Storm cuts wide swath through area

The Cass City DPW crew continued clean-up efforts this week following a brief but violent storm that ripped through the Thumb late Friday afternoon, downing large tree limbs and cutting power.

Village crews had their work cut out for them after the wind and rain subsided, Village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie acknowledged Monday.

"They were out Friday night until about 7, and then it will be probably all day today and part of tomorrow," he said.

Curiously, the southeast quarter of the village took the brunt of the storm, with few problems reported north of Main Street and west of Seeger Street. There were no reports of injuries or major property damage.

Detroit Edison officials reported 4,000 to 5,000 Thumb customers, including 36 in the village of Cass City, lost power due to the storm.

"Most of our outages were in the Bad Axe, Port Hope and Lexington areas," said Mary Kay Bean, an Edison media representative. She noted the Cass City outage, due to wind and lightning, was reported at 6:44 p.m. Power was restored at 12:14 a.m. Saturday.

In all, Bean said 73,000 Edison customers lost power from the tip of the Thumb down to Monroe County.

"We restored all customers within a day, but most customers were restored in 12 hours," she said, adding, "We had anticipated the storm's approach, so we kept crews over."

8 action-packed days

Tuscola Fair opens Sunday

You won't find booze, glitzy shows or high tech amusements at the Tuscola County Fair.

What you will find are midway rides, plenty of 4-H and livestock exhibits and shows, music, food, harness racing, a demolition derby and much more for the whole family. In short, a good old-fashioned country fair.

It's a tradition Jim Fitzgerald plans to continue.

"We don't have a beer tent. We don't have a girly show," Fitzgerald, fair president, recently commented.

There can be a lot of pressure to set up a beer tent because of the belief that a lot of money can be made, he said. But with soaring liability costs and the need for extra security, "it's just not worth it."

"We'll keep our old time image and let the chips fall where they may."

That image apparently is a popular one. Last year's fair, which was expanded to 8 days, drew more than 35,000 people.

Fitzgerald believes the switch 3 years ago to a pay-one-price plan — $5 per person per day covers unlimited rides, gate admission, grandstand events and parking — is paying off.

"It was costing the average family $45 a day" to attend the fair, he pointed out. "Now, they can take that same group in for $20 and ride all the rides."

"We've increased our crowd every year since we started this," he said, adding at first, people weren't sure about the idea. "The second year they really came back, and last year at the end, we had a whole slug of people from Huron County."

112TH FAIR

The 112th annual fair, set to get underway Sunday at the fairgrounds in Caro, again promises a full 8 days of activities, starting with 4-H dog and talent shows Sunday at 1 and 7 p.m., respectively. The crowning of the new Bean Queen will be held at 6:30 p.m.

4-H horse and rabbit shows will begin Monday's slate of events, followed by the first of 4 consecutive days of harness racing (all races begin at 1:30 p.m.). An area

"lipsync" act will perform at 7:45 p.m., with the popular Upper Peninsula music and comedy troupe, Da Yoopers, set to entertain at 8 p.m.

Tuesday is Kids Day, with everyone under 14 years of age getting in for $4 until 5

A BRIEF BUT fierce storm ripped through the Thumb Friday afternoon. Heavy winds that downed tree limbs in Cass City also took a toll on the roof of the former auto dealership east of town, spewing debris beyond Schwegler Road.

Board fights closing of Evergreen Park

Evergreen Township officials were scheduled to meet Tuesday with the Sanilac County Parks Commission's Finance Committee in an effort to keep Evergreen Township Park open.

The 30-acre park was ordered immediately closed due to budget woes on a motion approved by the parks board July 6.

However, the township acted quickly, and along with County Commissioner John Merriman convinced officials last week to delay the closing pending further discussion.

"My request to the parks board was, let's talk about it and see if there are some alternatives before it's closed," Merriman, whose district includes Evergreen Township, said Monday. "That's no guarantee one way or the other."

Last week's decision surprised township officials. They learned about it Wednesday from Emerson and Maxine Kennedy, who take care of mowing the park. The Kennedys reported they had been contacted by the county parks supervisor and told the facility was to be closed and any useful equipment removed.

Parks board Chairman Myrtle Rhead confirmed the action. The parks commission is facing a budget shortfall, she said, and county commissioners have indicated they won't pick up any deficit.

Rhead had no specific estimate regarding the size of the deficit facing this year's $121,300 parks budget, but commented, "It's big."

Sidewalk Sales

Bargains, activities galore ready for area shoppers

The biggest sale event of the summer starts this week when Cass City hosts its annual Sidewalk Sales Days.

