

NORTH BOWS TO SOUTH in Cass City — Well, sort of, as President Abe Lincoln greeted ladies gathered Sunday afternoon at the confederate troop camp (Cass City Recreational Park) after talking with Union infantrymen (inset). The meeting was part of Civil War activities that led up to re-enactment of a major battle Sunday afternoon.

County approves pact for command officers

An average annual wage increase of 4.46 percent is included in a 3-year Tuscola County Sheriff's Department Unit #2 labor agreement approved by county commissioners last week.

The unit represents the department's 9 command unit officers, including detectives, lieutenants and sergeants.

According to county Controller Michael Hoagland, the agreement, effective July 1, 1989, through June 30, 1992, calls for wage hikes of 45 cents per hour the first year (retroactive to Sept. 16, 1989); 50 cents in the second year, and 10 cents in the third year.

The sheriff's secretary will receive an additional pay hike of 30 cents per hour the first year, he said.

In addition, 2 shift premium schedules are included in the pact. Hoagland explained that officers will be paid another 10 cents per hour when they work 2 to 10 p.m., and an additional 15 cents per hour when they work 10 p.m. to 6 a.m.

Hoagland pointed out that the contract also includes a change in the method in which officers pay for their retirement plan.

Under the new contract, officers will contribute 5 percent of their total wages to retirement, compared to the previous payment plan of 3 percent of the first $4,200 and 5 percent thereafter.

The officers will pay more initially but are expected to receive a payout increase of about a half-percent per year, according to Hoagland, who noted the new payment arrangement will go into effect July 1, 1991.

In other business during the June 26 regular meeting, commissioners authorized the board chairman to sign a $40,000 technical assistance grant between the county and the Michigan Office of Community Corrections.

The grant will be used to develop a comprehensive community corrections plan, according to Hoagland, who explained that a county Community Corrections Advisory Board will draft the plan.

"What they'll be doing is an inventory (of the county corrections program) — what are the needs of the county with regards to the whole corrections system?" he said, adding the board will gather current information about the county's jail facilities and prisoner programs, and make recommendations related to work release and other similar programs.

Also last week, the board: *Approved an inmate telephone revenue agreement between Intellipay System Inc. and Tuscola County.

Under the agreement, the county will receive revenue — an estimated $13,200 a year — from calls made by inmates with pay phone equipment installed by Intellipay, according to Hoagland.

*Approved spending up to $2,300 to conduct a field egg mass count to determine the extent of the gypsy moth problem in the county. The count is required in order to qualify for federal funding.

*Approved a motion to accept sealed bids related to the sale of the old county health building, located at 2266 W. Caro Rd.

Civil War show highlights Festival

LITTLE MISSES 1990

Union soldiers chalked up a victory over rebel troops, and warriors of another kind competed in sports tournaments during the generally well-attended 125th birthday celebration and Fourth of July festival.

Storm clouds threatened to interrupt the weekend-long program, but produced only a little rain Saturday afternoon. Residents and visitors took advantage of the mostly clear and sunny weekend weather to enjoy varied activities.

Although the parade crowd seemed smaller than usual, the Civil War-themed events proved popular and the fireworks were well attended.

"I was absolutely astounded as to how many people were there for the fireworks," said committee chair Geraldine Prieskorn.

Food tents, the 2-day flea market and craft shows also drew large crowds. Overall profits from the concession booths won't be tabulated for a couple of weeks, but they appeared to make, rather than lose money, Prieskorn noted.

"I would assume from everything (concessions, T-shirt sales, fund raisers and the like) we will certainly break even," she said. The committee will receive 25 percent of the food booth earnings, she added, which will help fund next year's celebration.

This year's twelfth July 4 event kicked off June 25 with a program titled "County Fairs Remembered," conducted at Rawson Memorial Library for older adults. A similar event, open to all ages, took place at the library Thursday evening. Both programs featured memorabilia and photos from past area and village fairs.

The next event, Cass City's second annual Little Miss Pageant, played to a capacity crowd in the high school cafeteria June 28. The 32 contestants were divided into 3 age categories: 3-, 4- and 5-year-olds competed in the Tiny Miss division; first, second and third graders entered the Little Miss group; fourth and fifth graders were placed in the Junior Miss category.

Alison Emmert placed first in the Tiny Miss division, with Stacey Ann Rayl and Sarah Zawilinski coming in second and third. Little Miss Jessica Lynn Jones was followed by Michelle Kropewnicki and Kira Groosbeck. Elise Nichols received the crown in the Junior Miss category with Christa Garcia as first runner-up and Jennifer Haynes placing third.

Escorting the young ladies during the contest were Tyler Bader, Bryce Van Vliet and DJ Malone. Bad Axe resident Kay McRae, Judy Selzer of Caro and Kim Landrith of Cass City served as judges.

Another usually well-attended festival event faced possible cancellation due to participant disinterest. Fortunately, contestants for the lip sync contest started "coming out of the woodwork" at the last minute, said co-organizer Sally Doerr.

As of last week's press time, 4 acts were scheduled to perform in the June 29 show. Apparently between Tuesday morning and Friday night, 4 more acts volunteered.

From the 8 groups, 3 winners were chosen. First place and a $50 prize went to a 6-member act for its performance of "Ahab the Arab." The lip syncers were Phil, Christopher and Cody Leipprandt and Joel Eisinger of Caseville, Nicole Doerr of Cass City and Krista Miller from Bad Axe.

Second place and $20 was awarded to Cass City resident Heather Zawilinski, who dapped and "sang" to Janet Jackson's song "Escapade."

