

FIRST TURKEY — Ron Geiger of Cass City was the first successful hunter to report to the Chronicle office following the start of the spring turkey season Monday. Geiger bagged the bird—his first ever—at about 7:30 a.m. while hunting in the Deford area. The young turkey had a 4-inch beard and weighed in at about 14 pounds.

Supreme Court appeal likely

Appeals court affirms Kingston Camp closing

Koylton Township officials have prevailed once again—this time at the state appeals court level—in their effort to defend a ruling that would shut down Michigan's first "work and learn" camp.

Whether the camp will actually close this time or remain open pending another appeal, however, remains to be seen.

The Michigan Court of Appeals Friday unanimously affirmed all points of a ruling issued last June by Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn, who upheld a Koylton Township Zoning Board of Appeals decision against Pioneer Work and Learn Center.

In its ruling, issued Jan. 15, 1990, the township appeals board stated operation of the Pioneer "work and learn" program at Camp Kingston Hills violates township zoning laws related to the facility's nonconforming use status.

The camp was "grandfathered" into the township's zoning ordinance as a children's recreational summer camp, according to township officials, who contend that use was illegally expanded when Pioneer Work and Learn Center—a year-round rehabilitation program for male juvenile delinquents that have been made wards of the state—began operating at the facility in October 1988. Pioneer attorneys, however, have argued that the work and learn program has not changed the intended use of the camp.

In their 2-page written opinion, state appeals court judges Robert J. Danhof, Donald E. Holbrook Jr. and Joseph B. Sullivan agreed with Joslyn's ruling in the case.

ADEQUATE EVIDENCE

"First, we find more than adequate evidence to support the board of appeals' determination that Pioneer... had expanded and changed the nature of Camp Kingston Hills' prior lawful nonconforming use," they stated. "Despite plaintiffs' attempts to portray its current use as substantially the same as in the past, the fact is that never before had the subject premises been used on a continuous basis as a full-time, year-round camp for substantial numbers of state wards."

The judges also addressed Pioneer attorneys' arguments that Joslyn, in his review of the board's decision, refused to consider claims of discrimination on the part of township officials, and that a member of the township appeals board was biased in his vote against Pioneer.

"...we find no support for plaintiffs' argument that the decision of the board of appeals was based on religious or racial discrimination."

"Plaintiff advanced their racial discrimination argument as early as their first amended complaint. However, as the trial court pointed out at the parties' July 13, 1990, hearing on defendants' motion for entry of judgement, plaintiffs' racial discrimination claim remains unsupported by any substantial evidence whatsoever."

Finally," the judges wrote, "we also disagree that plaintiffs have made out a prima facie (self-evident) case that... Louis Haase, a member of the appeals board, was biased in favor of the defendants."

The judges noted that as evidence, Pioneer attorneys alleged that Haase co-sponsored a millage proposal to raise money to fund the legal battle against Pioneer. However, they concluded, "The only inference that could conclusively be drawn from the allegation is that Haase believed that the millage increase was necessary and that the township residents should vote on the millage proposal."

Sandusky attorney J. Anthony Sykora, who is representing the township, commented Monday that the township will now pursue enforcement of the ruling, which requires Pioneer Work and Learn Center to terminate operations.

Sykora suggested the closing will be sought by means of attrition; the program runs at 6-month intervals, so operations could be terminated when youths currently in the program complete their 6-month stay.

Currently, Pioneer Work and Learn Center, which operates under contract with the Michigan Department of Social Services, is operating under a 9-month contract extension that will expire Sept. 30.

Also contacted for comment Monday was Detroit attorney Samuel McCargo, representing Wolverine Human Services, Detroit, the parent company of Pioneer Work and Learn Center.

McCargo said he couldn't offer a great deal of comment because he hadn't yet seen a copy of the opinion. He stated, however, that it's likely Pioneer officials, as they have previously indicated, will appeal the ruling to the Michigan Supreme Court.

the same, 68, and getting worse, 13.

In addition, a vast majority feel the school is about the same in comparison with other Michigan schools: better, 27; about the same, 71, and 15, worse.

A big plus for the school is that most respondents feel that the school makes them feel welcome. A negative was that many felt that the teachers at the secondary level were not as caring as teachers at the lower levels.

The area in which most concern was expressed was vocal and instrumental music. The survey asked that various subjects be ranked, A-B-C-D-E.

Vocal music had no A's, instrumental music had one. The majority felt that the instrumental music department was a failure, with 35 E's.

Others that the readers feel need attention were, science, writing, computers and foreign language.

A chart showing the responses accompanies this story.

School outlines $250,000 in capital expenditures

Cass City school board members in regular session Monday night at the school were pleased to accept the low bid of Thomas Roofing Company of Cass City for a new vinyl roof on the high school at a bid price substantially below what had been estimated.

For a vinyl roof with a 15-year warranty, the bid price was $208,211, substantially below the $250,000 or more that had been forecast.

Even though the price is pleasing, it is not definite if the entire roof will be installed this year. In the official action the board voted to approve an alternate one for a part of the roof for $99,784.

That much will be completed this summer for sure and it's likely that the entire job will be completed after the school's finances become clearer at the end of the year. The bidder has assured the school that the price is firm until June 30. It may be possible to complete the job without dipping heavily into the school's fund balance, which was a healthy $525,000 starting the year.

Another capital improvement approved by the board was to share with the village the cost of building a sidewalk on Ale Street (in the Cass City park area) from Church to Rose Street for $4,000.

The school will ask the village for the fence that will be taken down when the walk is built and wants to install it as far as it will go around Campbell Elementary School, starting on Rose Street.

OTHER JOBS

Micklash also outlined projects for the summer. At Campbell, replacement of chairs will cost $2,000 and sidewalk and asphalt at Campbell is projected at $14,000.

Deford school will get a vinyl cover over its exterior trim.

An ambitious improvement at the Intermediate School has been reduced in scope. It is the repair of the electrical service. It was first projected to cost $20,000, but the plan now is to take care of the problem areas and install feeds and circuit breakers at a cost of $6,000, with the rest of the work completed in future years.