The 4-day gala commences on Wednesday and ends Saturday. Stores will remain open till 5:30 each night except Friday, when bargain conscious shoppers will have until 8:00 p.m. to buy at prices up to one-half off and more.

The event, sponsored by the Cass City Retail Committee, will include more than 20 specialty arts and crafts vendors. Among them will be experts in wood working and basket weaving.

Quilt making and quilt displays by the Elmwood quilters will be at the downtown Cultural Center and the group will hold a raffle.

Free swimming at the Cass City pool has been arranged with the village for Thursday during the afternoon session that runs from 1-5 p.m.

Several food vendors will line the streets, including the Cass City scouts, who will be selling hot dogs in the Chemical Bank parking lot.

For those with a sweet tooth, homemade pies and cakes will be available, as will cotton candy on all 4 days.

Cass City Rawson Memorial Library will hold a book sale.

motion included a stipulation that would allow the Evergreen park to remain open if the township is willing to cover the expenses.

At the same meeting, the 10-member board moved to give up meeting per diems for July through December, she said.

Evergreen Township is one of 4 county parks managed by the commission. The other 3 are located in Delaware, Forester and Lexington townships, all on the far east side of the county along M-25.

The parks budget is composed primarily of user fees generated at the Forester park, which has a couple of pavilions and 145 camp sites, and a $20,000 appropriation from the county board, according to Rhead.

She estimated it costs $2,100 to $2,200 to fund the Evergreen site. The park generates no revenue, she said, adding, however, the township did contribute $500 recently for gravel.

The Lexington park also provides very little in the way of revenue and costs about $7,000 to maintain annually. Rhead said the Delaware facility brings in a few hundred dollars a year in camping fees.

She noted the first motion considered by the parks board last week would have closed both the Evergreen and Lexington parks, but board members were told they couldn't close Lexington due to contracts between the park and the county.

That left the Evergreen park, but township officials, who have no representation on the park's board, aren't taking the proposal lying down.

FIGHTING

"We're kind of fighting to keep it open," said township Clerk Arthur Severance.

Evergreen, the only park along M-53 from Detroit to Port Austin, offers primitive camping and is used by 4-H groups and for family reunions. Located about 4 miles south of the M-81 intersection, the park land was donated by John and Ellen McCormick of Cass City in 1961.

Since then, a number of local people have put a lot of work into developing the facility, Severance said.

As for last week's decision by the parks board, he commented, "I think there's a little leverage going on. I think they want us to pay for it."

This isn't the first time that proposal has surfaced, according to the Shabbona area resident, who said the township has resisted making contributions to the county because there would be no assurances the money would be used in Evergreen Township.

"We feel we should get some of that ($20,000 contribution from the county) because we're taxpayers," he added. "Why should our township put money into this park when the other townships don't put money in the other parks?"

"They think they need $850 to keep it open until Labor Day," Severance said. "We're not going to pay that much. We'll probably pay a share of it...to keep it open at least till Labor Day."

Township Supervisor Audrey Leslie indicated the township would prefer to own and operate the park if the township is going to have

Seek $4,000 in Elgene Foster Sunday benefit

A famous song says, "I get by with a little help from my friends." Now a local woman and her family are asking for a little help themselves.

This Sunday there will be a benefit for Elgene Foster, Cass City, at the Argyle United Methodist Church. The benefit will consist of a brunch from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., as well as a bazaar and bake sale.

Foster, who was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis 10 years ago, is in need of a special lift for the family van. It wouldn't be much of a problem, but such aids don't come cheap, said Diane Ramsey, Foster's afternoon nurse out of Allen Health Care.

Ramsey, who came up with the benefit idea, estimates the lift and necessary van modifications will cost anywhere from $3,000 to $4,000. She said it is an essential item and is hoping for the best from this benefit.

"I know this isn't going to raise all the money, but if people want to make donations, we'll take them too," she said.

Foster is hoping the benefit will be a huge success as well. She said she would like to get a lift as soon as possible.

Tickets for the benefit are still available. The cost for adults is $5, kids ages 5 to 12 can get in for $2.50 and there is no charge for kids under 5.

Anyone interested in purchasing tickets for the benefit or making a donation can contact Diane Ramsey at 872-4594.

ELGENE FOSTER AND her day nurse, Connie Soule, are hoping this Sunday's benefit will be a success. The benefit will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Argyle United Methodist Church.

Wishes the best for baby Jessica

When something happens these days, it seems just a matter of hours before it's in the newspaper or on the television. However, sometimes it can all be a little overwhelming.

The struggle between biological and adoptive parents for custody of baby Jessica has been well publicized throughout the lengthy court battle. Frankly, Rita Edwartowski is sick and tired of the whole thing.