A 4-person group won third prize and shared $5 for its rendition of "Leader of the Pack." Caseville residents John Reed, Holly McCrimmon, Heather Fisher and Miriam Barevich collaborated on that number.

These and other pre-festival activities — such as a 7-day feature on Saginaw station WJEM TV 5 — got Cass City citizens and supporters fired up for the weekend.

FESTIVAL HIGHLIGHTS

Highlighting Saturday morning's events was the annual parade, its beginning heralded by 2 Michigan National Guard jets passing over the village. Although thunderstorms were predicted, weather conditions affected only one activity. Former Cass City native Alvin Burk was unable to perform either of 2 scheduled parachute jumps, probably due to cloud cover.

Despite Burk's cancellation, the almost 75-unit parade proceeded smoothly down Main Street. Prior to its start, however, awards were given to 4 floats.

The Dr. Harry Crandell plaque went to Higher Horizons child development center for their birthday party design. Tendercare nursing home won the President's award with their nostalgic circus wagon float. Thumb National Bank received recognition and the Meredith B. Auten award, while Shabbona United Methodist Church was honored with the Belle Schwadener plaque.

Following the parade a popular festival sports tournament, 3 on 3 basketball games, got underway at the recreational park. A total of 24 teams registered to play: 18 men's teams, 5 boys' squads and one ladies'. The ladies' team elected to play in the boys' category but were eliminated after their first 2 games, said event coordinator Matt Prieskorn.

In winning all 5 elimination games, the boys' team of Steve Tuckey, Greg LeValley and Troy Perry came out on top in that category. For the third year running, Craig Tonti's men's team won their division. Randall Ferris, Byron Nilde and Rick Rilleit rounded out the squad.

Members of both teams received T-shirts and a refund on the $20 registration fee, an added prize as of this year, Prieskorn said.

A number of festival programs like the banjo band concert, tot run and free pool games also took place in the park Saturday. Civil War reenactors, invited by Cass City resident and history enthusiast Dennis Merchant, provided an artillery demonstration and tactical skirmish that afternoon as well.

The festival started off slow Sunday morning with diminished crowds at the concession stands and flea market, but picked up prior to the weekend's main event.

CIVIL WAR RELIVED

Hosted by the 5th Michigan Volunteer Company K, Saginaw, Union and Confederate troops staged an authentic-looking battle 125 years after the Civil War ended. Throngs of people gathered around the hill behind the park to watch soldiers, dressed in period clothing and using historic weapons, replay part of the war between the states. Novesta to crack down on violators Novesta Township officials are continuing their efforts to tackle junk ordinance violations.

The Township Board Monday decided to have the township's attorney send a second notice of violation to 2 homeowners, with plans to investigate 2 additional residences, township Clerk Nursie Kloc said.

She added Supervisor Maynard Stine is going to contact a person believed responsible for the dumping of garbage along a wooded area in the township.

In a related matter, the board voted to pay Stine's expenses ($55) to attend an ordinance enforcement meeting in Grand Traverse July 31.

In other business during the 1 3/4-hour monthly meeting, the board heard an audit report from township auditor Ray Armstead Jr.

The report indicates the township is in good financial shape, according to Kloc, who added, "It was very good — everything's in order."

Turning to the upcoming August Primary Election, Kloc said the township's 3-member Election Commission will meet July 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the Township Hall to appoint election inspectors.

Persons interested in applying for one of the positions can do so at Kloc's residence, 6195 Severance Rd.

Also Monday, the board: *Voted to accept gravel from the former Marathon oil drilling site.

According to Kloc, the gravel will be placed on 3 miles of road by the county Road Commission at a cost to the township of $10,000. The roads involved are Phillips, from Severance to DeLong; McArthur, from Shabbona to Severance, and Warner, from Severance to DeLong.

*Received a legal opinion from the Michigan Township Association regarding a request that the township contribute to the cost of landscaping at the veterans memorial at the township cemetery.

Kloc said the opinion is that the township is not allowed to contribute because an agreement between the township and sponsors of the memorial states upkeep of the site is the sponsors' responsibility.

"We feel we are already donating because our sexton does the mowing there and we pay her," the clerk added.

*Approved paying a $10 fee for Kloc to join the Tuscola County Clerks Association.

Year-end surplus at Owen-Gage

The Owen-Gage Board of Education adopted an amended 1989-90 budget and approved a proposed 1990-91 spending plan during a special meeting Thursday night.

The board adopted an amended budget totalling $1.527 million in expenditures and $1.483 million in revenues for the 1989-90 fiscal year, which ended Saturday. After adjustments, the district was expected to end the year with a fund balance of some $520,000.

The preliminary 1990-91 spending plan, meanwhile, sets expenditures at $1.621 million and revenues at $1.211 million.

The revenue figures are based on an SEV of $29,685,564, an increase of about 4.2 percent over the previous year, and a levy of 38.8492 mills. The millage rate represents a decrease of 1.4508 mills from the previous year because school officials didn't seek an override of the Headlee Amendment.

School Supt. Harley Kirby, who noted the state requires schools to adopt a new budget by July 1, pointed out the proposed 1990-91 figures are very tentative and include several important "unknown" factors.

Among them are the district's status as an in-formula school district and what the state aid formula is going to be for the new school year.

During the last school year, Owen-Gage received $240,000 in state aid. But Kirby said a combination of fewer students and the increase in land values means the district may not be in formula in 1990-91.

"It's going to be close," he remarked, adding how much state aid the school will receive won't be known until after the annual Fourth Friday Count in the fall.

While those figures haven't yet been plugged into the budget, Kirby said he has built in extra money related to on-going teacher contract negotiations as well as some $40,000 for possible asbestos containment work. Please turn to back page.

