Charge racism at Regional Center

Neil H. Wasserman, director at the Caro Regional Mental Health Center...

Other than that, Wasserman said, I am not going to discuss any case in the news media.

Wasserman made the statement when asked about allegations of covert and overt racial harassment at the facility.

Barbara Tomcal, a lawyer in Saginaw, has announced that she will file a race discrimination suit in behalf of 9 present or former black workers.

Tomcal lists several incidents, backed by administrative reports. They include:

A mimeographed copy of a joke denigrating blacks was delivered anonymously last spring to Deloris Douglas, a black switchboard operator at Caro since 1986.

Injured at school

Parkers seek damages from O-G school

Owen-Gage Board of Education members were briefed Monday on a negligence lawsuit filed by a Cass City couple against the school district.

The suit, filed by a Southfield law firm representing Donna J. and Wayne Parker, seeks in excess of $10,000 in damages, according to school Supt. Harley Kirby.

Kirby said the complaint states the couple were entering Gagetown Elementary School to attend a weekly bingo game Feb. 10, 1990, when Donna Parker slipped on a step and fell on the gym floor, where some water had accumulated.

The suit, which requests a jury trial, charges the district was negligent in that officials failed to properly maintain the premises and, as a result, Mrs. Parker sustained "serious and permanent injuries."

The incident was initially discussed last February, when school officials indicated a suit had already been filed.

However, the Parkers' attorneys clarified their position a month later, saying they had only notified the school board that Mrs. Parker had been injured, and that they were seeking an amicable settlement with the district's insurance carrier.

During the board's monthly meeting Monday,

Kirby read a letter from the district's insurance company that stated school officials have the right to retain independent counsel for the case, considering the district's coverage is limited to $1 million and that a negligence award could exceed that amount.

But Kirby recommended, and board members agreed, that the insurance carrier handle the case.

The superintendent suggested that the school's booster club, which sponsors the bingo, should be responsible for any amount exceeding $1 million should an award be made against the district.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business during the 2-hour regular session, the school board:

Formally hired Kathleen Mason as the high school's new science teacher. She replaces veteran instructor Manuel Thies, who was formally hired Monday as the new high school principal. Thies' salary was set at $39,000.

Authorized Kirby and any interested school board members to attend the National Association of School Administrators' annual conference Feb. 20-25 in San Diego, Calif. No cost estimate on the trip was available Monday.

Approved hiring B & B Tree Service of Port Austin to remove 6 pine trees and stumps at Gagetown Elementary School.

Kirby explained that the trees, located on the west side of the school, are posing a risk of damage to the building's roof, a portion of which was recently repaired.

Approved the recommendation of senior Mickey Parks as the high school "student of the month" for September.

Received a letter from University of Michigan Accreditation officials, who stated Owen-Gage has been moved from probation to accreditation status following improvements made by school officials in recent months.

Approved a resolution seeking disbursement of monies due to local schools following under funding of state-mandated programs since the 1986-87 school year.

Authorized the high school counselor to apply for participation in a free peer group counseling program available through Huron County Community Mental Health. The program offers presentations to students on topics such as substance abuse, suicide, dropping out of school and teen pregnancy.

Approved a request by the junior class, which asked that they be allowed to hold this year's prom and banquet in the high school gymnasium.

Noted the district is in need of substitute bus drivers. Interested persons can contact the school at 678-4141.

Plan aerial spraying of Gypsy Moth

Although the most destructive stage of the gypsy moth is past for this year, planning has begun for the aerial suppression of the destructive caterpillar in the spring of 1992.

The Tuscola County Gypsy Moth Suppression Program focuses on the forested residential areas and some public and private recreational and special use areas such as parks, campgrounds and cemeteries.

This is a voluntary program being offered to the residents of Tuscola County. The goal is to reduce the excessive populations of caterpillars in these areas and to preserve 60 percent or more of the tree's foliage to prevent defoliation which puts the trees under stress.

County residents that have not previously called and have had a problem with the gypsy moth caterpillar earlier this summer are asked to contact the Gypsy Moth Suppression Program through the Cooperative Extension Office at 673-5999 (ext. 228) for further information. Names and addresses will be placed on a list of areas to be field-checked this fall for qualification in the county program. Many township offices are also asking that residents call them so they are also aware of where the problems are in their townships.

The final deadline for reporting areas to qualify for the 1992 aerial spraying is Nov. 1, 1991.

In order for residents to qualify for the aerial suppression program, their township or municipality must agree to commit financially to the program. Funding methods can include local millage, general fund appropriations or individual landowner payments either by a voluntary payment or via tax roll assessments.

The spray block must be considered forested with 50 percent canopy cover. The mix of trees must be species favored by the gypsy moth such as oak, poplar, birch and willow.

There are also some minimum size requirements in order to adequately protect residents from the "blow in" potential of caterpillars from adjacent unsprayed areas. The area sprayed should include the residence and the wooded area 500 feet in each direction. Also, an egg mass count must show that there will be a sufficient population of caterpillars to cause damage next spring.

Pioneer Work Center headed back to circuit court (again)

Controversial to the end, the zoning battle that has pitted Koylton Township against Pioneer Work and Learn Center, as well as township official against township official, is headed back to court.

Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn ordered the juvenile rehabilitation program operated by Pioneer to close by Monday.

But motions objecting to that order, filed Friday and Monday by attorneys representing the camp and Township Board, respectively, will apparently keep the final chapter of the case from being written until the judge again rules at a hearing scheduled for Sept. 20.

Meanwhile, the Township Board, during a 3-hour monthly meeting Monday night, proceeded with plans to give camp officials a 6-month extension to seek zoning changes and at the same time continue operating at Kingston Hills Camp.

Pioneer officials were ordered to close within 10 days during an Aug. 30 hearing.

The action was requested by attorney J. Anthony Sykora on behalf of the township Zoning Board, and stemmed from a decision that the "work and learn" program is in violation of township zoning laws.

The ruling was first issued by the township Zoning Board of Appeals and later affirmed by the circuit court, state court of appeals and Michigan Supreme Court.

Some township officials, however, rejected the decision of zoning officials to seek immediate closure of the facility, citing an earlier Township Board resolution allowing the Pioneer program to continue operating for another 6 months.

and Monday, camp and township officials request, in part, that the court honor that resolution.

They also ask the judge to determine and recognize that the Township Board—not the Zoning Board—has the authority to enforce the zoning ordinance and to enter into negotiations and stipulations regarding the resolution of lawsuits involving the township.

During Monday night's meeting, the Township

Board voted to conduct hearings on possible zoning changes that would allow the Pioneer program to operate legally, according to Trustee Doug Kramer.

He said the first hearing, slated for Oct. 11, will focus on the proposed repeal of a 1988 amendment that restricts camp operations in the township to 10 persons.

Kramer said the board also approved a motion that makes it clear Sykora represents the Zoning Board, not the Township Board.

Monday's session, attended by well over 200 people, included lengthy public comment on the pros and cons of the "work and learn" camp, Kramer reported. He said the board also met in executive session with its attorney for about 40 minutes to discuss the case.

Despite the Township Board's actions, Sykora and Zoning Board Chairman

Russell Mayer maintain the camp should close.

Contacted by phone Monday, Sykora argued that the Township Board can't authorize an illegal activity, including granting a 6-month extension to a camp program that has already been deemed illegal by the township's own zoning appeals board and 3 courts.

Mayer commented, "I still have the utmost confidence that the law will prevail."

Plan child safety and crime prevention campaign

Tuscola County businesses and industry are being asked to help support a countywide child safety and crime prevention program set to get underway soon.

