Want them home again

Relatives happy, but still cautious as fighting ends

Uncertainty melted into relief for the families and friends of area servicemen and women late last week as the fighting ended in the Persian Gulf.

But the feeling isn't complete, nor will it be, they say, until their loved ones return to American soil.

Peace gradually took hold in the Persian Gulf Friday, one day after Thursday's announcement that Iraq had pledged to accept all U.N. resolutions on Kuwait, and that allied forces had suspended attacks on what was left of Saddam Hussein's broken military force.

The news became more certain in the days that followed as Iraqi generals accepted U.S. terms for a permanent cease-fire and exchange of prisoners.

The announcement didn't come a moment too soon for area families, many of whom say painfully slow mail service to and from the Middle East has made contacts with their loved ones few and far in between.

Laura Hunter, Cass City, was excited when she learned the cease-fire was real, but her enthusiasm was tempered by false rumors that had previously raised and dashed her hopes.

Hunter's son, Sgt. Todd M. Hunter, was in the thick of fighting as a member of the Third Armored Cavalry, which was among the units that engaged Iraq's Republican Guard during the fight-

Hunter remarked she's relieved the war is over.

"I haven't left my television since the day it began," she said. "I didn't know a thing about war (before), but when Todd comes home, I'll be able to keep up with him."

PICTURES

Placed neatly below the TV in Hunter's living room is a collection of pictures of her son, who turned 24 the day the war broke out, Jan. 17. One of the pictures is of Todd and his fiancee, Kerstin Mahr of Berlin, Germany.

The photos have been a source of comfort for Hunter, who hasn't seen her is clearly pointed out, most assessors are willing to adjust an appraisal without requiring a formal appeal process. If the matter can't be resolved that way, however, the next step is to file an appeal with a local board of review.

Because a successful appeal must be based on the validity of the tax assessment in question, persons making an appeal must be able to show that the assessor's judgement of the property's value was in er-

The factors which are considered in an appraisal are the age, size, quality and type of construction of the building, the number of rooms, the size of the lot, the neighborhood in which the structure is located and the typical selling price for properties with similar char-

It's suggested that persons planning to make an appeal start by checking their assessment records at the local features of a building, so property owners should make sure that recorded dimensions of the structure and lot are accurate. It's also important that portions of the structure, such as unfinished attics and basements, aren't misrepresented in the property description. Defects that might reduce a property's value also should be noted. The assessment process determines the true cash value of property for the purpose of calculating property taxes.

An individual tax bill is computed by multiplying the state equalized valuation (SEV) times the local tax rate. The SEV is supposed to be equal to 50 percent of a property's true cash value.

The tax rate is often referred to as millage because it's expressed in mills. A one-mill tax is equal to $1 for every $1,000 of SEV to which it applies. For example, if a property is assessed and equalized at $10,000 and the tax rate is 30 mills, the tax would be $300, or $30 for every $1,000 of property value.

Residents who remain dissatisfied after attending their local board of review can file an appeal with the Michigan Tax Tribunal, P.O. Box 30232, Lansing, MI 48909; telephone (517) 373-8850.

Appeals to the Tax Tribunal, which are considered only if the applicant has first made an appeal to a local board of review, must be received no later than June

Derfiny to coordinate Bike-a-thon

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital officials recently announced that Linda Derfiny has agreed to coordinate the hospital's annual Bike-A-Thon in Cass City, slated for May 11.

Suzanne Chappel will be the co-chair, according to Derfiny, who noted that 65 riders raised $3,403 locally last year.

Founded by entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital opened in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases that afflict children.

Scientists and physicians work side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of leukemia, Hodgkins disease, sickle-cell anemia and other child killers. All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world.

Danny Thomas died Feb. 6 of a heart attack. He had just returned home from a visit to St. Jude's, celebrating its 29th birthday. In all his years of leadership, Thomas was a catalyst that brought millions of donors and volunteers to the support of his dream.

We managed to time our California vacation perfectly, leaving Michigan during the worst storm of the winter and leaving California just before the much needed rains arrived.

After checking with the airline and the airports a week ago Friday and learning that nothing had been canceled or closed, Stan decided that if we could just get out of the driveway, we could get to California. And we did.

California has suffered from a 5-year drought and desperately needed the rain that's been falling since last Wednesday, but we were selfishly glad that it came after we left.

For many, excitement and relief followed the apparent end of the Persian Gulf War last week after Iraq pledged to accept all U.N. resolutions on Kuwait and ordered its forces to stop fighting.

Allied forces suspended attacks on Saddam Hussein's decimated armies Thursday after President Bush declared a "quick, decisive and just" victory.

