Nab young teen for motel theft; suspect others

Cass City police last week recovered a pair of credit cards stolen from a room at the Charmont Motel, 6138 E. Cass City Rd., last month.

Real Mercier of West Springfield, Mass., reported someone entered his room at the motel during the evening hours of Feb. 21 or early morning Feb. 22, and stole $160 in cash and 3 credit cards.

A phone tip led police Thursday to a 13-year-old Gagetown area youth who admitted to being involved, according to police. Another juvenile, as well as an adult, may also be interviewed.

Police were able to recover 2 of the stolen credit cards, and stated they expect to recover the missing cash.

FIRE DESTROYED a payload loader Monday at the William Jones farm, 5655 Pringle Rd. The equipment, which was insured, is valued at $5,000, according to Elkland Township fire fighters, who were at the scene for about 90 minutes.

Boards of review meetings set in area townships

Area boards of review will meet Monday and Wednesday with residents who want to discuss their property tax assessments.

In Tuscola County, Equalization Director Ed Karr said the overall recommended increase in residential land this year is about 3 percent, or slightly over $11 million.

The recommended agricultural land increase is 2 percent, or close to $5 million, according to Karr, who pointed out the numbers don't include new construction and will vary among individual townships.

The county numbers represent smaller increases compared to 1993, when 6.1 percent and 9.4 percent assessment hikes were recommended for the residential and agricultural land classes, respectively.

In Elkland Township, which includes Cass City, the recommended 1994 assessment hikes are 3.6 percent for residential land and about 7 percent for agricultural land, township Supervisor Dave Milligan said.

Last year, the recommended increases were 3.4 percent for residential land and 1.5 percent for agricultural land.

Following board of review sessions, township supervisors will return the assessment numbers to their respective counties, which will then compute the figures.

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners will probably approve its equalization report in late April, Karr said, noting the report then goes to the state for final approval.

Residents who believe their assessment is too high can do something about it by first contacting their local assessor.

When an assessment error is pointed out, most assessors are willing to adjust an appraisal without going through a formal appeal process. If the matter can't be resolved that way, the next step is to file an appeal with a local board of review.

A chart outlining the dates, times and places of area review board meetings accompanies this story.

Because a successful appeal must be based on the validity of the tax assessment in question, people making an appeal must be able to show that an assessor's judgement of the property's value was in er-

Among the factors considered in an appraisal are the age, size, quality and type of construction of the building, number of rooms, size of the lot, the neighborhood in which the structure is located, and the typical selling price for properties with similar characteristics.

It's suggested that those planning to make an appeal start by checking their assessment records at the local assessor's office.

Occasionally, mistakes are made in recording structural features of a building, so property owners should make sure that recorded dimensions of the structure and lot are accurate. It's also important that portions of the structure, such as unfinished attics and basements, aren't misrepresented in the property description. Defects that might reduce a property's value also should be noted.

The assessment process determines the true cash value of the property. Please turn to back page.

Proposition A confusing Uncertainty reigns as tax vote nears

A special statewide election that will radically change the face of public school funding in Michigan has spawned as much confusion as controversy since it was announced.

With the March 15 vote now only 6 days away, it appears little has changed.

County clerks in the Thumb say they're not certain what to expect in the way of voter turnout.

"I know there's more confusion this time, but as to how that translates into voter turnout, I don't know," Tuscola County Clerk Margie White said, referring to the last special election on school finance reform. Voters in June rejected a plan that would have cut school millage rates and increased the sales tax by 2 cents.

White suggested people may be more aware of the issues due to the media's focus on school finance reform.

At the same time, television ads now airing seem to be adding to the confusion, she said, and there are concerns about last-minute changes being made in the proposals by the governor and Legislature.

Those changes include a rollback in the real estate transfer tax hike included in the latest school funding package, and legislation that would allow virtually all farmland to be taxed at the same rate as homesteads.

White added there are more absentee voter ballot requests this time around, but that's because of the time of year.

MORE INTEREST

Still, she indicated voter participation should be significant. "When it hits people in the pocketbook, there's going to be more interest at the polls."

Huron County Clerk Helen Lemanski commented she has no idea what to expect from voters. In Sanilac County, Clerk Linda Kozfkay predicted a good turnout.

"I think we're going to have a higher turnout than we did in June," she said, noting some 40 percent of the county's 26,665 registered voters cast ballots in that election.

Unlike the last school funding reform proposal, next week's vote features a backup statutory plan that will go into effect if voters reject Proposal A.

The ballot proposal would raise the state sales tax from 4 percent to 6 percent and cut the income tax from 4.6 percent to 4.4 percent. The backup plan would raise the income tax to 6 percent and raise the state's main business tax, the Single Business Tax, from 2.35 percent to 2.75 percent.

