Group seeks way to keep camp open----

A majority of Koylton Township Board members made it clear Tuesday they plan to do everything in their power to prevent the court ordered closing of Pioneer Work and Learn Center.

The closing, ordered Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court (see related story, page one), was requested by an attorney representing the township's Zoning Board.

But some Township Board members say Zoning Board Chairman Russell Mayer and the zoning board's attorney, J. Anthony Sykora, as well as township Supervisor Terry Boyne, ignored an Aug. 12 Township Board resolution to allow the "work and learn" camp to continue operating for 6 months while camp officials seek changes in the township's zoning ordinance.

During Tuesday's special meeting, attended by some 235 people, the Township Board hired another attorney and approved 4 motions designed to enforce that resolution.

The motions:
*Prohibit the Zoning Board or any township official from taking any action against Camp Kingston Hills and Pioneer Work and Learn Center — specifically, any act related to enforcing the court ordered closure — without written approval from the Township Board.

*Permit the camp to continue operating for 6 months while officials seek necessary changes in the zoning ordinance.

*State the camp will pay the township zoning board $100 per day since Aug. 6, and beginning Sept. 9 will pay the amount in advance for every 30-day period camp officials believe they will need to resolve zoning matters.

*Authorize the Township Board's attorney to execute and file with the circuit court an appropriate stipulation and order adopting this resolution on or before Sept. 9, the scheduled closure date.

The combined motions were approved on a vote of 3-1, with Treasurer Louis Haase casting the lone dissenting vote. Boyne did not attend the meeting.

Haase said he didn't like the idea of removing Mayer from the matter, particularly when the board appointed him to serve as liaison between the township and Sykora. He stated he has no problem giving the camp a 6-month extension, but indicated he would like to see the camp pay more than $100 per day.

Haase also cast the lone dissenting ballot in a 3-1 vote in favor of hiring Caro attorney Duane Burgess to represent the township, saying he believes the township should retain Sykora, who is familiar with the Koylton case and is experienced in township law.

The hiring of Burgess was recommended earlier in the evening by Kramer, who stated the board needed counsel for Tuesday's action, and neither Sykora nor township attorney Dan Atkins was available to attend the special meeting.

With few exceptions, most of those in attendance Tuesday indicated support for the board's action.

Much of the discussion echoed comments heard during an "unofficial" township meeting Thursday. Criticism of Boyne, Mayer Please turn to back page.

-----Judge says close or face consequences

Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn Friday ordered Pioneer Work and Learn Center to close within 10 days and pay penalties and legal expenses tied to the program's 3-year zoning battle with Koylton Township.

The ruling culminated a week marked by unsuccessful negotiations between township and camp officials, who discussed a plan to allow Pioneer to continue operating while camp officials seek needed zoning changes.

Friday's session was slated to hear the township's request for enforcement of a July 1990 decision in which Joslyn ruled operation of the "work and learn" program at Kingston Hills Camp violates township zoning laws.

Zoning Board attorney J. Anthony Sykora was the first to address the court.

Noting the rehabilitation program for male juvenile delinquents has continued to operate despite Joslyn's ruling 408 days earlier, he asked the judge to order the camp to close immediately and pay a $100 penalty for each day of operation since the July 18, 1990, ruling; $2,904 in legal costs and contempt of court fines.

Attorneys representing the camp stated Pioneer officials and the camp owners are making every effort to resolve the zoning matter, and that Koylton Township Please turn to back page.

KOYLTON TOWNSHIP residents attending Tuesday night's special Township Board meeting were asked to sign petitions asking Supervisor Terry Boyne and Zoning Board Chairman Russell Mayer to resign. Organizers of the effort said each petition received 54 signatures.

Poor T-shirt sales plunge Festival $1,900 in red

Cass City's 1991 July 4 Festival was blessed with decent weather and crowds, but those ingredients apparently weren't enough to guarantee financial success. The figures are in on the 13th annual festival, but the news isn't good, organizers say.

"It looks like we lost $1,900," Lota Hartel, festival committee treasurer, reported Friday. Overall, she explained, this year's festival spent some $8,000, but collected only about $6,100 in revenue.

The difference will be made up by a fund balance that totaled $4,800 at the beginning of the year.

According to Hartel, T-shirt sales — typically a dependable source of revenue — were a big loser this year.

"Our T-shirts didn't sell as well this year, or weren't promoted as well, I don't know which," she remarked, adding the sales netted nearly $2,000 last year, compared to a loss of $300 this year.

Other big revenue sources down this year were donations, which totaled $650 compared to $925 last year, and concessions, which provided $1,000 in income this year, compared to $1,145 in 1990.

At the same time, the festival committee spent less on this year's parade, $600, compared to $1,000 in 1990. Hartel suggested that last year's figures — $9,720 in income and $8,586 in expenses — were better overall primarily because the 1990 event was a combination July 4 festival and 125th birthday celebration for the village.

In any event, this isn't the first time in recent years that the festival has shown a loss, nor is it a big disaster, Hartel indicated.

In 1989, for example, the festival ended up some $1,500 in the red. In contrast, organizers saw a $555 profit in 1988 and made more than $1,100 last year. "We'll go up and we'll go down," Hartel said of the festival's roller coaster financial history. "But I think we're just about even with when I started as treasurer" 5 years ago.

She explained that the festival committee has managed to start each of the past 5 years with a fund balance of some $3,000.

The important thing is that the pluses and minuses have balanced out in the long run, Hartel concluded.

"Originally, when (the festival) was started, it was funded a lot by service clubs and merchants," she pointed out. "We've tried to get it to fund itself, which basically we've been able to accomplish."

Swimming accident proves fatal

A Caro man who nearly drowned in a Wells Township pond Aug. 27 died 2 days later at a Saginaw area hospital.

A spokeswoman at St. Luke's Hospital said the victim, Carl W. Jacques, 26, 1350 Mertz Rd., died at about 5 p.m. Thursday, 2 days after being admitted in critical condition.

According to troopers at the state police post in Caro, the accident occurred during the evening hours Aug. 27, when Jacques entered a pond located along the south side of Frankfort Road, 2/3 of a mile east of Murray Road, despite warnings from friends not to because he had been drinking.

Jacques started to splash around, went under and came back up, then went down a second time, but didn't come back up, according to reports. Troopers Please turn to back page.