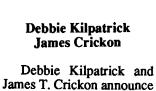

Your neighbor, Jean Gilpin, 6350 Pine St., Cass City, said she welcomed the news.

"I was very excited. I was very happy that it was so quick," she remarked. "I was really amazed at the few (American servicemen) who were injured and killed.'

Gilpin noted she was a little scared when the war first broke out, but commented that she supported President Bush's policies in the Middle East from the beginning, and was impressed with how the American leader handled the crisis. As for Hussein, Gilpin said she believes the allied forces should go after the Iraqi leader and his aides to stand trial for war crimes, including atrocities committed against Kuwait and that country's people.

For the first time in perhaps 10 years, Las Vegas was revisited last week and the place is much the same as it was then. All glitter, little substance.

I stayed in the Excalibur Hotel and it's a giant place, onehalf million square feet. The lobby-casino occupies at least a city block, perhaps more.

It is ornate and plush downstairs. The room I stayed in was spacious, but cheaply constructed. There was no bathtub, just a shower.

One thing new is the many escalators. One headed into Caesar's Palace must be about a block long. Only in Vegas will you find one-way-only escalators. You ride in, but walk

It's hard to get used to the climate in the mountains. In Seattle it rained hard Friday and Saturday. In the mountains it snowed the same way.

At Crystal Ski Resort the same 2 days, over 2 feet of snow fell and the report was that Sunday at least that much more was on the docket.

The rumor mill was working overtime around town last week and, as usual, was spewing false information. Up and down the street everyone had "heard" that Dave Milligan was resigning his job as Elkland Township Supervisor because of grief experienced in the new tax evaluations. No truth at all to that rumor and Milligan will continue in his job.

The housing seminar held last month in Cass City will be repeated March 14. The housing seminar is designed for persons interested in purchasing a home within the next 3 years. Participants will learn about alternative financing for homes as well as the Michigan Initiative Loans that are now available in the area.

The upcoming program will include discussion of what's in a typical mortgage file, credit histories - how important they are when applying for a mortgage, what is involved in a real estate appraisal, and how to shop for a home.

Presenters will be Tari Detzler, Chemical Bank and Trust; Bud Isel, Huron County appraiser, and Barbara Neuman, extension home economist.

I deny that it's envy that makes one feel that all those health nuts you read about are really one dimensional persons. It may be true, but I still deny it.

Let's set the record straight. The subject here is not the person who exercises and is concerned about health and physical fitness.

I'm talking about the person who runs 6 miles every day for a warm up and then does 25 miles every Saturday and Sunday. The person who is wrapped up in fitness whether it's at a health club or on the highway. The person whose favorite topic is exercise and its benefit. Maybe their only topic.

Mecca for those runners has to be Boston on Patriots' Day where 6,000 or so swarm on the streets. Many of them are really runners who will make the 26 miles plus and live to brag about it.

Invariably everyone into running or religious exercise as a way of life will tell you how good they feel since they became exercise gurus.

In truth, most authorities will tell you that persons into exercise who stay with it will be healthier than those who don't.

We know of just one person in the immediate area who has been a runner and keeps at it. At various times we've seen others who went at it for a month, 2 months or a year before dropping from the

There aren't any statistics telling about what happens to the dropouts. For everyone that started seriously exercising there have to be 5 that started and quit. At least.

It doesn't mean anything, of course, but over the years we've run story after story about residents who reach or approach the 100-year mark and none of them have been exercise buffs. When they were young they weren't exposed to the health fads of today. It's probable that it wouldn't have made much of an impression on them anyway.

The centenarians I've interviewed never seemed to get shook up about anything. Most of them stayed close to home most of their lives. Invariably they lived a life of moderation.

That easy life style doesn't explain it all. Sure, any of us can point to a calm, cool and collected acquaintance that surprised everyone and died young.

Life style is important, but if I were betting on long life I'd be happy if you picked the person that followed all the exercise rules and followed the perfect diet every day of his life.

I'll take the slacker any day whose father and mother celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with a party.

"If It Fitz...."

Extra bald, please

By Jim Fitzgerald

Based on my own experience, I'd say Detroit is one of the worst Domino's Pizza cities in the United States. I've never ordered one delivered to my home. I'm frightened of the delivery persons' beards, or the perception of beards.

Domino's has a policy against beards, especially on men. But 3 U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals judges recently reinstated a former Domino's driver's lawsuit and ordered a Nebraska judge to determine the business justification of the beard ban. I'm afraid that's probably all the encouragement some rebellious Domino's drivers, especially men, need to stop shaving.

