Kingston camp illegal

Koylton board decision

The Koylton Township Zoning Board of Appeals issued a formal decision against Kingston Hills Camp, home of the state's first "work and learn" camp, Monday night.

The 3-member appeals board voted 2-1 during a brief session Monday.

Two of the board members, Louis Haase and Chairman Roxan Schell, cast votes indicating they're convinced the operation of a "work and learn" camp at Kingston Hills Camp is in violation of township zoning laws as charged by the township's Zoning Board. The third appeals board member, Connie Benedict, indicated she believes the use does not constitute a violation.

Attorneys representing the camp and Pioneer Work and Learn Center, which operates the "work and learn" facility, are expected to petition for a review of the decision by Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn.

Monday's formal vote comes nearly 11 weeks after the board issued a preliminary opinion on an identical 2-1 vote.

At issue in the case is whether the use of Kingston Hills Camp as a year-round rehabilitation facility for juvenile delinquents represents an illegal expansion of the camp's non-conforming use status.

Zoning officials say it does. The camp was "grandfathered" into the township's 1972 zoning ordinance as a summer recreational camp, according to officials, who say the "work and learn" program bears little resemblance to a "boy-girl summer camp."

Camp officials, however, argue the intended use of the camp facilities has not changed with the "work and learn" program, which began operations in October

Currently the camp is home to up to 50 male juvenile delinquents, ages 14 to 17 years, who undergo an intense 6-month rehabilitation program that combines school and vocational training with outdoor wilderness experiences. Only youths convicted of non-violent crimes are accepted into the program.

Attorneys for both sides could not be reached for comment prior to press time, but both have repeatedly said they're prepared to take the case all the way to the state Supreme Court.

School seeks 21.9 tax renewal, bans smoking

The Cass City School Board voted Monday at its regular meeting held at Deford School to ask for a renewal of 21.9 mills for 3 years for operation of the school. The question will be presented at the regular school election June 12.

Supt. Ken Micklash told the board that in a "worst case" scenario the renewal, together with the allotted 9 mills, would be enough to get the district by living off the fund balance.

That's not likely to happen, as the budget projects the fund balance at the end of this year to increase some $227,000. With inflation and if student enrollment should fall and state aid were frozen, Micklash said that it's possible that the district could dip into the fund for up to $300,000 in the 1990-91 year. What is more likely to happen is that the renewal will be ample to keep the district in good financial shape, especially if state funding increases.

Micklash also pointed out that expenses would increase because the district needs to buy 3 new buses. Bids for the buses were opened at the meeting.

Nine bids were received; most quoting both gas and diesel buses. The board deliberated briefly about changing from gas to diesel, but vetoed the switch when it was disclosed that Chevrolet was expected to stay in the bus business with a new engine.

McFadden Corporation, which handles Wayne body buses that the school now uses, was low bidder for the 3 buses with a total cost of $78,725, which was $5,242.21 less per unit than diesel. However, diesel buses are projected for 10 years' service, while gas buses are phased out after 7 years.

Board members said that diesel will remain an option to be looked at when the next bus or buses are bought.

SMOKING BAN

Last month Deford and Evergreen schools became no smoking buildings and Monday, at the request of the teachers and aides, the Intermediate School has been added. That leaves just the high school and Campbell Elementary School with a designated smoking area.

It appears that these 2 schools will be added to the smoking ban list by the start of the next school year. Elementary Principal Dave Lovejoy read a paragraph from a letter from one of the teachers in the building saying that smoking was more than an inconvenience, it was health threat to her. Lovejoy said that there are several smokers on the staff in his building.

Micklash pointed out that if these buildings were to be smoke free, it would be easier if the new regulations were adopted at the beginning of the school year.

Fortson claims self-defense

Shotgun death follows fight over $300 bill

Murder victim John A. Bulla, Cass City, was trying to collect on a $300 debt he claimed was owed him when he was shot and killed Jan. 6 in Mayville, his brother, Hugh Bulla, testified Monday in Tuscola County District Court.

The man charged with firing the fatal shot, John D. Fortson Jr., 30, of Mayville, meanwhile, claims the shooting was in self defense, according to a statement made to police.

Both items of testimony were heard during Fortson's 2-hour preliminary examination Monday.

Following the exam, district Judge Richard F. Kern ordered Fortson bound over to Tuscola County Circuit Court on a charge of open murder, and denied a motion by his attorney to set bond.

The defendant, who was remanded to the custody of the sheriff, is scheduled for arraignment in circuit court Friday at 9 a.m.

Fortson, a former Cass City resident, gave himself up to police shortly after the 2 p.m. shooting, which occurred at his First Street residence in Mayville. Police found Bulla, who had been shot in the head, lying on a snowbank near a driveway at the residence.

According to Hugh Bulla, John Bulla, 36, had gone to Fortson's home at about 1 p.m. and again about an hour later Jan. 6 to ask Fortson to pay on a $300 debt he said Fortson owed him on the sale of a vehicle.

Bulla said he and 2 others accompanied the victim on the first visit. He said the group then left the residence and went out for "a couple of beers", and then he and his brother later returned together.

At that time, John Bulla asked a man who was visiting Fortson to go in the residence and ask if he (Bulla) could collect on the loan, Bulla said, adding the man went inside and minutes later a shot, which killed the victim, was fired from within the house.

A second shot was fired moments later, according to Bulla, who stated he then ran from the residence to call police.

Bulla said his brother didn't threaten Fortson, and that neither of them had weapons in their possession.

However, Fortson, in a statement made to police, claimed he saw Bulla load and aim a gun at him just prior to the shooting, according to testimony.

Fortson's mother-in-law testified that after the first alleged confrontation between Fortson and Bulla, Fortson called the police and stated there were 4 men with guns at his home and that he needed assistance.

After the Bullas had returned, she said she briefly looked out a window and saw John Bulla put his hand inside his jacket as if to reach for a gun. She said Fortson, who had loaded the 12-gauge shotgun, moments later stated that Bulla had a gun and was aiming at him.

Aside from Fortson's statement, no witnesses said they saw any firearms other than Fortson's 12-gauge, and investigators to date have been unable to find any other guns.

Concentration camp survivor

Lydia Stack won't visit liberated Czech homeland

It's been more than 4 decades since Lydia Stack fled her homeland of Czechoslovakia with her mother and grandmother to escape the Communist rule that was coming into power.

The Cass City area resident never returned, fearing government officials would learn she was born there and prevent her from leaving again.

Now, sweeping reforms have re-opened the door to Czechoslovakia.

Only 2 weeks ago officials of the new government announced an unprecedented amnesty program in which some 23,000 prisoners — two-thirds of the country's prison population — will be freed.

Despite the reforms, Stack, who was born in Karlsbad (about 70 miles from the German border) in 1925, has little desire to return to her native land.

"I don't want to see it the way it is now. I like to believe it is still the way it was," she recently remarked. "A lot of things have disappeared; a lot of beautiful things."

Stack recalled the classic architecture of homes and cathedrals in her homeland, many of which have since been destroyed. She remembers the green forests and hills, and the classical music which made her homeland a unique and beautiful place to live.

"It was gorgeous. It was the place to live," she said. Stack pointed out that as a teenager growing up in Czechoslovakia, she knew something even more valuable, something many of her countrymen never experienced until just recently.

"I grew up in freedom — we weren't denied anything. To me this was the biggest thing," she continued.

"You live and you let live. The whole country was like this before the Communists took over. When they took over, they took everything; you were nothing anymore."

GENUINE

Stack's intense respect and love of being free are genuine, perhaps because she knows, better than most, what it's like to lose her freedom.

Only 14 years old when Hitler's forces took over in 1939, she was placed in a concentration camp 4 years later after refusing to take part in the German war effort.

fort.

"I refused to work in a munitions factory," Stack explained. "You don't believe in killing, so you don't work in a munitions factory."

"Nobody can believe it; I don't even know what to say about it," she said of the conditions at Ravensbrueck, the largest women's concentration camp at the time, located north of Berlin.

"Mind you, we had nothing to wear. You were lucky if you had underwear, and you had wooden shoes like the Dutch," she recalled. "You had nothing for hygienic purposes, no towels, no warm water. They didn't give you gloves or something for your head."

