Family escapes injury, not loss in Sunday fire

A Cass City area family escaped injury but not loss in a blaze that damaged their 2story residence about 4 miles east of the village Sunday night.

Elkland Township fire fighters were called to the home, located a half-mile north of M-81 at 6791 N. Van Dyke Rd., at about 9:15 p.m., according to Fire Chief Dick Root.

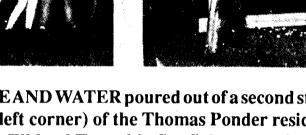

The chief said the blaze started in an upstairs bedroom at the southwest corner of the house. "The bedroom was pretty well engulfed when we got there," he remarked. "It was all confined to that bedroom, (but) there was a lot of smoke and water damage.

The residents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ponder and their 5 young children, were home at the time of the blaze, but escaped injury. Family members currently are staying with friends in the area.

Root estimated damage to the house and contents at $15,000 to $16,000. He said the house, owned by Virginia Bartovek of Havenridge, Mich., probably was insured, but the contents-which make up about half of the dollar loss—were not. The cause of the fire remains under investigation. Elkland firemen, who were assisted by the Elmwood-Gagetown Fire Department, remained at the scene for a little over 2 hours.

"The guys did one good job of putting that fire out." Root commented, adding, "It could have been much worse.'

Festival may not break even

The numbers still aren't all in, but organizers of Cass City's Fourth of July Festival say the event could have done better financially this year.

"I question at this point whether we'll even break even," festival committee Treasurer Lota Hartel remarked Friday after looking at preliminary estimates.

"At this point we're $1,400 short. (but) I'm confident we'll get in $750 of that," she said, noting she hadn't et heard from the Rotary and Lions clubs, which typically net significant concession revenues. Added attractions and other additional expensesmany tied to the village's 125th birthday celebration which was incorporated into the annual festival's activities-primarily are to blame for increased costs, Hartel said. She added donations also were up this year.

Advertising cost another $800.

Added expenses this year ranged from having more porta-johns (due to the activities being spread out more) to the expense of gun powder for the Civil War display ($675) to birthday cake, which cost some $200 even with donations, including labor, from the village's 2 bakeries, Hartel explained.

The parade also was more expensive with the hiring of clown and the Banio Kings. Another well-received entry-a fife and drum corps—was paid for by the Business and Professional Women's Club. On the revenue side, aside from t-shirt and arts and crafts sales, donations this year totalled $945, while volunteers standing at the intersection of Main and Seeger collected another $565 and fireworks canisters placed in area businesses brought in $400. More participation in the "Little Miss Pageant" also helped. Hartel indicated. While it appears this year's celebration lost money, it isn't the first time and it isn't adding the amount totaled event's 12-year history, according to Hartel, who estiabout $3,000. "Since then, mated the festival treasury we've had a couple of bad years and a couple of good vears.

Chances are this year won't be considered a "good" year financially, but it wasn't as bad as last year, when the festival sustained a the biggest loss over the the treasury," she explained, loss of $1,500. In contrast, the celebration made $555 the year before.

> As long as the pluses and minuses balance out in the end, the festival committee will be happy, Hartel indicated. "Like we say, all we want to do is break even,' she remarked.

However, Wentworth will have the truck on display so fair-goers can see some of its features up close, such as the tilt front end, dump box and air-brushed murals.

Along with offering several enticing new attractions, the fair board had a sheep barn facility and portable stage built for this year's festivities.

Probably few would begrudge Cass City retailers a moan or 2 following Side-

And, the weather was less than many had hoped high winds and a downpour forced retailers inside early Wednesday afternoon, while a steady rain fell throughout much of Friday. Still, a number of Cass City area retailers said sales during the annual 4-day event could have been worse. They also agreed the an-

St. Ignatius parish celebrates 100 years

CELEBRATING A PROUD heritage Sunday will be parishioners at the 100-yearold St. Ignatius Catholic Church in Huron County's Austin Township, pictured above with the Rev. Michael Bell, who also serves the St. Joseph parish in Argyle.

When members of the St. Ignatius Catholic Church parish gather Sunday to observe their 100th anniversary, they'll celebrate Mass, share a community meal and enjoy a number of other activities.

But the centennial observance will be much more than a birthday party.

It will be a celebration of a proud heritage; of fierce dedication and perseverance in the face of adversity.

Sunday's activities will begin at 11 a.m., when parishioners will celebrate Mass with Bishop Kenneth Untener, according to the Rev. Michael Bell, who serves St. Ignatius as well as St. Joseph's in Argyle.