"I wish it would get settled and be settled on baby Jessica's behalf," she said. "Whatever way it goes, I hope they make the transition for baby Jessica as easy as possible because she's the important person."

While some people tired of hearing or reading about the baby Jessica case in the news might ignore it altogether, Edwartowski doesn't.

"I read it because I'm interested in what's happening, but I get very agitated and disgusted because it's like just get it straight," she remarked.

Edwartowski said the baby Jessica saga is the only issue she can think of that she is really tired of hearing about. However, she would like to see stories the media give coverage to have more of an impact when it comes to getting problems around us solved.

The Johannesburg resident is currently in Cass City giving her mother, Anna Klakulak, a helping hand. She and her husband are busy retirees and she is the mother of 4 and grandmother of 7 as well.

Burnette earns degree from GMI

David Burnette was among nearly 477 graduates of GMI Engineering and Management Institute honored during commencement ceremonies June 18.

David, son of David and Thresa Burnette of Cass City earned a bachelor of science degree in management systems.

GMI Engineering and Management Institute, with a student enrollment of 3,200, is the nation's only accredited college of engineering and management operating on a five-year cooperative plan of education.

As a cooperative education student, Burnette was sponsored by Walbro Automotive Corporation, Auburn Hills.

Flightless wasp

Department of Agriculture scientists are studying a naturally flightless wasp that attacks a budworm moth that causes billions of dollars of damage each year to over 100 farm crops. The flightless characteristic, if transferred to other natural enemies of crop pests, could keep beneficial insects in areas where they are placed.

Pork exports

U.S. pork exports rose 35 percent in 1992, reaching a total value of $451.2 million. Despite this record performance, the United States remained a net importer of pork.

47th Jackson/Wald reunion held July 11

Eighteen members of the Jackson/Wald families met for the 47th time Sunday, July 11, for their annual potluck dinner at the Gagetown Community Park.

The business meeting was conducted by Pat Holland in the absence of the president. Minutes of last year's reunion were read and a collection was taken to defray current expenses.

The oldest member attending was Mary Wald, 97, and the youngest was Cathy Martinez, granddaughter of Thelma Bogart.

Prizes were won by Corinne Martinez and Olin Zellar.

The poem, "Remembering," by Rossetti was read by Wilma Finkbeiner in memory of Tom Jackson, a cousin who died in June 1993.

The group decided not to plan on a get-together in 1994.

Members attended from Gagetown, Sebawaing, Cass City, Caro, Clarkston, Freeland, St. Charles and Milan.

14 attend retired persons meeting

Fourteen members of the Cass City Retired Persons held their July 8 meeting at the Hills and Dales Hospital meeting room.

Edna Simcox, president, called the meeting to order with the pledge to the flag and singing, "My Country 'Tis of Thee." A short business meeting was held. Yvonne Burleson reported on the outing the group took last month. The group voted to have the same officers next year.

Cards were signed for members that have been sick and also members who are not able to attend the meetings anymore.

After lunch, a quiz game was played, filling in blanks with names of berries that went along with well-known phrases. Martha Durham was the winner. Dorothy Smith and Vivian Mosher were the winners of the bingo games.

Each member will be contacted in regard to plans for the August meeting.

"If It Fitz...."

I hate backs

By Jim Fitzgerald

The doctor kept muttering, over and over, "I hate backs....I hate backs....I hate backs...."

Because his hands and tools were touching my back, I felt obliged to respond, even though by face was buried in a pillow and I really didn't feel like having a conversation.

"I'm sorry," I said, "next time I'll have my malignant tumor on my stomach."

"I don't like stomachs, either," he said.

"Where do you like malignant tumors?" I asked, always eager to be helpful.

"I like faces," he said.

I like a doctor with a sense of humor, however macabre. I was delighted to know that surgery on my face would be easier for a doctor to perform than surgery on my back or stomach. To keep from laughing out loud and perhaps soiling the hospital's pillow, I thought of Paul Muni. If I were younger, I would have thought of Al Pacino.

CHOOSING A BOOK OVER A WIFE

It was a really fun time, and spouses were invited, but I didn't bring mine. Everyone else did, wouldn't you know.

Somehow it didn't seem appropriate that my surgery last week should evolve into a domestic dispute concerning communications between my wife and me, but what can I tell you. At least on our honeymoon I didn't take her to the library.

To help you understand today's domestic crisis, we must go back a few weeks to when the nurse said I might be in the hospital a long time and I should bring my wife with me. I balked. I said I'd rather bring a book.