Meg's Peg
Yours till....

by Melva E. Guinther

Among the books discovered in a recent cleaning binge was a collection of autograph verses. Old-timers will remember them.

When we were kids, nearly everybody, at least the girls, had an autograph book where everyone who was anyone signed their names, usually accompanied by some dubious witticism.

They included nuggets like "Yours till Niagara falls," "Yours till the kitchen sinks," "Yours till the river wears rubber pants to keep its bottom dry," "Yours till butter flies," "Yours till the cow slips in the pasture."

Other classics were: "2-Ys-U-R, 2-Ys-U-B, I-C-U-R 2-Ys-4-me," "O-U-Q-T, I-N-V-U," and "U-R-2-nice-2-B-4-gotten."

Kids today probably wouldn't know what to do with an autograph book, and if they did, would no doubt write something a bit more sophisticated.

Here's a verse they might relate to. "Now I lay me down to rest. I pray I pass tomorrow's test. If I die before I wake, That's one less test I have to take."

Some of the offerings were downright uncomplicated: "Roses are red, violets are blue. Whenever it rains, I think of you. Drip, drip, drip." "Sugar is sweet, Coal is black. Do me a favor and sit on a tack."

How about these for sentiment: "Patty made some donuts; she made them by the peck; one rolled out the window, and broke the horse's neck." "Mary had a little car, and it was painted red. Everywhere that Mary went, The cops picked up the dead."

Even Shakespeare suffered.

"'Twas in a restaurant they met, Romeo and Juliet. 'Twas there that he got into debt, 'cause Rom-e-owed what Juli-et."

All this led me to look up my own old autograph book, Eugene Finkbeiner of Sumter, S.C., spent from Wednesday until Monday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher Sr.

"If It Fitz..."Emily's fault

By Jim Fitzgerald

Out of the mouth of a babe came a great sign to hang on a doorknob.

Well, Emily isn't really a babe anymore. She's finished the second grade and can read, write and regroup a little. There was some regrouping involved in the note Emily read and tore up while sputtering, "Grandpa, that's not the truth and you shouldn't put it in the newspaper."

I regularly jot cryptic column ideas on a pad beside my chair at home. I'm still not used to Emily being able to read them. When she read "Emily's fault Tigers lost," she denied the charge. You be the judge.

DON'T BORROW, REGROUP

We were at a souvenir booth in Tiger Stadium during a game with the California Angels. In spoiling my youngest grandchildren, I've switched from food to toy-type items because of a recent job I experienced in a grocery store. When I asked Emily if her mother would be mad if I bought candy bars for her and 4-year-old Tricia, Emily said: "No, of course not." A few minutes later, after the bars were consumed, Emily added, "Of course, Mom will be real mad that you let us eat them."

But back to the souvenir booth. Tricia had just chosen a diminutive $15 stuffed tiger that was easily worth $1.98. When Emily decided on a miniature bat autographed by a Tiger, I was in the mood for a bargain.

The bats in the display case cost $6, but there was a bowl of bats on the counter marked $3.50. I mentally subtracted $3.50 from $6.00, being careful to regroup a 1 from the 6 to the inside zero, making it a 10, and came up with a $2.50 savings.

When I was young, I would have borrowed the 1 from the 6 and loaned it to the inside upper zero, making it a 10, but I recently helped Emily with her homework and she pointedly informed me that modern mathematicians don't borrow, they regroup. I think the change has something to do with making the current national deficit more palatable for the millions of babes who will have to pay it when they grow up: "Your parents and grandparents regrouped too much money."

SUPERSTITIOUS TIGER FAN

Anyway, the $3.50 bats were cheaper because they were autographed by Lance Parrish before he quit being a Tiger and subsequently became an Angel. Hoping that a sudden attack of nostalgia would overcome Detroit fans' natural reluctance to buy Tiger bats endorsed by an enemy, the wily souvenir sellers were trying to unload a hard-to-move product while Parrish was in town.

Emily didn't know all that inside stuff. Basketball is her game (she asked how many points the Tigers scored, for lord's sake) and for all she knew, Parrish was still a Tiger, the greatest one of all. So I saved $2.50 and we returned to our seats.

It was the first half of the fifth inning, California had the bases loaded, and the man at bat immediately hit a home run. Lance Parrish, of course.

No normally superstitious baseball fan would deny it was Emily's fault the Tigers lost by 4 points.

But I forgave her that evening when she went into my home office to play with her imagination, and shut the door behind her. Emily is a frequent traveler, familiar with motels and Do Not Disturb signs. She made her own sign and hung it on the outside doorknob.

I now have Emily's sign on my desk, and I may keep it there always to remind me of what an 8-year-old child learns from the violent world she was born into, and what she really wants from that world. The sign says:

*Knock please!
It is just me!
If you are going to kill me,
go away?
If you are going to kiss me,
come in please!*

Citizenship4 Ubly pupils among 200 seminar participants

Nearly 200 high school students from throughout the state, including 4 from Ubly, participated in the 27th annual young People's Citizenship Seminar, held June 18-22 at Olivet College.

Michigan Farm Bureau sponsors the event to help students prepare for their citizenship responsibilities, both as voters and future policymakers, and to help them appreciate the freedoms they enjoy by living in America.

During the seminar, students perform as political party delegates, candidates and voters. In addition to participating in political rallies and campaigns, the students learn about U. S. and world economics, cultures in other countries and the many freedoms Americans often take for granted.

