

Friends of the Library slate upcoming activities

The Friends of the Library met Thursday and many activities were discussed. To date, the magazine sale, Valentine's Fun Day, and the basket exhibit were very successful. Upcoming activities include the Art Show (May 9-14) with the Friends of the Library providing refreshments for the art show reception Wednesday, May 11, at 7 p.m.

Another activity planned is the group's involvement in the parade July 2, with a float and clowns. Coming up later in the year is the annual book sale July 20; a photography exhibit Sept. 25, and a fall paperback book sale in November.

Friends of the Library meet on the first Thursday of the month at 9:30 a.m. at Rawson Memorial Library. The purpose of this organization is to promote and focus public attention on the library services for the community. Membership is open to all individuals and new members are welcome. Join the group at the regular monthly meeting or, for more information, call Marge at 872-4112, or Velma at 658-8624.

22 attend Lutheran ladies meet

Twenty-two women were present when the Ladies Aid of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church met Monday, May 2. Adeline Butler opened the meeting with a reading entitled "A Gentle Woman."

A breakfast is planned for Sunday, May 15, at 8 a.m. for 1994 high school and college graduates.

The Thumb Zone Lutheran Women's Missionary League Day of Prayer, which was postponed in February because of inclement weather, has been re-scheduled for Tuesday, May 17, at 7 p.m. at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cass City.

A baby shower was held for David and Jacqui Petersen, who are expecting their second child in June. David is a student at Concordia Theological Seminary in Fort Wayne, Ind., and Good Shepherd congregation has been helping him financially for the last 2 years while he prepares to be a Lutheran pastor. Refreshments were served by Adeline Butler, Bridget Miller and Florence Witherspoon.

Regular readers who know that this granny and grandpa recently returned from a vacation in California, will not be surprised to read a "Drew update."

For the benefit of irregular readers, who have my sympathy, Drew is our grandson, with whom we spend intense but too-brief periods of togetherness every few months. He changes a lot between visits.

Drew will be 2 in June and, for his mother's sake, we can only hope he contracted the "terrible twos" disease early. He's an adorable, sweet little guy, but keeping up with him is a challenge. His grandpa labeled him perpetual motion when he was just a baby, and that assessment hasn't changed, except that he's now perpetual motion on the run.

He imitates everything you do, which can be a sobering thought to a parent or grandparent. It's kind of scary to realize that the things you do and say are being copied and are shaping the life of a little person.

he was more interested in the machinery that makes the horses go up and down than in the ride itself.

Our flight to California to see Drew was uneventful. The trip home was a bit more interesting.

Traveling in late April, the possibility of getting stuck in Chicago overnight because of a storm seemed remote, so we didn't pack a change of clothes in our carry-on bags.

Big mistake! We had just nicely left the ground over Oakland when the man in the next seat spilled his tomato juice all over me. The flight attendant offered a can of club soda and a wash cloth in an effort to avoid the otherwise inevitable stain.

Have you ever tried to wash your pants in an airplane lavatory? The club soda worked quite well, but I ended up with 2 soaked pant legs and 9 hours of travel remaining.

Standing in the aisle and shaking my legs alternately helped to dry the pants, and, since there was no movie on this flight, provided entertainment for fellow passengers.

Drew would have thought Grandma was hilarious.

Drew's vocabulary has expanded considerably since we saw him at Christmas. He has no problem communicating his wishes.

He even tells jokes. His mother and I were looking over garage sale ads one day and came across one that advertised "food." Thinking that an unusual garage sale commodity, we both laughed. Drew decided that must be a good joke, and now he goes around saying "Food!" and expects everybody to laugh with him.

Judging from his favorite playthings, at this stage we figure he'll grow up to be a mechanic or an engineer. He loves tools, preferably his dad's, whenever he can get his hands on them.

Of course, it's also possible that he'll become a farmer or a gardener. Give him a rake, a hoe and a watering can, turn him loose in the back yard and he's happy.

Janitor also ranks high as a possibility. I've never seen a kid so fond of brooms. The engineer theory springs from his curiosity about how things work. On the Pixie Playland merry-go-round,

The first hole in one of the golf season was reported last week at Northwood Shores Golf Course. It was made with a 7-iron on the 93-yard eighth hole by "Barney" Long. It was her first, she says, in more years of golfing than she wants to mention.