Sheriff Tom Kern is organizing the National Child Safety Council (NCSC) project, which will become an annual effort targeting area youngsters ages 4 through 12.

According to Kern, school children will be provided with preventative education materials such as pamphlets, booklets and safety posters, all of which will be made available to schools free of charge. In addition, officers will give brief classroom presentations upon request.

Kern pointed out the new program will compliment Safetyville and D.A.R.E. programs already in place in the county, by focusing on safety topics such as child abduction and molestation, as well as drug use and overall physical safety.

this project is it doesn't require schools to give up a great deal of time in the classroom, according to Louise Ring, Louisiana State coordinator for the NCSC.

Ring, who described the program during a brief news conference held Thursday in Caro, said materials provided can be discussed by teachers with their students as time permits. "That's the beauty of this," she added, "it doesn't take up the curriculum time."

Ring noted the NCSC materials were prepared by educators and match the learning levels of students, preschool through the fifth grade.

"The project grows with the children as they grow," she said. Preschoolers and kindergarteners, for example, receive materials that talk about how to tell the difference between "good" guys and "bad" guys. Later, they learn about touching, both good and bad, drug use and what to do to protect themselves.

At the same time, Ring pointed out, "We're making the children aware that they can call on the law enforcement community at any time. It gives law enforcement an excellent opportunity to show the children that they (police) are there to serve and protect them."

The NCSC also provides materials geared towards adults. There is a need to educate the adult community on topics such as drugs because many parents don't know what to watch for, Ring said.

Kern said Victoria Bohnett, area safety coordinator for the NCSC, the world's oldest and largest organization dedicated to child safety, will be assisting his department in planning and delivering programs to school children.

"In an effort to make the program a community effort, the area safety coordinator has been in our area over the past few days presenting and explaining the entire program to business and industrial leaders," the sheriff explained.

All Tuscola County schools to be "drug free area." Storypage 12

"She has been asking them to help support the program financially to cover the costs of the many materials which will be used...to present the complete safety education effort to our children."

Kern stressed that aside from D.A.R.E. and Safetyville, the NCSC project is the only program endorsed to operate in Tuscola County. Anyone contacted by someone other than Bohnett, either in person or especially by telephone, is asked to call the sheriff's department immediately at (517) 673-8161.

TUSCOLA COUNTY Sheriff Tom Kern and Victoria Bohnett, area National Child Safety Council (NCSC) coordinator, pose with NCSC mascot "Safetypup", who will be visiting area schools annually starting this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Gardner

Paula Elaine Hulburt and Bruce James Gardner, both of Durand, were united in marriage by the Rev. Rick Sheppard in a 3 p.m. ceremony Sept. 1 at the Trinity United Methodist Church in Cass City.

The couple were attended by Charlotte Kinsey of Sanford, sister of the groom, and Richard Hulburt of Burton, brother of the bride. Stuart Merchant, soloist, sang "Climb Every Mountain," accompanied by Joan Merchant at the organ.

The bride wore an ivory shantung suit and a veiled hat and carried a single pink rosebud and baby's breath.

Parents of the couple are Pauline and the late Grover Hulburt of Cass City, and Lucille and the late Leslie Gardner of Harrison.

Rotary Club will host pancake supper

The Cass City Rotary Club will host a pancake supper prior to Cass City's home football opener Friday night.

The supper will be held from 5 to 7:30 p.m. at the Lions Pavilion, located in Cass City Recreational Park.

The cost is $3.50 for adults and $2.50 for children, with the proceeds going to Rawson Memorial Library in Cass City.

Everybody who's been through a family crisis will agree that it brings a family together, and that it can also wrench them apart, unless there is a good deal of thoughtful understanding.

As this is being written, we're engaged in such a crisis. Mother is in the hospital, critically ill, and most family members have become more familiar with Hills and Dales Hospital than we want to be, although we are certainly impressed with the competence and caring of the hospital staff.

Mother is 86 years old, and has been married to Dad for 66 of those years. They have 7 children, 20 grandchildren, 23 great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandchild.

Sixty-six years of loving and caring for one another is not something that can be casually dismissed. There is no doubt whatsoever that every one of the 50 plus relatives involved wants what is best for Mother, and for Dad. How to achieve what is best is not always so easily determined.

Considering that we share the same heritage, it's amazing how diverse we are. Each family member has his or her strengths and weaknesses.

Some are stronger physically or emotionally than others. Some are analytical, some are demonstrative. Some are objective, others more subjective. Some need to "be there", to "do something." Others, who hurt and care no less, are content to work behind the scenes and to "watch and pray." Naturally, some have been closer to our parents than others.

It's a time when nerves are frayed and emotions are stressed. Everyone is functioning with inadequate sleep and missed meals.

And with so many people involved, some at a distance, it's easy for communications to sometimes become inadvertently garbled or misinterpreted.

This is where patience and understanding becomes critical to the family's well-being.

A host of questions arises in this kind of crisis, with no easy answers. Trying to reach unanimous agreement is sometimes impossible. And when decisions are made in those instances, it demands an extra measure of grace from those in the minority.

The issue of life support has been debated and batted around endlessly by those wiser than we, and good people have very strong, differing opinions on the subject. Sometimes those views change when the person involved is a loved one. And sometimes they change as the situation changes.

When a crisis continues over an extended period of time, the dilemmas and the stress can mount.

How long and to what extent can one neglect home, family, personal health and job to focus all energies on this Unwelcome Intruder? Relatives have to go back to work and to school eventually, and other duties and obligations have to be addressed.

What to do and how to handle all these issues is tough.

No. There are no easy answers and life can be trying when a large family goes through a crisis together.

I guess the only thing worse would be going through it alone.

Cass City folks with cottages along Saginaw Bay report that the expected invasion of the zebra mussels has arrived. While pulling docks out of the water for the winter they find hundreds of the pesky critters clinging to pilings. While they cannot live out of water, they report, mussels do not fall off when dead. The shell gets hard and just remains frozen to the structure.

The Cass City Rotary Club is trying a new approach for fund raising. It is planning a pancake-sausage dinner starting at 5:00 p.m. Friday (before the Laker football game) at the Lions Pavilion at Cass City Recreational Park.

All proceeds will go to Rawson Memorial Library to pay for the large screen television there. Tickets are $3.50 adult, $2.50 children.

So what's different about this event? There will be NO tickets sold in advance.

Here's another prediction from that GTE booklet, "2001 Imagine the Possibilities."

"Look for laboratory-grown bone and muscle cells to find their way into common use. Also: synthetic blood substitutes, bio-adhesives from marine invertebrates."

Now if they could find a use for those zebra mussels.

Sept. 28 in Cass City

Career seminar scheduled

A seminar on making career choices will be held Sept. 28 in Cass City. Endorsed by the Tuscola

2001 Task Force, Career Connections is a 3-part workshop sponsored by members of the Aid Association For Lutherans (Branch 7607), the Cass City PTA and Jordan College.

Workshop topics include future employment opportunities, career preparation options, career resource information, and financial aid. This workshop combines brief video presentations, group discussion and take-home activities.

Participants will receive the book "How to Help Your Child Choose a Career" by Dr. Luther Otto. Jerry Cleland, Cass City High School counselor, will provide information on the SAT and ACT, and answer any questions concerning guidance services. Also, representatives from several area colleges will discuss their various programs and services.

The workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Jordan College. Career Connections is geared for students between the ages of 14 and 18 and their parents, but everyone is welcome.

A fee will be charged for the workshop. Space is limited so early registration is recommended.

Details and registration are available by calling the college at 872-4394.

Repair Christmas Town figures now, local groups urged

It may be difficult to think about the Christmas season already, but organizers of Cass City's Christmas Town nursery rhyme display say now is the time for sponsors to check and repair the display figures.

