THE GOOD NEWS FOR area students this fall is that there appears to be no danger of schools closing because of labor trouble. That doesn't mean anything to the small fry as they begin the first day of classes. Waiting for the doors to open at Campbell Elementary School Tuesday morning were Burgandy and Christopher Burleson, accompanied by their mother, Heather Burleson.

Owen-Gage teachers reach tentative contract

Owen-Gage teachers are expected to get their first look this week at a tentative labor agreement reached Thursday night.

And, they're expected to be satisfied with what they see.

"I think it will be acceptable to the teachers," Manuel Thies, president of the Owen-Gage Education Association, remarked after the tentative pact was finalized during a 90-minute bargaining session Thursday.

"Basically it was a very short meeting," he commented, adding that prior to the session, "We had everything hammered out except salary."

"I think both sides knew it had to come together. Otherwise we would have some drastic measure come about and I don't think either side wanted that," he said.

Thies declined to discuss specifics of the contract, saying only that the pact is for 2 years and that details will be released after the district's 21-plus teachers have had an opportunity to see the agreement.

That probably will occur later this week. Thies said he expected the Tri-County Bargaining Association to accept or reject the tentative contract today (Wednesday). If accepted, the contract will go to the teachers Thursday, he explained, adding they will review the material for 5 days before conducting a vote.

Thursday's bargaining session was one of several held since bargaining began in May. During that time, the teachers, whose previous 3-year contract expired at the end of the 1989-90 school year, staged 2 informational pickets prior to regular school board meetings.

Thies, who has indicated teachers would likely strike if they didn't have a contract prior to the start of the new school year, noted at least 80 percent of the teachers gathered for a third informational picket Thursday night.

"We had a very nice turnout of staff members supporting the team," he said.

Cable celebrates 30 years here

General Cable celebrated 30 years in Cass City Saturday with an open house for employees and former employees of the company and their families.

The event was highlighted by tours through the plant, with members of the Cable staff on hand to answer questions about the various manufacturing techniques.

An estimated 650 persons attended, more than we expected, said John Cooper, employee relations manager. Today the plant hires about 130 persons, down from a high of over 500 at its peak.

A tent was erected adjacent to the plant, staffed by volunteer retired Cable employees. Family groups gathered and were served bratwurst, potato chips, a soft drink and a piece of a special "30th anniversary" cake.

Cass City constant

Population falls in 3-county area

Cass City officials aren't happy with preliminary 1990 census figures, but say they can't argue with the early estimates.

The recently released census results show a loss of 15 persons—6 of a percent—in Cass City over the past 10 years. The total population went from 2,258 in 1980 to 2,243 in 1990.

Cass City isn't alone. The preliminary figures revealed population decreases in area townships as well as several Thumb communities and Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties.

Although census officials point out that the preliminary figures are incomplete and probably will change, the numbers have sparked criticism from a number of Michigan communities which, according to the census, have experienced a decline in population.

The concern is focused primarily on revenue—particularly state revenue-sharing funds—that may be lost due to falling population figures. State-shared revenue and some road funding are determined, in part, on a per-capita basis.

Overall, Census Bureau officials estimate that each person is equivalent to $172 in taxes returned by the federal government to citizens through various programs.

According to Cass City Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie, Cass City has twice successfully protested census figures in the past. This time, however, "We're going to have a hard time challenging their figures," he said.

"What we're seeing, based on the (number of) housing units, is we're going to have a hard time arguing with them."

LaPonsie noted that while the number of residents is down, according to the preliminary census figures, the number of housing units is up, from 880 to 936. At the same time, however, the number of persons per housing unit in the village has decreased over the past decade, from 2.6 to 2.43.

Aside from a trend of smaller households, the figures indicate Cass City has a significant senior citizen population, LaPonsie remarked.

In terms of lost revenue, the village manager estimated that if the numbers remain the same, the village could lose roughly $1,300 in state-shared revenue that is based on population.

The village expects to receive a total of some $203,250 in state-shared revenue this year.

Cass City's apparent drop in population was smaller than that estimated for Elkland Township, which lost 63 persons (1.8 percent) for a preliminary 1990 total of 3,386 residents, compared to 3,449 in 1980.

Novesta Township's population, meanwhile, fell by 1.3 percent (20 persons) to 1,462, and Elmwood Township lost 77 residents (5.7 percent), from 1,337 in 1980 to 1,260 in 1990.

Overall, Huron County's population fell by 5.2 percent, from 36,459 in 1980 to 34,580; Sanilac County lost 1,167 residents (2.9 percent), from 40,789 a decade ago to 39,622, and Tuscola County's population dropped by nearly 3 percent, from 56,961 10 years ago to 55,256.

The decrease may seem small, but Tuscola County Controller Michael Hoagland pointed out that state-shared revenue is the county's second largest source of revenue.

If the census numbers remain unchanged and the county were to receive current payout levels from the state, Hoagland said, the drop in population could translate into a loss of some $17,000 in state-shared revenue next year, from $722,000 to $705,000.

Hoagland indicated the county may decide to join other municipalities in challenging the census figures.

According to officials at the Detroit Regional Census Center in Southfield, municipalities have 15 days from the day they receive their preliminary census information to review figures and file a response.

Persons who were not included in the census can still be counted by picking up a one-page "Were you counted?" form or by calling toll-free 1-800-999-1990. Locally, the forms currently are available at the Tuscola County Clerk's office.

Council sets recycling plan

Cass City residents will be asked to participate in a volunteer recycling program set to get underway by the end of September.

The initiative, which will be made available locally through Blue Water Recycling of Port Huron, was approved during a brief Village Council meeting Monday night.

Trustee Nat Tuttle, who chairs the council's Public Services Committee, recommended implementing a program similar to one he and village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie visited recently in Lexington.

"They are using this company and they're very happy with it," Tuttle remarked. "It was clean as a whistle. I was impressed and I think it's a great start for Cass City."

Tuttle explained that Blue Water will provide a trailer and containers to collect recyclables. When a trailer is full, he said, the company will bring in a replacement. The village, Tuttle added, must provide volunteers to man the trailer one or 2 days a week.

The program won't provide any revenue to the village, but it won't cost anything, either. The exceptions would be providing goggles and gloves to volunteers working at the recycling center, which probably will be located near the village Municipal Building.

"The only (other) thing we would have to buy or make would be steps to go up into the trailer," Tuttle said.

For their part, residents would be asked to separate their recyclables following some basic guidelines, and take them to the recycling

Continue fight for new asphalt plant

A hotly protested proposal to allow installation of an asphalt plant just west of Cass City has been taken to the Village Council in hopes that there's more than one way to skin a cat.

In a letter reviewed by the Council Monday night, Cass City landowner J.D. Tuckey asked village officials to annex 75 acres bordering M-81 and Koepfgen Road. He also asked that the property be zoned industrial for the purpose of installing an asphalt plant and removing gravel from the site.

The letter stated that the request will be withdrawn if the zoning change is denied.

Tuckey and a representative of PTI Corporation, which would own and operate the plant, presented an identical proposal to the Elkland Township Planning Commission earlier this month.

The request was rejected at the township level, however, after several persons voiced objections to the plans during a 2-hour public hearing.

Village Council members briefly discussed the request Monday, but took no action pending further investigation.

Among the questions that surfaced was whether the annexation would be possible from a legal standpoint.

Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie said the Tuckey property is contiguous to the village—a requirement for annexation—but it's only contiguous at one corner, where the land meets a village-owned tract west of Doerr Road in the Industrial Park.

Aside from a legal opinion, council President Pro Tem Mike Weaver said the council should obtain more specifics about the proposal, including a legal description of the property, and visit the site.

Trustee Les Karr agreed, suggesting that council members also visit asphalt plant sites in other areas.

Council members pointed out that if they initially support the annexation request, there's no guarantee the property would be zoned industrial.

If approved by the council, the request would go to the County Board of Commissioners, who would take action after holding a public hearing. If commissioners approve the annexation, the property would be automatically zoned residential. At that point the Village Planning Commission would make a recommendation to the council on the zoning issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard LeValley

Paula Herron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herron of Cass City, and Richard LeValley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Ricker of Owendale, were married July 14 at St. Pancratius Catholic Church in Cass City by Father Julius Splet.

The bride, given by her father, wore a white taffeta gown with a portrait neckline. Her gauntlets were accented with appliques and pearl. The taffeta skirt had an attached applique cathedral train. The veil was made of lilies of the valley and pearls and was designed by the bride's aunt, Bonnie Miller. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Pam Merchant, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Dawn Hollis, Brenda Brinkman, Barb Karr and Angela Herron, sisters of the bride, attended as bridesmaids. Lexie Brinkman and Kayla Karr, nieces of the bride, were flower girls. The bridesmaids wore tea-length pink and aqua floral tapestry gowns accented with sweetheart necklines and short puff sleeves.

Alan LeValley, brother of the groom, was best man. Paul, Bruce and Marty LeValley, brothers of the groom, and Chuck Dorsch, friend of the groom, were groomsmen. Eric Hollis, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Les Karr, brother-in-law of the bride, and Jeff Maharg, cousin of the bride, were ushers.

A dinner reception for 550 guests was held at Colony House.

After a honeymoon cruise to the Caribbean, the couple are residing at their home in Gagetown. Richard is a truck driver for Erla's Inc. and Paula is a kindergarten teacher for Cass City Public Schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Kanaski

Miss Agnes Martin became the bride of Jeff Kanaski Saturday, Aug. 18, at Our Lady of Lake Huron Catholic Church, Harbor Beach. The one-o'clock ceremony was performed by Father Thomas McNamara. The church was decorated with silk carnations and sweetheart roses.