To be journalistically circumspect, I probably should mention that by "a long time," the nurse meant maybe 4 to 6 hours. My surgery, which a foolhardy man might call "my procedure," was performed in the dermatology department. My malignant tumor was of epithelial origin, which certainly sounds alarmingly serious to me, even though barely skin deep.

I'd had the same surgery 8 years earlier, so I knew what was involved: A lot of sitting around and waiting between removing hunks of my back. The hunks are sent to the laboratory where it is determined whether the first hunk includes all the malignancy, or should the surgeon chop out a second hunk, perhaps a third, and so on, until the waste basket below my chin is overflowing with red swabs — red with my blood — and I think I may sob.

So why should my wife tag along to that bloody party?

"So you'll have someone to talk to in the waiting room while waiting for the lab work to be done," the nurse explained.

No way. Waiting rooms are for reading paperback novels you never have time to read at home. The nurse said OK, just as long as I supplied my wife's phone number, in case something happened to me during surgery. After all, my wife would certainly want to be quickly summoned to the hospital to get the novel if she hadn't already read it.

DON'T BE SMART WITH YOUR NURSE

When I explained to my wife why I was bravely going to the hospital solo, she said she understood. "The only time you talk to me is when you say you didn't hear what I said because you were reading," she said.

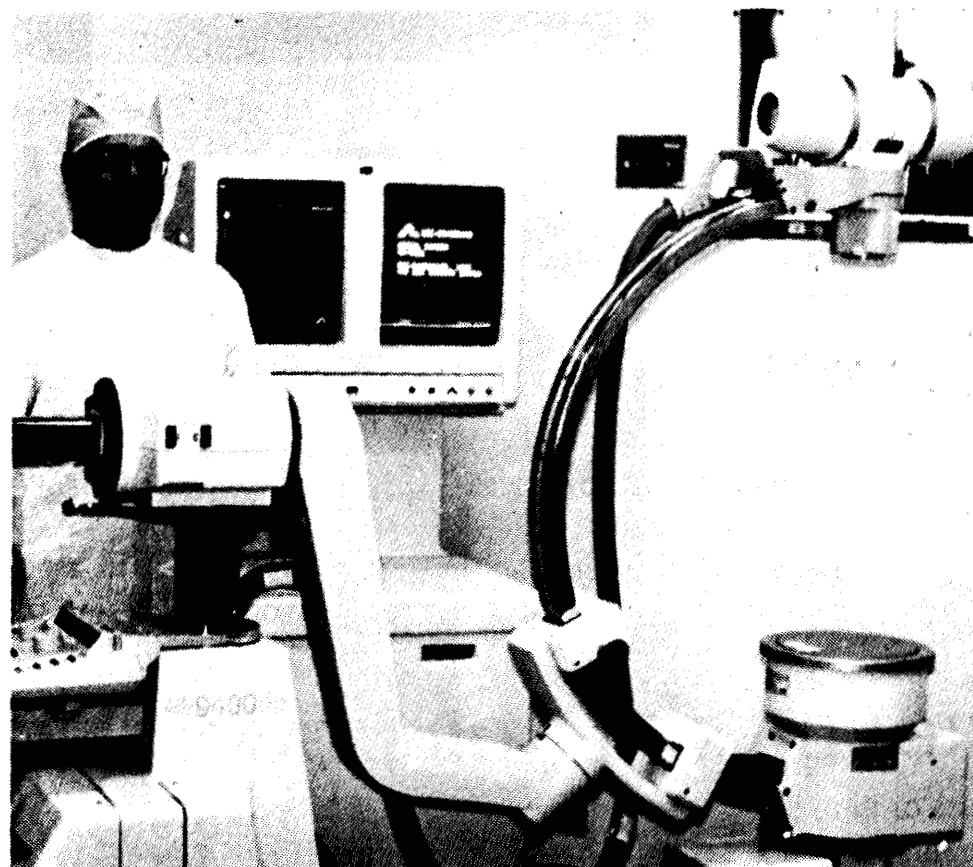

To refute that charge, I was full of talk when I staggered back into my home after 6 hours of chunking and waiting. I said I'd felt ironically leprous because I'd been the only all-alone, friendless person in the waiting room. The 3 other out-patients waiting for lab results were accompanied by spouses.

"I told those happy couples that I begged my wife to come with me, but she insisted on staying home in case the phone needed answering," I said. "They said I should please stop interrupting their intimate conversations."

I thought that was a funny story to bring home from the hospital with me. I quit laughing when I was painfully reminded that the bandage on my 25-stitch wound has to be changed twice a day and there is no way I can reach it to make sure the tape is removed slowly and gently, rather than ripped off cruelly, recklessly, vengefully, by a spouse. I hate backs.

