EARLY HARVEST—The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department recently foiled an Elmwood Township resident's plans for an early crop of marijuana, which has become Michigan's second highest ranked cash crop. last week set public hearings on a proposed Downtown Development Authority and a special assessment district for 1992 street improve-

Action on both items was approved following discussion at a monthly Village Council meeting March 31.

The council approved a resolution stating its intent to establish a Downtown Development Authority, and reviewed a map showing proposed DDA district boundaries in the village.

Village President L.E. Althaver noted the proposed boundaries are tentative and subject to change based on discussion at the upcoming public hearing, which will be held just prior to the council's regular meeting next month. The session is scheduled for 7 p.m. May 26 at the municipal building.

Public Act 197 of 1975 permits cities, villages and townships to establish a nonprofit development corporation called a Downtown Development Authority, which is designed to focus on revitalization and development within pre-established "downtown" bounda-

Funding for such authorities can be obtained through a number of ways, according to Tuscola County Economic Development Corp. Executive Director Jim McLoskey, who was on hand for last week's meet-

McLoskey said DDAs may, with municipal approval, levy a tax of up to 2 mills on property within the DDA boundaries. They can also create a "tax increment financing plan" in which projected increases in future tax revenues from increased assessed valuations in the project area may be set aside for public improvements.

In addition, some grants and loans may be available for DDA projects.

CURB AND GUTTER

Turning to the village's 1992 street program, the council established a special assessment district for 2 projects following a brief public hearing.

Plans call for curb and gutter and paving on 3 blocks of Ale Street, from Main Street to Third Street, and on one block of Leach Street, from Church Street to Huron Street.

The projects will cost a combined estimated $106,000, with homeowners being assessed $9.50 per frontage foot for the the curb and gutter.

The only public comment at the hearing came from Leach Street resident Karl Witkovsky, who com-plained the village has ignored regular maintenance of Leach Street. The village crew has failed to keep up with potholes in the roadway, he said. Council members indicated the street's age is the biggest problem. They noted the village attempted to improve the street a few years ago, but the effort was shelved due to residents'

Village Treasurer Joyce LaRoche said homeowners have up to 90 days after street projects to pay their located south of Main Street In other business during the assessment interest free. Thereafter, an annual interest rate charge of 10 percent is added and billed quarterly. After 3 years, the bill is placed on the tax rolls.

School District will choose among 3 candidates to fill 2 4-year terms on the board of education. The candidates are Ron Good and Walter Swiastyn, both incumbents, and challenger Tom Mellendorf of Gagetown.

Owen-Gage residents will also be asked to approve renewal of 14.8 mills for 5 years for operations.

Likewise, voters in the Kingston School District will fill 2 trustee seats and decide a millage renewal question.

Incumbents Ben Boyl and Ray Wolak, and challenger

Larry Barrons, Detord, are seeking the 4-year board terms. Residents will be asked to approve renewal of 16.5 mills for operations.

In the Ubly School District, newcomer Carol Peruski-Fess is seeking one of the school board seats now held by incumbents Martin Kubacki and John Rutkowski. All 3 candidates are vying for 2 available 4-year terms. In addition, voters will be asked to approve renewal of one mill for 2 years (1992-93) for the purchase of new school buses.

The annual election will be held Monday, June 8. The last day to register to vote is May 11.

Piotrowski in contempt

The owner of a Cass City area junk yard has been found in contempt of court for failing to remove junk from his property at 4100 Cemetery Rd. in compliance with a judgement entered Jan. 6.

Tuscola County Circuit Judge Patrick R. Joslyn Friday ruled Eugene Piotrowski has 30 days to comply with the order or face a 90day jail term.

He was also ordered to pay $200 in costs during the show cause hearing.

An area resident's plans for an early and lucrative harvest were foiled last week by county authorities.

VOLUME 86, NUMBER 1

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies raided a residence in southwestern Elmwood Township last Wednesday, seizing a small quantity of marijuana plants being grown under fluorescent lights in a bedroom closet.