Selected by the Huron Farm Bureau to attend the seminar were Kelly Jo Siemen and Gail Messing, both of Harbor Beach; Alison Horetski, Tracy Hilborn and Stacy Ruth, all of Port Austin; Sheri Weber of Fillion; Jackie Courliss, Jill Anne Kubacki, Amy Grifka and Kristie McCarty, all of Ubly; Debbie Peruski of Ruth, and Cheri Peter of Caseville.

Thumb writers set meet

The Thumb Area Writers Club will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Sanilac County Conference Room, 37 Austin St., Sandusky.

Writers needing encouragement in their creative endeavors are welcome.

Membership is open to poets and fiction and non-fiction writers of all ages.

The Haire Net

Two separate incidents in the passing parade posed a question for which there is no real solution.

At a meeting of the Cass City Board of Education the discussion centered around where to draw the line when recognizing top scholars. The theory was that there is a very fine line between students qualifying for special mention and those that do not. Including more students would give them a boost was the rationale. More winners, fewer losers.

Another is in a letter to the editor printed in this issue. It takes issue with the "Little Miss" contest because of the effect on the young losers.

Obviously, if the parents are worried about the effect on the child, there is no need to enter. Admittedly, 4 years old is a little young to lose.

When you get down to it, is it that the adults want to protect the kids from the realities of life. Sooner or later we all have to face up to it. Somewhere (perhaps nearly everywhere) we are going to be losers. That's the way it is.

Better sooner than later. It may affect the parents and the oldsters more than it does the kids who suffer the defeat. Most of us, when young, bounce back from disappointment. Tomorrow's another day, another challenge. There are a lot of tomorrows ahead. A few failures pave the way for coping. Inevitably by the time high school days are over there has been a failure or 2 or more.

But one of the joys of high school graduation is that everyone with that diploma is a winner. No losers. Losing comes later.

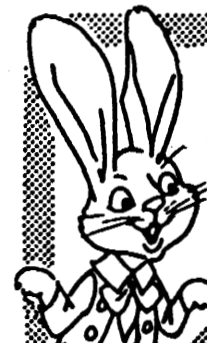

It doesn't matter anymore if the honor roll was missed by a fraction of a point. That's history.

A brilliant scholar might be all thumbs when it comes to handling a basketball. I had a friend in high school who was a fair student, a poor athlete, but an absolute genius when it came to work in the shop class.

In fact, it was only his help building a desk (He did most everything but the sanding and varnishing when the instructor had his back turned) that enabled me to pass the course.

I consoled myself by thinking about the areas where my talents enabled me to keep a positive image. Really, it didn't bother me to be the school klutz with a hammer and saw.

It probably is briefly disheartening for most kids to narrowly miss recognition for achievements. In the long run, it would be a lesson learned on the threshold of adult responsibility.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

It didn't rain on the parade and it didn't rain at the park. It did rain on Main Street before the parade and in the afternoon. While the tennis players, basketball players and others never stopped playing, 2 blocks away it poured for about a half hour.

The governor wasn't there, but just about every other politician up for election was, either in person or with a representative. Most just waved at the crowd and handed out pencils or candy along with campaign literature.

Veteran Dick Allen, state representative, showed how the old pros operate as he was shaking hands every step of the way.

Communities hold centennial (100), bicentennial (200) and sesquicentennial (150) celebrations, but just plain ol' 125-year observances.

The reason is that there is no high falutin' word for 125 years.

We learned this after checking all local sources and then calling on the reference library at Central Michigan University.

Maybe we should add a word to the language. If you can have a bicentennial, why not a quartercentennial?

Oh, well, a rose by any other name.....

The festival-birthday bash in pictures

THE PLYMOUTH FIFE and Drum Corp was a real crowd pleaser during Cass City's annual Fourth of July parade Saturday.

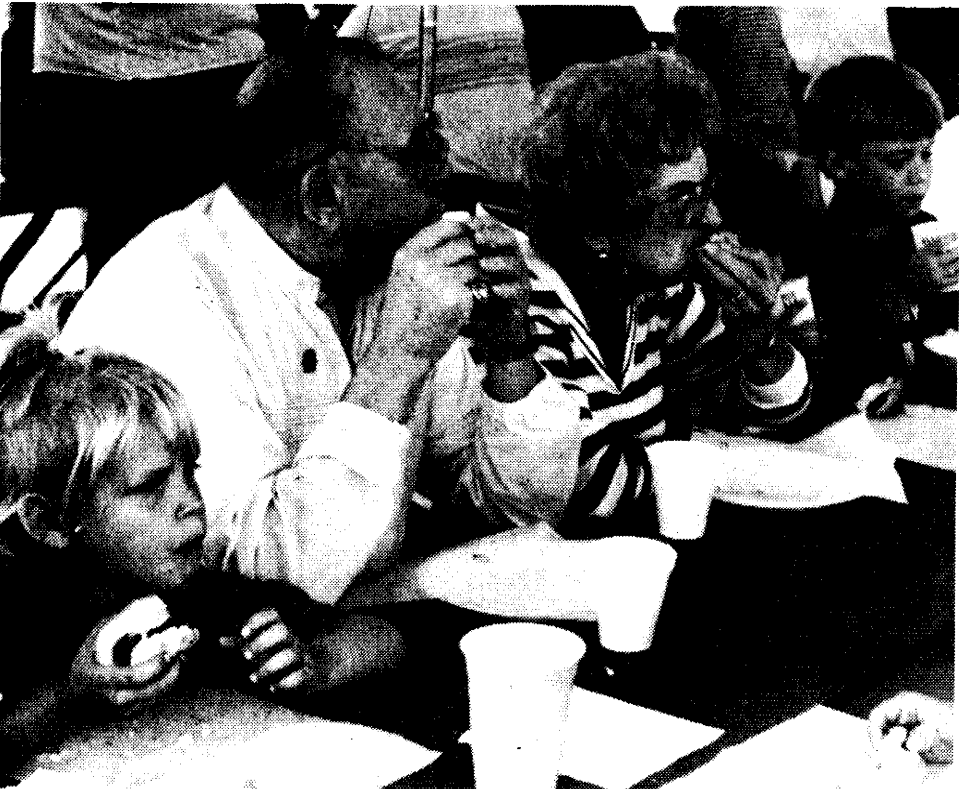

ONCE AGAIN the Tendercare Nursing Home float won recognition in the annual festival parade. Their circus wagon received the President's award plaque.

