Drowning victims

Joint rites Thursday for 3 Hennesseys

A tragic accident on Saginaw Bay claimed the lives of 3 generations of the Hennessey family Saturday night.

The victims were Daniel Hennessey, 74, of Cass City, his son, David Hennessey, 42, and his grandson, Michael, 10, both of Bay City.

The 3 departed from a Linwood marina on a fishing trip in a 15-foot wooden boat that David Hennessey had repaired. A family member said that the 2 older family members were not wearing life jackets and she was not sure if young Michael had one on.

The 3 had departed Saturday morning and the capsize boat was found Saturday night with its bow sticking out of the water.

Coast Guard officials found the bodies about 10 a.m. Sunday, about 5 miles northeast of Linwood and about 2 miles from where the boat overturned.

Fishing together had been a family practice for David and his son since he was a toddler.

A Cass City relative said that she had been in the boat many times before without incident. Officials speculated that a strong wind blew up suddenly to swamp the boat. They said that shallow water such as that in Saginaw Bay can be more treacherous on windy days than the larger Great Lakes.

Funeral services for all 3 Hennesseys will be held at 11 a.m. Thursday at St. Pancratius Church, Cass City. They will lie in state at the church Thursday after 10 a.m.

Conducting the joint services will be Father Paul W. Ball, pastor, Father David Parsch of Alma and the Rev. Janet Larner, pastor of the United Methodist Church in Bay City.

Interment for Daniel Hennessey will be in Novesta Cemetery, Cass City.

Interment will be in Indianfields Township Cemetery, Caro.

Jordan College awarded $1 million federal grant

A 5-year federal grant expected to provide more than $1 million has been awarded to Michigan's Jordan College, U.S. Department of Education and college officials announced last week.

Jordan will receive $173,455 during the first year of the grant, beginning Oct. 1.

The college will use the funds to build and staff a full-scale development office intended to strengthen the institution's long-term financial base, according to College President Lexie K. Coxon.

"In addition," she said,

"funding is being provided for programs designed to increase retention and academic achievement of under-prepared students."

Jordan College has 7 campuses in Michigan, including one in Cass City that serves the Thumb area.

Thumb Campus Dean Jerry White commented the grant should eventually result in a greater range of career choices for area students.

The award is expected to improve fundraising efforts collegewide, and dollars raised for use at the Thumb campus could be used for new programs, he said. In the health field, for example, White noted he would like to develop a pharmacy technician program.

"We're delighted to see this kind of support," he said of the grant. "It sends a strong message to our community that Jordan College is recognized at a national level for the mission we serve."

Coxon said Jordan had been told that nearly 1,000 colleges may have submitted applications for federal funds, but that fewer than 200 would be selected.

Known as a Title III grant, the funding is intended to help developing institutions such as Jordan become financially and academically self-sustaining, able to compete with more mature, often state-funded institutions.

Coxon said this year's grant funding will be provided without a requirement that the college provide matching funds from other sources, although the college staff must administer projects that are funded.

"We'll be using the money to create our first development office," she explained. "We proposed a new position in our leadership team, a

Crash kills Peggy Rickett

A Decker area woman was killed and 3 other people were injured in a 2-vehicle collision last Wednesday about a mile northwest of Decker.

The victim was identified as Peggy Sue Rickett, 22, of Decker.

Rickett was a passenger in a car driven by Robert D. Rickett Jr., 27, Decker, who was struck broadside by a pickup truck at the intersection of Hoadley and Moriarty roads, Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies reported.

The driver of the pickup was identified as Daniel M. James, 24, also of Decker.

Reports state Rickett was northbound and James, who was driving despite having had his license revoked, was westbound when the 1:50 p.m. accident occurred.

Deputies said Peggy Rickett was dead at the scene. James, Robert Rickett and Sandra McCombs, 3, a passenger in the Rickett vehicle, were all transported by Marlette Ambulance to Marlette Community Hospital for treatment of injuries.

This is undoubtedly a terrible disaster. We have lost not only the landscaping, but our whole house, boat, car, truck, business. We must focus on the fact that we are unhurt, and Jane and Sue and families are unhurt.

Sue's house is worse than ours, if possible. Jane's is relatively OK, but the groves are gone. (Steve's boat blew through their TV room and landed across the street and down the block.)

A DECKER AREA woman was killed and 3 others were hurt last Wednesday when a car and pickup truck collided near Decker.

Anne Ballard tells how family survived "Andrew"

Editor's note: Anne (Esau) Ballard and her husband, Steve, survived Hurricane Andrew by shutting themselves in an inner closet of their home in Homestead, Fla. Because so many have called and expressed concern for their welfare, Anne's parents, Jack and Ruth Esau, passed along the following letter from their daughter, who is expecting a baby any day.

As of Monday, the Ballards were in the process of moving to an apartment in Sunrise, north of Fort Lauderdale.

I had hoped to send this card to you on Sept. 13, Grandparents' Day, signed in the baby's name. Now I don't know when you will get it — when we will have mail. It was on the kitchen counter and is relatively dry and OK. It was 2 inches from Eric's (Anne's brother) birthday card, which I found floating, ripped out of the envelope, stampless in the hallway.

This is undoubtedly a terrible disaster. We have lost not only the landscaping, but our whole house, boat, car, truck, business. We must focus on the fact that we are unhurt, and Jane and Sue and families are unhurt.