Seized were a total of 9 plants, the 3 largest of which measured 3 feet in height.

"We also found some plastic film containers with seeds in them," Sheriff Tom were carefully wrapped in looks to me like he picked up some real hybrid seed."

The raid was the result of a tip received from the suspect's landlord, according to Kern, who said deputies then obtained a search warrant from the prosecutor.

Recalls bygone days

Mabel Brian celebrates 100 years

With nearly 100 years of living behind her, Mabel Brian has earned the right to nap now and then.

But make that suggestion to her and she'll quickly dismiss it.

The Cass City native, who's been recovering from health problems at the Tendercare nursing home since October, says she never took naps while living at her Third Street home.

"And I'm not now. (Here) people lay to bed and lay to bed and lay to bed, but I can't do that. I don't sleep during the day.'

Brian, the oldest living Cass City High School graduate, will celebrate her 100th birthday April 25.

Although her vision and hearing aren't what they used to be, the years have been kind to the area resident, whose memory has remained sharp, along with a quick sense of humor, often delivered with a pleasant chuckle.

Not bad, considering she was born in 1892; the year in which Grover Cleveland was elected president, the ferris wheel was designed by George W. G. Ferris, and the notorious Dalton gang was virtually wiped out during a robbery attempt in Coffeyville, Kan.

Brian was born just west of Cass City at the Crane farm, the younger of 2 daughters born to Alexander and Elizabeth (Callard) Brian. But her family's home was located right across the street from her current residence.

"When I was 5 years old, my mother and father and grandmother bought (this house)," she said. "That was the year the railroad went

Brian noted the house is located behind the First Baptist Church, and joked, "That's what makes me so good."

Brian said her dad worked in the undertaking business. "He farmed, too," she recalled. "He used to do this, that and the other thing. He used to raise vegetables to sell, and then he'd go to Bay City and buy vegetables off the market and sell them on Main Street."

'PUDDLE JUMPER'

At that time, Brian said her father drove a "puddle jumper", an old Ford pickup.

But she recalled earlier years when a team of horses was the only mode of transportation, and she remembers having a hitching post in front of her home. Long before the land was sold into lots for residential development, she said, her father built a large hip roof barn and chicken coop, and kept horses and cows.

Brian said her father and a team of horses traveled to Sebewaing and back, hauling the bricks that were used to build the Kritzman buildprotests.

NEVER MARRIED

She remained at home with her parents because they were "getting up in years and I couldn't find anybody that I could trust more than (me)" to take care of them. "I considered I owed them a little something. That's why I never married.

Brian's devotion to family continued through her lifetime. She took care of her sister, Nellie, until her death in 1964.

Over the years, Brian held jobs at a number of businesses, including a bank and lumberyard in Deford. "I went back and forth, night and morning, on the train, and I'd pay $2 for my board and a $1.44 for car fare," she

"I used to like it down there. (It) was a small town, Please turn to page 5.

Notes about the first extended visit to Canada in several years that occurred last week, Thursday to Sunday.

Maybe it's because the folks at the border work with tourists all the time, but I found them less courteous than I have in the past.

Perhaps it's because of the cost of things in the country. Taxes have upped the price of cigarettes to $7.50 a pack, which is dramatic evidence, but not one that hurt our

More of us can probably relate to the price of coffee, which was 94 cents for a small cup at McDonald's.

We came back home with more Canadian money then we wanted, including a "loonie", which is the name residents give to the gold-colored coin that replaces the $1.00 bill. It saves the government money and one of the natives said that loonies aren't so bad now that we are getting used to them.

Final note. The prices were high, but the weather at Searchmont was absolutely fabulous, as good as it could be for skiing. Temperatures ranging into the mid-40's during the day and freezing at night.

Harris Publishing Co. has released statistics showing net increases or decreases in manufacturing jobs as compared to new manufacturing jobs recorded in 1990. Indiana (58 percent) and West Virginia (9 percent) showed increases. Michigan decreased by 27 percent, which was less of a decrease than Missouri (49 percent), Ohio (56 percent) and Pennsylvania (60 percent).

