The Cass City School Board approved a revised budget for the 1992-93 school year at its regular meeting Monday night at the high school and the projection is that the school will end the year at the breakeven point or slightly in the

The budget as presented by Supt. Ken Micklash indicates that expenditures will revenues by exceed $46,909. The budget is a conservative one and the projected loss is about one percent of the school budget. It could very easily vary enough to eliminate the loss or increase it, Micklash said.

In any case the school will be in a healthy financial condition because there is a cash balance on hand of $711,141 and there will still be $664,232 even if the district does run at a slight deficit. The complete revised budget is printed in this issue on page 5.

Micklash outlined the progress made for elementary and middle school foreign language expansion. The school is expected to purchase a rooftop dish and develop a language program with satellite telecommunications. Marlette wants out

Blue Bay League may be in trouble

Just when Supt. Ken Micklash and Athletic Director Don Schelke thought that many of the problems connected with the Blue Bay Conference had been solved a surprise move by the Marlette School Board ripped the plan to shreds.

Last week the Marlette board voted to seek entry into the Thumb C League. If accepted, Marlette's withdrawal would effectively kill the Blue Bay League because it would leave only 3 teams in it.

After the Marlette action, Cass City's School Board voted to also apply for entry into the league. Discussion revealed that Laker High and Bad Axe are also expected to seek membership in the league.

In the last 3 years numerous plans have been suggested to try and reorganize. When the Thumb B Association broke up, all the C schools in the league attempted to enter the Thumb C League.

The Lakers and Cass City were turned down. Baa Axe and Marlette were accepted, but when Cass City and the Lakers didn't make it. Bad Axe and Marlette declined the invitation.

School board president Ben Hobart said that the refusal for entry into the C league for Cass City and Lakers dates back 15 years or more ago when another league was forming in the Thumb and animosity lin-

New program: students helping students

Students facing problems ranging from dating to drug abuse are only a friend away from help at Cass City High

Of course, teens have always turned to one another to talk about their concerns and problems, but a new program implemented this year is enabling students to help each other more effectively.

The program, called Natural Helpers, is a peer-helping project underway across the United States and in several other countries. It's new to Michigan, where Cass City became only the second school district, behind Redford Schools in the Detroit area, to participate.

Natural Helpers is based on a simple premise: within every school, an informal "helping network" exists. That is, students with problems naturally seek out other students, and occasionally teachers or other school staff whom they trust, for advice, assistance, or just a sympathetic ear.

The program uses this existing network; it provides training that gives students and adults the listening and coping skills they need to people who seek them out. The goals of the program are many, including a hope that youths with serious problems will get the professional help they need before it's too late.

"I think also there's the potential for students to help each other with developmental problems; such things as dating and getting along with parents or other family members," said Jerry Cleland, a guidance counselor at Cass City High School. "If nothing else, these students' coping skills will be better."

SURVEY

Cass City teachers Cheryl Kilbourn, Nancy Folk and Julie Bitzer, along with 25 students were chosen to take part in the project based on a schoolwide survey in which students identified them as "informal helpers."

The student participants represent all 4 high school grades as well as a good cross section of student groups.

In August, the group underwent an intense, retreat training session at the effectively help young Kettunen Center in Tustin, where the teens learned how to be Natural Helpers and the teachers learned how to train more Natural Helpers. The training stressed the importance of simply being a good listener, just being a friend, according to Kil-

ONE ON ONE — Cass City High School students specially trained in communication skills are lending an ear to their peers in a new program designed to enable them to more effectively help their friends cope with a variety of problems.

"I think it truly made them more sensitive to what's going on," she said. "I think it sensitized all of us to getting beyond labels" placed on people based on their appearance.

Students were urged to not give advice, but rather to help others look at their options and make their own decisions, she added. "They're encouraged to try to stay away from, 'If I were you', which can backfire."

That isn't always easy, commented sophomore Danette Ziehm, one of the students who participated in the training. "You've got to bite your tongue because you've (given advice) so many times before," she explained.