Arnold Becker, 75, lives in Deckerville, where he moved after retiring from a Detroit manufacturing plant. He visited Cass City again for one of the few times in his life. What brought him to town was to locate the Cass City (Morris) Hospital that now houses the media center. He was in that hospital on an emergency basis in 1929. While on a trip to the Upper Peninsula with his family, he suffered from acute appendicitis and was rushed back to Cass City for the successful operation. Never really had a call to come back to Cass City before, he grinned.

Dr. Paul Chappel's name will be on the school's election ballot in June, but he really doesn't want your vote. Dr. Chappel has decided that he doesn't want to serve on the Cass City School Board at this time and wanted his name removed from the ballot.

An investigation with the election bureau disclosed that it's too late for that and the non-candidate will be on the candidate ballot.

If you want to take that certain someone out to dinner and save $50 bucks or more to blow, trek out to Port Austin to the Garfield Inn.

We re-visited the Inn 2 weeks ago and 2 of us rated the food a flat-out 10 on the 1-10 scale. My dinner was clam chowder (with clams still in the shell swimming in the soup) and the best prime rib I've tasted. What made it outstanding was the special sauce. The other meal was a pork dish also served in a special sauce. Included were hot bread, a chevis (Caesar-like) salad, coffee and a bottle of beer. Cost with tip, $54.00. Our meals were just average-priced for the restaurant. Despite the cost, the joint was jumping on the Saturday night we were there. We had the last table available without a reservation.

The Novesta Township Board last week voted to pave about a half-mile of Dodge Road, from White Creek Road north to Shabbona Road.

No cost estimate has been obtained yet, township Clerk Kathy Newell reported. Township officials have tried to repair and improve Dodge Road for years, Supervisor Maynard Stine noted, adding efforts to improve the roadway south of White Creek Road have been stalled due to a controversy involving county officials and the Department of Natural Resources over drainage of wetlands.

In other business during the board's May 2 monthly meeting, a resolution was passed stating the township will solicit sealed bids for any township contracts totaling $20,000 or more. Newell explained the reso-

If you are not middle-aged or older, chances are great that you have never seen a vacuum tube. It may be that the average young person has never even heard of one.

They are a novelty, replaced by the computer chip. The tube has become almost passe because a chip will do thousands of computations, the tube, one.

Tubes are still used today, says Russ Schneeberger. People with antiques need them occasionally, but we sell what tubes we have left at a fraction of what they should bring.

It's logical to assume that volume users of tubes would long ago have switched to chips. According to the show, "60 Minutes", the government on both the east and west coast still uses vacuum tubes because of the difficulty of the paper work needed to change.

In other words, any chance of the government availing itself of modern equipment is mired in the jungle of red tape.

Most folks have heard about the $100 toilet seats and the other outrageous prices paid for replacement parts by the government.

It adds up to one of the major reasons that universal health care under the gov-

Two questions... Why would Mike Ilitch, or any public figure giving an interview to the press, object to having his words recorded on tape?

According to Bill McGraw's interesting article in Monday's Freep, Ilitch blew a gasket last week — before his Red Wings blew the Stanley Cup way too early — when he spotted a reporter audio taping. Ilitch seized the recorder and wouldn't return it until he was sure his words were erased.

I can understand why someone might resist being videotaped. The tabloid-type TV programs can make a person look bad by running embarrassing footage — over and over — while discarding any tape that would put the subject in a more favorable context.

Snarky print reporters can be similarly unfair with words, of course, but they don't need recorders to do it. On the contrary. When taking hurried notes during an interview, it can sometimes be too easy to write down the juicy stuff and forget the duller — but perhaps qualifying — material. With a recorder, the reporter gets every word said, which should be reassuring to an interviewee like Ilitch, at least until he reads the edited result.

Some news subjects are smart enough to insist on making their own interview tapes, for protection against misquotes and twisted interpretations.

So why would Ilitch refuse to put his conversation with a reporter on tape? One answer, of course, could be he wanted to be able to deny saying something he said if he later regretted saying it. It's much easier to argue against a reporter's memory and scrawled notes than against a tape recording. But why arouse suspicions by so obviously admitting you might have some thoughts on public matters, such as a tax-subsidized baseball stadium, that you don't want the public to know — even if you might be unable to resist blurring them in front of reporters? That is stupid public relations, especially for a person whose entertainment and food businesses so badly need public support. And I never heard anyone call Mike Ilitch stupid.

So I don't understand. NEW MEANING TO GOOD LOSER

Why hasn't Detroit Pistons management come forward to loudly deny that a National Basketball Association team loses games on purpose?

In the final days of the regular season, there were many print and broadcast charges that the Pistons three games. One reporter, for instance, wrote that Coach Don Chaney "got the hang of tanking, orchestrating a season-ending 13-game losing streak that is almost certain to land somebody wonderful in the draft."