Several folks have informed me that there were "quite a few" golfers braving the elements at both Cass City golf courses Sunday. What a difference a few months make. In the fall, weather like Sunday's would keep practically every golfer glued to his television.

accident. A son was severely injured with multiple fractures of both legs, a broken collarbone and various cuts and bruises. He was in the hospital 15 days and the hospital bill totaled $43,892. He received an orthopedic surgeon's bill for $18,500.

Gannon makes the point that 35 million Americans lack medical insurance and when they are treated, the cost that these patients can't pay is spread among those with insurance, increasing costs about 30 percent.

What grabbed me about the story is that he neatly illustrates the high cost of medical care as another reason for national health insurance, but passes off the high costs of the treatment without further comment.

How much could we save if a check were placed on the cost of the service? It seems to me to be almost obscene to have a bill for $18,500 for surgery.

According to Gannon, the operation took 10 hours and he had high praise for the skill of the surgeon.

But $18,500 for one day? Try as I might I can't justify that regardless of the training required to do the job. Remember, this cost does not include anesthesia supplies or operating room services, which are part of the hospital bill and came to

Now about education. One of the finer in-depth analyses of how the Michigan tenure law is severely damaging our educational system started in the Wednesday, March 25, edition of the Free Press, the first of 3 installments.

It tells how schools put up with mediocre teachers and pay off downright bad teachers because it is cheaper to pay them off than to try to fire them. The article illustrates with a case from the Dansville school district in Ingham County, which paid $134,568 in legal fees to keep a middle school teacher out of the classroom after she had been judged incompetent.

Several other cases were cited, including one in which the teacher killed his wife, was accused of sexual offenses by students prior to that time and is now in jail, yet his case has not been settled and it's possible that he will get paid from 1980 until the time he killed his wife in 1984. The case has already cost the Ann Arbor schools $156,437.49.

We checked with Cass City Schools Supt. Ken Micklash and he said that as far as he knew Cass City had never paid off a teacher, but had never attempted to fire a teacher with tenure protec-

There's little doubt that teachers need protection from capricious acts by administrators and boards of education. It's equally obvious the system now in effect needs an overhaul for protection of the kids and the good teachers in every sys-

No parking

By Jim Fitzgerald

Nita Firestone can't believe what the Detroit Police Department did to her. It wouldn't have happened if Jack Nicholson and Danny DeVito weren't in town filming a movie about Jimmy Hoffa. There's a touch of irony in Firestone's bizarre experience, because she's the daughter of another wellknown Detroit labor leader. Bernard (Bernie) Firestone was the much-respected vice president of the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO when he was slain by a crazed gunman in 1989.

But mostly the Nita Firestone story provides an example of how some Detroit cops — with innocent children being killed all around them — don't have anything better to do than display an astonishing lack of common sense while harassing innocent citizens for alleged parking violations.

'My father taught me there should be reasonable people in government, and I'm looking for one reasonable member of the Police Department," Firestone told me Monday. "So far I'm not having any success, but my father also taught me not to give up.'

Nita Firestone, 33, of Pleasant Ridge is a technical writer for Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Michigan and a night student at Wayne State University. As part of an art and architecture course, she and around 20 other students toured the Old County Building in downtown Detroit March 24. Several of them parked on Congress, south of the building, at meters that didn't have to be fed because it was after 6 night.

Firestone wondered how she was supposed to have known that. There was no no-parking sign on her meter nor at the spaces where the other students parked. The cop said there were supposed to be. And he pointed out a no-parking hood on one meter where no one was parked. He said Firestone and the others should have assumed the one hood referred to every space on the block. That seemed unreasonable to Firestone, but OK. At least she'd arrived in time to rescue her car from being towed. Not unless she gave the driver $70, the cop said. Cash. No credit cards accented.

Firestone didn't have that much cash with her, so the cop ordered her car removed. She asked if it were being towed to a spot where it would be safe for her to go alone. Firestone said the cop (white) observed that she was "white" and "a chick" and so she shouldn't go alone.