3-YEAR-OLD Ashley Tomlinson was all smiles for her mother, Amy, of Cass City, as the parade passed them by on Main Street.

TASTY FESTIVAL FOOD — Roasted hot dogs, polish sausage, nachos, cold drinks and other goodies were available at the Rotary Club food tent, where this family had lunch.

CASS CITY'S Tiny Miss 1990, Alison Emmert clutches her trophy as last year's winner, Laura Auten, peeks out from behind.

UNEXPLAINED WEIGHT LOSS PUZZLES SCIENTISTS

FINLAND - The unexpected weight loss experienced by members of a test group has puzzled medical researchers at a leading Finnish university. Scientists were testing a naturally-occurring compound for its ability to lower blood cholesterol levels when, to their surprise, they found that every person who took the formula had lost a significant amount of weight.

The formula was then tested at another prestigious European university hospital. Again, all patients lost weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing this study, published in the British Journal of Nutrition, stated: "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits."

While it is still not entirely clear how the formula induces weight loss, some scientists believe this compound actually alters the way the body digests food: when taken before mealtime it bonds with food and suppresses caloric absorption. Unabsorbed calories would pass through and out of the digestive system.

The formula is marketed in capsule form in the United States under the trade name Cal-Ban 3000. A firm located in Tampa, Florida has exclusive North American distribution rights to Cal-Ban 3000. A company spokesman reported that the formula is 100% natural and has been clinically tested for safety. Review of the customer files of this company revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost as much as 20, 40 or 80 or more pounds overall with Cal-Ban 3000. This appears to be a golden opportunity for people who are plagued by fat and cellulite that they can't seem to lose by conventional methods.

Your neighbor says

Life and death decisions should be in God's hands

Right to die cases have received national attention for more than a decade, but the question remains: who decides when to remove a comatose person from life-support devices? For the first time, the Supreme Court has entered this debate and made a landmark ruling. States can prevent the removal of food, water and other life-sustaining treatment from comatose persons whose wishes are unknown or unclear. This decision permits states to keep such patients alive against their families' desires.

In 41 states, however, living will laws allow mentally-sound people to declare in writing that they wouldn't want artificial means keeping them alive while comatose. Michigan is one state without legislature legalizing statements of wishes.

If she were in a vegetative state without hope for recovery, your neighbor, Christine Spry, said she wouldn't want her existence to depend on machines and feeding tubes.

"I can't see burdening your family, especially if you're brain-dead with no chance of coming out of it," she stated. A 60-year-old retired cook, Spry has considered making plans in case an accident or illness should render her unable to speak for herself.

"I'm going down to a lawyer to have one of those living wills done while I'm still in my right mind," commented Spry, a Deford resident.

Since the death of her husband 11 years ago, Spry said she has told her 4 children to let her die rather than endure the medical expenses and emotional trauma of keeping her alive in a comatose state.

"You're not dying with dignity when you're just lying there dissolving," she said. Life and death decisions "should be in God's hands, not in the hands of doctors."

Ubly Homecoming set for July 13, 14, 15

After months of planning, a group of concerned Ubly citizens, led by the newly formed Lioness Club, have resurrected the Ubly Homecoming. The event is planned for July 13, 14 and 15 at the downtown Village Park.

After an absence of 5 years, the homecoming is expected to offer all the enjoyment of past years. To kick off the "Welcome to the 90's" homecoming, the featured event Friday night will be a tractor pull and entertainment tent.

Saturday begins with an afternoon of children's events, with the evening reserved for dancing and socializing in the entertainment tent.

Sunday is for the entire family, with a grand parade beginning at 12:30, tractor pull and FFA chicken barbecue beginning after the parade.

Event chairman Marshall Osentoski looks for record crowds. Ubly has long been known for offering a truly enjoyable entertainment tent, and this year will be no exception, he said.

A new feature this year will be the mud volleyball court. The court will be available for grudge matches between teams.

A 4-member volleyball tournament is also a new event this year. Teams are encouraged to contact event chairperson Laurie Ruthko at 658-8316 to register.

The 3-day homecoming has events scheduled for all ages. Even the young adult group is encouraged to share Saturday night dancing in the dance area. Free prizes will be given to young adults who arrive early.

Mohr appointed to Board of Directors

Cass City Wastewater Treatment Plant Superintendent Rick Mohr has been appointed to serve on the Board of Directors of the recently-formed Michigan Rural Water Association.

The group was created May 23, when the charter members met in DeWitt to adopt bylaws and form a board of directors.

The association, affiliated with the National Rural Water Association, headquartered in Duncan, Okla., is a non-profit organization which aids small Michigan municipalities in the formation, training of personnel and financing for water and wastewater utilities.

The group's services are provided to clients at no charge.

Elected to the association's Board of Directors for 3-year terms were Matt Schindewolf, Delhi Township; Doug Terry, Standish, and Gerald Goshorn, Alma. Directors elected for 2-year terms were Mohr, Cass City; Joe Little, Perrinton, and Sue Founs, Paw Paw. Ed Lawrence of the South Clinton County Municipal Utility Authority will serve a one-year term.

