Eric shows his dad what deer hunting is all about

As any seasoned deer hunter knows, a plentiful deer herd doesn't necessarily translate into a sure thing in terms of bagging a buck, let alone an animal with a decent rack.

It's a simple fact of hunting, particularly for beginners. But don't try to explain that to 13-year-old Eric Hoard.

The Cass City youth, on his first deer hunting outing last week, nailed a 12-point buck with his first shot while sitting in a tree stand east of Cass City with his father, Dave. The animal dressed out at 120 pounds.

"Two bucks walked in together and he shot the first one," Dave remarked. "He was definitely excited."

"It was a real condensed rack. It wasn't spread out real wide," he continued. "The points are small, but, hey, it's more than I've ever gotten."

The proud father noted he accompanied his son on the Oct. 3 trip as an observer-only because he isn't a bow hunter. He added that he enjoys hunting during the regular firearms season, although he hasn't been successful yet.

"Let's put it this way, I've been hunting a long time and I still haven't gotten one, so he (Eric) knows how long it can take."

hunter safety course and has "spent a lot of time practicing" since getting his compound bow a month ago, according to his father, who acknowledged he's been the target of a "considerable amount" of good natured ribbing over his son's success.

As for Eric, he's just looking forward to his next outing.

"He's talking about getting another license and going out again," Dave remarked.

Cass City group helping Hugo victims

Hurricane Hugo had little direct effect on Cass City, but members of a local church hope to have some effect on a portion of the area left devastated by the storm.

Members of the Mission Board of the Evangelical Free Church, Cass City, announced Friday a collection drive to benefit the victims of Hugo.

The drive will be held through Monday, when the Salvation Army will pick up all donated items at the church, located at 6430 Chestnut Blvd.

"We thought we'd better be getting on the ball and doing something," Mission Board Chairman Ruth VanAcker remarked. "We thought we would call it 'From Cass City to South Carolina with love'."

According to Associated Press news accounts, it took 6 hours for Hurricane Hugo to roar across South Carolina, buffeting the state with 135 mph winds and a 17-foot tidal surge.

The storm left some 50,000 people homeless and countless others without electricity. An estimated 270,000 people were thrown out of work for at least the short term, according to state officials, who say clean-up efforts could put the state's budget $300 million in the red in the next fiscal year.

Locally, VanAcker said Salvation Army officials are asking for donations of canned foods, including canned meats such as tuna and ham; powdered milk, baby formula (already mixed), baby food, disposable diapers, bedding and blankets, folding cots, cleaning supplies, toilet paper, bottled water, and flashlights and batteries.

"The colonel at the Salvation Army told us we are not to send clothing because they don't have any way of distributing it out there," VanAcker noted.

She added that persons interested in donating something can drop items off at the church anytime between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Additional information is available by calling 872-5060.

Police probe shooting

Troopers at the state police post in Caro are continuing their investigation of an accidental shooting involving a Deford youth last week on private land south of Cass City.

Matthew Mozden, 14, of Deford, was climbing down from a tree stand where he had been bow hunting last Wednesday morning in Novesta Township when a squirrel hunter apparently mistook him for a squirrel and fired a shotgun at him, a trooper said.

Mozden, who was dressed in camouflage when the 8:40 a.m. mishap occurred, sustained numerous pellet wounds on his arms and face. He was taken to Caro Community Hospital, where he was treated and then released.

The trooper declined to release the name of the hunter who fired the shot pending further investigation.

O-G gives seniority to non-union members

Non-certified employees in the Owen-Gage School District will receive seniority under a new policy approved by the Board of Education Monday night.

Employees affected are teacher aides, mechanics, custodians, bus drivers, cooks and secretarial employees.

Approval of the new policy was prompted by an informal grievance aired by bus driver Carol Ellicott during executive sessions held last month and again Monday.

According to school Supt. Harley Kirby, the policy simply grants seniority privileges to the affected non-certified employees in their respective job descriptions.

GRIEVANCE

In other business during the 4-hour monthly session, the board denied a formal grievance filed by a Gageton Elementary School teacher, and heard an optimistic report regarding the district's finances in 1988-89.

The grievance, filed by kindergarten teacher Sandy Parks, was presented to the board Monday by Owen-Gage Education Association President Manuel Thies.

Thies told the board that Parks' grievance consists of wanting to be placed at the MA+15 (master's degree plus 15 hours) salary level of $27,986. She currently is at the 11th step of the master's degree level, which is $1,123 less than the MA+15 level.

He explained that prior to earning her master's degree, she had earned a number of graduate credits, but didn't finish her master's program at that time. Consequently, because of the amount of time that lapsed before she resumed her studies, Parks was not able to take advantage of those credits.

Thies presented 4 similar cases decided by Michigan school boards; 2 of the boards approved the grievances, while the other 2 denied them, he noted.

Board President William Kretzschmer and Trustee Ronald Good recalled that the issue was discussed during negotiation of the Owen-Gage teachers' current 3-year contract, which expires after this school year.

Both indicated they believe the MA+15 level is intended for teachers who earn 15 hours of graduate credit after receiving their master's degree. They acknowledged, however, that the intent is not specifically spelled out in the contract.

Following a 25-minute executive session, the board directed Kirby to draft a written reply denying the grievance within the required 20-day time limit.

Thies, who noted that Kirby denied the grievance when it was presented to him last month, said the issue will now go to arbitration. Please turn to page 14.

3 charged for Cass City thefts

Three young Tuscola County women were arrested and arraigned Friday in connection with a string of larcenies that occurred early last month in Cass City.

The arrests marked the end of an investigation conducted by Cass City police and Detective Ron Phillips of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, according to Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson.

Wilson said the investigation began shortly after a string of 6 thefts occurred during the late evening hours of Sept. 7. He said a resident reported suspicious activity in town regarding the 3 suspects, and gave police a vehicle license number and description.

The vehicle was stopped in Caro at about 4 a.m. Sept. 8 by Sheriff's deputies, who found several of the items that had been reported stolen.

Wilson said a number of the items reported stolen have been recovered, but noted Monday that he isn't certain of how many.

Those arraigned last week are Christine A. Brown, 22, of Vassar; Tracy L. Curtis, 20, of Caro; and Karen L. Dillon, 17, also of Caro.

Bond for each of the 3 defendants was set at $10,000. Their preliminary examinations were scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday.

Court records state Brown faces charges of breaking and entering a 1986 Chevrolet S-10 pickup owned by Denise Janssen and a 1978 Dodge van owned by Duane Peters; breaking and entering an occupied dwelling at 4260 Woodland St. with intent to commit larceny; breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling (attached garage) at 4343 Seeger St.; conspiring to commit the breaking and entering of an occupied dwelling; larceny of a magazine rack, wooden shelves, stool and spice rack belonging to Ray Fleenor; larceny of a skateboard and car vacuum belonging to Carolyn Gohsman; larceny of a 35mm camera belonging to Duane Peters; and larceny of binoculars belonging to Denise Janssen.

Curtis and Dillon face the same charges with the exception of breaking and entering the 1978 Dodge van and larceny of the 35 mm camera, both owned by Peters.

ATTEMPTED MURDER

Also arraigned last week is a 38-year-old Silverwood resident charged in connection with the shooting of a Mt. Morris man Oct. 1 in Fremont Township.

Bond was set at $600,000 for the defendant, Floyd L. Rexin, who faces 2 counts of attempted murder, 2 counts of use of a firearm in a felony, felonious assault, armed robbery and assault with intent to rob while armed.

A preliminary exam for Rexin has been scheduled for 10 a.m. Monday, court

An end of an era in weekly newspapering was announced last week when the sale of the Lapeer County Press was announced. The paper had been in the hands of the Myers' family for 75 years or so that I know of and perhaps longer. The Press boasts that it is the country's largest rural weekly and sold for a price to match, one story saying that it was in the $5 million range.

Prior to selling to his brother over a quarter century ago, Bill Myers, who gives sage economic advice on the back page of the Chronicle, was a partner.

It isn't much when compared to many restaurants, but it was a jolt anyway when we visited Frankenmuth again recently and found the price of the chicken dinner had zoomed past the $10 mark.

Evidently, the most recent price boost hasn't hurt business any. Sunday we drove by and there were lines a half block or longer waiting to get in to eat. (No restaurant is worth waiting in line for in the opinion of this trivia writer.)

It's been a long time since the Cass City High School football team has been a topic around the coffee tables in town. It's starting a little now and will monopolize the conversation next week if the team is strong enough to get by North Branch in the last home game of the regular season.

the Saginaw County Chapter of the American Red Cross for disaster relief earmarked for victims of Hurricane Hugo.

According to Grand Knight Ron Rutkoski, the donation was made in an attempt to challenge other local K of C councils to match or better their generosity.

The relief effort continues in the Caribbean and Carolina coast as thousands are depending on the Red Cross daily for food and/or shelter. Officials said this is the largest relief effort in the 108-year history of the organization.

An in-depth study of the United States' faltering educational system was concluded on national TV last week. It illustrated how students here trail those in foreign countries.

It was a multi-faceted examination of the reasons for our second class effort when compared to Europe and Japan and gave examples of innovative programs in various sections of the country.

The study suggested that money alone is not the answer, although an increase in funds is needed. What is vital, it was disclosed, is a longer school year and a longer school day than is offered today.

