GREAT PUMPKINS — Lloyd Severance has plenty of experience when it comes to growing field crops — corn, alfalfa, soybeans — but pumpkins were something new for the semi-retired Shabbona area dairy farmer, pictured above with 2 of the dandy specimens he grew over the summer.

Pumpkins too large to lift in Severance garden

Lloyd Severance has farmed all his life, but he's rarely stepped foot into a garden. Until this year. At 78, the semi-retired Shabbona area dairy farmer still keeps busy, helping out at his sons' neighboring dairy operations. Last spring he decided to add growing pumpkins to his list of things to do. Judging by the jumbos littering a modest patch of ground near his home, and the broad smile on his face, this won't be his last gardening experiment.

his largest pumpkin at 150 pounds. "They're so big I can't lift them, I know that," he added. Before this year, Severance said his wife, Esther, was always the gardener in the family. "She always took care of it. I never know what's in the garden, actually," he said. But that didn't keep the former Sanilac County commissioner, township supervisor and school board member from trying his hand at seeding his own crop around Easter time. As the weather warmed, he gradually got the plants used to being outdoors, setting them up in a makeshift greenhouse on the south side of his home.

plant the young seedlings, Severance halved a pair of carp and buried them under 4 of the plants. The old Indian trick seemed to really make them grow, he said. Aside from watering, there wasn't a lot of work involved, according to the area resident, who pointed out it's important to keep all but one or 2 blossoms picked from each vine. He recalled some of his neighbors chuckled when he put up a snow fence to serve as a windbreak for the plants. The fence also kept the mammoth pumpkin leaves from invading his wife's flowers. "If I do this another year, I'll have more space," he said. Chances are good next summer will find the area resident back in the garden. "A lot of people come and look at them (pumpkins)," he said. "It has been fun. I'll probably try it again another year."

"I always wanted a little hobby. I thought I'd do something different," Severance remarked last week as he looked over his crop — about a dozen fat pumpkins, the biggest measuring 72 inches around and weighing well over 100 pounds. He estimated the weight of

"I didn't actually put them in the ground till the (danger of) frost was over," he noted. "I didn't take any chances when it was time to trans-

There is a grand natural resource wending its way through Tuscola County and the Thumb that is comparatively unrealized and certainly under utilized and some dedicated people are trying to do something about it.

Resources, used to promote October as Cass River Awareness Month. Also planned is a poster contest to devise a logo for the Cass and a slide presentation for classroom teaching called "Know Your Cass". The slides about the Cass are available for showing to area organizations.

Death toll at 5 in pair of county crashes

A China, Mich., woman died over the weekend, 4 days after she was involved in a 2-vehicle collision in Mayville that claimed the lives of an Alpena couple. The accident was one of 2 double fatalities that occurred within 24 hours of each other on Tuscola County roads last week, leaving 4 dead. Troopers at the Michigan State Police post in Caro identified the latest victim as Marilyn A. Hansel, 63, who died at 5:23 a.m. Saturday at U-M Hospital in Ann Arbor. Hansel was driving south on M-24 just east of Mayville Sept. 27 at about 11:20 a.m. when she crossed the center line in attempt to avoid striking a vehicle in front of her that slowed suddenly, and collided with an eastbound vehicle driven by Vernon E. Whitney, 74, of Alpena. Whitney and his wife, Betty J. Whitney, 62, both died as a result of injuries suffered in the crash. Troopers were assisted at the scene by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, Mayville Police Department and Mayville fire fighters, who used their Jaws of Life to free the Whitneys from their vehicle. A day later, a Caro couple were killed when their car collided with another car in southern Almer Township. Sheriff's deputies reported Viola O. Johnson, 78, 2191 N. Graf Rd., was eastbound on Deckerville Road at 9:30 a.m. when she failed to yield the right-of-way at the Sparked by a $15,000 grant, a special committee was formed in January by Tuscola 2001 for a special study of the Cass River, its uses, its problems and possible solutions. Listen to Betty Pattullo, MSU extension agent, tell some of the ways that the river could be used for the benefit of area residents and visitors. We'd love to see a walking trail between Cass City and Caro, she bubbles. More public access locations and how about a park right on the river. Wouldn't that be great? Part of the problem for the 200-person committee and 15 very active members is making the public aware of what an asset it has in the river. That's why Cass City's Don Warner was one of a group plastering the area with placemats telling about the river. The placemat is one of several avenues, funded by a $6,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural

LONG TERM The October awareness program is an initial thrust in what promises to be a long campaign. To implement some of the goals, a study of the river to determine the need for river access, parking, canoe portage, signs on the river and trails is required. To market what the area has, its history from the early Indian days is necessary as is its fishing, canoeing and recreational possibilities. Conservation plays a vital role in the long term planning and the committee hopes to move in the direction of better management of the river for native warm water species. Important is protection of the wetlands near the river and its tributaries which will preserve nursery habitat for fish and improve water quality.

Rain delays harvest of disappointing bean crop

Rains last week and into the weekend stalled what has been a disappointing dry bean harvest for many Thumb farmers. The weather outlook was expected to improve this week, although a shifting jet stream may bring precipitation back to the region by the weekend. "The prospects of dryer weather certainly look good this week," Jeff Andresen, MSU Extension agricultural meteorologist, said Monday. "I would think we'll see a fairly decent dry down." Temperatures will be cooler than normal, especially during the day time hours, he said, adding, "A couple days this week, we'll have trouble getting out of the 50s."

Rainfall in Cass City last week and over the weekend totaled more than 1.6 inches, according to statistics kept at the village wastewater treatment plant. Unfortunately, farmers aren't expected to get an extended break from the precipitation, according to Andresen, who said rain may return by the weekend. "It appears we're moving into a transitional weather pattern," he explained, noting the pattern translates into a very active jet stream. "We won't stay in any one weather pattern for any length of time."

The effects of too much rain in late June and early July are showing up in fields across the Thumb, MSU Extension officials in Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties say. Dry bean yields in Tuscola County are varying drastically from one field to the next, according to county MSU Extension agricultural agent Dennis Stein, who said yields are averaging 15 bushels, or about 900 pounds per acre, with a range of 3 to 25 bushels an acre. "We would like to see 20 to 25 bushels."

Tuscola County farmers, who are second only to Huron County in dry bean production in Michigan, have harvested an estimated 65 percent of the county's 70,000 acres of dry beans. Stein, who said the figure represents about 75 percent of the crop, noted quality has been affected by diseases such as anthracnose, white mold and common blight. Root rot has been another big problem, according to Sanilac County Extension Director Martin Nagelkirk and Huron County ag agent Jim LeCureux. "Conditions are so conducive to disease that they, in themselves, will contribute to reduced yields by several bags per acre," said Nagelkirk, who reported 60 percent of Sanilac County's 25,000 acres of dry beans have been harvested. He said yields are averaging 9 or 10 cwt. (hundredweight) per acre, although some fields are producing much higher yields, "and we have some fields you don't know if it's worth running the harvester through it."

LeCureux said the story is the same in Huron County, where yields range from 2 cwt. to 25-26 cwt. per acre, with an average of 12 cwt. About 70 percent of the county's 100,000 acres of dry beans have been harvested to date. Extension officials are hopeful other crops — soybeans, sugar beets and corn — although affected by heavy rains earlier in the growing season, will fare better. The 1994 sugar beet campaign officially got underway Monday at the Michigan Sugar Company plants in Caro and Sebawaing. Robert Braem, the company's vice president of agriculture, said beets from 25,700 acres are expected at the Caro plant, about the same as last year. Another 36,100 acres will go to Sebawaing, an increase of about 5 percent over 1993. "We planted more acres, (but) we're looking at yields probably reduced by 15 percent" as a result of too much rain this summer, Braem said. He estimated yields of 18 tons per acre and 14 1/2 tons per acre in the Sebawaing and Caro areas, respectively, compared to a typical yield of about 18 1/2 tons an acre. Braem said he anticipates

Richard M. Stakolosa, 28, and Matthew H. Malloy, 25, were recently arraigned in Tuscola County District Court. In one case, Both men face were charged with one count of breaking and entering a building with intent to commit larceny and 4 counts of larceny over $100. The pair are accused of breaking into a pole barn at 3371 Colwood Rd. in Ellington Township and stealing a Homelite generator, Coleman generator, air compressor and circular saw, according to court records, which state the theft occurred between Dec. 15, 1991, and Jan. 6, 1992. In addition, Stakolosa faces one charge of breaking and entering, 2 counts of larceny over $100 and 2 counts of conspiracy to commit larceny in connection with the Oct. 16, 1992, break-in of a house at 985 Mona Rd. in Wells Township, and the theft of a Coleman Powermate generator and a Skil saw.