Miss Martin is the daughter of John and Marge Walker of Ubyly, and the groom's parents are John and Arlene Kanaski of Bad Axe.

Maid of honor was Trish Pearce, Wyandotte. Bridesmaids were Laura Blett, Ubyly, Jill Meinhold, Bad Axe, Josette Kanaski, Bad Axe, and MariAnn Roggenbuck, Harbor Beach.

Groomsmen were John Walker Jr., Ubyly, John Kanaski Jr., Elkton, Brian Kanaski, Bad Axe, and Duane Roggenbuck, Harbor Beach.

Junior bride and groom were Rebecca Roggenbuck, Harbor Beach, and Chris Pearce, Wyandotte.

Pages were Jeremy Roggenbuck, Harbor Beach, and Scott Pearce, Wyandotte.

The bride wore a white full length gown with a Sabrina neckline and chapel length train with ruffles flowing across the train.

The maid of honor wore a fuchsia colored full length dress with a cummerbund around the waist forming a semi-train in the back. The bridesmaids' dresses were the same as the maid of honor's only in rosebud pink.

The junior bride's dress was identical to the bride's. The groom, ring bearer and pages wore white tuxes with tails. Groomsmen and ushers wore black tuxes with tails.

A wedding reception for 250 guests was held immediately following the wedding ceremony at the Franklin Inn in Bad Axe.

The wedding cake was made by Edna McLachlan of Cass City.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Ubyly High School and is employed at Franklin Inn in Bad Axe. The groom is a 1987 graduate of Harbor Beach High School and is employed at Meinhold Car Wash Center in Bad Axe as assistant manager.

The couple honeymooned in the Upper Peninsula for 2 weeks and are residing in Bad Axe.

Ernie's been working overtime lately. Ernie, you may recall, is the guy who hides whatever you can't find, eats the last of the chocolate covered peanuts when you wanted them in the worst way, and is generally responsible for everything frustrating and unexplainable that happens around the house.

Most readers know him well. His latest trick has been to hide my favorite white slacks. The last time I remember seeing them was on a weekend trip a few weeks ago.

When Ernie hides clothing, it's natural to think, for the first 2 or 3 weeks, that "it's in the laundry." After you've done the laundry several times and it still hasn't turned up, the fun begins.

Living in a fairly big house, with lots of potential hiding places, is extremely frustrating. I searched every reasonable place for a pair of slacks to lurk at least twice. Then I searched the rest of the house.

Trying to imagine every possible scenario, I thought, "Suppose while ironing, the doorbell rang. I might have carried the pants to the door and hung them in the coat closet." They weren't there. Or maybe I didn't have enough hangers downstairs and put them under another garment. Apparently that didn't happen either.

Perhaps they were inadvertently put in my husband's closet. Nope.

I checked the garment bag we'd taken on the trip, and found a pair of his white slacks, for which Ernie would have been held accountable in time, but mine were not there.

By now I should know better than to let myself get irritated over these things. Ernie will return them in his own good time.

He also made off with the case for my glasses last week. At least this time the glasses weren't in it.

The last time I lost my glasses was unpleasantly memorable.

After searching the house in vain, I called a co-worker and asked her to check my desk at the office. When they weren't there, I played the "last time I remember seeing them" game.

I was pretty sure I'd put them in the bag with my empty salad container when leaving work.

Horrors! Could I have thrown the bag away with the glasses in it?

Double horrors! It was Thursday - trash day! - and my dutiful husband always takes the trash to the curb before going to work.

Hurrying to the window and discovering that the trash truck hadn't come yet, I tore out to the curb in all my early morning disarray to retrieve and sift through 3 bags of garbage.

Don't think for a moment that Ernie didn't get a kick out of watching me search frantically through the refuse, cursing coffee grounds, tea bags and cats.

If the glasses had been there, it would have been disgusting, but rewarding. They were not.

I discovered later that Ernie had gone down to the office and tucked the bag with my glasses in it out of sight behind my desk.

He'll probably return my white cotton slacks sometime next winter.

That's how he gets his jollies.

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire
(And anyone else he can get to help.)

We know better, but in the rush of production a story last week left the impression that only the Lions and Rotary were involved in the production of the new track at Cass City Recreational Park.

These clubs are furnishing the new basketball courts, but the track is an effort of the entire community.

Special mention should be made of the Gavel Club, that was one of the clubs to donate $10,000 to the project, but more importantly was the club most active in the planning before it became a community-wide endeavor. Although the work is nearing completion, more money is needed to pay off the loan made to the Cass City Boosters Club by the school district.

We stole this from Jim Sherman, publisher of the Oxford Leader, who undoubtedly swiped it from someone else.

"Another figure that is hard to grasp is a billion. A billion seconds ago Harry Truman was president of the United States. A billion minutes ago, a carpenter named Joseph was building things while waiting for a son to be born. A billion hours ago your ancestors were inventing the wheel. A billion dollars ago was just a half-day in Washington, D.C."

For awhile this week, in figuring out just what might be the topic for this week's pearls of wisdom, talking about the crisis in the Gulf was tentatively on the agenda.

But on reflection, that idea was discarded. Whatever there is to say about our fight with Iraq has been said. I won't mention that I fail to see where the harm is in talking with Iraq's Saddam Hussein before he pulls out of Kuwait. If you can talk him out, that's better than shooting him out with the inevitable cost in American lives. Nothing wrong with exploring all avenues for peace. Honorable peace.

It's certain that we won't settle the oil crisis in Cass City. Let's switch to a local issue.

It's getting into the high school sports season again and let me ask you, just what are the school colors? Careful now. That's not such an easy question as it appears.

Did you say maroon and white or perhaps maroon and grey? Either way you can be right or wrong. The truth is that no one really knows what the colors are. On the Cass City School Board there are members who graduated in different years. One said that when he was in school it was maroon and grey, another that when he was attending it was maroon and white.

After about 10 minutes of good-natured discussion, it was decided that at this particular moment the colors are maroon and grey. White is white, but maroon is whatever shade of dark red you like.

There's plenty of room for a different hue that's called maroon and over the years the school has had it on various items of clothing and literature.

One reason is that, without a sample, it's near impossible to get a uniform hue from various suppliers.

Once we get that settled, can we live with grey for the second color? Here's a vote for switching to white. Nothing against grey, you understand, except it looks like there wasn't enough bleach to go around when the uniforms were washed.

But better than that, white gives the cheerleaders a break. It has to be hard to yell "maroon and grey, fight fight" when white and fight go together like dip and chips.

It may be that the current student council and administration will make a decision based on the wishes of the majority, but if past history is any indicator, the chances of it becoming the permanent solution is...well, it's about as likely as a weekend this summer without rain.

Youth can join by contacting Koglin at 872-3727, or Robert A. Johnson, County Extension director, 104 County Building, Bad Axe, (phone) 269-9949.

"If It Fitz..."

Education is key

By Jim Fitzgerald

On ABC-TV News, the young U.S. Navy pilot was elated to be in the Persian Gulf where he could use his combat training in a real war. He compared the circumstances to a football team that plays many practice games, getting ready for the real thing.

"Now we get a chance to play the real game," he said.

Whoopie. Now he has a chance to play a game where you keep score by counting dead bodies.

In my living room, Emily was worried by the TV news. At age 8, Emily is old enough to understand what a war means — people kill each other. But she didn't know how close she was to the bombs and poison gas. "Is Iraq in Michigan?" she asked.

On a world globe, I showed Emily that Iraq was way over on the other side of the Earth. She wondered: "Is that far enough away?"

No. When it comes to modern warfare — the real game that turns on gung ho pilots — no place is far enough away.

WHEN WILL THEY EVER LEARN

My war conversation with my granddaughter was dismaying, but not surprising. I had similar talks with her mother, when she was Emily's age, and with my other children when they were becoming old enough to be frightened and confused by bombs bursting on the 6 o'clock news.

And, all those long years ago, I wondered the same thing I wonder today: How do we keep children from growing up to be as bloody stupid as adults? How do we teach them that, to the extent that even the most sophisticated nation uses violence to resolve conflicts, that nation is an uncivilized failure?

"Teach" is the key word. Education has to be the right answer. Our schools should teach more about peaceful solutions to international problems, and less about the glories of war. Too much history is taught in segments landmarked by battles. Too much attention is paid to the warmongers; not enough respect is given to the peace-game players.

Our children need to hear more from teachers like 41-year-old John Hartom, an art instructor at Lahser High School in Bloomfield Hills. Hartom and Bloomfield Hills artist Lisa Blackburn, 32, are in the midst of an ambitious project aimed at distributing — free — an authoritative "common peace lesson plan" to every K-12 school and college in the state.

Hartom and Blackburn are putting together a book titled "Imagine/Render: A Gift of Peace." It will contain around 65 "visions of peace, visual art proposals or lesson plans" contributed by such nationally known personages as Desmond Tutu, Bill Day, Jimmy Carter, Harry Belafonte and Joan Baez, as well as less famous but much talented artists and teachers.

The plan is to print 6,000 copies of the 150-page book and introduce it at the annual Michigan Art Education Association Conference in Harbor Springs, Oct. 25-28. Gov. James Blanchard has designated Nov. 11-17 as World Peace Week in an official proclamation that says "Imagine/Render: A Gift of Peace" will "encourage the use of art to explore the potential of world peace. Within the borders of Michigan, more than 2,000 kindergarten through 12th grade art teachers instruct more than 250,000 students. Lesson plans presented to these young people inspiring them to examine the subject of world peace creatively and artistically can have lasting and far-reaching effects."