Other work at the Intermediate School includes adding 30 desks and chairs, $2,700; 111 new first floor lockers, $7,700, and replacing library furniture, $3,500. The high school projects, in addition to the roof, include replacing 6 typewriters, $6,000; replacing 30 desks, $2,300, and updating heating system, $3,000.

The repair of the heating system is thousands of dollars less than expected. The reason for that is, Micklash said, we can buy our own gauges and valves at about half the price quoted and our men can do the work. In addition, it was decided not to install a back-up system.

None of the other systems have a back-up system and we got by for 25 years without one and we can do it now, Micklash pointed out.

Finally, a test of the school's underground storage tanks was estimated to cost $10,000.

Narcotics unit busts Caro cocaine ring

The Thumb Narcotics Unit busting a Caro-based cocaine trafficking ring Thursday morning, seizing an ounce and a quarter of cocaine valued at some $3,500, and arresting 3 men.

The suspects include 2 Detroit residents who, authorities believe, had been bringing quantities of cocaine to Caro on the weekends to sell in the Thumb. Arrested were Mark Anthony Johnson, 31, of Caro; Charles Lamont Anderson, 22, of Detroit, and Aaron Craig Anthony, 18, also of Detroit.

Johnson faces one count of delivery of cocaine less than 50 grams and one count of conspiracy to deliver cocaine, Anderson is charged with 2 counts of delivery of cocaine less than 50 grams and one count of conspiracy to deliver cocaine, and Anthony faces a misdemeanor charge of being a disorderly person-loitering about an illegal business.

All 3 men were arraigned Thursday in Tuscola County District Court. Johnson and Anderson, whose bonds were set at $10,000 and $30,000, respectively, were to have faced preliminary examinations today (Wednesday). District court proceedings are pending for Anthony, whose bond was set at $2,000. According to TNU Commander Det./Lt. Gordon Good, the suspects were taken into custody at Johnson's residence, 1609 E. Caro Rd., Caro, where police served a search warrant at about 6 a.m. Thursday.

The operation followed a 3-month investigation into the area drug trafficking ring, Good said, noting his unit was assisted by the Caro Police Department, Michigan State Police (Caro post), Tuscola County Sheriff's Department and the Michigan State Police Emergency Services Team.

Few answer school survey

A massive effort by Cass City Schools to find out just what the school is doing right or wrong failed to point out just what direction district taxpayers feel the school should take.

Supt. Ken Micklash said Monday night while discussing the survey with the school board at the regular monthly meeting that the low number of returns make it impossible to draw accurate conclusions. About 3,000 surveys were sent out and 119 returned, about 4 percent.

Most of the returns were from parents of Cass City students. In one way the low number of returns could be a positive factor under the theory that if more people were concerned about the way the school operates, more responses would have been received.

Most of the respondents feel that the school is going along about the same now as it has. In answer to the question, are the schools better, worse or about the same, the answers were: Getting better, 32; about

On being frugal

by Melva E. Guinther

Thanks to Erma Bombeck, well, Erma and my husband Stan, I broke down and spent $3.99 for a new clothes basket. (They were on sale at Ben Franklin.)

Stan saw me doing the laundry the other day with one basket laced together with a shoestring and another preserved with masking tape, and remarked, "We are frugal, aren't we?"

Of course, I immediately became defensive, and pointed out that the baskets serve their purpose just fine and he should be grateful to have a wife who's not a spendthrift.

(He may be sorry he brought the matter up. Since the extravagance of the clothes basket, I've been looking askance at the leaky dishwasher.)

For her part, Erma wrote in her column about the guy in Ohio who won $50 million in the lottery and said, when asked what he was going to do with it, "I've always wanted one of them eight-slice toasters."

He also thought he'd "fill in the dents in the Pinto." In her inimitable style, Erma went on to describe how most of us limp along waiting to win the lottery before we indulge ourselves with little things that we could easily afford now.

If the Bombecks were to win the lottery, she says she'd get an extra door key made. She also admitted that she continues to use a cookie sheet that looks like a drip pan under a 1947 tractor, when she probably could manage the price of a new one.

Doesn't everybody have one of those? You show me someone who can nonchalantly discard a hopelessly blackened cookie sheet, and

James Donahue is speaker at AAUW meet

Author, columnist and reporter, James L. Donahue, was guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW). The program was held at the Rawson Memorial Library in Cass City.

Donahue, a historical writer, has authored numerous columns and books of the great fire of the late 1800's that swept through the Thumb as well as ship wrecks on the Great Lakes during the same era.

Donahue, who confessed that history was his least favorite subject in grade school, in high school and even college, credits his grandfather's tales and reminiscing of the past for his conversion to the subject that "today has earned me a love of history as well as a living." The Donahue family's roots trace back to the Harbor Beach area.

Good news for men on the medical front. Mayo Clinic urologists have devised a new method for performing an operation for an enlarged prostate, a condition that affects two-thirds of men over 60.

It's called prostatic and the affected tissue is removed by microwave instead of surgery.

It is completed on an out-patient basis and normal physical activity is resumed in days instead of weeks. The doctors say they do not anticipate problems associated with sexual function with the new technique.

Judging by the response to the supper sponsored by the Shabbona Methodist Church Children's Group, pasties are gaining in popularity in the Thumb. They have long been a staple in the Upper Peninsula and available over much of the northern Lower Peninsula.

The pasties offered in Shabbona were made with assistance of visitors from the U.P. and we were brought a couple to taste. Yumm.

Pasties make a great, quick nutritional meal. Homemade ones are available from a bakery south of Lapeer on M-24 and many grocery stores have them in the frozen food department.

Reading council to host author

The Thumb Area Reading Council will host author/illustrator Jane Stroschin next month for a presentation to parents and teachers entitled "The Write Connection for Parents and Children."

In addition, Stroschin will be displaying a sampling of her own art works.

Her presentation will be held May 2 at Mayville High School, with registration from 6:30 to 7 p.m. and her discussion from 7 to 8 p.m.

A small admission fee will be charged, and refreshments will be served.

Stroschin comes from Fremont and has a degree in art education. While she has made a reputation for herself as a professional artist, she has continued to work with and for children, writing and illustrating books such as "The Cloudy Day," "The Tale of Boris," "A Fable of the Red-Tailed Hawk," and

"Sydney, the Story of a Kingfisher."