He was also arraigned on charges of breaking and entering a shed at 1233 Weeden Rd. in Indianfields Township, larceny over $100 and receiving and concealing stolen property over $100. That offense allegedly took place June 24, 1993, and involved the theft of a Suzuki quadrunner, court records state. Malloy also faces additional charges, including larceny over $100 and conspiracy to commit larceny over $100 involving a riding lawn mower allegedly stolen in the summer or fall of 1991 in Indianfields Township. Malloy was also arraigned on one count each of larceny over $100 and conspiracy to commit larceny over $100 involving a gas grill allegedly stolen May 15, 1992, in Indianfields Township. Bond has been set at a combined $30,000 for Stakolosa and $75,000 for Malloy. Both men face preliminary examinations Friday at 9 a.m.

Reveal ambitious plans for Cass River

Also needed is river zoning to establish setbacks, a green band, river pollution restraints and recreation and sport fishing regulations.

While surveys have indicated that there is excellent productivity with a total biomass of 256 pounds per acre there have been problems.

About 84 percent of the fish are "non-game" species and a few years ago there was a great hassle between the DNR and some fishermen.

The DNR wanted to kill the fish in the river and replant with game fish, but some fishermen, river regulars, style. Please turn to back page.

MAKING MORE residents aware of the possibilities for development of the Cass River is the object of declaring October as Cass River awareness month.

Baby think it over

by Melva E. Guinther

Richard Jurmaine has acted upon a thought that many of us no doubt have entertained.

We often hear about classes in which teenagers have to carry around a sack of flour in lieu of a baby. Instructors hope caring for the demands of their ersatz child will cause them to think carefully about the obligations involved before having a real one.

A bag of flour as a constant companion can certainly be a nuisance, but it's hardly the same as being responsible for a living, breathing, wiggling, crying, demanding little human being.

Jurmaine, an unemployed rocket scientist in San Diego, thought so, and came up with "Baby Think It Over."

It's an 8-pound doll with a microprocessor in its back that causes it to give out a high-pitched shriek at random intervals day and night, and can only be silenced by being "fed."

Feeding this "newborn" requires inserting a key into its back and holding it for 20-30 minutes, the average time it takes to feed a real baby.

A home economics class in San Diego reported the doll a howling success. Several teenage girls, suffering fatigue and ill tempered after taking the "baby" home for 3 days and hauling a stroller, diaper bag, car seat, etc., to class with them, vowed to postpone motherhood for quite some time. One called the baby a "big pain in the butt."

Jurmaine also equipped the doll with a system that monitors how long it takes the "parent" to attend to its needs, and a light alarm on the baby's back alerts the teacher if it's been mistreated.

According to a story by Christina Cheakalos of Cox News Service, Jurmaine and his wife, Mary, have done quite well in marketing the dolls, which cost $220 each.

When the article was written, the Jurmaines had sold about 250 Baby Think It Overs and were in the process of shipping them to North Carolina, Florida, Tennessee, Texas and Alabama.

Unfortunately, one significant aspect of caring for a baby is missing in Baby Think It Over. Their are no diapers to change.

When asked about it, Jurmaine said, "If you mix electronics and hydraulics, you've got a big problem."

Even without the unpleasant diaper business, it sounds like Baby Think It Over is realistic enough to live up to its name.

The 1993-94 audit reflects a General Fund surplus of $20,630. This amount added to the previous year's fund balance brings the current fund balance to $791,887. This represents approximately 10.5% of the district's budget. The final debt payment for Cass City High School was paid and our district is now debt free. The school's hot lunch account showed a profit of $13,452 which continued the past five year trend of operating in the black.