ALTERNATIVES

"What they're trying to do is seek out alternatives. They're acting as a sounding board," Kilbourn said of the

"They're the only ones, I think, that can help friends who are going through the same things. They're encouraged, when they help a friend and make that friend accountable.' "I think it's a lot of responsibility," remarked Ziehm, who pointed out it's essential to make time for those who need a listening ear. Natalie Ramsey, a freshman Natural Helper, agreed. "Sometimes you have to make an extra effort to let them know you're going to be there," she said. Ramsey and Ziehm, who along with the other helpers meet periodically to talk and explore alternatives for students who have a decision to make, emphasized confidentiality is an important issue, one everyone takes very seriously.

An issue treated with equal respect is the student who has a serious problem such as depression, abuse or chemical dependence.

In those cases the youth is referred to trained professional counselors, Cleland said, adding student helpers are taught to recognize their limits and understand they aren't trained counselors.

The students appear to be following that guideline well, but it remains a con-friend, to follow up with that cern, as does the possibility of untrained students passing themselves off as Natural Helpers.

Cleland said such abuses "could kill the program in a hurry," and acknowledged there will have to be some policing of the program.

The counselor would like to see Natural Helpers become a permanent part of Cass City Schools, one that would provide a great deal of benefit without a lot of additional expense.

EXPENSES

The initial training cost some $1,200, which was split by the Student Council and a grant from the Kellogg Foundation. The school's Gifted and Talented Program paid travel expenses.

Cleland said the program will include some additional, informal training such as hosting special speakers, but future expenses will be minimal because the school now has 3 teachers who are qualified to train student helpers.

"Our hope is that by the end of 4 years or 5 years, perhaps Please turn to back page.

The board accepted a bid of $1,311 from Simpson Excavating, Cass City, for a project involving removal of sod and placing gravel behind the fire hall. The parking lot is being expanded to the north and west, Clerk Norma Wallace explained, adding the lot will be repaved probably next year.

The snow removal contract went to B & M Snow Removal, Cass City, which submitted the low bid among 3 companies. Wallace said the township will pay $30 per occurrence under the contract.

much of it was beyond me. Perhaps you read last week where Josephine Ford donated a Van Gogh painting, Portrait of Joseph Roulin, painted in 1888, to the DIA with a value of around $80 million. That's 80 million dollars, not pe-

DIA collection.

But I still left feeling then like I do now. The only possible reasons that pictures like these bring prices like this are because they are investments for the very wealthy or they have great snob appeal. (Maybe both.)

Any of these great pieces of art can be forged so that the most discerning expert needs a microscope to analyze the canvas and the paint to determine age. You can't tell a copy from the original by just looking at it.

If you can't tell the original from the copy, why try? I feel the same way about precious stones.

That's megabucks stuff. What got me started on this was a catalog I received the other day from Buff Gardens, a Harbor Springs concern. The firm sells candlestick holders, ornaments, plates, cups, saucers and other similar stuff.

Let me tell you about one. It's called a "Grand Oval Center Piece 16". What it is is a big dish with a web-like side full of holes making it impossible to hold anything but another dish because it just has to leak.

There are decorations running in bands around it and your choice of 3 decors. One called "Caraibe" looks like a small Buddha hanging upside down, but without a face. "Pompadour" looks like a bunch of grapes and "Provence" like a bunch of onions sitting on a butterfly.

The price for this dish? $550. The only way I could get a thrill out of something like this would be if I owned it and it fell to the floor while it was being washed.

It's not as extravagant as $550 dishes, but sterling silver fits in there somewhere, too. I suppose some families use it on a regular basis, but no one in our family ever has. It's for putting on the dog at the holidays or when company comes.

I always maintained that stainless steel was much better. It doesn't tarnish and takes much less work to keep presentable. And (really important) costs a fraction of what sterling silver does.

I don't need to tell you how far I ever got with that. Maybe I'm lucky that the Buff Gardens catalogue never came to me in years gone by.

Revenge ticketing

By Jim Fitzgerald

A Detroit police officer ticketed 3 parked cars belonging to Free Press employees, apparently because he didn't like the editorial cartoon in Tuesday's Free Press.

According to a Free Press security guard, the cop showed him the offending newspaper page and said, using an obscenity, that he was "mad about this."

The cartoon, by Bill Day, pictured a flashlight and included this satirical dictionary definition: "a large battery-operated portable electric light used by police as a nightstick to knock on African-American heads."