Sue's house is worse than ours, if possible. Jane's is relatively OK, but the groves are gone. (Steve's boat blew through their TV room and landed across the street and down the block.)

We won't have electricity for weeks, probably more like months. Sue LaGuardia's phone is working, thanks to Allen's know-how and sheer luck that her line isn't dead.

I can't plan more than 5 minutes in advance. I just do not know where to begin. I cannot bring a baby here and there is nowhere any better. We may end up flying the cats (they have 5) to Eric, and Steve, baby and me driving to Cincinnati as soon as possible and when we can get the car fixed.

Steve has been a rock! He has been so patient, calm and reassuring to me and the cats. I cannot imagine leaving him to deal with this on his own, yet I just don't know what it will be like with baby due in 8 days. Don't won't be open for at least a few weeks, and business won't pick up for YEARS. Steve has had record sales the last 6 months and was doing so well. We were both so proud of our home and yard and car and business.

I couldn't wait for Teresa to come. The baby's room, clothing, supplies, were all immaculate and perfect and ready weeks ago. Now we have NOTHING.

Blow by blow account - We went to bed at 11 p.m. and set the alarm for 2:30 a.m. I couldn't sleep, so I got up at 2:00 and saw the TV report and woke Steve. (Eye headed directly at us.)

We got 4 cats in closet with several quilts, pillows, radio, water. Jamie said he would ride it out in the living room. Sue called at 2:30 to say it had hit land at Turkey Point. As I was on the phone, Steve was trying to catch Puggy (one of the cats) and the bedroom window exploded. I threw the phone, Steve grabbed me and we went in the closet. Seconds later, Jamie joined us.

The wind sounded like sirens and trains. If not for Jamie leaning against the closet door, it would have blown in.

We were hit from the west first, could hear things banging on walls, thumping, doors exploding, glass shattering. The whole closet shook and we could hear wood squeak inside. Concrete dust fell on us, funny smells, ceiling began to leak (not much), loose panel to crawl space blew inward (some insulation fell in the next day). Then 30 minutes of calm (the eye). Not a sound or breath. We considered running to the garage and leaving the cats, but I knew it would come from the opposite direction next, so we stayed, another Thank God!

The second attack was worse. The garage door blew in, smashed the rear window and trunk of the car, blew garage items through the living room and out the back door and down the block. Recycling bin cans ended up in my bathroom, oil cans in front hall, garage roof blew off, part of living room ceiling is gone — couch is upside down, wet and all over. We have no pictures left in there. Some exploded into a zillion pieces. TV is still standing, not broken but wet.

Speakers flew, floor lamps flew - you just can't imagine. Kitchen cupboards stayed intact, dishes, silverware OK, salt and pepper shakers OK. Unbroken light bulb found on back porch. Floor of kitchen, 2" of water, debris we don't even recognize. Front bathroom is OK. All other windows gone, glass, screen, branches, water everywhere.

Baby's furniture and bedding wet, muddy, grass and dirt. Crib broken, but fixable, windows gone. All French doors exploded outward.

Easter basket found by Palm Lodge, Xmas lights and stocking found by what's left of baobab tree. Someone's blue jeans on our porch - Bag packed for hospital drenched and emptied around our house, baby's welcome home clothes muddy and wet, your Peter Rabbit book wet, all birth announcements wet (stamped and addressed) — devastating!

No water. We are all filthy, sweaty and stinky. It's 90 degrees and sunny.

We finally found Puggy at dusk, drenched under things in baby's closet.

WEDNESDAY, 8/26

Steve is at the insurance agency - $90,000 structure, $45,000 contents, $18,000 rental allowance. I don't know if it will be enough. Our mortgage and car payments are due 9/1.

Our plan as of this moment is to move as soon as possible. Steve may have to camp out in our shell of a house during the week until we have a home — 6 months? a year?

I will close now and see if Sue has any friends here who will take this out and mail it for me. Will call you.

I love you, Anne

Meals for kids

Providing nourishing meals for school children is one thing, but getting them to eat them is another. The Michigan Beef Industry Commission suggests that one way to address this challenge is to revise recipes and food purchasing habits to create nourishing versions of meals kids like, such as tacos, pizza and spaghetti.

My friend Minerva's counting calories again. There's no guarantee how long it will last, but hopefully, now that it's been publicized, a little longer than it might have.

Min's never had much luck with crash diets or shame tactics. And while counting calories is not dramatic like some of the miracle weight loss systems, she claims it's the best way to lose a few excess pounds.

Weight lost slowly is more likely to stay off than that lost quickly, according to Min, and she's losing it v-e-r-y slowly.

She likes the calorie counting method because it leaves her feeling in control. Diets that make her feel deprived are depressing, and everybody knows the only way to beat depression is to eat.

By counting calories, she can have a hot fudge sundae if she really wants to. (She'll give up any hope of meat and potatoes that day, of course, but she's still in control.) Here's how it works. Most people, leading normally active lives, need 15 calories per pound to maintain their present body weight. So if you weigh 150 pounds, multiplying 150 by 15 means that consuming 2250 calories a day will keep you at that weight.

If you want to lose weight, you have to cut back on the calorie intake and use up more of the stored fat in your body. (Exercise will obviously help, too.)

Each pound of stored fat contains about 3500 calories, according to the experts. So, to lose a pound of stored fat a week, it's necessary to consume 3500 fewer calories a week, or 500 fewer per day (500x7 = 3500). So that 150-pounder would subtract 500 from 2250 and limit himself to 1750 calories a day.