The districts K - 12 enrollment totaled 1,638. This is the approximate level of enrollment that our district has maintained for the past nine years.

6-1 Port Hope next

Owen-Gage girls fall to Peck, C-PS

The Owen-Gage girls basketball team fell from the North Central Thumb League title picture last week when they dropped games to league foes Peck and Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

The Bulldogs (6-4 overall, 3-3) couldn't handle Peck's pressure defense on Thursday and were defeated 61-41. Earlier in the week, on Tuesday, O-G slipped to visiting C-PS, 57-52.

Coach Dean Roller's cagers, who lost consecutive games for the first time this season, will try to get back in the win column this week when they travel to face Port Hope Thursday. The task won't be easy as the Blue Stars hold a lofty 6-1 mark and stand one game back of conference leader Peck (8-1 overall, 7-0).

Owen-Gage fell behind early against the Pirates and trailed 21-6 entering the 2nd stanza. Peck's full court pressure held the visitors to 2 field goals in the opening 8 minutes, both on short jump shots from sophomore Kate Powers.

"This was a very physical game. Their defensive pressure wore us down," stated Roller.

Owen-Gage played its best ball on the night just prior to the intermission where they sliced the hosts lead to 29-21.

But a 16-9 run to open the final half saw the Pirates with a 15 point margin heading into the final period. Julia Burns sparked the rally for the winners recording 9 of her team high 13 tallies during the spurt.

The league leaders sealed the win with a 16 point outburst in the final quarter.

"I felt we showed that we could play with the league best," said Roller afterwards.

The Bulldogs got 10 tallies from Powers, while Angie Wildman and Melody Abfalter each chipped in 8.

The Pirates, who saw 8 of 9 players enter the score book, also got 13 points from Val Durand and 10 from Jessica Affer.

son the Bulldogs were edged by visiting North Central Thumb League opponent Carsonville-Port Sanilac. Despite an 18-11 run to open the game, hosts Owen-Gage suffered a 57-52 defeat at the hands of the Tigers.

Senior Angie Wildman scored 10 of her team high 20 points in the opening stanza, 5 more than the Bulldog's team output in the game's 2nd period.

C-PS, behind Jamie Bartley's 13 first half points, outscored the hosts 17-5 to take a 28-23 edge into the intermission.

The Bulldogs got a pair of field goals from Tonya Smith, Abfalter and Wildman to open the 2nd half, but couldn't contain the hot hand of Stephine Backus who nailed 2 shots from behind the arc to help give the winners a 42-35 margin entering the final quarter.

Backus continued her antics in the game's final 8 minutes pouring in 8 of her game high 22 markers that helped seal the win for the Tigers.

"Defense is still our biggest problem," said Roller afterwards.

Beside Wildman, Abfalter was the only other Bulldog to post double digits scoring 10 points, 8 coming after the break. Bartley finished with 17 for the winners, while Erin Cayce chipped in 11.

KATE POWERS scored 2 of her 8 tallies on this short jumper during the opening half of Tuesday's contest with Carsonville-Port Sanilac. The Bulldogs fell 57-52 in the North Central Thumb League tilt.

BULLDOG COACH ARNIE Besonen gives his defensive unit some encouragement during a successful goalline stand that ended the first half. Owen-Gage went on to defeat visiting C-PS, 8-7.

8-7 over C-PS

Defense keys Bulldog victory

It only takes one to win. The Owen-Gage Bulldog gridiron team proved that Friday night when Joe Tkacz's 88-yard touchdown run lifted the hosts to a come-from-behind 8-7 win over visiting Carsonville-Port Sanilac.

The 'Dogs (3-2) will most likely need more than one scoring drive this week when they host North Branch Wesleyan in their home finale for the 1994 campaign.

The Eagles will invade Owendale boasting a perfect mark at 4-0. The academy is led by a fine pair of senior running backs in Ryan Losinger and Don Cramer.

Despite both schools having a common adversary win against North Central Thumb League foe Peck, the Eagles will reign as substantial favorites in the non-conference tilt.

The Tiger's (3-2 overall, 2-2 NCTL) drew first blood against Coach Arnie Besonen's troops Friday when they converted a bad exchange on an O-G punt into 6 points.