A CROWD WAITED outside the Kingston Fire Hall Thursday in anticipation of a special meeting called to ratify a proposed agreement that would allow Pioneer Work and Learn Center to continue operating for 6 months. Negotiations fell through and the meeting was canceled, but a special unofficial meeting was held to discuss the matter.

READY TO ROLL — Area native Barb Otulakowski is gearing up for a 3-week, 1,612-mile bicycle trip slated to begin Sept. 21 in Portland, Maine, and conclude Oct. 13 in Orlando, Fla.

Announce $10,000 drive to save Bach Festival

With the help of 2 world-famous musicians and music lovers in Cass City, the Thumb and Michigan, there will be a Village Bach Festival in Cass City this Thanksgiving. Holly Althaver, chairman of the Festival Committee, announced this week.

The Festival will be held despite the severe economic crunch caused by the loss of financial help from the Michigan Council of the Arts.

The council no longer has the funds to assist as it has in the previous 12 years that the Festival has been enjoyed in the community. Funding was cut when Gov. John Engler eliminated spending for the arts and many social programs.

In past years a third each of the Festival expenses were met by ticket sales, donations and the Art Council. Each share amounted to about $10,000.

Two special events have been scheduled to raise the money that was lost. The first is a recital by William Precuil, the first violinist of the Cleveland Quartet, and an internationally known artist.

He is a long-time performer at the Bach Festival and is donating his services for the recital to be held at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday, Oct. 13, at 3 p.m.

Following the recital the Lambert Althavers will host a light supper at their home in Cass City.

Tickets for the recital are $30 and $50 for the recital and supper.

The second artist to donate her talents is Marilyn Mason, chairman of the organ department at the University of Michigan School of Music.

She will play the Aeolian Skinner pipe organ at the First Presbyterian Church in Caro Tuesday, Nov. 26, at 8:15 p.m.

Tickets for this performance are $20.

The committee chairman stressed that the public is invited to participate in these benefits.

For tickets or further information call 872-2131 and ask for Marilyn Bell who is coordinating the fund-raising events.

Weddings, which are supposed to be happy occasions, can be anything but, judging from comments overheard from some of the principals involved.

One common complaint among brides is that even intelligent, otherwise decent people refuse to let the hosts know whether or not they're going to attend.

Most brides, or parents of the bride, make it as easy as possible by enclosing a little response card in a pre-addressed, stamped envelope. All the potential guest has to do is write his or her name, indicate whether or not he'll be there, and drop it in the mail. Surely that's not too much to ask.

Even if there is no card, Miss Manners insists that invited guests are bound by etiquette to respond.

(One exception is if the invitation is to a church wedding only, not a reception. Otherwise, it's just common courtesy, aside from the etiquette involved.)

Anyone who's hosted a big dinner can appreciate needing to know how much food and how many places will be needed. Yet brides complain that they end up having to chase people down in order to get an accurate count.

Another point of misunderstanding regards the scope of the invitation. Etiquette authorities unanimously agree that only the persons whose names are on the invitation may attend. If the invitation is addressed to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sipps, then Mr. and Mrs. Sipps are the only ones invited. They may not take Junior and Jancy along, or Mother Sipps and Aunt Lucy.

There also seems to be some confusion regarding wedding announcements, which are sent after the ceremony to people presumed to be interested in the fact that the marriage has taken place. Announcements are often sent following a small wedding attended by only family members. They do not require a response or a gift, although a note of congratulations or a gift would not be out of place.

Brides are not always the objects of lack of consideration. Sometimes they're the perpetrators.

Particularly, the people that make the music at weddings are often mistreated or kept in the dark regarding their part in the ceremony.

One lady who has played the piano or organ for scores of weddings, told of a nightmarish experience that took place at a wedding when she was supposed to play but had not received an invitation. There had been no rehearsal. She ended up at the wrong church, had to speed to get to the right one, and only her tears of frustration kept the nice cop from giving her a ticket.

She henceforth initiated a policy that everyone involved in the wedding must have a copy of the invitation, to avoid such confusion in the future.

Most of the faux pas regarding weddings are undoubtedly the result of simply not thinking, or not knowing what should be done. Most of us don't have a lot of practice, since we get married only once, and we muddle through it the best we can.

Hopefully an extra supply of graciousness and understanding on everybody's part can keep the happy day from becoming a complete disaster.

Irma and Louis Ouvry

Ouvrys celebrate 65th anniversary

Louie and Irma Ouvry of Cass City recently celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary. They were married at Our Lady of Sorrows Catholic Church in Detroit Sept. 4, 1926. They celebrated prematurely as Louie's sister, Madeline Brasseur of Leige, Belgium, was here on a visit.

Both Louie, of Oostende, and Irma of Ruisselede-Doomkerke, Belgium, left Belgium during the World War I occupation, at the age of 14. Irma arrived on Ellis Island in March of 1920 and Louie in May of 1920. They were later introduced by a friend of Louie who lived 2 doors away from him in Belgium. They never went on a honeymoon, but claim they have been on a continuous one for 65 years.

The Ouvrys had 3 sons: Charles, married to Mary, Aime (deceased) married to Mary Grymonprez (deceased) and later married to Gloria, and George (deceased) married to Phyllis Filipovich.

They also had 16 grandchildren, one of whom is deceased, and 27 great-grandchildren.

A reception at the Colony House in Cass City was held for close family and friends Sunday, July 28.

Seniors graduating today wanting to go to college have it better than at any time during the last 10 years, Ted O'Neill, a dean of college admissions at the University of Chicago, says.

That's because of the decline in the number of 17 and 18-year-olds nation-wide. O'Neill says you don't have to be a genius to get into a good college today and many colleges are welcoming students that would not have been accepted 5 or 10 years ago.

So it's easier to get into school, but can we say the same about getting a good job after graduation?

Interesting tidbits

By Jim Fitzgerald

There are a few things you should know...

After asking that his name not be published, a Detroit cop complained to me about local television crews that park their vehicles wherever they want around public buildings, violating ordinances and often blocking traffic. "Ordinary citizens are ticketed and towed for doing that, but the city allows the TV people to take special privileges. It's not right," the policeman said.

"Yeah," I said.