When I wrote high school sports, a million years ago, I was often critical of a basketball rule that allowed a player a second free shot only if he missed his first shot. My righteous theory was that failure shouldn't be rewarded. Man, I didn't know what rewarding failure was.

In the NBA, the worse a team plays one season, the better players it has the next season, thanks to a college draft procedure that favors teams with worse records. It pays to fail.

Management's motive is to spread out the talent to improve the competition to sell more tickets. To hell with the ticket-buyers who deserve to see every team do its best to win every game.

Forget all that never-give-up nonsense. Never mind that the idea of athletic competition is supposed to be to strive for victory at all costs, except good sportsmanship. The NBA is a cash source, no different than professional wrestling, and throwing a game isn't cheating or illegal. It's simply good business.

Come to think, I do know why no Piston brass has denied tanking for money. They know no one would believe them, anyway. What I really don't understand is why anyone buys tickets to fake contests.

Petroglyphs park opens May 28 for summer season

Secretary of State Richard H. Austin recently announced that the Sanilac Petroglyphs will open for the summer season May 28, the Saturday of Memorial weekend.

"Summer is a wonderful time to explore Michigan history and a good place to begin is at one of the unique historic sites operated by the Bureau of Michigan History," Secretary Austin said. "These sites open Memorial Day weekend and will host a variety of special events that we encourage families to attend."

Located south of Bad Axe off M-53 on Germania Road in Sanilac County, the Sanilac Petroglyphs are among the most important prehistoric sites in Michigan.

Around a sandstone outcropping, along the North Branch of the Cass River in Sanilac County, are prehistoric carvings of a water panther, a bow hunter and oddly shaped stick-figures. These petroglyphs (rock carvings) are estimated by archaeologists to have been created 300 to 1,000 years ago.

The site contains other rock carvings made during the last century by loggers, who worked the nearby timber. Visitors taking the hiking trail can see where a lumber camp was located in the late 19th century. Beavers have created an expansive dam along the trail as well as a very large beaver lodge.

Visitors are encouraged to bring a picnic lunch and hiking shoes for an enjoyable day outdoors in Michigan's Thumb region. While admission and parking are free, visitors are reminded there are no modern services provided.

At Thumb antique shop

Police seize automatic weapons, videos, porn

Federal and state search warrants were executed May 3 at 7044 and 7040 Oak Beach Road, known as The Old Oak Shop, an antique shop in Port Austin.

weapons is a federal crime punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

Prosecution will be handled through the federal court system. Hagen said after speaking with an agent of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, she expects an indictment to be issued in the next several weeks.

The investigation started in March after the sheriff's department received a complaint about the weapons, and that a 47-year-old suspect at the address was videotaping individuals using his bathroom without their knowledge or permission.

The videotaping is believed to have occurred for at least the past 10 years and involves friends of the suspect along with customers of the antique shop.

Local officers seized approximately 30 videotapes, videotaping equipment and players, child pornography magazines, 8 handguns and numerous shotguns, including one short-barreled shotgun.

Possession or manufacturing a short barreled shotgun is a state offense punishable by up to 5 years in prison. Videotaping an individual without their knowledge or permission is also a state offense, punishable by up to 2 years.

Hagen expects the investigation to be completed within the next few days, and charges against the suspect are expected within the week. No arrests were made at the scene.

Lakers, Uibly bow

Hawk baseball team chalks up victories

Cass City rolled to a pair of doubleheader wins last week over the Lakers and Uibly and continue to climb into contention for league honors after a slow start this spring.

The Hawks moved above .500 in the Blue Bay League with the 2 wins over the Lakers Monday, May 2.

The first game was called after 5 innings because of the mercy rule as Cass City rolled to an 11-1 decision. Despite the score, the game was in doubt until the fifth inning, when the Lakers trailed by just a couple of runs. That offense was probably enough to win as Mark Kubacki pitched a strong 5-hitter and struck out 8.

Cass City made sure of the victory with an 8-run rally to end the game. Paul Ulfig and Rob Gnagey collected 2 hits each and Kevin Storm drove in 3 runs. Matt Esch took the loss.

It appeared that the Hawk win string would be snapped in the nightcap. Helped by Hawk errors, the Lakers jumped on starter Ulfig for 6 runs in the first 2 innings to jump into a 6-2 lead before bowing in an extra inning, 9-7.