Last year, various community groups adopted one or more of the nursery rhyme settings.

"Thanks to (their) assistance in repairing and repainting any weak areas, Cass City again was able to offer our outstanding and unique Christmas Town display," remarked Jim Bolton, who will serve as the Cass City Chamber of Commerce's Christmas Town chairman.

"Because the characters are made of papier mache, the weather does untold damage to them each year," Bolton noted. Although it's early, he said, sponsors are asked to include this project on their fall agenda, so the figures can be checked for necessary repairs now, thus avoiding last-minute chaos.

Bolton said village officials have requested that all figures be removed from the storage barn in the park by Sept. 28. Sponsors are asked to arrange for assistance from their memberships.

This year's set-up date at the village park has been tentatively scheduled for Dec. 14.

Hylton completes training

Navy Seaman Recruit Dawn M. Hylton, daughter of Clarence L. and Lila M. Mears of Uby, recently completed training at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla.

During the training cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid. After completing this course of instruction, recruits are eligible for 3 hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

Pinkoski ends training

Brent J. Pinkoski recently graduated from 12 weeks of recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

Pinkoski, the son of Terry and Debbie Pinkoski of Gageton, will attend further training at Camp Pendleton. He graduated from Cass City Adult High School, class of 1991.

Sometimes I wish that I could look at life with the same eyes that viewed the passing parade when I was young.

Back to the years when it was accepted that our government was not only the best, but one that conducted its affairs above reproach. Back to the time when it was a given that we had the best. The best schools, the best cars, the best athletes, the best of everything.

This loss of innocence comes with age, like gray hair.

Brought about by the continuous flood of stories that come at you like a wall of water when the dam breaks. When you read that Manuel Noriega's lawyer was working for the United States. The Nixon affair. The Kennedy continuing saga. The video pictures of students in high school shooting dice. The teacher reading a magazine while the kids do essentially what they want, and on and on.

Your views change, too, as life unfolds. More questions and fewer answers. In the paper last week a tragic story continued to unfold. A 31-year-old man from Lansing was charged with involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of 3 teenage girls.

The girls were guests at a party where the man furnished alcohol to them. He then gave them permission to drive his 1976 Jaguar and they were killed in the accident.

Eighteen is too young to buy or use liquor, but the girls did not appear drunk, witnesses say. On the other hand, the girl was old enough to be a legal driver. Old enough to accept responsibilities for her conduct.

So there you have it. If you were the jury, how would you vote? Ask a dozen persons to place the blame and opinion would be split according to life styles and personal convictions. Chances are members of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers would applaud, and your neighborhood bar owner support the guy.

Whatever, there is room for doubt for most of us. Another incident reported in the paper. In Florida a cop's wife was a nymphomaniac and he and she were arrested for prostitution. That's not too unusual except that in both this case and the case of the incompetent appearing teachers, the persons involved were not fired, just suspended pending investigation.

The kicker to the prostitution case is that there is a list of some 50 Johns, including the names of prominent residents, that the judge says he will not shield from the public when the case goes to court.

Again, if you took a man on the street poll you'd find some supporting, some disputing the decision.

And with reason. The men did it, it's against the law and it's part of the case, it should be released. Or, why spoil the lives of uncounted families to prosecute this woman and her husband on a charge which will probably end with a fine or, at the worst, a few months in jail. Incidents like this come in a never-ending stream.

Add to that all the frustrations, disappointments and knock downs that come in the private lives of all of us. It's no wonder that we get that jaundiced outlook and our hair gets grey.

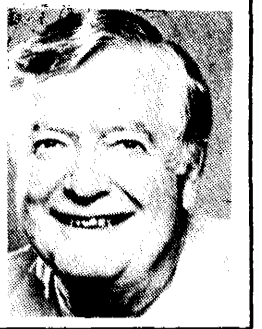

Deren said that after Crimondo's remarks were publicized, he said he intended that only the "inconvenient" excuse be applied to her -- the deposition date conflicted with her work schedule. It was some of the other 15 defendants who were afraid to drive into Detroit.

A judge ordered all 16 defendants to come to Detroit, like it or not. Deren said she was pained by initial press

"If It Fitz..."

Thy neighbor's faults

By Jim Fitzgerald

"I'm a Detroit person. I promote Detroit. I go there all the time," said Joyce Deren, principal of Hoben Elementary School in Canton Township. She lived in Detroit for 30 years, Deren added, and it wasn't until she moved to a suburb that her home was burglarized.

Oh my. Deren was responding to last Wednesday's column saying Deren was afraid to drive into downtown Detroit, and that's why she failed to show up as scheduled to give a lawsuit deposition. I accused her of setting a poor example for her students, who should be taught the importance of promoting understanding between suburbs and city, and the reckless unfairness of exaggerating thy neighbor's faults.

"I agree with you, and I'm always trying to promote that kind of understanding," Deren told me during a friendly phone call soon after reading my "truly painful" criticism.

A FAILURE TO GET THE DRIFT

So how does Deren explain July newspaper and TV reports that Plymouth-Canton School District attorney John Crimondo, referring to her and 15 other lawsuit defendants, said: "To have to travel in the streets of Detroit causes some of them, including Mrs. Deren, anxiety in addition to that which has been experienced by being named in this lawsuit. It is not a place that they travel to on social occasions."

It was a misunderstanding, Deren said, politely refraining from accusing Crimondo of the same sort of reckless exaggeration that I'd laid on her. Reporters quoted Crimondo from court records and failed to include that he said it would be inconvenient, as well as scary, for the defendants to give their depositions in Detroit.

Deren said that after Crimondo's remarks were publicized, he said he intended that only the "inconvenient" excuse be applied to her -- the deposition date conflicted with her work schedule. It was some of the other 15 defendants who were afraid to drive into Detroit.

A judge ordered all 16 defendants to come to Detroit, like it or not. Deren said she was pained by initial press reports, in July, that labeled her a Detroit basher. But she didn't ask for corrections because she didn't want to call further attention to the pending lawsuit, which concerns an 8-year-old student who hanged himself after watching a school movie about suicide.

It was too much, however, when I repeated the bashing charge last week. Deren sought this clarification, and I'm pleased to give it. It's splendid to know that a suburban school principal is saying good things about Detroit.

BUT CITY NAYSAYERS REMAIN

Roy P. Adelberg of Grosse Pointe certainly isn't. In a letter to the editor (copy to me), Adelberg listed several Detroit crime victims he knew personally. He said the danger is real, not just an image, and I was wrong to criticize Deren or anyone else for being afraid of Detroit.

"I suggest that it is time for Mr. Fitzgerald to grow up and learn the difference between image and reality. At the very least, he should not castigate an educator for setting an example which will allow those who follow it to survive," Adel-berg wrote.

Never mind that it turned out the educator was unfairly castigated. I understand what Adelberg is saying. A friend of mine was almost raped across the street from my Detroit home. My son was mugged on one occasion, and nearly hit by a stray bullet on another. Several family cars have been stolen. I know the risks of urban living are very real, in Detroit and many other cities.

But I also know that every day, thousands of residents and visitors enjoy Detroit, untouched by crime. This is meager solace for the crime victims, who are in no mood to hear -- even if it is the truth -- that life is risky and always has been, there are no guarantees, and the bad guys can get you no matter where you are.

Sure, the odds are worse in the big city. But, for many of us, the living is better. To me, Detroit is an old, valued friend going through some hard times. I won't give up on it, no matter what stupid City Hall does or doesn't.

And I won't stop arguing against those bashers whose sin is recklessly exaggerating thy neighbor's faults.