Those are the scientific and mathematical facts. But counting calories is more than just a mathematical exercise, according to Min. It forces you to take note of your eating habits.

You have to determine to keep track of everything that goes into your mouth, and that makes you aware of all those idle little snacks that add up calories in a hurry.

The whipped cream or frosting you lick off the beaters and the mixing bowl has more calories than you might think. (Min says that's the hardest part to give up, but if she does it quickly, she can force herself to rinse them off in the sink instead.)

She says you also find a new appreciation for food if you're truly hungry when you eat it. Most of us eat more out of habit than hunger.

Min admits that it's a pain to look up the calorie content of everything, but after doing it for a while, you know automatically how many calories are in the foods you eat most often, and you can almost guess at the rest.

Actually, if she watches what she eats during the day, Min says it's almost impossible for her to consume enough at dinner and in the evening to go over her limit.

Counting calories will probably never make her "Skinny Minnie" again, but she's dropped a few pounds and feels pretty good about it. And that's what really counts.

The bad news is that a Michigan resident is more likely to enter a hospital emergency department as a result of a gunshot or stab wound and personal or sexual assault than as a result of an auto accident.

The good news for residents of rural Michigan is that 90 percent of the cases are treated in urban hospitals.

Cases are divided about 50-50 between men and women, according to the Michigan Hospital Association, which compiled the figures.

More good news, bad news. The good news is that an early goose hunting season has been authorized Sept. 1-10 in the eastern part of the Upper Peninsula and nearly all of the Lower Peninsula. For farm rehab project

Thumb counties get grant

Five counties in Michigan's Thumb have received an $87,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Extension Service to participate in the AgrAbility Project, which links extension service agricultural know-how with disability expertise to keep people with disabilities in farming.

The Michigan Cooperative Extension Service, through the Agricultural Engineering Ag Safety Program, will work with the Easter Seal societies in Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, Saginaw and Bay counties to create the Michigan Farm Family Rehabilitation Management Program (MI-FaRM). This one-year pilot program will establish a community-based network to assist farmers and their families with on-the-farm rehabilitation services.

"Farm Bureau is delighted that Michigan was chosen to receive these AgrAbility funds," said Julie Chamberlain, manager of Michigan Farm Bureau's Promotion and Education Department. "This pilot project represents the first fruits of the Family Farm Rehabilitation (FaRM) program that Michigan Farm Bureau and the National Easter Seal Society are currently in the process of funding."

Chamberlain said that FaRM is a catalyst for obtaining additional grants and funds for farm rehabilitation services.

"FaRM is an important vehicle for demonstrating the commitment of individual farmers and county Farm Bureaus to the goal of allowing farm accident victims to once again become functioning members of the agricultural community," she said.

"This Cooperative Extension Service project is only funded for one year," Chamberlain explained. "If we want to attract additional funds for the future, and expand rehabilitation services statewide, it is critical that we raise the $30,000 of seed money needed to make FaRM a reality."

"If It Fitz...."

Screaming injustice

By Jim Fitzgerald

The Michigan Supreme Court "has made it better to have drugs than to think about selling them," said one defense attorney. "The thought-crime is now worse than the action itself."

The above quotation is from an article headlined "The Case of Gary Fannon" in the Sept. 3 Rolling Stone. It means the best-known victim of Michigan's unfair drug lifer law is, incredibly, being victimized further by the state's bizarre interpretation of a Supreme Court ruling that was intended to help Fannon, not prolong his persecution.

It's difficult to believe, but true: Gary Fannon is being punished more for not taking part in a drug sale than he would have been if he had taken part in it.

More than 5 years ago, at the age of 18, Fannon was sentenced to life in prison with no chance of parole for his aborted involvement in a comparatively minor drug conspiracy. You already knew that, probably because of the efforts of Fannon's mother to get him a more reasonable prison term. Linda Fannon, of Westland, has nervously but determinedly pleaded Gary's case on several national TV talk shows and in widely circulated publications such as Rolling Stone. As I've said before, everybody should have a mother like Linda Fannon.

Judges had to give the forever-after sentence. They were allowed no discretion, no matter how mitigating the circumstances. They might as well have been rubber stamps.

That was the situation until June 16 when the state Supreme Court ruled the mandatory lifer law was cruel or unusual punishment and therefore unconstitutional. It appeared that Fannon, who's been locked up since 1987, could start thinking about freedom.

Except that the state attorney general, for some unexplained reason, interpreted the ruling as being limited to people convicted of possessing 650 grams. Fannon doesn't qualify because he was convicted of conspiracy to deliver 650 grams.

FANNON SUFFERED ENOUGH

Fannon - then 18, remember, and from an economically deprived family — originally was sucked toward the cocaine deal by $32,000 cash waved in his face by an undercover cop who was later fired — but not prosecuted — for drug use. Fannon got cold feet and backed out. When the deal went down, he was in another state. Incredibly, Fannon would be better off if he'd been at the scene of the crime, clutching the cocaine.

Obviously, ridiculousness has been added to absurdity. In the first place, the die-in-prison sentence was outrageously unfair. Murderers and rapists regularly receive lesser terms. Or stick to drugs: In July, a 19-year-old former Troy High School football star, the son of wealthy parents, pleaded guilty to a cocaine crime similar to Fannon's. His jail sentence was 3 weeks.

