Community project

Expect 300 at annual dinner

A tradition of gathering as a community for Thanksgiving will continue this year in Cass City.

The annual community Thanksgiving Day dinner will be held Thursday at the VFW hall in Cass City. Dinner will be served at 1 p.m., with carryout dinners available after 3 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling 872-5114, 872-3830 or 665-2401.

Take-out orders are available for those who are shut-in, with advance reservations.

The dinner, now in its ninth year, drew about 80 people the first year, according to Scott Mills, coordinator of the event. "Last year we served 250 people, approximately, and we're planning on 300 dinners this year," he said.

The main goal of this dinner is that no one has to spend the holiday alone," Mills explained.

However, he pointed out, it's not a charity event; it's a community event in every sense of the word.

Mills noted everything — from turkey with all the trimmings to flowers to the labor — is provided free of charge by volunteers, area churches, schools, businesses and civic groups. "It's all donated and prepared through people's good will," he added. "Everybody has been very generous in their giving."

About 20 people, including a 9-member steering committee, are involved behind the scenes, organizing and making sure the dinner runs smoothly.

"One of the most positive experiences I've had is to take part in this. It's just a good time," Mills concluded. "It's really a neat thing to see the community draw together."

Plan new display

Storytime dies - papier mache figures on sale

Cass City's annual Storytime Christmas display won't be set up in the village park this year.

Instead, a small-scale holiday display will be put up near the newly-constructed gazebo at the corner of Church and Ale streets, with plans to purchase new Christmas decorations for the village beginning next year.

In the meantime, papier mache figures from the Storytime display, along with others created under the guidance of the late Lloyd Vyse, will be offered for sale in the park near the gazebo Nov. 26 from 10 a.m. to noon.

The decision was made by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce based on the condition of the Storytime display.

Weather and vandalism have taken a heavy toll on the nursery rhyme figures, chamber member Jane Hittler explained. "Too many pieces are broken or dilapidated," she said. "They've lasted 6 years, which is pretty miraculous for papier mache."

Hittler said chamber members plan to set up a Lloyd Vyse Memorial Fund to purchase some new decorations next year, and then add to them in successive years.

The fund will include revenue from sale of the papier mache figures, which will be offered to residents for donations on a first-come, first-serve basis. "There are probably in excess of 50 pieces," Hittler said of the papier mache figures, which include animal heads, giant snowmen and nursery rhyme characters.

Other donations will also be placed in the memorial fund. Hittler said the chamber plans to make a sizable contribution, and the Pinney Foundation has agreed to match whatever the chamber gives.

The new Christmas decorations will honor the memory of Vyse, who died Aug. 10, 1993.

Vyse was a driving force behind Cass City's "Christmas Town" celebration back in the 1950s and again in recent years.

His papier mache creations, ranging from Santa's elves to nursery rhyme figures, were a perennial favorite in the 1950s, winning the top prize in the chamber of CONNIE HERNDON AND Jim Bolton pose with just a few of the Lloyd Vyse creations that will go on sale at the Cass City Village Park Nov. 26 from 10 a.m. to noon. Money from the event will be placed in the Lloyd Vyse Memorial Fund to purchase new Christmas decorations for the village.

Walbro Automotive Corporation has announced the expansion of its fuel system test center in Caro.

"Demand for Walbro's automotive fuel systems continues to grow," said Gary L. Vollmar, president of Walbro Automotive Corporation. "This expansion will allow us to meet that demand by increasing our testing capabilities for individual components and total systems for our global customers."

This expansion, scheduled for completion in mid-1995, will allow additional durability testing capabilities for fuel pumps and other fuel system components. It will also include radio frequency interference (RFI) testing as well as fuel analysis capabilities in support of Walbro's fuel systems development.

In addition to supporting Walbro's U.S.-based pump production, the expanded test center will provide design validation for overseas customers in Europe, South America and Korea. The center's test capabilities will also be made available to automakers and other suppliers.

Being thankful

by Melva E. Guinther

It was good to note that the veterans' program at Cass City Middle School was well received. Those who participated said that the fifth and sixth graders were attentive and seemed interested in what the veterans stood for. They may well be the exception.

During TV coverage of special Veteran's Day observances, several veterans bemoaned the fact that today's young people have little respect for the flag or the national anthem, symbols that have a special significance to those who have fought to preserve them.

They said that our country's youth don't appreciate the freedom they enjoy as Americans or understand the sacrifices that have been made to attain and perpetuate it.

That's probably true, but why?

Are they not learning history? Are they not being taught respect for the flag and the national anthem? If not, whose job is it?

Today's youth have never known anything but freedom, fortunately, and it's a flaw of human nature to take what seems natural, and comes to us easily, for granted.

Young people are not unique, though, in lacking an "attitude of gratitude." People of all ages fail to be thankful not only for freedom, but for a lot of other blessings.

How many of us give a thought to good health, sight or hearing...until it's threatened or we lose it? Even then we're more likely to complain about the loss rather than being thankful that we enjoyed it for so long.

A warm house is a given...until the furnace goes out, and only a few old-timers can be truly thankful for electricity or running water.

In this land of over-abundance, most of us have never experienced real hunger. So it's hard for us to celebrate a bowl of soup or a sandwich. Even those who offer thanks over a meal rarely do so sincerely.

Most of us gripe about our jobs, until we get laid off.

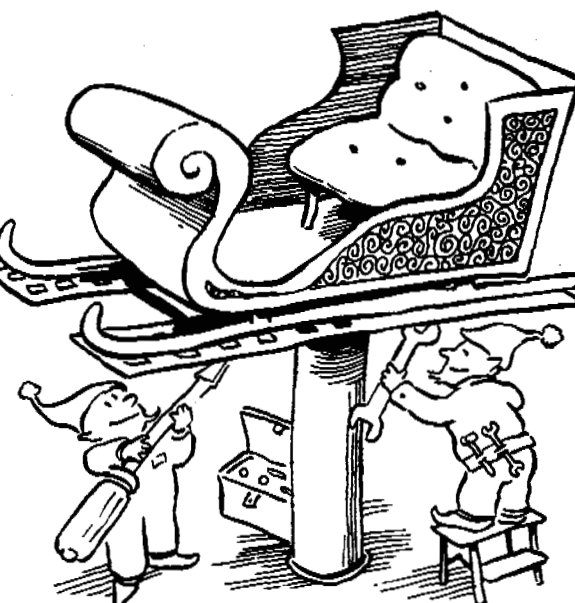

Family members probably suffer the most from being taken for granted. How many letters has Ann Landers printed from grieving people who never told their parent/child/spouse/friend how much they meant to them until it was too late.

Another part of the problem of ingratitude is that most of us are just too busy to think about how blessed we are. We meet ourselves coming and going in this fast paced, crazy world. If a quiet, reflective moment should arise, we quickly fill it with television or some other diversion.

It's good that we have at least one day a year devoted to thanksgiving.

Let's hope that we can find time amidst the trip to Grandma's, the football games, parades and preparing the feast to do so.

Important Drug Interactions

With colds and flus going around, people often take more medicines this time of the year than any other. A person may take as many as 5-8 different medicines to treat an infection--antibiotics, decongestants, antihistamines, cough suppressants, acetaminophen, inhalers, and more. Which of these can cause interactions? The most common question is "Can I take Tylenol and decongestants with my antibiotic?" Yes. For all non-prescription decongestants and cold preparations there are no significant interactions. These medicines should be used to help limit the symptoms of the infection.

The potential side effects--some of which can be serious--come with the newer prescription antihistamines terfenadine (Seldane) and astemizole (Hismanal). Seldane is an antihistamine which can have serious interactions. While it is generally very safe, certain other medicines can increase its blood level to a toxic range. Erythromycin, a very common antibiotic, will do this. The newer, related antibiotics called Biaxin and Zithromax are not known to interact with Seldane, but should still be avoided.