The parish will also welcome its newest member with the baptism of a new child in the community, Corey Peters, the son of Benjamin and Joan Peters. Bell pointed out the baptism symbolizes "a new beginning and our next 100 years together.'

In addition, there will be a community meal, followed by dancing and children's

"They started to build this church 2 times and both times everything was destroyed," parishioner Patricia Walsh said.

Walsh researched and wrote a history of the church community 10 years ago. With the help of fellow parishioner Helen Bulla, she has since added to the work.

Walsh explained that the first settlers came to the area in 1863. The first to arrive were predominately Irishthe Walshes, O'Sheas, Cliffords, Flannerys and Halls. Others immigrated from France, England and Germany, she said, adding many came from Lucan. Ontario, Canada.

LWML convention

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Cass City sent 5 women to the 23rd Biennial Convention of the Michigan District Lutheran Women's Missionary League, July 16-18 at Lansing Center, Lansing.

Cass City delegates were Tina Hoard, Connie Mc-Naughton, alternate Lois Moslander, Thumb Zone LWML President Ruth Balzer, and young women's representative Dawn Harrison.

A total of 811 people attended the conference, titled "Look to the Lord." Dr. Eugene Bunkowske, director of missions at Concordia Theological Seminary, Fort Wayne, Ind., was the keynote speaker.

A mission goal of $125.000 was set by 440 voting members. Over the next 2 years the LWML will use that money to fund 16 mission projects, such as Bethesda Lutheran Home, Hispanic Ministries in Grand Rapids, Michigan District New Missions, Lutheran Child and Family Services Fund, Michigan Campus Ministries and others.

The 2-day affair also featured Bible study led by Rev. Albert Bahr of Port Hope, an opening communion service with speaker Rev. Michael Ruhl of the district office,

Also on the agenda was election of officers for the next biennial meeting and a dedication of prison kits to benefit the ministry in work camps and jails.

Sure, sometimes there was a little crackling on the line, and there may have been a few seconds wait on local calls. Sure, sometimes it seemed as if the long distance operator was out to lunch and calling to Saginaw often resulted in nothing but busy signals, but you had the advantage of personal service. Every call went through an operator. There was no call waiting, but, by gum, if it was important enough she would bust in on the call in progress so that you could get your message through.

You didn't make any of those frivolous calls either. If you wanted a private tetea-tete, the last place on earth you would turn to was the phone. Telling it with the operator listening in was better coverage all over town than any newspaper. The other day one of my daughters called from Plymouth to ask her mother how long she cooked a certain roast. I had only just finished telling my wife what a waste of money, when the phone rang again. Same daughter calling to find out what was the best seasoning. Horrors!

Any persons with character lines in the face and distinguished grey in the hair can tell you that long distance should be for emergency use only.

The way to use the phone correctly is to tell your tale as briefly as possible and hang up. You learned that early, especially if you were one of 5 or more on a party line. Compared to the early days, long distance calling now is dirt cheap and that's all to the good.

But try leaving a message with the company to remind a friend to water the lawn while you're away...a routine matter when the phone operator was someone who probably lived a couple of houses down the street and was happy to do it as long it wasn't "long distance".

But last week the newspaper reported "the Warren tank plant — almost annually targeted for a shutdown --- won another reprieve Monday as the United States announced a deal to sell $3.2 billion in military tanks to Saudi Arabia... 'Overseas military sales are one way to help keep the plant running and to maintain our industrial base,' said Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich ... 'we save jobs at Warren and help keep our nation's tank industry operating."

Never mind how many people are killed by our tanks. Never mind the greedy, amoral fact that we might supply weapons to both sides of a conflict. The important thing is to keep our defense jobs, even if we don't need the defense.

Mice and snakes are worse than spiders

Arachnephobia is the morbid and often irrational fear of spiders. It's such a common phobia that director Frank Marshall and executive producer Steven Spielberg think they can capitalize on it with a new movie, "Arachnophobia" (Hollywood spells it differently than Webster's).

The film, released nationwide July 18, features the illtempered offspring of a giant South American spider overrunning a town. As one reviewer touted it, "Jaws with legs." Your former neighbor, Karen Schaeffer said the movie probably wouldn't bother her since she doesn't dread spiders.

"I think I could watch it (but) after awhile I would think it was stupid," said the former Cass City resident, now living in Walton, Neb. with her husband Norm.

She's not afraid of spiders, but Norm said she does suffer from an illogical fear of mice - musophobia.

The reason Karen hates mice so much? "They're just creepy. They're dirty and they shouldn't be in my house,' she explained.