COLD

"The hunger was something terrible," Stack continued. Please turn to page 10.

ALTHOUGH FAR FROM her homeland, Czechoslovakia, Lydia Stack (above) is very much at home at her Lamton Road residence, where she and husband, Milton, operate an animal shelter housing 150 cats and more than 124 dogs.

Board reviews league options

The Cass City School Board is keeping all of its options open in the continuing problem of membership in the Thumb B Association or the Thumb C League.

The board voted Monday night at its regular session at Deford to send a letter to the president of the Thumb C League to confirm that it is still interested in entering that league.

The board also responded to a letter from Laker High saying that members would be interested in attending a meeting of all Thumb C Schools that is proposed by the Lakers to discuss the athletic league. The Lakers have asked all boards of education of the class C Thumb schools to attend.

Meanwhile Athletic Director Don Schelke said that a meeting of the Thumb B Association athletic directors revealed that letters will be sent to other class B Schools to enter its league.

If Mayville votes Thursday night to approve the resolution to accept Bad Axe and Marlette from the Thumb B, they will be eligible to join the Thumb C if their respective boards approve.

That would leave 6 schools in the Thumb B, and is a scheduling headache. The Thumb C would have 9 schools, which also presents scheduling problems.

Board members said that

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lash were in Lake Orion Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brandenburg to help their son Wayne celebrate his 16th birthday.

Meg's Peg

I'm fine

by Melva E. Guinther

The Don Whittenburgs passed along this humorous commentary, by an unknown author, on the "joys" of maturity.

I'M FINE

There's nothing on earth the matter with me. I'm just as healthy as I can be. I have arthritis in both my knees. And when I talk, I talk with a wheeze. My pulse is weak and my blood is thin. But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

My teeth will eventually have to come out. And my diet I hate to talk about. I'm overweight and I can't get thin. But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

Arch supports I have for my feet. Or I wouldn't be able to go on the street. Sleep is denied me night after night. And every morning I'm a sight.

My memory is failing, my head's in a spin. But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

The moral is, as the tale we unfold, That for you and me, who're growing old, It's better to say, "I'm fine" with a grin Than to let them know the shape we're in.

How do I know that my youth has been spent? 'Cause my get up and go has got up and went.

Surplus food distribution set Thursday

The Human Development Commission will sponsor a Surplus Commodity Distribution Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the Cass City Village Park, Cass City; Tuscola County Fairgrounds in Caro, and the Ivan Middleton Hall, Fairgrounds, Vassar.

Due to the volume of commodities, individuals are asked to bring cardboard boxes to carry their commodities.

Individuals must report to the distribution site, in person, and present their Surplus Commodity Registration Card. Persons who are unable physically to go to the distribution site themselves, may have someone pick up their commodities provided the registration card is shown.

Surplus Commodity Cards can be obtained from the County HDC Offices. Persons are asked to call for an appointment.

The commodities have been made available to the Human Development Commission, the local Community Action Agency serving Huron, Lapeer, Sanilac and Tuscola Counties, from the Federal Government and are intended for personal consumption by eligible low income families.

Lutheran Women elect officers

The Ladies Aid of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church met Monday, Jan. 8. The meeting opened with a reading by Eloise Dorsch.

Mites were collected for Lutheran Women's Missionary League and officers were elected for 1990. They are president, Lois Moslander; vice-president, Betty Fuller; secretary, Tina Hoard; treasurer, Connie McNaughton, and Christian Growth chairmen, Donna Schuette and Joann Guinther.

A soup supper is planned in February to raise money for new paraments for the altar, pulpit and lectern.

A luncheon was served by hostesses Eloise Dorsch, Connie McNaughton and Sue Kidney.

Marriage Licenses

Allan Duane Witbrodt, Bay City, and Lynda Marie Parsell, Caro.

Brian Keith Willoughby, Vassar, and Danyell Freda Cook, Otter Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Russell Parrish

Brenda Sue Severance and Kevin Russell Parrish exchanged vows Saturday, Nov. 4, 1989, in a 1:00 o'clock candlelight ceremony at the Shabbona United Methodist Church.

The bride chose a white bridal satin gown with Chantilly accents, styled with a Queen Anne neckline and long Edwardian sleeves. The bodice and skirt front were adorned with Venice lace medallions and iridescents. The Chantilly lace train was edged with wide satin ruffles and the skirt featured a tiered ruffled hemline. Her hand-rolled silk veil was held by a pearl band and designed with a filament pouf and white silk flowers.

Matron of honor, Becky Rule of Marquette, and the attendants, Sherry Bader and Kim Dorland of Cass

City, wore tea length royal blue gowns of lace over taffeta and carried single white roses.

Best man was Ron Parrish of Deford. Groomsmen were Dan Gilliam of Deford and Dave Dorland of Cass City. They wore black pin-stripe tuxes accented with royal blue ties and cummerbunds.

Zachary Dorland, wearing a white suit, was ringbearer. Lyle Severance of Decker and Scott Marshall of Cass City were ushers, wearing black tuxes.

A dinner reception followed the ceremony at the Novesta Church of Christ Fellowship Hall.

Parents of the couple are Leslie and Kay Severance of Decker, Linda Parrish of Port Huron and Russell Parrish of Cass City.

"If It Fitz..."

Ask a sports pundit

By Jim Fitzgerald

According to sports pundits, there's a chance Bo Schembechler will replace retiring Jim Campbell as president of the Detroit Tigers. Also a chance George Perles will leave Michigan State University for another job if he isn't allowed to be MSU athletic director as well as football coach.

Because Schembechler is a good friend of Tiger owner Tom Monaghan, no one seems startled that Bo might switch from football to baseball. No one seems concerned that a man who's spent his entire career coaching football might not be qualified to run a baseball team.

But what if Jim Campbell were a good friend of University of Michigan President James Duderstadt, and it were proposed that Campbell leave baseball — his lifetime occupation — to become coach of the Michigan football team? There would surely be a lot of loud questions asked about Campbell's football qualifications and Duderstadt's sanity.

What does this apparent contradiction indicate?

FACING TANTRUMS AFTER NAPS

It indicates that if Schembechler's retirement, Billy Martin's death and the U.S. invasion of Panama had all occurred on the same Tuesday, readers of Detroit's 2 daily newspapers wouldn't have read anything about the invasion until they somehow found the Exotic Food and International Dateline Section, wherever the hell that might be on a Wednesday.

Not really. I'm only kidding to keep from sobbing.

Actually, Jim Campbell always watches Tiger games through the one-way window in his enclosed private box behind first base. No one in the crowd or watching on television can see Campbell's reactions to the action on the field, although it is popularly believed that last season, from June until October, he slept.

The idea of moving Schembechler into Campbell's box is so Bo could respond in secret to alleged mistakes made by his players and the umpires. He would be able to jump, yell curses and fall on the floor without anyone seeing him and asking: "How did such a fool get to be president of the Tigers?"

But wait. Some sports pundits insist it's unfair to judge Schembechler by his childish tantrums. They say Bo should be remembered as a coach who ran a successful program without breaking recruiting rules. "That should be his legacy. That he did it without cheating," one sports pundit wrote.

Of course. Let's not hear any nonsense about taking honesty for granted, a trait that should come naturally to a university coach and most other human beings. When a bank president retires, give him a banquet and praise him for not stealing any money.

CRYING FOUL ON JOB SEARCH

Anyway, Jim Campbell could never coach at U-M because he graduated from dratted Ohio State sometime around the end of the Civil War. Jim recently built plush homes in Dearborn and Florida and deserves a quiet, golf-filled retirement, far removed from the temptation to remark that a baseball championship can't be delivered in 30 minutes by a novice delivery boy, not even if he's the boss' all-time supreme jock idol.

As for George Perles, you might say he has no right to be interviewing for another job — which he admits doing — because he signed a 10-year contract with MSU 2 years ago. It was that practically lifetime pact that kept Perles from then switching to Green Bay.

What kind of an example is it for a leader of young men to break his word? If MSU fired Perles before his contract was up, the university (taxpayers) would surely compensate him with many dollars. If Perles bugs out on the last 8 years of his contract, how will he compensate the university? Leave behind a baggy green sweat-shirt?