The beard ban has been in the news ever since the lawsuit was filed by Langston Bradley after Domino's fired him for refusing to shave in 1984. Bradley claims he can't shave because he suffers from pseudofolliculitis barbae, which rarely strikes people who can't spell.

Call it PFB. It's a genetic skin disorder that affects almost half of black males but few white males. Many men get PFB so bad they can't shave without getting scars and infections. Bradley, who is black, charges Domino's grooming rules are racially discriminatory. A U.S. district judge ruled against him in 1989, but the judge's decision has been overturned. Domino's must prove beards are bad for business. Sam Jensen, an Omaha defending lawyer Domino's, last week said the percentage of people who don't like bearded delivery men "is more significant now" than in the past. That's not surprising. Delivery men who stopped shaving in 1984, and still aren't shaving in 1991, probably take 30 minutes to get their beards out of the delivery

I concede I'm not sure why a bearded delivery person, especially a man, shouldn't bring a pizza to my home. But if the Domino's corporation is against it, that's good enough for me. I figure owner Tom Monaghan and his top executives know much more than I do about what should and should not get near their product. In fact, when I speculate on the various reasons for the beard ban, I lose my appetite for pizza, unless delivered by someone completely unable to shed. Extra bald, please.

It's ironic. People can avoid the perception of bearded delivery persons by buying pizza over the counter inside Tiger Stadium. But Tigers' owner Monaghan claims many people won't attend Tigers' games because of the perception of crime in the stadium area. My suggestion is that Monaghan overwhelm perception with reality by bringing back Kirk Gibson and giving him a pizza route.

And the irony increases. Bradley's lawsuit charges Domino's beard ban is prejudiced against blacks, and City Council President Maryann Mahaffey says the same thing Monaghan's claim that the perception of crime scares fans away from Tiger Stadium. My suggestion is that Monaghan refute both accusations by renovating Tiger Stadium, instead of moving elsewhere, and ordering Tigers' President Bo Schembechler to shave his head every morning until the Tigers win the World Series. Monaghan told the Detroit News he regretted a frontpage Free Press interview in which he said the perception of crime has turned Detroit into "one of the worst baseball cities in the United States." Monaghan said he thought he was being interviewed by "a religion writer who did freelance articles for magazines," even though, Monaghan conceded, the writer clearly identified himself as a Free Press reporter.

Monaghan apparently believed Detroit citizens would never find out he slurred their city if he didn't say it to a Detroit newspaper reporter. So I don't have to worry that anything I write here might offend Domino's Pizza Inc., which is headquartered in Ann Arbor. I don't write for an Ann Arbor newspaper.

I don't know why Monaghan so often goes public with wrong-headed opinions on a variety of subjects feminism, poverty, homosexuality, religion, playing first base, you name t — that must make other Domino's and Tigers' executives pound walls behind closed doors. But I'm getting the perception that you don't have to be very intelligent to make millions of dollars in the pizza business.

The Caro Arts Society will host the Richmond Community Theatre's performance of "Nunsense," the award winning Off-Broadway musical comedy of 1986 by Dan Goggin.

The dinner theater productions will take place March 9 and 10 at the Caro Knights of Columbus Hall, with steak dinner being served by the Knights.

.The Richmond Community Theatre is from Richmond, home town of Caro Arts Society Secretary Barb Holzworth, who was instrumental in bringing the performers to Caro. The group, under the direction of Alice Morin, is in their 26th year of existence and is one of the most active amateur theater groups in the state.

The story of "Nunsense" revolves around The Order of the Little Sisters of Hoboken who need money to bury the last 4 of the 52 nuns who perished after eating contaminated soup made by the convent's cook. Sister Julia, "Child of God." The remaining sisters, who were attending church bingo at the time, stage a show to raise enough money to bring the 4 out of the convent's freezer and give them a proper burial.

The dinner theater shows include a 6:30 p.m. dinner and 8 p.m. show March 9, and a 1:30 p.m. dinner and 3 p.m. show March 10.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the Caro Arts Society at 673-5266 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Steel arrives for new Camp building

With the long awaited arrival of steel trusses, construction of Bay Shore Camp's multi-purpose Youth Center has progressed to what Camp Director Lew Tibbits describes as "Phase II."

Phase I, or site preparation for the 160-foot x 80-foot single-story structure, was completed in December. Phase II of the pre-engineered steel building includes erection of walls, roof, doors and overall enclosure. Tibbits said the camp's contractor, FED Corporation of Gladwin, has estimated Phase II will be completed by March 19.