Although she realizes her aversion to mice is irrational, Schaeffer still reacts when she sees a rodent.

"I don't stand up on the table and scream, but I do run away just exactly as fast as I can." she laughed. Her husband, Norm admits that Karen isn't the only family cational leadership in Aumember who over reacts to a phobia since he loathes snakes gust. for no apparent reason. However, the Schaeffers have found a way to deal with their personal demons.

"We live in a house with no mice and no snakes," Karen stated.

Area residents are urged to give blood when the Red Cross Blood Mobile visits Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City, July 31 from 1 to 6:45 p.m.

The blood bank is being sponsored by the Knights of Columbus.

Blood bank Chairman Val Weeks said the need for blood donors is particularly high now, before the Labor Day weekend.

"Labor Day weekend is historically one of the highest blood usage periods of the entire year," she ex-plained. "That's because more people are traveling and enjoying the outdoors. And that means an increased chance of accidents which may result in a blood transfusion."

Weeks added, "Labor Day also marks the 'summer slump' at Red Cross; a time when blood usage is high and donations are down.'

Hogiabout the phones, in Cass City?" "They're smarter now."

Cass City entered a new age in telephone service on July 21. Cass City customers whose phone numbers begin with 872 now find dialing faster. Conversations clearer. And their phones, a lot smarter-because GTE has installed a new, state-of-theart electronic switching system.

Expect a few changes in the way you make calls. From now on, you'll need to dial all seven digits for local calls. Always begin dialing within 15 seconds after lifting the receiver. And if you wait more than 15 seconds between digits, you'll need to hang up and dial again.

A few of you may be experiencing interrupted service on your pushbutton-tone telephones. If you are, please call GTE for Touch Calling service.

Listen for a different dial tone when you pick up the phone from now on. Then start talking. Cass City. The future's here.

Cass City's DeLong clan

County fair is family affair

by Kristine L. Renaud Staff Writer

or Duane and Denise DeLong's 6 children. Tuscola County's annual fair offers more than entertainment. It's a learning opportunity and a chance to see months of hard work pay off.

The half dozen DeLong offspring - Dennis, 18, son Dana, 16, Dirk, 15, Denelle, 14, daughter Davon, 11, and Drew, 8—spend a good part of each year raising and grooming livestock for the fair's 4-H shows.

Their parents also participated in 4-H when they were youths. Duane, a Cass City dairy farmer, continues to assist with the village's livestock branch of the county group.

"I've been in 4-H ever since I was old enough to get in," he said, adding "(now) I do whatever I can do for them.'

Apparently the children inherited their parents' interest in the program. From the oldest to the youngest, they are all in 4-H. "We gave them the opportunity to join and they followed up on it," Duane remarked. "I think it's a very good learning experience for them."

Although Duane offers his children advice on raising their livestock for show, he said the work is something they do on their own.

Until last year Dennis, Dana, Dirk, Denelle and Davon were primarily interested in showing cattle. The youngsters learned to raise heifers, tame the animals to walk when guided with a lead rope, groom and feed them in preparation for fair shows.

'For the 1989 fair they decided to raise hogs. Denise and Duane said their children borrowed enough money to purchase 16 hogs, all about 8 weeks old, which the 6 kids raised to market weight and sold after the fair to pay back the loan. They made a profit of $100 each and put it away for future college expenses, Denise said

As far as higher education is concerned, the DeLong children are free to make their own choices about colleges and studies.

"I'm not putting pressure on them to study farming, it's their decision," Duane said, commenting "if they want to come back to the farm there's enough work for them.'

"I'm trying to talk them into doing something different," so they can discover career opportunities outside of farming, Denise said. Whether saving for college educations, raising cattle or learning about hogs, the

"It's a group activity," Duane explained. "They've got to work together with the amount of stuff to be done." During the fair the kids do more than care for and show their livestock. In the past they've entered examples of their talents in woodworking, sewing and flower arranging. In addition, for 5 or 6 years the DeLongs have supplied the wagon, team and 2 drivers to carry the 4-H king and queen. Along with 350 head of cattle, the DeLongs own about 20 Belgian horses. The cattle, 150 of which supply milk, are their livelihood while the horses provide a pleasant diversion, "something to play with, to have fun with," Denise commented.

wagon which carries the 4-H royalty and the younger DeLong children show Belgians in the open class categories during the fair. Even though the horses are a hobby, preparing them to show is time consuming.