If you ask those dumb questions, you've probably forgotten what happened when Perles was hired in 1983. MSU paid $19,000 to a Philadelphia law firm for arranging a $175,000 payoff to quash a $1-million lawsuit filed by Perles' ex-employers against MSU for luring Perles into breaking his contract with them.

So what else is new? Ask a sports pundit; I've got a headache.

7 on GLJC honors list

Seven area residents are among the students recently named to the president's list at Great Lakes Junior College for the fall 1989 term.

The area students are Marilyn Trueman of Cass City, Linda Draper-Sadler of Decker, Deborah Czewski of Gagetown, Sally Draschil of Owendale and Katherine O'Dell, Bill Sattelberg and Tanya Warner, all of DeFord.

In order to be named to the president's list, students must achieve a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

THUMB CPR INSTRUCTION pioneer Frank Kroswek, Caro, was honored Thursday for his years of volunteer service to the American Heart Association. Attending the brief ceremony in Cass City were (from left) American Heart Association Regional Director Catherine Miller, Huron County Sheriff Mike Gage, Kroswek, Tuscola County Undersheriff James Fyvie, Michigan Heart Association Thumb Advisory Council Chairman Jane Mitchell and Dr. Elfrieda Conrad.

Thumb CPR pioneer

Kroswek honored for work

Members of the Thumb Advisory Council of the Michigan Heart Association honored Frank Kroswek, Caro, Thursday for more than 30 years of volunteer service with the American Heart Association.

Kroswek is known as the father of CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) instruction in the Thumb.

"Frank was a pioneer in the Thumb area, getting CPR started," Jane Mitchell, chairman of the Thumb Advisory Council, remarked. "He in the past has done volunteer work for the Red Cross and the heart association both."

Kroswek, a former long-time county civil defense director, has been chairman of CPR training services in Tuscola County since the early 1960s, according to Mitchell, who said he is now passing that role on to Tuscola County Undersheriff James Fyvie.

Kroswek, who also is an affiliate faculty member of the American Heart Association, will continue to serve as a member of the Thumb Advisory Council, Mitchell said.

Glen Skrent promoted to sergeant

Tuscola County Sheriff's Deputy Glen Skrent recently was promoted to the rank of sergeant. Sgt. Skrent has been employed by the Tuscola County Sheriff Department since Sept. 5, 1978, and has worked in both corrections and patrol.

Sgt. Glen Skrent

The new sergeant is married to the former Angie Houghton of Cass City and they have 2 children, Amanda, 6 and Rebecca, 3.

Sgt. Skrent is a former Cass City policeman and has a Bachelor's degree in Criminal Justice from Ferris State College.

Sgt. Skrent and his family reside on Rossman Road, Caro.

The Haire Net

Here's the right slant on this and that as seen from the all-encompassing view from the corner of Main and Oak Streets.

Did the post office closing Monday for Martin Luther King Day catch you by surprise, too? It's a federal holiday and an excuse for everyone that can wrangle it for a day off.

We understand from one of the wives of a worker at a General Motors plant that they get off for King's tribute. Only their day off is postponed until summer when it's nice to get away from it all...including a respect for this late national leader.

It's not news these days, I suppose, but it does stir nostalgic yearnings for one of the better facets of the good ol' days. That is the relative absence of crime here during the 1950's when I first arrived compared to today.

At that time Cass City had one police officer who worked about 50 hours a week and his principal duty was trying doors of Main Street merchants to see if they were unlocked.

Incidents like last week's reported ransacking of the Clark Boylan home simply were unheard of.

There was more concern for all neighbors in this simpler time. We can recall merchants refusing to handle a product because his neighbor down the street handled it and he didn't want to interfere.

As I said, times were different then.

There is still a long shot chance that Cass City High School will not be excluded in the new Thumb C Conference. When the new alignment agreed to by a league committee was announced, Cass City and Lakerville were excluded while all other "C" size Thumb schools were admitted.

The agreement has to be finalized by the various school boards of the 6 schools that now comprise the league.

The board at Unionville-Sebewaing Area Schools has refused to approve the merger as proposed. So has Harbor Beach. A no vote by any of the remaining 4 schools would reject the proposal and the reorganization would be back to square one.

The boards are not against reorganization. What kind is the question. Some members want all 11 schools in the league, others want a 10-team league instead of the 9 teams that would be members under the present proposal.

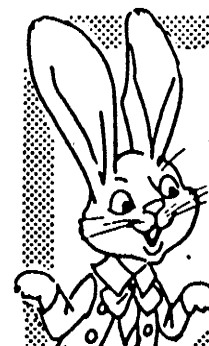

Already agreed to the new league line-up are 3 teams: Reese, Sandusky and Ubly. The decisive vote is scheduled Thursday at Mayville. A no kills the issue; a yes puts the teams in the league if their respective boards approve the proposition.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

You have to live in Michigan the year around to get the true benefit of a gorgeous day like we enjoyed Monday. In addition, the humidity wasn't high and at midday it was comfortable walking with just a suit coat. Take that, all you Florida snowbirds.

Most of the predictions presented in this column of trivia from the GTE's "2001 Imagine the Possibilities", are presented because the prediction is, at the very least, a subject of doubt and, at most, really far out.

So here's a switch. We present a succinct statement that we feel is not open to serious debate:

"In 2001, the world population will exceed 6 billion."

Not only is that true, but it's really scary, too. Think about it.

In the past year 2 restaurants have been opened in the Thumb into which owners have poured relatively big bucks to provide a unique dining experience. The pair are Greenfields in Pigeon and J. J. Jamokes in Caro.

Both offer a varied menu comparable to those found in better restaurants in the urban area.

The quality is also comparable and the prices comparable or, in many cases, less than those in the city.

Restaurants like these have had rough sledding in the Thumb in the past. But things are changing. When the '80's began, there were no fast food outlets either, but look at us now.

For the food-aholic Haires, restaurants like these are a welcome addition to the Thumb scene.

Congressman Traxler to appoint congressional page

Congressman Bob Traxler (D-Bay City) recently announced he will be appointing a congressional page to work on Capitol Hill during the 1990-1991 school year.

Applications are available from congressman Traxler's Washington, Bay City, and Saginaw offices. The application deadline is March 15.

Final selection will be made by a panel of area educators from Saginaw Valley State University.

"Serving as a page is a wonderful way to gain first-hand knowledge of the workings of our federal government," Traxler said. "I'm happy to be able to give 2 students from the 8th Congressional District this opportunity.

Traxler will appoint the students, one for each semester, to serve as pages. Page duties consist primarily of the delivery of small packages and correspondence within the congressional complex. A rotation system is practiced so that each page will have the opportunity to work within various areas.

While serving as a page, students will attend the page school, which is located in the Library of Congress. The first semester runs from early September through the end of January. The second semester lasts from the beginning of February to mid-June. School begins at 6:45 a.m. and usually ends at 10 a.m.

The page school is accredited by the Middle Atlantic Association of Schools and Colleges. There are opportunities to do independent study and the page school will individually contract with students to do additional work in a specific course area that will qualify that course as an honors course.

Under the House Rules, candidates must be high school juniors while serving as pages and have maintained a 3.0 academic grade point average for the 9th and 10th grades. If grading is on a numerical scale, the GPA must be at least .85.

When the page school evaluates an individual's application, only English, math, science, social studies and foreign language courses are considered in determining the grade point average.

In addition to getting excellent exposure and academic training, pages are currently compensated at a rate of approximately $900 per month. Housing is provided in the Page Residence Hall, located 2 blocks from the Capitol.

The cost of housing is $300 a month and includes a meal plan. This payment is made through an automatic payroll deduction.

"Pigs For Profit" meetings set

"Pigs For Profit" will be the theme for Extension swine meetings Thursday.

The meetings will be at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the Huron Area Skill Center, Bad Axe, and the County Conference Room in Sandusky, respectively.

New producers, established producers and agribusinessmen are encouraged to attend. Dr. Beth Ellen Doran, Sanilac and Huron County Livestock agent, said.

