Police probe fatal accident

VOLUME 88. NUMBER 35

Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies are continuing their investigation into a fatal vehicle-pedestrian accident that claimed the life of an Evergreen Township man early Thanksgiving Day.

The victim, Bill Tucker, 42, was pronounced dead at the scene.

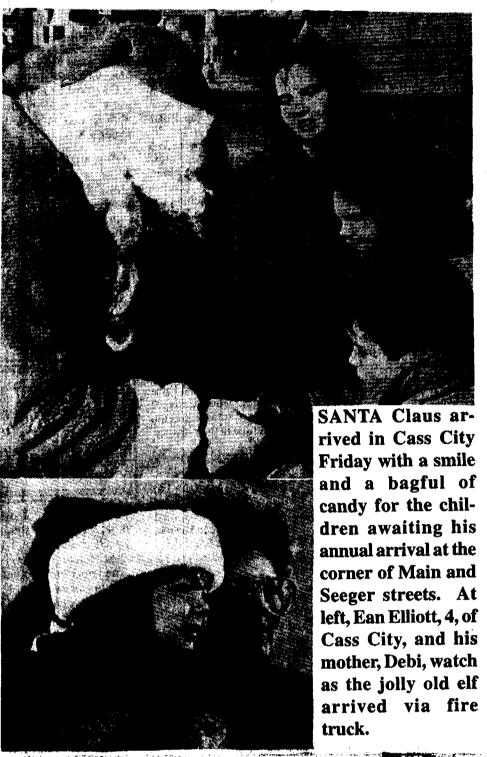

The accident occurred about 4 miles southeast of Cass City, on M-53 just north of Pringle Road in Evergreen Mownship, according to reports, which state Tucker was walking along the highway at about midnight when he was struck.

The driver of the vehicle was arrested on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor involving a fatal accident, deputies said. The motorist, whose name was not released, was lodged at the Sanilac County Jail.

Investigators said the driver's name and other details would be released following the driver's arraignment Tuesday morning in Sanilac County District Court

Deputies were assisted at the scene by Michigan State Police troopers from the Bad Axe post, Cass City police, Cass City-Mercy Ambulance

Jordan defaults on payments

Village debates college building takeover

Cass City officials may declare Jordan College in default of its lease agreement for the school's Thumb Area Campus building in the vil-

The proposal was discussed at a monthly Village Council meeting Monday night.

Village President L.E. Althaver recommended the action. While Jordan has sufficient funding to meet its current educational expenses, he said, it appears the financially troubled school - now more than a year behind in its lease payments to the village — will not be able to meet its other financial obligations in the near future.

Althaver proposed that the village take back the 14,000square foot building and forgive the college's existing $77,000 debt, representing the past year's lease pay-ments totalling about $57,000 plus an additional amount that was to have been set aside in a local Economic Development Corporation

Althaver recommended that the village continue making the $57,000 lease payments and rent a portion of the building to Jordan College and to interested businesses or governmental agencies. He also suggested that a por- nomic Development Corpotion of the building could serve as a new home for vil-

BACKGROUND

Jordan's Thumb Area Campus, located at 6667 Main St., was built in 1989. The project was made possible through a $340,000 loan backed by the village and 34 individuals in the community who each agreed to guarantee $10,000 of the debt.

The loan was made by Chemical Bank and Thumb National Bank to the village through the Cass City Eco- forced the private, non-profit ration. The land was donated by Chemical Bank. Under the lease agreement, the college would have owned the building after 7

However, debt problems and a bitter battle with the U.S. Department of Education have crippled the school financially.

$31 a year less Garbage pick-up costs reduced

Cass City residents will pay about $31 less per year for garbage pick-up and disposal following action at a Village Council meeting Monday

As expected, the council awarded the village's 3-year waste pick-up/disposal and recycling service contract to Cove Sanitation Inc., Bad Axe, the lowest of 4 firms to submit a bid last month.

first 2 years of the contract, and $8 per household per month the third year.

Cove was one of 2 bids that came in at more than $2 cheaper than the $10.45 per month charged now. The other was submitted by Waste Management of MI-Mideast. Almont - the household per month for the month the first 2 years, and $8.35 the third year.