Dennis and Dana had to learn how to hitch up a team and drive a wagon, plus washing and brushing the large animals. Denise said it takes 3 or 4 hours just to curry 2 horses, roll their manes and get them into a show harness.

Although gearing up for and attending the county fair involves hours of sweat and responsibility, the DeLongs manage to enjoy the fair.

"When I was growing up a week at the fair was our vacation," Duane said, and he tries to maintain that feeling of business mixed with fun in his own family.

SHOW FORM - Denelle DeLong, 16, works with a heifer on her family's Cass City farm. She plans to show the young cow during the 4-H programs at the Tuscola County Fair.

BATH TIME — While Dennis DeLong, 18, washes his heifer in preparation for the upcoming county fair, youngest brother Drew, 8, brushes his cow. The 2 boys, their 2 brothers and 2 sisters all plan to participate in 4-H livestock shows.

The State Board received a total of 24,063 individual teacher applications from 468 local and intermediate school districts. The total amount sought by Michigan teachers for computers was $57.1 million.

"Education must change and we want to be on the forefront of that change,' said State Board President Cherry H. Jacobus.

"The Classrooms of Tomorrow Program is another important step in bringing computers and other instructional technology to Michigan teachers and students. Over a quarter of a million students in more than half of the school buildings in Michigan will benefit from the program. That is what we are all about --- helping children learn."

Veterans day at county fair

The Tuscola County Fair Board has declared Aug. 1 Veterans Day" at the county fair.

All veterans will be admitted to the grounds free. The evening show in front of the grandstand at 7 p.m. will feature "posting of the colors" by local veterans' groups, a performance by the Millington American Legion Drill Team and a show by "Britt Small & Festival," a singing group from Missouri. This group was organized by Britt Small, a Viet-Nam veteran, and it has traveled extensively in the country.

Admission to the grandstand is also free to all veterans.

Veteran's groups and the Veteran Counselor of Tuscola County will also be available for questions at a tent on the fairgrounds.

ALTHOUGH ADDITIONS have been built and the building restored, today's St. Ignatius church is essentially the same building that was constructed in 1890.

THIS PHOTO OF St. Ignatius was taken in the early 1900s. Note the horses and buggies parked next to the church, which then sported a high steeple that could be seen for miles around.

Prior to construction of the church, services were held at the Maurice Clifford home, one of the larger residences in the area, where an altar and confessional were stored. The church was eventually built on a portion of the Clifford family farm.

EARLY PARISH

"They didn't have the luxury of having a priest all the time," Walsh said of the early parish, which consisted of probably about 40 families. "Even after they first built the church, they didn't have a priest full time.'

In 1894, the churches in Argyle and Freiburg were assigned as mission parishes, and in 1904, Father Alex Conus became the first full-time pastor at St. Ignatius. He stayed for 10 years, also serving St. Joseph's in Argyle during that time.

Walsh pointed out that the interviews revealed the early settlers didn't focus on, or often talk about, the difficulties they encountered as they traveled from Canada, or of the tragedy they endured after they arrived.

"They always spoke of the good things," she commented.

Walsh indicated keeping that spirit alive has been key in the church's history. The first settlers were "giants," she said. "They had to have such tremendous strength. You respect that dedication, and so you do the same thing."

"Throughout the history of the church we've had very dedicated pastors and the people have been very dedicated," she remarked. "I guess that's the reason we're

Dean's list to include Aaron Lefler

A DeVry Institute of Technology student from Cass City will have his name published in the National Dean's List, which recognizes the academic achievement of students from colleges and universities across the nation.

He is Aaron Lefler, the son of Robert and Doris Lefler of Cass City. A 1985 graduate of Cass City High School, Lefler is a freshman at DeVry, located in Lombard, Ill., where he is pursuing a 4-year degree in telecommunication marketing and management. field.

Erla will attend Oakland University this fall, where she plans to major in business.

"The Associated Food Dealers Scholarship program encourages intelligent and active students to further their education," Joe Sarafa, executive director of the association, remarked "Janet Erla exemplifies the academic excellence and leadership that is vital to our nation's future.' The AFD scholarship fund was established in 1972. Employees of AFD members or children of employees are eligible for the program. Erla's scholarship entry was submitted by Erla's Food Center of Cas

Second quarter report reveals Walbro sales up, income down

L.E. Althaver, chairman, president and chief executive officer, Walbro Corporation, reported net sales of $39,761,000 for the second quarter ended June 30, compared with $32,147,000 for the same period in 1989. (Second quarter 1990 sales include $3,026,000 from the recently-acquired Sharon Manufacturing Company.) The company reported income from continuing operations of $641,000 for the quarter compared with $822,000 for the second quarter of 1989.