Both plans would also restore a portion of last summer's huge property tax cut. The ballot plan would put a 6-mill tax on homesteads; the levy would be 12 mills under the backup plan. Both would put a 24-mill levy on businesses.

MIXED BAG

Area residents contacted by the Chronicle offered a mixed bag of opinions on the 2 plans.

Cass City School Supt. Ken Micklash said he isn't endorsing either proposal. "I feel the school needs to not take a position because it's more or less a personal choice on which method of taxation people would rather have," he added.

"Either plan is supposed to provide the same basic amount of revenue. I just encourage people to vote and express themselves at the polls."

Manuel Thies, superintendent of the Owen-Gage School District, said he believes confusion, along with the sales tax hike, will doom Proposal A. "It's hard to say," he added, "but I think it will go down."

Thies indicated he's skeptical either plan will actually improve school funding once the dollars received are weighed against state strings attached to the revenue.

Among those in favor of Proposal A is retired Cass City businessman Dick Erla.

"I feel that Proposal A is the only fair tax," Erla commented, adding everyone, tourists included, will share the sales tax burden. "It's always been 6 percent (in Florida) and nobody complains."

A former smoker, Erla also likes the 50-cent tax hike on cigarettes. "Maybe more people will quit. You know it's no good."

"I'm going to be in favor of Proposal A," said Tom Proctor, owner of Old Wood Drug in Cass City. "If you're going to have schools, you're going to have taxes, and I think Proposal A spreads the taxes around."

"If we have to have a tax, the sales tax is a fair tax."

Tourism is a major industry in Michigan, and tourists will share in the cost, just as Michigan tourists do when they visit other states, added Proctor.

He commented the Single Business Tax, which would be increased from 2.35 percent to 2.75 percent under the backup plan, is an unfair tax because it isn't tied to profits.

UNCERTAIN

Another local businessman, Kritzman's Clothing Inc. owner Bill Kritzman, agreed. However, he said he hasn't made a firm commitment to either proposal.

"I don't know. I've leaned towards Proposal A, but I find that I'm very frustrated in understanding the ramifications of both (plans). And down the line, what's going to happen," he said.

"What's good for you one way is bad for you another way. They've got it so confusing — these politicians — they don't even understand it."

Cindy Kruse, assistant vice president of Thumb National Bank, said she's in favor of Proposal A with some reservations.

"I'm a little biased because my husband's a farmer," remarked the mother of 2. "It would be beneficial to us, but I guess I'm a little confused about the long-term effect it's going to have."

Among Kruse's concerns is, if agricultural land is taxed at the lower homestead rate, will non-agriculture interests move in to buy up farmland? On the other hand, she asked, will farmland values go up as a result of the tax rate?

For Rick and Donna Hartwick, who have 3 children in the Cass City Schools, the greatest concern is how the school funding plans will affect their kids.

"I'm still undecided about the whole thing. I can't say I understand (the plans) fully," commented Rick, who added he's all for a tax break, but not at the expense of education.

"The bottom line is I don't want to deprive my kids of anything," he concluded. "If it betters their education, I'm for it."

Village elections set

Kingston, Gagetown candidates face competition

Some area residents will warm up for the March 15 statewide special election by casting ballots in annual spring village elections Monday.

The polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Among 5 area villages, there is little competition for office with the exception of Gagetown, where the incumbent clerk and trustees face challenges.

Newcomer George Wilson will try to unseat incumbent Gagetown Clerk/Treasurer Elery Sontag, who is seeking another term. For trustee, challenger Paul Hunter and incumbents Mary Ann Tenczer, David Abbe and Eugene Comment are vying for 3 available seats.

Gagetown Village President Charles Wright is running unopposed.

All the terms are for 4 years.

CASS CITY

In Cass City, all incumbents are running unopposed.

Seeking reelection to 2-year terms are President L.E. Althaver, Clerk/Treasurer Joyce A. LaRoche and Assessor Daniel Erla. Trustees seeking 4-year terms are Leslie Karr, Elwyn Helwig and K. Michael Weaver.

In addition, residents will be asked to vote on renewal of a franchise agreement with Southeastern Michigan Gas Company.

The 30-year renewal, which allows the company to continue serving the village with natural gas service, was approved by the Village Council last September. However, the resolution must also be approved by a 3/5 majority vote of electors.

KINGSTON

Voters in Kingston will fill 6, 2-year village offices.