Chris Peeling, who led the visitors with 54 yards in 13 carries, accounted for the marker when he scored 6 plays later on a one-yard lunge. Quarterback Jon Rosenberg added the point after kick to give the guests a 7-0 lead entering the 2nd quarter.

Both defenses ruled play during the 2nd stanza, where the Bulldogs avoided disaster just prior to the intermission.

After spoiling the Tiger's apparent final drive of the initial half, Owen-Gage looked content to run the clock out and enter the locker room trailing by one score, 7-0.

Another Bulldog miscue, however, gave the Tigers one more scoring opportunity with under a minute remaining in the half.

With the ball marked inside the 5-yard line and less than 5 ticks remaining till the break, Rosenberg spotted an open receiver in the left corner of the end zone.

Rosenburg's toss was an easy TD until Tkacz jetted from nowhere to knock the throw away as time expired on the clock.

"We played with no heart and they came out all heart," said Besonen of his team's first half performance.

Tkacz put Owen-Gage on the scoreboard with 9:53 remaining in the 3rd period. After hauling in a Ryan Radabaugh pass, Tkacz thrilled the O-G backers with his jolting 88 yard scurry to pay dirt.

Wade Tetil, who collected 57 yards rushing and was credited with 17 tackles, added the 2-point conversion that would prove to be the game winner.

Despite, Tkacz's heroics, the Bulldog defense was the key to the victory. In Owen-Gage's 3 wins this season, the defense has yielded just 13 points.

Behind linebacker Tetil, the winners got solid performances from Aaron Baker (8 tackles), Matt Jaworski (7 stops, one sack) and Austin Brinkman (6 tackles), according to Besonen.

Knee Injury - Chondromelacia

Studies have shown that chondromelacia patella affects anywhere from 20% to 50% of the population. It can happen to anyone at any age and can occur in one knee or both at the same time. It is a gradual degeneration of the smooth cartilage found on the underside of your patella (knee cap) and can cause pain, swelling, and possibly cracking or popping noises when you bend your knee.

A normal patella is smooth on the underside and rides in a groove formed by the one bone of your thigh (femur). A patella with chondromelacia has tiny chips and pieces missing from the underside and has difficulty riding in its normal groove. Pain may occur when walking, running, jumping, climbing stairs, or squatting. Ice before and after activity may help to temporarily control the pain and swelling, but the easiest way to resolve the problem is through proper strengthening of the knee muscles. Targeting specific muscles around the knee helps the patella to ride smoothly in its groove.

As always, see your doctor for a correct diagnosis to rule out arthritis or a more serious cartilage injury, then see your physical therapist or athletic trainer for a specific exercise program.

SUMMARY OF RATE DECISION VILLAGE OF CASS CITY

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that on September 26, 1994, the Village Council adopted a Resolution/Rate decision pursuant to the Cable Television Consumer Protection and Competition Act of 1992, rules promulgated thereunder by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), and the Village's Cable Television Rate Regulation Ordinance. The Resolution/Rate Decision found that C-TEC Cable Systems of Michigan, Inc.'s ("C-TEC") maximum reasonable basic rate is $.30 per month lower than the present level, and the C-TEC's present rates for Expanded Basic Service, converters, and installation are reasonable. The Resolution/Rate Decision finds that C-TEC's current Premium Customer Choice channels are a bona fide, unregulated service offering but shall be treated as regulated at least until September 1, 1997. The Resolution/Rate Decision ordered C-TEC to reduce its monthly basic rate by $0.30, and on the first bill that includes the new rate to credit all active subscribers who are receiving basic service on that date with a refund representing a $.30 basic rate reduction retroactive to September 1, 1993.

DON'T SMOKE DURING PREGNANCY

We have known for a long time that if you smoke during your pregnancy you are apt to have a smaller than average weight baby. The Surgeon General's Report has given us many more reasons why you should not smoke during your pregnancy.

Very soon after inhaling cigarette smoke, the carbon monoxide binds with your blood. This decreases the amount of oxygen your blood can carry. The second problem is that nicotine decreases the amount of blood flow to the uterus and rapidly growing baby.

There is also evidence now that smoking affects the baby's metabolism and endocrine system, and it also increases the chance that genetic damage will occur.