Which is all well and good, but how do you sell that to one, the parents, and 2, the teachers? I've heard more than one teacher say the best thing about teaching is June, July and August. The focus in union-school bargaining these days is shorter hours, not longer. Many parents aren't too thrilled when school starts before Labor Day.

One innovative program that was explained is in Toledo. What happens is that outstanding teachers are taken from the classroom and serve as monitors over inexperienced teachers or those that are having difficulty. They are responsible for only a limited number of teachers and are able to visit each classroom regularly. After 3 years they are required to return to the classroom.

The teacher supervisor and the teacher meet to iron out difficulties that have been observed.

That's different, but not the really unique portion of the program. What is totally new is that the program is a joint deal with the teachers' union and the school.

It is designed to help teachers that can be helped and eliminate teachers that can't do the job. Teachers with tenure have been axed with the approval of the union.

Has it been successful? You bet. I can't quote the statistics but they were impressive in improving test scores, the dropout rate and the graduation rate.

There was no mention of where the teachers or the administrators live as having any bearing on success. All that mattered was that they could teach.

"If It Fitz..."

My business?

By Jim Fitzgerald

I actually hollered at the man pushing the woman around on a downtown sidewalk. "HEY, STOP THAT! CUT IT OUT!" I shouted, several times. I even cursed him. I was getting involved in a street fight that was none of my business. Or was it?

We've all read about unconcerned citizens who stood by and did nothing to prevent a stranger from being beaten up, maybe killed. Shame on those cowardly people for not coming to the aid of a fellow human being.

But also we have all read about passersby who intervened in someone else's argument and, as a reward for their good citizenship, received a bullet in the head. The dummies should have known better than to stick their nose in someone else's dispute.

Both scenarios flicked through my mind as I wondered what to do. The man, probably in his early 20s, was husky and flashy in a brown suede suit. The woman, also well dressed, was about the same age and much smaller. It was 4 o'clock last Monday afternoon, and I was on my way to the Fort/Cass People Mover station. The couple was standing near the alley behind the Free Press.

As I walked by, they were only yelling at each other, and I averted my eyes. But by the time I was up on the People Mover platform, he was jerking her around by her arms. Then he slammed her hard against the Free Press building, several times. She was suddenly in great distress. That's when I started hollering.

NO BRAVERY

Obviously it required no bravery for me to yell from across the street and 2 flights up. And it didn't do any good. The man merely gave me a quick glance and continued assaulting the woman. I hoped my shouting would attract someone to the scene, maybe a cop. But I could see no one below except the couple.

Some other people were watching from the platform. We couldn't hear what the couple was arguing about. "I'll bet it's some kind of a drug deal, and he wants his money," someone said as the struggling woman began reaching inside her purse.

"Maybe she has a gun," someone else said. "Maybe he has a gun."

Why not? Almost everybody in Detroit except me has a gun, doesn't he? What in the devil was I doing yelling profanity at a man who might have a gun? What if he decided to take a shot at the nosy loudmouth on the People platform?

What if his only weapon was his fists, and he decided to use them on me, too? Did he have 2 quarters for the People Mover fare? Hell, he'd jump the turnstile.

All of this useless cogitating took less than a minute. The People Mover car would arrive soon, but how could I get on it? What if I read in tomorrow's newspaper that police were seeking witnesses to the beating death of a young woman outside the Free Press building Monday afternoon?

HELP ARRIVES

The woman was screaming louder. I decided I had to return to the street. I'm sure I had no intention of attempting physical force against the brown-suede brute. I'm an old poop, and couldn't fight worth beans when I was young. But maybe I could find a People Mover guard or some other young well-muscled person willing to get involved.

Wait. Two Free Press security guards were walking down the alley. I yelled at them. When they turned the corner, the man quit slamming the woman against the building. She tried to give him something from her purse. I got on the People Mover and went home.

The next morning, one of those Free Press guards said it was apparently a lovers' quarrel. The couple lived together and he was mad at her for allegedly flirting with another man. To indicate their relationship was ending, she wanted to give him back the key to his home.

The guard said the angry man suddenly became concerned when he noticed the woman was bleeding from the back of her head. "He said he'd take her to the hospital, and they left." End of street scene.

I wonder if he really took her to the hospital.

I wonder what I would have done if the 2 guards — or anyone else — hadn't shown up.

Policemen reassigned to drug unit

Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro) recently announced that 2 state troopers and 3 local police officers have been reassigned to the Thumb area as part of the Thumb Narcotics Unit program.

"Federal anti-drug grant funds were approved through the State Police Subcommittee and additional positions were created effective Oct. 1, 1989," Allen stated.

The 5 original officers will be working as a cooperative narcotic enforcement team comprised of Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, and Lapeer counties, supervised by the Michigan State Police.

"A serious problem facing our communities today is drug addiction and distribution, and we all need to work together to control and eradicate this growing social cancer," Allen concluded.

YOUR EYES

BENEFITS OF CONTACT LENSES

Although many people get contact lenses for cosmetic reasons, there are actually visual benefits associated with their wearing.

Contact lenses move with your eyes and eliminate unpredictable distortions sometimes caused by glasses. Contacts also provide vision that is more natural and truer to size. Side vision is generally better because there are no temples from your frame to block out what you can see.

Weather -- rain, snow, hail and even extreme humidity -- have no effect on contact lenses, whereas glasses can get wet or fog up.

Should the vision in each eye be considerably different, contact lenses can help the eyes work together as a team and provide good depth perception. Contacts may also control an eye that has a tendency to cross. Frequent prescription changes are less likely to be required when contact lenses are worn.

In a few unusual eye conditions such as keratoconus -- a bulging cornea -- contact lenses are a key way to provide the patient with good vision.

Peace Corps volunteer

Horner shares African work with community

Life in Yaloke, a Central African Republic village of some 3,000 persons, is a far cry from what Sherri Horner has known in Cass City.

In Africa, she lives in a dwelling made of mud and brick with cement walls and a tin roof, which is considered a little better than the average house. Her kitchen facilities, too, are considered better than average—a camp-type stove versus the wood and rocks used by village natives.

There's no electricity or running water. She uses a makeshift outhouse, and, rather than join her neighbors in a nearby river, she opts for shower facilities consisting of a water-filled barrel and a gourd used to dip the water.

Also different is the diet, a main staple of which is a white root that is ground up, made into a thick paste and dipped into a sauce made with plant leaves, peanut butter or other foods.

Still, Horner, a 23-year-old Peace Corps volunteer, isn't complaining; she's doing what she set out to do.

Having returned home recently for a month-long break after a year of work in Africa, the 1984 Cass City High School graduate took time to share her experiences with area residents before heading back Thursday.

Horner, who is instructing elementary teachers on how to teach health, will complete her work next June.

"You do (get used to it)," she remarked last week of the living conditions in Africa. "That's not the hardest part," she said, adding that the most difficult thing is being away from family and friends.

"I tried to go in with no preconceived notions. Some of it has been what I thought it would be, some of it hasn't," Horner continued. "I wasn't expecting as much friendliness towards me as I've seen."

Horner narrated a slide show featuring her work in Africa during a program held at the Novesta Church of Christ Oct. 1.

Many of the slides shown portrayed everyday life in the country, including residents clearing fields and fish farming.

HEAVIEST LOAD

Among Horner's observations is that of the sexes, women seem to be the hardest workers.

That was literally the case in slides showing women working in fields and walking while balancing up to 60 pounds or more on their heads. Some of the men work hard, but the women consistently handle the biggest work load, she repeated.

Horner pointed out that children, too, have responsibility. Some youngsters as young as 3 years can be seen carrying a younger sibling on their back while their mothers are working, she pointed out.

Also during the program, Horner talked about a village market where residents can always find onions, garlic, salt, rice, fruits and peanut butter, a staple food because peanuts are grown there.

Peanuts are an important source of protein in the village, particularly because meat is expensive (about $2.50 per pound in a country where the per capita income is about $260 annually). She added there are other sources of protein utilized by some—termites, grasshoppers and caterpillars.

MEAT AND POTATOES?

Although some beef as well as bush meat, such as antelope, is eaten, Horner continued, "It's not a meat and potatoes society."

Horner's parents, Louis and Janice, who visited their daughter in Yaloke, testified to that fact.

Horner noted that the white root which is ground into a flour and then made into a paste is called Gozo (Cassava in English). Gozo is dipped by hand into "community" bowl used by families at mealtime.

Her father remarked, "It's almost tasteless. It's real sticky, almost like playdough." Regarding the sauce made of leaves, he added, "It's almost like putting spinach on playdough and eating it."

Horner said she has come to a point where she sometimes enjoys Gozo, but she pointed out that as a main diet staple, the food has very few nutrients, which contributes to already serious health problems in the country.

"Almost everybody has some kind of chronic disease," she remarked. With an average life span of 42 years, there is a very high infant mortality rate, and diseases such as polio and measles are common, she added.

Deadline extended on license changes

Farmers have a little more time to comply with Michigan's complex new commercial driver license regulations. The implementation date has been changed from Oct. 1, 1989, to Jan. 1, 1990.

"The reason was the implementing agency, which is the Secretary of State's office, simply needed some more time, and also drivers needed some more time to comply with the law," Ron Nelson, legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau, said.