After asking that his name not be published, a man who works for a River-town business complained to me about cops and other city employees who park marked city-owned cars wherever they want near the City Credit Union building at Woodbridge and Riopelle. "Those police and bureaucrats aren't working, they're taking care of personal business. They park in no-parking zones and even block intersections. When ordinary citizens like me do that, we get ticketed or towed. But the meter officers act like they don't even see the illegally parked city cars. What gall!" the man said.

"Yeah," I said.

Singing Would Not Be Charitable

Speaking of Rivertown, Marcia Cron, owner of the venerable Woodridge Tavern, asked me to be a celebrity karaoke singer during the annual Rivertown Summer Benefit. Then she asked me why I was laughing so hard. I explained that, as my family and friends well know, there could be no more ridiculously funny suggestion than that I get up in public and sing into a microphone. I have been asked to leave the room for humming into my fist.

Cron then asked me to be a celebrity bartender, and I said no, I embarrass too easily. It's not an aw-shucks type of embarrassment in reaction to public acclaim of my celebrity. It's a sinking embarrassment in reaction to the public saying "Who's he?" after I'm introduced as a celebrity.

It may be recalled that I wrote about this subject a few months ago, after declining to be a celebrity bartender at the London Chop House. Soon after, the famous old restaurant closed for lack of customers. I told my wife it was my fault. She said the fact that Chop House owners thought my presence might improve business was just further proof they didn't know what they were doing — they'd already fired her favorite professional bartender — and the place was doomed. I hate it when she's so right.

Anyway, the important thing is to circle Thursday, Sept. 19, on your nose as the evening of charity fundraising in Rivertown (some old poops like me still call the busy restaurant/saloon area, east of the RenCen along the river, the Warehouse District). The Woodbridge charity is the Michigan Cancer Foundation and no less than the marvelous Gerry O'Connor is making a one-night return to help the cause.

Until 1985, when she retired as a part-time singer to become a full-time education executive named Geraldine Barrons, Gerry O'Connor regularly packed the Woodbridge with fans of good loud singing, splendid strutting and outrageous sing-along sessions.

There will also be real celebrity bartenders, such as City Council President Maryann Mahaffey. Tell her I sent you, and if you can recognize me in the crowd, tell her to send me over a drink. I'll try to hide my embarrassment.

More Interesting Tidbits

Greektown visitors looked twice last Saturday evening as they strolled by the front entrance to the Wayne County Morgue. An office chair appeared to be suspended in air just inside the double glass doors. Actually, the chair's back legs were jammed behind the door handles, to prevent anyone from coming in. Real classy.

Tricia, my 5-year-old granddaughter, was picking up empty bags and other garbage in the park recently. "We'll save the earth," she said. When I noted that the nearest trash can was a long way from the playground, she dropped the trash and said, "We'll save the earth tomorrow."

When I said we were going for a picnic on the lake, she said, "We'll sink." I'm telling you this because there was some blank space left at the end of this column. I call it my grandchildren filler.

Going shopping is better than going to the dentist, but not much better. If you have to do it, I guess, you have to do it. But you don't have to like it.

There are plenty of folks that do. That's why there were 16 garage sales advertised in the last issue of the Chronicle. They attracted hordes of people, buying many items which I would have tossed into one of those containers for pick-up on Thursday mornings. And how long will it be before they are offered again in another garage sale?

All of these sales remind me of my 2 sons-in-law. They are shoppers. Travelling north, when time permits, they are sure to stop at that new strip mall at West Branch. They don't need anything, you understand, they just shop.

What a waste. Ranks right up there with gardening, but without the benefit of healthy exercise.

As a non-shopper, I've developed a technique when I'm caught with those 2 shoppers. What you do is quickly case the joint and see where the most comfortable chair is and either watch the crowd swirl by and imagine what kind of persons they are, where they came from, etc., or strike up a conversation with another person who is as bored by it all as you are. Sometimes the wait can be interminable because when the sons-in-law go into a store there's a metamorphosis. Normally the pair are free-spending, casual guys, not too concerned about picking up the check for a meal or a drink or both.

But let them enter a store and that changes. It must be something about getting a bargain (or thinking that you have discovered a bargain) that brings a rush of adrenaline and light-hearted euphoria. Time is forgotten.

If you computed the savings and compared it to the time spent uncovering these "treasures" on an hourly basis, you would know what peon wages really are.

I suspect that half of the fun for the shoppers comes after the purchase. When they can take the bargain and display it and talk about it to everyone who will listen. An ego trip.

There's another way to look at shopping. Figure it as entertainment. That has its advantages. You can figure the cost of whatever you buy as a share of the recreational dollar and (if you can sell it) an investment in good health.

Once those ground rules are established you can compare shopping to golf, fishing and baseball.

In truth the way some shoppers get into it, spending all that time in pursuit of bargains may be more exercise than playing a round of golf. The down side is that missing a bargain may be as frustrating as missing a putt.

Both do nothing good for the blood pressure.

Set fall activities at Jordan College

The summer community outreach programs at Jordan College concluded recently with the awarding of a free class to 4 area residents.

Jordan's activities began this summer with participation in the Fourth of July Parade and the displaying of the Jordan solar car.

This was followed by "Jordan Days," a 3-day event which coincided with Side-walk Sale Days in Cass City. Local artists displayed their crafts while Jan Moore's "Future Stars of Tomorrow" provided lunch-time entertainment for all who visited, including Smokey the Bear.

Jordan College staff also visited the Sanilac and Tuscola County Fairs to answer inquiries about Jordan's programs. At all 4 events, drawings were held for free classes, which were won by Rita Rockwell, Snover; George Pettinger, Snover; Doris Lowe, Vassar, and Daniel Morden, Snover.

"We were happy to see so many people from the area come in to find out what Jordan is all about," said Campus Dean Jerry White. "Our fall activities reflect our desire to be a vital part of the local community, and we hope we have something for everyone."

Area native Barb Otulakowski says she's ready for 1,612-mile bike trek

Talk to Barb Otulakowski and 2 things stand out almost immediately; she has a bubbly personality and she's serious about physical fitness.

She tries not to push her beliefs on others, but leaves the impression that if she had it her way, everyone would take good care of themselves, exercise and eat right.

But the mother of 4 grown children does more than talk about it; she enthusiastically practices what she preaches. Born and raised near Argyle, Otulakowski is gearing up for what will probably be the biggest test yet of her fitness and endurance—a 3-week, 1,612-mile bicycle trek from Portland, Maine, to Orlando, Fla., slated for Sept. 21 through Oct. 13.