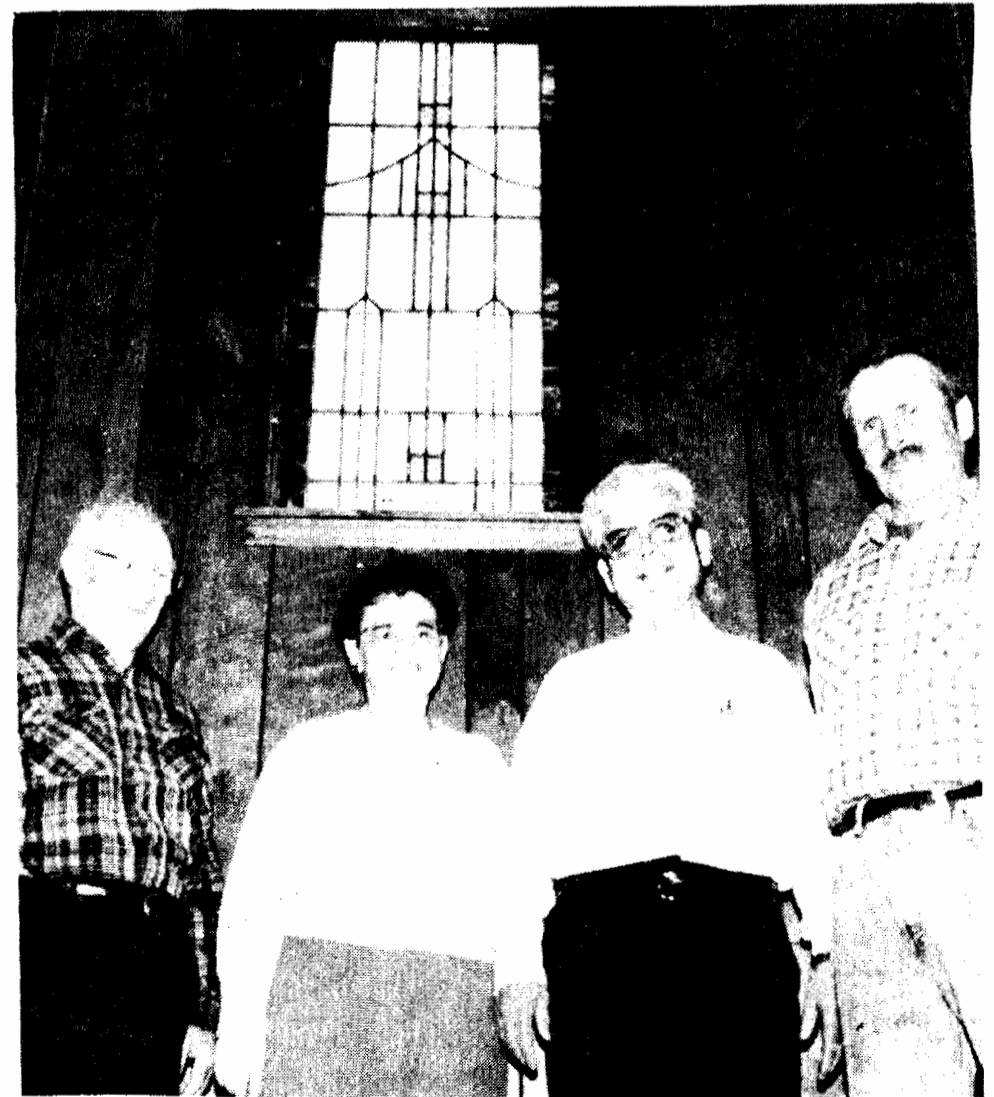

Seeking reelection are President Arlo Ruggles and Assessor/Treasurer Beverly J. Heron, who is also running for village clerk.

Incumbent Clerk Kenneth Boileau, meanwhile, decided not to seek reelection after 16 years in office, but is running for one of 3 trustee seats along with incumbents Dan Westerby and Paul Lalko, and newcomer Dave Lalko.

OWENDALE

In Owendale, all the incumbents are seeking reelection to 2-year terms.

They are President Walter Howard, Clerk Randy Howard, Treasurer Lois Blondell, Assessor

Avoid Pain While Exercising

Starting regular exercise can help you look and feel good, but being injured or stiff, sore, and uncomfortable is not a healthy way to start your exercise program.

Start slow and easy. People tend to give up on exercise when they push themselves too quickly and experience pain. You can work up gradually to a more rigorous program as you go.

Don't expect a "quick fix". It takes time to get your heart and muscles in shape, especially if you have never exercised. If you push too hard or too fast, you will be stiff and sore the next day.

Exercise does not have to hurt to make your heart and body stronger. Pain is a sign that something is wrong and you should stop exercising immediately.

Handguns not the problem

People, not guns, kill people

The Haire Net
C/O Cass City Chronicle

"A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms shall not be infringed." Second Amendment, U.S. Constitution.