Firestone got a friend to drive her to a cash machine and then to the towing company, which was mostly "a mud pit behind a dirty fence" on a side street near the Ambassador Bridge. She paid the $70 and retrieved her car.

"And I cried all the way home," Firestone said.

Sgt. George Anthony of the police Public Information Office said Tuesday that the department has no comment on the Firestone case.

Firestone asked if I could believe how the police treated her. Sure. I frequently hear from people whose parked car was ticketed or towed for violating parking restrictions that weren't posted. Often the temporary no-parking signs were put up after the car was

The only thing unusual about Firestone's case is that she's determined to get a court date, even if it means missing work, and "fight for reasonable justice." Most victims simply give up and pay up to escape the hassle.

In a recent 6-day period, 6 innocent children were killed in the cross fire of Detroit crime. Those kids could have used some police protection.

But cheer up. The cops are doing a stalwart job of protecting Jack Nicholson and friends from having a parked car mess up their movie.

Owen-Gage asks for receipts

Residents in the Owen-Gage School District are being asked to help the school obtain some free computer equipment by saving receipts from purchases made at Michigan A&P and Farmer Jack Supermarkets.

To date, the school has collected receipts totalling $4,102, but still needs additional receipts to meet a goal of $10,000 by May 2.

The project is part of a nationwide "Apples for the Students" program, according to Owen-Gage High School Principal Manuel Thies, who explained register tape receipts collected and dated by May 2 may be redeemed for free Apple Computer equipment.

Residents who have receipts to contribute are asked to send them to the Owendale-Gagetown Schools (attn. Manuel Thies), 7166 Main St., Owendale, MI 48754.

IMPROVING YOUR "GOOD" CHOLESTEROL

Many of us never thought we'd see the day we wanted to raise our cholesterol levels, but now, that is just what we

Researchers have found that there is more than one form of cholesterol. And the different fractions of cholesterol affect the body in different ways. While the majority of cholesterol in the blood is a "low density" cholesterol (LDL) which contributes to plugged arteries and heart attacks, the "high density" cholesterol, or HDL, has a protective action on the arteries and heart.

What's more, there are simple things we can do to raise the good cholesterol and lower the harmful cholesterol. The ratio of the two forms of cholesterol is very important. Exercise is a simple way to stimulate increases in the good

HDLs. Exercising 20-30 minutes three times a week will have a positive effect. Eating saturated fats (butter, lard, beef fat) makes the body produce more LDLs, thus lowering the HDL to LDL ratio. Avoid these fats. The polyunsaturated fats enhance HDL levels, so using vegetable oils such as corn oil, margarine and sunflower oils can raise the HDL. Losing weight also appears to raise the level of HDLs.

Moderate alcohol use raises the HDLs but there is some question whether this fraction of the HDLs is the protective one. In the end, a healthful life style with moderate exercise, weight loss, and favoring vegetable oils over butter and lard can make a marked difference in the ratio between the good and the bad cholesterol. This is one of a series of articles brought son," remarked Roger Parrish, a longtime friend and companion. "If there's a project to do, Mabel will do it; she won't give up.'

When Mabel's home, she has company every day," he added, noting she keeps up on all the latest local news. Brian smiled in agreement.

'To this very day I love to have (friends) over and entertain them with Roger's good meals.' Up until recent years, Brian took care of a lot of her own household chores, and enjoyed baking for others. Still a good cook, according to Parrish, she harbors an irresistible urge to get outside when it snows and she likes to play the piano.

Square dancing is another of her loves. "Dad taught us how to dance," she recalled, smiling. "Each of us had a broom for a man.'

Brian, who uses a walker to get around at home, said old age has gotten the best of her. But she feels good and indicated that, all in all, the past 100 years have been good ones.

She attributes her longevity to a healthy lifestyle.

"I just tried to keep up my health, that's all. No drinking, no smoking.

Asked for advice on how to live a long life, Brian suggested plenty of sleep, long walks and lots of fresh air. 'That's why I want to get home, so I can get my exercise and fresh air."