And now, as if Fannon hasn't suffered enough unequal justice, he's being penalized for only thinking about breaking a law, instead of actually breaking it.

The solution to this absurdity is a bill introduced by Rep. Bill Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe Farms, that would allow judges to correct injustices resulting from the mandatory drug life law and rubber-stamp sentences. Legislators should approve Bryant's bill immediately and set Gary Fannon free. He has paid enough for his crime, and so has his mother.

Americans give about $120 billion to charity a year.

LAW UNJUST FOR SOME

About 160 other people have been sentenced under Michigan's toughest-in-the-nation law mandating life without parole for anyone convicted of possessing 650 grams (1.4 pounds) or more of cocaine or heroin. Some may deserve to stay in a cell until they die, but some surely don't. And that's where the injustice screams.

It's doubtful if the kid knew just how lucky he is. Guessing, the boy was perhaps 12 years old.

One day a week or so ago he came charging out of the alley back of the Chronicle riding his bike the wrong way on the one-way street. Without looking, he drove across Oak Street directly in the path of an approaching van.

The boy couldn't have been more than 15 yards away when he darted in front of it.

I wish that I could tell you the name of the woman driving that car. She stopped with perhaps 10 feet to spare and the startled boy pedaled away. It was a nice piece of driving. First, she was travelling slowly enough to react to the emergency. Second, she was not distracted. Her attention had to be on what she was doing, driving her van.

Somewhere in Cass City is a family that will never know how much they owe to this driver.

Before each major holiday, insurance agencies and the Michigan State Police issue news releases telling how dangerous it is to be on the roads. One of them pointed out that Labor Day has resulted in the highest number of fatalities of the 3 major summer holidays, which include Memorial Day and the Fourth of July.

Two-lane driving is the most hazardous and drinking is estimated to be involved in 60 percent of the deaths.

How far from home you travel has little to do with chances for a fatal crash. For instance, 17 of the 20 fatal crashes recorded over the Memorial Day holiday last year were within 17 miles of home. This year 6 have died in crashes within Tuscola County.

That boy on the bike was exceedingly fortunate not to be number 7. Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson says that he observes a good deal of careless driving by kids on bikes in the village.

There have been several bike safety classes held over the years in the village. It's been a couple of years at least since the last one was held.

Maybe it's time for another. If nothing else, it might impress on the kids that riding a bike can be really dangerous and install a little more responsibility.

It might help, but kids being kids, even if a bike safety clinic were held, a good deal of it would soon be forgotten.

The best chance to avoid a tragic accident is for the parents to go to the mat with their kids about the safe way to ride and for all of us to try and be as safe and as attentive a driver as the lady in the van.

WHAT IS HEART FAILURE?

Heart failure or "congestive heart failure" is when the heart no longer can keep up with the work required of it. The body needs more blood than the heart is able to pump and there is more blood returning to the heart than it can handle.

This "back log" of blood behind the heart is what causes the main symptoms of heart failure—shortness of breath and fluid retention. Shortness of breath can occur with activity and is also common during sleep; the build-up of fluid in the lungs when a person reclines causes him to suddenly need to sit up to catch his breath.

When fluid builds up in the lungs they become stiffer and a person has to work harder just to breathe.

Congestive heart failure normally requires some medical and non-medical treatments. The first is always salt restriction. This will help lower the blood volume and help the heart keep up with the circulation.

Water pills can be used to further decrease the fluid and salt in the system. Digitalis, a heart pill which stimulates the heart, is often used.

Now, newer medicines are available which can be very effective in congestive heart failure. They work in other ways and may have fewer side effects.

Even though congestive heart failure is a serious illness, these medicines can help a person lead an active and unrestricted life.

Bulldog defense shines

O-G girls defend tourney crown

As expected, the Owen-Gage girls opened the 1992 basketball campaign last week, successfully defending their Caseville Tournament crown.

On Monday, the Bulldogs whipped CPS, 55-31. In Thursday's final, the 'Dogs defeated Port Hope, 56-28, for the championship.

As expected, senior guard Michelle Tkacz led the Bulldog attack with a game high 29 tallies against Port Hope. Tkacz also finished with game scoring honors against CPS, where she pumped in 22 points in the game's first 3 quarters.

However, Coach Dean Roller credited the wins to the play of the Bulldog defense.

"They were very ugly games, turnovers, poor shooting. The only thing I'm pleased with is our defense."

Although Coach Roller had praise only for his defense, the tourney provided other positives for the Bulldogs, who were to entertain Au Gres Tuesday.

Senior Carli Salcido whipped in 13 points in the opener despite a 3-7 showing from the foul stripe.

Salcido also finished the contest with 16 rebounds.

Also in the opener, Coach Roller got a pleasant performance from sophomore Angie Wildman, who recorded 13 rebounds, and 5 fourth quarter points.

In Thursday's contest, Jill Susalla stepped up with a big outing that included 13 tallies and 9 defensive rebounds.

One area for improvement for the Bulldogs, who hope to challenge for the NCTL crown, is on the foul line. In the 2 day tourney Owen-Gage converted only 36% from the stripe (14 of 38).

Softball honors go to Merchant

Aimee Merchant, graduated senior at Owen-Gage, received honorable mention honors in class D softball as selected by the Michigan High School Softball Coaches Association.