An even more severe reaction can occur when Seldane is taken with an antifungal medicine called ketoconazole. This can result in toxic levels that can cause heart irregularities and even death.

Overdoses, or even taking higher than recommended doses of these new antihistamines can have these side effects. Always check with your doctor or pharmacist before mixing prescription medicines.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

It was destined not to be. The formal lighting ceremony for the beautiful Main Street Christmas decorations was scheduled at 5:30 p.m. Friday. The lights are on an automatic switch and went on before the scheduled ceremony.

As a second best effort, a picture of a few of the people responsible was taken and for some unfathomable reason was too blurred to print.

It's unfortunate, especially since the decorations have received almost universal approval as the best or at least among the best that have graced the business district.

The Times should be in good hands. Murphy was always in love with newspapering. He took a cut in salary to join the Tribune by leaving a position in industry.

Annual VFW post holiday dinner set

Post 3644 VFW will hold its annual holiday dinner Thursday, Dec. 1, at 6 p.m. at the post hall. All members and their families are invited.

It will be a potluck affair with the turkey provided.

The Haire Net

Ten years down the road the Indian gambling bonanza that is mining gold from the pockets of other Americans may not be as rich as it is today.

Oh, the gold will still be there ready to be extracted, but the Indians are being joined by other entrepreneurs skilled in the business and used to competition.

That's the reason for the success of the various tribes in Michigan. No competition. It's been Indian casino gambling or no gambling at all.

Over the years there have been 3 unsuccessful attempts to get legal gambling in Detroit in a partnership with one or more Indian tribes. Now it has been approved.

How an Indian can gain title to land in Detroit and then call it part of the reservation and exempt from the laws of the land calls for a big stretch of the imagination. Of course, you can imagine anything if the profits are big enough.

But I digress. Legalized gambling in casinos has been defeated time after time at the polls. Just this last election a casino proposition in Flint was nixed by the voters.

But like water continuously lapping against a cracked dam eventually collapses it, the profit from gambling will work its way into the main stream of Michigan business.

Casino gambling in Detroit was finally given the nod by the voters and after the smoke of the battle clears in the fight to get on the gray train, the Motor City will have gambling.

If Detroit is successful, will Flint be far behind, or Saginaw, or Bay City or any of many communities in the northern tourist meccas?

Then it will be the survival of the fittest. In the Leelanau Peninsula a casino is operated by Indians and, naturally, rolling in the bucks by the bucketful.

Right across the bay is the Grand Traverse Resort. It has everything to attract tourists. Championship golf courses, tennis, weight rooms, swimming, the whole ball of wax. It's been a struggle to remain profitable since it was erected.

What proved to be a shaky operation when it started would turn into a money making machine with gambling.

Compare that with the operation by the Indians. The last time we tried to go there the place was closed for 3 hours and when we returned it was still waiting to open. We didn't stop the second time but customers were patiently waiting to get in and lose their money.

When competition sets in, how long will that casino stay afloat? That's why I wouldn't want to hock the family jewels to invest in an Indian casino.

Although I feel that the Indian monopoly is doomed, let me say again as I have in the past, I feel that legalized gambling is not in the best interest of all of us.

Outside of Las Vegas, gambling has not proved to be a bonanza for the average citizen in places where it already has been approved.

"If It Fitz...."

Women things vs. men things

By Jim Fitzgerald

In my opinion, there was not nearly enough dancing in the street or similar celebration of my monumental, first-time-ever achievement.

Not only that, but my surprising accomplishment was almost totally ignored by women who, rather than give me the praise I deserved, preferred to continue doing something else — something they would never be criticized for doing, but if I did the same thing, I might well be razed.

Pay attention and you will soon understand that today's column is about women things as opposed to men things — babies vs. batteries — and some politics, too.

Begin with newly-elected U.S. Sen. Spencer Abraham. For interminable weeks he appeared regularly on our television screens, holding his twin daughters, one in the crook of each arm. But the day after his victory, Abraham was on TV with no children in sight.

"He took them back to the orphanage because he doesn't need to exploit them for votes anymore," my friend Ralph explained.

Ralph wouldn't have said that if Abraham were the mother of the twins. And if John Engler were the mother of those famous triplets, Ralph also wouldn't have said that when Engler next campaigns for office, he'll need a third crook, and shouldn't have trouble finding one in Lansing.

CONFRONTING THAT SCARY TASK

Anyway, last Saturday afternoon, my 10-year-old car wouldn't start. When this happens, my usual procedure is to summon my son or son-in-law to come give me a jump start. But there were jumper cables in my garage, and the old car was parked next to the new car, so I decided, what the heck, I'd try to do the job myself.

This, you must understand, was similar to Queen Elizabeth deciding to chew tobacco.

In 54 years of driving, I'd never once dared connect 2 car batteries and turn on 2 engines for fear of blowing up the world. The closest I came was when I owned an Audi, but after an hour of searching, I was too embarrassed to ever admit to anyone that I couldn't even find the battery. And it didn't do a lot of good to connect the cable to the container of windshield wiper fluid.

Later I learned Audi put the battery under the back seat. Whoever heard of such a stupid thing? Is the ignition in the damn glove compartment?

NO ONE EVEN NOTICES

This time, it took me only 30 minutes to get both hoods up, find the batteries, attach the clamps and turn the keys. And the old car started! Wow. I suddenly knew how Eli Whitney felt when he invented the steam room.

When I burst into the house to brag about my unbelievable accomplishment to my wife and daughter, they were lying on the floor, making foolish faces and obscene noises at the newest family member, 6-month-old Elaine. They barely noticed me, and I was hurt.

Although, a few minutes later, it was OK that they weren't looking out the window when I had to pause the old car in the driveway to investigate a radio aerial I didn't remember seeing during the previous 10 years.

Turned out it wasn't an aerial, it was a strut that holds up the hood. It somehow had stayed up when I put the hood down. Oh well, the damage was minimal.

The next day, during social hour after church services, I held Elaine high in the air so everyone could see that she just happens to be the most gorgeous curly-head on Earth. And a friend good-naturedly accused me of showing off.

He would never have said that to Elaine's grandmother, who regularly flaunts Elaine in public, cooing and hugging, without ever being charged with creating a flamboyant disturbance. And never once in her whole life has my wife jump-started a car.

The obscure moral is that John Engler cried fat tears when he showed the TV cameras pictures of his triplets. And I said to myself: Good for him.

Bulldogs exit district play in 71-53 loss to Warriors

All good things must come to an end.

Wednesday, Nov. 16, Coach Dean Roller watched senior Angie Wildman for the last time in a Bulldog cage uniform, as the 'Dogs exited from district play at Kingston with a 71-53 defeat by North Huron.

Owen-Gage grabbed an early 6-5 lead against the Warriors as Wildman posted her first of 7 field goals en route to a team high 21 tallies.

North Huron then outscored the Bulldogs 10-4 to gain a 15-11 advantage heading into the second period. Nora Fawcett led the way for the winners in the opening frame with 7 points while teammate Shannon Pettit added 2 hoops from behind the 3-point arc.

North Huron started the second frame with scoring from the inside as center Jill Bresky helped the Warriors to a 16-point edge with 3 baskets from the paint.

Owen-Gage was able to slice the Warriors' lead to single digits, 33-24, by the intermission as they went on a 7-0 run to close the first half.

"We just couldn't stop their inside game. They got second and third shots on their offensive boards," said

Angie Wildman
Senior standout averaged 17 points per game

Roller.

North Huron opened the final half with a 13-6 run and had its biggest lead of the night at 46-30.

Owen-Gage, however, fought back, scoring 14 of the period's final 16 tallies, and trailed 48-44 entering the final 8 minutes of play.

Wildman and teammate Melody Abfalter paced the late spurt with 2 baskets each.

In the final period it was all Kristie Lasceski, who scored 9 points for the Warriors while erasing any come-back hopes for the Bulldogs.