The centenarian offered one other suggestion: "Try to make other people happy.'

With the spring planting season approaching, the Huron Farm Service corporation, in cooperation with the Huron County Cooperative Extension Service, is preparing for spring nitratenitrogen testing. Sugar beets and corn are 2 crops that recommendations are currently being made for.

Nitrate-nitrogen analysis of soil samples currently are offered. The cost will remain at $3 per sample.

Growers planning on participating in this program should obtain information forms and soil boxes from their local cooperative extension office or from the local sugar beet fieldman.

The soil nitrate testing program was primarily designed for sidedress application. However, many growers use the program at pre-

It should be noted that there are limitations to the early testing. The amount of nitrate-nitrogen measured in from behind by Aldefer, Hall. the soil is influenced by soil temperature. Therefore, it is best to wait as close to planting as possible before taking the test to get the maximum advantage.

The first year coach inherits a squad with little experience, limited depth and heavy graduation losses.

Gone from last year's team that posted a 3-5 Thumb D mark are Mike Kady, Bob Haldane and Greg Smith, all of whom received recognition in the league's all-conference balloting. Also departed via graduation was Jason Torres, a sure handed infielder and one of the 'Dogs' best threats on the base path.

"We're going to stress defense this year," says Wright, adding, "Our biggest question mark will be finding a pitcher."

Trying to provide an answer to that dilemma will be 3 of the 'Dogs' top returnees, senior Chris Anthes and juniors Brent Fritz and Joe Garza.

When not on the rubber, the trio will anchor the Bulldog infield.

Wright's only other upper classmen are senior Bryan Koch, who will handle the team's catching duties, and junior Bryan Metzer, out for the team for the first time.

Rounding out the team are 4 sophomores and 5 fresh-

The sophomore class includes Mike Merchant, Mike Tkacz, Curt Garza and Gary Emmons, who will challenge each other for playing time in the infield.

Freshmen Ryan Radabaugh, Nathan Forro, Matt Jaworski, Rick Murawski and Bryan Baker will most likely all see time in the Bulldog outfield.

Wright sees CPS and North Huron battling for league honors, with the Bulldogs battling to finish in the league upper half.

Talk to Bulldog track Coach Arnie Besonen and he sums up his team's shortcomings in one word - - numbers.

"The numbers game is catching up to us over here," says Besonen, who states enrollment is down in the Owen-Gage school system.

Owen-Gage has a total of 26 thinclads. That includes both the girls' and boys' squads that are comprised of several underclassmen.

Both Bulldog squads, who are mirror images of each other, will suffer in the distance events for lack of participants. Although not evident in their first outing Thursday at Lakers, both Bulldog squads should be strong in the sprint

The 'Dogs were defeated 107-33 by the Laker bovs' team and 113-9 by the Lakers girls' squad.

Besonen feels that both his boys' 400 and 800 meter teams should fair well this season.

"I was surprised how well they did at Lakers," says Besonen. The Bulldogs won both relays against the Lakers. The 4 legs were run by Joe Garza, Curt Garza, Shane Martindale and Mickey Parks. The girls' sprint relay team should also score points for Besonen this season, as will Lisa Dorsch in the shot put and discus and Michelle

HDC gets $53,227 grant for shelters

Several regional homeless and crisis centers, including facilities operated by the Human Development Commission, Caro, have been awarded grants totalling more than $190,000 from the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.

The awards were announced Friday by state Rep. Dick Allen (R-Caro) and state Sen. Jim Barcia (D-Bay City).

The Human Development Commission, which serves residents from throughout the Thumb, received a grant of $53,227.

The dollars will be used to help fund the Thumb Area Assault Crisis Center, a shelter for victims of domestic violence, as well as HDC's temporary emergency shelters in Caro and Columbiaville, according to Pat Christie, community services director.

"We're really excited about this," she said of the award. "It will give a big boost to both those program

Christie explained the grant will help pay for operational expenses such as utility and mortgage payments for the facilities, and provide some dollars to help homeless families reestablish their independence. An example, she added, would be helping out with a security deposit or first month's rent.