Her presentation May 2 will be held towards the end of a one-week stay in the Thumb, including visits to 7 different schools, working with students and teachers on writing and illustrating, and presenting at the Thumb Area Reading Council's Young Author's Conference, slated for Saturday in Mayville.

Recent contract settlements for Michigan teachers indicate that salaries will increase nearly 12 percent in the next 2 years, say spokesmen for the Michigan Association of School Boards. (MASB)

Also due to increase is the cost of health insurance.

"If It Fitz...."

Promise not to cry

By Jim Fitzgerald

Our Southwest Airlines flight was scheduled to leave Chicago's Midway Airport for Detroit at 5:50 p.m. Sunday. Our party of 5 arrived at Midway about half a day early because we'd just spent the weekend getting lost on highways, in hotel corridors and restaurant aisles, and during the long journey from bed to bathroom. We wanted to leave plenty of time to recover from getting lost in the airport entrance.

I'll tell you what happened after we settled down at Gate A12 for the long wait for our plane, coming in from Houston. But be warned that this is not a pleasant story. Promise not to cry.

Around 4 p.m., a sign announced our flight was delayed. At 6 p.m., it said the same thing. After pleading ignorance for 2 hours, Southwest personnel finally put an estimate on the delay: Because of bad weather in Texas, we'd be lucky to fly Southwest before 10 p.m., if even that night. The story was equally discouraging at other airlines.

We decided it would be quicker to rent a car and drive to Detroit. While my brother-in-law Bill retrieved our luggage and turned in our tickets for later refunds, I sped down the concourse to the car rental counters. Most of them said it was against policy to allow one-way trips to Detroit. Hertz said OK, but there'd be an added $250 drop-off charge. The Dollar agency wanted $150 extra.

Why the hell do car rental companies bother having a nationwide chain of outlets, which they continually brag about, if customers must bring the car back where they got it? If, in a city the size of Detroit, there is no chance of anyone renting a car to drive back to Chicago, rental cars might as well be tethered in their backyards.

But one member of our party was Terrible Jean, my much, much older sister. Even though she appears healthy, there is no denying that, by all reasonable actuarial measurement, her time is limited. I figured her children might resent it if Terrible Jean were forced to spend her final years in a Chicago airport, waiting for the weather to clear up in Houston. So I accepted Dollar's deal to let us drive a Buick for 5 hours for a disgusting $210.

But wait. As I headed for the Buick, I heard my name called over the public address system. Before I could get to a phone, I saw my wife, Pat, and my much, much younger sister, Linda, running down the concourse. They said that back at Gate A12, Southwest had suddenly, with no explanation, rescheduled our flight. We could still get on it if we hurried, hurried, hurried.

Then hail the size of purses

We canceled the Dollar rental deal and, gasping, made it on time to the plane — where my wife announced that, in the rush, she'd left her purse, containing everything important she owned, way back at the security gate. At this point, Linda, a mere 50-year-old surrounded by aging old poops, tossed her shoes and sprinted for the purse. My wife collapsed into the plane and I stood at the entrance, imploping the man in charge not to leave without Linda.

It should be pointed out that Linda, a San Antonio resident, had flown into the same airport 2 nights earlier and waited over 2 hours, past midnight, for 2 brothers-in-law to pick her up. They were late because, for the first 60 miles of their motor trip, they were headed in the exact wrong direction. Linda was a trifle cranky by the time they arrived, even though she'd made several warm friends among the airport cleaning crew. She was determined not to risk the 265-mile drive to Detroit with such incredibly lousy navigators.

The security guard wouldn't give her Pat's purse because Linda couldn't remember the address on Pat's driver's license. Pat had to be called back off the plane to claim the lousy purse.

Winded and perspiring, we were finally all aboard by 7 p.m. The plane didn't take off until 7:35 because it wasn't until then that the copilot arrived. To make me feel better, a flight attendant gave me a free drink. I spilled every drop of it on my shirt and squished all the way to Detroit.

The purpose of the Chicago trip was to attend a cousin's wedding reception and proudly enhance the Fitzgerald family reputation for industrial-strength free-loading. I'll write about that as soon as I can stop crying.

Owen-Gage Girl Scouts air trip to Chicago

Girl Scouts of America is still going strong in the Owendale-Gagetown area.

The Cadette/Senior Troop 642 has worked hard over the past couple of years to raise money for a trip to Chicago. They sold Girl Scout cookies and magazine subscriptions, and worked at the Cass City Sidewalk Sales last summer, selling hot dogs to raise enough money for air fare and hotel accommodations.

Their dream finally came true April 5, when 5 Girl Scouts entered the doors of Metro Airport to catch their flight.

Becky Fahrner, Jodi Copeland, Loretta Rolston and Jill and Robin Wildman were able to experience the adventures of Chicago by exploring the science museum, viewing the city from the top of the Sears Tower, eating at Ed Debevic's (a 50's joint), feeling the excitement at the Hard Rock Cafe and eating at the largest McDonald's Restaurant in the world, according to Girl Scout Leader Faith Fahrner, who noted the weekend will not be forgotten soon.

The scouts were accompanied by their leader of 10 years, Fahrner, and another mother, Molly Wildman.

The Girl Scouts appreciate area residents' support, Fahrner commented.

"Without the support of our communities, the ladies would be unable to grow and experience life, which will help them to become the good citizens and future leaders of our country," she added.

Fahrner is mathematics award winner

Owen-Gage High School student Becky Fahrner has been named a U.S. National Award Winner in the category of mathematics.

National award winner selections are based on criteria set forth by the U.S. Achievement Academy and on the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors. The criteria include academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, citizenship and dependability.

Fahrner was nominated for the honor by her math teacher, Les Packard.

She is the daughter of Fred and Faith Fahrner of Owendale. Her grandparents are John and Helen Fahrner, also of Owendale, and Robert and Betty Brinkman of Cass City.

MOTIVATION IS very important, according to Don Buehrly, Cass City, (above, standing), who volunteers time each week leading a woodworking class at Tendercare in Cass City.

4 arraigned in district court

Three Tuscola County residents were recently arraigned on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property and a fourth resident faces a charge of breaking and entering, all in Vassar Township.