Smokers are more likely to have miscarriages, stillbirths and premature deliveries than non-smokers. Also, the chance of needing a Caesarean section is increased because the infant becomes distressed more easily due to the limited circulation he's receiving.

Later in life, the children of smokers are more likely to have short stature, impaired reading abilities and hyperactivity. They also have a greater chance of cleft palate and even of dying in early infancy.

Another tragic effect of smoking is the 5,000 deaths from home fires caused by smoking. Of these deaths, 1,000 are children.

These and many other risks noted in the report should convince anyone that smoking during pregnancy is quite harmful.

Your neighbor says
Depends on papers for local news

Lori Schooley of Bay Port was interviewed at Rawson Memorial Library, which figured to be a likely location for the question of the week concerning reading for information and recreation.

For Schooley her reading is restricted to the local newspaper. For news of the world she turns to the electronic media, television and radio.

On my way to work I listen to the radio, she explained. Schooley works at Walbro Corporation and has been employed there 8 years.

When interviewed at the library she was operating a computer. I am making a banner for my son, Steven, she smiled, for his first birthday.

Schooley's husband, Mark, works in construction.

Traffic death toll at 5

Colling Road intersection. Reports state she pulled into the path of a southbound vehicle driven by Edna M. Sattelberg, 47, also of Caro. After the impact, the Johnson vehicle left the road and struck a fence at a residence southeast of the intersection.

Both Johnson and her husband, Perry W. Johnson, 85, were pronounced dead at the scene. Sattelberg was taken to Caro Community Hospital, where she was treated and released. Reports indicate Mrs. Johnson and Sattelberg were wearing seat belts, and Mr. Johnson was not.

Deputies were assisted at the scene by Michigan State Police troopers from the Caro post, the Caro Police Department, Caro Fire Department and Caro EMS.

Bond was set at $100 and a preliminary exam was scheduled for Friday morning.

•Clifford T. Alderfer, 50, Caro, was arraigned on 5 counts of possession of marijuana from January to December 1993 and Jan. 1 to May 31, 1994, in Tuscola County.

The charges are the result of a Multi-County Citizens Grand Jury investigation.

Alderfer's bond was set at $10,000. He faces a preliminary exam Friday morning.

•Melinda J. Douglas, 38, Cass City, faces one count of obstruction of justice stemming from a Sept. 17 incident in Cass City.

Bond was set at $10,000 and a preliminary exam was slated for Friday morning.

•Gary A. St. Amant, 26, an inmate at the Camp Tuscola Correctional Facility, Caro, was arraigned on a charge of being a prisoner in possession of marijuana Sept. 18.

Bond was set at $100,000 and a preliminary exam was scheduled for Friday morning.

mied the campaign because they were catching game fish.

Since 1984 there have been several attempts to establish game fish in the river. Brown trout dumped into the South Branch of White Creek for several years were discontinued because they couldn't survive the winters. A similar failure occurred in 1985 when 2.4 million walleye pike were planted at 14 sites with no appreciable survival.

When that failed the DNR turned to planting walleye fingerlings in the Caro Impoundment, starting in 1991 with subsequent plantings in 1993 and again next year. Results will be weighed in 1995.

Some members of the committee will combine business with pleasure when a canoe trip is planned for Oct. 22. Interested persons are welcome to take the trip and can secure full details by calling the Michigan State University Extension office in Caro.

Small business award for senator

State Senator Joel Gougeon (R-Bay City) was honored recently by the nation's largest association of small businesses.

The National Association of Independent Businesses (NFIB) awarded Gougeon the "Guardian of Small Business Award" for his dedication to small business growth in Michigan.

"I'm extremely honored to receive an award that reflects my support for small business issues in Michigan," Gougeon said. "Being a small business manufacturer myself for some 20 years, I can appreciate the effort. business people go through to make a living and create jobs throughout our state. By supporting small businesses, I'm supporting jobs and, in turn, I think I'm supporting the state of Michigan in a very significant way."

Less calories

If you like cheese on your sandwich but would like to cut the calories and fat, try shredded cheese sprinkled on the meat instead of sliced cheese. This works well for any sandwich that is grilled or heated.