Concerning your last Haire Net article, I felt compelled to reply, hopefully to set the record straight on the Second Amendment and the Bill of Rights in general, and to bring to an end the dangerous misinformation with which we are inundated daily by our politicians, their lapdog media and, unfortunately, our education system.

I couldn't agree with you more when you stated that the buy back program "provided great opportunity for the media and great publicity for the sponsors." I wholeheartedly agree again with your astute observation that this is nothing more than a "feel good" program and it doesn't really do anything about the problem. In fact, in some cases it does considerable harm. Last week Mark Scott of WXYT Talk Radio reported an incident wherein a youth turned in an inoperable gun for cash, purchased a new shotgun with the money and proceeded to commit a violent crime.

However, I totally disagree with your solution to the problem. I find hard to imagine your ability to see the absurdity in the buy back program and your inability to recognize the fallacy in making hand guns hard to get, requiring a license, and outlawing so-called "attack" weapons. Actually, handguns are hard to get, legally. They have to be registered, just to own them, legally, and licensed to carry one. I can assure you that the average guy or gal out here would have a difficult, if not impossible time, trying to obtain a license to carry. Assault weapons have been made illegal for a long time. Semi-automatic attack or assault weapons are no more dangerous than an average hunting rifle and less dangerous than some of the high powered rifles. The problem here is that you can't solve a problem if you can't recognize the problem and the problem is not handguns. I have yet to see a handgun or an assault weapon jump off a shelf or out of a cabinet, or run down the street killing people. People kill people. And the government doesn't set a very good example for our young people.

The next time you hear someone in the media or the government say that they want to repeal the Second Amendment, partially or totally, just remember what the Supreme Court says. Our rights are not up to a vote by anyone, including Congress. They can't take our Rights by law, only by force, after we're disarmed.

To borrow a couple of quotes from one of my daughter's reports: "The people never give up their liberties but under some delusion."

(Edmund Burke, 1784)

"They that can give up a little liberty to obtain temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety." Benjamin Franklin

Give that one some serious thought John.

Volunteers, donations welcome in barn effort

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter in your Feb. 23, 1994 issue from Madelyn Heron Rawlings concerning the Octagon Barn.

The Thumb Octagon Barn Committee is a part of the Tuscola 2001 initiative. We have been meeting approximately every 2 weeks since January.

Our purpose at the moment is to find out #1 How much it will cost to repair the octagon barn so that it no longer leaks. Once we have that information, we will proceed to our next purpose: #2 deciding on which goal is the more economically feasible - - or #3 moving the barn to another location where it can be restored and used. A more long-range goal may involve the Purdy home that is also on the barn property.

To accomplish goal #1 above, we are in the process of seeking estimates of repair costs from contractors and other interested parties. When we know how much the repairs will cost, we will then actively seek funding to accomplish those repairs. Please realize that we are still working with goal #1. We have not yet decided on moving or not moving the barn - - nor do we expect to make that decision for several more weeks at the earliest.

If Madelyn Heron Rawlings or anyone else would like to donate money toward the repair of the octagon barn, please make out a check to Tuscola 2001 Incorporated - - send it to Tuscola 2001 Inc., 362 Green St., Caro, MI 48723. Please be sure to put the words Octagonal Barn on the memo line on your check or money order.

We could use more interested people on the barn committee. We have a cross-section of county residents from a variety of occupations. For anyone interested in joining us, please call Rose Putnam at 673-1100 - ask for Rose, or call 673-5999 and ask for Betty Pattullo at the Cooperative Extension Office.

Sincerely,

Your neighbor says

Leaning towards "A"

Diane Lowe is leaning toward voting yes on Proposition A for funding for schools, but her vote is not yet cast in stone.

The trouble is that many of the provisions are vague and it seems like every day the provisions of the bill change, Lowe said. Voters will decide whether or not to raise school funds primarily through sales tax and a reduced property tax Tuesday. If that fails, an alternate plan based on an increased income tax will go into effect.

I do like the idea of a sales tax to raise revenue, she added, but it seems to me that the whole thing should be more settled than it is.

Lowe is employed by the Co-op Elevator, Gagetown. Her husband, Mike, is a self-employed builder. She is a long-time resident of the Cass City community, graduating from Cass City High School in 1978.

The couple has 2 children, Becky, 13, and Rod, 10.

SCD accepting seedling orders

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District is taking orders for the following seedlings and shrubs: white pine, red pine, Scotch pine, Austrian pine, white spruce, Norway spruce, Colorado blue spruce, black walnut, white ash, Carolina poplar, and autumn olive and honeysuckle, which are shrubs. The district is offering Norway spruce, Colorado blue spruce and Austrian pine super husky transplants for windbreaks.