Conference fees will cover a small part of the approximately $7,000 printing cost, and Hartom and Blackburn are seeking grants and individual donations to cover the balance (Hartom's address is 4893 F. Franklin Road, Bloomfield Hills, MI 48302). Hartom and Blackburn have been working on the project every day since Jan. 1. Why? Because, Hartom explained, he is conscious of the great power of art, such as the Vietnam Memorial, "to move people," and of a teacher's "opportunity to impact 100 to 150 kids every school day." Put the 2 together in the cause of peace, and a lot of young students could be headed in the right direction — toward resolving conflicts with words instead of weapons.

There's a terribly long way to go, but Hartom and Blackburn are working toward the day when a young pilot will be dismayed, not thrilled, by the chance to play "the real game" in the Persian Gulf. I thank them, for my grandchildren, and for yours.

A "Word" from our Many Satisfied Customers

DONALD GRAFF, Graff Bros., Route 1, Fowler, MI: I increased my service life with TUPES HARDFACED bean knives 3 times over plain knives. I was very pleased.
GLENN MEYERS, Route 4, Hemlock, MI: I have used TUPES HARDFACED bean knives and I don't know the full service life yet because I am still using them ever since you folks hardfaced them. (6 bean puller knives).
GERHARD ZEILINGER, 2210 Freeland Road, Saginaw, MI: I have used TUPES HARDFACED bean knives and recommend them. We farm 280 acres in Turner, Michigan, and the ground is pretty rough. We need a lot of plowshares and bean knives and the bean knives held up good. I am going to get plowshares too.
RON ZIMMERMAN, St. Louis, MI: TUPES HARDFACED bean knives have lasted twice as long as plain so far. No great amount of wear noticed on them after 140 acres.
WILLARD DESGRANGE, Route 2, Eaton Rapids, MI 48827: Used bean knives on 4 row puller and pulled 100 acres. The knives show very little wear. Well satisfied.

Seat belt usage, enforcement cited

Traffic fatalities down in the Thumb

by Kristine L. Renaud
Staff Writer

Fewer traffic fatalities have occurred to date in Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties as compared to 1989 figures, say area officials, probably due to new law enforcement programs and increased use of passenger restraints.

"I think this year as compared with last year, the numbers are not as high," said Huron County Sheriff Michael Gage.

Sanilac Sheriff Virgil Strickler agreed with Gage's observation. "It looks like we're going to be significantly lower this year barring a major rise at the end of the year," he commented.

According to the Michigan State Police Traffic Services Division, in 1989 Huron County reported 12 fatal accidents in which 15 people died. Sanilac County tallied 18 deaths in 14 traffic accidents during 1989. The fatality numbers in both counties already are lower than they were this time last year. For example, Sanilac County has reported 5 fatal accidents since January. By August 1989, 12 deadly accidents had occurred in that county.

Sheriff Thomas Kern of Tuscola County came to the same conclusions as his peers, and noted that 1989's totals were inexplicably high.

"I think that last year's figures were substantially higher and I can't attribute it to anything," he said.

New law enforcement programs, such as this summer's joint effort between Sanilac and Huron counties, may be keeping the roads safer.

Sanilac-Huron Accident Reduction Program has put extra police officers on M-53 since Memorial Day, and will continue to do so until Labor Day, Gage said.

SHARP is state funded by the Office of Highway Safety Planning and pays overtime costs for extra officers working Thursdays through Sundays, he explained. SHARP patrols concentrate on speed reduction and safety belt use and have had enforcement success in both areas, Gage added.

"We have been stressing seat belt use. We'd like to think that has something to do with the lower fatality rate," Strickler said. Although speed control and driving sober can eliminate accident opportunities, wearing safety belts reduces the consequences of automobile mishaps.

In Sanilac County, 17 of the 19 people who died in 1989's motor vehicle accidents weren't wearing seat belts, he added. Of the 24 people killed last year on Tuscola County roads, 17 hadn't used seat belts, Kern noted.

"The biggest single way people can avoid injury is by using passenger restraints," Strickler stated. "The second is being a defensive driver."

All 3 county officials agreed that being aware of road conditions, impending intersections and oncoming traffic is crucial in avoiding an unexpected and violent meeting with one's fellow driver.

Motor vehicle operators need to take special care when approaching intersections. Traffic fatalities in those areas account for one-fourth of all such deaths, according to the Traffic Services Division.

Although more densely populated areas — such as Caro, Bad Axe and Sandusky — report more accidents, the sheriffs concurred that open, rural, paved intersections also have a high incidence of traffic deaths. Because many county roads are flat, straight and well-driven by the same people, drivers don't pay close attention to potential hazards and changes in their regular routes.

"I think we have more fatalities happening off our main state highways than on them," Gage remarked. "People get so used to driving down the same stretch of road that they get used to the area. They take everything for granted," Kern said. This point was illustrated last year when a traffic light was installed at the M-24 and M-46 intersection. A number of accidents occurred soon after because people didn't notice the change, Kern said.

Other accident causing factors are sudden weather changes and animals, especially deer, in the road.

Cass City's Police Chief Gene Wilson said a high concentration of the accidents on Cemetery Road, south of Main Street, were due to cars striking animals. In 1989 there were 39 accidents on that stretch of Novesta Township roadway. Of the 37 one-vehicle mishaps, 30 involved cars hitting animals.

"We have a problem with deer crossing Cemetery Road in the Shabbona, Severance and Decker Road areas," he said. A car-deer accident is tough to avoid, he added. "It happens so quick."

Aside from Cemetery Rd. Cass City has several other traffic problem areas, especially with Main St. intersections.

Seeger, Oak, Leach, West and Weaver Streets all tally their yearly share of fender-benders, but Doerr Road and Comment Drive are higher volume traffic spots and see more accident action.

"There's a lot of cars turning and coming out of driveways in those areas," Wilson said.

However, there's good news on the Cass City scene. Even though the village averages about 7 vehicle accidents yearly, few of them result in death.

"I've been here 20 years and we haven't had a traffic fatality inside the village yet," he commented.

1989 Crash Information

*In 1989, more than 417,000 traffic crashes occurred, and more than 154,500 persons were injured, crippled or maimed in Michigan.

*1,630 people were killed in 1,463 traffic crashes.

*1,287 traffic crash victims had safety belts available to them — 972 people (75.5 percent) were not wearing the belts.

*45 percent of Michigan traffic crash victims died in crashes that involved drinking.

*Nationally, 45,555 people died in 40,718 fatal traffic crashes.

*1.2 million people died in America's 9 wars. Motor vehicle crashes have killed more than twice that number.

*Motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for persons aged one to 38.

Fire fighters set to "Fill the Boot" this weekend

Fire departments throughout the Thumb, including Elkland Township, are setting their sights on a new state record as they prepare for the annual "Fill the Boot" Fire Fighters Crusade against muscular dystrophy this Labor Day.

Many departments volunteer their time on Labor Day

McLarty reunion held

Clarence Rossman, 84, of Owosso, was the oldest guest present at the annual McLarty reunion, held Aug. 19.

Among the 50 guests, Kaitlyn, one-year-old daughter of Tom and Lisa Rossman, New Baltimore, Clarence's great-granddaughter, was the youngest. Traveling the greatest distance were Jack and Shirley McLarty of Wentzville, MO.

Officers elected for 1991 are Chairman Richard McLarty, Avoca; sharing games and treasurer duties, Mary and Jim Maedel, Livonia, and Jill and Brent Hancock, Novi, and secretary Deloris Willerton of Midland.

Next year's reunion will be held the fourth Sunday in August at the Sanilac County Park, Forester.

weekend to stand at area intersections and traffic spots to collect monies for MDA. The money is collected in their boots—thus, "Fill the Boot."

Elkland Township firemen will do their part by collecting donations at the corner of Main and Seeger streets beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Area residents can watch the Thumb fire fighters on WJBK TV-2 and WNEM TV-5 during local broadcasts of the MDA Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon Monday. Total collections will be announced at that time.

The area chapter (Mid-Eastern Michigan Chapter of the Muscular Dystrophy Association) has had impressive support from fire departments, which have raised more money than any other chapter in the state. Last year they raised nearly $90,000 for MDA and hope to top $100,000 this year.

The monies fire fighters collect will provide comprehensive patient programs for children and adults afflicted with one of 40 neuromuscular diseases in an area covering Genesee, Huron, Lapeer, St. Clair, Sanilac and Tuscola counties. These programs include a MDA clinic, support groups, research projects and a week-long summer camp.

Fire fighters who would like information on how their department can get involved can call MDA at (313) 232-3190.

Substantial changes in valuations due in Elkland Twp.

Any day between now and the end of the year, Elkland Township property owners and residents can expect to have a knock on the door by a representative of PLT Corporation.

That's the company that is conducting a house-by-house, property-by-property hands-on assessment for the township at a cost of between $50,000 and $60,000.

It isn't our idea, Supervisor Dave Milligan said. It's required by the state and we can't put it off any longer.

You can expect to see some substantial changes in valuations when this is over, Milligan predicts. I just hope they take into consideration that there has been a softening of the market this year, he sighed.

After the study is completed, the results will be placed on computer cards and the township will switch to computer record keeping. It will make it easier once established, Milligan feels.