The expedition is called the Pedal for Power North-South Ride, and some 85 people, including 2 from Michigan, plan to take part. The average age of the riders is 47, with the youngest, 27, and the oldest, 66.

Each rider must raise a minimum of $3,000 in pledges to participate.

Fifty percent of the proceeds will go to the charity of his/her choice and the remaining 50 percent is earmarked for the Bicyclists' Educational and Legal Foundation, a non-profit League of American Wheelmen organization committed to improving the safety and protection of the rights of bicyclists.

Otulakowski will be riding to raise money for senior citizens services at the Assumption Cultural Center in St. Clair Shores, where she has worked as physical fitness director since 1983. The Cass City High School graduate also resides in the St. Clair Shores area, but maintains ties to the Thumb area. She owns and operates Spring Farm Spa, a weekend physical fitness resort near Argyle.

FITNESS AGELESS

"I've always been into fitness," she remarked recently at the spa. "Fitness is ageless; you can achieve a level of fitness no matter what age you are."

Otulakowski's personal exercise program has included long-distance running for a number of years, during which she regularly participated in various marathons. A foot injury suffered last year, however, sidelined that activity.

Not content to sit around and do nothing, she began to think about going on a long-distance bicycle ride, an idea she had toyed with for some time.

"I thought, well, this is the year. I work out everyday anyway, so I might as well train for something," she recalled, noting, "I always have to have a goal. I always have to have something going."

"I've been riding, for like, 10 years, but nothing serious. Maybe once or twice a year I'd do a 100 to 150-mile ride, but never where you get up and ride 80 to 120 miles every day," she continued. "I've never done that, but I'm ready."

Otulakowski's first step towards the upcoming trek was to join the League of American Wheelmen, which conducts the east coast ride. "I've been training ever since," she said. "I started out (last December) on a stationary bike, and weights. It's so important because that's where you carry your energy—in your muscles," she explained.

200 MILES A WEEK

Otulakowski went from 90 minutes a day training indoors to touring the Thumb 6 days a week. "Now I'm riding 150 to 200 miles a week," she said.

Her weekly routine is 25 to 35 miles a day on weekdays and 60 miles on weekends, but on occasion, Otulakowski rides 80 miles or more on 2 consecutive days because "you have to get your body accustomed to riding that every day."

Despite the distance involved, Otulakowski said she isn't concerned about the upcoming Pedal for Power ride. She noted the event is very well organized, and that riders will be accompanied by medical and support personnel.

"I can't wait. I'm so excited," she remarked, adding aside from exercise, the trip will allow her to see 2 of her children. "I have a daughter in the Portland area, and my son is going to meet me in Orlando—he lives in Tampa."

In the meantime, Otulakowski will continue to train in the Thumb, where she says most motorists have been courteous during her rides, and people have been friendly.

Not everyone understands why she's doing what she's doing, however.

"I have people asking me, 'Why would you want to do that?' I think, why not," she said. "I get such a high when I start working out or talk about it."

And when somebody offers a skeptical comment about the value of exercise, Otulakowski's reply is brief but to the point. "I say, 'I might not live longer, but I'm going to live better.'"

ASSISTANT DEFORD CUB MASTER Wendy Dickson and her son, pack member Luezer Dickson, hold the drop box that they hope will soon be overflowing with local cooking recipes.

Arraign 3 recently in district court

Three men, including 2 prisoners, were recently arraigned on separate felony charges in Tuscola County District Court.

ording to court records, which state bond for the defendant was set at $10,000.

Another prisoner, Carlen L. Skube, has been charged with escape from Camp Tuscola Correctional Facility July 29.

His preliminary exam also was to have been held Wednesday. Bond in the case was set at $25,000.

Henry R. Gere IV, 24, of Caro, faces a charge of breaking and entering a motor vehicle and stealing property valued at more than $5 in connection with the break-in of a 1988 Chevrolet pickup Jan. 14 in Almer Township.

A preliminary examination for Gere was to have been held Wednesday. Bond was set at $1,500.

Man pleads no contest to leaving fatal crash scene

A Kingston man charged in connection with a fatal hit and run accident in Dayton Township last spring pleaded no contest Friday to leaving the scene of a serious personal injury accident.

Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn ordered a pre-sentence investigation for the defendant, Orville J. McConnell Jr., 23, 7254 E. Sanilac Rd. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

According to police, McConnell was the driver of a vehicle that struck a Silverwood woman walking along Maple Grove Road and then left the scene. The body of Terry L. Hojnacki, 39, was later discovered lying in a ditch along the roadway.

The pleas of several other persons were also accepted by the court Friday.

Flint resident Douglas W. Morse, 31, entered a plea of no contest to one count of attempted felonious assault. According to court records, he is accused of attempting to assault Thomas B. Roat with a screwdriver July 23, 1990, in Almer Township. Bond for the defendant was continued at $6,000 by the court, which ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

Michael T. Tewksbury, 19, Mayville, pleaded guilty during his arraignment on charges of breaking and entering an occupied building and larceny in a building.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered in the case. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

Offer square dance course

The Cass City Community Education Department will offer a 12-week square dancing course beginning Sept. 18 in the Cass City High School cafeteria.

A fee is being charged for the class, which will be held on Wednesdays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Registration and additional information are available by contacting the community education office at 872-4151.

Court records state Tewksbury broke into and stole money from a business building at 1032 Colling Rd., Caro, Jan. 30.

Mark A. Johnson, 31, of Caro, pleaded guilty to delivering cocaine (less than 50 grams) March 21 in Almer Township.

Bond in the case was set at $50,000, and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

Also entering a guilty plea was Clemens R. Koepf II, 18, Cass City, who was charged with attempted forgery involving a $40 check drawn on Thumb Region Chemical Bank, Cass City, Feb. 10.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and bond was continued at $5,000. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

In other proceedings Friday, Richard A. Hill, 29, Caro, was sentenced to jail for pleas of guilty to 4 charges, including 2 counts of drunk driving.

Hill received a one-year term with work site privileges for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, subsequent offense; driving with a suspended or restricted license, and furnishing police with a false I.D. Nov. 3 in Novesta Township. He was sentenced to 90 days for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, subsequent offense, March 18 in Kingston.