Apportionment committee to finalize redistricting plan

The Tuscola County Apportionment Committee will finalize its redistricting plan at a meeting scheduled for next week.

The committee recently voted to keep the number of districts and representatives in the county at 7, but some adjustments will be made due to increased or decreased population figures in some of the districts.

Those adjustments will be finalized at a meeting slated for Sept. 17. Individuals interested in attending can contact the County Clerk's Office at 673-5999 for the time and location of the session.

The committee will accept proposed redistricting maps from interested individuals and groups up to the Sept. 17 meeting, said county Clerk Erma Brown, chairman of the apportionment committee.

"The committee will go over all the maps and then we will make a final decision," she added.

Other members of the 5-person committee are the county Prosecutor James R. Reed, Treasurer Patricia Donovan, Democratic Party Chairman Margie Bell and Republican Party Chairman James White.

According to Brown, the committee's redistricting plan will be based on a total county population of 55,498.

The law states that the populations of any 2 districts should be within 11.9 percent of each other. In Tuscola County, a base district population of 7,930 people was set, Brown said, noting each district's population must be within 5.95 percent of that figure.

Currently, populations are either over or under the 5.95 percent base figure in 3 districts.

They are District 5 (Freemont, Dayton, Koylton and Watertown townships) and District 6 (Tuscola and Vassar townships), both with larger populations, and District 7 (Arbela and Millington townships), which has a smaller population.

Brown said the amount of adjustment made in district lines will be determined, in part, by whether or not Teen Ranch and Pioneer Work and Learn Center residents can be counted as part of the redistricting process. Brown said she's seeking an opinion on the matter.

After the apportionment committee completes its work, the new plan will be sent to the Secretary of State for filing, Brown explained. She pointed out that anyone not happy with the final proposal may file an appeal.

Redistricting is conducted every 10 years to adjust political districts in accordance with shifts in population.

TAKING CARE OF FEVERS

What do you do when your child gets a fever? Does he need to be checked right away or can it be treated with acetaminophen.

A fever is merely a symptom which means an infection or occasionally some other illness is going on. Typically, the fever is low grade with viruses and higher with bacterial infections. Generally, the higher the fever, the worse the infection. However, some children will get a fever of 105 with mild infections and very sick children may have only mild fevers.

In infants under three months old, any fever should be considered serious and be fully evaluated very promptly. In older children, a low grade fever with typical viral symptoms of a runny nose and cough may best be treated with acetaminophen and decongestants.

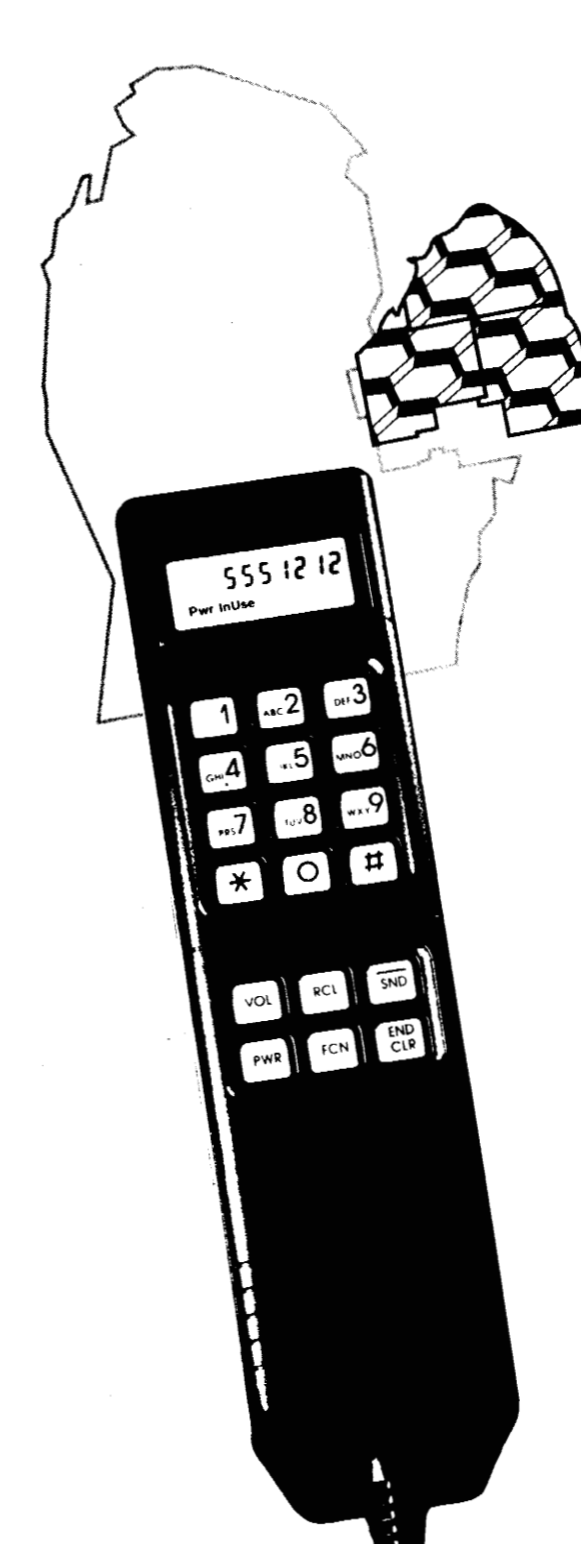

If a child has persistent or high fevers, or localized symptoms such as an ear ache or sore throat he should be examined to find the source of the infection.

Once antibiotics and other specific therapies are started, it is wise to treat the fever to make the child more comfortable, help him rest better, and help avoid dehydration.

Acetaminophen should be given on a regular basis to maintain a therapeutic level. Sponge baths may be helpful once the "thermostat" in the brain has been reset by using acetaminophen. Always give plenty of fluids. Aspirin is normally avoided in children with infections because of the risk of Reye's Syndrome.

Mums the word this time of year at Jim Bolton residence

Area residents probably know Jim Bolton best as a friendly, personable banker. But when the weather cools down and leaves begin to turn color, the Chemical Bank senior vice-president also is known by some as that guy who grows flowers. Likewise, Bolton's wife, Sandra, is known in some circles as the "mum lady."

Both references are accurate; the Cass City area couple, along with their children, Kathleen, 18, and Mike, 13, have earned something of a reputation when it comes to growing mums. Lots of mums.

The Boltons currently are in the process of harvesting a crop numbering some 2,400 of the plants, featuring 42 varieties and a rainbow of colors.

"I've always had an interest in growing things," remarked Jim, who grew up on a farm and later majored in agriculture and minored in botany at Western Michigan University.

The Boltons began growing the traditional fall flower in the early 1980s, starting with a couple hundred plants.

"We didn't know anything about it, really," Jim recalled. "I always liked to garden and we have some friends who used to do this."

Since then, the family's learned a great deal about growing mums, including that there are about 2,000 varieties to choose from.

The growing year begins even before the snow is off the ground, when Jim orders rooted cuttings from Yoder Brothers, an Ohio company known for its specialization in mums.

Planting takes place around the third week of May.

extra time in the field. Later, family members pinch off the terminal buds on certain varieties to encourage the plants to grow more bushy. Much of the remaining growing season is spent staying on top of weeds and digging the plants in the fall.

Mums are a hearty flower, according to Jim, who pointed out the plants will "take a pretty good shot of cold. I would say we probably have 60 to 70 percent survival rate," he said. "I think the biggest thing that does them in is they'll dry out in the winter time."

The Boltons' mum business, which the couple say is strictly a hobby, has proven to be valuable in more ways than one.