Dr. Dale Purkiser, Extension Swine Specialist from Cassopolis, will be discussing the opportunities for profitability with a swine enterprise. Potential inputs and returns with various swine management systems will be featured.

This meeting will address questions for established swine producers who are contemplating expansion and new producers who might be thinking about starting a swine enterprise, according to Doran, who said agribusinessmen supporting the swine industry will have the opportunity to discuss profitability and expansion in the industry.

"Peer review"

Visiting home economist educators review Cass City's home ec. program

The consumer home economics program at Cass City High School was the subject of a thorough review last week by a group of visiting home economist educators. The visit, conducted Friday, was arranged in conjunction with the Michigan Consumer Home Economics Standards Project, which is geared to help schools evaluate consumer home economics programs using standards set by the state Board of Education. The project's "peer review" is designed to help teachers accurately assess and make recommendations for program improvement.

Schools considered for participation in the review program are first approved by the state. Only 2 schools — Cass City and North Huron — were approved in the upper Thumb.

According to Joanne Long, a consumer home economics consultant with the state Department of Education, the selection of Cass City Schools was prompted by veteran high school teacher Katie Jackson's "known consumer home economics leadership efforts and professional dedication."

The "peer review" team met Friday with Jackson to discuss the consumer home economics program. They also met with Cass City School administrators and counselors, and toured school buildings.

The team was composed of Long and Joyce Miller, both with the state Department of Education; Dr. Liz Hitch and Pat Palmer, both from Central Michigan University, and Wanita Kampmueller, a consumer home economics teacher from Merrill High School.

Weighmaster reports trucking violations up

Out-of-county commercial truckers were largely responsible for an increase in trucking violations in Tuscola County in 1989.

That's according to Tuscola County Weighmaster Richard L. Letts Jr., whose annual report, released Thursday, cites an increase in the number of overweight violations, citations and the number of arrests in 1989, compared to the year before.

In 1989 there were 292 commercial vehicles inspected on Tuscola County roadways that were found to have 238 serious and dangerous violations ranging from being overweight to having defective brakes.

Of the 292 vehicle inspected, only about 55 were found to have only minor or no violations.

Commercial trucking was responsible for the most serious incidents, according to Letts, who pointed out a decrease in the number of serious violations and incidents of overweight hauling among farm-related vehicles.

"Many serious violations are being committed by out of county truckers," he said. "Most local farm and commercial truckers are now doing a fine job and make up most of the approximately 55 trucks that were found to have minor or no violations."

Letts noted he weighed 60 trucks in 1989 that were a combined 536,940 pounds overweight.

"County weighmaster patrols put on 17,962 miles, finding the largest overweight of some 42,000 pounds over the lawful maximum on Juniata Township's Kirk Road," he stated, adding, "More trucks were found this year with defective brakes, with some trucks (approximately one-third) having over 75 percent of their brakes out of working condition."

Other 1989 statistics included in the report are: 5 persons arrested and assistance given to the road commission 23 times. The weighmaster dealt with the court and prosecutor a total of 44 separate times.

Also, one industrial waste hauler was cited for allowing his tank truck to spill its contents out both sides of the tank in fairly large amounts. While violations were up last year over 1988, Letts also had some good news.

"We are winning the war on unnecessary road damage. When I started as weighmaster 6 years ago I was finding about 1.4 million pounds of overloads and today that has been cut by over half. Also, the number of truck operators who fail to pay (the proper or any at all in many cases) their road use tax (registration fee) has been reduced in the last 6 years by about 75 percent."

The weighmaster concluded, "The savings to the county and state in road damage and human life has certainly increased these last 6 years due to fair, efficient enforcement of the truck weight and safety laws."

THE REV. RICK Sheppard, above with his wife, Sandy, and the couple's children, Christine, 7, and Scott, 5, recently began a new ministry as pastor of the Trinity United Methodist Church in Cass City.

New Trinity U.M. pastor

Rev. Rick Sheppard and family welcomed to area

The Rev. Rick Sheppard and his family have lived in Cass City for only a short time, but the new pastor says he and his wife, Sandy, and their children, Christine, 7, and Scott, 5, feel very welcome in the community.

"It's the warmest welcome we've ever received at a church and we're impressed with that," he remarked Thursday.

Sheppard is the new pastor at Trinity United Methodist Church, 6536 Houghton St. He replaces the Rev. S. Joe Robertson, who was transferred to the Tawas area after serving the local church for a little more than 4 1/2 years.

Originally from Bridgeton, N.J., Sheppard is in his 13th year in the ministry.

He received his education at Asbury College, Kentucky, graduating in 1973, and Asbury Seminary, graduating in 1977.

Sheppard began his ministry as an associate pastor at Saginaw Ames United Methodist Church, Saginaw, where he remained for 4 years before being appointed to serve the Morenci United Methodist Church south of Adrian. After 6 1/2 years, he was appointed to the Livingston Circuit, serving the Trinity and Plainfield United Methodist churches in Livingston County for 2 years, before his appointment to Trinity United Methodist in Cass City.

In his spare time, Sheppard enjoys hunting, fishing and gardening, as well as golf. His wife, also a graduate of Asbury College, is active as a speaker for Christian women's clubs throughout Michigan and enjoys writing for Christian publications.

A former teacher, she was born in India, the daughter of missionaries, but grew up in Kentucky after leaving India with her family at the age of 7.

Reid is named vice commander

Strategic Air Command officials recently announced that Col. James H. Reid has been named vice commander of the 321st Strategic Missile Wing, located near Grand Forks, N.D.

Reid, a graduate of Cass City High School and the University of Michigan, is the son of Donald and Jean Reid, who own and operate a farm near Cass City.

Col. James Reid

He was expected to assume his new responsibilities Jan. 10 at the 321st, which is responsible for maintaining 150 intercontinental ballistic missiles on alert as part of the U.S. nuclear deterrent.

Reid is married to the former Betty Woolsey of Downey, Calif. The couple have 2 children, who will continue attending college in Arlington, Va.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Army Pfc. Scott A. Fisher, son of Arthur and Jean N. Fisher of Daus Rd., Cass City, has arrived for duty in Kaiserslautern, West Germany. His wife, the former Debbie Zawilinski, and son Scott, 4, will join him in Germany.

Three Alma College students from the area are among the 183 students named to Alma's Dean's List for outstanding academic performance during the 1984 fall term. They are Darryl Lesoski of Caro, Brian deBeaubien of Cass City and Susan Gardner of Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Holcomb were visitors Sunday afternoon at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Finkbeiner, at Sebawaing.

A two-inch snowfall whipped by 25 to 35-mile-per-hour winds gave virtually all area students the day off from school Tuesday. With a majority of the winter weather still awaiting area residents, the Cass City Department of Public Works has already hauled away 62 percent more snow off the village streets this winter than they did last year, at the end of January.

TEN YEARS AGO

Cass City native Shirley S. Hendrick has been appointed academic coordinator of continuing education at the Pennsylvania State University College of Business Administration. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith of Third Street.

Seventeen members of the 'Up and Atom' Farm Bureau group and one guest attended the Jan. 14 meeting at the Farm Bureau Building in Caro. The meeting began with a potluck dinner at noon, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. John Graham.

Owendale-Gagetown School District employees may get paid this Friday, which would be the first time since Dec. 7. Whether they are paid then, Supt. Ronald Erickson told the board Monday, depends on how much property tax revenue comes in by Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom O'Be were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rayner at Roseville.

25 YEARS AGO

Edwin McConkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maynard McConkey of Cass City, has earned a Master of Science in electrical engineering from the University of Michigan. McConkey, a 1958 graduate of Cass City High School, received his BS degree from Michigan in 1963.

Cass City firemen were called to 58 fires in 1964, according to Chief Nelson Willy. Twenty-three reported were grass fires. Only fireman to attend every fire was Elwyn Helwig.

Officers at the Cass City State Bank are: M.B. Auten, president; C.M. Wallace, vice-president and cashier; F.B. Auten, vice-president; Irene Stafford, assistant cashier; Gertrude Gray, assistant cashier, and Sherry Seeley, bookkeeper.