"There are still a lot of questions regarding the commercial driver's license, especially the different categories, group designations and individual needs."

Farmers who drive heavy trucks and are not exempt from the new law can drive with their present Class one, 2 or 3 endorsement until their current license expires or April 1, 1992, whichever is first.

After that they must have a commercial driver's license to drive a commercial vehicle either within the state or out-of-state.

Nelson cautions farmers not to procrastinate in complying with the new law. He said if farmers need an endorsement on their current license, now is the time to get it, because testing requirements will become much more stringent after Jan. 1.

The Lower Thumb Chapter of the American Diabetes Association will meet Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 3:00 p.m. in the Marlette Hospital Auxiliary Room. A recipe exchange, to share with others, will be held.

OUT OF AFRICA—Cass City resident Sherri Horner has taken time during a 4-week break to share with some area residents her experiences as a Peace Corps volunteer in the Central African Republic. Above, she stands next to a display table set up during a program she presented Oct. 1 at the Novesta Church of Christ.

Your neighbor says

Bakker probably won't see jail time

It has been said that "the love of money is the root of all evil." Disgraced television evangelist Jim Bakker would most likely, at least privately, agree.

The former head of the "Praise The Lord" ministry was found guilty last week on 24 counts of fraud and conspiracy. Bakker, who maintains his innocence, faces up to 120 years of imprisonment and a fine totaling $5 million. His sentencing date is scheduled for Oct. 24.

We asked your neighbor, Jim Glidden, to comment on the PTL ordeal.

"He's guilty," says the Cass City resident. Adding, that most of the so-called TV evangelists are crooks.

"I think things just got out of hand, he got too big a head," said the 27-year-old Glidden who is employed with Board Chrysler/Plymouth/Dodge.

The 1981 graduate of Owen-Gage High School also believes Bakker won't see any jail time.

"If it was me or you, we'd be behind bars, but Bakker's too popular. If he goes to jail it will be one with a TV in every cell," joked the single salesman.

Bakker is also known for his sex scandal involving former New York church secretary Jessica Hahn.

We asked Glidden to elaborate on the 2. "I think the sex thing was a one time deal, where the money thing went on for a long time. It's (the fraud and conspiracy charges) a lot worse."

Jim is the son of Richard and Takeko Glidden of Owendale.

Diabetes group to share recipes

The Lower Thumb Chapter of the American Diabetes Association will meet Wednesday, Oct. 18, at 3:00 p.m. in the Marlette Hospital Auxiliary Room. A recipe exchange, to share with others, will be held.

Mr. Foster of Port Huron will be present to talk about Social Security.

Saturday, Sept. 30, Mrs. Dick Ziehm attended the wedding of her niece in Champaign, Ill. The bride, Elaine Schweitzer, was united in marriage to Brian Chaille. Mrs. Ziehm was accompanied to Illinois by Sandy and Scott Kurzer and Allister of Durand and they spent the weekend.

Josh and Garrett Beauchamp of Bay City spent last weekend with their grandparents, Jackie and Bill Goodell.

Phyllis Connors of Caseville was the luncheon guest of her mother, Gerry Carolan, last Monday. Mrs. Conners was en route to LaBelle, Fla., planning to visit relatives on the way, the Dan Watterworths in Lapeer, Larry Watterworth in Lansing, the Terry Watterworths in Monroe, Jerry Watterworth in Nashville, Tenn., and Cindy and Bill Striplin in Marietta, Ga.

Sunday, Oct. 1, Veronica Beecher of Caro and Margaret Generous attended the 50th anniversary open house honoring Fred and Nina Janks of Caro. Children and grandchildren of the couple hosted the party, held at the Sutton-Sunshine Church, with about 200 guests attending. En route home, Mrs. Beecher and Mrs. Generous visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Price of Caro.

STUDY CLUB

The Gagetown Women's Study Club met last Monday, Oct. 2, at the home of Eleanor Messer, near Caro. Mary Hook of Flint and Johanna Miklovich were guests.

For the program, Mrs. Miklovich told of her recent trip to Germany and Frieda Ziehm told of her trip to Nashville, Tenn.

A bake sale was planned and took place Saturday. The hostess served refreshments and the next meeting will be Nov. 6 at the home of Gladys Laurie.

The Owendale-Gagetown teachers had an "In Service Day" last Wednesday and attended an all-day session at Laker High School. There were workshops, a speaker and a noon luncheon. Mark Schultz of Ann Arbor, son-in-law of Nancy and George Whaley, was injured in a fall at work last week, and is a patient at U of M Hospital, Ann Arbor.

BIRTHDAY PARTIES

Miss Mary Wald turned 94 Oct. 2 and was honored at celebrations all week. Monday morning after the communion service at St.

Agatha's, 14 friends and relatives gathered at Sherwood on the Hill for coffee and cake. Nel Wald supplied the birthday cake.

Monday evening, Mary Louise Merz and family of Saginaw came to visit and hosted a birthday dinner for Miss Wald at the Charmont in Cass City.

Wednesday morning she was honored as she met with fellow quilters at the Cultural Center in Cass City. Evelyn Goslin baked and decorated a cake for that occasion.

Final celebration was at the Extension meeting at the home of Janet Martin Wednesday afternoon.

EXTENSION GROUP

The Elmwood Extension met Oct. 4 at the home of Janet Martin with 12 members attending. President Florence Karr opened the meeting and the group read The Homemakers Creed.

Members answered roll call with "an international current event." Helen Stock gave secretary's and treasurer's reports and Agatha LaFave gave the lesson, "Cultural Differences."

Don Martin took blood pressure readings and a luncheon was served by Janet Martin and Elma Miklovich.

Jane Mitchell will be guest speaker at the Nov. 1 meeting.

Eleven women, with Sr. Nancy Ayotte driving, took a first excursion with the newly-acquired St. Agatha's van. They went to Monroe, where they toured the Immaculate Heart of Mary Community. They had a picnic luncheon, furnished by Sr. Nancy, at Visitation House, then visited the chapel, a renovated barn, called "The Lord's Barn." The next stop was the IHM Mother House where the group visited Sr. Anastasia Downing, a member of the community for 69 years. She is a sister of the late Wes Downing. They then toured the main chapel, the libraries, conference rooms and had refreshments in the Strawberry Room. They visited Norman Towers, a Catholic retirement home, and had dinner in Oxford on the way home. IHM is Sr. Nancy's home community and she was the tour guide. Kathy Burkenpas of Grand Rapids and her son, Adam, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Muri LaFave.

Frank Rocheleau of Caro was a patient at Caro Community Hospital, where he underwent surgery Thursday.

Kendra Reehl, student at CMU, spent the weekend with her family, the Tom Reehls.

According to Donald Crouse, superintendent, Cass City Public Schools will close their doors on Tuesday, October 20, as the opening shots of pheasant season are heard in the Thumb area.

Deford 4-H leader, Mrs. Gordon Holcomb, has announced that organization of winter projects for club members will be held Friday at the Deford School. Parents should accompany members.

Four Cass City Youths are representing Cass City Future Farmers of America at the national FFA convention in Kansas City, Mo., this week. They are Grant Merchant, Mark Battel, Jerry Krohn and David Marshall.

Pam Dobbs has been elected president of the Junior High Methodist Youth Fellowship for the coming year. Also elected to serve with her were Marsha Searls, vice-president; Gary Barnes, secretary; Norris Lounsbury, treasurer, and Linda Brown and Tom Guinther, program chairmen.

35 YEARS AGO

Jack Clara scored the only touchdown made by the Red Hawks in their 19-6 defeat at the hands of the Bad Axe eleven.

The best pheasant hunting season in recent years is expected when the season opens Wednesday.

Joyce Donnelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.J. Donnelly, Cass City, will attend the 4-H Home Improvement Tour in Grand Rapids as her award for her outstanding work in 4-H home improvements.

The oil well on the Neil Marshall farm, north of Gagetown, will produce at least 60 to 70 barrels of oil daily.

What Do A 33-Year-Old Farmer And A 59-Year-Old Interior Designer Have In Common?

They were both surprised by a disability, but were prepared with Income Protection coverage from Time Insurance. Disability respects no age, sex or occupation, but these people planned ahead.

Income Protection offers basic, affordable coverage to insure your income . . . and the standard of living for you and your loved ones. Benefits are paid if you are sick or injured and unable to work.

Think about it — you insure your car and your home, but how would you pay the bills if you lost your income? Don't wait. Call (or write) today for more information on protection for your most valuable asset — your income.

Federal grant to Rawson Library

Two new services to older adults, home delivery and enrichment programming, have been made possible at Rawson Memorial Library, Cass City, by a Federal Library Services and Construction Act grant.

During the next year, 4 series of enrichment programs will be offered to older adults in the area. Subjects under consideration are exploring local history, Americans and the land, immigrant women in the United States, art in life and many others.

Questionnaires will be distributed soon to determine the subjects to be offered. Final decisions will be made by a 10-member advisory council of older adults.

Anyone interested in serving on the council is asked to call Margaret Shaft, coordinator of the new program, at the library (872-2856).

Beginning immediately, Shaft will deliver and pick up library materials for older adults who are homebound in a hospital or nursing home.

Adults interested in receiving this service should call the library. Shaft will then call upon the patron, determine the type of materials wanted and set up a schedule for delivery.