"It's kind of my form of relaxation," Jim commented. "It's kind of fun in the evening to go out and watch the sun set and do some hoeing."

FAMILY AFFAIR

"The whole family gets involved," he continued. Everyone pitches in, with Sandra handling the merchandising end of the business.

She grinned and remarked, "I deliver."

Jim noted he's required to hold a sales tax license, and his mums have to be inspected by someone from the Michigan Department of Agriculture, before any sales are made.

About 60 percent of the family's crop is sold at retail outlets. A number of people stop by the Boltons' Cass City Road home after seeing the myriad of colors from the roadway. And, of course, the family has a number of regular customers.

The service is personal; Jim gladly digs up mums for customers who stop by the house and pick out what they want from one of 4 patches. The family effort has paid off. "We pretty well sell out, but we work at it, too," Jim said.

"It's a lot of work and it's not a big money maker by any means." On the other hand, he observed, "It's equipped the kids for school every year."

Jim's green thumb has rubbed off on his son, who has become a businessman in his own right, earning money growing and selling pumpkins each year.

"It's a lot of fun," Jim repeated. "I guess when it isn't fun anymore we won't do it."

ROWS AND ROWS of blooming mums can be seen at the Bolton residence, located just northwest of the DNR's Cass City Field Office near Cass City Road.

Clarifies 'family pass'

O-G board hires 4 coaches

Four Owen-Gage sports teams have coaches for another year following hirings approved by the Board of Education Monday night.

The hirings included a new mentor for the girls varsity softball team, which has had only one other coach since the sport was established at the high school in the mid 1970s.

The board unanimously voted to hire Athletic Director Dean Roller to replace veteran softball coach Judy Campbell, who has resigned to devote more time to her interest in horses.

Board members also approved motions to hire Sheila Pawlak to continue as junior varsity volleyball coach, and Brian Wright as varsity baseball coach. Wright, who previously served as an assistant coach, replaces 3-year mentor Harvey Billy, who resigned.

Board members weren't unanimous, however, in their selection of a coach for the junior high basketball team.

Applying for the position were Robert McPhail, who has held the position for 6 years; Jim Brinkman, who has coached fifth and sixth grade basketball for 2 years, and Dave Dietzel.

Roller recommended that the board rehire McPhail on the basis of his experience. But Trustee Walt Swiastyn rejected that suggestion, saying he feels there is a need for a coaching change at the junior high level.

Swiastyn moved to hire Brinkman, and the motion was approved 4-1, with Trustee Tom Fritz abstaining and Trustee Ron Good voting "no." Good noted earlier that he believed the kids think highly of McPhail.

In a related matter, the board outlined a policy regarding the district's family pass for sporting events.

The discussion was initiated by Roller, who stated ticket takers are uncertain whether to admit former students no longer living at home.

The family pass costs $50 and allows for admittance into 29 varsity events.

Board members considered a proposal to admit students and former students up to the age of 22 who are unmarried and at home or attending college. However, the board decided that the family pass should cover only students aged 18 and younger who are single and still living at home.

The motion was passed on a 4-2 vote, with Good and Trustee Rick Ziehm casting the dissenting votes.

3 arraigned in district court

Three persons were arraigned on various charges recently in Tuscola County District Court.

John Huizar, 38, of Vassar, faces a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon in connection with a Sept. 4 incident in Vassar in which he allegedly assaulted Jacquelyn A. Basner with a rifle.

Huizar was scheduled to face a preliminary examination on the charge at 9 a.m. today (Wednesday). Bond has been set at $2,000.

Antonio Bautista, 40, Richville, was arraigned on charges of breaking and entering a building with intent to commit larceny and larceny in a building.

Bond was set at $5,000 for the defendant, whose preliminary exam was slated for 9 a.m. Sept. 18.

According to court records, Bautista is accused of breaking into a shed at 9401 W. Saginaw Rd., Richville, and stealing pop and beer cans Aug. 26.

Also, Bernard O. Killin II, 40, of Vassar, was recently arraigned on one count of writing a no account check. His preliminary exam also occurred June 1 in Vassar and involved an $85 check made payable to Central Shop Rite and drawn on Second National Bank.

Cow-calf producers in the East Central Region of Michigan are invited to submit applications for the Michigan Beef Cattle Performance Testing Program.

This program is designed to help cow-calf producers identify replacement heifers to be retained, select bull calves for future herd sires and to aid as a tool in making management decisions.

Dr. Beth Ellen Doran, extension livestock agent from Sanilac and Huron Counties, will be coordinating the on-farm visits. Data collected at the farm will include body weight, frame score (skeletal size) and conformation grade. This data will then be analyzed by

Hoopsters split games

O-G ready for league opener

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs came within a missed shot in the dying moments of a tight, well-played game to remain undefeated in the early season basketball wars. But when Michelle Tkacz' shot bounced out and the game went into overtime, AuGres won, 59-52, and the Bulldogs had to settle for a split in games played and a 3-1 record.

Although Tkacz missed the shot, she was undoubtedly the player that Coach Dean Roller wanted to take it. She carried the scoring load all night for Owen-Gage, scoring 25 points.

The key performer for AuGres was 6-2 Amy Dittenber. She scored 25 points and was an intimidating force on defense. She is one reason we shot so poorly, Roller said, pointing to the 19 baskets made in 83 attempts for a 23 percent average.

It looked for awhile as if the Bulldogs were going to be able to handle AuGres despite Dittenber. The teams played on virtually even terms in the first half. With Tkacz scoring 17 points before the intermission and Dittenber 14, the Bulldogs trailed by a single point at the half.

The Owen-Gage defense tightened and held AuGres to a pair of field goals in the third quarter to lead 39-32 going into the final 8 minutes.

But AuGres used some outstanding free throw shooting to tie the game and win it in overtime.

In the last quarter the team converted 7 of 8 and in the overtime netted 6 of 8 as the Bulldogs fouled trying to get back in the game. Helping keep the Bulldogs in contention all night was Carli Salcido, who picked off 10 rebounds.

NORTH BRANCH
The Bulldogs rolled to an easy win in their home opener Thursday, topping North Branch Wesleyan 58-47.

The Dogs led all the way and were never seriously threatened. At the end of the first period it was 15-7 and at the half, 31 to 18.

If Tkacz continues to score as she did last week, she can expect to see lots of double teaming and special defenses in the games ahead. She scored a career-high 31 points against Wesleyan and, with 22 points, personally outscored North Branch, 22-18 in the first half.

Also in double figures for Owen-Gage was Jill Susalla with 11 points. Even more important, she picked off 11 rebounds.

Now the preliminaries are over and the North Central Thumb League competition begins. The Bulldogs will be at North Huron and should be favored to win Thursday over the Warriors, who lost heavily by graduation and are in a rebuilding year under new coach Lynn Marvel.

Tuesday, Sept. 17, the Bulldogs host Carsonville-Port Sanilac and should be favored to remain undefeated in the league.

Hawk cagers notch 2 wins

Coach Marty Daniel is hoping that the forecasters had it right when the Marlette Red Raiders were selected as the team to beat in the Blue Bay League this fall.

If they were, then the future looks bright for the Cass City Red Hawks because the Hawks edged the Raiders at Marlette Thursday, 46-40, the second victory for the team in 2 outings. In the season opener at Mayville Tuesday the Hawks overpowered a young, inexperienced Wildcat team, 47-13.

The outcome of the Marlette game was in doubt almost to the final whistle. There were 12 lead changes and both teams played excellent basketball.

Although the game was close, it was also one in which each team streaked and then fell back.