Gary C. Gipson, 30, Millington, was sentenced to 365 days in jail, with work site privileges, for his plea of guilty to operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, subsequent offense.

The offense occurred July 11 in Fremont Township, according to court records.

Also last week, a case against Tina M. Torres, 26, Caro, was dismissed during sentencing on a delayed sentence.

Torres was convicted July 20, 1990, of fraudulently obtaining more than $500 worth of welfare benefits (ADC and food stamps) from December 1988 to July 1989.

Volunteer training classes set

Hills and Dales and the Marlette hospice jointly provide inpatient hospice services to the terminally ill and their families in the Cass City area.

Hospice officials say there is a great need for volunteers, who visit and comfort the sick and help families with their needs.

Cub Scout pack seeking recipes for cookbook fundraiser

The Deford Cub Scouts are busy cooking up plans to help raise money for their 8-member pack.

Assistant Cub Master Wendy Dickson reports that the boys are currently collecting recipes to be assembled in a Christmas cookbook.

Anyone wishing to donate the recipe for their favorite dish can drop it off at either Erla's Food Center in Cass City or Deford Country Market in Deford until Sept. 16.

The recipes for the delicacies will then be turned into a spiral-ring cookbook and later sold by the pack.

"We're looking to get around 350 recipes," says Dickson.

The pack is also encouraging kids of all ages to join them Sept. 7 at the Cass City Gun Club to be fingerprinted by the State Police.

The service is offered free of charge, but a school picture or photo is required. The program starts at 9:00 a.m.

O-G cops Caseville tourney

The Owen-Gage basketball team opened its 1991 season last week on a high note, winning the annual Caseville tournament. Coach Dean Roller expressed concerned optimism about his team's early success and points towards Thursday's home opener with North Branch Wesleyan as a true test for his cagers.

The Bulldogs had little trouble downing Caseville Monday in the tourney's first game, defeating their hapless hosts, 66-11. Roller was able to play everyone suited as his team rolled to a 23-0 lead after the first 8 minutes and were ahead at the half, 40-2. Caseville scored just 4 baskets all night. One was a 3-pointer by Mandie Fritz, the highlight of the game for the out-gunned losers.

Michelle Tkacz led a balanced attack for the Bulldogs with 21 points. The title contest against Port Hope was a little better test for Owen-Gage, as they rolled to a 53-41 decision. The game was in doubt for the first 2 quarters, although the Bulldogs were in front all the way. Pacing the Bulldogs in the first period was Lisa Dorsch, who scored all of her 6 points in the period with 2 buckets and a pair of free throws. At the end of the period the Bulldogs were in front, 16-14.

Michelle Tkacz, who led the Bulldogs with 19 points, carried the load in the second quarter with 7 of the team's 13 points. Keeping Port Hope in the game was all conference Robin Graffke, 5-2 guard who burned the nets all night to score 28 points. It could have been more except for a poor night at the charity stripe, where she made just 10 of 19.

The Bulldogs salted away the game in the third quarter with a 17-point splurge while Port Hope went stone cold to score just 5 points.

Roller said that he was pleased with the performances of Carli Salcido, 11 points, and Jill Susalla, 8 points. Both are juniors and Roller is hoping that they can continue to produce for the team.

We'll find out more Thursday, he said.

Team speed, size concern at O-G before opener

On paper, it seems unlikely that the Owen-Gage football team will be able to improve on its record of a year ago. That's bad news for Bulldog faithfuls, as Coach Arnie Besonen's gridders finished with a 2-7 mark in the 1990 campaign. Again, Besonen will have his hands full trying to cope with his team's lack of speed, depth

Charmont bows in tourney

The Charmont fastpitch softball team was hoping that the third time around would be the charm. That's because for the 3rd year in a row the San-Cass league team captured the Class E fastpitch regional crown and advanced into the state final round. This year's finals were held in Marquette over the Labor Day weekend.

After shutting out both Shriner Realty of Adrian and Deals of Coldwater in their opening 2 games, the Charmont fell victim to the eventual 2 state finalists.

Burns Insurance of Onaway handed the Charmont their first defeat (12-5), and Shamrock Tavern knocked the team out of the tournament with a 9-3 decision.

and size. Adding to the challenge facing the Hall of Fame mentor, the 'Dogs lost 3 key players to graduation. The 2 foremost on the list were Mike Kady and Bob Haldane.

Kady was the pillar of the Bulldog backfield, while Haldane was a leading tackler each week, as well as an all-conference punter. Further, Jason Torres' offensive versatility will be sorely missed.

Owen-Gage, however, will return 13 players with varsity experience and should benefit from a down year, talent wise, in the North Central Thumb League conference. In addition, the absence of perennial power Deckerville, who has moved to the Thumb C conference, is an added plus for the entire NCTL.

Senior Mickey Parks, the squad's only 3-year letter winner, will inherit the title of Mr. Everything on this year's team. Parks is known as a player, despite his 165-lb. frame, who likes to stick his helmet into opposing players' numbers.

Matt Mandich, last year's starting quarterback, has moved into a halfback slot and will give the 'Dogs a sure-handed ball carrier.

Shane Martindale will assume the signal calling for the Bulldogs. His favorite target will be 6'3" junior Joe Garza.

The Bulldogs' line will be anchored by Brad Niester and John Englehardt. The pair should give the Bulldogs a strong side to run to in crucial situations.

Untested is Gary Emmons, a sophomore tackle, high on Besonen's list if he continues to show improvement over last year.

With Deckerville's absence, look for Kingston and Akron-Fairgrove to vie for the league crown, according to Besonen.

Long rivalry continues

Hawks open season at Caro Friday

Forget the fact that the Caro Tigers are no longer in the same league as Cass City. Forget the fact that the Tigers are coming off a 1-8 season. Remember that it's still Caro and the continuation of a long, intense rivalry that has excited players and fans since the sport started in both schools.

One difference is that the game with the Tigers is the first on the schedule and that games between the schools are no longer automatic each year, although both will try to work the other into the schedule.

Trying to predict who should be favored Friday is difficult. Both teams have holes to fill and are coming off losing seasons. Cass City was 3-4 in the defunct Thumb B Association and 3-6 over-all last season.

Coach Don Markel says that early season practices indicate that the team needs a lot of work on defense despite the fact that the defensive line is stacked with veterans and figures to be a strong part of the team.