Bids were also received from People's Garbage Inc., Birch Run ($10.49 per household per month the first year), and BFI Waste Systems, Northville ($10.88 per household per month the first year). Both firms indicated their rates could be adjusted village's current contractor in subsequent years of the Cove will begin serving the village in January.

NO PORN

Also Monday, the council heard from the Rev. Scott Tysick, pastor of the Living Word Worship Center in Cass City, during the citizen forum portion of the meeting.

Tysick noted his church has been working in recent years to inform the public about the dangers of pornography and its availability in the community.

This year, he said, the church and other concerned individuals in the community combined resources and, with the cooperation of a local business owner, purchased all the x-rated adult films available for rent in the village. Tysick noted only one business in town offered the tapes for rent.

A total of 62 videos were purchased at a cost of $868, according to the pastor, who said the material will be de-

Tysick went on to say he understands another video rental business plans to locate in Cass City. He com-stand against topless dancing and similar entertainment, and asked officials to go one step further by banning rental of x-rated videos in the vil-

Village President L.E. Althaver responded by saying the village has certain authority to restrict some forms of entertainment through liquor licenses, but he questioned whether the council has the authority to restrict other businesses. Althaver noted the issue of pornography and community standards has been in and out of courts nationwide, adding, "I'm not sure if the village is in a position to establish new constitutional law."

Tysick, however, said other cities have successfully banned pornography. He pressed the council to investigate what it could do le-

The matter was referred to the council's Rules Committee, which will check with the village's attorney and the Michigan Municipal League. In other business, the council learned that Police Chief Gene Wilson recently completed a Traffic Crash Report (UD-10) Retread Workshop.

ANNETTE PINNEY of Cass City (above) was among a handful of residents who purchased parts of the Storytime display, which were offered for sale on a donation basis Saturday. Money from the sale will be used to purchase new decorations for the village in memory of the late Lloyd Vyse.

Storytime figure sale generates meager $250

Saturday's sale of the able pieces were sold. Storytime nursery figures and other papier mache figures created under the guidance of the late Lloyd Vyse generated about $250.

The sale was held from 10 a.m. to noon in the park, just north of the newly-constructed gazebo at the corner of Ale and Church streets, and in the Cultural Center building.

Cass City Chamber of Commerce member John Maharg estimated roughly 30 of the more than 50 availChamber officials organized the sale after deciding not to set up the Storytime display in the village park this holiday. The decision was based on the condition of the 6-year-old papier mache decorations, which have taken a beating from the elements and vandals in recent years.

The decorations that were salvageable, along with other papier mache and wood figures and displays created by Vyse, were sold Saturday on a donation basis. The money will be placed in a Lloyd Vyse Memorial Fund and earmarked for the purchase of new holiday decorations for the village beginning next Maharg noted a few of Vyse's snowmen figures, as well as a number of the Storytime backdrops are still available for sale.

My husband and I are both suffering from a malady that renders us irritable, listless and vaguely discontent. At our age, you might suspect lack of fiber in the diet. However, I don't think the symptoms are the result of a physical problem.

Neither of us wants to admit it, but I'm afraid it's the dreaded CGW Syndrome (Computer Game Withdrawal).

We reluctantly left our computer in critical condition in Dayton, Ohio, about 10 days

After calling Computer 911 (alias son-in-law Andy) several times and attempting to give it CPR per his phone instructions, it became apparent that it was going to require more treatment than a lay person could administer. It needed the attention of a specialist. So we boxed the thing up and hauled it to Ohio, so Andy could examine the patient close up.

The diagnosis was a virus and the prognosis is in doubt. We have no idea how it contracted the debilitating virus. As far as we know, it hadn't been consorting with any other computers, healthy or otherwise.

We have another PC, but it's in a different part of the house, used strictly as a word processor. (It's also black and white and not good for playing games.) It appears to be in perfect health and to our knowledge has never fraternized with the ailing

However, a printer connected with the word processor did suffer a mysterious, untimely end a few months ago. After learning it needed a transplant and parts were not available, we donated the printer to research.