A great effort by Ed Retherford Friday was wasted as the Cass City Red Hawks succumbed to a last half rally by the Lakers, 74-67. Retherford hit for 29 points, 21 in the first half.

35 YEARS AGO

W.E. Walpole, president of Walbro Corporation, revealed Tuesday in an address to Cass City Rotarians that the average weekly payroll at the corporation is now about $4,500 and, as of Jan. 15, 84 persons were employed.

Fourteen voters of the Cass City Lutheran Church elected officers for the year Friday evening. Fred Iseler was re-elected president and Wesley Frederick will serve another term as secretary. Arlan Hartwick was named treasurer to replace John Haire. Henry Heck was named an elder of the church and Hazen Guinther, trustee.

Carl A. Palmateer is aboard the USS Ticonderoga, which is scheduled to join the Atlantic Fleet this month. Carl is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Palmateer of Caro. He joined the Navy in December of 1951, after attending Cass City High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Churchill and family entertained at dinner Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Arleon Retherford and children and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Babich and children.

As long as man has been able to write, he has mentioned lettuce as a food.

Mellendorf is honored by DAR

Cass City High School senior Charlene Mellendorf was honored last month by Piety Hill Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), as one of its Good Citizen winners for 1989.

Mellendorf, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Mellendorf, Cass City, received a DAR Good Citizen ship pin, a certificate and a copy of "DAR Landmark" magazine during a tea held in Birmingham to honor students and their parents.

Charlene Mellendorf

The Good Citizen program was started in 1934 to stress the qualities of good citizenship among senior high school students. The qualifications are based on leadership, dependability, service and patriotism.

Local winners, who are chosen by faculty members and their peers, are eligible to participate at the state level. There, one student is chosen to represent Michigan.

Blue Water Youth for Christ concert

The Gagetown Church of the Nazarene will be hosting the Blue Water Youth for Christ choir for an evening of special music Sunday beginning at 6 p.m.

The "Cornerstone" choir is a group of 25 Huron County high school students representing Harbor Beach, Owen-Gage, Lakers and USA High Schools.

The concert is one of about 20 programs the choir will be presenting throughout the year. They will also be presenting concerts in Ohio, Indiana and other parts of Michigan.

The public is invited to the concert. A free will offering will be received, and refreshments will be served.

gan in a divisional contest from which the national winner is named and awarded a $1,000 college scholarship, an engraved silver bowl and an invitation to speak at the annual DAR Continental Congress in Washington, D.C.

Among Mellendorf's past accomplishments and honors are being named "Miss Rotary Youth Exchange" for her work in the Philippines while she was an exchange student there in 1988-89. She was also selected as the "Miss Home-site" Pageant queen of her school in the Philippines.

The area youth's future plans including studying nursing after graduating from Cass City High School.

Youth to bowl against MD

Cass City area youth are going to be bowling against muscular dystrophy later this month, Muscular Dystrophy Association officials announced.

"For the next few weeks, Cass City area youth will be collecting sponsor donations for the fight against neuromuscular disease," MDA Program Coordinator Kimberly Colmer said.

The campaign will end Jan. 27, when the youths are slated to "bowl against dystrophy."

According to Colmer, the funds raised by the youth league will help provide comprehensive programs of patient services for children and adults afflicted with neuromuscular diseases in Tuscola County.

Additional information is available by contacting Colmer at (313) 232-3190.

HEALTH TIPS

Well-balanced diet may improve quality of life

The fastest growing segment of the population today is the older adult — those 65 and over. While there's no scientific evidence that diet prolongs life span, scientists agree that a well-balanced diet may improve the quality of life, and that the aging process may affect nutrient needs. As we age, our energy (calorie) needs decrease because metabolism slows. Eating habits may be adversely affected by psychological factors such as depression and loneliness, physical factors such as chronic diseases and digestive problems and the economics of living on a fixed income.

The National Institute on Aging recommends that the diet include at least 2 servings of milk or other dairy products; 2 servings of high protein foods such as lean meat, poultry, fish or dried beans; 4 servings of fruits and vegetables, including a citrus fruit or juice and a dark green leafy vegetable, and 4 servings of enriched, fortified or whole grain breads and cereals each day.

Because your calorie needs may be lower, make every calorie count. Don't overdo desserts and snack foods that are high in calories but little else. Instead, substitute more "nutrient dense" foods such as yogurt, cheese and whole grain crackers, fresh or dried fruit, puddings and cereal.

Drink 6 to 8 glasses of water a day and eat foods that are high in fiber to avoid constipation. If chewing is a problem, try prune juice or soft stewed fruits. Regular exercise — a walk before lunch or dinner — also aids bowel function.

If your appetite is small, divide daily calories by eating smaller main meals and 2 or 3 substantial snacks.

If you are taking any medication, ask your physician what changes, if any, you need to make in your diet. Some prescriptions can prompt nutrient deficiencies.

Economize. Buy larger size packages of staple foods and share them with a neighbor; buy the store or generic brand; use nonfat dry milk in cooking; extend main dishes with pasta and rice; buy fruits and vegetables in season when they are the most economical; substitute lower cost protein sources (2 ounces cheese, 2 eggs, 1 cup dried peas or beans provide the same amount of protein as 2 ounces of meat).

Save time and energy. Double or triple a favorite recipe and freeze for later meals; stretch the same main ingredient by using 2 days in a row (beef stroganoff one day, strips of beef in a salad the next); share cooking/cleanup chores with a friend; store frequently used foods on shelves you can easily reach; sit while working in the kitchen.

3 sentenced in Tuscola Circuit Court Friday

A 27-year-old Bay City man was sentenced Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court to 2 years to 5 years in prison for his Nov. 27 conviction on a charge of unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle.

The defendant, Ricky J. Aikens, was granted credit on the sentence for time already served.

According to court records, Aikens' offense occurred July 9 in Wisner Township and involved a 1985 Yamaha ORV belonging to Ernest Edwards.

Also sentenced for a conviction of unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle was Andrew Martinez, 38, 1945 Orr Rd., Caro, who pleaded no contest to the charge Nov. 29.

Martinez was sentenced to one year in the county jail, with credit for time served and permission to take part in the work site program, and one year probation. He also was ordered to make restitution and receive counseling for drug and alcohol abuse.

Court records state the defendant was charged with unlawfully driving away a vehicle belonging to Michael Ellsworth Oct. 31 in Caro.

Ugly resident Donna M. Snow, 20, 2626 W. Morrison Rd., received a one-year delayed sentence and was ordered to pay $200 in court costs plus attorneys fees for her Dec. 15 plea of guilty to felonious assault.

Snow was charged with assaulting David Moore with a pistol Nov. 1 in Ellington Township. In other proceedings Friday, 2 persons entered pleas of innocent to separate charges of probation violation.

Michael H. Morey, 18, 2401 Froede Rd., Caro, is charged with violating probation by using marijuana on or about Dec. 30, according to court records, which state his case is to be scheduled for a hearing within 12 days.

The other defendant, Robert A. McIntosh, 20, 7384 Hartman Rd., Owendale, is charged with violating probation by failing to drive directly home after work.

McIntosh's arraignment was continued to Friday. Bond was set at $5,000.

Abuse topic at Trinity meet

Trinity United Methodist Women met Jan. 8 for a noon luncheon, served by group 4 under the leadership of Bea and Helen Baker.

Pauline Hulbert and Elaine Proctor presented the program on "Campaign for Children."

The guest speaker was Beth Howard, social worker for Cass City district elementary schools. Mrs. Howard reported statistics on abused and neglected children. She explained the various programs the schools provide for prevention of abuse and counseling.

Transfer announced

The Michigan Department of State Police recently announced the transfer of several officers, including one to the Sandusky post.

Transferred to Sandusky is Trooper Frederick J. Sweeney, who previously was assigned to duty at the Wayland post. He graduated from recruit school in June 1987.

Charmont Open

C.R. Hunt takes first, $350

Twelve teams competed Saturday for cash prizes at Cass City's Charmont Lanes in the first Charmont Open of 1990.

First place honors went to the team of C.R. Hunt Construction, who went through the double elimination tournament without suffering a loss.