You undoubtedly don't have to be told that Day was caricaturing the tragedy of Malice Green, the motorist allegedly beaten to death with flashlights by 2 or more Detroit cops Nov. 5.
The alleged ticket-revenge was taken Tuesday afternoon in the alley behind the Free Press building in downtown Detroit. That's the alley running between the Free Press and the exclusive Detroit Club and often completely blocked by club members' cars. You may have read about it here a few hundred times.

No less a club member than Mayor Coleman Young has sanctioned the "relaxed enforcement" that allows members' cars to double-park in front of the club for 2 hours or longer, or in the alley, or sometimes even on the sidewalk, all in blatant violation of posted regulations.

Young has said this illegal parking is OK because club valet parkers can move the traffic-blocking cars in case of emergency. Can't you see a fire truck waiting while one valet moved 30 cars? The fire fighters would be forced to take another route, of course, the same as bus drivers have done when double-parked club cars prevented them from turning north off West Fort onto Anyway, this law-enforcement discrimination is embarrassing to the law officers required to enforce it. Ordinary citizens are ticketed for overtime parking at the curb where their cars are trapped by non-ticketed double-parked cars belonging to people wealthy enough to belong to the Detroit Club. I've talked to cops and meter maids who said they hated being two-faced, but had to follow orders.

So it isn't surprising that the law has long looked the other way when a few Free Press workers have acted like privileged club members and illegally parked in the alley. That is, the law looked the other way until Tuesday.

COP'S MEDIA BIAS

That's when Officer Paul Priemer of the mounted police division went into action. According to our security guard, Priemer even checked with an employee of the Detroit Club to make certain the $30 tickets didn't go on members' cars, but only on cars likely belonging to Free Press employees. And when questioned by our security guard - who asked that his name be withheld for fear of police retaliation - Priemer made no bones about the fact that he'd socked it to our employees because of what the Free Press had published concerning the Green killing.

At mounted police headquarters on Wednesday, Sgt. Donald Dwyer said regulations prevented Priemer from talking to me. But Dwyer immediately began investigating the incident, coming to the Free Press to view security videotape of Priemer talking to our guard.

Dwyer pointed out that only one officer was involved in the alleged revenge ticketing but the whole department would look bad if I wrote about it, and the top brass would be displeased. I promised to stress that the ticket writer was a lone horsemen and not a cavalry platoon.

I'll also add that Sgt. Dwyer was extremely polite and accommodating. He said our guard didn't have to worry about retaliation. I didn't even look to see if Dwyer was packing a flashlight.

Your neighbor says

Deer hunting time is shopping time

Linda Baranek, Cass City, hasn't had a close connection with deer hunting in her family for 16 years when her husband was killed in an automobile accident. Now the only close relative that hunts is her brother-in-law, she ex-

Regardless, she can remember how it was when her husband was alive. It was a time for me to go shopping, she said.

Yes, she recalled, a couple of times my husband was successful. I don't know what he did with the meat.

I didn't cook it, she added, I hate venison.

Baranek works at Bay Medical Center in Bay City and has been driving the 40-odd miles to work for 26 years. She started working full time, became a part time employee for awhile and now is full time again.

She has a daughter, Melisa, 16, who was born shortly after her husband was killed in the accident.

You know, she said, everybody I work with is happy that their husbands hunt. Just think, they say, no cooking, no cleaning and plenty of time to myself while he is gone.

Installed were Worthy Matron, Lena Teller; Worthy Patron, Leslie Profit; Associate Matron, Dolly Tracy; Associate Patron, Leo Tracy; secretary, Ruth Whittaker, and treasurer, Thelma Graham.

During the meeting a donation to Toys for Tots was given and helping shut-ins was discussed.

Farm Bureau to offer scholarships

The Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors has approved a new Farm Bureau Scholarship Fund pro-

Under the new program, 2 Michigan Farm Bureau scholarships will be awarded each year: A $1.500 scholarship to a 2year Michigan State University ag student, and a $3,000 scholarship for a 4-year MSU ag student.

Julie Chamberlain, manager of promotion and education for Michigan Farm Bureau, said the scholarships are an indication of Farm Bureau support for the future of the agricultural industry.