Merchant was selected from among 2,250 class D players. There were 35 members on the team and 35 on the honorable mention list.

The award was presented between all-star games at Ranney Park in Lansing July 25.

Season starts Friday

12 starters back to anchor 1992 Owen-Gage squad

It was media day recently for Owen-Gage football Coach Arnie Besonen and his 1992 gridders.

The Hall of Fame mentor, always a delight on these afternoons during the past decade, was no different today, relishing the opportunity to talk about football, his players, and the upcoming season.

"You know", joked Besonen half-heartedly, "our medical bag used to be the biggest piece of equipment we would carry to the game. Now it's our briefcase filled with legal papers."

What's genuine about Coach Besonen is that he enjoys his trade, win or lose.

He spoke of his current team in the same manner he spoke of his 1987 squad that finished 1-8 on the season, and his 1988 group that enjoyed a 7-2 record.

"We've got 30 of the 33 boys in the high school out for the team", says the veteran mentor of over 20

Twelve of those 33 are returning starters that Besonen hopes will be able to improve on last year's 4-5 record.

To do so, one of those returnees will need to step up and fill the shoes of Mickey Parks, gone via graduation.

It will have to be someone with big feet.

Parks led the Bulldogs in both rushing and tackles last season, and was named a unanimous pick of the NCTL's all-conference defense squad as a linebacker.

Parks was also named to the NCTL's offensive first team as a running back.

Also gone from last year's squad are linemen Brad Niester and John Englehardt. Both were selected for honorable mention on the NCTL's offensive line a year ago.

Besonen, however, should have capable replacements for his team in the trenches.

Seniors Jason Karr and Gary Emmons, both recognized on last year's NCTL all-conference 2nd team line, will be the squad's best hitters, according to Besonen.

Besonen also feels big contributions will be made by Brent Fritz and Phil Fahrner.

Besonen also spoke highly of his defensive unit.

"Our defense should be pretty much intact", says Besonen.

Mainly due to the return of Mike Merchant and Matt Mandich.

On offense, Mandich will move from quarterback to halfback this season, so Ryan Radabaugh, an untested sophomore, can bark the signals.

Besonen feels North Huron and Kingston are the teams to beat this year in the NCTL. Owen-Gage, figures Besonen, "will be the spoilers."

The Bulldogs open their campaign Friday at Arenac-Eastern, where they will be considered favorites.

Season opens Friday

Talented players from Hawk JV key to season

For the first time in several years, the Lakers of Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port will not be prohibitive favorites to take the Blue Bay League title. The Lakers have to be considered the favorites, but heavy losses by graduation have taken them from the ranks of unbeatable before the season even starts.

The question before Hawk fans is can last year's undefeated junior varsity team move up and excel on the varsity as it did in junior varsity competition.

If the Hawks are to make a serious run for the Blue Bay championship, the players from that undefeated team will have to take over.

Last year the Hawks were 2-7 overall and 2-4 in the conference. In addition, a whole host of players left via graduation. Gone are 12 players, including the entire backfield and much of the line.

Gone are Kevin Mika, Greg Woodruff, Tom Czekai, Dennis DeLong, Jeremy Bogart, Brad Gray, Mark Irrer, Jeff Schember, Troy Benitez, Pete Matson, Ron Woodward and Tim Jewett.

Despite the losses, there are some tough competitors returning. Start with John Gibson at end. He was Gray's favorite receiver last year and together they formed the Hawks' best offensive threat.

Brandon Toner saw plenty of action at halfback and Alan Proowski, one of the co-captains, was a strong performer in the line. Other letter winners returning include Rick Parrott, Don Ball, Maurice Evans, Dirk DeLong, Scott Wren, Lyle Severance and Domonick Vargo.

Coach Don Markel says that Darren Wallace, a junior, is competing with Ben Schott for the quarterback slot. Jason Morgan, sophomore, who weighs 205 pounds, will be getting a long look at fullback.

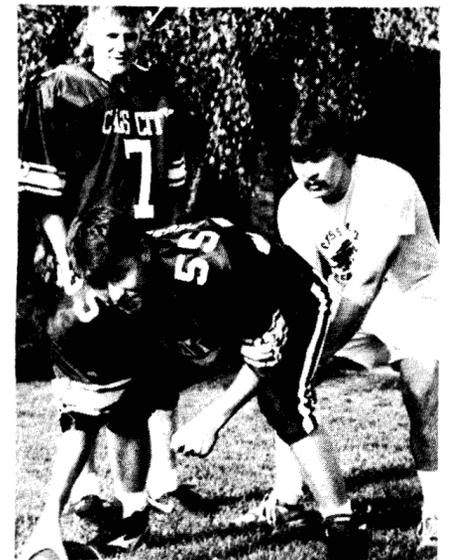

Markel feels that the offensive backfield will be pretty good and the team will have fairly good size and speed.

What the Hawks must develop before the season starts is a strong offensive line. The defense also needs a lot of work, the coach feels.

Cass City meets traditional rival Caro Friday at home. The Tigers grounded the Hawks last year 30-6. Although no longer a league game, it is the most important non-league game of the year.

HAWK CO-CAPTAINS receive a tip from Coach Don Markel. Standing is Ben Schott and centering the ball is Al Proowski.

Hawk harriers excite coach

Two years ago Cass City's cross country team failed to win. Last year Coach Dennis Meck's squad was 14-29 overall and 2-4 in the Blue Bay Conference.