There may be some rocky moments when the new assessments are announced. To give residents a chance to review new assessments, special review days in addition to the traditional board of review in March will be held.

This year, Milligan explained, PLT will have to answer to the state for its equalization of assessments, nearly eliminating the county board for this one year.

The Elkland board has been preparing for this with a special one-mill levy that started last year and raises about $20,000 a year.

The new assessments will be in effect for the 1991 tax year, Milligan concluded.

Your neighbor says Our economy needs a war

It has been almost a month now that the United States has had a military presence in the Middle East.

We asked your neighbor, Jamea McKnight, if she advocates the United States' actions against Iraq. "I wholeheartedly support the UN Security Council's peace policies," said McKnight, who served 6 years in the Navy.

McKnight, whose father is a retired 30-year veteran of the army, also feels that bloodshed is inevitable.

"I think our economy needs it (war)," she said, adding that she believes the conflict would last over 2 years.

The full-time student at Jordan College says that the United States should never enter war for economic reasons.

"Not until the first act of aggression — life lost," says the single mother, should the United States fire shots.

Although most of the public supports President Bush's decision to send troops overseas, many are uncertain if he should be vacationing during the time of this crisis, dubbed operation Desert Shield.

"I don't see anything wrong with that (vacationing). I think it's good he has time to relax while making these big decisions," says the 30-year-old Cass City resident.

McKnight also had some strong opinions on Iraq's leader, Saddam Hussein.

"I wish his senior officers would have succeeded in their assassination attempts. I really believe he is the Hitler of the 90's. He paints a pretty picture to his people, but they don't know what is going on in the real world."

McKnight's only daughter is 11-year-old Brandea Sieradzki.

51st reunion at Evergreen park

Descendants of George W. and Anna (Bullock) Collins gathered for their 51st reunion Aug. 18-19 at the Evergreen Park in Sanilac County, near the family's homestead.

A total of 84 persons attended, coming from California, Indiana, Pennsylvania and 22 Michigan communities. Those present Saturday enjoyed horseshoes, golf, volleyball, table games, canoeing, visiting, a cookout and an evening campfire complete with storytelling, balloon animal making and a Romania trip report.

In spite of rain Sunday, several joined those who had stayed overnight to participate in the 11 o'clock worship time. A potluck dinner preceded the business meeting at which the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Bill Courlis; vice-president, Tom Curtis, and secretary-treasurer, Helen Rayl.

The youngest in attendance was Ellie Lynne Frazier and the oldest was Eva Collins, the only one remaining of the second generation. Coming the longest distance were Don Collins and Joyce Landsverk from California.

Next year's reunion will be held the same August weekend and at the same location.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Walker were Mr. and Mrs. Dean Kleinfelt and families of New Baltimore, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Conkey of Caseville, Mr. and Mrs. Danny McGuire, Mr. and Mrs. Rick Marks of Mt. Clemens, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Percy of Mt. Clemens, Mr. and Mrs. William Collins of New Port, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Hagen, Mr. and Mrs. Bob McLaughlin, Janice Prill, Jeff Hallock, Laura Blett, John Walker, Kim Walker and friend John. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold LaPeer were Tuesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laming.

Emily, Justin and Matt Miller spent the weekend with Jack Miller at Byron.

Don Hendrick was a Monday afternoon guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Jackson.

Mr. and Mrs. Marty Chockley of Algonac, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Chockley of Mt. Clemens, Lt. and Mrs. Dale Cleland of Colorado Springs, Colo., Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cleland of Bad Axe, Jim Doerr, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cleland and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cleland attended the funeral of Mrs. Jerry Cleland's father, Jim McCartney, at 3 o'clock at Alma Saturday.

The Euchre Club will meet

Friday, Aug. 31, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Bukowski at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold LaPeer were among a group who attended the wedding of Jennifer Grifka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Lautner, and David Franzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franzel, at 2 o'clock at St. Ignatius Catholic Church at Freiburg and the reception at Fox Hunters Hall near Uby.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haas of Toledo, Ohio, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Doerr and Jeff were Wednesday and Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Rickett and family at Redford and, while there, they visited Greenfield Village and the zoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Copeland were evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Jackson.

Mr. Cox of Marlette was a Friday forenoon guest and Mark Brando of Texas and Bob Cleland Jr. were Friday afternoon guests of Mrs. Alex Cleland and Carol Laming.

Gen Booms of Bad Axe was a Thursday lunch guest of Edanna Sweeney and David.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Pearce and family of Wyandotte, Mr. and Mrs. David Dickens and family of Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Marks of Milan, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stinko of Willis, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Walker of Westland spent from Friday through Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Walker and Saturday attended the wedding of Agnes Martin and Jeff Kanaski at Our Lady of Lake Huron Catholic Church at Harbor Beach at one o'clock and the reception that followed at Franklin Inn at Bad Axe.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Sharp of Benito, Texas, were Monday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold LaPeer.

Erin Cleland was a Friday overnight and Saturday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Cleland.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Decker were Tuesday supper and evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Jackson.

Sixty children attended the vacation church school at the RLDS Church at Shabbona Friday evening and Saturday, coordinated by Mrs. Jim Doerr.

Martha Krug and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Glaza visited Mr. and Mrs. Dick Krug who were vacationing at Caseville Park.

Mrs. Herbert Hichens, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Cleland Jr.,

Mrs. Alex Cleland and Carol Laming attended the Nicol-Watson-Campbell family reunion in Canada. A potluck dinner was served.

Ron Pearce, Tami and Adam of Wyandotte spent from Thursday through Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Walker and Saturday attended the wedding of Agnes Martin and Jeff Kanaski at Our Lady of Lake Huron Catholic Church at Harbor Beach and the reception at Franklin Inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Jackson were Wednesday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stirett in Bad Axe and evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold LaPeer.

Corey Rickett of Redford spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Doerr and Jeff.

Mrs. Clare Brown was a Saturday guest of Mrs. Alex

Cleland and Carol Laming. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hind and Edanna Sweeney visited Reva Silver and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Willis.

REUNION

The 48th annual Briolat reunion was held Sunday with 151 members and 5 guests attending the potluck dinner at 2 o'clock at the Uby Fox Hunters Hall. It was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gibson of Warren. Games were played and prizes given.

Guests came from Indiana, Wixom, Utica, Lake Orion, Lapeer, Mt. Clemens, Dearborn, Cass City, Detroit, Warren, Otisville, Bad Axe, Saginaw and Uby.

The 1991 reunion will be held at the same place and time, with Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Briolat as hosts.

Annual Indian Heritage Day set

Area residents interested in Indian history or who have Indian heritage may want to visit the Deckerville Historical Museum, located one mile north of Deckerville on Ruth Road, during the 3rd annual Indian Heritage Day, Sept. 8 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The Wolverine State Archaeological Society will be present to buy, sell, display and trade authentic Indian artifacts. Many local Indian artifacts, clothing, jewelry and a large display of Indian pictures and books on Indian history recently acquired will be on display in the museum for the day.

Clem Ulfig, of the Parisville museum, will also be present with many artifacts from that area, and Therese Jarmalowiecz of Lexington will show many items and share her heritage.

Anyone with local artifacts or heritage to share is welcome to take part.

Maurice Haag, Michigan State archaeologist, will discuss Indian artifacts and history. Joyce Reid, curator, will give a lecture on local Indian history. She will also discuss the history and meaning of Indian wampum belts.

In addition, several Boy Scout troops will be camping during the weekend from Saginaw, Sandusky and Minden City, and will show skill and crafts Saturday. Also, the Blue Water Scouts from Port Huron will present authentic Indian dances in costume at 2 p.m., followed by Glenn Ulrich, who will show artifacts and give Indian lore.

Many other activities are also planned. Food will be served at noon, a flea market will continue all day, and wagon rides will be available as well as authentic Indian music.

A special Indian musicale will be presented at 9:30 a.m. Spinning wheel demonstrations will be offered throughout the day in the log cabin by Sue Baughman of White Creek Farm, Deford, who raises Angora goats and sheep. Baughman shears, cleans, cards and dyes wool, using many natural dyes, as well as spinning the wool and selling skeins of yarn. She also does custom knitting.

The 10th Michigan Infantry Civil War unit will again take part in the celebration. The unit will be setting up a full camp and Civil War hospital tent. Members will display Civil War artifacts and perform camp demonstrations and reenactments periodically throughout the day.

More information about the event is available by calling Joyce Reid (313) 376-6695.

This is the last show of the season as the museum will close for the season Sept. 29.

Obituaries

Robert Brown

Robert Lee Brown, 51, of 110 Cranford Road, Goose Creek, S.C., a carpenter, died Tuesday, Aug. 21.

Mr. Brown was born May 3, 1939, in Elgin, Ill., son of Robert Eugene Brown and Gladys Ellen (Strum) Brown. He attended schools in Elgin and was a Presbyterian.

Surviving are his mother of Barrington, Ill.; his wife, Nancy Lee (Sowden) Brown; 3 sons, Robert L. Brown II of Chandler, Ariz., David Brown of Barrington and Patrick Brown of Phoenix; 2 daughters, Kathy B. Flores of Chandler and Karen B. DeVine of Las Vegas; 2 stepsons, Thomas D. Mellendorf of Goose Creek; a brother, Ronald Brown of Wheaton, Ill.; a sister, Linda B. Morand of Bradenton, Fla., and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Saturday in Arlington Heights, Ill., with burial in Rand Hill Park Cemetery in Arlington, Ill.

Leo Thiel

Leo V. Thiel, 74, of Bad Axe, died Sunday at Flint Osteopathic Hospital after a long illness.