At Hills and Dales

Dr. Pankratz joins staff

Officials at Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City, recently announced Douglas Pankratz, M.D., is now an active medical staff member after serving for more than 4 years as a consulting physician.

Dr. Pankratz has practiced orthopedic surgery for 13 years, and specializes in adult reconstructive surgery and arthroscopy.

He graduated from the Ohio State University Medical School, is board certified by the American Board of Orthopedic Surgery and is also a member of the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons. His office is located at 1080 S. Van Dyke Rd., Bad Axe.

Dr. Pankratz currently is scheduling one surgery a week at Hills and Dales, but plans to expand his services as the demand develops. He is also available for emergency room evaluation.

The new staff member is utilizing the Hills and Dales surgical team, operating room and equipment. "The staff at Hills and Dales has been very supportive and helpful," he said. "I have nothing but praise for all of them."

Dr. Pankratz will have state-of-the-art tools at his disposal with the Cass City hospital's recent purchase of a C-ARM, a piece of specialized surgical radiologic equipment used in the repair of fractures.

According to Tina Zahm, community relations spokeswoman for the hospital, the new equipment utilizes a monitor that provides the surgical team with a live, continuous x-ray picture. It allows the surgeon to watch the progress of a fracture repair during the procedure, she added.

The hospital also recently purchased some new arthroscopic equipment used to examine the interior of joints, Zahm said.

Hospital officials declined to say how much the new equipment cost.

Rabbit Tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Irrepressible Dick Erla reported this to friends and cronies recently. Dick was visiting the doctor, who told him that he had good news and bad news concerning his eye.

The good news is that you won't need an operation. The bad news is that you will lose sight in the eye, the doctor told him.

Do you figure that this development will move my buddies to give me a couple more strokes on the golf course, he asked?

The doctor looked at him a moment and then answered, you are even sicker than I thought.

I live in awe of the guys that figure out those complicated problems involving numbers. I read of another last week in the Oxford Leader and figured to use it around the coffee table.

The trouble is that I got the numbers out of sequence and it didn't work. But if done correctly, it comes out every time.

This is it: Take your age and double it. Add 5 and multiply by 50. Subtract 365. Now add the change in your pocket (must be less than $1). Add 115. The first 2 numbers in the answer will be your age, the last 2, the amount of change in your pocket.

Neighbors and friends of the $110 million lottery winner are high in praise of the teacher-coach. They say that the giant jackpot he won won't change him.

It would be interesting to check back a year from now to see if they are right. I'd bet a cookie that there will be substantial changes in his lifestyle and his life.

The Haire Net

The common complaint about the boys in Washington, D.C., is that they pass too many laws and are paid too much to do it.

But it struck me after reading about the action of the Cass City Village Council at its last meeting that we could use another law.

The council started proceedings to secure a tax abatement for Orbital Fluid Technologies, Inc. Walbro Corporation and General Cable already have this tax break.

Now, no one in his right mind would question giving these companies the tax break. All 3 are among the largest taxpayers in the village. Management would be remiss if it failed to secure the windfall.

And the employment offered by these plants is what keeps Cass City from joining other small towns which have withered away.

As long as the system is the way it is, there is no choice. We have to do it and the small taxpayer will bear the burden.

We compete with every other town and every other state in the search for additional jobs and prosperity.

That's why we need a national law prohibiting special tax incentives that in effect pit one state and one community against another at taxpayer expense.

As long as national law is the subject, here's another that the Washington corps could pass with my blessing.

It would restrict the amount one person can win in the lottery. It's great that someone strikes the pot at the end of the rainbow. But the amount the recent winner of the lottery in the east received, well over $100 million, is not great, it's almost obscene.

For the ordinary person or even for those worth a million dollars or so, $100 million is more than can be visualized, let alone spent.

Why not, when the pot reaches over $10 million or so, divide it so the winner gets $5 million and the remainder is distributed among the runners-up?

You could give 100 prizes of a million dollars and provide lifetime security for all but the most reckless spenders if that were the way the big pot was handled.

Realistically, the chances of either of these reforms being enacted are a little less than winning the lottery.

After all, in the lottery, eventually there will be at least one winner.

Ubly Homecoming July 16-18

Horse and car shows, a tractor pull, volleyball games, chicken barbecue, FFA Kicker 3-on-3 basketball, a village wide garage sale and a grand parade will be included in 3 fun-filled days in Ubly.

Final plans are now being made for the annual Ubly Homecoming slated for July 16, 17 and 18. Event chairmen Bruce Brown and Marshal Osentoski have polished past events and added several new ones.

Friday begins the homecoming with live music and an evening tractor pull competition. Food and beverages will be available in the park area after 6 p.m.