Rick Mohr

Ex-officio members elected to the board were Jim Reinhold of Layne-Northern, Lansing, and John Dawson of Highland Treatment, Inc.

"All the board members are professionals in their field," Carl Zelinski, wastewater technician for the association, remarked. "With their help we should be able to help the association grow and prosper in the days ahead and also in the training of the other municipalities in the state."

Sanilac County youth receive 4-H awards

Two Sanilac County 4-H'ers received state awards during 4-H Exploration Days, June 20-22 at Michigan State University.

Jeff Gillig, 17, of Decker, was recognized as the state's top field crops project member and Michelle Snow, 19, of Marlette, was honored as the top crafts project member in the state during award ceremonies June 21.

His other 4-H interests have included horticulture, wood science, wood carving, liquid embroidery, tole painting and drawing.

Gillig's award is sponsored by Michigan Farm Credit Services.

Snow, a freshman accounting major at the University of Michigan, has also been in 4-H for 8 years. DeLong retires after 25 years

Former bus driver enjoyed her work

by Kristine L. Renaud
Staff Writer

School bus driver Lucille DeLong said she enjoys spending time behind the wheel, driving around and seeing the sights.

She probably wouldn't have said that about 25 years ago, however, after losing her way in the Detroit area with a bus load of children.

DeLong has served as a Cass City Public Schools' bus driver since September 1965. On her first field-trip assignment, she and 2 other drivers took a group to Greenfield Village in Dearborn. The excursion was uneventful until the ride home, DeLong noted.

The 3 drivers travelled convoy-style, one following another. At one point, on a busy thoroughfare, DeLong was separated from the lead bus when she stopped for a red light.

"When we left to come back, I was in the middle...and the traffic was terrific," she explained.

After sitting at the light for almost 20 minutes, DeLong finally got her chance to make a left-hand turn. Unfortunately, the lead bus was long gone and the trailing bus decided to turn the other way. DeLong was lost in unfamiliar territory.

Using common sense, DeLong said she decided to head east because eventually she'd run into Van Dyke Road. From that point she could find Cass City.

"When I got back I decided it was time to study the map and get my geography straightened around," she laughed.

Over time, DeLong developed a fondness for driving and spent about 24 more years at it. Originally her late husband Donald worked for Cass City schools, driving her route for 13 years before she started, DeLong noted.

Donald gave up bus driving when their dairy farm business expanded and needed more attention, she remarked.

At that point, "I wanted to have a job of some sort," DeLong said. The mother of 6 children, DeLong also wanted a work schedule that fit in with her children's schedules. Bus driving allowed her to leave for work in the morning and arrive home at night with her brood, she explained.

Concern for her young family probably led to her general love for children, whom DeLong said she will miss.

"I enjoyed the kids. They meant so much to me," she commented tearfully. Although she said some school children may not like her because disorderly conduct wasn't allowed on her buses, DeLong loved all of them.

For that reason, she couldn't bring herself to tell the youngsters personally about her retirement plans.

"I never ever did anything to hurt one of those kids," DeLong remarked, and she didn't want to upset any of them with the news.

"I've debated this for 6 or 7 years," she said of her decision to resign at the end of the school year. "I just think it's time now," DeLong added, noting she will turn 65 in August.

Complete retirement isn't on the agenda, however, since DeLong has many plans. She and 3 of her 4 sons continue to run their 45-year-old dairy enterprise.

"They're the ones that handle all the business,"

DeLong said, while she lives on the farm where her husband was born and raised.

Besides keeping 140 cows, DeLong raises Belgian horses as a hobby and has started day-care for 2 of her grandchildren this summer.

A school sports fan since her childhood in Gagetown, DeLong said she also will spend time at Cass City's sporting events, which is where she met her future husband about 50 years ago.

"He was a real good basketball player," she said about Donald. In 1945 his Cass City team was the runner-up in the state championships, she commented. Because he was an outstanding player on an exceptional team, DeLong noticed him and a year later they married, she added.

Now when she attends school sporting matches DeLong said she sees her grandchildren play.

Not surprisingly, travelling is another of her favorite pastimes. Years ago Lucille and Donald DeLong visited Alaska, Europe, Canada and drove throughout the United States. The couple took such vacations because DeLong convinced her husband to seize the opportunity before poor health or old age prevented it, she said.

"Then in later years, if we have to sit and rock, we'll have our memories," Lucille wisely counseled Donald.

The Hills and Dales Hospital Auxiliary met at the Charnmont for a luncheon meeting Monday, June 25.

Correction

Mary K. Bean, public relations department of Detroit Edison, said that the Chronicle received some erroneous information concerning the new building the company will erect in Cass City Industrial Park.

She said that only about 5 persons, not 12, will be needed and that all will be transferred to Cass City from other Detroit Edison locations.

The building is being built to cut travel time and expenses, she added.

Huron crop tour set for Aug. 23

The annual Huron County Cooperative Extension Crop Tour is scheduled for Aug. 23.

The tour is co-sponsored by the Huron County Corn Growers.

A number of demonstration plots will be included in the event. Among the plots to be toured are narrow row sugar beets and corn, nitrate comparison plots, subirrigated corn and sugar beets, soybean inoculation and fertilizer plots, Huron County corn Growers' variety trials and the demonstration of an implement designed to reduce plowpan compaction in row crops.

More than 45 demonstration and applied research plots are located in Huron County. The crop tour will provide an opportunity to see some of the plots during the growing season.