Wildman, a 3-year starter, tossed in 5 of the Bulldogs' final 9 markers. A second team North Central Thumb League selection as a junior, Wildman improved her scoring average from 14.3 to just under 17 points per game in her senior year.

Besides Wildman's 21 points, Owen-Gage got a baker's dozen from Kate Powers.

North Huron received a game high 22 markers from Fawcett, while Lasceski added 14. Bresky chipped in 12.

OWEN-GAGE - T. Smith 2-0 (2-3) 6; M. Abfalter 3-0 (1-4) 7; S. Roemer 1-0 (2-4) 4; A. Wildman 7-0 (7-12) 21; K. Powers 4-0 (5-6) 13; J. Winchester 1-0 (0-1) 2.

License law passed in 1895

1994 Michigan's 100th deer season

The current deer season marks Michigan's 100th year of licensed deer hunting.

"This is a landmark in the responsible management of wildlife for public benefit," said Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harnes. "By commemorating this 100th licensed deer season, we're recognizing an important part of our Michigan heritage."

Before the end of the previous century, there were no regulations on the killing of deer. Early Michigan residents depended on deer for hides and food, and deer were taken by whatever means were practical. Snare and deadfalls were common, dogs were used to drive deer out of thickets, and deer were shot at night and while swimming or mired in deep snow.

As the herd decreased, people became concerned. The first deer regulation made it illegal to take deer during the nursing season, but this did not stop the decline of the deer population, which disappeared from southern Michigan in the 1870s.

Meanwhile, the deer herd in northern Michigan increased as logging improved deer habitat. The Michigan deer population peaked at about one million in 1880, and commercial interests quickly capitalized on this resource. Market hunting became a major industry, as hundreds of thousands of deer were shipped by rail to ready markets throughout Michigan and other states. In 1880, an estimated 66,000 deer were taken by market hunters, compared to 4,000 by recreational hunters.

Out of concern for this heavy commercial hunting, Michigan hunters formed the Michigan Sportsmen's Association. Through their lobbying efforts, a law was passed in 1881 to prohibit the sale of Michigan game meat in other states. The deer season was shortened from 7 to 5 months, and it became unlawful to kill a deer while it was swimming in water. Then in 1887 a law was passed to prohibit the use of dogs or artificial lights to take deer. However, the deer herd still declined.

There were as few as 50,000 deer when, in 1895, a law was passed to establish the first deer hunting season Nov. 1-25, the first deer hunting license, and a bag limit of 5 deer of either sex per hunter. The significance of this law was that hunters themselves demanded this regulation. Individuals became organized to request action on the part of their state government to protect the welfare of the deer herd.

In 1895, a total of 14,499 hunters participated in the first licensed deer season and harvested 12,000 deer. This year, DNR staff expect 50 times as many hunters to participate and 20 times as many deer to be harvested. However, no change is expected in the level of hunter interest in Michigan's deer herd, and deer management continues to be an important year-round effort.

Walbro Corp. celebrates 40 years in Cass City

More than 500 Walbro officials and employees — past and present — turned out for luncheon celebration Friday marking the company's 40th year of operations in Cass City.

Turkey and all the trimmings were served to employees, some of whom arrived dressed in 1950s attire. The group heard from 4 speakers, including Walbro Corp. President and CEO L.E. Althaver and Walbro Engine Management Corp. President Robert Walpole.

Both men reiterated the sentiments of the late Walter E. Walpole, Walbro's president and founder, who had a strong belief that a company's success depends on the quality and dedication of its employees.

"People are our company's most valuable asset," Althaver remarked Friday. "That's never been more true than it is today. That will always be true."

Founded in 1950 in Fenton, Mich., Walbro moved to Cass City in September 1954 and has since grown into the world's leading manufacturer of small engine carburetors, with facilities in the United States, Japan, Singapore, West Germany and Mexico.

Walbro also manufactures ignition modules for small engine applications, has a joint venture in China to manufacture carburetors for 2-wheeled vehicles, and is developing a number of advanced systems to reduce pollution from power equipment.

PERILOUS START

While Walbro is an industry leader today, the company had a perilous start. It was 3 years before the company got its first production order, and if it hadn't been for the efforts of far-sighted investors in Cass City in 1954, Walbro might not have survived.

By 1954, the company's original facility in Fenton had proven unsuitable for the precision machining needed to produce quality carburetors. At that time, company founder Walter E. Walpole went looking for a new corporate home. He found it in Cass City.

Anxious to expand the company's business base, the Cass City Economic Development Corporation offered Walpole's fledgling company a 6,000-square-foot building and 5 acres of land for nominal rent.

In addition, a number of local citizens invested $25,000 in Walbro common stock to help the company cover start-up costs.

With this crucial help from the residents of Cass City, Walbro got rolling, and by the end of the year, the company had 70 employees and was producing 1,500 carburetors per day.

Today, 350 production workers on Garfield Avenue produce 10,000 float-feed carburetors per day. Another 140 Cass City employees manage Walbro Engine Management Corporation's global network of facilities from its headquarters, also located on Garfield Avenue.

In addition to the carburetor manufacturing facility and Walbro Engine Management Corporation's headquarters, Cass City is home to Walbro Engine Management Corporation's Aftermarket Division.

The Aftermarket Division's 14,000-square-foot facility employs 20 people and is dedicated to the aftermarket distribution of Walbro automotive and small engine fuel system and ignition products, including replacement parts, repair kits, manuals and other technical literature.

HEADQUARTERS

Walbro Corporation headquarters are also located in Cass City, employing another 80 people. Walbro Corporation is the parent company of Walbro Engine Management Corporation, which remains dedicated to the small engine industry, and Walbro Automotive Corporation, which manufactures automotive products and has operations in nearby Caro and throughout the world.

While Walbro began as a manufacturer of small engine carburetors, today's Walbro Engine Management Corporation is developing advanced engine control systems to meet the needs of its small engine customers.

For the first time, manufacturers of outdoor power equipment such as trimmers, mowers and lawn tractors face the challenge of exhaust emission standards. These standards will take effect in California in 1995, with tougher standards set for 1999.

108 attend Catholic women meet

East Region Council Catholic Women held its fall meeting at St. Patrick Parish in Palms recently.

Fr. Ron Wagner, pastor at St. Peter & Paul in Ruth, was introduced as new moderator to the 108 attending.

The morning speaker was Mike Sutherland from the Huron County Department of Social Services. The goal of the department is to make families stronger.

Tom Conklin from Catholic Family Services spoke on communication in the family -- by recognizing conflict and stress, not using distance in conflict, and to connect across generations.

St. Mary Parish in Port Sanilac will host the diocesan meeting April 26, 1995.

The day was ended with the recitation of the rosary.

Stall planning guide available

A 41-page free stall planning guide containing 30 drawings is now available through Hoard's Dairyman book division.

The guide is intended for producers with as few as 75 head who are planning to expand, to producers with 400 cows who may expand to 800.

The step-by-step booklet begins with an emphasis on management planning, taking the reader through a careful analysis of cow, human and facility requirements for successful dairy expansion.

Included in the planning are drawings of options for barn floor and milking parlor layouts, and what to consider when selecting and equipping the various components of an expanded operation. For more information on the booklet, contact Bickert at (517) 353-8643.

The "Plan Guide for Free Stall Systems" costs $29.95 plus $1.50 for shipping and handling. Write to Hoard's Dairyman Books, Box 801, Fort Atkinson, Wis. 53538-0801.

Standards will appear nationally as well before the end of decade, setting the stage for the development of advanced engine management systems to control pollution.

Thanks to its experience in fuel systems and ignition systems, and its growing electronics expertise, Walbro Engine Management Corporation expects to play a primary role in the development of these systems, which will result in the introduction of a new generation of environmentally sound small engines, Althaver said.