He was born Aug. 6, 1916, in Chandler Township, son of Adolph and Matilda (Ducharme) Thiel.

He married Ann Eleanor Mazure Nov. 16, 1946, at St. Joseph Catholic Church, Rapson.

He attended St. Agatha Catholic School, Gagetown, and farmed in Gagetown until entering the U.S. Army Air Corps in May 1942. He served in England and France until January 1946, when he returned to farm in Verona until 1981. He also worked at Pigeon Manufacturing as a press operator from 1961 until his retirement in 1981.

Mr. Thiel was an inside guard and fourth degree member of Bishop Babcock General Assembly Knights of Columbus Council No. 1546, Bad Axe, and a member of St. Joseph Catholic Church since 1946.

Surviving are his wife, Ann Eleanor, of Bad Axe; 4 sons, Richard Thiel of Flint, John Thiel of Muncie, Ind., Dale Thiel of Mendon, and Ronald Thiel of Oak Creek, Wis.; 4 daughters, Miss Roseanne Thiel of Traverse City, Mrs. Kim (Ellen) Hartman of Croswell, and Miss Susan Thiel and Mrs. Jack (Janice) Massimino, both of Flint; 10 grandchildren; 3 brothers, Arthur Thiel, St. Clair Shores, William C. Thiel, Pontiac, and Paul Thiel, Royal Oak, and 4 sisters, Mrs. Glen (Louise) Harding, Homosassa Springs, Fla., Mrs. Joseph (Marie) Lapak, Lake City, Rita Stewart, Waterford, and Mrs. Mary M. Schwartz, Cass City.

Preceding him in death were 2 brothers, James Thiel and Joseph Thiel, and 2 sisters, Pauline Thiel and Eileen Thiel.

Services were scheduled at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Joseph Catholic Church. The Rev. John Cotter, pastor, officiated. Burial, with military honors, was in the church cemetery.

A parish scripture service was conducted at 8 p.m. Monday by Father Cotter, followed by a joint Knights of Columbus and Daughters of Isabella rosary at 8:30 p.m. at the Zinger-Smigielski Funeral Home, Ubyly.

Child care nominees sought

The National Child Care Association (NCCA) and Hardee's Food Systems, Inc., have announced the call for nominations for the Hardee's/NCCA National Child Care Professional Recognition Program. The program will recognize the top 10 child care professionals in the United States and is open to NCCA member centers nationwide. The top child care professional in the United States will receive a $10,000 cash prize and 9 runners-up will each receive $1,000.

NCCA member centers are invited to nominate a teacher/caregiver by completing an official nomination form, which they will receive by mail. Nominations will be judged in October by a panel of representatives from Hardee's, the NCCA and children's interest corporations and organizations.

Vassar man charged with armed robbery

Bond was set at $500,000 over the weekend for a Vassar man arrested in connection with the Friday afternoon robbery of a Little Caesars Pizza restaurant in Vassar.

Herb W. Scharrer, 38, was formally charged Saturday in Tuscola County District Court with armed robbery. A preliminary exam in the case is set for 1:30 p.m. Sept. 5.

The robbery occurred at about 3:10 p.m., according to Vassar authorities, who stated $530 was taken from the business.

Also arraigned over the past week was Caro resident Mariann M. Matuszak, 19, who faces a charge of manufacturing marijuana May 31 in Caro.

Her preliminary exam will be held at 8:30 a.m. Friday. Bond has been set at $1,000.

Dennis A. Binder, 17, of Unionville, was arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Bond in the case has been set at $1,500. A preliminary exam was slated for 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Binder is accused of breaking into an apartment at 6531 Granger St., Unionville, Aug. 17, and asking a juvenile to participate in the crime.

David M. Langley, 18, of Caro, faces a charge of unlawfully driving away an automobile.

His preliminary exam also was scheduled for Friday morning. Bond has been set at $8,000.

Residents to recycle

"We probably would be taking paper, boxes and paper bags, glass, tin, aluminum and plastics," Tuttle told the council, noting the center would not accept wood materials, compost, tires and some other materials.

"This is strictly voluntary," he said. "We would like to have everybody feel that this is theirs and (that it's) not being pushed on them."

Persons interested in volunteering some time for the program as well as all interested residents are urged to attend a public informational meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Sept. 13 at the Municipal Building.

Labor Day caution urged

Troopers from the state police post in Caro are urging area motorists to drive carefully over the Labor Day weekend.

Motorists are urged to obey Michigan's safety belt use law and be alert for pedestrians and cyclists.

Troopers pointed out that drinking and driving remains a serious problem in the state, especially on holiday weekends. Alcohol is still involved in almost half of all fatal crashes.

Hopes high for '90 Red Hawk golfers

The Cass City Red Hawk golf team finished fourth in the Thumb B Association last year and then sparkled in the state tournament. Hopes are high that this year's squad will be even stronger because new coach Dave Hoard has 4 solid lettermen, Jeff Hockey, Garen Barker, Bart Hall and Chris Herringshaw returning.

Challenging these veterans will be a sophomore, Richard Kubacki, and 3 freshmen, Eric Hoard, Chris Chappel, Wendell Guinther and Mark Kubacki.

Learning the strengths and weaknesses of his squad will be the first task facing Hoard who said that he has yet to see his charges in action.

Short on experience

Lady Hawks will rely on quickness

Coach Marty Daniel's Cass City Red Hawk basketball team found wins hard to come by last year when the squad finished 7-14 and 4-10 in the Thumb B Conference.

Regretfully, prospects this season aren't much brighter. The squad is short on experience, short on height and hasn't shown a player with the deadly outside shooting touch that can lead to winning records.

The Hawks lost 4 front line players, 3 of which were among the leading scorers and rebounders. Filling the shoes of Vicky Robinson, Sue Papp and Beth Powell will be major problems.

The team's strength, Daniel feels, will be quickness and ball handling at the guard spots under the direction of Jandi Hillaker, who will be coming back after earning honorable mention for her play last year.

Also a starter at guard was Jandi's sister, Jodi Hillaker, a junior this season. Those are the only returning regulars and the remainder of the team will be formed by girls who gained experience while earning letters last season. They include Jenny Nye, Tracey Patera and Stephanie Leiterman. Melanie Churchill is a junior and will join 3 sophomores, Jenny Storm, Jennifer Fruendt and Heather Kelley on the squad.

The tallest player on the team is 5-9 making rebounding one of the top problems for the season ahead.

Hawk fans will be watching with interest when Coach Craig Helwig's junior varsity swings into action. It includes many players from last year's junior high squad that has never lost a game in its brief history.

It wasn't until 1863 that Americans started to take drugs in commercially made pills. Jacob Dunton, a Philadelphia wholesale druggist, originated the machine. His entire production from 1869 until 1876 was less than that now made daily in U.S. laboratories.

Red Hawks have big holes to fill this season

If Coach Don Markel's Cass City Red Hawks can duplicate last year's 5-2 Thumb B Association record, he will richly deserve repeating as conference coach of the year.

Last year the Red Hawks surprised everyone by coming out of nowhere to challenge for the loop crown until the final game with the Millington Cardinals, which the Cardinals won to annex the league title.

While doing so, 6 offensive and 3 defensive players on the squad played well enough to earn a spot on all-conference teams.

Replacing these stalwarts will be one of the primary tasks facing the team. Randy Johnson, LeRoy Beecher and Brent Morell are gone from the offensive line. Johnson, a great 2-way player, was also named captain of the defense.

Also gone is Jason Robertson, all league quarterback who also played important minutes in the defensive backfield. Scott Dillon was a stout defensive player and was named to the first team offense for his work at fullback.

Guilherme Tiezzi, exchange student, handled the place kicking chores to win an all-league post.

Chris Ventline and Scott Marshall were all-conference players on the defense. Others missing will be Mark Wark, Don Smith and Darryl Wood.

Those are big holes to fill, and, if the Hawks are to surprise everyone and become a factor in the Thumb B title chase 10, veterans will have to carry the load and untied rookies will have to prove they belong.

There's speed and experience at the running back positions with Tim Englehart, second team all-conference, Al Dadacki and Greg Graham back.

There's experience and quality on the defensive line with Matt Weippert, Brian Guinther, Dennis DeLong, Gary Becker, John Milligan, Steve Tuckey and Dan Miles.

Offensively there's lots of work to do. Not only will Markel go into the new season with an untied quarterback, but the offensive line also must be rebuilt. A couple of seniors, Troy Perry and Al Dadacki have been working out at the important quarterback slot.

Because of the many losses via graduation, Markel sees the Hawks lodged in a group of second division teams. A bright note for Hawk fans is that in pre-season predictions last year the team rated only slightly better than it does today.

It's no surprise that the Lakers are considered the team to beat with Millington rated a very close second. After that, Markel sees Bad Axe, North Branch, Mariette, Cass City, Caro and Vassar in that order.

Fans will get a better title on the team this season on Friday when Cass City opens against Thumb B League member Mayville, a squad that fell easily before Cass City in last year's opener.

Tom Thumb rehearsals slated

Rehearsals for members of the Tom Thumb Singers will begin Sept. 10 from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. in the Cass City High School band room.

Area residents of all ages are encouraged to join the community choir, which will perform concerts in December. Glenda Wilson is the singers' director and Jan Roll, the accompanist.

Cost to join is $7 per person. Registration will be held during the first rehearsal.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting Geneva Richards at 872-2467.

Tourney winners named

Two tourneys at Cass City's Rolling Hills Golf Course were held over the past week.