LSCA grants are competitive and are applied for by libraries all over the state. Rawson Memorial Library was awarded $4,200, which will pay for materials and the salary of the program coordinator.

Plans call for the delivery service to be continued by volunteers after the initial year. Enrichment programs will continue depending upon the interest and success of the first 4 programs.

Lutheran group slates fall rally

The Annual Fall Rally of the Thumb Zone of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League will be hosted by St. John Lutheran Church in Port Hope Tuesday, Oct. 17. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m. Cost for registration is $2.50 and the noon luncheon will be $2.50.

Mrs. Helen Gienapp, former International LWML president, will be the guest speaker. Her topic, "Disciplining Woman to Woman," will include slides and commentary on her trip to Great Britain as a participant in this program which was sponsored by the International LWML.

All ladies are invited to attend and should bring along a Bible for Bible Study and a bar of soap for World Relief.

In circuit court

2 sentenced, 4 plead

A 32-year-old Tuscola County man was sentenced Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court to 180 days in the county jail and 3 years probation for his Aug. 4 plea of guilty to possession of cocaine (less than 25 grams).

The defendant, Richard F. Sohn, Vassar, also was ordered to pay $400 in court costs and fines and a $30 per month oversight fee. He was granted permission to participate in the county's worksite program.

Court records state the offense occurred May 23, 1988, in Vassar Township.

Also sentenced was William E. Hudek Jr., 20, of Mayville, who pleaded guilty Aug. 4 to a charge of attempted breaking and entering a motor vehicle.

Hudek received a one-year delayed sentence and was ordered to pay a $30 per month oversight fee, according to court records, which state the Dec. 4, 1988 incident involved a 1988 Mercury vehicle in Mayville.

In other proceedings Friday, a 33-year-old Vassar man entered a plea of nolo contendere (no contest) during his arraignment on a charge of Criminal Sexual Conduct, fourth degree.

Sentencing is to be set for Perry L. Morrison, whose bond was continued at $15,000. Participation in the work release program was granted.

Court records state Morrison is charged with engaging in sexual contact with another person under the age of 13 years Sept. 16 in Vassar.

Randy L. Snyder, 26, of Caro, entered pleas of guilty to 2 counts of attempted delivery of marijuana.

Sentencing is to be set in the case, and bond was continued.

The offenses occurred June 24, 1988, and July 19, 1988, both in Caro, records state.

Wellston resident Michael Nowicki, 20, pleaded innocent to a charge of probation violation and requested a court-appointed attorney.

Bond was set at $5,000 in the case, which was continued to the next regular motion day.

Records state Nowicki is accused of violating his probation by being convicted Sept. 6, 1989, in Manistee District Court on a charge of unlawful use of a motor vehicle.

Also charged with probation violation is Joel E. Burrows, 27, of Vassar, who entered a plea of guilty.

Sentencing is to be set. Bond was set at $5,000.

Burrows violated probation Sept. 15, 1989, when he traveled to Chicago without the consent of the court, records state.

Letter to the editorSchool children
all created equal,
Mr. Headlee

Dear Editor,

In a recent letter to the editor in newspapers throughout the state, a Mr. Dick Headlee, Farmington Hills, personified the negative attitude toward school finance reform some people have in the State of Michigan. The only thing he left out was that the school district in which Farmington Hills belongs to, ranks in the top twelve statewide as far as dollars spent by a school district per child per year.

Mr. Headlee in his campaign to protect the taxpayer from the evils of those constitution changing Do Gooders, failed to mention that the kids where he lives are on the top of the school finance barrel looking down on the rest. He failed to mention the many educational advantages those kids have over the kids on the bottom of the school finance barrel. It's pretty easy to preach the status quo and tell horror stories about change when you're to the top of the heap.

If our kids in the Thumb Area of Michigan had the educational advantages of the kids going to school in Farmington Hills, I probably would not have written this letter. I might even feel as Mr. Headlee does about school finance reform. But, I would be honest enough to say that I selfishly want to keep my kids way ahead of the pack. I would be honest enough to admit I want to keep all the advantages students from wealthy districts have over students from poor districts. I would have at least stated that I want students from wealthy districts to have more and better educational opportunities than the rest, so those students could continue to have a head start in college and in employment.

Maybe Mr. Headlee should reread the United States Constitution and the Bill of Rights. Maybe someone should tell Mr. Headlee that school kids in the State of Michigan really have no say as to where they live and go to school. Maybe someone should tell Mr. Headlee that school children are all created equal and should receive an equal education. Maybe someone should tell Mr. Headlee that Proposal B will force the working toward EQUITY in education for school districts in our state. Or maybe, Mr. Headlee knows this already. Come on Dick, tell "the rest of the story!"

Sincerely,

Tom Lukshaitis

Volunteer training set

Thumb Area Assault Crisis Center officials have scheduled their next volunteer training sessions the week-ends of Nov. 4 and 5 and Nov. 18 and 19.

The Assault Crisis Center is in need of volunteers to help victims of domestic violence and sexual assault in Huron, Sanilac, Tuscola and Lapeer Counties.

Volunteers are needed in areas such as child care, transportation, advocacy, etc. Trained volunteers can also volunteer to answer the 24-hour crisis line at the Emergency Shelter.

More information and an application are available by calling Mary Ann Osentoski at 1-800-292-3666.

"RESPIRATORY CARE CARES" was the theme of this year's National Respiratory Therapy Week, Oct. 1-7, and the Hills and Dales Respiratory Department celebrated with a display of equipment, free testing, handouts, gifts and refreshments. Staff members are (above, left) Joyce Willis, Cindy Gangler, Pam Ross, Ruth Whittaker, Norma Rabideau and Vic Guzman (kneeling).

perform amazing tasks while expending unbelievably small amounts of energy. No bending, no heavy lifting, these women were masters of dreaded household chores. Housework never got the best of them. They had it down to a science.

In the early fifties, American Heart Association research unveiled new data that would change the way women with heart disease achieved their daily duties. Free classes were offered for women with cardiac disorder through Wayne State University and Michigan State College. The goals of this widespread community service project were twofold: providing more effective means of time and energy savings for cardiac housewives and offering doctors of medicine the latest information on managing cardiac women patients.

Each patient attended 4 demonstration sessions - posture and body mechanics, work in the kitchen, cleaning and laundry. Methods were shown that could reduce a housewife's work load by 60 percent. A revised routine could save her 61 miles of "useless" walking per year in preparing one daily meal - quite a breakthrough for 1951.

Researchers at the time arrived at these "lifesaving" conclusions by simply observing several housewives in time and motion studies. While each woman went about her day's work - such as preparing meals, making beds, dusting and dishwashing - the researchers noted the number of steps she took and how often she strained to reach items on shelves and lifted various objects. Their detailed observations completed, the researchers then analyzed every move to find out how the housewife could have done each task more easily. They recommended no expensive alterations in the home or labor saving devices. Instead, they concentrated on better arrangement of such kitchen equipment as the stove and refrigerator and the strategic placing of utensils on shelves to be reached with little effort.

The Cardiac Housewife Program endured 12 long years until new, more progressive developments for the benefits of exercise were realized in the 60's.

Today, the American Heart Association promotes regular exercise that conditions your cardiovascular system as part of a total program to reduce the risk of heart disease.

Rumor has it that one former cardiac housewife was recently seen ripping off her apron and jogging off down the block. Yes, we've come a long way...

Cass Cityans at Student Congress at state capitol

The legislative process has taken on a new, practical meaning for some Cass City High School students, who recently acted as legislators, lobbyists and other players in the 23rd annual Student Congress.

The local pupils joined other top forensics students from across the state in the Michigan Interscholastic Forensic Association event, held Sept. 14, 15 and 16 at the state Capitol.

Cass City forensics advisor Jane Reif explained that the exercise gives students a meaningful and realistic opportunity to examine a significant contemporary problem. This year the topic was prison reform.

Aside from an understanding of the legislative process, students gain experience in public speaking, discussion and parliamentary debate, she added.

Reif said the local students who participated, and the roles they played, are senior Brent Sturtevant, senator and chairman of the Rehabilitation Committee; senior Chris Folk, representative and member of the Juvenile Justice Committee; junior Jody Joles, lobbyist with the American Correctional Association; junior Amiee Cooper, lobbyist with the National Criminal Justice Association; junior Dana Johnson, press corps member, and Wendy Hercliff, observer.

"After meeting with the General Assembly, the senators and congressmen break into their committees and draft a bill that will later be presented on the floor of the Legislative Assembly," Reif said of the exercise.

She continued, "While they are doing this... the lobbyists meet to formulate their opinions on the committee problem areas, then to give testimony to indicate whether they would support or oppose the bills. The press also meets to organize a press conference for the election of the speaker of the House and the president of the Senate."

Reif pointed out that for the first time, all participants at this year's Student Congress achieved superior ratings at Regional Discussion festivals, where students qualified for student congress last spring.

"There is nothing to compare to it," she remarked. "Once the students go, they just get so excited."

Conditions are worse for blacks

Economic and social conditions continue to worsen for blacks in Michigan, causing higher death, dropout, and crime rates in the black population compared to whites, Michigan State University's Urban Affairs Program said in a report released recently.