If the team can continue to improve at that rate, look out next year. The cross country team features a host of underclassmen. Underclassmen with lots of experience.

Start with Barry Hornbacher, a junior. He was first team all-conference last year. His twin brother, Noel, earned honorable mention. There are 4 other juniors and 2 sophomores on the squad and all are letter winners.

The Hawks will miss graduated Jeff Schember, who was the second best runner last season.

Meck, who is in his 13th year at the helm, is excited about this year's team. We really have a good chance to win the Blue Bay title this season, he says. Both Marlette and Bad Axe graduated 3 of their top 5, so the race figures to be wide open.

The team will open the season Friday, Sept. 4, in the Akron-Fairgrove early bird invitational. It will be the first of 15 meets. The Hawks will be away for all of their meets except the Oct. 13 Blue Bay Conference league meet.

Village DDA Board meets, elects officers

The Cass City Downtown Development Authority Board is off and running following its organizational meeting, Village Council members were told last week.

The DDA Board's Aug. 25 meeting was briefly discussed during an otherwise routine and brief council meeting held later the same day.

Village President L.E. Althaver, who also serves on the 9-member DDA Board, outlined the organizational session.

The board appointed Betty Howard and Jean Comment to a committee charged with reviewing and proposing a set of by-laws, he said, and officers were elected. Tom Proctor was elected board chairman, Roger Board as vice chairman and Jim Bolton as secretary-treasurer.

Board meetings will be held on the fourth Tuesday of each month at 7:30 a.m. at the village municipal building. Roberts Rules of Order were adopted as the parliamentary procedure.

There was also some general discussion. Althaver said, noting members decided the best way to proceed would be to draft a mission statement.

"I think we've got... a dedicated group. I think they're facing a difficult task," he commented, adding there's a need to educate the community regarding the DDA's purpose and role in the downtown area.

In other business last week, the council learned property tax collections are up this year compared to a year ago.

Village Treasurer Joyce LaRoche reported 58.92 percent ($375,545) of the $637,379 due has been collected to-date, compared to 56.13 percent at the same time last year.

Also last week:

- The council learned 4-way stop signs have been placed at the intersection of Houghton and Ale streets at the request of residents, who voiced concern over motorists driving too fast in an area where there are a number of children.
- Trustee Matt Prieskorn, chairman of the Parks and Promotion Committee, agreed to organize a small dedication ceremony celebrating completion of the Cass City walking trail. The ceremony was tentatively set for 5 p.m. Sept. 25 at the south end of the trail, where an overlook has been constructed on the Cass River.

Joint rites Thursday

Tennant, Jeff Jankoski and Nick Pudlow.

Burial will be in Indianfields Township Cemetery, Caro.

Memorial contributions for David may be given to the Vietnam Veterans of America, Bay Area Chapter, and for Michael to Bangor Township Little League.

Visitation hours will be Tuesday from 2 to 8:30 p.m. at the W. A. Trahan Funeral Chapel in Bay City, and Wednesday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home until 9:30 in the evening.

Grant awarded to Jordan College

vice president for development who would provide professional planning and direction for all future fundraising."

Jordan has also proposed a series of student retention programs, she said.

Federal support for the retention programs "was provided at a lower-than-expected level, but we expect that in the coming years full funding for these efforts may also be provided."

Over the 5-year life of the grant, Coxon said, Jordan expects to receive "well over $1 million" in federal money.

The unexpected funding couldn't have come at a better time, she added.

"The past few years have been especially challenging... for a college with Jordan's mission. Our students have greater needs and less confidence that, with or without a college education, they will be able to fight their way into America's social or economic mainstream."

Jordan College and the Department of Education have differed over ex-student loan default rates in recent years.

The department last year threatened Jordan with exclusion from some federal loan programs, but the college won an appeal. A similar case is pending again this year.

"The 'default' people seem to reject Jordan's mission," said Jeremy Berg, Jordan's vice president for student services. "But this honor, and the money that comes with it, suggests that somewhere within the department is both a recognition and an approval of our work."

- His bond was set at $15,000. A preliminary exam in the case was slated for 9 a.m. Friday.

- Bond in the case was set at $4,000 and a preliminary exam was scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday.

- *Mark A. Jenkins, 31, Gageton, faces a charge of false pretenses over $100. Court records indicate he represented himself as the owner of a vehicle for sale, causing a would-be buyer to deliver an $800 check to him July 22 in Cass City.
- Jenkins' bond was set at $1,000. His preliminary exam is slated for Friday at 9 a.m.

Small loss in '92 4th Fest finances improve

This year's July 4 Festival enjoyed improved financial success as well as great weather and big crowds.

Cass City's 1992 independence celebration sustained a loss, but the total will amount to less than $500, according to figures reported by festival Treasurer Lota Hartel.

Last year, expenses exceeded revenues by about $1,600.

"Financially, it was better than last year," Hartel commented, "but we still need to get some more moneymaking ideas."

The 1992 festival's expenses totaled $7,300 and revenues came in at $6,800, Hartel said, adding there are still a couple of income items that haven't been received yet. The deficit was made up with a fund balance that totals $2,700, she said.

The festival's various activities saw a mixed bag of financial ups and downs this year.

Both concessions and arts and crafts sustained small losses; concessions raised some $1,000, down by $160, and arts and crafts netted $1,300, $100 less than last year.