"It's extremely important to support students in their agriculture careers," she said. "Both scholarships are specifically dedicated to students who are following an agricultural career and

Farmers get less

The Department of Agriculture says that farmers in 1991 received about 27 cents of every food dollar down from 30 cents in 1990. The farm value varies widely, depending on the product. Farmers got about 56 cents of every dollar of choice beef, but only 20 cents of every dollar spent on margarine.

are enrolled in MSU in an agricultural program. We think these scholarships are the kind of attention and commitment to agriculture that is needed on the part of the state's largest farm organization.'

Recipients will be selected by a committee of 3 MFB Young Farmer Committee members and 3 MFB Promotion and Education Committee members. The first Michigan Farm

Some people say heating your addition or renovation is a real bear. Not when you add Supplemental Resistance Heat.

Why redo your entire home heating system when you remodel or add on? Supplemental Resistance Heat is an affordable, flexible, easy-to-install alternative.

Supplemental Resistance Heat keeps hard-to-heat areas warm and comfortable. In addition, you can control the heat in specific rooms without affecting the temperature of your entire home. It's safe, clean, quiet, economical heating.

BRANCH WESLEYAN

Earlier in the week, on Tuesday, the Bulldogs posted a 59-37 win over North Branch Wesleyan in the home finale.

Again the hosts jumped out to a big first quarter lead. This time, however, it was guard Lori Ondrajka who was the benefactor of several North Branch turnovers as the senior play-maker pumped in 10 of the team's 18 first period total.

Owen-Gage added to its lead in the the 2nd quarter and enjoyed a 28-16 edge at the break. The hosts then went on a 17-6 run during the 3rd period that determined the game's outcome.

Salcido led the winners with 15 points that included a fine showing from the foul line, where she connected on 7 of 8 attempts.

Joining Salcido in double digits were Tkacz and Ondrajka who split 28 points. The losers were paced by Becky Case's 12 points, while teammate Beth Case

MOTHERS OVER THIRTY

The risks of having babies increases as the mother grows older. Not only for the mother, but also for the baby. The best known of these abnormalities is Down's Syndrome. This is an error in the way the chromosomes divide causing the genetic material to be distributed unevenly.

When a woman is 35, the risk of having a Down's Syndrome baby is about 1 in 300. In the late 40's, it increases to 1 in 12. After age 35, a pregnant woman is generally advised to consider an amniocentesis to find out about genetic abnormalities. If a woman discovers she has a baby with a congenital abnormality, she can prepare emotionally for the infant's birth and the changes in the parents' lives or consider a therapeutic abortion if indi-

An amniocentesis is a procedure where the doctor inserts a needle into the fluid sac surrounding the baby and draws off a small amount of fluid. This contains cells from the infant which can be grown and studied. The amniocentesis is normally done around the 14th week of the pregnancy so that there will be time to do the studies and still consider an abortion if the genetic studies show a serious abnormal-

A newer procedure called chorionic villi sampling can be done between 9-11 weeks and give the same information, only sooner.

Besides Down's and other genetic changes that occur more often with increasing age of the mother, other medical problems related to circulation, diabetes and hypertension are also more common in mothers over thirty.

Lakers, Hawks dominate Blue Bay all-star team

Coaches have named the Blue Bay Conference allstar football team, dominated by Lakers and Cass City. Al Prosowski earned the rare distinction of being named to both the offensive and defensive first teams and captain of the defense.

Jason Morgan, Cass City, was the only sophomore named to the first team. Other Hawks named were Scott Wren, center, and John Phillips, kicker. On defense, Prosowski at end,, Greg LeValley, linebacker, and John Gibson, safety, were named. The Lakers had 5 players on the first team,

Whew! Never-say-die Hawks win 2

Cass City takes share of league | Cass City faces Sandusky tonight title with win on Friday

It was the largest crowd ever to see a girls' regular season basketball game in Cass City and the Marlette Red Raiders and the Cass City Red Hawks provided the throng with a tense, wellplayed game Friday.

The Hawks won, 39-31, to gain a share of the Blue Bay Conference title.

It was a game in which the teams' stars were closely checked and role players performers.

Jodi Schember wasn't super as she usually is on shots from the perimeter, but Darcie Monroe was magnificent and Kelli VanVliet was neat, to help the team to the win that enabled Cass City to retain at least a share of the title it won last season.