The pines, spruce and shrubs come in bundles of 50 and the black walnut, white ash, Carolina poplar and transplants come in bundles of 10. The trees may be used for reforestation, windbreaks, erosion control, Christmas trees, restocking woodlots and wildlife food and cover. For a fast growing windbreak, it is suggested that you plant an outside row of Carolina poplar 10 feet as 5 feet in a year if the grass competition is kept under control. It is a disease resistant hybrid poplar that has a life expectancy of 40-60 years and reaches a height of 50 to 60 feet. Then plant several rows of pines or spruce with an inside row of autumn olive and honeysuckle. Orders may be placed with the Tuscola Soil Conservation District, 1075 Cleaver Road in Caro or phone 673-8174.

Hawks fly in opening tourney game, 62-26

Lakers hand Hawks 2nd loss

For the first time this season, Cass City was outrebounded, outplayed and soundly defeated, 82-65, Tuesday at Laker High.

It was the second defeat of the season, but the first time that a team dominated the Hawks for most of the game. The redeeming factor for Hawk fans was that the game was meaningless except for pride. The Hawks had already cinched the Blue Bay League title.

Still, any basketball game between the Lakers and the Hawks is important if for nothing more than bragging rights.

Coach Bill McClelland changed his offense for the game by putting the ball in the hands of sophomore Seth Maust at the point. To say that the measure paid off is an understatement.

Maust penetrated all night and either scored (27 points) or passed off to the open man for good shots.

When the game started, it didn't appear as if Cass City was going to have any more trouble with the Lakers in the second game than it did in the first, which was a 60-50 victory. The Hawks scored big from the outside in the first quarter as Kevin Storm scored 10 points and Paul Murphy added a pair of treys and the Hawks bounced out to a 20-12 lead.

But after that the roof fell in. The Lakers drained just about everything they threw up and the Hawks couldn't buy a basket. Noticeably absent was any inside scoring punch. The Laker zone defense swarmed all over Paul Ulfig and Jason Morgan, causing numerous turnovers and limiting the pair to 8 points in the period and to 14 points all night.

When the half ended, the Lakers had wiped out the Cass City lead and forged ahead, 39-29.

Cass City made one brief run in the opening moments of the second half to close the gap to 4 points as Steve Muska hit 3 treys, but Maust countered that rally with a pair of buckets and Cass City never seriously threatened the rest of the way.

Coach Jeff Hartel said that the team started to settle for long-range shots too early in the game. Our defense wasn't active enough and let the Lakers take too many uncontested shots.

The team continued its erratic free throw shooting, first hot and then cold. Against USA the team hit 18 of 19 and then followed that effort in the next 2 games with 11 out of 30. Against the Lakers the mark was 10 out of 22.

Storm had his best point-producing night of the season with 26 points despite making only 2 of 6 from the charity stripe.

CASS CITY - Muska 0-3 (1-5) 10; Sherman 0-1 (0-0) 3; Storm 6-4 (2-6) 26; Phillips 1-0 (0-0) 2; Hewitt 1-0 (0-0) 2; Murphy 0-2 (2-2) 8; Morgan 2-1 (0-0) 7; Ulfig 1-0 (5-8) 7.
TOTALS - 11-11 (10-20) 65.

LAKERS - Smith 0-0 (6-9) 6; Maust 8-1 (8-9) 27; Gebauer 2-2 (0-0) 10; Krohn 5-0 (1-4) 11; Ignash 1-0 (1-2) 3; Jantzi 2-1 (1-2) 8; Mitin 7-1 (0-0) 17.
TOTALS - 25-5 (17-26) 82.

Sandusky stall is ineffective

Cass City rolled into the semifinals of the district tourney held on its home floor Monday with a one-sided win over the Sandusky Redskins, 62-26.

The victory sets up a Wednesday night battle with the Reese Rockets in a game that fans from both schools have been waiting for. Cass City has 2 wins over Reese in the regular season, but the last one was by just a single point.

The winner will be the odds-on favorite to take the district crown and head for Sandusky in regional competition.

Coach John Guttowski had his team in a controlled ball offense and it kept them reasonably close in the first quarter.

Cass City was held to a couple of rebound baskets, a free throw and a 2-pointer on a short jumper by Steve Muska.

The stall continued until there was 3:12 left in the half when Paul Murphy canned a trey, Ulfig stuffed in a rebound, Muska added a 3-pointer and suddenly it was 16-4 and Sandusky was forced to abandon its stall.

From that point on Cass City added to its lead steadily.