For those who know as little about computers as we do, a virus is far more serious than

What is Tonsillitis?

Tonsillitis does not always mean that a person has strepus throat. Tonsillitis simply means that the tonsils are in 1 flamed or infected. This may be due to viruses, strep, other bacteria or allergies.

The important step in treating tonsillitis is to determine what the cause is. Antibiotics will not help if it is a virus, but they are necessary in preventing rheumatic fever if strep throat is causing the tonsillitis.

Having white spots on the tonsils is a common sign in strep throat, but it is also seen with viruses such as mono and other causes of inflammation of the tonsils.

Your doctor will determine the cause by listening to the symptoms, examining the throat and by lab tests.

A throat culture tells if a strep infection is present. If strep is not present, a blood count and mono test may be done. These may indicate if a virus, mono, or allergies or sinus infection causing drainage over the tonsils and throat, is causing the tonsillitis.

There is now a quick test for identifying strep which only takes a few minutes to run as opposed to an actual culture which takes 1-2 days for the results.

It is important to know if mono is causing the tonsillitis. Mono should not be treated with antibiotics since it is a virus and a person is likely to get a rash from penicillins if they are used during a mono infection.

In the not too distant future it's likely that there will be tall, tall towers springing up around Cass City with antenna fluttering in the wind.

Probably the first to be erected will be at Cass City High School, but it won't be erected as soon as first projected. The tower at the school is to transmit to school buses and was necessary because of the clutter on the line the school

It was expected to be in operation by the time the snow season arrived, but it won't. It's not that the construction couldn't be completed to meet this time table that the project is delayed.

The tower project has been put on hold for 2 months or more because it is snarled in red tape while trying to secure the needed license to operate.

The second tower projected will service the television staion at the Regional Educational Media Center in Cass City. It Was originally scheduled to use C-Tec towers free of charge. but the tower is not high enough to properly transmit the signal. So a new higher tower is needed.

This one is also delayed by a little matter of $80,000 or more needed to erect the unit.

There's little doubt that the present welfare system is out of hand and resulted in a chain of welfare families, generation after generation.

Does it take Gingrich's medicine to effect a cure? Or better yet, will his medicine work at all? Building a string of orphanages across the land may house some of the deprived children, but will it solve the problem?

Also in the plan is changing the system so that working at minimum or low wages will not completely cut off welfare aid. Essentially, what a plan like that would do would make it an advantage for the poor to learn and to get a job and not spawning child after child to place on the welfare rolls. Seems to me that is a better plan than the one that disregards the effect on kids with a program that, in the long run, may not save taxpayers

You never know when nostalgia will strike.

The hard-working woman who regularly prepares my meals went into the kitchen and, after 2 minutes of strenuous melting, returned to serve me a sandwich from Arby's.

Guilty secret: Until just the other day, I thought there was probably a Mr. Arby. It took a small grandchild to make me understand that Arby is R.B., which is roast beef.

Anyway, although I've always read the signs, this was my first bite of an Arby's. Usually, my cook freezes Olga lamb sandwiches to be later melted into Sunday din-We are the world's only couple who, when headed for the big city, look like we're going on a picnic in the country. That's because we load a large cooler into the car trunk. Headed south, the cooler contains only a cold pack, but coming back home, it's full of...

CATCHING UP WITH THE LATEST DEVICES

Wait. First, here's another guilty secret: A year ago, when I first began never leaving home without a cooler, I loaded hundreds of refrigerator ice cubes into it, always complaining about having to perform such an onerous domestic chore. When my wife suggested it would be simpler if I bought a cold pack, I thought she was sarcastically saying a six-pack of beer might improve my temperament.

I was surprised when she dragged me into a hardware store and pointed at something called Super Ice, in a pack smaller than a Cracker Jack box. As advertised, it is colder longer than real ice, with no messy melting. Wow. I felt nearly as happy as the day I discovered lawn service. My wife said she didn't believe anyone could live as long as me without knowing what a cold pack was.

Which led to an interesting conversation. She said if she dies first, I will soon starve to death while lost and wandering aimlessly in search of the kitchen. I said if I die first, her life will become barren and drab because she doesn't know how to push the right button on even one of our nine TV/VCR/cable remote clickers.