The 85-page report, entitled "The State of Black Michigan: 1989," is the sixth in a series patterned after the National Urban League's "The State of Black America."

In Michigan, the deteriorating economic and social conditions for blacks "exacerbate the already established 2-tier system," according to the report.

Lady Hawks beat Mayville, Bad Axe

The Cass City Red Hawks' basketball team registered 2 firsts this week. The team won its first Thumb B Association game and won 2 in a row for the first time this season.

The Lady Hawks measured Mayville Tuesday, Oct. 3, 56-28, and defeated Bad Axe, 47-40, in games played in Cass City.

Coach Marty Daniel said that his charges played a strong offensive and defensive game for the first time this season against Mayville. Our defensive pressure caused numerous Wildcat turnovers, he pointed out, that led to easy baskets.

Cass City took control of the game early and by the intermission the only question that remained was what the final score was going to be. At the end of the first period, Cass City, led by Vicki Robinson with 6 points, was in front, 15-4. At the half it was 35-11.

Every Hawk player saw action and 8 of the 9 scored, led by Jandi Hillaker with 17 points. Besides playing good defense, Cass City controlled the boards for the first time this season, out-rebounding the Wildcats, 42-23. Jenny Nye showed the way with 10.

Mindi Snyder led Mayville with 10 points. The Hawk junior varsity made it an all-victory night by registering a 52-26 decision.

BAD AXE GAME

The win over the Bad Axe Hatchets was the result of a fine team effort, Daniel said, and defense was the key to the first league win.

The Hawks needed a tight defense because, as usual, the short Cass City quintet was beaten on the boards, 35 to 25. Daniel said that the win was important because it indicated that the Hawks are beginning to put their game in order. We've been waiting for some of our young players to mature. They were essential in helping to keep the Hatchets' strong inside game in check.

It was a nip and tuck game all the way. The Hatchets were in front at the end of the first quarter, 12-11, and Cass City ahead by a single point, 23-22 at the intermission. It was only a 2-point difference going into the final 8 minutes, but the Hawk defense tightened to put away the victory.

The last period charge was led by Vicki Robinson who connected for 8 of her 16 points in the final period, including a 3-pointer.

The Hawks won with just average field goal shooting, 31 percent, while the Hatchets were at 34 percent. Cass City won the game at the charity stripe with 14 of 23 while Bad Axe converted 8 of 16. Besides Robinson, Jandi Hillaker was in double figures for Cass City with 11 points. Heidi Reimann led all scorers with 17 points.

JANDI HILLAKER goes up in traffic for 2 points to help Cass City to its win over Bad Axe, the first victory in the Thumb B Association for the Red Hawks. Watching are, from left, Missy Cubitt, 40, and Heidi Reimann, 50, both of Bad Axe.

Owen-Gage cagers split 2 contests

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs split a pair of games last week, defeating North Branch Wesleyan, 50-39, Tuesday and losing to Kingston in a North Central Thumb League game, 73-51, Thursday.

The win over North Branch came on a foul-plagued game in which 7 players went to the bench with 5 fouls, 3 from Owen-Gage and 4 from the visitors.

The Bulldogs jumped off to an early lead and it looked like a laugher all the way, but North Branch refused to fold.

Owen-Gage was in front 13-3 at the end of the opening quarter and it was 30 to 7 at the intermission.

North Branch came charging back in the last half. Although the Bulldogs were never behind, the visitors closed the gap to 7 points at one time in the last quarter.

The 'Dogs were led by Marla Goslin with 15 points and all 9 players on the squad contributed to the scoring total. North Branch was led by Cathy LeTaunea with 8.

KINGSTON WINS

The Kingston Cardinals pulled to the .500 mark in league action with the win over Owen-Gage. The winners were in control all the way led by 3 sophomores who scored 50 of the Kingston 73 points. These girls promise to make the Cardinals a team to be reckoned with in the years ahead.

Owen-Gage fell behind in the opening 3 quarters and outscored the winners in the last period by a single point when the game was no longer in doubt.

At the end of the first half the Cardinal lead was 39-21 and going in to the final 8 minutes the host team had a comfortable 55-32 advantage.

The 50 points notched by Kingston's super sophs included 20 by Karen Plain and 15 each by Rochelle Dorezynski and Bobbi Roberson.

Goslin paced the Bulldogs with 16 points and Michelle Tkacz, a freshman moved to the varsity 3 games ago, netted 10.

Scouts hold Olympics

Young men ages 7-10 from the Thumb District met at the Cass City Village Park Sept. 30 to participate in the annual Cub Scout Olympics.

Wolf and Bear events (for boys in grades 2 and 3) included the 30-yard dash, tire roll, sack race, ball throw for distance, ball throw for accuracy and obstacle course.

Webelos events (for boys in grades 4 and 5) included the 50-yard dash, javelin, discus, shot put, long jump and rope walk.

petition and awards ceremony, the olympics participants took part in a park clean-up project.

Any young men in Cass City who are interested in the scouting program can contact the Cubmaster at 872-4667 for further information.

Catholic Women schedule meet

The East Region Council of Catholic Women will meet for their fall conference at St. Elizabeth Church, Marlette, Wednesday, Oct. 18.

Registration will be held from 9:00 to 9:30 a.m. Cost for the day is $3.50 which includes lunch. The program will end at approximately 2:30 p.m.

Mass will be celebrated by spiritual moderator, Fr. Rick Bokinskie of Ruth, and Fr. Ted LaMarre, pastor of St. Elizabeth, Marlette.

Speakers for the day will be Betty Pattullo, Tuscola County Extension, talking about nutrition and cholesterol and Fr. Mason Vaughn, of Diocesan Missions office, who will share aspects of a recent trip to China.

Reservations are to be made by Oct. 16 by calling Rita Maher 517-635-7072 or Janet Woycik 635-3343.

All women of the East Region are invited.

CASS CITY scouts Eric Hayes (left) and Isaac Ponder finished first in their respective divisions in the annual Cub Scout Olympics, held Sept. 30 in Cass City.

In Cass City

2 drivers slightly hurt

Two motorists sought their own treatment for minor injuries sustained in a 2-vehicle accident last Wednesday in Cass City.

Cass City police reported that a vehicle driven by Marie J. McCreedy, 35, of Unionville, was eastbound on Houghton Street at about 10:40 a.m. when she failed to yield the right of way at Seeger Street and collided with a northbound vehicle.

Both McCreedy and the driver of the other vehicle, Virginia Wood, 76, 4190 Leach St., Cass City, complained of minor injuries, but refused an ambulance, police said.

Both vehicles sustained moderate damage.

Later the same morning, one vehicle backed into another at the drive-through entrance of the Parkway, 6703 Main St.

Reports state Lawrence Harper, 4205 Little Rd., Cass City, was in the drive-through and attempted to back up because he was too close to the east curb. His vehicle backed into a westbound vehicle driven by Valerie A. Wesolowski, 6461 Main St., who had stopped to turn into the drive-through.

Wesolowski's vehicle sustained slight damage in the 11:20 a.m. mishap.

Minor damage also was reported in a 2-vehicle accident Friday near the intersection of Main and Weaver Streets.

According to reports, a southbound vehicle driven by William C. O'Dell, 5681 Delong Rd., Cass City, was stopped at Main Street at 3:45 p.m. when he attempted to back up slightly because of heavy traffic. In doing so he struck a vehicle behind him, driven by Joan K. Hahn, 5190 Deckerville Rd., Deford.

Also last week, Gerald W. Vincent of Ubyly told police he struck a deer Oct. 2 while driving west on East Cass City Road east of Cemetery Road. Slight damage was reported in the 7:30 a.m. collision.

Motorist escapes injury

A Deford resident escaped injury Friday evening when the vehicle she was driving entered a ditch and rolled on its side in Kingston Township.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported that Traci L. Raymond, 7005 Bevens Rd., was southbound on Cemetery Road south of Rossman Road when the 10:30 p.m. mishap occurred.

While attempting to make a U-turn, Raymond drove her vehicle too far on the west side and entered a ditch, according to reports, which state she then reacted by hitting the accelerator, causing her vehicle to swing around to the east side, where she entered another ditch and rolled her vehicle.

Deputies indicated the vehicle sustained light damage.

Also reported by deputies was a car-deer accident Thursday on Plain Road south of Sanilac Road in Dayton Township.

Kevin D. Nelson, 3861 Shay Lake Rd., Kingston, stated he was driving north when a deer leaped into his path. Moderate vehicle damage was reported in the 6:45 a.m. accident.

Crucial games ahead

Hawks top Bad Axe, tie for league lead

The door is open for a share of the Thumb B Association championship for the first time in 10 years for the Cass City Red Hawks, out a pair of formidable roadblocks must be overcome to reach this exalted position and with it an almost certain invitation into the post season play-offs for the first time in history.

This exciting turn of events came about when the Hawks outlasted the Bad Axe Hatchets Friday at Cass City Recreational Park, 7-0. It was a defensive battle all the way and Coach Don Markel expects a similar game this Friday when North Branch comes to town. The Broncos did Cass City a favor by upsetting Millington and throwing the league race into a 3-way tie for the lead among Cass City, Millington and Lakers.

The schedule makers couldn't have programmed a better finish for the race if they had known in advance what the season would bring. If the Hawks defeat the Broncos a share of the title will be on the line when they travel to Millington for the last league game of the season.