The winning team was composed of local bowlers John Doerr, Bill Shagene, Rick Doerr, Jack Hool and Bob McLachlan.

Herron Builders, another local team, worked their way through the losers' bracket, after their opening match loss to Bake's Kahunas, to runner-up.

In the championship game, C.R. Hunt Construction rolled a team total of 1144 to hand Herron Builders their 2nd defeat in the event as they posted a score of 964.

Shagene (233) and John Doerr (192) paced the winners in the final game as they rolled 36 and 19 pins over their 5 game average in the handicapped tourney.

The winners received $350 for the day.

Herron Builders, who won $200, consisted of Dan Dickinson, Ken Tisco, Don Ouvry, Greg Riccardi and Doug O'Dell.

Bulldogs record first victory the final 3 sets, registering wins of 15-3, 15-5 and shutting out the Cougars in the deciding set 15-0.

"We were just a step behind in the first 2 sets," said Campbell.

Owen-Gage was led by junior Vicki Ricker. Ricker recorded 11 aces on 19 service points to go along with 29 sets and 12 kill assists. Ricker also led her team with 3 critical saves.

But it was far from a one lady show for the defending NCTL champions, a trademark of veteran Coach Campbell's teams.

Aimee Merchant and Stacy Enderle served well, recording 11 and 10 points, respectively, from the service line and combined for 10 aces.

On the front line Lisa Dorsh led the winners with final period after Decker-ville had cleared its bench. The Bulldogs' next game is Friday at home with North Huron. Last Friday's game with Carsonville-Port Sanilac has been rescheduled for Feb. 6.

Corn growers slate meet

The Huron County Corn Growers will conduct their annual meeting Jan. 25 at the Knights of Columbus Hall west of Bad Axe.

The meeting will start at 1:15 p.m. The program, which is open to all interested persons, is cosponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service.

In addition to the annual meeting, Jim LeCureux, Extension Agricultural Agent for Huron County, will review the results of several of the plots conducted in the county this year.

Among the plots to be reviewed are a narrow row comparison; phosphorus reduction; Nitrate Testing Program, and corn, oats and soybean variety trials.

Plans are presently being made for conducting an intensive plot program again in 1990. Goals, procedures and other future plans will be covered during the program.

Mike Bryan, National Corn Growers Staff Ethanol Specialist, will outline the ethanol program goals and highlights.

A market outlook will be given by Jim Hiker, MSU Agricultural Economics Department, who will be looking at the corn, soybean and wheat markets.

The Huron County Corn Growers was the first county affiliate to be organized in Michigan. Currently there are some 100 members in the county association.

Gifted education group sets meet to form chapter

The Tuscola Gifted and Talented Consortium will sponsor an informational parent/educator meeting Jan. 23 at 7 p.m. at the Tuscola Area Skill Center.

The purpose of the meeting will be to form an affiliate chapter of the Michigan

Association for the Academically Talented, Inc. (MAAT). Phyllis Cooley, MAAT representative from Clarkston, will be in attendance to organize the group and answer any questions. Officers will be elected, topics of concern discussed, and a planning committee to work on programs for the year will be formed.

The MAAT group is comprised of a group of concerned citizens of Michigan who, in groups and as individuals, advocate and support state and local efforts to meet the needs of gifted children and their families. By acting as an advocate, parents can help gifted children receive the educational opportunities they need and deserve.

Any person having an interest in gifted education is welcome to attend and may register by calling the Gifted and Talented office (673-2144, Ext. 441 or 439) no later than Friday. There is no charge for attending this meeting.

Organic group schedules meet

The January meeting of the Organic Growers of Michigan is Thursday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at the Detroit Edison Community Center, 1075 Suncrest Drive, Lapeer.

A business meeting and discussion of the year's agenda and programs will precede a growers forum and exchange of ideas.

Quick Caro pressing defense too much for Hawks, 63-46

The Cass City Red Hawks can expect to see some aggressive half and full court pressing defenses by opponents the rest of this season and that will include Marlette, which hosts the Hawks this Friday. It was the half court pressing defense that enabled the Caro Tigers to steam by visiting Cass City last Friday, 63-46.

The Hawks were guilty of 25 turnovers and many of them led to easy Tiger baskets as Hawk guards had trouble handling the ball against the quick Caro forwards.

And when the Caro defense was solved, Cass City failed to convert easy shots. At the beginning Cass City was off to a flying start and posted a 10-2 lead in the first 3 minutes, and hopes were high among Hawk fans for a repeat of the upset against the Lakers.

The Hawks were running their patterns with precision in the opening spurt and got the ball in deep to Steve Tuckey, who responded with a pair of buckets and a free throw.

But when the Tigers started to apply pressure at the half court, the passing lanes closed for the Hawks and turnover followed turnover. Brian Galsterer chipped in 8 points and Steve Hinderer added a 3-pointer and a bucket in the second period, and at the intermission Caro had forged into a 30-28 lead.

The Tigers salted away the game in the third period, outscoring Cass City, 17-8, with many of the baskets the direct result of turnovers.

The shooting statistics tell the story of the game. Caro was 4 for 10 from 3-point range and 20 of 38 in 2-point attempts, for 53 percent.

Cass City missed all 4 of its tries from 3-point range and was 18 of 42 (42 percent) on 2-point tries. Cass City was 10 of 17 and Caro 11 of 18 from the charity stripe.

The rebounds were dead even. Both recorded 6 offensive boards and had 24 total rebounds.

In the junior varsity contest, the Hawks blew a big lead and then rallied from behind in the closing seconds to win, 52-50.

The ball bounced up, teetered on the rim and fell away and the Cass City Red Hawks had their second win in a row and host Mayville was left still looking for its first victory of the year Friday. The score was 47-46.

And the game was every bit as close all the way as the final score indicated.

There was action galore in the final minute and a half. The Hawks had the ball and went into a stall with a one-point lead. Josh Constas converted a technical foul on the Mayville coach to put Cass City ahead, 43-41. The Hawks made it a 3-point effort when Jason Robertson hit Greg LeValley on a backdoor cut to put the Hawks ahead by 4 with 50 seconds left.

Mayville answered with a basket that cut only seconds from the clock to cut the margin to a single hoop again. LeValley was fouled after Cass City broke the Wildcat press and the freshman calmly sank both charity heaves. Mayville scored with 5 seconds left and immediately fouled Constas. The free shot was missed and on the rebound Jim Walker was fouled by Tim Rutkoski. He made the first and missed the second after a Cass City time out. On the rebound the ball was tied up and Mayville took it out of bounds on the possession rule.

With 3 seconds left the Wildcats succeeded in getting a shot off, by Walker, and it bounced around and fell out as the final whistle sounded.

The game was that close all the way. Cass City started strong behind Robertson's 4 field goals to take a 13-8 first period lead. The Wildcats bounced back as Matt Wenta scored 3 buckets to close within a point at the intermission, 22-21.

Neither team did much scoring in the third period. LeValley accounted for all

A CASS CITY WOMAN and her son sustained minor injuries last week when the car they were riding in struck a parked semi-tractor in Cass City.

Jan. 10 in Cass City

Pasanski hurt in crash

A Cass City woman and her young son were treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital and then released last Wednesday after the car they were riding in struck a parked semi-tractor on Doerr Road south of M-81.

Cass City police said Michele L. Pasanski, 25, 6284 E. Cedar Dr., Cass City, was northbound on Doerr Road south of Garfield Avenue at about 4:05 p.m. when she lost control of her vehicle on a patch of ice and struck the parked semi-tractor.

The driver of the truck, owned by TNT Holland Motor Express Inc., was unloading at Anrod Screen Cylinder, 6160 Garfield Ave., at the time.

Both Pasanski and her passenger, Nathan Pasanski, one, wear wearing restraints, according to reports, which note the front tires on Pasanski's vehicle were badly worn.

Police also reported 3 minor vehicle accidents over the past week.

Reports state Theodore W. Thayer II, 6510 Kelly Rd., Cass City, was backing south in the parking lot at Erla's Saturday when he struck the outside mirror of a parked vehicle, owned by Bonnie McKee, Detroit.

The mishap occurred at about 6:30 p.m. and resulted in only slight damage.