On Saturday, 28 3-man teams competed in the 4th annual Hammer Cane Golf Tournament.

The tournament winners, who combined 9 holes of best ball play and 9 holes of scramble play, were Tom Shedd, Tom Lerash and Steve Budzynski, all of Bad Axe. The trio posted a handicapped total of 59.6.

Second place honors went to the team of Dale McIntosh, Kevin Vincent and Mike Becking, who finished with a score of 61. The third place finishers were Rich Tate, Wayne McTaggart and Rich Diegal, who came in the club house at 61.4.

On Tuesday, 82 ladies competed in the annual Rolling Hills Ladies Invitational golf tournament.

The 2-ladies best ball handicapped teams were divided into 3 flights.

Champions of the 1st flight were Cass City's Mary Rabideau and Esther Reagh, who recorded a winning total of 62.

Second flight winners Doris Sump and Jo Nagel of Bad Axe turned in a winning score of 63, while 3rd flight golfers were topped by Sandy Robinson and Pat McIntosh, entering a score of 69.

WalkAmerica set Sept. 15 in Cass City

Area residents are being urged to help in the campaign for healthier babies by signing up for the March of Dimes WalkAmerica to be held in Cass City Sept. 15.

Check-in will begin at 12:30 p.m. and the walk at 1 p.m. at the village park.

Registration cards are available at the Family Dollar store, Thumb National Bank, IGA, Coach Light Pharmacy and Jordan College, and from the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

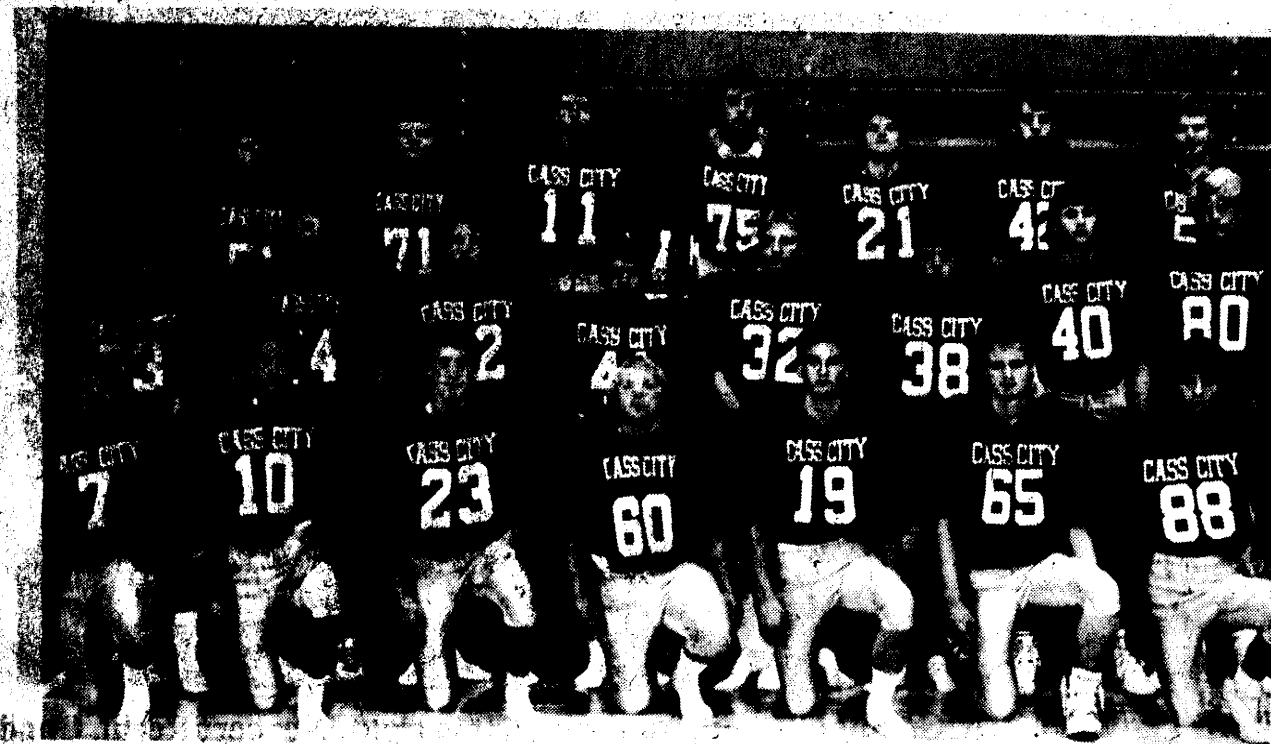

Walkers recruit family, friends and colleagues to make a donation for them to walk the route, and then turn the donation in on their day. More information about the event is available by calling (517) 791-3622.

Second row: Brian Guinther, Tim Jewett, Kevin Mika, Troy Benitez, Al Dadacki, Jim Tuckey, Dan Miles, Jed Hubbard.

Faces tough A-F

O-G seeks to replace 7 all-league gridders

The Owen-Gage Bulldog football team will have one weapon unique to the North Central Thumb League this year — a Michigan Hall of Fame coach.

But the weapon, Coach Arnie Besonen, inducted into the shrine last spring, may not be enough for his gridders to challenge for the NCTL crown.

Graduation losses are sure to hurt the 1990 Bulldog campaign.

Seven players that received All-Conference recognition from last year's team, that finished 5-4, won't be back.

1990 OWEN-GAGE FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

more Matt Mandich, who played well a year ago at the junior varsity level, at quarterback.

On the line Besonen will hope to get some major contributions from newcomers Chad Timmons and Brad Niester. Both players sat out last year and will have to catch on to the Bulldogs' system early to be effective.

Perhaps the hardest shoes to fill will be those of Graham Besonen, a 1st team defensive back and 2nd team running back.

The Bulldogs also lost defensive halfback Brad Susalla and speedster Andre Damm, both 2nd team choices last season, leaving Besonen's defensive secondary untested for the 1990 season.

The 'Dogs also graduated some key linemen in Mike Errer and Kevin Koch, both of whom were 2nd team candidates on offense and defense. Add Tom Halasz, 2nd team defensive end, to the list of key losses.

Further, the Bulldogs will need to find a replacement for Bryan Abbe, a strong kicker and versatile athlete. Besonen, nearing the quarter century mark of high school coaching, will turn to 3 seniors to lead his squad.

Seniors Mike Kady, Scott Norcross and B.J. Haldane share 9 years of varsity experience among them.

Look for Kady, a 2nd team offensive end last year, to be moved into the Bulldogs' backfield in an effort to get him more involved in the offensive scheme.

Haldane will anchor the linebacking, while Norcross at 225 pounds will be the 'Dogs' best lineman.

Adding punch to the Bulldog offense will be returner Mickey Parks, who like Kady, will be in the 'Dogs' backfield this season.

FREE TRIP - Mike Ziemba was previously announced as the winner of a walleye fishing tournament by the event's sponsors. He had the help of 30 other area anglers. The top prize was an all-expense-paid trip for 2 to Fond du lac, Wis., in the spring. Other prize money won will be used to take all 4 crew members of the winning boat on the trip. From left, Jim Daley, Don King, Ziemba and Ron Stalzman.

Down Memory Lane

From the files of the Chronicle

FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie announced that a leaf vacuum, designed to suck up the leaves from the gutters and sides of the streets, was delivered to the village office last week.

An open house commemorating the 25th anniversary of Hills and Dales Hospital was held and a total of 431 persons toured the facilities and took advantage of free programs offered.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Bartle, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harris, Herb Bartle and Harve Bartle attended the Bartle reunion Sunday at Brown City.

A surprise party was held for Beverly Perry, honoring her for 25 years of service at the Pinney State Bank, which later became Chemical Bank Cass City. The party was attended by employees of the bank and their family members.

David Erickson made a hole-in-one at Sherwood on the Hill golf course in Gagetown last week.

TEN YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hunter and daughter Carla and Mrs. Esther Hunter attended the Hunter family reunion Sunday at Walled Lake.

A baby girl was born to Dave and Kathy Luana of Decker Sunday, Aug. 24, at the Caro Hospital. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ken Klinkman and Mr. and Mrs. Otis Dorland, all of Decker.

Mr. and Mrs. Audley Horner spent Friday and Saturday with his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Horner, at Pontiac.

The Cass City Rotary Club was entertained Saturday evening by the Richard Erlas at their home. Rotary Anns were also guests at the pool party.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City's newest plant, Cole Carbide Industries, has started limited production in Cass City, Scott Kelley, manager, announced this week. The new plant is housed in the building at the corner of Sherman and Main and manufactures carbide tools, primarily for the automobile industry.

Fred Smith left Friday, Aug. 20, to spend a week visiting his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hendrick and children, at Doraville, Ga.

Tim Lenhard of Gagetown recently won a free trip to a Tiger ball game in a contest as a news carrier for a Bad Axe paper. He met 2 Tiger players, Hank Aguirre and Don Demeter, as part of the evening's entertainment.

Cass City Business and Professional Women's Club held a pre-season fun evening last Thursday, Aug. 19, at member Laura Bryant's cottage at Oak Beach near Caseville.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. H.T. Donahue showed a film depicting the life at Culver Military Academy, at the regular noon luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday at the New Gordon Hotel.

Richard Carpenter of Cass City showed the grand champion 4-H Holstein at the Tuscola County Fair Tuesday.