Scott G. Jacobs, 19, Millington, and Brian D. Jarlsie, 26, Vassar, were arraigned Friday in district court on charges of receiving and concealing stolen property valued at more than $100.

Bond for each was set at $2,000 and preliminary examinations were scheduled for 1:30 p.m. May 1.

According to court records, the pair are charged with receiving and concealing 2 portable AM/FM cassette radios, a microwave oven, 2 electric drills and M&M candies Jan. 30-31.

Facing an identical charge is Beverly L. Pugh, 19, of Vassar, who was to have undergone a preliminary exam today (Wednesday).

Pugh, whose bond has been set at $5,000, is charged with receiving and concealing stolen auto parts March 23.

Steven L. DeLong, who was to have undergone a preliminary exam last week on a charge of breaking and entering a motor vehicle to steal property valued at more than $5,000, was arraigned today, was set at $5,000.

Court records state the offense allegedly occurred

March 22 and involved a 1973 Plymouth Roadrunner.

CHARGE DISMISSED

In other proceedings last week, a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $100, levied against Bryan P. McCoon, 23, of Caro, was dropped.

Court records indicate there was a lack of sufficient evidence to pursue the charge against the defendant, who had been accused of receiving and concealing a stolen leather jacket March 19 in Caro.

Writers' seminar slated

Area writers are invited to the Blue Water Writer's Club's 6th annual Writers Seminar, scheduled for May 4 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Museum of Arts & History, 1115 Sixth St., Port Huron.

Guest speakers for the day will be Joe Matussek and Josie Kearns, a husband and wife team who have received several awards as well as writing grants from the Michigan Council of the Arts. They will be discussing the basics of how to sell what you write as well as leading several workshop exercises and critiquing submitted work.

Additional information is available by contacting Tom at (313) 385-4808 or Linda at (313) 385-3209. Registration space is limited.

National Volunteer Week

Motivation key, Tendercare volunteer Don Buehrly says

Don Buehrly isn't a football coach and he doesn't teach a Dale Carnegie course, but he knows a thing or 2 about motivation.

"Sometimes your brain doesn't tell your hands what to do, but you can command your hands to do it; when your brain doesn't want to do anything, you have to take over," he said.

"When you go up a flight of stairs, where do you start? The bottom step."

Buehrly made these comments last week at Tendercare, Cass City, where he spends 90 minutes or so each week leading a wood working class.

The Cass City native is among 30 area residents—7 men and 23 women—who regularly share their time and talents with residents at the Cass City nursing home.

They are among thousands of volunteers throughout the country slated to be recognized during National Volunteer Week, April 21-27.

For Buehrly, volunteering is a way to give something back.

"I'm not doing this job for publicity," he said. "Other people have helped me, and now I want to pass it on."

Buehrly noted he's battled depression and other feelings that, at times, have sidelined his desire to do anything. In other words, he explained, "I've had some of the same (feelings)" many nursing home residents experience.

"I guess what I want to do is treat these people (the way) I would want to be treated if I was sitting there."

As a volunteer, Buehrly strives to get residents interested in working with wood, and he's persistent when it comes to making sure that anyone who might be interested is brought out to the dining room and seated at his table.

He gets his "students" started with the basics, beginning with sanding, with the hope the class will eventually lead to some simple building projects.

IT'S A START

"If I can get them the first time to even move that sandpaper back and forth 3 or 4 times, it's a start," he pointed out. "It may not seem like it's much, but you have to start somewhere."

The men work slowly but surely with their sanding blocks, smoothing the surfaces on key holders, wooden hearts and other simple projects. The next step will be painting.

Buehrly, whose class preparation time is spent in a workshop at his home, has helped nurture his students' interest by getting them involved in sanding the pieces of a large bird house, which he assembled and brought in to the nursing home.

"This way they can see what they've done," he remarked, noting he has assistance when it comes to some aspects of preparing the wood projects. He wouldn't name them, but said a couple of other area residents are "always around whenever I need them."

Since he began volunteering a few months ago, Buehrly has noticed a more positive attitude in the men he works with. Now, he said, many of them are visibly enthusiastic about getting together each week.

Thursday night at the Charmont, according to Vatter, who noted the activities provided by those volunteers vary greatly. Examples are a special ladies' hour, a veterans' discussion group, work on a July 4 Festival Parade float, evening bingo and story time.

Most, but not all, of the volunteers are retired, she said, adding "I have one lady that works in a factory all day and then comes here and does an hour Bible study Thursday evenings."

DIFFERENCE

And the list doesn't end there. Vatter pointed out area churches and church groups also make a big difference, helping in ways ranging from church service to visitation.

And the community as a whole seems to always be willing to lend a helping hand, she said.

"It doesn't matter who I call; the support is really great. It makes you want to do things," Vatter remarked. "I've been here 15 years and I have always had good volunteers. It would be hard to hold the programs we do without them."

Vatter has a favorite definition of a volunteer—"The first to lend a helping hand, the last to turn away."

Buehrly suggested the residents of Tendercare play a big role in the home's volunteer success story.

"None of us are the real heroes; the patients are the heroes," he said. "If they don't cooperate, my job is useless."

"I'm no expert and I don't claim to be an expert, and I don't want any glory," he continued.

"If I can get a smile or a laugh, or see some progress, I've got my pay."

A CHANGE

The area resident also has noticed a change in himself. "I've never had this feeling before," he remarked. "I feel better now than I've felt in a good long time."

His time and efforts at Tendercare haven't gone unnoticed by Activities Coordinator Mary Vatter.

She grinned and commented, "He's really great about making sure I get them (residents) all out!" on Wednesdays.

"The group has really grown," she added. "They really look forward to the day."

Buehrly and the other Tendercare volunteers will be honored at an annual recognition dinner slated for

Walbro reports profit down as sales increase

L.E. Althaver, chairman, president and chief executive officer, Walbro Corporation, reported sales of $43,897,000 for the first quarter ended March 31, 1991, compared with $37,077,000 for the same period in 1990. This compares with net income per share of $.28 for the first quarter of 1990, based on the same number of shares outstanding.

makers remain committed to converting a large percentage of their vehicles to electronic fuel injection in order to meet stringent emissions standards. The result is a strong growth potential for Walbro fuels systems in Europe."