The Red Raiders top guns, Christel Dudek, Carrie Ross and Nicole Ruggles suddenly became leading were ably defensed by Cass City, but Brigette Stoick played big to keep Marlette in the chase until the closing moments of the game.

It was a game of surges with Marlette protecting a narrow lead that never was greater than 4 points until there was just 3:07 left in the third quarter when Cass City scored to go in front 22-21.

The teams traded baskets until the dying moments of the quarter when Schember came charging up the floor and let loose a shot from just over the center line and it banged off the glass into the net to put the Hawks in front 27-23 after 3 quarters.

The Raiders never got in front after that, but they challenged the Hawks almost to the final whistle. It was a veteran Cass City money player, Jenny "Thunder" Storm who, with the help of VanVliet's first 3point basket of the year, thwarted the Marlette rally.

Storm hit a pair of baskets, one to preserve the Cass City's lead after Marlette had closed to within 2 points with 4 minutes left to play. Then VanVliet hit her 3-pointer and Storm put the game away with a 3-point basket that stretched the lead to 8 points. In the opening quarter, the defense was a reverse of previous games. Cass City used a full-court press and Marlette, which used the press all season, abandoned it until the final quarter when the Hawks were protecting a lead.

The girls were noticeably tight and it showed on free throws with Marlette making just 3 of 13 and Cass City

Cass City lost Jodi LaRoche and Monroe by fouls, but Heather Kelly and Barb Kelley came off the bench to keep the defense and offense running smoothly.

Monroe with 12 points and Storm with 11 paced Cass City while Stoick led all scorers with 13 points.

REESE GAME

Cass City remained undefeated in non-conference games this season with an easy 64-26 decision over the Reese Rockets Tuesday, Nov. 10. The Hawks removed all suspense from the game by outscoring their hosts, 16-1 in the opening minutes of the game.

Coach Marty Daniel said that he felt the team handled the Reese press effectively with Cass City press offense.

The Rockets made their only spurt of the game in the second period. Trailing 19-5 at the end of the first period, Reese closed within 6 points, 21-15, before Cass City took control again with and 8-2 scoring spurt and a 29-15 lead at the intermis-

A big third quarter for Cass City, paced by Schember with 7 points and VanVliet, Monroe and Storm with 4 points each, turned the game into a rout.

The Hawks had 3 players in double figures. Storm with 17 points, LaRoche with 13 and Schember with after one-point Marlette win

Like 2 heavyweight prize fighters, Cass City and Marlette battled each other to the bitter end Monday in the opening game of the district tournament at Reesc.

Coach Marty Daniel's cagers will now advance to tonight's (Wednesday) semi-final game with Sandusky. Tip-off is slated for 6:00 p.m., while Friday's championship game airs at

The Thumb C League's best Redskins enter the tourney with a 18-2 record, with their only losses coming against Marlette and Ubly. The game is rated a tossup and should produce, barring a substantial upset, the district champ.

'Were going to have trouble with their height," said Daniel Monday night. Than added "We were fortunate to win tonight."

After splitting their 4 Blue Bay League contests, Cass City has now beaten the Red Raiders in their last 3 meet-

Cass City trailed most of the night and all of the first 3 quarters. Marlette established its biggest lead of the night on Carrie Ross' long jumper with only 2 minutes remaining in the 3rd period that gave the co-league champions a 29-23 edge.

However, the Hawks drew within a basket behind the efforts of Jodi LaRoche who scored the game's next 4 points and tallied all 11 of the Hawks points in the stanza. LaRoche led the winners with 13 tallies on the evening despite sitting out much of the first half with foul trouble.

"Jodi came up with some big baskets on offensive rebounds." Both schools came out of the locker room tense and tentative, evident by the low first period score that ended with Marlette in front 6-5. Marlette also possessed the single point lead at the intermission with a score of 17-39 edge.

Trailing 36-31 in the final stanza, Storm hit the Red Raiders with a fury of punches.

A patented Storm jumper, followed by a Jodi Schember driving basket down the lane and 2 Storm free throws, gave Cass City its first lead of the game at 37-

Another Storm jumper extended the winners advantage to 39-36. But 2 baskets each from Marlette's Christel Dudek and Ross erased the short-lived lead and helped the Raiders to a 43-

After a Kelli VanVliet triple - banked off the glass from a 45 degree angle -Marlette opted to run the clock out for the game's final minute when Dudek broke loose and gave her team a 3-point cushion with only 45 seconds remaining.