Injuries suffered in practice won't help any. Doubtful for the opener are co-captain Kevin Mika, linebacker and tackle, and Pete Matson.

Add these temporary losses to the wealth of talent gone from last year's team and it's easy to see that Cass City will have its work cut out for it to challenge in the new 4-team Blue Bay League.

Replacing Troy Perry, Mike Heronomus, Greg Graham, Al Dadacki, Dan Miles, Tim Englehart, Matt Weippert, Brian Guinther, Dennis DeLong, Gary Becker and Steve Tuckey would be a formidable challenge even without the loss of the injured players.

Despite the losses, Markel has 11 returning lettermen, including several with lots of game experience. Brad Gray returns at quarterback, where he worked his way into he starting line-up last year and played 6 games. Tim Jewett will be an anchor at defensive tackle again and Troy Benitez returns to play fullback and defensive end.

Adding to the problems facing the team in the opener with Caro is that the Tigers will be unveiling a new offense and defense, using a 5-3 defense and a power-I on offense.

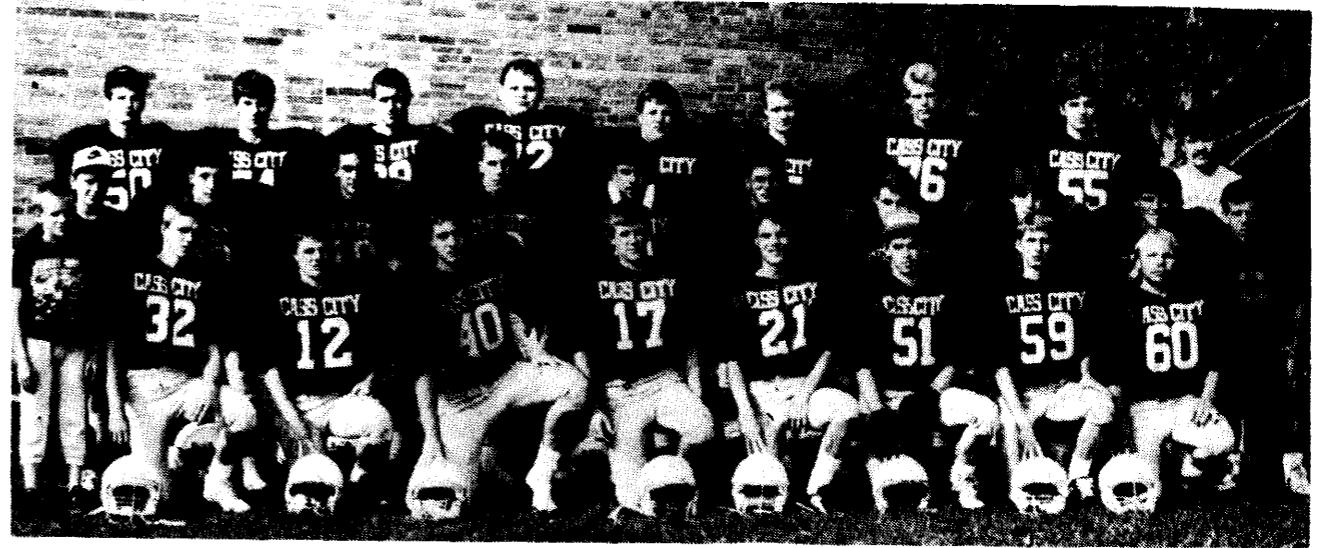

In the new 4-team Blue Bay League, one thing has not changed. Going into the season the Lakers will be favored to win it all and when they meet Cass City in the Hawks' home opener will have had 2 games under their belts. The Lakers lost their opener to tough Millington, but are still the overwhelming favorites to win the first football title in the new league.

The Bad Axe Hatchets figure to be the chief challengers, with Cass City and Marlette, the other teams in the league, in the role of spoliars.

Cross country

Meck happy with teams' performance

The Cass City cross country teams competed in the Early Bird tournament Friday at Akron-Fairgrove, and Coach Dennis Meck was all smiles because of the performances of his charges.

The Hawks finished eighth among 13 teams and the tourney was won by Mayville. When you consider, Meck said, that all of our runners are either freshmen or sophomores, you can see that we are on the right track this season.

Pacing the Hawk runners were the Hornbacher twins. Barry posted a time of 19:12 and Noel a 19:23.

The girls' race was cut short after about a mile and a half because of a lightning storm. Akron-Fairgrove won the abbreviated race and Cass City was sixth among 11 schools racing. Jennifer Romstad was the leading Cass City performer.

The time of the race was meaningless because no accurate measure of the distance actually raced was available.

How Does Someone Get Head Lice?

Head lice can be transmitted in a number of ways besides direct physical contact. Borrowing a comb or brush from a person who has lice will do it. So can borrowing hats, ribbons, scarves or other head coverings. Sharing towels or pillowcases can also spread head lice. Even a stray hair that has nits can transmit head lice.

A common belief is that head lice can be caught from grass, trees or animals. Some people believe, too, that you can only get head lice in summer, or only if you have long hair. These are simply myths.

Novesta officials okay tax hike following hearing

The Novesta Township Board approved a tax rate hike of .1974 mills following a Truth in Taxation hearing Tuesday night.

The hour-long session was attended by 9 residents, according to township Clerk Nurse Kloc, who said about half were in favor and half were against the increase.

The hike will increase tax revenues in the township by 13.58 percent, or about $2,748.

Following the hearing, the board held its monthly meeting, during which members reviewed a letter from Pioneer Work and Learn Center. The "work and learn" program, which has been ordered to close in Koylton Township, is seeking input from local government officials throughout Tuscola County regarding possible relocation sites.

But Kloc indicated there was no support for the idea on the Novesta Township Board.

In other business during the 90-minute session, the board voted to ask the County Road Commission to condemn some roadside property on Dodge Road south of White Creek for the purpose of tree removal.

Kloc, who explained the trees must be removed in order to proceed with planned road improvements, said township officials will contact residents in the area before any action is taken.

Also Tuesday, the board: *Reviewed a letter from county Commissioner Mary Lou Burns regarding a program in which townships can have work done by prisoners housed in Tuscola County. The work is done at no charge to the local governments, and the inmates receive a day off their sentence for each day they work.

Kloc said the board plans to participate in the program, probably next year, and have some ditches cleaned.

*Approved a P.A. 116 agreement for Wade Kappen for 160 acres in Section 13.