The Hawks, behind sophomore Jodi Schember's 6 points, bounced out to a 14-7 first period lead. That didn't last long as the Raiders clamped the Hawks on defense, holding the team to a 3-pointer by Schember and a regular basket by Jodi Hillaker in the quarter. Using balanced scoring to score 16 points, the host team was in front 23-19 at the intermission.

But in the third period it was Cass City's turn. Marlette turned from hot to cold. The Raiders hit just 2 field goals in the 8 minutes and Cass City regained the lead, 32-27, going into the last quarter.

Marlette challenged in the last quarter but Cass City responded to post one of the team's most satisfying wins in recent years. Helping hold the Raiders in check in the last quarter was Jenny "Thunder" Storm, who scored 9 of her 11 points in the period.

Schember led all scorers with 17 points. Also in double figures for Cass City were Storm, 11, and Hillaker, 10 points. Misti Anderson paced Marlette with 16 points.

MAYVILLE GAME

It looks like it will be a rebuilding year at Mayville. The Wildcats were able to score just 3 points in the first half, none in the first quarter. The game, for all practical purposes, was settled in the first quarter.

Cass City converted its first 5 shots, including 3-pointers by Schember and Storm, and after that it was merely a question of how large the final margin was to be.

At the end of the half the score was 31-3. Everyone dressed played and 7 of the 8 players on the squad broke into the scoring column. Hillaker, with 14, and Storm and Schember, with 11 each, were the top Hawk scorers.

Cass City shot a respectable 51 percent from the field, 50 percent from the foul circle. Foul shot shooting is an area that the girls appear to need to work on. For the season the percentage is a miserable 33 percent after the girls completed just one of 6 against Marlette.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The junior varsity kept pace with the varsity by posting a 55-45 win over Marlette and a 41-26 win over Mayville.

Prepare for Peck

Bulldogs roll to win over AuGres

As expected, the Owen-Gage Bulldogs opened the 1991 grid campaign Friday with another victory over Arenac-Eastern, 24-6.

Coach Arnie Besonen, whose Bulldogs have never lost to their neighbors from the north in a series spanning the last 2 decades, called the game a nice way to open the season.

Besonen, however, doesn't see anything nice about Friday's NCTL opener at Peck.

Peck, although saddled with heavy graduation losses, will boast a solid offensive and defensive line. Ted Miller, Steve Putney and Dennis Thomas, all of whom topple the 200 mark on the scales, give the Pirates plenty of muscle in the trenches.

Against Arenac, the Bulldogs used 2 big 4th down plays to register the opening home game win. Each came during the 2nd stanza.

After a first quarter Mickey Parks touchdown, the Bulldogs were looking to increase their 6-0 lead when Arenac's defense stiffened, leaving O-G with a fourth and 5 on the visitors' 7 yard line.

The Bulldogs proved equal to the test as Joe Garza accounted for the score when he hauled in a Shane Martindale pass, extending the Bulldog advantage to 12-0.

Whatever doubt remained about the outcome was removed when the Bulldogs scored on the next series. Parks, who led all rushers with 187 yards, scored the final marker in the half when he scampered 50 yards around the left end on a 4th and one play with just over 3 minutes in the half.

"We were aggressive coming off the line, which helped our running game," said Besonen. "We'll need the same type of effort against Peck."

Arenac got on the scoreboard early in the 2nd half when Doug Blanchard crossed the goal line from 4 yards out. It would be the visitors' last scoring threat of the contest.

Martindale closed out the scoring at the 10:12 mark of the final quarter when he dove over the goal line from the one-yard line.

As can be expected in a season opener, both teams had their share of miscues.

The Bulldogs mishandled the pigskin on 3 occasions, although never losing possession, compared to 6 errors from the visitors, which resulted in fumble recoveries by Garza (2) and M. Mandich.

The winners were also penalized 13 times for 80 yards, an area Besonen hopes will improve as the season ages.

Lose opener to Caro, 30-6

Hawks start Blue Bay fray at home against Lakers

JEFF SCHEMBER was stopped after a short gain by Caro's Mitch Stoick, number 52, in the first quarter Friday.

You can't call the first game to be played in the new Blue Bay League a crucial one in determining a champion because it is just one of 2 games to be played between the teams this season.

But following a decisive loss to the Caro Tigers last Friday, 30-6, it will mean a lot if the Red Hawks can come up with a strong performance against the Lakers, rated as one of the top teams in the Thumb again this year, when the teams meet in the home opener at Cass City.

A strong, big line is a trademark of the Laker team and the Hawks were unable to move the ball on the ground against the Tigers.

There will need to be a quantum leap in performance this week by the Hawk line if the team is to challenge the Lakers.

We just didn't play well, Coach Don Markel said, as he reviewed the action against Caro.

The Hawk defense, predicted to be a team strength before the season started, yielded 278 yards and in the early going was dominated by the Caro line.

Caro capped a touchdown march with 4:17 left in the first period, as Augustine Hernandez rammed over from the 2. Scott Klein ran for the extra points.

The Tigers made it 16-0 in the second quarter when Klein broke through the left side of the Hawk line and ran 45 yards. Charlie Gunsell ran for the extra points.

Cass City scored its only touchdown on a break. The Hawks staged a drive in the second quarter, mostly through the air. A pass to John Gibson gave Cass City a first on the Caro 9. But 3 running plays gained only 5 yards and a pass fell incomplete. Caro took over the ball. On the first play the Tigers fumbled and the Hawks had the ball on the one-yard line. Two plunges through the line lost 3 yards, and a pass was incomplete.

On fourth down Brad Gray passed to John Gibson for the touchdown. The pass was completed despite being tipped by a Caro player.

That was it for the Hawks. Caro added another marker in the third quarter when Hernandez drove in from the 4.

The Tigers completed the scoring for the night when George Lopez ran 73 yards in the final quarter. Gunsell ran for the extra points.

One bright spot for Hawk fans was the team's passing game. Brad Gray completed 9 of 14 for 73 yards despite the fact that there was no running threat to keep Caro linemen at home.

Kevin Mika, with 9 tackles, 2 unassisted, and Gibson, with 4 unassisted and 6 other tackles, led the defense. Gibson was also Gray's favorite receiver, with 6 catches for 53 yards.

In the JV game Thursday, the Hawks topped Caro, 20-6.

CHAD ZAWILINSKI holds the plaque he won at the Michigan YABA Scholarship bowling tournament in Trenton. With a high game of 218 and a 517 series, Zawilinski placed 13th out of 346 entries. Zawilinski is a member of the Charmont Junior League.

League meet held

Crown champions in golf league

The Cass City men's golf league held their annual league tournament Sunday in Sandusky, where 65 league members competed for various prizes.

The 2-man handicapped best ball tournament was won by Dan Dickinson and Brad Goslin, who posted a winning score of 65 on the par 72 Woodland Hills course.

Runners-up in the partners best ball tourney were the teams of Jason McCallum and Tom Wallace, along with the team of Don Erla and Tom Craig, who shot identical scores of 67.

Other prize winners included: John Maharg (low handicapped score), Todd Comment (runner-up low handicapped score), Bill Coston (low actual score), Randy Sherman (runner-up low actual score), Don Ouvry and Ken Tiseo (least team putts), Newell Harris (least individual putts), Jim Apley (nearest pin #3), Daryl Iwankovitsch (nearest pin #4), Ed Pasant (long drive #4), Paul Chappel (long drive #11), Jack Burns (nearest pin #12), Bill Kritzman (2nd shot nearest pin #17), and Mike Becking (nearest pin #18).

Also announced at the outing were the winners of the league divisions. Randy Sherman (1st flight champion) captured the A division title over Gene Kloc (2nd flight champion) and Mike Neumann (3rd flight champion) took top honors in the B division over Eric King (4th flight champion).