Full-time entertainment directors like me hardly have time to learn to cook, or to Sunday dinner.

I was overcome with warm memories of a long-ago world when food wasn't fast, ovens weren't micro, and Joe Penner was on the radio.

I mention Penner only because, a few columns ago, I advised readers to ask their grandparents who he was. Several of you responded that even your grandparents didn't remember. So OK. The ancient answer is Penner was a radio-movie comic who kept asking if anyone wanted to buy a duck. Now, will you kids please quit bothering me?

Finally, speaking of the sensible old days, I read that many radio and TV stations are censoring out any mention of marijuana from modern song lyrics. Although booze has surely done more damage than pot, I'm glad my generation never stopped Frank Sinatra from telling Joe to set up one more for the road, even though it was a quarter to three and time to

FOR MANY, THE MYSTERY IS SOLVED

When I was a little boy, for Sunday evening supper my mother often served sandwiches made with roast beef left over from Sunday dinner, with mayonnaise. It had been over 50 years since I tasted a roast beef and mayonnaise sandwich, not to mention

Have you ever been watching a professional or college football game when someone runs onto the field to tend to an injured player? That's a Certified Athletic Trainer or A.T., C. A.T., C.s are well-qualified individuals who are certified by the National Athletic Trainers' Association.

Many A.T., C.s have advanced degrees - Masters and/or Doctorates - and have a thorough understanding and skill in the prevention and care of athletic injuries. While athletic training was once a predominantly male-oriented field, the profession is now fast-approaching an equal male/female proportion

A.T., C.s are employed in various settings. Most professional and university sports teams have 1 or more A.T., C.s on staff as do clinical and industrial rehabilitation centers. While most high schools do not employ A.T., C.s, contractual arrangements are usually available with loca sports medicine clinics.

Check basic lighting for safety this holiday season

The hustle and bustle of the a safe, inexpensive way to or change fuses when light holiday season should not preclude safety from being an important element of festive lighting displays.

"It's easy to get caught up in the spirit of the season and forget to include some basic safety checks," said Claudia Gabay, Detroit Edison's corporate lighting consultant.

Just a few minutes checking electric decorations can help prevent shocks or the start of fires. The most important thing before stringing lights and setting up other trimmings is to make sure they contain a label from Underwriters Laboratories (UL).

The "UL" designation ensures that the set has been designed for safe operation. She added that the secondmost important consideration is to use lighting as it is intended by the manufacturer - - either outdoor or indoor.

"If your indoor lights are hot to the touch, they should not be used," Gabay said. "We want everybody to have a safe holiday and the best way to do that is to take a few moments and check for frayed wires, damaged sockets and cracked or missing insulation. If there are defects, the entire set should be replaced."

Decorative lighting can be ignite the holiday spirit, Gabay said. Most lights cost from less than one cent to 7.5 cents per string to operate for 6 hours, depending on wattage. For strands of lights that blink off and on, the cost is

Gabay offered the following suggestions for a safer holiday season:

INDOOR LIGHTING

* Do not overload electrical circuits. Older home circuits usually cannot safely carry more than 15 amperes or 1,800 watts. Newer homes are able to carry as much as 20 amps or 2,400 watts. For the best results, load to only 80 percent of your home's maximum capacity.

* Use no more than 3 sets of standard lights on each extension cord. * Do not insert new bulbs sets are plugged in.

* Keep lights away from carpeting, furniture and drapes. Some standard lights produce enough heat to scorch or damage items they touch.

* Turn off decorative lights before you go to bed or leave

OUTDOOR LIGHTING

* Use only outdoor extension cords with molded plugs and sockets.

* Keep all electrical connections off the ground and hang sockets downward to prevent water from seeping into them.

* Do not run lighting cords damaged.

When does no mean no?

John Haire,

I'm confused. During the September school board .098 meeting, while trying to out Question the issue of putting ties the middle school millage 515 h back on the ballot Feb. 18, I 10-3 was informed by Randy Severance that this was a "moot" issue since the Board had unanimously voted to put. this issue before the voters

More good things should be printed

It was good to read the uplifting article in Rabbit Tracks, about the wallet returned to its owner fully intact. It's just a crying shame that more of the good things couldn't be printed instead of so much depressing detri-3 ment.