*Voted to send 3 officials to the Michigan Township Association's Thumb District meeting slated for Sept. 25 at the Colony House near Cass City.

Your neighbor says

August is favorite time of the year

This week's neighbor needs no introduction to many persons from Cass City, although she came back to the community just a few short weeks ago.

The Chronicle asked Tahani Khoury and Betty Ewald what their favorite season of the year is. Khoury's answer appears here. Ewald's answer will appear next week.

Instead of a season, Khoury says that the month of August is her favorite. Possibly because of the warm weather.

Mrs. Khoury and her husband, Kareem, came back to Cass City after spending 3 months in Palestine. Before that they had moved from Cass City to live in Blissfield.

Kareem Khoury has resumed direct control of Quaker Maid Dairy Store, a business that he has owned for many years.

The couple has 4 boys who will be returning soon from Palestine, Mrs. Khoury said.

One of the highlights of the Khoury stay in Palestine was visiting with Kareem's parents. His father is a Greek Orthodox priest.

Cass City police arrest 2 Saturday

Cass City police arrested 2 men in separate incidents over the weekend.

According to reports, a vehicle driven by Charles M. Robinson, 29, of Ft. Myers, Fla., was stopped in the parking lot at Hardee's Saturday morning after police observed the car weaving and speeding on Main Street.

Robinson was arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. He was also cited for transporting an open intoxicant in a motor vehicle.

Later the same day, police arrested Rickie H. Slingend, 30, of Kingston, on a valid arrest warrant for failing to pay attorneys fees, fines and costs.

Slingend was arrested at about 11:20 p.m. after police observed him urinating on the sidewalk in front of a business at 6444 W. Main St., according to reports.

3 treated for injuries after crashes last week

It was a relatively quiet holiday weekend on area roads, but a number of area residents are recovering from minor injuries sustained in traffic accidents early last week.

A Caro man has been discharged from Bay Medical Center and a Gagetown woman was treated and released at Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City, following a motorcycle/car collision Aug. 26 in Columbia Township.

Troopers at the state police post in Caro reported that Robert R. Rabideau, 42, Caro, was northbound on Remington Road when he failed to yield the right of way at the Hoppe Road intersection and hit a westbound vehicle driven by Jeannie D. Hobart, 59, 2558 Hobart Rd., Gagetown. Rabideau was cited in the 5:35 p.m. accident.

Earlier the same day, Scott L. Buehrley, 10, 5070 Buehrley Rd., Cass City, sustained minor injuries when he lost control of his quadrunner on Short Road east of Buehrley Road in Elkland Township.

According to Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies, the youth was northbound on Buehrley Road at about 12:20 p.m. when he attempted to turn the corner and lost control, entering a ditch and rolling over.

He was treated and released from Hills and Dales General Hospital after the accident. Deputies also responded to a 2-vehicle accident involving no injuries and only minor damage Saturday in Fremont Township.

Reports state Ethel M. Seddon, Kingston, was westbound on M-46 at about 11:44 a.m. when she attempted to turn onto southbound M-24 and pulled into the path of an eastbound vehicle driven by Lois J. Burrell of Saginaw.

Seddon was cited for failing to yield the right of way.

Cass City police also responded to a pair of minor accidents, including a 2-vehicle mishap Friday afternoon on Main Street near Nestles Street.

Police stated westbound vehicles driven by Aaron J. Sweeney of Bad Axe and James S. Guc of Cass City collided when Sweeney attempted to make a right turn from the left lane and Guc attempted to pass in the right lane.

No citations were issued in the 12:20 p.m. mishap.

Also, police reported a vehicle driven by Suzanne M. Chappel, Cass City, backed into a parked car, owned by Michael Reeder of Caro, on Main Street east of Leach Street Aug. 28.

Children's program slated at First Baptist Church

Officials at First Baptist Church, Cass City, recently announced the start of this year's Awana children's program.

Many children from throughout the community enjoyed games, team competition, weekly prizes, Bible study and more last year, when the Awana program was revived in Cass City.

The program's second year will begin Sept. 11 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Children ages 3 through the seventh grade are invited to take part in and enjoy a club designed especially for them.

Children ages 3 to 5 will be known as "Cubbies" and those in kindergarten through the second grade will be "Sparks." Boys in the third and fourth grade are "Pals" and the girls, "Chums," while girls in the fifth and sixth grade are "Guards" and the boys, "Pioneers." A new club this year is the "Junior Varsity" for guys and girls in the seventh grade.

Weekly Awana club meetings include an opening flag ceremony and game time.

Handbook time allows personal interaction between club members and leaders as the young people achieve in Bible study/memorization and crafts. Council time includes songs, announcements, awards and Bible lessons.

"The Awana clubs were a tremendous blessing last year and we look forward to working with the young people of our community this year as well," Assistant Pastor Jim Howard said.

Additional information about the program is available by contacting Howard at 872-3155.

EARLY CARE OF PREGNANCY IS IMPORTANT

In spite of the excitement of becoming pregnant, many women do not seek medical care as soon as they should.

There are many reasons for seeing your doctor as soon as possible. It is very early in the pregnancy that the major risk of complications occurs.

These complications include both accidental harm to the developing baby such as exposure to x-rays, infections or medicines, and the unavoidable complications such as miscarriages and tubal pregnancies. Your doctor can advise you on the risks of medicines, alcohol, tobacco, caffeine and other substances.

Early in the pregnancy the doctor will prescribe vitamins which will provide extra nutrition to the mother and the developing baby. Folic acid and iron are especially important.

Many medical problems which may affect a pregnancy can be discovered early and treated to help avoid the potential complications they carry. These illnesses include diabetes, anemia, high blood pressure and hereditary illnesses.

Genetic counseling may also be important for certain couples who are likely to be carriers of certain genes which can cause birth defects or miscarriages. Also, if a woman is over 35, she may benefit from genetic studies.

Early and regular prenatal care will give you the healthiest baby possible.

Joslyn says close camp

has indicated it wants the camp to continue operating. With that in mind, he asked that the judge deny Sykora's motions. Alternatively, he asked that the camp be given a reasonable amount of time to move, or allow both sides to work out a solution.