The money couldn't have come at a better time, according to the HDC official, who noted traffic at the area shelters has been medium to MSHDA is able to help us

She acknowledged tough economic times have increased the need for many of various services provided by

'Certainly (the needs) have taxed our resources in that the demand has been greater than it has been," she said, adding the problem has been compounded as other resources have dried up or been eliminated. "Plus, we have lost some program dollars as well.

According to Allen and Barcia, the grants were administered under the Emergency Shelter Grant component of the Michigan State Housing Development Authority's (MSHDA) Homeless Program.

Aside from HDC, agencies receiving grants and their awards were: Bay County Women's Center, Bay City ($40,359), Saginaw County Youth Protection Council/ InnerLink, Saginaw ($42,790) and the Saginaw Shelter for the Homeless Inc., Saginaw ($53,816).

"I am pleased MSHDA has recognized the outstanding services and programs these centers offer to the people of the Thumb and Bay areas," Allen remarked. "The contributions these centers make cannot be measured. They are vital to the mental and physical health of many communities throughout the Barcia added, "Some of the most vulnerable members of society are in dire need of assistance and I am pleased heavy during the past few comfort those less fortunate.

Steer show set for Saturday

About 60 4-H and FFA members from the Thumb will be competing for the Grand Champion Prospect Steer Saturday.

The competition is part of the first Thumb Jackpot Steer Show and will begin at 1 p.m. at the Sanilac County 4-H Fairgrounds in Sandusky.

The event will consist of a jackpot steer show for steers, which will be exhibited later this summer at county fairs in the market steer division. Showmanship will feature regular competition based on the ages of the exhibitors and a jackpot class.

Exhibitors from Huron, Lapeer, Macomb, St. Clair, Sanilac and Tuscola counties will vie for top honors. Food service will be available at the fairgrounds.

More information can be obtained by contacting Dr. Beth Doran at (517) 269-9949 or (313) 648-2515.

Opinion about space program has changed

It has been estimated that it would cost between $400 and $500 billion to send a man to Mars. Many scientists feel that unmanned flights could reveal nearly as much information at a fraction of the cost.

Barbara Seeley, a part-time teacher at Jordan College in Cass City who lives on Sand Point, has serious reservations about sending a man to Mars.

I have always thought that the space program was very worthwhile, Seeley says, but lately I have been questioning

With so many people hungry and with so many people out of work, maybe we should be turning our attention to the needs of people here, she says.

Also helping me change my opinion has been the rip-off by contractors in the program, charging the American taxpayers ridiculous prices for replacement parts and similar Seeley returned to Michigan after 20 years out of the state. She has a daughter, Jamie, 10.

Buckle up for 'blitz' sheriff says

Motorists on Michigan city streets, county roads and state highways, including those in the Thumb, will again be part of a special law enforcement effort to increase safety belt use. Billed as "Blitz II - We're Back," local county and state law enforcement agencies will conduct an educational and cooperative enforcement effort aimed at the non-use and misuse of safety belts. Motorists not buckled up or having infants and children who are not buckled up can expect appropriate enforcement action. The effort will begin in May and continue through September. We participated last year in "Blitz I" and saw a subof the Bay Port United stantial increase in the use of Methodist Church, will of- safety belts by area residents ficiate with burial in the and individuals traveling through Tuscola County as a result of our effort," Tuscola

"This year the message will be the same; we're going to be looking, not looking the other way, when it comes to enforcing safety belt laws. Safety belt use saves lives and we want the public to understand that." The latest survey of safety belt use in Michigan indicated that 50.1 percent of front seat occupants buckled up. The goal of the national campaign is to increase that usage to 70 percent by 1992. Before Michigan passed a safety belt law, 18.3 percent of front-seat occupants ages 16 and over were reported to be buckled up in 1984. The most recent survey, take in July 1991, indicated that 65.9 percent were wearing safety belts. "According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Association, about 25,000 occupants of passenger cars are killed each year, more than all the nation's homicides," Kern pointed out. "Increasing compliance with safety belt use laws could save nearly half of those lives and prevent thousands of severe injuries."

a new patrol car. The vehicle, a 1992 Ford Taurus L, will be purchased through Board Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge, Cass City, at a cost of $13,544.