I'm sure that there are many more unreturned wallets than there are returned ones to their rightful owners.

However, the gratification received when the return transaction takes place, is worth its weight in gold. Believe me, I've been there. Keep on printing, John.

Unfortunately I could not attend the October meeting. At the November meeting, while reviewing the notes of the deeds accomplished at the October meet-

"officially" voted to resubmit

the school millage before the

Don't forget these 6 lovely ladies

Cass City lost 6 funny, loving, lovely ladies over the summer. One was an acquaintance, one was a coworker, one was a neighbor; I considered them all friends. They left behind people and loved ones who will miss them terribly. To me the greatest tribute to them will be to remember them with a laugh, a smile or a tear.

All these grand ladies were educators, not only by profession but by their human spirit. They were wonderful mothers and grandmothers, some only getting the chance to let their young grandchildren know them. I'm sure their children will keep their spirit and memory alive for Michelle Zdrojewski the little ones as they grow. They were different ages with different lifestyles but they all made you feel good to be in their company. They made you laugh and let you know that life was special. I hope that each of us, whose life they touched, will pass on to others what they gave

We should never forget them. We need to cherish the time we had them and to cherish the time we have.

This was just a small thank you to 6 wonderful, funny, full-of-life ladies that I knew: Klco, Phyllis Brinkman, Ruth Houghton, Betty Murphy, Carolyn Martin and Betty Kirn. Thanks for letting us know you.

scription renewal to the Chronicle.

You have asked for ideas on some articles for the paper. I know what I'd like to see. An article or two or three about Cass City in the thirties when I was a very young girl. I grew up in Caro but every summer I spent two lovely weeks on my aunt and uncle's farm in the Cass City area. Every week we came to town (C.C.) on Saturday night to buy groceries and treats - even an ice cream cone if I was very lucky. Lots of visiting went on.

I'd like to see the names of the stores (and pictures if possible) which were on Main Street then. I believe one of the McConkeys managed either a Kroger or A & P store back then. Some articles about the things and times people remember way back then - how about it? My mother was one of the Helwigs from Cass City - her parents homesteaded a farm

Village debates building takeover

ineantime, back debt owed by the school, in many cases, has been forgiven or deferred on an interest-free basis.

Althaver, who serves as a trustee on the Jordan College Board of Directors, pointed out that although some poor business decisions years ago contributed to the college's debt woes, its problems with ... the education department were technical in nature and involved no fraud or miscon-₩duct.

Moreover, he suggested, the school has been a victim of fremendous political pressure at the national level in ecent years to clamp down on waste in student loan and ther entitlement programs.

OBLIGATION

Still. Althaver said Cass City officials have an obligation to protect the interests of the village. As it stands, he noted, the balance on the Jordan College loan is expected to total roughly $200,000 at the end of the year.

Althaver said the first step towards declaring default will be to obtain an appraisal of the building and property.

He explained the IRS has a lien on the facility, but it's the opinion of accountants and attorneys that the lien would be lifted if the village can prove that it won't be profiting unfairly by taking back the building.

As for future use, Althaver said he feels the building would be a solid investment for the village in light of increasing interest in Cass City as a central location for business and government offices.

The building's Main Street location and adequate parking would also make it an ideal site to house the village offices, which have become increasingly cramped in an aging building, he said.

"I think this building offers an ideal opportunity for a he doesn't believe the village should be in the landlord business, and that if an appraisal of the facility comes in high enough, it might be better to sell the building and eventually build another municipal building tailored to the village's needs.

Althaver agreed all the possibilities should be considered and discussed before any decisions are made, and recommended the council take no action Monday night. Council members agreed to review the matter further before proceeding.

Village Council reviews proposed '95 spending plan

Council Monday reviewed a proposed 1995 budget totalling $1.72 million.

The new spending plan represents a decrease of about $95,000, or 5.2 percent, compared to 1994.

Actual expenditures for the current budget year are estimated at $1.817 million. Revenues, meanwhile, are expected to total $1.818 million, leaving a year-end fund balance of $542,000.