Leading 27-10 with 4:30 left in the third period, a burst of scoring by Cass City turned the game into a rout.

The Hawks counted 10 unanswered points. Kevin Storm swished a triple and a pair of free throws. Murphy added another trey and Muska added 2 more from the charity stripe. The scoring spree ended with a basket by Scott Iwankovitsch. The Hawks led, 36-10, when Mark Morningstar connected with a 3-pointer.

played on fairly even terms until mid-way through the final period, when both coaches turned to their benches.

Coach Jeff Hartel has much to be pleased with in the performance of the team. One of the results that must have been especially pleasant was the free throw shooting.

Cass City went to the line 18 times and converted 17 of its attempts. Cass City also pounded the ball inside for easy baskets and then hit the outside jumper when the Redskins blocked up the middle.

The Hawks spread the scoring around among 9 players, led by Paul Ulfig with 16 and Storm with 12. No Redskins player had more than 2 points.

The interior defense provided by Ulfig, Iwankovitsch and Jason Morgan helped keep the Redskins in check as the trio blocked shots and intimidated others all night. The Hawks owned the offensive and defensive boards.

Tuesday the second game of the tourney was to have pitted Marlette against Deckerville, with the winner facing Mayville Thursday. The finals are Saturday and all games start at 7 p.m.

CASS CITY - Muska 1-1 (6-6) 11; M. Sherman 1-0 (0-0) 2; Storm 1-2 (4-4) 12; Phillips 1-0 (1-1) 3; Hewitt 1-0 (2-2) 4; Murphy 1-2 (0-1) 8; Morgan 2-0 (0-0) 4; Ulfig 6-0 (4-4) 16; Iwankovitsch 1-0 (0-2) 2.
TOTALS: 15-5 (17-18) 62.

SANDUSKY - Rich 1-2 (0-0) 8; Jansen 1-0 (0-0) 2; Morningstar 1-1 (0-0) 5; Kozfay 4-0 (0-0) 8; Barren 0-0 (1-2) 1; Jewell 1-0 (0-0) 2.
TOTALS: 8-3 (1-4) 26.

Everybody plays in Palace tilt

The regular season-ending night was played at the Palace in Auburn Hills and it turned a meaningless game into an event for the players and their fans. Cass City won, 65-56, but the outcome was almost secondary to the thrill of playing on the court.

Coaches for both teams made a point of seeing that all members of the squad shared in the excitement of playing on the court. The benches for both teams were cleared in the second quarter and the game was video taped.

Palace authorities said that the game attracted the largest crowd of the year for games between high school teams. The schools have been invited back next season and indications are that they will accept if it can be worked into the schedules.

The Hawks broke out of a 13-13 first period tie in the middle 2 quarters to salt away the Blue Bay League game.

Key to the victory was finding Paul Ulfig on the inside for several easy baskets in the third quarter. The senior center netted 6 buckets and a free throw in the third period and the Hawks jumped in front 49-40.

For the night Ulfig scored 24 points. Don Cowper led Marlette with 10.

At times the play was slow and sloppy. Hartel attributed some of that to fatigue as both teams were playing the second game in 2 nights.

Cass City was only one for 9 from 3-point land while shooting 47 percent. Marlette wasn't much better, with one of 7 treys and 47 percent overall.

O-G falls to Kingston in season's final

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs closed out their 1993-94 conference play at Kingston Friday, suffering a 78-54 defeat.

With the win, the Cardinals tied Peck, who downed North Huron, 59-46, for the North Central Thumb League crown. Coach Leon Westover's cagers finished the regular season with a 17-3 overall record. The Cardinals and Pirates went 13-1 during NCTL play.

Owen-Gage, who enters district play tonight (Tuesday) at Kinde North Huron with a 4-16 mark, has lost its last 6 contests.

On Friday a dismal start plagued the Bulldogs again. If Coach Brian Wright's cagers can avoid a sluggish start tonight against Akron-Fairgrove, the Bulldogs could advance into Friday's championship tilt. Owen-Gage, which was defeated twice by the Vikings in league play, played Akron-Fairgrove tough for 4 quarters in the 2 schools' last meeting before bowing, 52-51.

At Kingston a 22-11 lead in the opening period helped the hosts gain the conference championship.

The Cardinals had 5 players finish the night in double figures. Leading the way was freshman standout John McLaughlin, with 17 points.

The Cardinals, who added to their lead throughout the evening, also got double digits from Ryan Walker and Bill Harrington, who each finished with a dozen markers. Next on the scoring list for the winners were Ed Walkiewicz and Matt Corliss, who recorded 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Senior Eric Susalla's final game on the Owendale floor will be a memorable one, as he led all Bulldog scorers with 16 tallies.