And, he concluded, Cass City will undoubtedly continue to play a crucial role in Walbro's future.

WALBRO CORP. President and CEO L.E. Althaver was among 4 speakers who addressed the more than 500 people in attendance at Friday's celebration marking Walbro's 40th year in Cass City.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY — Walbro Corp. officials and employees celebrated the company's 40th year of operations in Cass City with a luncheon Friday. Included in the festivities was a drawing for an all-expense paid Caribbean cruise for 2 in January. The winner was Jo Anne Butch.

Your neighbor says

On deer vacation

It's traditional for the wives of men who leave home deer hunting to use the time the hunters are away for vacation-like projects of their own.

Karen Yanna of Lansing (the former Karen Martin of Cass City) and her 2 children, Nicole, 14, and Carrie, 11, are visiting her mother, Lorraine Martin of Cass City.

Her husband is hunting in the north and the family hopes that this year's trek will be successful. He has yet to get a deer.

If he does, the venison will find ready acceptance in the family, Karen says. She likes venison steak, hamburger and sausage. Venison sausage is especially good, she says.

Besides visiting her mother, Karen, who was a lifelong resident of Cass City, is taking the opportunity to visit many of her friends and other relatives.

While not on deer vacation the Yanna parents are busy people. He is a salesman for Erb Lumber and she is the family activity director at a health care center.

Free skin cancer screening

Oncology/Hematology Associates of Saginaw Valley will conduct a free skin cancer screening clinic at Caro Community Hospital's Health Services Building later this month and in December.

John K. Bartnik, M.D., board certified in internal medicine with specialties in oncology and hematology will screen patients for basal and squamous cell carcinoma (which accounts for more than 90 percent of all skin cancers) and melanoma (skin cancer involving changes in moles), on the following days and times:

—Tuesday, Nov. 29, from noon to 5 p.m.

—Tuesday, Dec. 6, from noon to 5 p.m.

Appointments are required for the free clinic, to be held at Caro Community Hospital's health Service Building, 705 E. Frank St.

The free skin cancer screening clinic can see up to 6 patients per hour; persons who need to be examined in areas that are normally clothed are asked to wear a swimsuit or tank top under their clothes so the physician can examine those areas more quickly.

If a suspicious area is noted, patients will be given a referral with whom to make a follow-up appointment. Educational materials on skin cancer will be provided by the American Cancer Society.

The clinic is free, but appointments are required. Please call (517) 673-1670 weekdays between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. to schedule your appointment.

According to the National Cancer Institute, more than 600,000 Americans will develop skin cancer each year, the most common type of cancer in the United States. The most common warning sign of a skin cancer is a change on the skin, especially a new growth or a sore that does not heal. Both basal and squamous cell cancers are found mainly on areas of the skin that are exposed to the sun; however, skin cancer can occur anywhere.

If detected early enough, skin cancer is curable in more than 95 percent of cases. The purpose of this free screening is to provide that important early detection for patients and to provide education.

Reachout Program seeking residents to volunteer time

The Reachout Program, sponsored by the Tuscola County Department of Social Services, is seeking volunteers. This program matches volunteers to people in the community that need or enjoy visitation, telephoning, or correspondence.

Individuals benefiting from this program are elderly or disabled individuals in nursing homes, long term care facilities, adult foster care, hospitals or in their home.

By contacting these individuals a volunteer can provide them with a sense of worth, raise their quality of life, provide them with a sense of security and brighten their day with outside contact.

Everyone has something that they can share with others. Volunteers for this program come in all ages. If you would like to call, write, or visit someone, or would like someone to be in touch with you, please let us know.

We would be glad to answer any and all questions. For further information call Sandy Stock at 673-9201 or Kathy Crimp at 673-9204.

Thumb grand jury indicts 143 during year-long investigation

The Lapeer-Tuscola-Huron Citizens' Grand Jury recently completed its year-long investigation into drug trafficking in the Thumb.

As a result of the grand jury, 143 people were indicted on 487 felony counts ranging from delivery of controlled substances, such as cocaine and marijuana, to second degree murder.

Of the 143 people indicted, 27 have been classified as DEA Class I dealers, which is the highest classification on a scale of one to 5, according to Det./Lt. Gordon Good, commander of the Thumb Narcotics Unit.

The area grand jury — only the third of its kind in Michigan — was established as a result of requests by the 3 county prosecutor's offices and the State Attorney General's office, to the Michigan Court of Appeals, to look into drug trafficking and related crimes in the Thumb.

With the approval of the appeals court, a 17-member grand jury panel was seated consisting of citizens from each of the 3 Thumb counties, assisted by prosecutors from Lapeer, Tuscola and Huron counties.

"While the grand jury was seated for the purpose of investigating drug trafficking in the Thumb, other criminal activity was looked at as it related to drugs," Good said. "As a result, the 2-year-old homicide of a Kinde woman was solved, with 2 subjects charged and convicted of murder. Also, armed robberies, criminal sexual conduct, first degree, and breaking and entering were reviewed by the grand jury."

"A Department of Corrections officer was charged and convicted of obstruction of justice, and an attorney was charged with possession of cocaine, along with several other important cases.

"One of the most significant cases investigated by the grand jury involved 2 subjects out of Lapeer County who were indicted for multiple counts of cocaine trafficking," Good said. "This case led to Oakland and Wayne counties, where a total of 9 more persons were indicted for trafficking in multi-kilo amounts of cocaine each week, breaking one of the largest cocaine rings in the southeast Michigan area."

Another important case, Good pointed out, involved the investigation of drug trafficking at the Riverside Bar in Lapeer.

"This case resulted in the indictment of the owner and the seizure of the bar," he explained. "The owner pled guilty to multiple counts of delivery of cocaine, and the bar was forfeited and sold along with the liquor license, pursuant to court order."

Directly related to the grand jury activity was the seizure of cocaine and marijuana with a street value of $546,000. This included seizure of a half-kilo of pure cocaine — destined for distribution in the area — which was intercepted during delivery from Florida.

"The grand jury has had a significant, positive impact on the communities in the Thumb in helping to stop drug trafficking," Good concluded. "This would not have been possible without the cooperation of the many agencies, named and unnamed."

Investigators with the Thumb Narcotics Unit, which prompted the grand jury investigation, along with a host of other area law enforcement agencies, presented witnesses to the grand jury during its year-long operation.

Sheriff's departments from each of the counties assisted, as did the Michigan State Police and several township and village police departments, including Cass City.

As centennial farm

Kingston farm certified

Twenty-nine Michigan farms, including 2 in Tuscola County, have been certified by the Michigan Historical Commission as centennial farms.

The newly-certified Michigan centennial farms include a 120-acre grain and produce farm at 7961 E. Sanilac Rd. in Kingston owned by Carlyle W. and Donna I. Everett, and a 51-acre grain and produce farm at 10333 State Rd. in Millington owned by Donald and Helen L. Alvord.

Both farms have been continuously owned by the respective families for at least 100 years.

"I am pleased to recognize Carlyle and Donna Everett as well as Donald and Helen Alvord as their farms join the ranks of Michigan's approximately 5,000 centennial farms," Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, the state's official historian, said. "Moreover, I thank all centennial farm owners for their efforts to preserve Michigan's heritage, and for reminding us of the important role agriculture and family farms play in Michigan's economic growth."

The Centennial Farm Program was begun by the Michigan Historical Commission in 1948, with support from Detroit Edison Co.,

Consumers Power Co., local electrical cooperatives and farm groups. It is intended to recognize farms that have remained in the same family for generations and highlight the family farm's contributions to Michigan's development.