Income per share from continuing operations was $.15 for the second quarter, based on an average of 4,289,161 shares outstanding. This compares with $.20 for the second quarter of 1989, based on 4,058,378 shares outstanding.

"Shipments of electric fuel pumps produced for original equipment applications by Walbro's Automotive Division were running at high levels in the second quarter," Althaver said in announcing the second quarter results. "However, total fuel pump shipments for the year

Watercrafts added to sheriff's arsenal

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department has added unique new weapons to its marine law enforcement arsenal: 2 Yamaha WaveRunner LXs.

These personal watercraft, capable of carrying up to 2 people, were made available to the department at no cost to taxpayers as part of a public safety program sponsored locally through Lindy's Sales, Inc. (Fairgrove) by Yamaha Marine Group, headquar-tered in Cypress, Calif. These highly maneuverable, shallow-draft vessels will enhance the department's patrol and enforcement capabilities. Among the waterways where the WaveRunner LXS will be will be somewhat below earlier expectations, the result of weak passenger car sales."

"Shipments of diaphragm carburetors by Walbro's Small Engine Division were below last year's second quarter levels. Float feed carburetor sales were also at low levels," Althaver said. "Carburetor sales are expected to remain at approximately the same levels for the balance of the year," he added. Althaver noted that Walbro's revenues have benefited from the recent acquisition of Sharon Manufacturing Company, Lambertville, Mich.

"The contribution of this new addition to Walbro's Automotive Division will continue to grow in 1990, as half of the year. In addition, fuel module production will increase this summer at the automotive division's Meriden, Conn., facility, as new applications reach the production stage."

Inmates at large

A pair of Camp Tuscola inmates remained at large Monday following their escape over the weekend.

Troopers from the state police post in Caro identified the inmates as Donald J. Rite, 25, and Thomas E. Moore, 20.

According to reports, the men apparently escaped through a gap in the front gate of the Caro area minimum-security prison Saturday evening. Troopers said the pair were last seen during a routine count of inmates at 10 p.m., but were discovered missing at 11 p.m.

Rite, who is serving a sentence of 2 to 15 years for breaking and entering, is described as a white male, 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighing 190 pounds, with hazel eyes and brown shoulder-length hair.

Moore, meanwhile, is serving one to 10 years for breaking and entering, and 2 to 15 years for armed robbery. He is described as a white male, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing 190 pounds, with brown eyes and brown shoulder-length hair. He has and scars on his right eye and elbow

Clio men charged

A pair of Clio men were charged last week in Tusords, Robert L. LeBlanc, 21, was arraigned on a charge of unlawfully driving away a motor vehicle Feb. 23 in Saginaw County's Bridgeport Township, while William A. LeBlanc, 47, was charged with receiving and concealing stolen property valued at more than $100 Feb. 23 in Arbela Township. A preliminary examination for both men has been scheduled for Friday at 8:30 a.m. Bond for each defendant was set at $5,000. In other recent proceedings, Sandra G. Deo, 29, of Vassar, was arraigned Monday on a charge of writing a no-account check.

Her preliminary exam is scheduled for Aug. 3 at 8:30 a.m. Bond was set at $5,000. Court records state the offense allegedly occurred Feb. 14 in Cass City and involved a $66.07 check made payable to the Ben Franklin Store and drawn on Great Lakes Bancorp.

Weaver explained a greater selection and variety of items offered for sale along Main Street is going to be a big plus in terms of attracting customers to Cass City. "I definitely think that's a positive move," he added.

While most retailers may have seen a downturn in this year's Sidewalk Sale Days figures, at least one experienced record sales.

Roger Board, owner of Board Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge, reported selling 9 vehicles. It was his third and best year for sidewalk sales in Cass City.

Board wasn't alone in reporting success.

Members of the Owendale-Gagetown Cadet Troop 642 of the Mid-Thumb Area Service Unit sold about: 1,200 hot dogs, netting some $430. The girls worked 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday, 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday and 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday.

The proceeds will help fund a fall trip to Chicago for 10 of the 14 troop members.

Jordan offers police course

In cooperation with the Michigan State Police, Jordan College Thumb Campus located in Cass City offers the opportunity for qualified students to start their academic work at Jordan and complete their studies at the Michigan State Police Academy.

Jordan College does not guarantee acceptance into the State Police Academy, but does offer the student the opportunity to start an Associate of Arts degree program that could lead to a career opportunity with the Michigan State Police.