Sophomore Austin Brinkman and Mike Tkacz were the only other players from either team to post double digits, splitting 26 points.

MUSH! — CASS CITY fifth and sixth grade students were treated last week to a first-hand look at mushing, courtesy of veteran dog racer Dan Anderson of Tundra Outfitters, Mackinaw. Anderson also gave talks on the topic to students in grades 7 and 8.

Report damage, theft

Cass City police investigated complaints involving vandalism and theft last week.

Lynn M. Spencer, Caro, reported someone broke a window on her vehicle and damaged the right window post Friday or Saturday while the vehicle was parked in a municipal lot located at Leach and Pine streets.

The vandals apparently threw a beer bottle at the vehicle, according to reports, which estimate damage at $300.

Also last week, Rona Hillaker, 4454 Maple Street, reported the theft of 124 pop cans from the garage at her residence Feb. 28.

Witness accounts have led police to a suspect. The case remains under investigation.

DAN ANDERSON'S team of purebred Siberian huskies (above) await hitch-up time during a special program on mushing, presented by Anderson last week at Cass City Middle School.

New books at the library

SIR PHILLIP'S FOLLY by Marion Chesney (fiction). Sir Philip has fallen in love with a totally unsuitable woman who is eating the POOR RELATIONS out of their meager profits. The plot to separate Philip from his leeching lady becomes entangled with a plan to sponsor the coming-out party of a repressed hotel guest whose widowed mother is trying to keep her daughter out of the social scene in order to stay there herself.

THE ULTIMATE MOTORCYCLE BOOK by Hugo Wilson (non-fiction). This book is loaded with photos of over 200 bikes. It's informative, and most importantly, it's a blast. Along with historical tidbits about the earliest cycles during the 1890s and the use of bikes during both world wars, the author provides sections devoted to racing, touring, motorcross, and customizing. U.S. bikes, headed by the estimable Harley-Davidson, are featured first, but classic British models such as Triumph and Vincent are spotlighted, as well as Italian, French, and Scandinavian bikes. German military models, bikes from companies such as BMW and Hunch, and, of course, the Japanese giants: Honda, Kawasaki, Suzuki, and Yamaha. Great full-color photographs and intricate graphics that explain just how a motorcycle works.

But underlying his devotion is a clandestine and highly charged affair with the widowed Lee, 15 years his senior. Is their need for each other really love, or is it simply comfort for 2 grieving people?

Caro man arraigned

A Caro man was recently arraigned in Tuscola County District Court on a trio of driving related charges.

CLEAN SWEEP — Cass City officials plan to clean up following delivery Friday of a new Elgin hydraulic street sweeper. The $74,700 piece of equipment replaces an older model used by the village for the past 20 years.

Owen-Gage sr. citizens air meeting

The Owen-Gage Senior Citizens met Thursday, March 3, at St. Agatha Parish Hall for a potluck dinner at noon. There were 28 members present. Stella Pisarek said grace before the meal.

After the dinner, President Orville Mallory opened the meeting with the group reciting the Lord's Prayer and pledge to the flag.

The secretary read the minutes from the last 2 meetings.

Happy birthday was sung to Jennie Deneen whose birthday was that day.

Door prizes were won by Nettie Doan and Louis Ouvry.

After the meeting was adjourned, bingo and cards were played.

Bina Redifer, 86, of Marlette, formerly of Kingston, died Sunday, March 6, at Marlette Community Hospital. She was born Jan. 29, 1908, to Enoch and Mary (Vills) Roberson in Romeo. Miss Roberson married Earl Redifer, who died in 1983.

Mrs. Redifer was a registered nurse and worked in health care for over 40 years. She was a member of the Kingston Wesleyan Church. She is survived by her children: Richard (Chrissa) Redifer of Freeland, Marie (Robert) Jacot of Deford and Craig (Craig) Wilcox of Edwinstown, Texas. She is also survived by 11 grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren; 2 brothers, Don (Doyce) Roberson of Kingston and Gordon (Gordon) Roberson of Romeo, and any nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by a sister, Ruby, and sister-in-law, Grace.

Funeral services were scheduled for 11:00 a.m. Wednesday, March 9, in the Kingston Wesleyan Church by the Rev. Rudyard Fay of the Kingston Wesleyan Church officiating.

Arrangements were made by Kranz Funeral Home, Kingston.

Memorials may be made to the Kingston Wesleyan Church.

Domesticated bees need up

Researchers at Ohio State University say a decline in wild honey bee populations has increased the need for domesticated bees to help Midwest fruit and vegetable production. The drop in the number of wild bees is due partly to an infestation of parasites that attack bees in their hives.