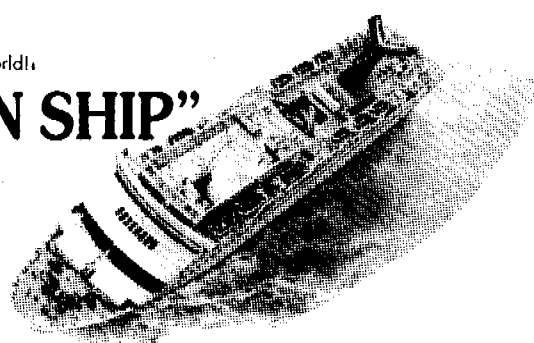

For more information on the program, contact the Michigan Department of State, Bureau of Michigan History, 717 W. Allegan St., Lansing, MI 48918-1800, or telephone (517) 373-0510.

mission has also established a Sesquicentennial Farm Program to recognize, upon request, certified centennial farms that have been owned by the same family for 150 years or longer.

Deford school veteran Zemke retiring after 26 years

Over 26 years ago Joan Zemke received a call from Janet Laszlo, secretary at Deford School, offering a job as a teacher's aide.

I didn't jump at the chance, Zemke confessed. I was concerned about whether I would like it. Bill (husband) convinced me to try when he pointed out that I could always quit.

From this hesitant start, for over a quarter of a century she became a fixture at the school. She will retire Jan. 18. The Deford veteran is working for her fifth principal.

Let me say right here, she gushed, all of them have been good to work with but the present boss, Dorland Kuntz, is the best of them all.

Except for a year when she worked as a traveling aide at Evergreen, Deford and Cass City schools, the Deford school has been the job headquarters.

While the location has remained constant, her work has changed over the years.

When I started, she explained, I worked with the teachers and not the kids. The work included correcting papers, keeping the bulletin board up-to-date and doing other details to make the teachers' work easier.

Now I work more with the kids, she smiled, and I really like that. I have a group of students in each of our 3 grades that require extra help outside the classroom and work with them as directed by the teachers.

Other duties now include making copies and arranging materials for instruction.

Let me tell you, she continued, that I have worked with a lot of great teachers here. The greatest? No way will I get into that, she replied.

One of Zemke's duties is to monitor the playground during recess and it was on a playground slide that the most serious incident in her years on the job occurred.

Michael Hill fell and broke both wrists and I took him into the building and splints were put on the fractures. His mother was called and took him to the doctor.

Thankfully, Zemke sighed, he was back in school a couple of days later and we arranged to help him with his work while his wrists were immobilized.

Thursday Zemke was handed a certificate of appreciation by the Cass City Education Association for her outstanding contributions to the students and the staff.

Echoing this was Kuntz, principal, who asserted that Zemke was a "super employee", loved by many of the kids she worked with. On top of that she had the added advantage of knowing the kids and their parents before they started school.

While she enjoys a fine rapport with students, there were a couple that didn't feel that it was so great to have her at the school. They were her 2 youngest children, Chris and Kurt, who asked plaintively if mom had to be in school every day. The other children in the family, Kathy and the deceased Butch, were not at school when Zemke was on the job. There are 3 grandchildren.

There have been changes in the kids since she began at the school, Zemke says thoughtfully. Let me say that we have a lot of very good kids here today. But the children overall don't have the respect for teachers that they did when I started.

It's not because of the kids, Zemke added quickly, that I submitted my resignation effective Jan. 18. Bill is semi-retired and we plan to do a little traveling this winter.

Texas and New Mexico are high on the list of potential winter vacation visits.

Zemke appears to be taking her final days on the job in stride, neither elated nor overly concerned that her work career is ending.

Certainly not as concerned as when she took the job in the first place to see if she would like it.

After over a quarter of a century it's a safe assumption that she did and still does.

JOAN ZEMKE has been supervising students at Deford for over 26 years.

Against flu

Recommend immunization

Each year millions of Americans are afflicted with influenza and pneumonia. Those most at risk are the very young, the very old, those suffering from chronic lung or heart disease and those with weakened immune systems.

The American Lung Association of Michigan urges all those who are considered high-risk to get a flu shot.

You are at high risk if you are over age 65, have chronic lung, heart or kidney disease, reside in a nursing home or other chronic care facility or if you have other chronic diseases. In addition, health care workers should be immunized to reduce the chances of spreading the flu to high-risk people.

The flu shot is recommended every year because the influenza virus strain changes annually.

According to the lung association, both influenza and pneumonia are deadly.

"Influenza is a highly contagious, potentially life-threatening lung disease," said Paul Munzenberger, Pharm.D., president of the ALA of Michigan. "Since 1960, pneumonia has been the leading killer by infectious disease in the U.S. It is both the most common and most deadly complication arising from influenza," he explained.

"Combined, influenza and pneumonia are the fourth leading cause of death among all American women and the fifth leading cause of death among all Americans over the age of 65," Munzenberger said.

Decker man among hunters shot on deer season opener

Two hunters, including a Decker man, were accidentally shot in Sanilac County on the opening day of the regular firearm deer season, Nov. 15.

According to Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies, Carol J. Purvis, 31, of Lapeer, was accidentally shot in the left arm and left side by her husband while hunting on private land in Buel Township.

The accident occurred at about 12:15 p.m. Reports state the couple was hunting in a fence row area in dense cover, in opposite corners, when deer ran out of the woods. Mr. Purvis fired at a deer and discovered that his wife had been hit. He was not aware of her location when he shot, deputies said.

Mrs. Purvis was transported to McKenzie Memorial Hospital in Sandusky by Sanilac EMS, and later transferred to Lapeer Regional Hospital.

A report on her condition was not available.

The second accident occurred shortly after 5 p.m. on private land in the southwest corner of Evergreen Township, where Howard F. Parker, 64, 3197 N. Van Dyke Rd., Decker, was struck in the lower left abdomen by a single slug.

He was transported by Marlette EMS to Marlette Community Hospital for treatment. Hospital officials declined to release any information on his condition at this request.

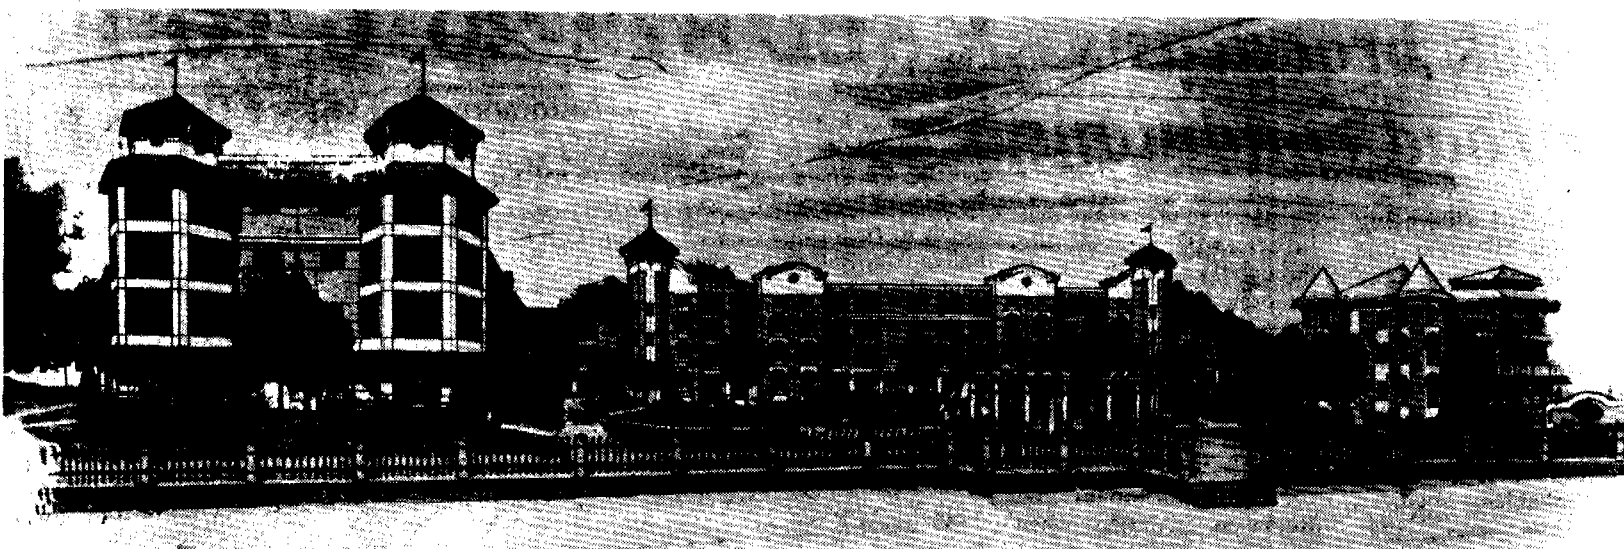

According to deputies, Parker, who is handicapped, was sitting on his 4-wheeled vehicle when several gunshots rang out, and he felt being hit by something. After discovering he had been struck by a round, Parker drove himself to his house and called 911.