In contrast, Hartel said, the Little Miss Pageant saw an increase in participation and income, which was up $160. In addition, this year's inaugural festival golf tournament raised $536, and sales of T-shirts netted $400.

Also up were canister donations for the celebration's biggest expense, fireworks ($3,500). Those donations totaled $657, up by $300. Advertising, another major expense, cost an additional $200 this year.

This year's financial loss isn't a major concern for festival organizers, who have maintained a fund balance of close to $3,000 in recent years while watching expenses and revenues rise and fall. The festival made $1,100 in 1990, for example, but lost some $1,500 in 1989, which followed a profit of $555 in 1989.

Hopefully, Hartel remarked, this year's figures mean the festival is headed back towards at least breaking even, a long-standing goal of the committee.

As for the future, she said, "We're still in a position where we can run it another year, but we certainly need new ideas and new people to help. Volunteers are welcome."

The people — those willing to pitch in and help — are the reason this year's festival turned out so well, said committee member Jane Hitler.

"An event is only as good as those who put it together and make it work," she added. "The '92 festival committee was excellent, hardworking and dedicated."

Letter to the editor

For hurricane victims

Need for donations great

Editor,
I'm writing in regard to the big disaster we're having at this time. Hurricane Andrew! The worst disaster in history!

The Red Cross has been there from the very beginning of the storm. They have been setting up shelters, putting people in motels and places that were safe for them. The Red Cross not only helps people find shelter, they supply food, water, comfort, etc.

The Red Cross is there before the storms, during and after the storms, trying to help get people back into their homes.

The Red Cross is in great need for money so they can continue to help in big disasters such as Hurricane Andrew. Red Cross also helps in areas where there is flooding, etc. Smaller disasters such as family fires, tornadoes, high winds, snow storms, etc., Red Cross is always there to help!

Our chapter of Tuscola Red Cross has been assisted by National Red Cross to help them with money to continue with all the help they're giving all over the country.

We are asking the people of Tuscola County to please step forward and help the Red Cross to continue their great services. No gift is too small!

Please send all contributions to: Tuscola County Red Cross, 124 E. Main St., Mayville, Mich. 48744.

If you have any questions concerning disaster, CPR First Aid classes, or service to military families, please feel free to call anytime, 843-5051.

Thanks
Pat Fox
Chairman Tuscola Red Cross

5 enter pleas, 5 sentenced in circuit court Friday

Five people entered pleas and 5 others were sentenced during a busy motion day Friday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

*Kevin A. Hicks, 18, and Eugene J. Colson, 18, both of Saint Cloud, Fla., entered pleas of guilty to charges stemming from a missing 1989 Ford pickup truck, belonging to Jeff Moyer, Aug. 7 in Caro.

2 drivers arrested Sunday

Speeding in Cass City landed 2 motorists in jail over the weekend.

Cass City police arrested Cass City resident William C. Carr Jr., 20, Sunday at 12:24 a.m. after stopping his vehicle on Seeger Street near Church Street.

Carr was observed driving at a speed of 47 miles per hour in a 25 m.p.h. zone, according to reports, which state the motorist was wanted on a warrant for failing to appear in court.

At 11 p.m. the same day, police arrested Donavan L. Gamble, 21, Grosse Pointe Park, for driving while his license was suspended.

His vehicle was stopped on Church Street near Seeger Street after being clocked at a speed of 57 m.p.h. in a 25 m.p.h. zone. Reports state he was also cited for having no proof of insurance.

Fire totals Cass City man's car

A Cass City area resident's car was totaled by fire late Friday night.

Elkland Township fire fighters were called to the Eugene Otulakowski residence, 7155 E. Kelly Rd., at about 11:35 p.m., according to Fire Chief Milt Connolly, who said Otulakowski's 1981 Lincoln was destroyed.

No estimate was available on the value of the vehicle. Cause of the blaze remains under investigation.

DID YOU KNOW... Americans lose the equivalent of energy through their windows as all the oil that flows through the Alaskan pipelines.

FACT: If we properly weather-stripped and caulked all the gas-heated homes in America, we would save enough natural gas to heat an additional 4 million homes.

DID YOU KNOW... New insulation can pay for itself in one to two years depending on your climate. In some places, one season.

FACT: If you insulate the attic alone, there is a 5% or more savings in heating cost and as much as 15% for air conditioning cost.

Simple tests done at home can determine air leaks such as a lighted candle held around window frames. Check to see if it flickers, if so, you need weather-stripping or caulking. Other places to check for energy leaks would include cracks or holes in the walls, ceilings and floors, fireplace dampers, areas where pipes or wiring enter walls, ceiling and floors. You may want to resort to newer windows being offered on the market opposed to simple caulking.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Pinney Foundation grants to total $50,000 annually

There is $50,000 waiting to be claimed by organizations seeking to make Cass City a better place to live and work. It comes from the Pinney family and it will be available each and every year from now on.

When village elders recall stories concerning the Pinney families, they usually revolve around how they bettered Cass City.

On October 28, 1886, Elijah Pinney opened The Exchange Bank in Cass City with his son, Edward Pinney.

The bank became The Pinney State Bank March 21,

1921, and Fred Pinney, Edward's son, served as president from 1931-1976. It remained in the Pinney family until Oct. 19, 1982, when the bank was sold and became Chemical Bank Cass City. Fred served on the board of directors until 1987.