NOT PLEASED

Before issuing his decision, Joslyn indicated he wasn't pleased with camp attorneys' decision to send him a copy of the Koylton Township Board's Aug. 12 meeting minutes, which included a resolution that recommended to the judge, pending his approval and that of township attorneys, that Pioneer be given 6 months beginning Aug. 30 to seek zoning changes.

The resolution was rejected by Sykora, who remarked an extension would only "prolong the inevitable."

Joslyn stated that negotiations and legislative action at the township level are "of no concern to this court."

He said that if the township and camp want to negotiate a settlement, that's fine.

"What I think is sad is it's a day late and a dollar short," the judge remarked, adding both sides should have taken such steps before walking into court and spending a lot of time and thousands of dollars in legal expenses.

Joslyn agreed with Sykora that the camp had a reasonable amount of time to anticipate closure, considering his (Joslyn's) decision was confirmed by the state Court of Appeals in April and again last month by the Michigan Supreme Court.

He ordered that the camp cease and desist operations within 10 days or face contempt proceedings, and pay $2,000 in legal expenses and $100 for each day the camp has remained open since Aug. 5, when the Supreme Court denied the camp's request for an appeal of the case.

NEGOTIATIONS

Prior to Friday's hearing, officials representing the township and camp unsuccessfully attempted to negotiate a temporary solution.

In a meeting held Aug. 26, camp officials offered the township $100 per day for 6 months beginning Aug. 30 if the township zoning board would withdraw its motion for immediate enforcement of Joslyn's order.

The session was attended by Sykora, township Supervisor Terry Boyne, Zoning Board Chairman Russell Mayer, township attorney Dan Atkins, camp owner James Conley, camp directors Jim Leggett and Bill Haines, and camp attorney Clinton C. House.

The township officials, however, demanded a total of $76,800 — $100 for each day the camp has remained open since Joslyn's July 1990 ruling, plus $200 per day for the 6 month extension — or they would request immediate closure.

Camp attorneys countered with an offer of $125 per day for the 6 months.

A special meeting scheduled for Thursday evening to ratify the proposal was canceled when camp officials failed to accept the township officials' terms.

Anticipating that outcome, Township Board Trustee Douglas Kramer, an outspoken supporter of the camp, contacted township Clerk James Borek in an attempt to set up another special meeting for Thursday.

UNOFFICIAL MEET

A meeting was held, but it was termed unofficial because Kramer's request was not submitted in writing with the signatures of 3 board members.

Kramer and Borek were the only township board members present at the session, which was moved from the Kingston Fire Hall to the high school after some 120 people, most of them in support of the camp, showed up.

The hour-long meeting opened with discussion regarding the negotiations. A host of positive comments about the camp also were heard from individuals representing the program, township and school system, as well as residents.

Robert Wollack, executive director of Wolverine Human Services, the primary contractor to Pioneer, noted Kramer was kicked out of Monday's session on the grounds his presence would "jeopardize township financial interests." He indicated Boyne and Mayer, through their attorneys, are making decisions without regard to the wishes of the majority of township residents.

Kramer and Borek said Boyne failed to carry out the intent of the township board's Aug. 12 resolution to give the camp 6 months to negotiate a settlement. The pair agreed it was the board's intent to allow the 6-month extension, not collect money.

Wollack and Kramer accused Boyne of lying to residents when he told them township officials couldn't negotiate a settlement with the camp while the case remained in litigation.

Wollack asked residents to remove the supervisor from office "because he does not have your interests at heart." He noted at least one community — Vassar — has voiced some interest in hosting the work and learn program, but said camp officials don't want to move.

"This program works very, very well, and I like to think it's a credit to the county and to the township," he said.

Plan 10-week teenage study

The challenge of parenting teenagers will be the subject of a study, discussion and support group for parents of teenagers beginning Sept. 16 from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. at the Frank E. Schall Elementary School in Caro.

Leading the group will be Janet Hinton and Anita Davidson, parents of teenagers; Trish Novicke from Special Children's Service of Tuscola Community Mental Health, and Bill Pouliot, counselor for Caro Community Schools.

The goal of the meetings will be to help parents deal with the normal challenges they face in raising their teens by developing mutual parent support where parents share experiences and learn from each other. Parents will explore methods of effective disciplining and ways to improve teens' self esteem.

Along with the discussion, video presentations will be used to enhance the discussions and illustrate realistic problems and solutions. The group will continue to meet Mondays from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m. for 10 weeks, with the last session scheduled for Nov. 18.

There is a fee per couple or individual parent for the entire 10 weeks to cover the cost of a parent handbook that participants will use during the meetings and keep for personal use after the sessions.

Enrollment is limited. Additional information is available by contacting Janet Hinton at 673-5063 or Trish Novicke at 673-6191.

and Sykora drew bursts of applause. Boyne could not be reached for comment, but Mayer, who also did not attend Tuesday's meeting, defended his actions in a telephone interview.

Despite accusations to the contrary, Mayer maintains he has always acted in accordance with the duties outlined for his job as a township zoning official. "My job as zoning board chairman (and member) is to uphold the zoning ordinance," he said. "Zoning is not an affair of the heart."

Mayer noted he was appointed to the zoning board by the Township Board, and was given authority to act on behalf of the zoning board in the camp case.

Elected as chairperson of the Tuscola 2001 board was Margie White of Great Lakes Junior College. Vice-president is Susan Woern, Michigan Department of Social Services, secretary is Bernie Bishop of Michigan Farm Bureau and treasurer is Doug Campbell, State Savings Bank of Caro.

Other members elected to the board are Fred Ruggles, farmer; Tam Trudeau, Walbro Corporation; William Pratt, intermediate school; Carol Brown, Caro Arts Society; Keith Reinholt, Michigan Soybean Association; Mike Rowe, Rowe Engineering; Orlando Lawhorn, retired teacher; Jim

The 16-member board of directors has been formed to carry out the recommendations of the Tuscola 2001 Action Plan for the Future — to promote and assist activities that will stimulate economic growth in Tuscola County and to receive and administer funds to carry out the task force and committee recommendations.

A blueprint for action has been designed and implementation of the recommendations and a printed report is available at the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service office or at the

Included in the blueprint for action is formation of a tourism committee, a resource committee, employability task force, a county-wide council of chambers, a county partner on education committee and a county-wide ag committee.

noted those at the scene initially thought the victim was fooling around.

The victim was transported to Caro Community Hospital, then transferred to St. Luke's by Flightcare Helicopter.