Gagetown woman hurt in accident

A Gagetown woman suffered minor injuries in a 2-vehicle traffic accident Friday evening just west of Cass City.

State police troopers at the Caro post reported Mina J. Papke, 4851 State St., Gagetown, was attempting to make a U-turn on M-81 just east of Koefgen Road when her car collided with an eastbound vehicle driven by Calvin W. Bostick of Caro.

Papke was transported by Cass City-Mercy Ambulance personnel to Hills and Dales General Hospital, where she was treated and then released. Bostick was not injured.

Reports state both drivers were wearing seat belts.

Grazing practices focus of upcoming conference

Among the speakers at the Michigan Grazing Conference March 16-17 at Mt. Pleasant will be a dairy producer who says he saved $41,618 in his first year of rotational grazing.

David Forgey began grazing his herd of 120 to 150 Holsteins in Cass County, Ind., in April 1992. Along with improving the health and condition of his herd, he can see where he will soon be debt free for the first time in 30 years of farming, he says.

The marketing manager of Arrowhead Forage Council, a 4-county group he co-founded, the Logansport dairy farmer is considered somewhat of an innovator in his area.

His grazing systems on the 437-acre operation increased milk production slightly (the herd was close to 20,000 pounds per cow in 1992), and feed cost per 100 pounds of milk decreased from $4 to $3.41 during the grazing season.

Forgey says labor and veterinary costs at his River View Farm have been reduced by one third. His cull rate has dropped from 30 to 35 percent to near 15 percent. He credits the healthier condition of his cows to the better nutrition and more exercise that rotational grazing provides.

Forgey is one of 5 dairy and livestock producers, along with grazing researchers from Hawaii, Wisconsin, Missouri and Michigan State University, who will discuss grazing practices at the conference.

More information about registration and the conference program can be obtained from Ben Bartlett, MSU Extension dairy/livestock agent, by calling 906-228-4830. The fax number is 906-228-4572.

Window restoration underway

Argyle congregation shares the load

Ask Jim Spaetzle about his church family and chances are good he'll describe a group of people that, although small in number, are big on commitment.

From seeding the church lawn to organizing a food drive for the less fortunate, when there's work to be done, the Argyle United Methodist Church congregation gets busy, he says.

"The members have been real good. When they get a project, they go right at it," Spaetzle recently commented. "If they decide they want to do something, they get behind it 100 percent."

An example of that dedication will be recognized March 27, when Ray Buchanan of the Society of St. Andrew, Big Island, Va., will present an award to the Argyle United Methodist Men, recognizing their efforts on behalf of the Potato Project — Meals for Millions, a national United Methodist organization.

Under the program, potatoes and other produce are channeled into distribution for the hungry by the St. Andrew Society.

It takes only a penny to provide one serving of potatoes for someone who is hungry, and the Argyle United Methodist Men, along with the entire congregation, raised nearly $1,500 for the project during the course of a year.

The church, with a current membership of 47, is no stranger to fund raising.

Church members and friends have come together to share in various projects over the years. In 1993, the group raised $2,500 toward a wheelchair lift installed in a van for area resident Elgene Foster.

More recently, the congregation has taken on restoration of 10 stained glass windows in the church.

Age and the elements have taken a toll, causing the windows to separate and come loose. Paint is peeling and names printed on them, in honor of past members, have faded.

Two months ago, the church board decided to go ahead with restoration rather than replacement, according to the Rev. Jean Rencontre, who along with her husband, the Rev. Jim Rencontre, serve the Argyle church as well as the Shabbona and Decker United Methodist churches.

"The stained glass is part of the church's sense of tradition and can also be considered as a keepsake since many of the windows were originally designated as memorials," she explained. "They (windows) were put in here when the church was moved, and that would be before 1950," said church member Curt Simmons. "They were donated by families back then."

The decision to refurbish the windows was based, in part, on an area carpenter's offer to do the work for $5,800, according to Spaetzle, who recalled an earlier bid of $12,000.

Still, $5,800 is a lot of money for a small church. But that hasn't deterred the congregation.

As fund raisers for the project, one fish fry has been held and another is planned for March 25, from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the St. Joseph Catholic Hall in Argyle.

"Community support for this project has been greatly appreciated," Rev. Jean Rencontre said, adding personal donations, as well as memorials, are also being sought.

Although relatively new to the area, the Rencontres indicated they have come to appreciate a special unity in their church family.

"Working together is a way of life for members and friends of the Argyle United Methodist Church, whether raise funds for someone in need, or to beautify and preserve their church building's heritage," she said. "Caring and commitment are factors that make this a very special group of people."

THE ELEMENTS have taken a toll on the stained glass windows at the Argyle United Methodist Church.