Officers believe the victim was struck by a stray round fired by another hunter in the area. The shooter was not located.

The first hunting-related fatality of the gun season was reported early Wednesday morning in the Lake City area.

According to published reports, a Bay City man was fatally shot in the head at about 7:30 a.m. as he sat down on a tree stump to rest. The victim was identified as Raymond Simon, 30.

Investigators said the shooter, whose name was not immediately released, was a 47-year-old Saginaw man who thought he was shooting at a buck less than 60 yards away.

PART OF CEDAR POINT'S capital improvements plan for 1995 will include a major $10 million expansion at the historic Hotel Breakers. Named Breakers East, the new wing of accommodations will feature 205 rooms, including 102 regular rooms, 95 lakeview suites and eight tower suites.

Breakers East will display patterns of Mediterranean resort architecture and will offer such amenities as an outdoor swimming pool, an outdoor spa and an indoor sundries shop.

Originally built in 1905 at the Sandusky, Ohio, amusement park/resort, the Hotel Breakers has hosted a list of famous guests, including President Eisenhower, Helen Keller and comedians Abbott and Costello.

Cedar Point plans $1.7 million in improvements

Cedar Point officials have announced plans to invest $1.7 million in capital improvements for its 1995 season, the largest expenditure in the history of the Sandusky, Ohio, amusement park/resort.

The year 1995 will also mark the 125th anniversary of Cedar Point, the third oldest amusement park in the United States, with a heritage dating back to 1870.

The slate of projects for next year includes a new wing of accommodations at the Hotel Breakers, a major expansion at Soak City water park and several activities centered around the park's 125th anniversary celebration.

With these additions, Cedar Point will have spent more than $93 million in capital improvements since 1986.

The addition of the park's beach side Hotel Breakers property will be a massive $10 million expansion. Named Breakers East, the new wing will exhibit examples of Mediterranean resort architecture that will blend in with the classic turn-of-the-century charm of the original Hotel Breakers.

Showcasing 205 units, which will include 102 regular rooms, 95 lakeside suites and 8 tower suites, Breakers East will sit on a 5-acre site just east of the Hotel Breakers lobby. The new wing will bring the total count of guest rooms at the Hotel Breakers up to 496.

Other amenities at Breakers East will include a conference/meeting center, an outdoor swimming pool, an outdoor spa and complimentary shuttle service to other Cedar Point attractions. Room rates will range from $105-270 per night and most units will accommodate 4 to 6 people.

Cedar Point's adjacent water park, Soak City, will more than double in size when $4.3 million of state-of-the-art water attractions splash into its complex.

The centerpiece of the 6-acre expansion will be a high-action water slide that features huge circular rafts with the capacity to hold up to 6 sliders at one time. The rafts will twist, turn and speed down a 13-foot-wide flume with steeply banked sides, and at times will shoot up the sides of the channel, cresting at a nearly 90-degree angle.

Also at Soak City, an adventurous inner tube river will refresh guests with a 1,300-foot-long stream where riders will sit in inner tubes and float along its course. At one point, guests will have the option to cruise through, under and around cascading waterfalls, spraying geysers and wave and bubble generators.

Infant sleeping position cuts risk of sudden death —Recent research shows that Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) is more common in babies who go to sleep on their tummies. By putting your baby on it's back or side to sleep, you can help reduce the risk of SIDS, says the "Back to Sleep" campaign.

The campaign, sponsored by the U.S. Public Health Service, the American Academy of Pediatrics, the SIDS Alliance (a parent organization) and the Association of SIDS Program Professionals, is aimed at reducing the incidence of SIDS, the major cause of death in babies from one month to one year of age. Nearly 6,000 infants, or about one in 1,000 live births, die of SIDS each year in the U.S. Most SIDS deaths occur when a baby is between one and four months old; the death is sudden and unpredictable.

If you have any questions about your baby's sleep position or health, first talk to your doctor. For more information, call 1-800-505-CRIB. Or you can write to: Back to Sleep, P.O. Box 29111, Washington, D.C. 20040.

Announce new emission rules

The Environmental Protection Agency has announced its first federal exhaust-emission standards for diesel-powered, non-highway vehicles. The new rules, to become effective in 1996, will regulate emission of nitrogen oxide and hydrocarbons from tractors, forklifts, excavators, air compressors and other off-road engines. The new standards will raise the cost of an average diesel-powered vehicle by $220.

Check broadcasts for road conditions

Motorists traveling throughout Michigan this winter will again be as close as their car radios to receive the latest driving conditions.

The Michigan State Police Travel Advisory Network was activated Nov. 7. The network is a 24-hour road condition reporting service made available to Michigan broadcasters.

The department will utilize road condition reports from state police posts throughout the state and then make that information available through the network to local radio and television stations.

"We want the public to receive road condition information in the same manner as they do school closings—through the media," said Michigan State Police Director Col. Michael D. Robinson. "In the past, when winter weather hit, Michigan State Police posts were inundated with calls concerning driving conditions."

"In many cases, this would tie up existing lines, not allowing emergency calls to come in. By having the public listen to their local radio and television stations, they can receive the same information as though they had called directly to the post."

Since the network began in 1991, calls to state police posts have been greatly reduced, freeing up more troopers and post personnel for other law enforcement assignments during inclement weather.

Car burns, Wakefield charged with DUIL

A Cass City motorist was rescued from his burning car and later arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor last week.

The fire was reported at about 9:30 p.m. Nov. 14 on Elmwood Road about a quarter-mile west of Dodge Road. Elkland Township fire fighters were dispatched to extinguish the blaze.

The motorist was identified as Rodney L. Wakefield, 30, Cass City. Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies said Douglas Wilson of Cass City was passing by the scene when he saw Wakefield's older model Chevrolet on fire. Wilson spotted Wakefield slumped over in the car, according to reports, which state he tried unsuccessfully to wake the driver, then pulled him from the vehicle.

Wakefield was arrested and later arraigned in Tuscola County District Court on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense; driving with a suspended or restricted license, subsequent offense; and driving without insurance or proof of registration.

He was scheduled for a preliminary examination today (Wednesday) at 9 a.m. Bond in the case was set at $20,000.

SUSPICIOUS FIRE

Also last week, Elkland Township firemen responded to what Chief Milt Connolly is calling a suspicious fire near the scene of a fatal blaze earlier this month in Ellington Township.

Connolly said fire fighters were called to 4250 Deckerville Road, where a junk car and small storage shed apparently had been set on fire Thursday shortly after 5 a.m.

The property, owned by Douglas and Peggy Brock of Caseville, was the scene of a Nov. 1 trailer fire that left a man and 2 children dead, and a woman hospitalized with burns.

Connolly estimated damage to the shed and vehicle at a combined $300.

The next morning at about 2 a.m., fire fighters were called to a garage fire at the Healy residence, 7949 Daus Road.

"It destroyed 2 pickup trucks and the garage," reported Connolly, who had no dollar estimate on the loss.