Saturday heats up for kids and their parents with a kiddies' parade and games all afternoon. A special presentation in the park at 1 p.m. is being sponsored by Sleeper Public Library.

Kiddie tractor pulls, games, and a pony pull are all part of the afternoon fun. The kids will also be able to register for a drawing for 2 free bikes.

Saturday evening will feature the friendly Ubly Beer Tent with music, dancing and socializing as the main order of events. Friends can have friends arrested in the Jail and Bail jailhouse in the tent.

Ox roast sandwiches will be available from 4:30 to 7 p.m. The day will also feature 3-on-3 basketball and volleyball tournaments.

Sunday events are planned with families in mind. The day begins early with church services, Horse Shows and the conclusion of the 3-on-3 basketball and volleyball tournaments.

The Grand Parade theme is "Favorite Movies or Cartoons" and begins at 12:30 p.m. Afterwards, parade-goers can browse among the antique cars that will be shown in the park or enjoy a FFA chicken dinner. A horse show begins early in the morning and continues all day.

Rounding out the major events Sunday are a second big day of tractor pulling at 1:30 p.m., 2-cylinder tractor club's tractor display, polka music at 4 p.m., and an all-day volleyball tournament.

Additional information is available by calling Osentoski at (517) 658-2262.

In circuit court

Pair enter guilty pleas

A pair of Vassar residents entered guilty pleas to sena-rate charges Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Jason E. Andrews, 19, larceny from a motor vehicle, conspiracy to commit larceny from a motor vehicle, and attempted larceny from a motor vehicle.

2 recently charged in district court

The following people were recently arraigned on felony charges in Tuscola County

District Court:

•Anthony J. Rocha, 30, Caro, is charged with malicious destruction of personal property (car) valued at more than $100 July 7 in Caro.

Bond in the case has been set at $4,000. A preliminary exam is scheduled for 9 a.m. Friday, according to court records.

•Marvin E. Milliken, 33, Vassar, faces one count of manufacture of marijuana May 28 in Vassar.

His bond also was set at $4,000. A preliminary exam will be held Friday morning.

The counts charge that Andrews broke into a storage building at 1675 Hunt Rd., Mayville, March 21; stole a radio from a vehicle March 3 in Mayville; conspired with 2 others to steal an equalizer, amplifier and radio from 2 vehicles March 29 in Mayville, and attempted to steal an amplifier from a vehicle Nov. 25, also in Mayville.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered in the case and bond was continued. Sentencing is to be scheduled, according to court records.

Also Monday, Thomas J. Cragher, 33, Vassar, pleaded guilty to attempted larceny in a building Nov. 4 in Vassar.

The court continued bond at $10,000 and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Sentencing is to be set.

Farm Bureau mulls budget package

The budget reconciliation package approved by the U.S. Senate is more balanced than the package approved by the House, but Farm Bureau still opposes tax increases as substitutes for spending control, according to Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Both plans would cut agricultural spending by around $3 billion over the next 5 years.

Laurie said agricultural programs have already been cut significantly during the past 8 years. "On average, farm program spending has been cut 9 percent per year for the past 8 years," he said. "Had all federal entitlement spending been reduced by the same percentage, there would not be a budget crisis today."

The budget package extends the 25 percent deduction for health insurance premiums paid by the self-employed from July 1, 1992, when it expired, to Dec. 31, 1993.

With attention now focused on the conference committee, Farm Bureau will urge conferees to kill attempts to resurrect the BTU tax and other provisions that unfairly impact agriculture, said Laurie.

Pesticide residue low

A commodity testing program in 1992 showed that 100 percent of Michigan fruit and vegetable samples had either no or very low detectable pesticide residue levels. Samples are being gathered as part of the 1993 testing effort.

O-G board reorganizes

An annual reorganization session dominated the Owen-Gage Board of Education's monthly meeting Monday night. Election of officers was the first order of business. Veteran board trustees Jack Brinkman and Ron Good were named to the posts of president and vice-president, respectively, while Walt Swiastyn was re-elected treasurer and Mary Ann Abbe was elected secretary.

Bill Kretschmer was the unanimous choice for vice-treasurer, and new board member Terry Muntz was elected vice-secretary.

Other positions filled Monday were liaison officer — Rick Ziehm; representative to the Huron Intermediate School District Board — Swiastyn, and St. Clair Community College board representative — Good.

In other business, the board voted in favor of continuing with the same depositories: First of America Bank, First National Bank and Michigan School District Liquid Fund Asset Plus.

Board members' pay will remain the same at $20 per regular meeting for trustees, $22.50 for the secretary, $25 for the treasurer, and $25 per day for extra meetings and committee meetings.