Also Saturday, Bruce W. McCormick, Caseville, reported hitting a deer at about 11:50 p.m. while driving west on East Cass City Road east of Greenland Road.

A 2-vehicle mishap Friday on Comment Drive south of Main Street also resulted in minor damage.

Reports state vehicles driven by Richard L. Cross, 5678 Robinson Rd., Cass

City, and Ernest J. Essenmacher, Minden City, collided at about 3:05 p.m. Essenmacher was northbound on Comment Drive and Cross was backing onto the street just prior to impact, police said.

Lydia Stack recalls beauty, freedom in Czechoslovakia

She recalled the cold, and how the prisoners were forced to stand outside for hours during roll call, which began at 4:30 a.m.

During the day, the women cleaned out dry lake beds or unloaded coal from boats.

"You'd go to bed at 6 or 7, but you don't sleep because you have to watch yourself," she said, noting stealing was a way of life during the 2 years she spent at the camp.

"The whole way of living was cruel," Stack concluded, adding if there was any disobedience, the offending prisoner would be beaten and her entire barracks would lose a privilege such as eating.

There are other memories. "They shave your head for lice, for punishment. If you do have lice, they spray you with DDT like the animals."

The smell was terrible, she recalled. Some of the women, who were allowed only one shower a week, had the idea that putting urine on their heads would help their hair to grow back.

Ironically, Stack, who was initially accused of sabotage because she refused to work in a munitions factory, ended up working in one anyway as a prisoner.

But she had the last laugh. "That's when we did nothing but sabotage everything we could," she remarked.

RELEASED

Stack was released from the camp in 1945. Two years later she left Czechoslovakia and moved to Germany, where she met and married her husband, Milton, a soldier from the Detroit area who is now a retired Department of Defense employee.

The Stacks left Germany and moved to Detroit in 1957. They also lived in Troy and Birmingham before moving in 1987 to Cass City, where they operate an animal shelter together on a 10-acre parcel at the south end of Lamton Road.

Stack indicated she loves taking care of the animals. And she enjoys living in the rural Thumb.

For now, she isn't considering a return trip to Czechoslovakia to visit, although she marvels at the speed of the sweeping reforms that have radically changed the mood in her homeland.

"I couldn't believe it. My idea was that they should have started it a long time ago," she commented.

"First they got run over by Hitler, then they got run over by the Communists."

Still, her joy is tempered with concern over how well those who so fiercely fought for freedom will be able to handle it.

"I don't know how the young people in Czechoslovakia are going to deal with this," she wondered out loud. "That's what I'm worried about."

night school 4 nights a week and earn up to 2 credits for one semester only.

The student must return to regular classes after the semester, according to the policy change, as suggested by Elaine Howard, adult education director.

The change was authorized so that a student with a temporary problem would still be able to earn enough credits to graduate with his class.

Howard also presented the contracts for teachers in adult education for the second semester and they were quickly accepted.

OTHER BUSINESS

Dick Partlo presented a review of the counselor's work at the school.

President Dr. Ed Scollon, Ben Hobart and Dick Wallace were appointed to a committee to review non-union salaries and make recommendations for the next school year. Union contracts have another year under the present contracts.

A new batting cage for use in the gym was authorized at a cost of $645. Athletic director Don Schelke told the board that the new scoreboards at the high school were susceptible to damage during indoor baseball practice without the cage or a net to place over the new boards.

Two new phone numbers have been authorized for Campbell School (now 872-2158) and Intermediate School (now 872-4397).

Obituary

Mark Patterson

Mark (Casey) William Patterson, 78, of Decker died Monday, Jan. 8, at Deckerville Community Hospital after a lengthy illness.

He was born Nov. 18, 1911, in Argyle Township, Sanilac County, the son of Eli and Minnie (Hillaker) Patterson.

Patterson was united in marriage to Miss Marguerite McQueen June 2, 1934, in Evergreen Township.

A lifelong resident of Sanilac County, he had been employed by Hunt Construction and retired from the Sanilac County Road Commission in 1976.

He is survived by his wife, Marguerite; 3 daughters, Mrs. Dennis (Joan) Reckinger of Port Sanilac, Mrs. Janet Muntz of Cass City and Mrs. Margaret Quinn of Troy; 5 grandchildren; 5 step-grandchildren; 6 step-great-grandchildren, and one brother, Arnold Patterson of Uby. Two sons-in-law, Donald Quinn and Howard Muntz, preceded him in death.

Funeral services were held at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. Steven Smith, pastor of the Deford Community Church, officiating.

Burial was in Elkland Cemetery, Cass City.

Card of Thanks

WE WOULD LIKE to thank everyone who helped us when Tim got hurt at school. Special thanks to Mr. Scheike and Mr. Robinson for performing CPR on Tim until the ambulance got there. Thanks also to Cass City ambulance for their quick response, Dr. Jeung, Dr. Hall, the nurses and everyone else at Hills and Dales who helped, Flight Care people from St. Mary's and all the doctors and nurses at St. Mary's who helped care for Tim while he was a patient there. We would also like to thank Pastor Fruendt for his visits and prayers and Mom and Dad Guinther, who kept Dan, Wendell, Shata and our 2 dogs so that we could be in Saginaw with Tim. We love all of you for your care. Jerry, Jackie and Tim Guinther. 13-1-17-1

WE WOULD LIKE to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for the sympathy cards, memorials, plants and flowers we received at the time of our father's death. Your kindness was greatly appreciated. God bless you all. Richard and Pat Easton and the family of Kenneth (Kiff) Profit. 13-1-17-1

WORDS CANNOT express how we feel and appreciate everything that was done for us after our recent fire. To our neighbors, Hills and Dales employees, Kingston Fire Department and Rescue Squad, Kritzman's, Georgine's, our church and other area churches, Eastern Stars, friends and people we didn't know. There is no way we can thank you all personally. Also our children were fantastic, and the Ivan Tracys for the use of their home. You people will never be forgotten. Thank you seems so inadequate but it comes from our hearts. Leo and Dolly Tracy. 13-1-17-1

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Taking stock

By Bill Myers

The Palm Beach POST is always good for an item or 2 in the language department. Latest:

On the business page: "The company is not for sale, said the president. But he said they would consider a reasonable offer."

On the feature page: "In the Rose Parade New Year's Day the average cost of a float is $50,000 to $250,000."

News section, head: "Sabotage Seen in Corpse Bomb." (A body was being shipped by plane from South America, and someone planted a bomb in it. Sabotage did seem like a reasonable conclusion. At least the corpse was not a suspect.)

I like Ben Weberman's column, "Capital Markets," in FORBES. Now and then he bobbles one, though, and it's fun to catch him. In the Dec. 25 column Ben said: There is a catch common to mortgage bonds... If rates shoot up you're stuck with the bond for a long time. That problem does not occur with Treasuries."

Why, Ben, what DO you do with a government bond if the price goes down? You sell it or keep it, same as any other bond. For that matter, same as any stock, or any other asset.

I am weary of repeating that the difference with bonds is that you aren't stuck forever if the price goes down. They do pay off at 100 cents on the dollar at maturity. Can you say as much for your IBM stock?

When tax-exempt bond prices are as high as they are now, you get tempted to reach for higher yields. In so doing you can get stuck with some turkeys.

Categories I avoid these days are hospitals, nursing or retirement centers, waste disposal plants (they come under a lot of exotic names, such as energy recycling), Economic Development Authorities, and most Housing bonds.

The Economic Development bonds are sort of a phony municipal bond.

They are no better than the sponsoring corporation, and there is no taxing power, of course, behind the bond. "Port Authorities," or "Airport Authorities" are sometimes O.K. and sometimes not. In Michigan, the Wayne Co. Metro Airport bonds are obligations of the county. In other places an Airport bond might be an obligation depending on revenues from Eastern Airlines, for example.

"Letter of Credit" backing is another thing not to accept blindly. While such bonds are backed by a bank, not always do the "Letters" extend for the life of the bond. Some run out in a few years. Find out before you buy, and find out the bank's rating, too. Banks ain't what they used to be. Neither are you and I.