"That potential will be realized through Walbro's previously announced joint venture with Magneti Marelli S.p.A., Milan, Italy. This venture will develop, manufacture and market fuel system products to European automakers. The joint venture will be headquartered in France, and is expected to be operational by mid-summer," Althaver said.

"Walbro's annual meeting was to have been held at Corporate Headquarters in Cass City April 23 at 11:00 a.m.

"In taking these steps, we have attempted to balance short-term requirements with the need to provide the resources necessary for continued growth in today's global marketplace. We feel that appropriate action has been taken to ensure the company's future competitiveness in its core markets," Althaver said.

The Walbro chief executive pointed out that Walbro's European prospects continue to be bright. "While automobile sales in Europe have dropped due to the initial effects of the recession, European auto-

Deckerville, A-Fairgrove favored

O-G strong in sprints but weak in distance events

Look for history to repeat itself this spring, says Coach Arnie Besonen, when discussing the outlook for the Owen-Gage track teams. Like the rest of the league, the Bulldog boys and girls will be chasing Deckerville and Akron-Fairgrove.

Besonen's predictions proved accurate in a Tuesday, April 16, 4-school meet at Deckerville. Participating were Kingston, Owen-Gage, Peck and Deckerville and the Eagles won both the boys' and girls' competition easily.

The boys' scores were: Deckerville, 103; Kingston, 53; Owen-Gage, 35, and Peck, 47.

The girls' results were: Deckerville, 77 1/2; Kingston, 52 1/2; Owen-Gage, 31 1/2, and Peck, 58 1/2.

BOYS' OUTLOOK

The Bulldogs ended last season in the lower half of the league and chances are everything will need to go right if the team can climb up in the standings.

After all, 3 outstanding linebacks have graduated. Gone are Andre Damm, the sprint speedster who finished fifth in the state in the 100, and Chad Stirrett, who was sixth in the 200. Also missing will be Graham Besonen, who was a member of the tough 400 and 800-meter team that was a proven point producer.

This year Mickey Parks has been a pleasant surprise in the 100-meter dash, winning the only first for O-G in the meet at Deckerville.

Parks also ran a leg on the 440-yard relay team with sophomore Joe Garza, his brother, freshman Curtis Garza, and senior Greg Smith, that finished second.

Owen-Gage will also earn points in the discus, where Scott Norcross is one of the best performers in the North Central Thumb D.

Where we are very weak,

Besonen stressed, is in the distance events, where points this season will be hard to come by.

GIRLS' OUTLOOK

A carbon copy of the boys' prospects is the expectation for the girls' team. There doesn't seem to be enough depth on the squad to make a serious run for the North Central title, but there are a few bright spots.

One of them is Renee Murawski, a junior speedster. She captured both the sprint events, the 100 and 220-yard dashes, at Decker-ville. The Bulldogs showed strength in the 440 and 880 relays, finishing second in both.

Again there is a marked weakness in the distance events.

Coach seeks control pitcher as O-G splits double bill

The reviews are mixed, according to Coach Judy Campbell, after Owen-Gage's season opener at North Branch where the Bulldogs split a twin bill against Wesleyan.

The 'Dogs opened the season in grand fashion, slugging out a 17-12 victory, but failed in the nightcap, 11-9.

Campbell's squad got away with 11 walks in the opener, but weren't as fortunate in the second contest as 9 free passes, coupled with 4 errors, spelled defeat in the non-conference tilt.

"I've got to find a pitcher who can throw strikes," complained Campbell about her moundsmen afterwards.

The veteran mentor won't have much time to look, as her ladies entertain Deckerville Thursday in an early clash between 2 NCTL perennial powers.

"Considering the weather, I thought we hit pretty well and I was pleased with our fielding", Campbell said.

The visitors only committed one miscue in their victory.

The 'Dogs put that game out of reach in their 3rd at base where they exploded for 10 runs.

Contributing in the rally was senior Aimee Merchant, who singled in 6 RBIs on the day and collected 4 hits.

Jill Ferguson was the only other Bulldog to register more than one hit as she enjoyed a 2 for 4 performance on the afternoon at the plate.

Sophomore Carli Salcido picked up her first career win, but needed help from classmate Michelle Tkacz, who came on in relief to earn her first save on the young season.

In the night game, Owen-Gage watched the hosts explode for 6 runs in the 4th inning that broke open a 5-5 game. Tkacz was on the mound for the visitors and was tagged for the loss.

Unlike the first game where the Bulldog bats boomed, the 'Dogs came up with only 6 hits.

Jill Susalla led the attack in vain with 2 hits in 3 tries.

Bows to North Branch

O-G drops baseball opener

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs baseball team got off to a slow start Thursday as the host North Branch Wesleyan Eagles posted a 12-5 decision behind the 5-hit pitching of Tony Welde. Bob Haldane hurled for the Bulldogs and took the loss, allowing 9 hits.

The Eagles jumped off to a 4-run lead in the first inning and were never behind, although the Bulldogs made a game of it with a 4-run splurge of their own in the third inning when 10 players went to the plate.

The Bulldogs got only one hit, a single by Brent Fritz, in the rally but took advantage of Welde's wildness and a couple of errors to score.

The rally closed the gap to 6-4, but the winners bounced back with 2 runs in their half of the third to control the game.

Chris Anthes led the Bulldog attack with 2 hits in 4 attempts, scored 2 runs and batted in one. The Eagles were led by Erin Ferrier with 2 hits in 3 tries and Tom Meredith with 2 hits in 4 tries.

The Bulldogs will entertain Deckerville Thursday in the second league game of the year. The team was to have played Kingston Monday.

Hawk girls bow to Cardinal thinclads

Visiting Millington made the opening of the Thumb B Association track season a disappointing one for the Cass City Red Hawk girls as the Cardinals defeated the Hawks, 86-46, Wednesday.

Millington won the meet because of its superiority in the relay events and superior depth. The visitors won all 4 relay events. The Cards also edged the Hawks in first place and second place finishes, posting an 8-7 margin in each. In third place finishes, the winners posted a 12-4 margin.

Cass City's Jodi LaRoche was a triple winner, with firsts in the long jump and 100 and 200-meter dashes.

- Shot Put - Koral Goad, M, 29.8.
- Discus - Barb Kelley, CC, 92.5.