Village officials plan to use $46,300 of the surplus to balance the 1995 budget, which includes no planned millage increase or water and/or sewer rate hikes.

Salary and wage hikes are estimated at 3.5 percent. The council, which discussed proposed wages and fringe benefits during a 30-minute executive session, will set the actual figure when the budget is adopted next month.

The proposed 1995 budget includes $288,550 worth of equipment replacement, maintenance, road construc-

> By far the largest chunk willgo for road improvements, including $83,200 earmarked for paving and construction of curb and gutter on Hospital Drive, from Hill Street to Dale Street.

> Another $53,000 will be spent repaving sections of 4 streets: Crestwood Drive and Circle ($12,000); West Street, Pine to Garfield ($12,000); Garfield Avenue. Seeger to Doerr ($22,5000), and Seed Street, Oak to Ale ($6,500).

> Other maintenance projects include replacement of water mains on Oak Street, Huron to Church ($10,500); Sixth Street, Seeger to West ($19.500), and Downing Street, Main to Church ($10,500).

Major replacement purchases in the coming year include $37,750 for a dump truck and box, and $19,000 for a new police patrol car.

Cass City wrestling team young and inexperienced

The good news is that Coach Don Markel has 29 players on this year's wrestling squad at Cass City High School. The bad news is that only 4 seniors are on the squad.

We will be young and inexperienced, Markel says, and we have gaps in the 172 and 185-pound classes. Another problem will be finding someone to fill the big shoes of 4 outstanding veteran performers who graduated. Start with Matt Hoppe. He chalked up a gaudy 42-5 record and placed fifth in the state finals.

Other stalwart wrestlers who graduated included Don Golden, 11-11; Tom Davis, 27-13, and Ed Nizzola, 27-

With these players lost, Markel will turn to 3 seniors to take a leadership role. Last year Bob Davis, 119 pounds, was 25-10; Alfred Connolly, 134 pounds, was 16-14, and Steve Irvine, 142 pounds, was 14-24.

Last season the Hawks were 3-2 in league play and 9-7 overall in competition that included many larger schools.

How the untried younger wrestlers progress will go a long way in determining the success of the team this sea-

The question among Cass City Red Hawk basketbail fans today is, Is Cass City good or very good? The answer will depend on how Coach Jeff Hartel's charges respond to the challenges the

One of these challenges is to find a point guard to go along with the big, burly, tough rebounders that are the strength of the team. Sure to get a long look at the spot is Dan Sherman, who in limited playing time was at point for the team last season. Sherman is quick and handles the ball well, but will need to adjust to the varsity tempo to be effective.

Kevin Storm, a senior, earned his spurs last year at the number 2 guard spot. He's a rugged rebounder and at times filled the hoop from outcourt.

On the front line Cass City is loaded, but still might not be as effective as last year. That's because Paul Ulfig, one of the Thumb's top, if not the top, player is gone from center. Paul Murphy, the sharp shooting forward has also graduated. Also missing from the front line are John Phillips and Tavis Osentoski, who gave the team strong bench strength.

The Hawks will be missing last year's top guard, Steve Muska, as well as Aaron Hewitt, Mike Sherman and Darren Wallace.

These players will be missed, but don't think for an instant that the team is bereft of front court talent. Start with Jason Morgan, the tough 225-pound all-conference center. He stands 6-3 but last year out-jumped players 4 inches taller.

Flanking Morgan will be Scott Iwankovitsch, 6-7 forward, who came off the bench and was often the carelyst that sparked the teach to

Court upholds Judge Joslyn

The Michigan Court of Appeals recently upheld Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn in the matter of Donald and Carol Robinson versus MIC General Insurance Corporation.

The defendant's insurance company had filed an appeal after Joslyn denied its motion to vacate an arbitration award and granted plaintiff's motion to enter judgment on the award.

The appeals court ruled Joslyn had properly granted plaintiffs' motion to enter judgment on the arbitrator's decision, stating further that the arbitrators had the power to determine whether plaintiffs were legally entitled to recover damages and, if so, the amount of those dam-

The court found that defendant's claims on appeal were merely an improper attempt to induce the court to review the merits of the decision.