Golfers split first 2 matches

The Cass City Red Hawk golf team opened the season with a win and a loss in non-league play. The win was over Caseville at Rolling Hills, 167-199. The loss was to the Caro Tigers, 175-196.

Coach Dave Hoard said that the only bright spot in the loss at Caro was that the game is no longer a league game. Other than that, the coach said, we really played very poorly.

The score verifies his opinion. The best round by a Hawk was a 48 by Garen Barker. Other Cass City scores were: Bart Hall and Troy Osentoski, 49 each, and Matt Rutkoski, 50.

Caro was led by a freshman, Lucas Strachan, who was medalist with a 40, despite opening the match with an 8 on the first hole. Other Tiger scorers were: Jamie Blaylock, 45; Steve Strachan, 42, and Jerry LaPratt, 48.

The game was played in a rain, was suspended after 3 holes when lightning struck, and then concluded.

Caro is in Class B. The first match of the year was with Caseville, class D, and Cass City dominated at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

Barker had a fine round, with 38. Hall shot 39, Chris Chappel, 41, and Eric Hoard, 49. Caseville's best was Ryan Lackie, with a 41.

In junior varsity competition: Caro, 255, Cass City, 333.

after a lengthy illness. He was born Nov. 1, 1897, in Germany, the son of Thomas and Anna Tesho, coming to the Cass City area as a young child with his parents.

Mr. Tesho was united in marriage to Miss Laura Muntz in 1918, making their home in Caro, later coming to Cass City. Mrs. Tesho died Oct. 22, 1977.

He had been employed by the Schwaderer Construction Company and later by Sargent Construction.

He is survived by one son, Stephen, and his wife Dorothy of Bridgeport; one granddaughter, Mrs. Jeanne Scott and her husband David, also of Bridgeport, and 2 great-grandchildren, Staci and Christine Scott. Two daughters, 3 brothers and 2 sisters preceded him in death.

Funeral services for Mr. Tesho were conducted Monday at 3 p.m. at Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with Rev. John R. Wood, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Cass City, officiating.

Interment was in Elkland Cemetery, Cass City.

Madeline Ziehm

Madeline Ziehm, 77, of Owendale died Thursday, Sept. 5, at Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe.

She was born in Brookfield Township, July 15, 1914, daughter of Israel and Phoebe (Hinton) Good. She married Floyd E. Ziehm in Bay Port May 11, 1930.

Mrs. Ziehm was a member of the Owendale Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the Farm Bureau and the Order of the Eastern Star. She was a homemaker.

She is survived by her husband, Floyd, Owendale; 5 daughters: Mrs. Donna (Frank) Sageman, Bad Axe, Mrs. May Pobanz, Essexville, Mrs. Leann (Glen) Rogers, Bad Axe, Mrs. Phoebe (Jerry) Bernhardt, Caro, and Mrs. Aileen (Bill) Ziehm-Kunisch, Sebawaing; 6 sons: Duane (Jeannine) Ziehm, Owendale, Bill (Sophia) Ziehm, St. Clair Shores, Nile (Leona) Ziehm, Saginaw, Fred Ziehm, Uby, Barry (Linda) Ziehm, Sandusky, and Roger (Anne) Ziehm, Kansas City, Mo.

Also surviving are 26 grandchildren; 12 great-grandchildren; a sister, Lt. Comdr. Marguerite Good (ret.), Bad Axe; 2 brothers, Col. Bruce A. Good (ret.), Bedford, Iowa, and Albert Good, Bad Axe. She was preceded in death by 2 grandsons and a brother, Edmund Good.

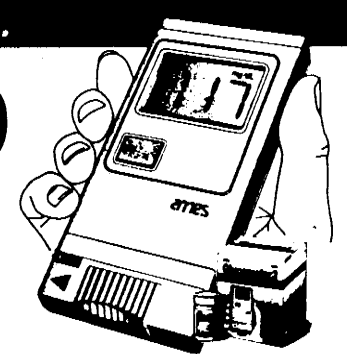

Funeral services were conducted Sunday, Sept. 8, at the Owendale Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Elder Donald Richards officiated, with burial in the Grant Township Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made in her memory to the church or to the American Cancer Society.

Funeral arrangements were by the Meyersieck-Bussema Funeral Home, Pigeon.

Brown completes 32nd bridge walk

Dagmar Brown of Cass City completed her 32nd trek across the Mackinac Bridge on Labor Day. Brown, who finished the walk in 61 minutes, said she caught up to Gov. John Engler, hooked arms with him and walked and talked a short distance.

"(I) also met Mrs. Engler," the area resident remarked. "She is a lovely person." This year's crowd was estimated at 70,000 people. In contrast, Brown recalled some 200 people taking part in 1959, when she first completed the walk.

Brown is a retired licensed practical nurse. She also is a 40-year veteran of the U.S. Naval Reserve, serving as a dental technician chief. Currently, Brown is employed at the Hardee's Restaurant in Cass City.

Your neighbor says

Ewald's favorite season is October

When the Chronicle reporter asked Betty Ewald what her favorite season of the year is, she hesitated not for an instant, saying with a wide smile, October.

October is the month of my birthday, she confided, and every year my husband, Clarence, and I go to visit his daughter, Phyllis Montgomery, in Pennsylvania. Besides enjoying the visit, the trip there and back is just great, Mrs. Ewald says. The mountains are just stunning with the fall colors at this time of the year.

The Ewalds are long-time residents of Cass City. Mrs. Ewald has 2 children. Mrs. Carol LaPonsie lives in Cass City and a son, Bob Corrigan, lives in Norw. Mich.

 claims that she got anonymous calls from a man claiming that she was making trouble for him and his boss.
 Douglas said that a call came in July from a man who said he would be waiting for her after work. She phoned police, who observed a pickup truck roar by with one of 2 occupants screaming obscenities at her. The truck was stopped, but no charges were brought because there was no physical or property damage. One of the men worked at Caro.

 The control of the gypsy moth caterpillars is best accomplished in late May when they are less than a half inch long. The insecticide to be used is Bacillus thuringiensis (Bt) which is the safest pesticide currently used against the gypsy moth caterpillar. It is a bacterial agent and not a hard chemical; Bt affects only caterpillars and is harmless to humans, pets and wildlife.
 Anyone with additional questions about the gypsy moth and its control can contact Joyce Muz, Gypsy Moth Suppression Program coordinator, at 673-5999.

she could not be reimbursed for any of the damage. Several weeks later a patient set fire to a car owned by a former employee who is white. The center paid for the damage and for a rental car. Northern got a bill from the fire department, Tomcal said.

Chorus to host Sept. 21 show

The Lake Huron Chorus of Sweet Adelines International, this year's winner of the "Most Improved Chorus" award, will host its Barbershop Harmony Show at Laker High School Auditorium, Sept. 21 at 8 p.m.
 This year's featured quartet will be Ivy League, a Detroit-based men's quartet that has won numerous honors in regional competitions. The theme for this year's production is "Harmony on the High C's", and the chorus members and guests will be "cruising Lake Huron" aboard the Cruiseship S.S. Addie.

Lake Huron Chorus rehearses Monday evenings at the Huron Medical Care Facility, Bad Axe, and a donation from the proceeds of this show will be made to the Huron Co. Medical Care Facility Extended Service, to be used for a park.
 Tickets for the upcoming show may be purchased from any chorus member or at the door. A reduced price will be given for advance ticket purchases.

Rose Nyako, a registered nurse and supervisor, says her office was ransacked last October. Powdered milk mix was spread and a sanitary napkin left on her desk saying, "N---r, we know where you live."