Fred, like his father and grandfather before him, was instrumental in helping transform Cass City into a prosperous industrial and agricultural community.

"Fred never neglected his banking duties", says long-time acquaintance and fellow board member Robert Keating.

Keating was quick to point out that Fred was involved in every aspect of the community. He was a charter member and past president of the Cass City Rotary Club. He served on the village council and was a member and booster of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce. Fred was also very active in functions concerning Hills & Dales Hospital.

Given his long record of service to the community, it is not surprising that he established the Pinney foundation that has been activated following his death in 1988 and his wife Lottie's death in 1991.

The Pinney Foundation originated in 1983 when Fred and Lottie established the Foundation with a $10,000 gift. Upon settling their estate, the Foundation has grown to top $900,000.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Pinney Foundation board of directors includes 6 area residents. They are: Barbara Tuckey, Bill Wallace, Mike Weaver, Dick Donahue, Bev Perry and Annette Pinney, the Pinneys' daughter. Trust officers for the foundation are Jude Patnaude and Glenn Pietenpol of Chemical Bank Midland.

Each year the board of directors will make decisions on how to spend the interest earned from the fund during the preceding year. That should amount to somewhere in the $50,000 range.

There is a wide range of programs that can be eligible for the grants, including community education, conservation environment, community beautification and preservation, erection and maintenance of public buildings and other charitable activities.

"We feel that this could become very significant to Cass City", says board chairman Dick Donahue.

Further Donahue states, the Foundation is looking to match funds of organizations with the grant money.

"I guess Fred always felt Cass City was good to him and this is his way of giving something back. The Foundation could easily grow into a $2 million fund," says Donahue.

HOW TO APPLY

The Foundation has no formal grant application procedure. Rather, the interested party should write a concise request stating the amount requested and purpose to: Pinney Foundation, Chemical Bank Cass City, 6522 Main Street, Cass City, Michigan 48726. Applicants will be notified, either way, as soon as the Foundation Board has made its selection.

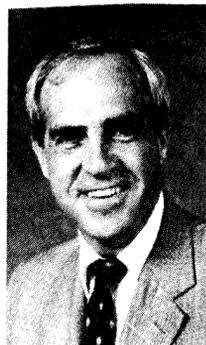

Walbro executive Forrest Walpole leaving company

Walbro Corporation will be without its corporation secretary and vice-president of administration following the resignation of Forrest Walpole, to be in effect starting next week.

Walpole will be severing a long relationship as a member of the staff of the company, although he remains one of its stockholders. Although his direct connection will cease, he undoubtedly will be involved in Walbro's affairs. That's because he has accepted a position with Katten, Muchin, Zavis, and Donbroff in Washington, D.C. The firm is the one that handles much of Walbro's legal business.

Washington, D.C., will not be new to Walpole. He served at the Pentagon while in service with the army for 4 years starting in 1967. He worked in a Chicago office in 1971 before opening an office in Caro in 1972. Walpole was active in civic work in Caro and served as president of the Caro School Board.

Forrest Walpole

He did legal work for Walbro while operating his Caro office and closed the office to take his executive position with the company.

L. E. Althaver, Walbro's president and chief executive, said that Walpole's duties with the company will be divided among various staff members.

The departing officer was feted at a dinner with corporate personnel Friday in Bay City and with a family picnic at the home of Alice Guernsey in Cass City.

Walpole and his wife, the former Joyce Agar, have roots in Cass City. Both graduated from Cass City High School. He was an outstanding athlete in high school, graduating in 1959.

He earned his BA degree from Princeton University and his law degree from the University of Michigan.

The couple has 2 children, Lisa, 24, of Dallas, Texas, and Sara, 22, who recently earned her college degree and will accompany the family to Washington, where she plans to continue her education.

One in five U.S. residents owns stock or invests in stock mutual funds.

CASS CITY SUPERINTENDENT Ken Micklash accepts a check from Pinney Foundation board members, Annette Pinney and Dick Donahue, recently, to help purchase books for the school's science program. The check, in the amount of $5150, was the first major donation from the Pinney Foundation.

Call free to give "Andrew" aid

A toll-free number has been established for individuals, corporations and organizations across the United States who can offer in-kind donations and volunteer assistance in response to Hurricane Andrew. The number is 1-800-253-3000.

agency compact entitled Its national office can be national Voluntary Organizations Active in Disaster. 6437.

The number is operated for Adventist Community Services, the voluntary disaster response agency that has a major responsibility for handling donations of groceries, clothing, blankets and other personal items.

The 800 number, based at Andrews University in Berrien Springs, Mich., is manned by trained professionals and student workers who are on duty 24 hours daily.

Donated goods and the names of volunteers willing to help in the disaster cleanup effort will be shared with all of the disaster agencies working with Hurricane Andrew's victims. The information will be faxed or transferred by computer modem to on-site coordinators. Contact with individuals offering goods or services will be made within 24 to 48 hours.

"In order to avoid truckloads of supplies arriving at a disaster area without prior warning, and to eliminate an enormous amount of confusion, this 800 number has been set up," said Monte Sahlin, North American coordinator for Adventist Community Services. "We want to prevent the waste of supplies and energy that often erupts."

Adventist Community Services operates under Memoranda of Understanding (MOUs) with the U.S. Federal Emergency management Agency and the American Red Cross, and is a member of the inter-