While the Moody and Standard & Poor bond ratings are a pretty good guide, they're often not up to date. Try to get another opinion or other data on the bond in question. Your broker or banker should be able to help.

Self-employed? Then you've been paying nearly double the Social Security tax that people who work for someone else pay. For your 1990 tax (that is, tax on 1990 income) self-employed dudes like me will pay only the same rate as others not self-employed.

The rate for 1990 will be 7.65% on earnings, which have a new cap of $51,300 before the tax doesn't apply. Before, the tax was on the first $48,000 you earned. So Great White Father of Washington giveth and also taketh away. For once he giveth more than he taketh.

The new deal for self-employed won't help you on your 1989 tax due April 15, 1990. But it will benefit you in your estimated tax figures for 1990.

Some of us old coots can remember when Social Security tax was 1/2 of 1% on the first $3600 of earnings. Total: $180. My tax last year was about $7,000 on my earnings, plus of course, the regular income tax.

Congress has come up with a deal whereby U.S. Savings Bonds can be tax exempt, if proceeds are used for college tuition and fees, at least 5 years from date of purchase.

There are enough rules and restrictions to drive you batty.

For example:

1. You must be 24 years old to buy them.

2. In the year of redemption (at least 5 years from now) there must be tuition for the buyer, the spouse or a child, due that year. Think of the red tape to prove that.

3. Buyer's income must not be over $60,000 the year of redemption.

After meeting all those restrictions, plus others not listed here, you'll get only a guaranteed rate of 6%. Depending on rates for 5-year Treasury bonds the rate can be higher. Now it is just under 7%.

O.K. So you plow through the red tape, qualify, and still get only 7% (current rate) and maybe as little as 6%.

Why monkey around with all this? Buy a zero-coupon tax-exempt bond, which will yield more than 7%. No tax to pay, now or later, and no capital gains tax if held to due date.

Or, if you want to put some bonds in Tiny Tim's name, get him some zero-coupon governments - CATS or STRIPS, for example, where the rate is around 8%. Taxable, but if in Tim's name, he's exempt the first $500 of taxable income, and then it's only 15% tax on excess each year.

Some states such as Florida and Michigan offer some zero-coupon tuition bonds. They've got more catches to them than even the government tuition bonds. Avoid them. Keep your finances simple and you'll be happier.

So, onward in to the Gay Nineties. A dear friend of mine says they're bound to be good, because they were last time. She was born in 1898.

Bill Myers is a retired editor and investment counselor.

New 4-H Club to organize

A new 4-H Club is being established in the Bad Axe area for handicapped youth.

Sue Smith will be the administrative 4-H leader. A variety of project areas will be covered. Youth, 5 years old and older are eligible to join the 4-H Club regardless of race, color, sex, national origin or handicap.

The group's meetings will be held at the Huron Area Skill Center the third Tuesday of every month from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. due to the variety of disabilities, one parent should remain with the youth.

Youth can join the club by contacting Smith at 269-8015, or Robert A. Johnson, County Extension director, 104 County Building, Bad Axe, MI 48413, at 269-9949.

Your neighbor says

Economy good, says Holly Cooper

What's up with the economy?

Or should we say what's down with the economy?

On the national level the stock market, in particular the Dow Jones average, has been on a steady decline as of late. All 3 major auto makers are offering huge savings in order to make up for lagging sales.

Around the local scene, Saginaw and Bay City are pondering combining high schools because of failing budgets. In Cass City there have been a number of stores closing, including one of the most recent, Northwest Tire and Service.

We asked your neighbor, Holly Cooper, what she thought of Cass City's economic state.

"Not bad. I think small communities are better off than the city right now," says the 1976 graduate of Cass City High School.

A lifelong resident of Cass City, the 31-year-old Cooper also had these comments.

"My husband is very busy at work right now. Just look at the price of eggs right now," says Cooper.

Joe Cooper, her husband of 14 years, is employed with Active Feed Company in Pigeon.

Cooper, a working mother with 2 children, is employed by Kelly & Co. Realty in Cass City.

"The housing market could be a little soft right now, but that has a lot to do with the weather. It's a seasonal thing for me," stated the broker of 4 years.

The Coopers' 2 children are Brandy, 5 years old, and Ryan, 7 years old.

Brauer named ad manager

The appointment of Kathy Brauer to Advertising Manager at Gantos, Inc. In this new position, she is responsible for the budget of the Advertising Department, retail ad placement including mail related advertising, and managing customer lists and retail mailings.

She started her career with Gantos 7 years ago as office secretary and was the Administrative Assistant to the Executive Vice President of Corporate Services for 5 years. Most recently, she held the position of Administrative Assistant to the Executive Vice President of Marketing.

She graduated from Ferris State College with a Bachelor's degree in Business Administration and is a graduate of Marquette High School. She is the daughter of Jack and Margaret Milligan of Decker.

Gantos, Inc. is based in Grand Rapids.

List area pupils on dean's list

Great Lakes Junior College officials recently named a host of students, including 14 area residents, to the school dean's list for the fall 1989 term.

The area students are Lynn Dillon, Norma Fisher, Raymond Grider, Joyce McGathy, Melissa Toner, Janice Tuckey, Karen

Turner and Jacquelyn Yost, all of Cass City; Joellen Pratt of Deford; Gagetown residents Ann Beitz, June Carr and Theresa Schwartz; Onalee Pallas of Snover, and Robert Main of Ubly.

In order to be named to the list, a student must achieve a grade point average of at least 3.5.

Schmidt is Oakland grad

More than 620 students, including a 1985 Cass City High School graduate, completed degree requirements at Oakland University at the end of December.

The local graduate, Michelle H. Schmidt, earned a bachelor of arts degree in psychology, with a minor in sociology and concentration in gerontology.

The daughter of Robert and Dorothy Schmidt, 7051 Hadley Rd., Cass City, she currently resides in the Detroit area and is seeking full-time employment. Her future plans include entering graduate school.

K of C grants total $3,200

Officials representing the Knights of Columbus, Cass City-Gagetown Council #8892, distributed a combined $3,200 in funds last week for special education and other programs in the area.

Checks were awarded Thursday to officials representing the Cass City and Owen-Gage Schools (for special education programs), Highland Pines School (for Special Olympics), the Michigan Literacy Council (Cass City chapter), Provincial House (Cass City), and Gagetown Senior Manor.

Knights of Columbus Grand Knight Ronald J. Rutkoski said the checks represent funds raised during the organization's annual Tootsie Roll Drive, held each spring.

Knights of Columbus members will conduct their next Tootsie Roll Drive April 6, 7 and 8, Rutkoski said.

Banquet set

Seek nominations for Cass City's Citizen of the Year

Village president L.E. Althaver reports that this is the final week to submit nominations for Cass City's Citizen of the Year. Anyone can submit nominations. The award will be presented to a worthy Cass City area resident Saturday, Feb. 17, at the annual dinner.

This year, the event will be held at the Colony House. Beginning with dinner at 6:30 p.m., the Chamber of Commerce will honor both a citizen and a Junior Citizen of the Year. Dancing will follow, with music by Wind-fall.

Tickets are available at the local banks, Coach Light and Old Wood Drugs, Ben Franklin Store, Special Scents Floral Shop and Georgine's. Dinner-dance tickets are $12.50 each. A special "dance only" ticket is $5.00. For reservations or additional information, call the Chamber office, 872-3434 (Jeri).

Carol Kubacki to attend ITT

Cass City High School senior Carol Kubacki has been accepted into the Electronics Engineering Technology program at ITT Technical Institute, Troy.

The school is one of a nationwide network of postsecondary, degree-granting schools operated by Indianapolis-based ITT Educational Services, Inc.

The 96-week program, which will begin June 11, will prepare Kubacki for an entry-level position in Electronics. After completing the program, she will be provided assistance in securing a job from the ITT Troy placement office.

Kubacki, who will graduate from Cass City High School in May, enjoys math, science, volleyball and softball.

ITT Educational Services, a subsidiary of ITT Corporation, is a postsecondary, degree-granting network of community-based schools throughout the United States. ITT/ES is focused on preparing its graduates for better-paying careers in today's technological workplace.