The Hatchets came close to spoiling Cass City's homecoming festivities in the dying moments of the first half. The 2 teams were deadlocked in a scoreless game after Cass City's one drive in the first 2 quarters went glimmering when a Jason Robertson pass was intercepted.

Markel had his team in a prevent defense and the Hatchets countered with a running play that almost resulted in a touchdown. Bob Forsyth broke loose for 50 yards and went to the Hawk 4-yard line before he was stopped on the Cass City 3 by a touchdown saving tackle by Troy Perry.

The only touchdown of the game was scored early in the fourth quarter and came after a bizarre play which negated an almost certain Cass City touchdown. Greg Graham intercepted a Hatchet pass and appeared to have clear sailing to the end zone when he was stopped on the Bad Axe 35 when an official blew his whistle because he thought the pass fell incomplete.

The official was saved more embarrassment and perhaps an official protest when the Hawks used the interception to score from where the play was whistled dead.

The Hawks covered the 35 yards in just 8 plays, all on the ground, the final 4 yards covered by Scott Dillon. Guilherme Tiezzi, who has become Mr. Automatic for Cass City, booted the extra point.

The Hawks came out of the game in relatively good health. Randy Johnson, who has had a slightly sprained shoulder and played only in the fourth quarter against the Hatchets, and Tim Englehart, who played at 70 percent efficiency because of an ankle injury, are expected to be ready for North Branch.

Dillon continued to be the workhorse among the backs with 22 carries for 136 yards, a 6.2-yard average. Robertson gained 85 yards on 13 attempts.

Dillon also was one of the bulwarks on defense with 3 initial hits among 10 tackles. Mark Wark also had 10 tackles and 6 unassisted hits.

Cass City golfers win tie breaker

For the second week in a row a Cass City's golf team match was decided by the use of a tie breaker. The good news for Hawk fans was that the Hawks won when the fifth-place score of Ken Micklash (50) was better than the score of Capac's Tom Keller (52). In the previous tie-breaker Cass City lost to North Branch.

The meet was a 4-team competition played at Sandusky Wednesday. The results were: Cass City, 182; Capac, 182; Sandusky, 186, and Bad Axe, 192. Up and down Chris Herringshaw paced Cass City with a 41.

Other Cass City scores: Garen Barker, 45; Mike Francis, 47, and Troy Osen-toski, 49. Medalist of the meet was Grady Phoney, 40.

The game was played in windy conditions and Coach Jim Fox credited the good round by Herringshaw as the key to the win.

While Cass City has been overpowering in non-league matches the team has been just average in Thumb B Association competition. The Hawks were defeated 181-187 at Millington Monday, Oct. 2, to even the league record at 3-3. Overall the team is 6-3.

Fox said he was disappointed with the below average performance. We'll never do real well, he feels, until we learn to play on other courses.

Herringshaw led the Hawks with a 45, closely followed by Barker with 46.

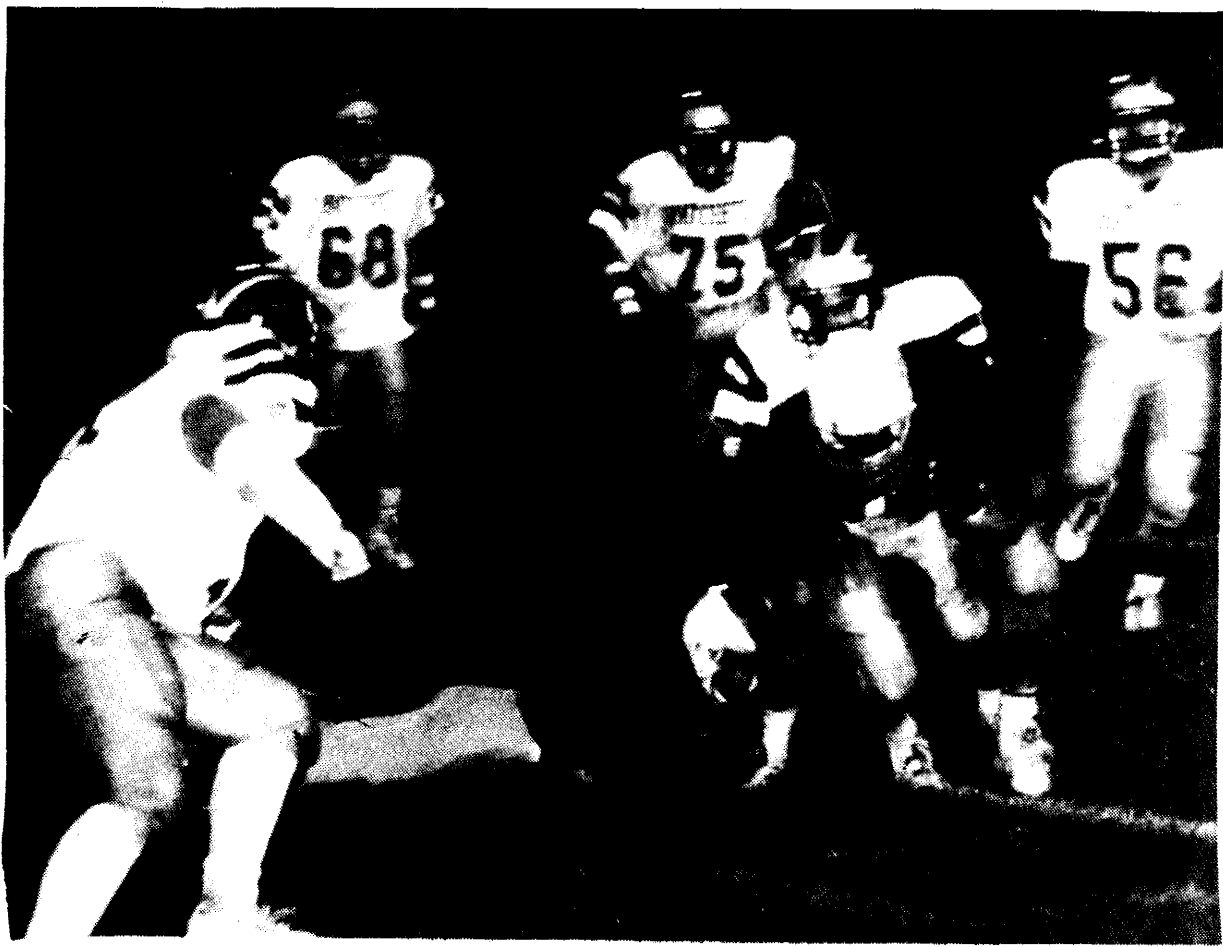

Osenetoski posted a 47 and Francis a 49.

Millington's Todd Cobanovich was medalist with a 44. Stan Sharnel and Mark Kordytor each shot 45 and Jeff Swartz, 48.

Buck luck

Deford resident Gregory Michalski, 25, shot an 8-point, 126-pound buck opening day while hunting west of Deford. He bagged the deer, which isn't this first, at about 7:20 a.m.

RED HAWK QUARTERBACK JASON ROBERTSON scrambled for a good gainer on this broken pass play in Friday's homecoming win with Bad Axe.

Lucky hunter

Richard Enos one of 80 among 35,687 to receive elk license

An area man is among 80 Michigan residents who have been randomly selected to participate in the state's Oct. 17-22 elk hunt, according to Department of Natural Resources officials.

Richard Enos, Cass City, is among the successful applicants who were computer drawn from 35,687 applicants.

Of the 80 hunters, 40 will be allowed to take only antlerless elk, while the remaining 40, including Enos, will have the choice of taking an antlered bull or antlerless elk.

This year's hunting areas include portions of Otsego, Presque Isle, Cheboygan and Montmorency counties.

A second elk hunt, Dec. 5-12, is scheduled for the same areas to keep the herd in balance with its range, officials said, adding the 2 seasons are designed to maintain the herd at a desirable size; minimize crop, range and forest damage, and preserve a viable herd for viewing opportunities.

By the winter of 1991, the DNR would like to maintain a posthunt elk population of 850 animals. Presently, the elk herd is estimated at 1,100 animals.

Card of Thanks

WE WOULD LIKE to take this time to thank all of our friends, relatives and neighbors who were so kind to us during our time of sorrow at the loss of our mother and grandmother, Thresea Lottie Adams. Thank you for the food, flowers, cards and memorials. A special thanks to Dr. Martin and the emergency staff at Hills and Dales General Hospital, to Father Spleet for his words of comfort, Father James Lee who officiated the service, to Nina Davis and the Women's Council of St. Pancratius Church for the prayer service and the lovely meal they served and to Roger Little for his comfort, guidance, compassion and the beautiful services he provided. Once again, thank you everyone for caring and being there. Ed, Nancy and Debbie Adams. 13-10-11-1

Memorial

IN LOVING MEMORY of our dear father and husband, Lawrence M. Wright, who passed away two years ago, Oct. 11, 1987. You were the light, love and strength in our lives. We miss you, and love you always. Karen, George, Jason and Allison. 15-10-11-1

BOOK REVIEW:

The Bank of America Guide to Making the Most of Your Money

Pub. by Dow-Jones - Irwin, Homewood, Ill. 229 pp; $11.95. Author: H. Darden Chambliss Jr.