Whether or not the camp will go ahead immediately with Phase III, completion of the building, in time for the 1991 camping season will be determined at a March 11 meeting of the 3ay Shore Evangelical Association.

Tibbits described the center's future use as "a real asset to the camp." Plans call for the facility to house a 100-foot x 80-foot gymnasium, stage, restrooms,

Short tourney stay for spikers

It was a short stay for Owen-Gage in the class D volleyball district at Caseville and an even shorter stay for Cass City in the class C district at Unionville-Sebewaing. Both were played Saturday.

In both tournaments the favorites won. Cass City bowed in straight sets to USA in the opening round, 15-10 and 15-3. The Patriots then beat Ubly in a tight match, 15-12, 10-15 and 15-5 to reach the finals against the Lakers.

The Lakers never lost a set and topped USA, 15-4 and 15-12. It was the eighth straight title for the team.

Owen-Gage rolled past host Caseville in the first round, 15-8 and 15-6, but bowed to eventual champion North Huron, 15-1 and 15-11. The Bulldogs were paced in the tournament by Vicki Ricker, with 14 points with 8 ace serves, 46 sets and 17 assists, and Lisa Dorsch, with 14 kills.

Owen-Gage ended the season with an overall record of Akron-Fairgrove, 15-7, 15-

OWEN-GAGE'S MICKEY PARKS is surrounded under the basket by Mark Brown (44) and Chad Johnson of Port Hope but still managed to get a pass away and retain possession. Owen-Gage won easily, 85-50.

team shot well. Cass City was 36 percent (16 of 44 from 2-point range and 3 of 10 from 3-point distance.) Mayville shot 3 of 93-pointers and 19 of 44 from 2-point The Hawks were only average from the free throw line with 7 of 11, while the Wildcats sparkled from the charity stripe, hitting 12 of 15 for a gaudy 80 percent.

Mayville went in front early in the game and then withstood a Cass City rally to notch the win. At the end of the first quarter the Wildcats were in front, 17-14, and stretched the lead to 33-24 at the half.

Neither team appeared ready to take charge in the third quarter when Cass City chopped a point off the Wildcat lead behind 9 points by Chris Herringshaw.

Cass City made a game of it in the last period, moving to within a point, 47-46, with 5 minutes to go as Herringshaw, Al Dadacki and Brad Gray hit successive 3-point

Bulldogs end season on positive note with wins

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs ended the season on a positive note heading into district tournament play Wednesday with a pair of wins in the North Central Thumb D League.

The first victims of the Bulldogs were the Port Hope Bluestars, Tuesday, Feb. 26. It wasn't much of a contest as the Bulldogs started fast and then kept adding to the lead throughout the game to rack up the 85-50 decision.

The Bulldogs were in front 16-12 at the quarter and 38-26 at the intermission. The game turned into a rout in the third period as the Bulldogs tightened the defense and continued to rock and roll on offense. At the end of 3 uarters O-G was in front

Chad Johnson did his best to keep the Bluestars in contention as he played a strong inside game to rack up 29 points for the evening. He was matched by Mike Kady, who scored on the inside and the outside with 30 points. Kady had plenty of help as Bob Haldane dumped in 16 points and Jason Torres added 17.

O-G starts slow, still posts win

CASEVILLE GAME

Caseville is the cellar dweller this year in the North-Central DLeague and perhaps was being overlooked by the Bulldogs as they prepared for the district tournament ahead. Mike Kady and company won 68-51, but it was close in the game played Friday until the final 8 minutes.

Whatever the reason, the team started slow and it was still anybody's ball game at the end of 3 quarters. Neither team could find the hoop with consistency in the slow first quarter as Owen-Gage posted a meager 10-9 lead. That margin was stretched to 5 points at the intermission, 32-27.

Both teams picked up the scoring pace in the second half, with the Bulldogs adding to the margin in both the third and fourth periods. A big 26-15 edge in the last quarter was more than enough for the Bulldogs to post the decision.

Haldane had a big hand in the O-G win with 14 rebounds to go with his 16 points. Kady played a fine floor game with 3 assists to go with his 24 points. The Bulldog sharpshooter added 3 more 3-pointers to his total for the season.

Card of Thanks

THANK YOU - to all my friends and relatives for visits, cards, flowers and $3/minute. prayers while in the hospital

WE WISH TO thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their overwhelming show of love and concern at the time of sorrow in the passing of our loved Husband, Father and Grandfather, Roy Wildman. A very special thanks to Pastor R. Clancy for his comforting words and many visits. Thank you all for the flowers, memorials, cards and visits. We also thank the St. Peters Ladies Aid for the delicious dinner they served after the funeral. We appreciate the many comforts Warren and Sandy extended to us. Thank you, Art Nitz, for the beautiful solo and Sheree, organist, and the pallbearers. May God bless you all. The family of Roy

Wish list

Cass City officials set to present updated recreation plan Monday

Improving a walking trail, creating a skating facility and developing a modern campground facility are among the items on Cass City officials' recreational "wish list" for the next 5

Those planned improvements along with others are detailed in the village's updated Recreation Plan.