Also over the past week, fire fighters responded to a car fire on Hadley Road just north of Jackson Road Nov. 13 at 11:01 p.m. Connolly said the blaze started in the engine compartment of a 1985 Mercury Cougar owned by Richard J. Satora of Sterling Heights. Damage was estimated at $500.

Connolly also reported a pair of false alarms Saturday and a small grass fire, also Saturday at 1:53 p.m., along a ditch bank at 5111 Shabbona Road.

Accident risk high for elderly farmers

The average age of the American farmer is now 55 years with almost 30 percent over the age of 65. Many farmers will never retire. Those that do retire will often do so long after the average age of retirement for those in other industries. Farming is one of the few industries that has a great number of "mature" workers (those over 65) still working on a regular basis. It is also one of the few industries that has death statistics including the elderly.

Mature farmers and children are most at risk for injury and death when considering the number of hours worked. Unlike children, older farmers have the experience and decision making skills needed for farm jobs, but they may have lost the manual dexterity, strength and depth perception needed to carry out some tasks. As a farmer ages, the loss of hearing, reduced vision and quick onset of fatigue may also increase the risk of injury to themselves and those they work with on the farm.

Some diseases, such as arthritis, may severely restrict mobility and become a risk factor for injury. Osteoarthritis has been shown to be more common among farmers than among non-farmers in the same age group. At the same time, many mature farmers need to take medications for various health problems which can have an impact on reaction time and coordination. Consideration must be given to the physical effects of aging and the related health issues.

There are ways for older farmers to help make their job safer for themselves and those around them.

1. Have regular vision checks. Due to the aging process, more light is needed to see well, but eyes may become more sensitive to glare. Decrease of peripheral vision may also affect driving performance. Older farmers should avoid driving at dusk and dawn when vision is most hampered.

2. Get plenty of rest and take frequent breaks. Accidents are much more likely to involve a fatigued operator.
3. Be aware that prescription and over-the-counter medication may affect reflexes, diminish alertness and limit ability to safely operate tractors and other machinery.

4. Make sure another family member knows where you are at all times and set regular times to "check in."
5. Know your limitations. Don't push your body or mind past safe and healthy limits.

Bach Festival

will conduct for oboe soloists Jaeger and Elizabeth Tomorsky Friday.

The works of Bach, Handel, Mozart, Schubert, Copland, Ralph Vaughan-Williams and others will be presented.

Prior to each Cass City performance at 7 p.m. evenings and 2 p.m. Sunday, pre-concert lectures will be offered.

Open rehearsals will be held Friday and Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. The rehearsals are free and children accompanied by parents are welcome.

As always, the visiting artists will be guests of Cass City residents, many of whom have welcomed back these guests year after year.

President Dale McIntosh reports

United Way expected to reach goal

The 1994 Cass City United Way campaign officially concluded Tuesday with some $16,000 collected, about $3,000 short of this year's goal of $19,000.

But officials say they're confident the goal will be met.

The campaign officially got underway Oct. 15 and concluded Nov. 15.

The numbers still aren't all in, said United Way President Dale McIntosh. "It will take us, if not the fifteenth of December, then the end of the December to get it all wrapped up."

McIntosh pointed out a number of corporate donations have been especially generous this year, including those from UPS, Walbro Corp., General Cable, Orbital Fluid Technologies and Cass City Public School employees.

"We're about on track, real close to what we were last year," McIntosh said of this year's collections. "We'll make our goal."

With the exception of Christmas baskets, which are distributed during the holiday season to an estimated 90 to 100 area families, donations collected during the local United Way campaign are distributed in the spring.

Eighty-five percent of the monies collected stay in the Cass City area. The remaining 15 percent is allocated to the Tuscola County United Way to help fund other agencies and services that benefit area residents.

Local groups and agencies that received local United Way dollars last spring included Rawson Memorial Library, Cass City Pony League, Cass City Cub, Boy and Girl Scouts, Village Bach Festival, Cass City Girls Softball, Cass City Little League, AAUW Reading Is Fundamental program, AAUW Youth Theatre and math-science programs, Cass City Food Pantry, Cass City Literacy Council, Tom Thumb Singers, Toys for Tots and the Fourth of July Festival.

This year's campaign is expected to continue a longstanding local United Way tradition of goals met year after year.

A lot of the credit goes to the small army of some 20 volunteers, including the 12-member United Way Board, that does the leg work necessary each year.

McIntosh lauded the volunteers and also noted the recent death of longtime United Way Board member Arthur Holmberg, saying Holmberg was an active, hard working volunteer for many years.

"He was a vital part of our United Way. He was sure a valuable guy to have on our board," McIntosh said. "We'll miss him."

Flu-like symptoms may be caused by dust, mold

Farmers who have a chronic cough or periodic flu-like symptoms may be suffering from something other than the flu. Exposure to dust and molds during regular farm work may be causing the flu-like symptoms of Toxic Organic Dust Syndrome (TODS).

Dust and molds commonly found in grains, hay, straw, livestock feed, dried manure and livestock housing can create a variety of respiratory problems, some of which can be severe. Dust can include particles of grain and plant materials, parts and excretions from insects, rodents, birds and mites, the residue of ag chemicals, particles of soil, fungi and bacteria.

While nuisance dusts can immediately cause coughing, sneezing, watery eyes and irritation of the nose, throat and lungs, repeated exposure to dust and molds can cause the more serious symptoms of TODS.

TODS normally begins with flu-like symptoms such as tightness in the chest, fatigue, muscle ache, headache, chills and fever within 2 to 6 hours after exposure. Exposure can come from shoveling or moving organic materials such as grains, wood chips, composted leaves or silage or working in enclosed livestock buildings and feed rooms.

Thirty to 40 percent of workers exposed to dust and/or molds will develop the disease. TODS is often unrecognized by victims and misdiagnosed by doctors as asthma attacks, pneumonia or flu because of the similarity of symptoms. TODS and Farmer's Lung (an allergic reaction to dust and molds) may have similar symptoms. While all symptoms of TODS will disappear within 24 hours to several days after exposure, repeated episodes of Farmer's Lung may produce permanent lung damage.

Prevention is the best solution to the problem. Mold inhibitors, baling hay, ensiling crops and harvesting and storing grains at the recommended moisture content can limit the development of mold and spore growth. Converting to mechanical or automated feeding or feed handling systems can reduce the amount of airborne mold spores as well as decrease human exposure. Wetting down materials before use and removing dust from feed room walls on a regular basis may also help keep spore distribution to a minimum.

Use of personal protective equipment such as a dust mask can help reduce exposure. Make sure the mask used is NIOSH approved for use in dusty and moldy conditions and that it is a proper fit. If you do need to see a doctor for respiratory problems, make sure the doctor is informed of any exposure you may have had to dust or molds.

While Toxic Organic Dust Syndrome is a serious health concern, it is easily prevented through management practices and the use of respiratory protection.

For more information about TODS or Farmer's Lung Disease, contact Geraldine R. Smith or Sandra Koglin at Huron County Health Department, 1-800-833-8550.

Storytime dies, chamber plans new display

Commerce's home decorating contest year after year.

Wyse's tools were simple: newspaper and paste, cardboard, chicken wire, lumber, and few other odds and ends. He built elaborate sets, utilized cables and motors to bring the figures to life, and topped the displays off with lighting and music.

The displays built by Wyse as well as other local citizens and groups quickly became a tradition in the village. Along with an annual live nativity pageant held at the park, the spectacle soon had people all across Michigan referring to Cass City as Christmas Town.

Newspaper accounts report the holiday pageant and displays drew thousands of people to the village each year, with cars backed up as far as M-53 waiting to get into the park.

The tradition, which garnered coverage by newspapers across the state, faded towards the end of the decade.

But Wyse, with the blessing and help of chamber officials and volunteers, revived a bit of Christmas Town years later.