Chambliss is a former Associated Press writer and winner of the Loebaward for "Distinguished reporting of business and financial news."

So you have a good publishing house, a professional writer with a good background and the help of Bank of America in turning over its material used in customer relations.

Unlike most reports on finances, this one has a more sprightly style, which is hard to develop working for the Associated Press, and it's commendable.

The subject though is a little too big for 229 pages. For example, there is one paragraph on wills. The conclusions: You ought to have one. Not a line about Living Trusts, by far the best solution to passing on your estate.

In a section on "risks," Chambliss describes 3 kinds:

1. Capital risk: Possibility your investment will sell at a lower price than you paid for it. Applies to stocks, real estate and investment in a business.

Comment: In other words, any investment. But you don't need to sell something to have a gain or a loss. Unrealized gains or losses are just as real, and they too reflect the market or actual worth.

2. Interest rate risk: Your interest-earning investment will lose value with changes in general interest rates. This applies particularly to bonds. As interest rates go up, bond prices typically decline.

Comment: Why will such investments lose value with changes in interest rates? Rates can go down as well as up and when they go down prices will go up. And not just "typically" but surely. This fact of life doesn't apply "particularly" to bonds, but mortgages, loans and other fixed income investments. And don't overlook utilities stocks which march up and down in cadence with interest rates. Pretty much, at least.

Inflation risk: Inflation may go up more than the return on your investment.

Comment: Accepting this, what are you going to do about it?

The author plumps for "growth stocks" as a way to beat inflation. Steven Leuthold, a writer of some renown, has written a thick book, "Myths of Inflation Investing" to disprove the old wives tale about stocks being an inflation hedge.

"You can protest against inflation by buying things that usually go up with inflation, such as real estate," says Chambliss.

Tell that to a property owner in New England this fall.

The book gives 17 lines to Limited Partnerships, without a word of warning of the horrible results of these traps for the innocent. In real estate partnerships, for instance, 70% of the investors didn't even get their money back.

For the other side of the ledger after these criticisms the book does give some good ideas on long-term goals for families, and some valuable psychological tests to help you know thyself.

It's worthwhile for these sections alone, but overall there's lots of other information that's valuable.

A note from a Florida friend seeks to dispel my generally dim view of stocks.

"In about 1960 my wife bought 100 shares of General Electric for $7600. After 3 2-for-1 stock split she now has 800 shares, at a current price of $57. Total today: $45,600."

That ought to keep me quiet for a while.

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.

3 charged in connection with Cass City larcenies

According to reports, the shooting victim, Ronald A. Diener, 32, was bow hunting from a tree stand near M-46 and Bruisee Road when he was approached by a man who ordered him to drop his bow.

When Diener refused, the man pulled out a handgun and fired one round in his direction. The bullet struck a portion of the tree and Diener was struck by fragments.

He was treated at Caro Community Hospital and then discharged.

Prior to that confrontation, the man approached Diener's hunting companion, David L. Simpson, 22, also of Mt. Morris, and told him to drop his bow. Simpson complied, then left his tree stand and went to find Diener.

Detectives stated that the pair had received permission from a nearby landowner to hunt in the area, however, the men wandered onto an adjacent parcel of land.

KIDNAPPING CHARGE

Thomas R. Inches Jr., 21, Fort Bragg, North Carolina, faces charges of Criminal Sexual Conduct, third degree; breaking and entering with intent to kidnap, and kidnapping.

Court records state his bond was set at $75,000. A preliminary exam will be held at 2 p.m. Monday.

Inches is accused of engaging in sexual penetration with another person, using force or coercion to accomplish the act and/or while knowing the victim was physically helpless; breaking into a trailer and kidnapping the trailer's resident Oct. 8 in Vassar township.

Also recently, Edward E. Mark, 45, of Cass City, was arraigned on charges of unlawfully driving away an automobile and assault (or assault and battery).

A preliminary exam was slated for 2 p.m. Monday for Mark, whose bond was set at $7,500.

According to records, he is accused of unlawfully driving away a 1978 Ford Pinto station wagon belonging to Sharon S. Carlisle, and assaulting Carlisle. Another Cass City resident, Edward P. Osborn, 26, 4956 Little Rd., faces a charge of uttering and publishing.

His bond was set at $14,000. A preliminary exam in the case will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday.

Records state the incident allegedly occurred Oct. 30, 1987, in Caro, and involved a $369.20 check drawn on the U.S. Treasury.

John T. Howden, 22, of Caro, faces charges of forgery and uttering and publishing.

Bond was set at $10,000. His preliminary exam will also be held Monday beginning at 2 p.m.

Both charges stem from checks for $80 drawn on Citizens National Bank (Mackinaw branch) Aug. 4 in Caro, according to court records.

New 4-H program offered for children

A new youth program called "Cloverbuds" has been approved by the Tuscola County 4-H Council.

"Five to 7-year-olds will now be able to be a part of 4-H," John Wurm, Tuscola County 4-H youth agent, announced. "Cloverbuds is a program that gives younger people some of the experiences that our established clubs have given all along. With this age group less emphasis is put on projects and more on socialization skills in working with other kids."

Cloverbuds can be a part of 4-H in one of 2 ways. The first method is to get involved with an existing club, with club activities arranged at a separate time or running at the same time as the regular club meetings. The second method is starting a 4-H club.

"For someone who just wants to try their hand at working with kids, I would recommend getting involved with an existing club," Wurm said.

The approach used in working with 5 to 7-year-olds is the use of lots of encouragement, he continued. The youth will be able to put a notebook together of each year's experiences. These may include many things from pressed leaves to pictures of group activities.

Theresa Silm will be a guest speaker and trainer for working with 5 to 7-year-olds. Silm comes from St. Johns and brings some proven methods of working with their age group. This training is open to any interested parents or existing leaders in working with these young people.

Silm will share her experiences Oct. 23 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Indianfields Public Library in Caro.

Pre-registration is preferred, however, not necessary, by calling the Cooperative Extension Service at 673-5999, Ext. 228.

Dance slated

The Thumb YMCA Dance Club will hold its next dance Saturday at the Sandusky Maple Valley Elementary School.

The event, which will feature music by the "Blue Notes", will be held from 8 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Guests are welcome. Refreshments will be served.

AUDIT REPORT

Turning to finances in 1988-89, representatives of Laine Appold & Co., the district's auditing firm, told the board that the district's financial condition is improving.

Company representative Walt Moore stated that overall, the district has improved in terms of its cash position, having ended the 1988-89 year with a $560,000 fund balance, an increase of some $200,000 over the previous year.

Much of the credit goes to an extra $213,000 in revenue from the state stemming from the school's relatively new status as an in-formula district. The additional money also helped offset a loss of property tax revenue due to a $5 million drop in the district's state equalized valuation, he said.

In another finance related matter, the board set the district's 1989 millage rate at 41 mills for operations. The district's 1976 debt retirement levy was set at 4.39 mills, a decrease of .1789 mills from the previous year.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

Also Monday, the board: Briefly discussed a continuing problem of students "cruising" and driving recklessly near the high school. Thies remarked that warnings have served only to prompt the offenders to re-route themselves to another part of town. "It's like talking to a deaf wall," he said. "They've got the idea that this is an inalienable right."

Kretschmer, who suggested that the best solution might be to get area law enforcement agencies directly involved, said he would check further into the situation.

*Heard a report from Kirby regarding replacement of pipe and boiler insulation at the high school following asbestos removal over the summer. Kirby stated that due to cooler weather coming sooner than anticipated, he has contracted with Ivey Industries Inc., Saginaw, to replace the insulation at a cost of $6,336.

*Agreed to continue a lease agreement with Gettel Co., Pigeon, for 2 mowers at a total cost of $850, an increase of $75 from the previous year.

*Decided to again seek bids for the purchase of one or more school buses.

*Tabled final approval of a revised student handbook pending review of the document by individual board members.

*Approved the selection of senior Krista Grassmann as the high school's "student of the month" for October.

*Accepted certificates of appreciation in commemoration of School Board Appreciation Week as declared by Gov. James J. Blanchard.

Medicine Delays Onset of AIDS

U.S. government researchers recently announced that AZT, the only drug approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration for the treatment of AIDS, significantly delays the onset of the disease in those who exhibit early symptoms. Until now it has been thought that the drug was helpful only in patients who experienced the more advanced symptoms of AIDS. According to recent news releases, AZT has been shown to slow the multiplication of the AIDS virus in persons who experience the first symptoms of the disease - diarrhea, fungal infection of the mouth, or a rash. Early detection of the AIDS virus now means that treatment can begin earlier for many patients.

AZT treatment is a very expensive (approximately $8000 per year), and not all AIDS patients are able to obtain access to the drug. According to a recent report in American Medical News, an estimated 30,000 individuals are taking AZT. With the new finding, it is thought that as many as 200,000 could benefit from use of the drug. An estimated one to one and a half million people living in the United States are thought to be infected with the AIDS virus, most of whom are without symptoms.

Board debates residency

Price increases set at school

There was little official action by the Cass City School Board Monday night at the high school in a meeting devoted to policy changes that are expected to be enacted at the November meeting of the board.

When they are, prices charged for services, admission fees to school athletic contests, salaries paid to substitute teachers and fees paid for work will be increased.