Miss Helen Dalton, bride-elect, was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Sam Hnatuk. Hostesses were Nancy Lebiouda of Cass City and Mrs. Lillian Koehler of Elkton. Miss Dalton will become the bride of Calvin Easton Saturday, Sept. 27.

Harold Oatley of Allen Park, Bob Johnson, Fred Leeson, Delbert Law and Jim Hutchinson, all of Cass City, attended the Boy Scout World Jamboree at Niagara Falls. They left Wednesday and returned Saturday. Mr. Oatley was a former scoutmaster in Cass City.

While at the jamboree, the group visited points of interest at Niagara Falls.

Pvt. Robert McArthur, who left Seattle, Wash., Aug. 6, has arrived at Fort Greely, Alaska. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McArthur.

Minor damage in mishap

Minor damage was reported in a 2-vehicle accident Thursday on Church Street east of Sherman Street in Cass City.

Cass City police said Catherine M. Walker, 5102 Innes Rd., Decker, was driving on Church Street at about 8:10 p.m. when she passed a stopped vehicle in the westbound lane and struck the opened passenger door of the vehicle, driven by Sonya L. Teller, 6379 Houghton St., Cass City.

Teller was talking to a person in a vehicle that was stopped in the eastbound lane, according to police, who stated a passenger was attempting to exit her vehicle when the mishap occurred.

Also recently, troopers from the state police post in Caro reported a car-deer accident in the area.

Troopers said Bernadette K. Schumacher of Minden City was eastbound on M-81 east of Schwegler Road at about 12:15 a.m. Sunday when her vehicle struck a deer.

ATV stolen at Kingston

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of a 4-wheel all-terrain vehicle taken from a Kingston area residence.

According to reports, Douglas R. Kramer, 3806 S. Kingston Rd., Kingston, told deputies the blue-colored ATV, valued at $2,300, was stolen sometime Thursday evening or Friday morning. The keys were in the vehicle, which was parked in a barn at the residence.

New books at the library

FATAL DIAGNOSIS by Mary Kittredge (mystery). The heated custody battle between 2 couples over the true parentage of 10-year-old Hallie Dietz takes an unexpected turn when, minutes after the remarkable results of a tissue match are in, the lab technician and a teenage volunteer are shot and the records disappear. So Chelsea Memorial Hospital in New Haven, Conn., pressures Edwina Crusoe, R.N., to take on the unenviable tasks of preventing scandal and of providing medical background for the police force. But when the child in contention is spirited away from the hospital before retesting can be done, the intrepid Mrs. Crusoe, with little regard for either legalities or her own safety, sets out to find the skeletons in the families' respective closets-and comes close to losing her life in the process. This story of baby-switching and twisted psyches manages not only to move briskly, but the scientific terms are understandable to the reader.

MOUNTAIN LAUREL by Jude Deveraux (fiction). The last thing opera singer Maddie Worth, known worldwide as LaReina, needs on her desperate trip to the gold fields of Colorado is arrogant Captain Montgomery dogging her every step. She is used to freedom, a freedom she desires more than ever now that she's been blackmailed into carrying letters between abolitionist spies who hold her 12-year-old sister Laurel captive and are threatening to kill her. But then again, the rigidly authoritarian Ring Montgomery is annoyed to have to shepherd this woman, who seemingly fears nothing and makes a nasty habit of drugging him, running off on her own and even getting herself kidnapped. Actually, the 2 are very much alike in their single-mindedness; each is exactly what the other needs to open up his/her life.

NOT TONIGHT DEAR: HOW TO REAWAKEN YOUR SEXUAL DESIRE by Anthony Pietropinto (non-fiction). Almost every form of physical and emotional longing has been covered by self-help books, so it should come as no surprise that what therapists call "sexual desire disorder" is about to have its moment in the limelight. This isn't a book for those who can't, just for those who don't want to. Why don't they want to? All kinds of reasons: fatigue, depression, worries, anger, intimacy conflicts, etc. For those who have trouble pinpointing just which reason fits their case, the authors include numerous self-awareness questionnaires and quizzes. This book is full of practical, useful information, and the authors offer quite a hopeful prognosis for those with the desire to read the book.

Finkbeiner reunion held in Cass City

The families of the late Fred and Lavina Finkbeiner met Saturday, Aug. 25, at the Cass City Recreational Park for a potluck dinner and getting re-acquainted. Their last reunion was in August of 1980.

Of the original 10 children, only 4 are living, Charles of Sebawaing, Beulah of Elkton, Lloyd of Cass City and Dorothy of Gagetown.

There were 64 descendants in attendance, coming from as far away as Temple, Texas. Other places represented were Jonesville, MI, Rochester Hills, Detroit, Unionville, Vassar, Sebawaing, Elkton, Bay City and Cass City.

The business meeting was called to order by President Pro Tem Lloyd Finkbeiner. Minutes from 1980, 1979, 1978 and 1977 were read by Secretary-Treasurer Wilma Finkbeiner.

New officers chosen are: president, Mac McKee, vice-president, Don Finkbeiner and secretary-treasurer, Wilma Finkbeiner.

The oldest member present was Charles Finkbeiner, 84, of Sebawaing. The youngest was Lindsay, 1 1/2-year-old son of Brad and Nancy Schenk of Vassar.

A flying demonstration was given by Jeff Maxson, displaying his remote control airplane.

Videos and singing helped entertain the oldsters while the children enjoyed the park facilities.

Plans were made to meet again on the 4th Saturday of August 1991 at the same location.

Mite blight

Dean Hutchinson says beekeeping outlook bleak as parasites invade

For about a decade, Dean Hutchinson has enjoyed managing bees, collecting and wholesaling his honey "crop" at the end of each summer.

He started out with 2 hives 10 years ago and now manages an estimated 150 swarms of bees—30,000 to 60,000 bees per swarm—located in 9 different sites within a 20-mile radius of Cass City.

The area resident calls it a hobby, but last year harvested a personal record of some 9 tons of honey.

Despite that, Hutchinson says his prospects as a small commercial beekeeper are anything but sweet.

"This year I'm not going to have such a good crop," he remarked at his Spence Road home, where he recently began the annual task of harvesting honey. "It's the gloomiest I've seen in the 10 years I've been in the business, but that could change; the season's not over."

Hutchinson's bees are threatened by parasites called tracheal mites.

The mites, which enter a bee's tracheal system and multiply there until the bee dies, then quickly find a new host, are so small they can't be seen by the naked eye. But the damage they cause is easily observed.

"I lost one-third of my bees last year due to mites and general loss," Hutchinson said, noting he previously never lost more than 10 percent.

He isn't alone in his concern.

In fact, Michigan State University honeybee expert Roger Hoopingarner says tracheal and varroa mites threaten to eliminate wild honeybees in Michigan within the next 5 years.

That could be a disaster, Hoopingarner said. At stake, he explained, is the pollination of 100 Michigan crops that depend on honeybees—wild and domestic—for bountiful yield and quality. As helpful as domestic bees are, he added, they can't do the job of wild (feral) honeybees simply because there aren't enough of them.

IMPORTANT CROPS

Some of the more important bee-pollinated crops in Michigan include apples, blueberries, cantaloupe, carrots, tart and sweet cherries, alfalfa and other livestock crops, cucumbers, peaches, pears, plums and strawberries. Their total value exceeds $567 million annually.

Hoopingarner said the varroa parasite migrated from the Soviet Union to Europe in the 1940s and was later inadvertently transported to the United States, where it was first detected in Wisconsin in 1987. It has now reached Michigan and 30 to 40 other states.

"Because varroa mites can destroy entire bee colonies, they pose a serious threat in the next 3 to 5 years to most of Michigan's agricultural industry," Hoopingarner said.

"They have killed all unmanaged feral colonies in Europe during the past 20 years. Half of Michigan's bee population is wild, so the impact could be devastating."

Because varroa mites are new pests, honeybees in this country have not yet developed any natural resistance to them as they have to tracheal mites.

These mites, which moved into Michigan in 1984, are causing a great deal of damage, mostly over winter, Hoopingarner said.

CONTROLLED

In terms of battling the mites, Hoopingarner said varroa mites that attack managed colonies can be controlled by Apistan strips, which contain the pesticide, fluvalinate, a restricted-use pesticide that requires the user to be certified under the Federal Insecticides, Fungicides and Rodenticide Act.

Research on other pesticides to combat varroa mites is in progress and a new product should be ready by the end of the year, he added. As for controlling tracheal mites, Hoopingarner said menthol has been used successfully. Other approaches involve treating bees with vegetable oil to reduce the number of mites.

Hutchinson, who commented that the varroa mite hasn't made its way into this county as of yet, said he believes breeding resistance into bees holds the most promise for the future.

He noted he currently is testing his hives for tracheal mites and has used a vegetable oil product to combat the parasites, but indicated he's hesitant to use chemical controls.

PROBLEMS

Hutchinson remarked the mite problem is only one of several problems faced by the beekeeping industry today. Others include a bad image due to publicity surrounding the so-called "killer" African bees, and, more immediately, the threat of losing a federal honey subsidy.

Hutchinson conceded the African bees, which are headed for the United States, are more aggressive than typical bees, but refuses to call them killers and said their reputation as such is unearned.

The outlook for passage of legislation that would maintain the honey subsidy, meanwhile, "doesn't look good," he said, adding elimination of the subsidy would translate into the loss of one-fourth of the price he receives for his honey.

Citing competition with foreign markets, Hutchinson added he's already receiving 5 or 6 cents less for his honey now, wholesale, than he did when he started 10 years ago.

That has prompted him to consider getting into more retail sales of his honey.