Track dedication set prior to unique meet

The relays will feature both boys and girls together with the total performance of both determining the eventual champion.

The field events will start at 10 a.m. and each event will have 2 boys and 2 girls on each team competing in the shot put, discus, high jump and long jump.

The dedication ceremony is scheduled at 11:30 a.m. and the first track event starts at 12 noon.

The awards ceremony is scheduled following the meet-at about 2 p.m.

The track schedule:

Letters to the Editor

'Bad apples' scar decent officers

Years ago, applicants for police work were picked because of their muscular build - the bigger they were, the better chance they had in obtaining the job. That is no longer a requirement; now women can become police officers. They have to pass several tests and go through the police academy to be certified by the state.

Despite all the training they get, they still encounter problems with brutality and bad judgement. This has taken place in our bigger cities, with a few officers out of hundreds, and thousands casting a dark shadow on all law enforcement. In today's society, it is regrettable because 95 percent plus are fine, dedicated and disciplined officers.

This focuses on brutality, and people calling the police officers "bullies - pigs" is a sad commentary. People who call the officers names are cop haters. Of course, the action that took place in the south, where dogs were used to break up a march, was most despicable; it brought protests throughout our nation. Surely this was poor judgement on the part of law enforcement.

Recently, we saw on TV where a black male was involved in a traffic violation and was beaten unmercifully by several officers. That also cast a bad image due to a few "bad apples" in law enforcement. You can imagine the hurt and scars that were placed on the fine police officers throughout the country, who vigorously protested the unprofessional conduct that was viewed by millions of people. As luck would have it, the entire episode was photographed by a bystander who was good enough to come forward with this inordinate action. Hopefully these officers are being brought to justice.

In all my 30 years as a police officer, I have never seen such a brutal, savage attack on a human being and can assure you our police officers don't do such incredible acts even against people who attack them. Force, in many incidents is used, but as a professional officer, good judgement and restraint is involved.

I find police officers in today's society are under great stress and tension because of the change in our life style - drugs, power, weapons, shootouts, gangs, and dangerous criminals released early. This puts officers under great strain. Not knowing who they are dealing with, even veteran officers are placed in a protective posture.

We all should appreciate what officers have to go through. They have to wear bullet proof vests during the hot months and they have to react to every suspicious movement, many times in life and death situations. We take policemen for granted; we only want them when seeking their help, but they receive little help from us when they need it.

These brave and courageous men are killed while helping others, and their pay is not all that great for the thankless job they do. We must not look at them as bullies - pigs because of a few who overreacted.

In closing, we don't know and never will, what motivated such a senseless act. Most officers are decent people and react to serious problems in an equanimity way. I know because I was a police officer and was involved in many of the above situations.

May 12-18 National Nursing Home Week

Dear Editor:

May 12-18, 1991, is national "Nursing Home Week" and this year's theme - "Leaders in Quality Care" - is intended to honor the truly loving individuals who daily care for the sick and frail in our nursing homes.

Americans are living longer than ever before. In fact, 2 out of every 5 people who live beyond 65 years of age will spend part of their lives in nursing homes. Some 51,000 Michigan citizens reside in nursing homes.

Today's modern nursing home care teams include professionals in medicine, nursing, nutrition, social, spiritual and personal care. These people, along with the volunteers who participate in our community nursing homes, should be commended for their commitment to helping make other people's lives happier, more comfortable and more enjoyable.

Most people do not know very much about life in a nursing home. They're unaware of the professional services involved, as well as the fun and stimulating activities available daily to help residents reach their full potential. And we sometimes forget how much the loving touch, smile and conversation with staff and volunteers means to our community pioneers living in nursing homes.

This special week offers an opportunity to give thanks to these caregivers in our community, and to increase our own involvement in enriching the lives of nursing home residents.

Sincerely,
Constance Schwaderer, Administrator,
Tendercare, Cass City

Your neighbor says

Decision should be up to victim

A hot topic on the talk shows and in newspaper editorial sections is whether or not a woman's name should be withheld when she accuses a man of rape.

Traditionally the woman's name has been withheld, but today there is a growing minority that feels that the name should not be withheld and should be treated like any other case of assault.

The reasoning is that there should be no stigma attached to women who have been victimized.

Your neighbor, Kris O'Dell, a lifelong resident of Cass City says that the decision should be entirely up to the victim. If she wants to be named, fine, and if not, the name should be withheld.

O'Dell says that she feels that rape cases today are no more frequent than they were previously. What's changed, she feels, is that more victimized women are coming forward instead of remaining silent.

O'Dell and her husband, Doug, have 3 children, Erin, 13, Kyle, 9, and Josh, 5.

DON ERLA, of the Tuscola County Archers Club, poses with a set of McKenzie 3-D targets. Erla was in Cass City recently promoting the sport of bowhunting.

Bowhunter education offered

The Tuscola County Archers and the Michigan Bowhunters are hosting an international bowhunter education program at the Tuscola County Archer's Clubhouse, located on Bruisee Road near the Caro Mental Health Center.

The program will be held May 18 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The cost of the course is $1.

The purpose of the course, open to persons who are at least 11 years of age, is to provide bowhunters with an understanding of good bowhunting skills as well as emphasize good sportsmanship; to assist them to have acceptable behavior and respect for the environment, wildlife and non-hunters, and to attain the highest standards of sportsmanship.

Urge caution with Yew

Annual spring clean-up of farmsteads, residences, fairgrounds, and show areas often includes the planting of ornamental shrubs.

According to Dr. Beth E. Doran, extension livestock agent, private owners, commercial landscapers and service groups should avoid including Yew varieties (especially Japanese Yew) in any landscaping schemes that might involve contact with grazing animals. When ingested, Japanese Yew is extremely toxic, she said, adding a small handful of foliage will kill an adult horse or cow. Death is sudden and involves conduction failure of the cardiac muscles.

"Due to its low cost, frequent usage and pleasant evergreen appearance, Japanese Yew is the most common culprit of the yew family. It is routinely planted around buildings, utilized as foliage fencing, and is often observed around fairground facilities."

"Ingestion usually occurs very innocently," Duran continued. Two examples are: temporary pens are placed within reach of the shrubs, or 4-H kids on horseback chat while their horses graze on the shrub planted next to the arena or barn.