Also unchanged are regular meeting dates. The board will continue to meet on the second Monday of each month beginning at 7:30 p.m., and the meeting sites will alternate between Owendale and Gagetown, with all special meetings held in Owendale.

During the regular session Monday, the board met in executive session for 80 minutes to discuss teacher contract negotiations.

The board also discussed painting the elementary gymnasium, heard an update on roof work at the high school and elementary buildings, and learned the district will have to pay back $3,262 in delinquent taxes on 3 parcels of land which have been deeded back to the state due to unpaid taxes from 1984-1991.

reside in Eagle River, Alaska.

Linda Koepfgen-Holder, a former resident of Cass City, boated a 278-pound halibut while fishing in Homer, Alaska. Homer is famous for large halibut, but this was the largest fish for the month of June, and it won a $1,000 halibut derby prize. It took more than 40 minutes to land the whopper, and Koepfgen-Holder was adamant about doing it herself.

James and Jean Rencontre

Teamwork a way of life for new area pastorsby Kelly Adams
Staff writer

Look out, Batman and Robin. There's a new dynamic duo on the area scene.

The Rev. James and Jean Rencontre just shuttled down from the U.P. to tackle the pastoral duties at the United Methodist Churches in Shabbona, Argyle and Decker.

The husband and wife duo said they have always worked as a team. Now it's just official professionally.

He has been a pastor since 1961, and took on pastoral duties with the United Methodist Church in 1990. She said she was always extremely active in the church, and in 1991 she decided to become a ministry candidate herself.

"She's been doing things like this for years, and now she's in the position," he said of his wife.

The Rencontres have plans for their new congregations, and she would like to work with the younger members.

"I want to become very involved with the church youth and make sure there's something going on on a consistent basis," she remarked.

Some plans may have to wait, however, because the couple will be leaving soon for four weeks of study at the Garrett Evangelical Theological Seminary in Evanston, Ill.

"The rest is kind of up in the air because we can't plan anything until we get back from school Aug. 12," she said.

Once they return from school to serve their congregation, they believe a team effort will be in order.

After things calm down, they plan to rotate services. One Sunday she will handle the Decker service, and he will tackle the Argyle and Shabbona services. The following Sunday they will switch assignments.

As active as the Rencontres have been within the church, they have been just as active in other areas.

From 1977-1990, he worked as a counselor at the New Day Treatment Center in the U.P. The treatment center, where she also worked, is the only Native American residential treatment center in Michigan.

James, who is a Native American himself, also went into schools and educated others about the true history and traditions of Native Americans.

When the couple, married for 35 years, manages to find some spare time, they have other activities they enjoy pursuing.

They are both big rummage sale fans, and he is itching to check out Frankenmuth's supply of miniature doll houses. He also enjoys doing Indian bead work and crafts.

She is a World War II buff, and has a library collection to prove it.

"Along with World War II, I'm interested in the idea of the holocaust and the prevention of those kinds of things," she said.

The Native American culture is also a big part of her life, and she is always looking for possible situations in which she can work with Native Americans.

This duo's upbeat personalities, his charming stories, and their genuine concern for others are bound to captivate their new communities.

"We see our role as serving, loving and caring, and doing what we can do," she remarked.

THE RENCONTRES BELIEVE in teamwork whether it's in their marriage or at work. The husband and wife are the new co-pastors of the United Methodist Churches in Shabbona, Argyle and Decker.

Fitzgerald indicated he's looking forward to another great fair week.

"The way things are going — the crops look good — I think we should do better than last year," he said.

The county fairgrounds are in Caro. Cass City residents can get there by following M-81 west to Almer Street (one block past the Strand Theatre), then turning left and following the road south to the fairgrounds entrance.

A special meeting will be held Monday, July 26. Expected to be present will be Fred Eurich, school architect, who will outline the proposed school building program.

4-H KING ROB Roach proudly shows off this feeder calf he has entered in the Tuscola County Fair. He is hoping his hard work will pay off, especially since this is the last year he plans to show any large livestock.

Rob Roach: 4-H competitors help each other with fair exhibits

The 1992 Tuscola County 4-H King is about to relinquish his crown, but not his involvement in the club.

This is Rob Roach's 11th year in 4-H. During the years he has raised and shown a variety of animals, and this year he is doing the same. He plans to show a feeder calf, hogs, rabbits and ducks at the Tuscola County Fair.

For the Deford resident, getting involved in 4-H came naturally.

"I've always lived on a farm, and we had rabbits there, so that's what mainly got me into it," he said. "My family's always been involved in 4-H. I was just kinda born into a 4-H family." Roach may have been born into a 4-H family, but last year he was declared royalty and crowned king of the Tuscola County 4-H Club. He applied, went through an interview before 3 judges and the rest is history.