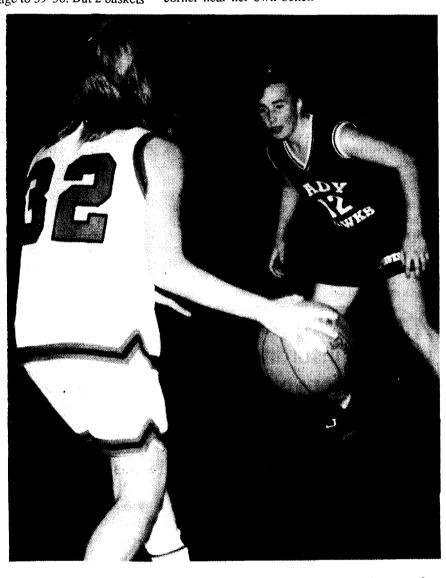

Although that basket seem unsurmountable, Storm, a career clutch performer, tied the game from deep in the corner near her own bench and behind the 3-point arc.

Moments later Darcie Monroe came up with a loose ball and passed to a streaking Storm who was fouled and went to the charity stripe and calmly sank both ends of a 1 and 1 to preserve the violory.

Storm who went scoreless until the final period finished the game with 11 points. Monroe added 7 for the winners.

Marlette was led by lightning quick Lisa Campbell who registered 13 points in vain. The losers also got an even dozen from Ross.

TWO OUTSTANDING FRESHMEN locked horns in the Marlette-Cass City title tilt Friday. Handling the ball is Nicole Ruggles of Marlette, pressed by Kelli VanVliet of Cass City.

Letters to the editor

Cass City walking trail ing a motor vehicle while project a disappointment uor, third offense, July 9 in He was ordered to serve 3

Each time we return to Cass City for a visit we try to include a drive along the River Road, south of Cemetery Road to enjoy the view and recall childhood memories. We journeyed there again this October. We were anxious to see the new structure my sister kept me informed about. You can't imagine my disappointment in the project. The south approach all torn away leaving a very ugly iron frame exposed. While the gazebo is nice, I think it would have been nicer north of it a little, along the trail to one side, that would look nice. I know the beams were unsafe but no more than the south end is now. I stepped onto the open cement slab and realized the danger. After 2 inquiries we were directed to the new structure via a dirt road leading to it beside the 76 Station and behind an elevator. We parked the car trail to the structure. It is well made and of good material but seems so out of place to just stop there, with the remainder so awkward and in part.

Can't you imagine the effect of a slightly arched bridge effect instead and all the way across with no roof and the gazebo off to the side beyond the end of the bridge a little way? And with an improved trail with occasional benches and nice parking and entrance it should enhance the image of Cass City. Both ends and full width of river, not a partly done job!

I have been wanting to write regarding this since I first saw the exposed, imposing iron structure on Memorial weekend when we were up that way. It has frustrated me ever since. I feel like a favorite treasure of mine has been smashed.

Thank you for letting me "Scouting For Food" A vehicle driven by Glen a tremendous success and took the stroll along that use you as a sounding board, but I was motivated to write this after receiving this clipping from my sister today. She has sent me other clippings from your paper. The "rabbit tracks" items suggests they are looking for ideas so this is my viewpoint.

The "gazebo" could even stay where it is if it opened onto a completed bridge so as to enter from the River Road attractively and safely, too, or restored to its former approach, etc. and perhaps add a safe railing, 3 ft. high about.

I don't intend to be offending. Again - this is just my viewpoint.

From the files of the Chronicle

5 YEARS AGO

When the farm pond lowered at the home of Kenneth Kern, at the corner of Pringle and Lampton Roads, a motorcycle was found resting in the mud. It took a pair of pickup trucks to get it out of the pond. It was speculated that someone had deliberately run it into the water.

Kelly J. Deering, daughter of Roger and Jean Deering of Cass City, recently completed training as a U.S. Army military police specialist under the One Station Unit Training program at Fort McClellan, Ala.

More than 42 years ago William "Hazen" Guinther served as a marine when U.S. forces invaded Iwo Jima. And more than 42 years later, Nov. 2, he received, in the mail, the medals he earned for his 4year duty. Aside from the Purple Heart, Guinther received 6 other medals.