Ingestion also commonly occurs when well-meaning neighbors throw yew trimmings or yew/grass clipping combinations over the pasture fence.

5 minor traffic accidents reported in Cass City area

No injuries and little damage were reported in 5 minor traffic accidents in the Cass City area over the past week.

Cass City police said 2 mishaps occurred Friday, including a 2-vehicle collision at the intersection of Main and West streets.

According to reports, Kathleen R. Englehard, Bad Axe, was westbound on Main at about 5:56 p.m. when she turned into the left turn lane with her signal on, then pulled back out after seeing an eastbound vehicle coming towards her. The 2 vehicles collided as the east-bound car, driven by William R. McGrath, Cass City, attempted to make a left turn.

Police stated McGrath was not at fault and that Englehard should have made her planned left turn or waited for McGrath to turn. Earlier in the day, a vehicle driven by Timothy C. Dorland, Deford, backed from a private driveway at 6274 Brenda Dr., Cass City, into a parked vehicle belonging to David McNaughton. The incident occurred at about 2:20 p.m.

Two mishaps also were reported Sunday, including a car-deer accident on M-53 north of Robinson Road. Jeffery W. Stahlbaum, Cass City, stated he was driving north at about 2 a.m. when deer crossed his path.

Connie Connolly reported damage to her vehicle the same day, according to police, who said her vehicle was hit by an unknown car apparently while parked at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Cass City. In other reports, a Cass City resident stated someone vandalized his vehicle while parked at the Charmont Saturday.

Bryce McIntosh told police he parked at 9 p.m. and returned an hour later to discover someone had broken the antenna off his vehicle. Damage was estimated at $20.

Also last week, police arrested an area motorist on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

William R. Otulakowski, 26, Cass City, was arrested Sunday at about 1:25 a.m. after failing sobriety tests. He was stopped for improper lane use.

Werschky named county's Big Sister of the year

Cass City resident Sue Werschky has been named Tuscola County's Big Sister of the Year.

Werschky and a host of other Big Brothers/Big Sisters volunteers, board members and Second Chance Thrift Shop workers were honored during the organization's annual banquet Saturday. The event, held at the Caro United Methodist Church, drew some 50 persons.

"I was surprised. I thought it was wonderful and nice that they chose me," remarked Werschky, who has been matched with her little sister, Melissa Gerard of Deford, since December 1989.

The pair enjoy a host of activities, ranging from crafts to working together on the annual Cass City Toys For Tots campaign.

"We've had a wonderful time," Werschky said of the past 16 months with Melissa.

Werschky commented her participation in the program has given her the enjoyment of spending time with a youth and the satisfaction of helping Melissa develop as a person. "For her, it's learning new things; going places she might not otherwise have been able to and doing things she might not otherwise have done," she continued. Equally important, Werschky added, is the fact that her little sister has someone she can talk to about anything.

Werschky urged other area residents, particularly those in the middle and older age groups, to consider volunteering their time in the program.

OTHERS HONORED

Also honored Saturday were Mike Urban, Caro, who was named Big Brother of the year; Kathy Kurtis Daniels, Caro, named Big Brothers/Big Sisters Board Member of the Year, and Jim McLoskey, Caro, who was recently named a regional Big Brother of the Year in Region VI, which covers Michigan and Ohio.

Urban, owner of Caro Auto Brite, has been matched with his little brother, Kevin Davidson, Caro, since July 1990. He presently is organizing a car wash slated for July 13 at Ralston's Party Mart, Caro, to benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters.

Kurtis Daniels, who is president of the Big Brothers/Big Sisters Board of Directors, is a Tuscola Intermediate School District school psychologist who has donated many hours of her time to the agency.

She and her husband, Denny, also a board member, are matched as a couple with a little brother.

McLoskey, a 14-year veteran of the county Big Brothers/Big Sister program, was matched with his current little brother, Bryan Sherd, in June 1989.

Also a member of the board of directors, he has served in several executive and committee positions, and helped form the Second Chance Thrift Shop in Caro, which provides some 60 percent of the agency's revenues.

McLoskey, chosen as Caro's 1986 Citizen of the Year, is the executive director of the Tuscola County Economic Development Corporation.

As Region VI Big Brother of the Year, McLoskey will compete with 10 other regional Big Brothers for the national title.

In addition, he will attend the Big Brother/Big Sister Michigan Association Conference in Midland, the Region VI and VII Conference in Columbus, Ohio, and the Prince Matchabelli Hero Awards in New York City.

In other business during the banquet, Big Brothers/Big Sisters Executive Director Sandy Gaudreau and Case Manager Ruby Sherman briefly outlined the past year's activities, which included servicing 112 children, with 37 matches made.

The beginning of 1991 has been particularly successful, with 8 matches made to date, according to Sherman, who noted the agency badly needs more volunteers, particularly Big Brothers.

Persons interested in learning more about the program can contact Sherman at (517) 673-6996.

Nine Cass City students place in Academic Track

Nine Cass City Intermediate School students placed or received honorable mention in various events at the 1991 Saginaw All-Area Academic Track Invitational, held April 16 at the Temple Theatre in Saginaw.

Cass City was represented in the competition by a total of 25 students, all of whom qualified by placing first in a local meet this season, according to program coordinators Dick Partlo and Connie Iwankovitsch.

The students who placed at the invitational, and their categories of competition are:

Toby Herringshaw, second, art; Jason Daniel, Ben Hobbs, Nathan Mastie and Scott Iwankovitsch, second, boys quartet; Garret O'Berski, second, ancient history; Shivaugn Rayl, third, biology; Erica Frederick, third, word-o-clock and speech and theatre, and Scott Iwankovitsch, third, mathematics.

In addition, Leana Edwards received honorable mention in the art competition, and Mandy Nizzola earned honorable mention in communication arts.

Academic Track competition offers students the opportunity to experience the thrill of interscholastic competition on a team basis. The competition features contests in academic areas as well as fine arts, ranging from biology to history to art to music.

This year's invitational featured more than 820 students signed up in over 500 events.