Expect ticket prices to rise to $2.50 at the gate and $2.00 in a pre-game sale, an increase of 50 cents.

Workers at games will receive a 10 percent salary raise, with the top fee to become $13.50 for working as a timer at varsity and junior varsity basketball games, up from $12.00. Most other workers will receive $10 per hour under the new schedule. Gate keepers are paid $4.25 per hour and the head gate keeper, $5.75 per hour.

Substitute teacher salaries will increase from $45 to $50 a day and then increase to $60 from $55 after 15 consecutive days and be retroactive to the first day. Substitutes from Bay and Saginaw counties will be paid $4 additional for extra travel expense.

Fees for Campbell, Deford and Evergreen schools use will be jumped from $3 to $4 plus labor costs and the kitchen fees increased from $1 to $1.50. Also increased are gym fees at Campbell, from $5 to $6.50, and at the high school, from $10 to $13. Extra labor costs will be increased $1 to $4 per hour. It is expected that all of these proposals will be passed at the November meeting without dissent.

STILL PENDING

The board has not reached complete accord on 2 other issues that it faces. The board appears split on whether or not to require the superintendent to live in the district as a requirement for employment.

It appears that Monday night the consensus was that while it is strongly advised, making it a board policy might cause difficulty in certain instances.

Supt. Ken Micklash reported a survey that he took of 31 schools about the size of Cass City revealed that the majority had a residency requirement for the superintendent. Also considered was a proposal to have all administrators live in the district. That was quickly discarded.

Both issues will be considered at the November meeting and one adopted.

Smoking could be a hot issue at the school in the weeks ahead. A proposed policy change to make the school's policy book reflect the rules in effect, resulted in a review of the smoking quarters for teachers.

The concern is that the smoking room fills with smoke and teachers allergic to smoke could not use the facility. Micklash told the board that this had been a concern of the school administration for many years.

There just is no room in the school, he said, to have smoking and non-smoking separate rooms. We have a no smoking area in the lounge but it is ineffective because the room is so small, Micklash admitted.

Although the board is not ready to ban smoking in the lounge, several steps will be taken to help the situation. One is to buy a machine that "eats" the smoke and another is to be sure that the fan in the lounge is working effectively.

There is no smoking in Deford or Evergreen schools, while smoking will continue to be allowed in the Campbell Elementary and the Intermediate buildings.

It's probable that smoking could be eliminated at the Intermediate School

Identify remains found in park

Human remains found late last month near Indianfields Township Park belong to a Saginaw teen who walked away from what was then the State Hospital for Epileptics in Caro, and never returned.

Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern made the announcement Thursday after the remains were examined by anthropology and forensics experts at MSU, and Det. Sgt. Larry Walker of the sheriff's department completed his investigation.

It was more than Kern had expected to learn about the skeleton, which lay undisturbed in a shallow grave south of the park for nearly 40 years.

Kern said the boy, Richard Hudson, born Sept. 27, 1935, had been admitted to the state hospital July 6, 1950.

"He walked away with another young man Aug. 13, 1950, at 4:30 in the afternoon," he continued, adding the other boy returned alone a couple of hours later.

Officials conducted several searches both following the disappearance and in the following year, but without success, the sheriff said.

The mystery was uncovered nearly 3 weeks ago by Paul Tacey, assistant manager of the township park, which borders the hospital (now called the Caro Regional Center) about 3 miles southwest of Caro. Tacey was walking along a foot path south of the park Sept. 29 when he discovered a skull.

After examining the remains, Dr. Norm Sauer of Michigan State University estimated the age of the skeleton at between 14 and 16 years.

While the sheriff's department had been following leads on several unsolved missing person cases dating back 30 to 40 years, that information was a turning point, according to Kern, who remarked, "At that point, we channeled all our efforts" towards this case.

"He had some bone deformities. That helped in identifying him," Kern explained. He said teeth found at the grave site were badly worn, which concurs with record accounts that state the boy had as many as 10 seizures a day, causing him to grind his teeth.

Also, buttons found at the site belonged to a uniform of sorts worn by patients at the hospital back then.

Kern theorized that Hudson might have had a seizure and died of exposure or drowning. The area where the body was found - state-owned land given to the township to develop walking trails about 10 years ago - was very swampy at the time the boy disappeared.

Kern attributed the successful investigation to a cooperative effort by MSU officials, Walker and Caro Regional Center officials.

He declined to release any information about Hudson's family, but said the boy's mother, now 95, still resides in Saginaw.

"It was a relief for the family," Kern commented. "Almost for 39 years the family has heard her say, 'I wonder if they'll find Richard.'"

Help! Cupboard bare at Community Food Closet

Workers at the Cass City Community Food Closet are beginning to feel a lot of empathy for old Mother Hubbard.

As winter and the accompanying holiday season draw near, officials are asking for cash and food donations to keep the local emergency food program going.

"Our supplies are now the lowest they have been since it was opened," Carol LaPonsie remarked. "If you go down there, there are some lovely shelves, (but) we don't have much there."

The community food closet has helped more than 260 families since it was opened in the basement of the First Baptist Church, Cass City, in March 1983, according to LaPonsie, who along with Edsel and Fern Connell distribute various foodstuffs from the closet.

"This is a community program. We started working with the social services people and then it just broadened after that recession period" of the early 1980s, she explained.

She added the program was implemented to help those without a steady income, persons who are on welfare but are having a hard time making ends meet and those who face a one-time financial emergency. The closet isn't designed to provide all the needs of recipients throughout the year.

"We like to limit (a person's visits to the closet) to 4 times a year unless they have special permission to come back," she said.

LaPonsie noted the program is administered by the Human Development Commission, Caro, which normally provides roughly two-thirds of the food given away each year to area needy individuals and families.

The closet remains a community effort, however, and churches as well as other groups and individuals have been faithful in the past with donations.

Unfortunately, both local and HDC donations are down at a time when the demand is typically the greatest due to the start of school, higher heating costs and the upcoming holidays, LaPonsie said.

Persons interested in donating can give either cash or food. Needed items include canned fruits, vegetables and meats (no home-canned items), boxed milk, macaroni, soup and sauces, she noted, adding, "Anything, really, would be appreciated."

Persons interested in obtaining food are asked to go to the church, located at 6420 Houghton St., Tuesday mornings between 9 and 11:30 a.m.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 872-3155 or 872-3314.

Allergy battle won, little Jesse becomes Foundation poster boy

It isn't unusual for a youngster to come down with a cold or develop an infection of one kind or another occasionally. It's a part of life most parents expect to have to deal with as their children grow.

But what if that cold or infection never seems to completely go away?

What if countless visits to the doctor and weeks and months of antibiotics don't have any lasting effect on a child whose sick days far outnumber his/her healthy ones?

Deford residents Becky and Joe Hillaker and their 7-year-old son, Jesse, can answer all those questions in 3 words - It's a nightmare.

Jesse, a second grader at Deford Elementary School, fought one illness after another during the first 4 years of his young life. Then, a near fatal bout with viral pneumonia led doctors to determine the youth has a host of allergies which have brought on a severe case of bronchial asthma.

Today, thanks to treatment, Jesse is fully enjoying life like any normal, energetic 7-year-old.

His success story hasn't gone unnoticed by the health profession. Early this year Jesse was selected as the official poster child for the Michigan Chapter of the Asthma and Allergy Foundation of America, a title he will hold throughout 1990.

The honor has been exciting for the area family, which is winning its fight against what doctors referred to as "the cold that doesn't go away."

FOUNDATIONS

According to Becky, the fight began only 8 months after Jesse's birth, when he caught his first cold. Although doctors had told Becky that her son would likely have problems with asthma, she indicated she had no idea what the next 4 years would be like.

"He has been sick almost since birth with bronchial asthma, ear infections, sinus infections, throat infections," she said. "He was on cough medicine 4 times a day for 2 years."

"We were going to (the doctor in) Bad Axe every week. It was like our second home."

Throughout those first 4 years or so, doctors tried a number of antibiotics, but the medications did "just enough to keep him going," Becky recalled, adding, "He wasn't getting any better."

"It was just to the point where it was getting steadily worse," she said of when Jesse came down with pneumonia 2 1/2 years ago. Although serious, the illness marked a turning point for the family.

SERIES OF TESTS

That's when Jesse was referred to the Bay Allergy Clinic in Bay City, where doctors began a series of tests to determine what causes his allergic reactions.

"They came up with a bundle," Becky noted. The list, she said, included dust mites, mold, grass, pollen - a number of things found in and around many households.

After the tests, doctors prescribed a medication inhaler for Jesse's asthma, as well as nasal spray. He also began receiving weekly injections.

"They're injecting him with what he's allergic to to build up his immunities," she explained. Becky pointed out that Jesse is undergoing a 3- to 5-year program designed to eliminate his allergic reactions altogether.

The process hasn't been cheap.

In the first year of treatment, Jesse had shots ($13 each) in 40 of 52 weeks. Becky noted that at times, her son has been on 4 different types of medication 4 times a day. In one year, she said, Jesse's total prescription bill equaled the cost of his doctor visits.

Fortunately, the frequency and number of medications has since dropped as his immunities become stronger. More importantly, Jesse has learned what it's like to simply feel good.

FEEL BETTER

"When I started getting the shots, I felt much better," he