In 1986, Wyse and the late Carl Schell teamed up to create a display of 19 large, animated snowmen, which danced in front of Wyse's home during the holiday season.

The pair followed up in 1987 with a safari train theme, and Wyse agreed to supervise creation of nursery rhyme characters as part of a chamber plan to re-create Christmas Town.

The project again proved popular, with thousands of cars driving through the park in recent years to see the holiday display. However, heavy winds, rain and snow, along with vandalism, have left many of the figures damaged, some beyond repair.

National Merit Scholarship program

Mastie named commended student

PRINCIPAL RUSS BIEFER, right, congratulates Nathan Mastie.

Thumb Ag Day set

Make sure that you have Wednesday, Dec. 7, marked on your calendar for Thumb Ag Day. From 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., the Colony House, Cass City, will be the home of the Thumb area's largest agricultural trade show. This year's program is bigger than ever with nearly 100 agri-businesses offering displays and information. Participants will have an opportunity to hear a humorous and informational talk by Jolene Brown of West Branch, Iowa. In addition to the agri-business exhibits which will be on display throughout the day, the morning program will feature informational speakers as well. Dale Kuenzli of the Michigan Bean Commission, and Keith Muxlow of the Michigan Corn Marketing Committee will make presentations regarding their organizations current activities. Thumb Ag Day is sponsored by the Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola offices of MSU Extension, with cooperation from area agri-businesses.

Russell Biefer, Cass City High School principal, announced recently that Nathan J. Mastie has been named a commended student in the 1995 National Merit Scholarship program. A letter of commendation will be presented by the school to this scholastically able senior.

About 35,000 commended students throughout the nation are being honored for their exceptional academic promise. They placed among the top 5 percent of more than a million students who entered the 1995 merit program by taking the 1993 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship qualifying test. Although the qualifying test scores of commended students are outstanding, they are slightly below the level required to continue in the competition for merit scholarships to be awarded in 1995. It is hoped that the recognition received by the young men and women who are commended in this rigorous, nationwide competition will encourage them to take advantage of their opportunities for higher education and to diligently pursue their professional goals.

Biddinger to collect taxes

The Elkland Township Board last week accepted a bid from Michelle Biddinger to collect delinquent personal property taxes in the township. No specific amount has been set regarding payment for the service, according to township Treasurer Art Randall, who explained Biddinger will receive a percentage of what she collects. In other business during the Nov. 14 monthly meeting, Clerk Norma Wallace reported the board approved a motion to remove some land from P.A. 116. The size of the parcel, owned by Grant Hutchinson, was not available.

Tuscola sheriff joins drive to reduce drunk driving accidents

The Tuscola County Sheriff's Department this week began "Tying One On For Safety" to help kick off the annual Mother's Against Drunk Driving (MADD) Red Ribbon sober driving public awareness campaign.

The campaign officially began Monday and will run through Jan. 1 — the key holiday season when alcohol-related crashes occur more often.

Patrol cars will display red ribbons throughout the campaign to remind motorists of the consequences of drinking and driving.

Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern is encouraging drivers to commit to safe and sober driving especially during the holiday season, and tie a red ribbon onto a visible location on their vehicle in support of the Red Ribbon campaign.

The ribbons serve as a reminder not only to the driver, but passersby who see the ribbons, Kern noted.

The first Red Ribbon campaign was kicked off in 1986 by MADD in an attempt to prevent the higher than usual number of alcohol-related traffic crashes during the holiday season. Law enforcement agencies across the state have since taken a leadership role in supporting and promoting the annual effort.

"Tie One On For Safety is a big part of our community because it lets the public know that we're working toward a common goal — to get them and their families home safely from their holiday visits," Kern said.

"We've seen too many tragedies during the winter holidays that didn't have to end in death or injury — all because someone celebrated a little too much and chose to get behind the wheel. We're hoping Red Ribbon will prevent some of those tragedies."

This year, the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department will support the campaign by making red ribbons available to the public (while supplies last) in the lobby of the sheriff's department in Caro. Although progress has been made over the years in reducing the number of fatalities due to alcohol-related traffic crashes during the holidays, people are still dying needlessly on Michigan roads.

Last year over Thanksgiving, 8 of 29 traffic fatalities (27.6 percent) involved alcohol; over Christmas, 4 of 8 fatalities (50 percent) involved alcohol; over New Year's, 4 of 19 fatalities (21.1 percent) involved alcohol.

Overall in 1993, 575 of the total 1,414 traffic fatalities (40.7 percent) involved alcohol.

More information on how to become involved in the local "Tie One On For Safety" campaign is available by contacting the sheriff's department (673-8161) or the MADD state office at (517) 631-MADD.

Sentence of Stevens upheld by court

The Michigan Court of Appeals has affirmed Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn in the matter of People of the State of Michigan versus James Russell Stevens. The defendant had pleaded guilty to absconding or forfeiting bond, unlawful use of an automobile, third habitual offender and in addition, pleaded no contest to third-degree criminal sexual conduct.

Judge Joslyn sentenced Stevens to 2 to 4 years imprisonment for the absconding and forfeiting bond conviction, 14 to 24 months imprisonment for the unlawful use of an automobile conviction, and 10 to 20 years for the CSC conviction.

The defendant appealed his sentence, claiming that the trial court erred in failing to articulate the reasons for his sentences and challenging his sentence for third-degree CSC. The Court of Appeals found that the defendant had pleaded guilty and was sentenced in accordance with a plea bargain and sentencing "cap" and therefore review of his sentence is precluded by his failure to move to withdraw his plea.

The Court of Appeals ruled that Judge Joslyn sentenced Stevens in accordance with the 10 year minimum sentence cap and therefore they would not review the issues on appeal.

Bees help

Bees have been drafted by Agriculture Department researchers to transport a virus that helps kill an insect pest that attacks clover. As the bees exit their hive, they walk through a shallow pan that contains talc and the virus. The dust coats their legs and is carried to the field where the insect pests are found.

Earnings slightly less than expected

Walbro announces fuel tank contract

Walbro Corporation has revised its earnings estimates and announced a major automotive contract for plastic fuel tanks.

"We expect that 1994 earnings will be down somewhat from earlier consensus estimates," according to L.E. Althaver, chairman, president and chief executive officer of Walbro Corporation.

"In addition, we expect 1995 earnings to be at the lower end of the range of earnings estimates by analysts.

"On the positive side, Walbro Automotive Corporation has just signed a contract to supply multi-layer plastic fuel tanks to Ford Motor Company for use on the Windstar minivan. We expect to supply more than 134,000 tanks per year for this important application. The plastic tanks will be supplied from our new 60,000 sq. ft. facility in Ossian, Ind. The Ossian plant was built before Walbro had any fuel tank business, reflecting our confidence in the new multi-layer tank technology and our ability to apply that technology to satisfy the needs of our automotive customers," Althaver added.

"The reduction in our 1994 earnings estimate primarily reflects lower third quarter income, continuing into the fourth quarter," Althaver said. "Orders for small engine carburetors were below normal seasonal levels in the third quarter as some of our customers held off placing orders due to delays related to new emissions certification requirements that their products will be required to meet."

"While automotive sales were strong in the third quarter, costs related to expansion of our Meriden, Conn., fuel module facility and operating inefficiencies at our Ligonier, Ind., fuel rail plant had adverse effects on profits," Althaver noted.

"These factors will also lower fourth quarter profits. In addition, higher interest rates and foreign exchange losses from the weak US dollar will also impact fourth quarter profits."

"The outlook for 1995 is positive," according to Walbro's chief executive officer. "Orders for small engine carburetors are gradually building in the fourth quarter, and we anticipate strong order levels in the first quarter of 1995," he noted.

"These improvements in the small engine industry, combined with our expectation of continued strength in the US automotive industry and our entry into the fuel tank business, indicate that 1995 will be a year of solid growth in sales and earnings for Walbro Corporation," Althaver concluded.