One of the tour highlights will be the narrow row plot sites. Interest in narrow row production has been increasing in recent years and the growers at the 2 sites have completely switched to 22-inch rows. Tour participants will get an opportunity to ask the growers their impressions of narrow rows and see how the system works.

The tours will start at 10 a.m. and buses will be available at the starting point to take tour participants to the various sites.

A complete schedule of the tour is available at the Huron County Cooperative Extension Service, 104 County Building, Bad Axe, or call 517-269-9949.

County man faces charges in break-in

A preliminary examination was held Friday for a 30-year-old Fairgrove man arraigned recently in Tuscola County District Court on 4 charges in connection with the June 23 break-in of a Fairgrove residence.

The defendant, Pablo Gonzales, faces charges of breaking and entering a dwelling with intent to commit larceny, malicious destruction of a building over $100, safe breaking and felony firearm.

Bond for Gonzales has been set at $800,000.

According to court records, all of the offenses involved a house located at 47 N. Ringle Rd. in Fairgrove.

Also recently, 2 Tuscola County women were charged with welfare fraud in separate cases.

Tina M. Torres, 25, of Caro, was arraigned Thursday on charges of welfare fraud over $500 and welfare fraud—failure to inform—$500 or more.

Bond was set at $4,000 and a preliminary exam slated for Friday at 1:30 p.m.

Court records state Torres is accused of fraudulently collecting more than $500 in ADC and food stamps, and failing to provide the Department of Social Services with income information, from December 1988 through July 1989.

Facing identical charges, bond and preliminary exam date is Linda L. White, 42, of Mayville. Her offenses allegedly occurred between December 1988 and March 1989, court records state.

Cass City resident Michael R. Hutchinson, 22, 6578 Seed St., was arraigned last Wednesday on a charge of retaining, possessing, knowingly secreting or using a financial transaction card without the consent of the card's owner.

His bond was set at $2,000. A preliminary exam is set to be held Friday at 1:30 p.m.

Court records state the offense allegedly occurred June 9 in Cass City.

A preliminary exam has been scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Friday. Bond was set at $2,000.

Letter to the editor

Let's end 'Little Miss' nonsense

To the Editor:

When are the parents in Cass City going to come to their senses and put an end to the ridiculous "Little Miss" contest held during the 4th of July? Why would a parent be willing to subject their daughter to this? Is it just an ego trip for the parents? Can it really be fun to see a child break down in tears when they don't win first place? And for what? The ads reassure us it isn't a "beauty" contest. Just how much poise and talent does a 4 year old have to make a judgment on? You can bet the girl with the frilliest dress, the cutest smile and the prettiest hair is going to have the best shot at winning.

It is the 90s. Little girls don't need contests to prove their worth. Instilling such a concept into them at such an early age just perpetuates the myth that one has to be beautiful to be a winner. Let's put a stop to this nonsense next year!

Reunion for Cass City's class of '30

Cass City High School's Class of 1930 had its 60 year reunion June 25 at Shaky's Eatery.

Out of the 44 original classmates, 17 attended the event — held every 5 years since the June 10, 1930, graduation ceremony.

The group, about 30 people including spouses and children, met at noon in Shaky's for a social. Following an invocation by Audley Horner, lunch was served at 1:30 p.m. Afterward, Theda Seeger shared her pictures from a recent trip to Mexico.

Participants came from as far away as Farmington Hills, South Branch and Cadillac.

By new owners

Hotel transformed

It's ship ahoy at the old Cass City Hotel on Main Street these days as new owners Tom and Debbie Meismer are betting a lot of bucks that an entertainment complex can make it in Cass City.

The plumbers, carpenters and electricians are busily transforming the former restaurant and hotel lobby into several new businesses.

Already completed is a game room with 3 pool tables and several video games. This is for adults and youth and there will be absolutely no alcohol served or used here, Meismer stressed.

The bar has a new name and is called Gilligan's. The Castaway Inn, with a grand opening Saturday, features a larger dance floor and disc jockey music in the new chart room.

If all goes well, future plans call for an ice cream parlor.

Our aim is to make this a place for everyone. To carry out the nautical theme we've spent some $1,500 for large lighthouse pictures, charts and similar pictures for decorations.

Tom Meismer comes to Cass City after managing a club in the west for a year, part of a chain. What I learned there is that the one most important thing for our type business is to show customers that you are concerned for them and care.

We're ready to go that extra mile to satisfy their needs and when the community sees that we have a respectable entertainment center, it will be pleased that we are here.

in a boiler room at Gagetown Elementary School.

The new budget shows an expected fund balance of $110,654 at the end of the year, but Kirby indicated he believes that figure will be higher.

In other business during Thursday's 2 1/4-hour special session, the board met in executive session for 80 minutes to discuss teacher contract negotiations.

The board also presented out-going Trustee Mary Ann Abbe with a plaque and thanked her for her 5 years of service as a board member.

Over weekend

Cass City police arrest 6

Cass City police arrested 6 persons — 4 on suspicion of drinking and driving — over the weekend.

Police arrested both the driver and passenger of a car that was stopped on Seeger Street near Hillcrest Drive early Friday morning after officers observed the vehicle driving left of the center line.

The driver, Hugh D. Bulla, 27, Elkton, was arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and driving while his license was suspended. His passenger, Alvin J. Bosley, 31, Cass City, was arrested on a non-support warrant issued by the 13th Circuit Court in Antrim County.

A day later at about the same time, police stopped a vehicle that was weaving and driving left of center on Main Street near Weaver Street. The driver, Frederick L. Norman, 31, of Sandusky, was arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and violation of a restricted driver's license.

Kenneth D. Haag, 18, of Elkton, was taken into custody Friday evening after officers stopped his motorcycle at the intersection of Ale and Seed streets for failing to stop at a signed intersection.