The students represented 21 schools—Akron-Fairgrove, Bangor, Birch Run, Bridgeport, Carrollton, Cass City, Freeland, Hastings, Hemlock, Imlay City, Kenowa Hills, Kingston, Marlette, North Branch, Reese, Frankenmuth, Swan Valley, St. Charles, Comstock Park, Lowell and Saginaw Township.

Applications available

Applications are now available to all artists wishing to participate in the annual Blue Water Art Fair at the Museum of Arts and History, Port Huron.

The summer art show is scheduled to take place July 13 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and July 14 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The event is sponsored by the Museum of Arts and History, the Blue Water Art Association and the Blue Water Festival.

The gala outdoor event will feature a variety of artistic media, including drawings, paintings, photographs, prints, graphics, ceramics, fibers, glass, jewelry, wood-working, calligraphy, fabric design, sculpture and more. Artists participating in the juried section of the show will be eligible for $1,000 in cash prizes and ribbons to be presented at an awards ceremony July 13.

Elementary art to return to school

Elementary art will be offered in grades one, two and three next year for the first time in a decade, according to a plan approved by the Cass City Board of Education Monday night in its regular session at the high school.

Elementary art was one of the courses dropped during the financial crunch of the 1980's and is the last to be restored, Supt. Ken Micklash pointed out.

In a related action, the board authorized another section for next year's sixth grade to accommodate the increased wave of students.

Although another section means an added teacher, Micklash said that it was not certain how much more staffing might be needed. The increase at the grade level might be balanced by a loss in the high school staffing requirements, he explained.

What might work out, Micklash feels, is a teacher splitting time between elementary music and art. The job will be posted to see if a teacher qualified in both subjects is available.

Counsellor Wayne Dillon explained to the board some of the changes ahead in educational requirements when he presented new admission requirements as recommended by the presidents of the State Universities of Michigan.

They are upgrading the number of years of English, math, science and history that will be needed to enter colleges in 1995.

The increase in academics has cut the number of students that attend the Tuscola Area Skill Center because there isn't time to attend and still take the necessary courses for college prep, Dillon said. Enrollment dropped this year from 712 to 619. Also affected was the Cass City High School Work Experience (co-op) program, where enrollment declined from 115 to 85, a 15 percent drop, because students could not work it into their schedules.

OTHER BUSINESS

Deford Principal Dorland Kuntz reported that an alternative summer program from Grand Rapids called GRASP is available to students in grades 1-8. It is designed to keep students from falling behind in math and reading in the summer months. Kuntz stressed that the program must have parent involvement since no Cass City district teacher will be involved.

The course costs $20 for one subject or $32 for both math and English. Lloyd Schinnerer outlined a new geography text book for the 7th grade and it was approved by the board. There will be 144 of them at a cost of $4,276.80.

Offer scholarships

High school seniors who are interested in the dairy industry may be able to qualify for scholarships at Michigan State University.

The $1,000 scholarships are being offered by the Michigan Dairy Memorial Scholarship Foundation, Inc.

Russel Erickson, professor of animal science and secretary of the foundation, says the competitive scholarships are open to any high school senior who has been accepted for admission at MSU and who plans to pursue a career in dairy production or food science and human nutrition with an emphasis in dairy foods.

"The only prerequisite is that the student have a science background and will work within the dairy industry or in the food industry in an area that pertains to dairy production or dairy development and distribution," Erickson says. "A student does not need an agricultural background to develop a successful career in the dairy industry, and there is lots of opportunity in all phases of the industry."

The scholarships will be offered for the 1991 academic year at MSU. Applications are due by June 1. The scholarships will be awarded in July.

Applicants need only to describe their purpose and reasons for pursuing a dairy or food science career and obtain letters of recommendation from their counselors or science teachers. The rationales will be evaluated by a committee in the MSU Department of Dairy Science.

Application forms are available from Erickson by writing to him at the Department of Animal Science, 125C Anthony Hall, MSU, East Lansing, Mich. 48824-1225.

HEALTH TIPS

Be careful with medication

Do you smoke and take birth control pills? Do you take your antibiotic pill with a glass of milk or with an iron pill? Do you use a meat tenderizer on your food while taking diuretics? Prescription medications are safe and effective by themselves, but they don't always mix well with other products we use every day. The following information is typical of the helpful advice available from your local independent pharmacist.

mon: some cheeses (such as Parmesan), red wine, chocolate, yogurt, bananas, yeast and others.

Third, some drugs reduce the body's ability to absorb vitamins and minerals from food. Diuretics, used to eliminate extra water from the body, also remove substances the body needs such as potassium and magnesium. Laxatives, antibiotics and other drugs can also stop vitamins from getting into the body.

Some over-the-counter products should not be mixed with prescription medication. Iron pills, for example, should not be taken at the same time as antibiotics.

Cigarette smoke contains about 400 different chemicals that don't always mix well with prescription drugs.

FOOD AND BEVERAGES

Food and beverages can interact in 3 ways with prescription drugs. First, they can stop or diminish the action of the drug by preventing it from moving out of the stomach towards the bloodstream. People who swallow an antibiotic pill with milk may not get enough medicine into their bloodstream to stop the infection.

If antibiotics are taken with coffee or fruit juice, the results can be just as bad. Chemicals in those drinks might destroy the drug in the stomach. In most cases, it's best to take medicines with plenty of water. However, there are exceptions, so be sure to talk to your pharmacist.

Second, some food-drug combinations can cause dangerous effects in the body. One of the most serious reactions occurs when drugs for depression (called monoamine oxidase inhibitors) are mixed with foods containing a chemical called tyramine. Putting the 2 together can cause very high blood pressure, headaches, vomiting and sometimes even death. The foods to avoid are com-

ALCOHOL REACTIONS

Alcohol, including beer and wine, can trigger reactions with drugs of all kinds. When in doubt, don't drink alcohol if you are taking prescription medications without first checking with your doctor or pharmacist.

According to NARD, the national association representing independent retail pharmacists, your chances of having a serious drug interaction are small if you ask your doctor or pharmacist for a list of items to avoid. Tell them about any other prescription and non prescription drugs you are taking, and read labels carefully.

The earthworm can clear and aerate half a pound of soil in a day.

CASS CITY'S (clockwise, from front left) Nathan Mastie, Jason Daniel, Scott Iwankovitsch and Ben Hobbs tied for second place in the quartet competition.