"I was a little bit surprised because I had really good competition," he said. "It didn't really sink in until I stood up."

During his reign, Roach appeared in area parades, educated others about the organization and was made an honorary 4-H council member.

"It's good because you're getting out and about and representing 4-H for what it really is," he remarked.

"Most people look at 4-H as just a little farmer's club, but it's not. It's kids helping kids."

Roach couldn't think of any drawbacks to being a 4-H'er, but he knew the friends he made was the best part.

"You get friends that share your same exhibits, and they're helpful," he said. "It's not a competition as in track or football. They'll help you out even though they're competing against you."

Roach has made some good friends through 4-H, but he has also learned a great deal.

"It's taught me responsibility. I think it's just a great learning experience," he reflected.

Roach will begin his freshman year at Central Michigan University in the fall with plans to major in biology and natural resources and minor in conservation. He insists, however, that 4-H will always be a part of his life.

"I still want to raise animals after college, and when I have a family I'll definitely want to get them involved in 4-H."

Until that time comes, he would like to be a leader of some sort within the organization.

"I definitely plan on being in 4-H for a while."

ROB ROACH ENJOYS a quiet moment with one of the mini-lop rabbits he has raised. This rabbit will also compete in the Tuscola County Fair.

CAUSES OF ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

What causes Alzheimer's disease? People have blamed heredity, aluminum cooking bowls, viruses, and numerous other things.

Alzheimer's is definitely not the same as aging, although increasing age is the biggest risk factor we know of—the older a person gets, the more likely he or she will get Alzheimer's. However, if you do not get Alzheimer's, your mind should continue to function normally as you age, although perhaps slower and you may be a bit more forgetful. The brain can maintain its capabilities much better than most other organs in the body.

Besides aging, we know that heredity does play a role at times. Persons with genetic abnormalities of certain chromosomes or Down's Syndrome are much more likely to develop Alzheimer's disease. A few cases appear to run in families, and among identical twins, if one gets Alzheimer's disease, the other has a 40% chance of developing it. Yet, 90% of cases appear not to be related to any genetic factor.

Many comments have been made about the possibility of aluminum causing Alzheimer's. There are no studies that show that aluminum plays a role, and most experts state that there is absolutely no need to worry about using aluminum cooking bowls or medicines and deodorants that contain aluminum.

Researchers have found a protein, called b-amyloid, that is elevated in Alzheimer's, but have not found exactly how it is related to the illness. Medicines which may affect this b-amyloid and ones that may be useful in other ways for Alzheimer's are undergoing trials but will take years yet to develop. Current medicines seldom provide much improvement.

Recital aired

Recent piano and organ recitals held at the Cass City Missionary Church featured the students of Ethel Whitaker, Cass City.

Kristy and Brian Hicks, Melanie Fritz, Tanya Muntz and Stacy Thane.

A piano-organ duet was played by Tanya Muntz and Melanie Fritz, and a piano duet was presented by Erin and Amy Venema.

In a separate program, the senior girls, Tanya Muntz, Lisa Benjamin and Stacy Thane, presented a piano recital.

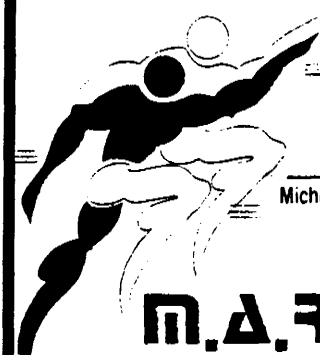

Each student played a classical piece, a gospel arrangement and a piece of their choice. Melanie Fritz played "Friends" for the prelude.

WOMEN AND STRENGTH TRAINING

Many women feel that any heavy or strenuous exercise, especially weight training, will cause their muscles to develop an unsightly bulky appearance. The muscle definition that a dancer, runner, or body builder has is relatively uncommon and comes as the result of years of concentrated training and diet.

Whether you are male or female, the level of the hormone testosterone in your body is what accounts for your muscularity and physique (or lack of it!). Women can significantly increase their strength without a corresponding increase in muscle bulk. Weight training can help to decrease your chance of injury and improve your performance level for sports or work.

So don't be afraid to strength train; you can gain a stronger, trimmer, and more toned body.

Down 7 percent

Less corn planted in Michigan

Michigan farmers are estimated to have planted less acres of corn, wheat, and rye this year, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service.

Acreage of oats, dry beans, summer potatoes, barley, and sugar beets are estimated to increase, while soybeans acres are unchanged from last year. A wet, cool spring delayed planting of many crops and has hindered crop development.