He's also keeping a close eye on the beekeeping industry, which he said is in a period of transition, shifting from honey production to an emphasis on renting out bees for the purpose of pollinating crops.

Hutchinson said he's been offered contracts in the past to rent out his bees to pollinate pickle crops.

TREND COMING

Hoopingarner suggested that trend is coming, saying recent studies show that 80 percent of bees in an apple orchard are wild bees, and that the value of wild and managed bees as pollinators is more than 40 to 50 percent higher than the value of the honey they produce.

Hoopingarner evaluates Michigan's fruit industry alone at $198 million annually. He said he believes growers can avert a substantial loss by substituting managed bees for wild ones.

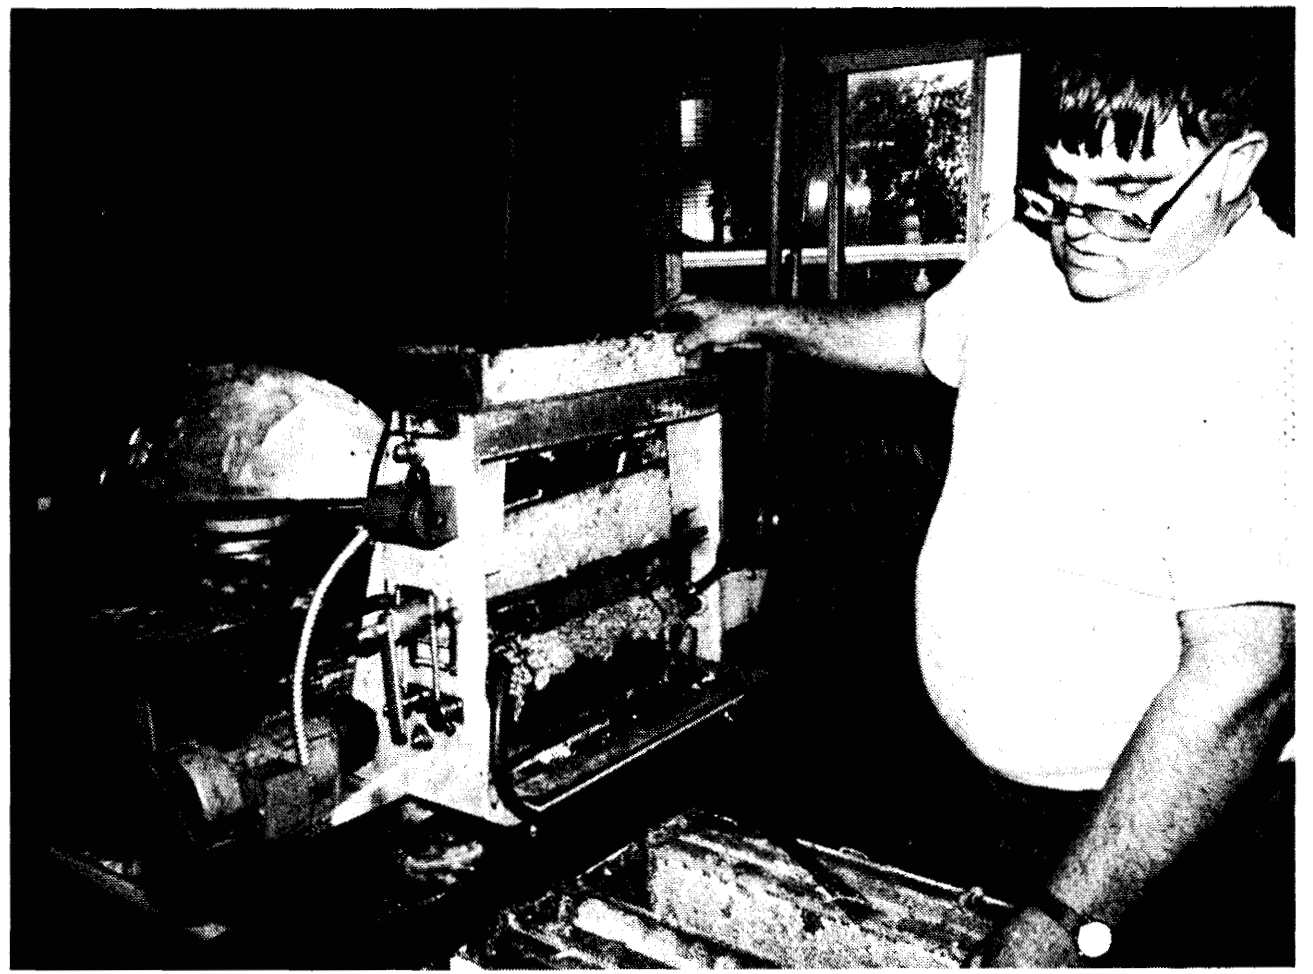

"The situation is serious under the current management scheme, but the shortfall can be corrected by renting managed bees. However, there will be no additional managed colonies until there's a market, which will occur when growers recognize that their crops are inadequately pollinated," he said.

In the meantime, Hutchinson remarked he feels he's facing a light infestation of mites so far and that the loss of one-third of his bees last year was "mild" considering the damage being done by the mites in other areas.

And, with a full-time job at the Michigan Sugar plant in Caro, he doesn't depend on beekeeping for his living.

Still, he's doesn't like the idea of losing what he's enjoyed for so many years.

"My real fear is that in the next 2 or 3 years I'm going to be out of business," he said.

SWEET HARVEST — DESPITE having a record honey harvest last year, area beekeeper Dean Hutchinson says it looks as if this year will be a different story due, in part, to problems caused by tracheal mites.

Fortson convicted on drug charges; murder trial set to begin sept. 17

A Mayville man awaiting trial on an open murder charge was convicted Thursday in Tuscola County Circuit Court on 2 drug-related charges.

A jury, following a 2-day trial, returned verdicts of guilty against John D. Fortson Jr., 31, who faced charges of delivery of cocaine and conspiracy to deliver cocaine Nov. 21, 1989, in Mayville.

Sentencing is to be scheduled for the defendant, whose bond was increased from $30,000 to $50,000.

Fortson, who is charged in the Jan. 6 shooting death of John A. Bulla, Cass City, at Fortson's residence, remains lodged in the Tuscola County Jail while awaiting trial on the murder charge. The court refused to set bond in the case.

A 5-day jury trial is scheduled to get underway Sept. 17.

In other recent court proceedings, James A. Douglas, 33, of Vassar, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of attempted forgery.

Sentencing is scheduled for 9 a.m. Oct. 12. Bond was continued at $2,000, according to court records, which state a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

The March 13 offense took place in Indianfields Township and involved a $100 check drawn on the Saginaw Postal FCU, records state. Caro resident Richard R. Lawrie, 22, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny.

Sentencing was set for Oct. 12 at 9 a.m. The court refused to set bond.

According to records, Lawrie was responsible for the May 8 break-in of an office-retail building at 194 N. State, Caro.

A guilty plea also was entered by Dennis W. Armstrong Jr., 21, of Millington, who faces 2 charges of probation violation.

According to court records, sentencing is to be scheduled for the defendant, who violated probation by virtue of a May 8 conviction in U.S. District Court, Bay City, on a charge of counterfeiting, and by using or possessing controlled substances March 20.

Camp Tuscola inmate Geoffrey K. Williams, 30, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of prison escape May 2.

Sentencing is scheduled for Oct. 19 at 9 a.m.

Also recently, Edward A. Gilin, 17, of Mayville, received a one-year delayed sentence for his July 13 plea of guilty to a charge of malicious destruction of personal property over $100.

Gilin, who received permission to leave the state, also was ordered to pay $200 in court costs plus attorneys fees and restitution.

He was convicted of damaging tires, a solar pool cover, CB radio and a mailbox belonging to Robert and Karen Offenbecher June 27 in Fremont Township.

Jordan forms team for March of Dimes walk

Students and faculty at Jordan College have formed a team to participate in the March of Dimes WalkAmerica teamwalk in Cass City Sept. 15, at 1 p.m. Participants follow a 4-mile path which begins at Jordan College to raise money to help fight birth defects.

Members of the community, young and old, are invited to join the Jordan team. Registration and pledge forms are available from Kim Kolomak, the walk coordinator, at the Jordan College office. Free Jordan T-shirts will be given to the first 60 team participants. Those who collect $60 in pledges will also receive WalkAmerica T-shirts the day of the race.

Other area businesses interested in forming teams to compete are invited to contact Kolomak at the office or by calling 872-4394.

Motorist arrested

Cass City police reported one traffic related arrest over the past week.

Police arrested Kevin M. Mosey, 34, of Bad Axe, early Sunday morning on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Mosey was stopped on South Seeger Street near Seventh Street at about 12:31 a.m.

Chemical Corp. airs dividend

Gilbert A. Currie, chairman of Chemical Financial Corporation, declared a quarterly cash dividend of $0.25 per share of common stock, payable Friday, Sept. 21, to shareholders of record on Sept. 7. The ex-dividend date is Aug. 31.

Chemical Financial Corporation is one of the 10 largest bank holding companies in Michigan, and the company's 10 affiliated banks operate 73 "Chemical Bank" offices in 19 counties across the mid-section of Michigan's lower peninsula.

Golden Rule Class meets

The Golden Rule Class of Salem United Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Stine for a potluck supper Thursday.

Tables were set up on the deck where the group ate. A birthday cake celebrated Mrs. Audrey Katzenberger's birthday.

A meeting was held with 28 members answering roll call and a couple of quiz games were played.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Laura Ball.