The plan, which has received preliminary approval from the Department of Natural Resources, will be presented to interested residents during a public hearing set for 7 p.m. Monday at the Cass City Municipal Building.

Included in the 32-page document are detailed descriptions of the community and service area, neighborhood units, existing recreational programs and facilities, and national standards.

Planners used their research to establish the following recreational goals:
—Creation of one cityowned mini-park in each of

-- Development of a senior/community center.

the village's southern quad-

-Development of an ice skating facility.

-Creation of a campground facility.

-Expansion of parking areas to meet the needs of additional facilities. -Acquisition of land north and east of Cass City Recreation Park for expansion and as a land banking future facilities. —Expansion of programs and facilities geared toward meeting the recreation measure for the addition of needs of seniors. -Solicitation and encouragement of private recreational facilities such as golf, bowling, fitness centers, etc.

-Construction of a lighted scoreboard and announcers booth and possibly a concession area for the 1995 totals some $972,000, principal ball fields.

—Hiring of a recreation director to coordinate physical facility development and use, and to organize and coordinate formal recreation programs.

-Construction of a pond in Cass City Recreation Park.

-Construction of a warming shelter for winter activi-

—Expansion of play areas. -Addition of pavilions with landscaped picnic ar-

-Changing the alignments of park roadways based on short and longrange plan.

Based on those goals, officials compiled a plan of action targeting "high priority items." A chart outlining the resulting 5-year capital outlay plan accompanies this story.

The estimated cost of all projects combined through which would be paid for with a combination of General Fund monies, DNR grants, donations and other revenue sources. Village officials acknowledge the plan is optimistic and that some projects may not be feasible in the next 5

"They (DNR) want you to be reasonable, but to have long-range goals—something hopefully to shoot for," village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie said.

For the most part, estimated cost figures included in the capital outlay plan are high, according to LaPonsie, who noted officials may decide to reduce the scale and, subsequently the cost, of some projects.

A DNR-approved plan of action is essential if officials hope to apply for state recreation grants to help fund various projects.

"Local merchants in Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron Counties have the benefit of this facility," he stated in a letter to the official.

"When people come to see the park, they spend money on travel, meals and lodging in the area. Since this is an economically depressed area, the small cost of maintaining the park is far outweighed by the benefit to the area from park visitors."

Hoxie said attendance at the site from October 1989 to September 1990 was 4.030 based on signatures recorded in a guest book, an increase of some 10 percent from the previous season's figure of 3,624 visitors, "and we know that many more people visit the park without signing the guest book."

"With this much attendance at such a primitive site (no water at all, one pit toilet, no picnic tables or benches for seating), why is the state of Michigan not willing to continue encouraging visitors by keeping the park open?"

"Visitors usually begin coming in March or April, depending upon the weather," Hoxie continued. "It is a shame to disappoint them by turning them she added.

Beryl Bliss, the mother of a soldier and a support group organizer in Cass City, echoed that sentiment.

"When we tell them (soldiers) everybody is right behind them. . .and waiting for their safe return, it seemed to relieve them a lot," she commented. Despite their youth, she pointed out, the servicemen and women are well aware of the reception Vietnam veterans received.

Bliss, the mother PFC Jeff Bliss, who is serving with the 3rd Cavalry in Saudi Arabia, indicated the announcement of the ceasefire relieved a lot of tension in her home.

Getting by the past several weeks has been a matter of "daily prayer and feelings thoughts and everything's going to be OK," she said. "It was a relief to know, but then there was still that feeling that you just weren't sure.'

She added, "It will be a bigger relief when he gets

Bowl "For Kids Sake"

Tuscola County Big Brothers/Big Sisters is about to embark on its seventh annual "Bowl For Kids Sake" Bowling Challenge.

The event is set for March 23 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the Brentwood in Caro.

This year every bowler has the opportunity to win a $400 savings bond in a Grand Prize Drawing. For every $5 in donations, a participant's name is entered in the drawing one

In addition, the first person to bowl a 300 game during the bowling challenge will win a 1991 Chevrolet Lumina Euro (some restrictions apply).

Details on the event and how to enter, as well as application forms and donation sheets, are available by calling 673-6996.