Bov Scouts earn their CPR cards

Four Deford Troop 593 Boy Scouts earned their CPR cards Tuesday, Nov. 22. Scott Moore, Cory Kulinski, Travis Eyer and Denny Gibson learned about the "Healthy Heart" lifestyle of exercise and proper diet; signs/symptoms of heart attack and one-man CPR.

The Boy Scouts also worked with Webelo Scouts Herb Reynolds, Jeremy Reed, Jeff Harmon and Aaron Spencer on airway obstruction and the Heimlich maneuver. They were supervised by Sally Eyer, RN, of Tendercare Cass City, with mannequins provided by Hills and Dales Hospital.

Your neighbor says

Thanksgiving a family tradition

Thanksgiving is the traditional time for busy families to get together for fellowship and time sharing.

We operated in the traditional way, Michael Jones said, when discussing his holiday at the home of his parents, Gary and Doris Jones of Cass City.

We had the traditional turkey with all the trimmings, he smiled. I was joined at my parents' house by my sister and her husband from Caro and my grandmother and grandfather.

Michael was interviewed at Rawson Memorial Library. where he was busy studying for classes when he resumes his study to become a lawyer at the Detroit College of Law. Jones received his bachelor's degree from Michigan State University. Prior to leaving he was a lifelong resident of Cass City, graduating from Cass City High School in 1988. He expects to earn his law degree in the

Oh, yes, he sighed, we have a traditional Thanks giving holiday at our house in another way also. It will be leftovers for the rest of the week.

SPASMS OF TINY BLOOD VESSELS... THE CULPRIT BEHIND RAYNAUD'S DISEASE

The condition known as Raynaud's Disease involves the blackening of the toes and fingers along with stinging pain upon cold exposure.

It is a normal physiological reflex mechanism for blood ressels in your extremities to narrow when it is cold. However, for unknown reasons, in those with Raynaud's Disease, the vessel response to changes in the circulation in the feet and hands is highly exaggerated. The result? A finger or toe may appear white and lifeless.

The skin color may turn blue or red before recovery. In contrast, Raynaud's Phenomenon, which gives a similar clinical picture, may be a consequence of a more serious disease such as scleroderma. Certain tests are needed for the physician to distinguish the disease from the phenomenon.

To avoid attacks of Raynaud's Disease, protection from cold is crucial! Dress Warm! Do not smoke. Nicotine decreases the blood flow to your skin. Avoid cold remedies and diet pills containing the drug "phenylpropamolamine". Birth control pills also affect circulation and may induce attacks. Large amounts of caffeine should be avoided. If these measures fail, prescribed medication may be used to prevent the vascular spasms. In extreme cases, surgical procedures to cut the nerves that control the blood vessels may be performed. This is not always successful and is usually a last resort. The best treatment? Stay away from those factors which are known to cause an attack! For more information regarding this condition or any others involving the foot, call the physicians at Northeastern Foot Clinic.

Police arrest suspects in Oct. 31 candy theft

Cass City police arrested 3 people over the weekend, including a pair of area teens on 2-count misdemeanor warrants stemming from the theft of candy from another youth on Halloween night in Cass City.

Cass City police report they arrested Michael J. Larges, 17, Cass City, and Joshua J. Sting, 17, Deford, Friday evening.

The warrants allege the pair committed larceny less than $100 and assault and battery. Reports state the teens are accused of assaulting Todd Furness and stealing his candy Oct. 31 in the village.

Police arrested an Elkton motorist Saturday on suspicion of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor and violation of license restrictions.

The motorist, William R. Forster, 23, was stopped on North Seeger Street near Chestnut Boulevard Saturday at 2 a.m., reports state. Also last week, police cited a juvenile for careless driving and "turfing" after observing his vehicle doing 180-degree turns in the village park north of the pool building. The incident occurred Nov. 23 shortly after 9 p.m.

Both the driver and his passenger, also a juvenile, were also cited for incorrect use of seat belts, reports state.

Police also received a malicious destruction of property complaint from Kyle Andrews, 6364 Pine St., Cass
