays. The cost of the service doubled in April.

FILE COMPLAINT

In other business during the 2 1/4-hour monthly session, board members voted to pursue a violation of the township's junk ordinance.

Kloc said the board directed township Supervisor Maynard Stine to file a complaint with the county Prosecutor's Office against the resident involved, who, she added, has refused to respond to a notice of violation sent by the township's attorney.

The clerk declined to name the resident.

Also Monday, the board: *Asked Stine to contact the Road Commission regarding several complaints from residents over poor road conditions on some township roads, including Dodge and Kelly roads.

*Approved payment of $19,438.95 to the Road

Commission. The figure represents the township's share of the cost to resurface a mile of Crawford Road, from Gilford Road to Deckerville Road; gravel and labor related to work on Englehart Road, from Deckerville Road south, and for 2 applications of road brine.

*Authorized Stine to attend an upcoming Michigan Tax Tribunal meeting in Flint at a cost of $60.

YOUR COMMUNITY

October Is Co-op Month

A cooperative enables us to work together in collective effort to solve problems or obtain a variety of services, to generate sufficient volumes of business to improve bargaining power and competitive positions relative to other businesses.

There are co-ops for electric, and telephone services, credit unions, news services, health and day care, farm credit, farm marketing, and farm supply. Look around you, and no doubt you'll find a co-op working hard to provide important services that benefit everyone in your community. Cooperatives play an important role in helping their communities thrive.

Cooperative Elevator Company represents a tremendous responsibility and a great challenge. It is important to you...to the people it serves and to those people around the world who depend on American agriculture.

A cooperative is not just another business, it is the members' business and the success of a cooperative depends on member commitment.

Farm soil samples to be tested

The Michigan Energy Conservation Program technicians are again taking requests from farmers who want soil samples pulled on their farms.

Technicians Dave Pape and Steve Bohn will pull the samples, get the necessary information and send the samples in to be tested.

It is recommended to have soil samples taken every 2 to 3 years to insure good soil fertility is being maintained.

The program also has a no-till drill available to plant no-till wheat this fall. The drill is free of charge to anyone interested in using it.

Anyone interested in having fields soil tested or using the no-drill should contact the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, 852 S. Hooper St., Caro, at 673-8174.

October is Family Health Month

The American Academy of Family Physicians has designated the month of October as "Family Health Month." This is a good time to evaluate the family's health in the areas of:

Physical Fitness: Activities that burn calories and are considered safe include walking, gardening, bicycling, and swimming. Adults should consider building up to a level of at least three 30 minute periods of exercise a week.

Nutrition: Consume just enough calories to meet body demands, especially if overweight. Reduce the intake of saturated fat, and eat more fruits and vegetables. Cut back on salt and refined sugar.

Home Hazards: Protect the family by storing cleaning products and medicines safely.

Health Screening and Checkups: Have your blood cholesterol, blood sugar, and blood pressure checked. Schedule periodic checkups with your physician. Be sure family immunizations are up to date.

Dental Care: Brush and floss teeth daily. Make certain family members are visiting the dentist regularly.

A PLACE TO STUDY

Although many factors contribute to the decline of visual acuity in middle grade and high school students, one of the factors which adds to eyestrain is poor study habits. This condition can be partially alleviated by providing a special studying area for your child. One that is well-planned and comfortable reduces unnecessary visual stress.

The study area should include a desk or a surface large enough to hold lamps, books and papers. For long periods of reading, a slanted drawing board with about a 20-degree tilt is much more comfortable. Of course, you should include a good adjustable chair. Place a lamp on either side of the desk or table. The lamps should provide lighting which is about three times brighter than the room's overall illumination. A room used for studying should never be totally dark, with only a "hot spot" covering the study area.

If possible, position the desk so that the youngster can glance out the window or across the room now and then to take a visual break from close work.

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

Michigan's swingin' state treasurer, Robert Bowman is about to plunk down $5 million to invest in the Denver pro basketball team. The money will come from the Michigan state Venture Capital Fund, designed to help shaky start-up enterprises.

You'd think, wouldn't you, with state taxpayers' money, if he was going to go wildcatting he'd do it at home?

Washington is already looking askance at the returns on this speculative fund. The total return, according to The Detroit News is only 4.5% and "total return" is made up of price gains plus dividends or interest.

Well, total return on all U.S. government bonds this year has been 11.65%.

Robert Bowman used to be with Goldman Sachs, the big brokerage firm. He started up last year a prepaid college tuition plan, which this column showed was something less than great, and had a lot of catches in it. The first catch has already shown up. The cost of the plan shot up 13% this fall, which shows that the original figures were too cheap. Either they were just figured wrong or where a come-on to entice people into the plan.

In any of these prepaid tuition plans - and not just Michigan's, run your own plan and stay safe.

Quote of the Week, by Curtis Hessler in "Professional Timing Service" - There is a good possibility the Dow could reach 3250 by next spring, but the road will be dangerous for those taking too much for granted. I read this to Jennifer Birdsong, my associate, and said, "Having heard this, what would you do?" "Read another article."

They do things big at the Big Apple. Figures were printed in the Detroit News showing percentages of race and ethnic groups in New York City.

White percentage was 60.7, Black 25.2, Asia 3.3 and Hispanic 19.8.

The total was 109%. Total for the Bronx was 114.4%, and for Brooklyn, 107.9%. No wonder the place is crowded.

Or perhaps this simple country boy from the Michigan backwoods town called Beulah just doesn't understand how you can have more people than there are people.

The Holt Advisory, published in West Palm Beach, says 3 gauges for diagnosing the stock market are as alarming now as they were in 1987 before the crash.

Holt says the book-to-market ratio is 2.7, even higher than '87.

Dividend rate of the S & P 500 is 3.3%. Historically, this is a dangerous level. Conversely, yields of 6-7% have been at times of important market lows.

The price-earnings ratio, now around 13%, is a third less than the peak of 20% in 1987. Holt says that the 1987 figure was overstated, and today's figure is understated, for several reasons we won't reprint here.

As the saying goes, time will tell.

A mutual friend sends a letter-excerpts from Les Combs, veteran builder-developer, and a director of the deep-blue-chip Gainer bank of Gary, Ind.

"Of all the information (market letters and such) I receive from you I must say that I like the writings of your friend Bill Myers the best of all. I would call him a practical economist."

I'm "suffused with a warm glow," like the heroine in a Victorian novel.

Such flattery is even better'n Hagen-Daz ice cream with maple syrup.

Bless Mr. Combs for saying practical economist.

I'd hate to be categorized along with the likes of Samuel Kazan, who made the front-page of the Wall Street Journal with this earth-rattling observation: "Money has no morality. You can use it for the most noble or most craven purposes."

I wish the Wall Street Journal would quit finding silly reasons for the market's ups and downs. It really is too big and too smart for such childishness.

In the Sept. 7 issue, page 1, after the stock market dipped 25 points, it credited Barton Biggs of Bear Stearns for "bearish comments" and said investors were nervous about recent run-ups. Funny thing, next day the boys were no longer jittery and the market went up.

Same day as the 25-point drop, bond prices went up a little, although the Fed was feared to be tightening credit. But in this bearish outlook, "investors shook off worries" and bond prices went up.

Couldn't we just say, "The market went up (or down) -- and God knows why."

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.