The Michigan Court of Appeals has affirmed Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn in the case of People vs. Ralph Hastings.

The defendant had been charged with one count of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree and one count of second degree.

Hastings had also been charged on 6 other charges of second degree criminal sexual conduct in a companion case. All of the victims were children of the woman with whom the defendant resided.

The defendant conditionally pleaded nolo contendre to 2 counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct but preserved the right to appeal Joslyn's ruling that similar acts evidence would be admissible at trial to prove absence of mistake or accident. Hastings had suggested that his behavior was unintended or innocent.

The appeals court affirmed Joslyn's ruling, saying he properly considered the factors and weighed the value of the evidence against the risk of unfair prejudice to the defendant, and concluded Joslyn did not abuse his discretion in determining that the sibling's testimony was admissible.

In effect, Joslyn ruled chil- FOR SALE - 1984 Crown dren other than the victim could testify as to criminal acts committed by the defendant of a sexual nature on them and that the jury could also consider that evidence FOR SALE - 1985 4 dr. to negate the claim of mis-

He added the controversy surrounding the high pay and lavish lifestyle of the former head of the United Way of America, who resigned last spring, has had an impact as well.

That was the fear when reports published in late February described the salary, benefits and perks of then-United Way of America president William Aramony, who reportedly earned $463,000 a year and enjoyed generous benefits

"There is some animosity towards the United Way even though 99 percent of the money we collect here stays right here in this area," McIntosh said. "We felt that a little bit this year, (but) I definitely expected that and it doesn't surprise me."

Mutual Savings reports earnings

Mutual Savings Bank an- Mutual originated $238.6 nounced earnings of $0.77 per share for the quarter ending Sept. 30, according to Wendell L. Evans Jr., chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Evans said, "We are very pleased to announce these favorable earnings because they represent our first quarter as a public company, and year ago. they exceed the projections of the bank's offering circu-

The company reported net income of $1.120 million for the third quarter, as compared to $1.305 million for the same quarter one year earlier. Net income for the first 9 months amounted to $2.366 million. During the same period one year ago, net income amounted to $3.595 million.

Earnings for the prior year were greater because the bank realized substantial gains on the sale of securities, according to Evans. He added, "The 1991 sale of the securities was part of new management philosophy directed toward increasing the bank's profitability through an aggressive, wellmanaged mortgage lending operation.'

Year to date, the bank increased its mortgage lending volume 371%. During the first 9 months of 1992,

The Cass City program is still in the process of being defined by the students taking part, but Cleland indicated the signs are good so far. "I think there's a great deal of potential with it. I think it's going to be very successful, but it will be difficult to measure.'

Kilbourn, who noted it's hoped the concept will eventually be introduced in the middle school, also is optimistic.

"I look for a better atmosphere in school where kids can deal with relationships," she commented. "I really feel if we keep the program going and we're faithful to it, it will make a difference in our school.'

"It shows the students can make a difference," Ziehm concluded.

"I think it brings the students closer together. They have someone to go to, someone that understands what they're going through," she added. "It really makes you feel good when something works out good for somebody.'

Evans pointed out, "The bank is insulating itself from interest rate change risk which has plagued the industry since the early 1980s. This is accomplished by matching interest rate income and changes produced by loans and investments with the cost and repricing of deposits. This helps the bank to maintain a constant profitable interest rate spread and is being achieved by retaining adjustable rate and short term mortgages and by selling all long term

Retired group planning party

The Cass City Retired Persons met Nov. 12 in the Hills and Dales meeting room with 17 members attending.

President Edna Simcox opened the meeting by the group saying the pledge to the flag and singing a song. A short business meeting was held and plans for the Christmas party at the December meeting were discussed. Each member is to bring a $3 gift to exchange. Poems about Thanksgiving were read by Yvonne Burleson, Deloris Fleming and read a prayer given to her by Mable McComb that George Washington read to the governors of the states back in 1783.

A poem was read by Mable McComb called, "We Are the Survivors." Marion McClorey read a letter written by a soldier to his parents in July 1944, and he was killed July 25 of the same month.

Pam Forbes, from Huron County Health Department, gave a talk to the group about the importance of breast and cervical cancer screening.