Carmen Marrera, a registered nurse, had her car tires slashed 5 times within 2 weeks. She is on leave for stress.

The 9 blacks that Tomcal is representing are:

Rose Nyako, 38, of Saginaw.

Alsie Davis, 54, of Saginaw.

Fannie Deason, 49, of Farmington Hills, a social worker.

Douglas, of Vassar.

Rayunza Hood, 36, of Saginaw.

Carmen Marrera, 43, of Flint.

Pam Northern, Vassar.

Jewel Swinton III, 40, of Vassar.

Michael Smith, 37, of Vassar.

Among the 9 are 3 who still work at the center: Northern, Swinton and Smith.

There are 624 employees, including 22 blacks and 17 other minority workers, at the center, which cares for 300 mentally ill and developmentally disabled patients.

CASS CITY BUSINESS owner Geraldine Prieskorn was recently thanked for her efforts as chairman of the Tuscola County Economic Development Corp. in 1990-91. Above, current EDC chairman and Cass City banker Curt Strickland presents a plaque to Prieskorn, an EDC member since 1985, during the organization's Sept. 4 monthly meeting in Kingston.

Judge accepts, refuses pleas

Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn accepted one of 2 pleas entered Monday in separate criminal cases.

Joslyn refused a plea of guilty entered by Daniel A. Binkowski, 43, of Mayville, to one count of third degree criminal sexual conduct.

Binkowski faces 2 counts of third degree CSC, according to court records, which state the defendant is accused of sexual penetration with another person using force or coercion to accomplish the act, Sept. 30, 1990, in Fremont Township.

A guilty plea entered by Kenneth A. Warren, 21, of Clio, to a charge of felonious assault, was accepted.

Warren is charged with assaulting Ana M. Edenburn with a pistol June 22 in Arbelia Township.

His bond was continued at $4,000 and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

Three persons were sentenced and 4 others entered pleas during the court's regular motion day Friday.

Charles H. Curtis II, 22, of Port Huron, was sentenced to 18 months to 30 months in prison and ordered to receive counseling following his plea of guilty to one count of attempted unlawfully driving away an automobile.

The sentence is to run consecutive to a sentence already being served by the defendant, who was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Court records state Curtis attempted to drive away an auto belonging to Charles Kastraba Jan. 28 in Caro.

Michael VanAllen, 18, Cass City, was sentenced to 3 years probation and 90 days in jail for his plea of guilty to attempted forgery.

The defendant, who was remanded to the custody of the sheriff, also was ordered to pay $200 in fines, $300 in court costs, restitution of $300, $600 in attorneys fees and a $30 victim crime fee. One count of forgery was dismissed against VanAllen.

Court records state his offense occurred Jan. 31 in Almer Township and involved a $300 check written by Helen Thompson and drawn on Thumb Regional Chemical Bank.

In a related case, Lena M. Remsing was ordered to serve one year probation and 90 days in jail for her plea of guilty to attempted uttering and publishing in connection with a $90 check written Jan. 30 in Cass City by Helen Thompson and drawn on Thumb Region Chemical Bank.

Remsing, who will be allowed to serve her jail time on weekends and days off, also was ordered to pay a $30 victim crime fee, $200 in fines and court costs of $200 plus attorneys fees.

PLEAS ENTERED

In other proceedings, Huron County Jail inmate John D. Thompson pleaded guilty to unlawfully driving away an automobile.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered, and the defendant's bond was continued at $25,000.

Court records state Thompson unlawfully took an auto belonging to Sherry E. Vaughan April 26 in Fremont Township.

Terry L. Bowen, 40, of Mayville, pleaded guilty to attempting to manufacture marijuana March 18 in Dayton Township.
 Bond was continued in the case and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered.

Robert J. Howell, 28, Caro, entered a plea of innocent to possession of marijuana, second offense, Aug. 24 in Caro.

A pre-trial hearing is to be scheduled in the case. Bond was continued at $5,000.

Also, inmate Carlen L. Skube, 20, pleaded innocent to one count of prison escape. He is accused of escaping from Camp Tuscola, Caro, July 29.

A pre-trial hearing will be scheduled for the defendant, whose bond was continued at $25,000. He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff, records state.

5 reported hurt in separate traffic crashes

Five persons were injured in separate traffic accidents in the area last week.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported Kathy L. Cosway, 25, of Caro, and her passenger, Anthony Cosway, 2, were hurt when their car struck another vehicle Thursday in Koylton Township.

Reports state Patrick E. Gonzalez, 35, Marlette, was southbound on English Road near Shay Lake Road at about 10:45 a.m. when he drove into the northbound lane to make a turn.

Cosway's northbound vehicle came over a hill and struck him head-on, deputies said.
 Both Cosway and her passenger were transported to Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City, where they were treated and released.

All the occupants were wearing seat belts, according to deputies, who cited Gonzalez for driving left of the road center line.

Troopers from the state police post in Caro reported a 2-vehicle crash Thursday in Elkland Township.

According to reports, Jason L. Hulbert, 17, 7409 Daus Rd., Cass City, was eastbound on Cass City Road near Greenland Road when he signaled a turn, stopped at the intersection and was struck from behind by another eastbound car.

The driver of that vehicle, Wayne Dewey, 69, 5588 VanDyke Rd., Cass City, stated he didn't see stop lights or a turn signal on Hulbert's vehicle.

Both drivers were taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital, where they were treated and released.

Dewey was wearing a seat belt and Hulbert was not when the 5:20 p.m. accident occurred, according to troopers, who cited Dewey for violating the basic speed law.

A Deford motorist was injured last Wednesday in a one-vehicle accident on Mushroom Road west of Crawford Road in Kingston Township.

Dennis N. Ross, 34, 7201 Mushroom Rd., was westbound at about 8:20 a.m. when his vehicle left the roadway, struck a guard rail and overturned in a ditch.

Ross, who was wearing a seat belt, told troopers he didn't remember what happened, but said he felt he must have fallen asleep.

He was transported to Hills and Dales General Hospital, where he was admitted and then discharged the next day.

Also recently, Cass City police handled a pair of traffic-related complaints involving minor damage.

According to reports, Vickey L. Chandler of Pigeon told police a vehicle driven by an elderly female backed from a parking space at the Tendercare nursing home last Wednesday and struck her vehicle. The incident occurred at about 3 p.m.

Over the weekend, a parked vehicle owned by Lawrence Sadler, Decker, rolled westbound and struck another parked vehicle, owned by John Blades, Cass City, at Northwood Heights Apartments.

The parking gear apparently went out on Sadler's vehicle, according to reports, which state the mishap occurred Sunday at about 6:30 p.m.

Report attempted theft

A Cass City resident recently filed a complaint with the Cass City Police Department regarding the attempted larceny of her car radio.

According to reports, someone entered Janiera Bracciano's vehicle Thursday evening and tried unsuccessfully to steal the car radio by tearing it from the dashboard.

Tuscola schools will be declared 'drug free' zones

All Tuscola County schools are expected to be officially declared "drug-free" zones this fall.

That's according to Sheriff Tom Kern, who is spearheading a countywide effort that will include purchasing signs to be posted at the schools, warning would-be drug dealers to stay away or face stiff penalties.

The sheriff is asking each school board to approve a resolution endorsing the project, and contribute about $60 to help purchase the signs and posts.

"I'm really excited about it; it's a good deal," Kern said of the effort. Once signs are posted, he explained, the penalties are doubled for individuals arrested and convicted of trying to sell drugs in a drug-free school zone.

"I like it because it has a real impact. (Drug dealers) know if they get caught, they're going to get double the penalty."