 Noted the municipal consultant firm of Vilican Leman, Southfield, will be updating the village's subdivision regulations at a cost of $1,500. The update, last conducted in 1973, was recommended due to changes in the law and significant subdivision growth in the community.

·Heard a brief presentation on the D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program by instructor and Cass City Police Officer Craig Haynes.

Haynes, who was commended by the council for his efforts, reported the recent completion of the first 19-week D.A.R.E. course offered to Cass City sixth graders. He invited council ation ceremonies, which were to be held today (Wednesday) at the middle school.

 Approved a resolution changing the effective date of terms of office for appointed village officials from April 1 to May 1.

Such appointments will continue to be made each year by the village president with council approval, but now they will be made after new council members, if members to attend gradu- any, are in place following village elections.

THE CAT WHO MOVED A MOUNTAIN by Lillian Jackson Braun (mystery). Jim Qwilleran, an affable former big-city crime reporter who has just inherited a considerable fortune, heads for a vacation in the rustic Potato Mountains to ponder the future course of his life. Accompanied by his 2 omniscient felines, Koko and Yum Yum, he takes up residence in the former home of the town's leading citizen, J.J. Hawkinfield, murdered one year ago. The sheriff tells Qwilleran that the deceased, a believer in unfettered development of the area, was killed by one of the more militant mountain people, who oppose land sales and want to protect their rural environment. Under the pretext of researching Hawkinfield's biography, Qwilleran pries into everyone's business, aided by the garrulous residents, who raise gossip to a new art form. With the help of his unique cats, he uncovers new evidence and brings to a satisfying conclusion a lively, witty tale.

BEYOND EDEN by Catherine Coulter (fiction). Gawky and impressionable Lindsay Foxe, 16, develops a crush on prince Alessandro di Contini when he marries her sophisticated half-sister. Two years later, in 1983, Alessandro lures Lindsay to Paris, gets her drunk, then brutally rapes and beats her. As she is examined in a hospital emergency, her hysterical cries are overheard by S.C. Taylor, a New York policeman injured on vacation. He does not move to comfort her; later, his guilt and the legal constraints on his ability to aid rape victims in New York haunts him so grievously that he resigns from the force and becomes a private investigator. Lindsay, now ostracized by her inexplicably hostile family and terrified of men, becomes a successful model, professional name Eden. her employer hires Taylor to protect her and a smoldering relationship begins as Lindsay is targeted

Marlette firm offers $1,000

Plasta Fiber Industries, a subsidiary of Automotive Industries, Marlette, recently announced it is now

Schwartz assigned to ship

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Edward G. Schwartz, son of Mary M. Schwartz of Cass City, recently reported for duty aboard the ammunition ship U.S.S. Suribachi, homeported in Leonardo, offering an incentive plan designed to encourage employees to purchase a new North American-built vehicle produced by Ford, Chrysler or GM.

When an employee of Plasta Fiber Industries meets the requirements of the incentive program, the company will give the employee $1,000.

In addition, there are matching incentives offered by the car companies which could entitle employees to an additional $1,000.

The intention of this program is to show our commitment and support to the automotive companies and to give our employees supplemental financial assistance in the purchase of new vehicles, said Greg Williams, Human Resources manager.

"It is anticipated that as other companies get involved and offer similar programs, that consumer confidence will strengthen, more cars and trucks will be sold, and jobs will be secured," he added. "We view this as a win, win, win situation for auto companies, their suppliers and supplier employees."

The U.S.S. Suribachi currently is in the Persian Gulf. Schwartz, who served during Operation Desert Storm, enlisted in the Navy in October 1976. He is a 1976 graduate of Cass City High

Forming 4-H cycle club in Huron County