He was arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, being a minor in possession of alcohol and having no motorcycle endorsement.

Another motorcyclist, John A. Zagorski of Reese, was stopped Sunday at 2:36 and arrested for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Zagorski, who also was cited for having no cycle endorsement, was stopped on South Alley west of Seeger Street after officers observed his passenger not wearing a helmet.

Police also arrested Brian W. March, 22, of Decker, on a misdemeanor warrant (possession of an open intoxicant in a motor vehicle) held by the state police post in Sandusky.

March was stopped early Monday morning near the intersection of Comment Drive and Main Street.

MINOR MISHAPS

Area law enforcement agencies reported only a handful of minor vehicle accidents.

Cass City Police reported minor damage to 2 vehicle that collided Saturday afternoon at the intersection of Main and Maple streets.

Reports state John E. Krol Jr. of Kingston was northbound on Maple when he stopped at the intersection with Main Street and then pulled into the path of an eastbound vehicle driven by Catherine J. King of Cass City.

Also, Scott J. Gerstenberger, Bad Axe, told police he struck a deer last Wednesday at about 10 p.m. while driving east on M-81 east of Krapf Road in Elkland Township.

There were neither damage nor injuries in a one-vehicle mishap reported Friday near M-46 east of Cemetery Road in Koylton Township.

Brian T. Goff of Marlette was driving on M-46 at about 8:25 a.m. when his vehicle left the roadway and entered a corn field, according to Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies, who stated the driver didn't recall what happened.

Deputies also reported an accident June 26 involving Deford resident Thelma M. Hartsell, who collided with a deer while driving north on Kingston Road north of Cartwright Road in Koylton Township.

Donahue book explores wrecks in Great Lakes

As a youngster growing up in Harbor Beach, Jim Donahue spent a lot of time looking at the ribs of a sunken schooner jutting out of its watery grave near the south end of a harbor break-wall.

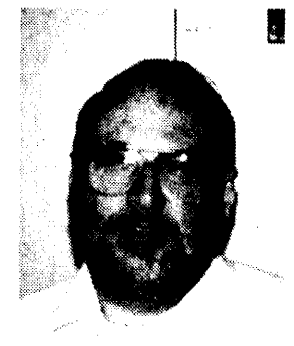

He wondered about the wreck, slowly exposed during his youth by falling lake levels. When and how did it sink?

Those questions, left unanswered for years, sparked an interest and thirst to know that would never leave the Deford area resident.

Today a veteran newspaper man, Donahue recently published a new book in which he chronologically documents more than 100 disasters that left vessels wrecked and 272 sailors dead in one year.

The work, entitled "Steaming Through Smoke and Fire - 1871," was published in cooperation with the Historical Society of Michigan and features a collection of newly discovered stories about shipwrecks, sinkings, explosions, fires and other events affecting shipping on the Great Lakes in 1871.

Among them are first-hand accounts of the Great Chicago Fire and forest fires that swept much of Michigan and Wisconsin at about the same time; the wrecks of the steamer R.G. Coburn in Lake Huron during a violent autumn storm; the burning of the steamer J. Barber on Lake Michigan; and a haunting tale from the lone survivor of the sinking of the schooner Excelsior off Lake Huron's Thunder Bay.

Other interesting stories include a murder aboard the sidewheeler Milton D. Ward at Detroit, a tugboat that derailed a passenger train at Chicago, and the discovery of the mystery schooner Illinois sailing across Lake Michigan with nobody aboard.

Although Donahue initially intended to cover a 10-year period in history, he recently remarked that as he researched, it quickly became apparent there was a book in just one year's events.

"I've been puttsin' around with this thing for 3 years," he said. "The problem is I didn't know what to do with it."

A 30-year veteran reporter and columnist, Donahue put his skills as a journalist to work, setting out to write historical accounts filled with the human interest.

The result was several chapters written like mini newspaper articles, all in sequence.

"It's nice reading; it's fun reading," Donahue remarked.

He noted he didn't call the book finished until after several re-writing sessions. He chuckled and confided that even now he's hesitant to go back and read it for fear of finding something he would like to have done differently.

Donahue, who along with Judge James Lincoln, Harbor Beach, co-authored the 1984 book, "Fiery Trial," resides about 4 miles west of Deford with his wife, Doris, a lab technician at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

A bureau writer for the Times Herald, a Port Huron daily newspaper, his column on shipwrecks and other historical events on the Great Lakes appears regularly in the Times Herald and in a summer magazine published by the Traverse City Record Eagle.

Persons interested in obtaining a copy of Donahue's new book can find one at the Times Herald offices in Port Huron and Sandusky, Raymond's Hardware and the Sanilac County Museum in Port Sanilac, or write Donahue at 41 E. Sanilac St., Sandusky, Mich., 48471.

Weekend festival a success also were on hand.

Drawing the annual festivities to a close was a well-received performance by the band Windfall with D-A-I-lan-Jamas, and complimentary birthday cake provided by Sommers' bakery and restaurant and Sutter's bakery and restaurant.

As always, fireworks provided the grand finale. Crowds gathered in the park, on the football field and baseball diamonds, at the high school and even in the parking lot of Hills and Dales General Hospital to see the approximately 15-minute display. Advanced Pyrotechnics of Greenville, Mich., provided the $3,000 show.

Festival committee members will review old and new programs at an up-coming meeting and decide what to schedule for the thirteenth annual event, and whether or not to hold it over 2 or more days again, Prieskorn commented.

YUCK! — Mud volleyballers had trouble staying on their feet during the typically messy and entertaining game.