Going into the last inning, Cass City trailed, 7-2. Talaski, who pitched a strong game, was betrayed by his defense and a streak of wildness. In the rally Cass City took advantage of 3 errors and 3 walks to score 5 times to tie the game.

Cass City won it in the eighth as John Phillips blasted a circuit clout with Hempton on base to win it.

Morgan relieved Ulfig and his strong outing, allowing just one run in 6 innings, enabled the Hawks to rally and win.

That one had to lose.

Going into the seventh inning, Cass City was in front 1-0 as Hempton drove in Steve Muska with a single.

In the top of the seventh, the Bearcats broke through with 3 runs with a couple of walks, and 3 hits.

The Hawks bounced back with 3 runs to win in their half of the inning. Phillips got a big hit in the inning, a double, but it was won on a bunt single by Tavis Osentoski, which scored the tying and winning markers.

In the nightcap, Cass City made sure that it wouldn't take a last inning rally to win.

A 5-run rally in the second proved to be more than enough for Storm, who pitched a 6-hitter and allowed no walks. Cass City closed out the game with another 5-run spurge in the fifth.

Hempton and Ulfig each collected 2 hits and Phillips drove in 3 runs to pace the attack.

UBLY GAMES

The opening game with the Uibly Bearcats Wednesday was a pitching duel between Hempton and Uibly's Leasure and it was a shame earlier estimates, with 8 junior high and 8 senior high students planning to enroll.

School board members indicated reinstatement of band should be announced in the final school newsletter of the year in an effort to make sure all students are aware the offering will be available in 1994-95.

In other business Monday, the board:

•Authorized Thies to borrow $300,000 in anticipation

The 17-year-old Deford girl charged with threatening another teen with a shotgun in the parking lot of Mayville High School April 26 was arraigned last week on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building.

Tara E. Charboneau was arraigned Friday in Tuscola County District Court on charges of breaking into a house at 6280 E. Deckerville Rd., Novesta Township, and larceny of a shotgun.

Bond was set at $20,000. A preliminary examination was scheduled for Friday at 9 a.m.

The offenses allegedly occurred April 26, the same day police reported Charboneau got into an altercation with a Mayville High School student, allegedly threatened her with a shotgun and then turned the weapon on herself.

Investigators said Charboneau, a Cass City High School junior and former Mayville student, had been distraught over the loss of a boyfriend who committed suicide, and had gone to Mayville with the intent of saying farewell to some friends and, at some point, taking her own life.

Another student reportedly wrestled the gun away from Charboneau, who was later arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon, carrying a concealed weapon and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

In other recent district court arraignments:

•Sonya L. (Teller) Hodder, 21, Cass City, was charged with larceny of cash, lottery tickets and food stamps from a building. No other details were available from court records, which state the charge stems from a Multi-County Citizens Grand Jury investigation.

Bond for Hodder was set at $4,000. A preliminary exam was scheduled for Friday at 9 a.m.

•Paul G. Savage, 37,

Essexville, faces charges of possession of marijuana, violation of driver's license restrictions and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, second offense, April 23 in Caro.

Bond in the case was set at $400. A preliminary exam will be held May 20.

4 plead, one sentenced last week

Four people entered pleas and a fifth was sentenced last week in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

•Virgil Staudacher, 20, Bay City, pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact of a felony Oct. 16 in Tuscola Township, absconding with bond Feb. 16 in Caro, and being an habitual offender.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for the defendant, who was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department. Sentencing is to be set.

•Bonnie L. Blomgren, 33, Decker, entered a plea of guilty during her arraignment on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense, Feb. 4 in Koylton Township.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and bond was continued at $3,000. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

•Chad P. Hunkins, 19, Vassar, pleaded guilty to probation violation — consuming intoxicants.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and bond was continued at $5,000. Sentencing is to be set.

lishing. He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department.

Court records state the charge stemmed from a Dec. 21 incident involving a $286.36 check drawn on Kingston State Bank.

•John Huizar, 41, Vassar, pleaded guilty to one count of delivery of cocaine.

Bond was continued at $250,000. Sentencing is to be set.

Huizar had been scheduled for a jury trial, according to court records, which state 14 other drug-related charges were dismissed in exchange for his agreement to testify truthfully before the Multi-County Citizens Grand Jury.

of state school aid to meet cash flow needs.

•Met in executive session for 30 minutes to discuss a student discipline matter. The board then voted in open session to expel the student.

Volunteers begin moving depots home to Kingston

The important thing, she noted, is preservation.

"There's a lot of interest in bringing it back," she said. "It seems many of the old things are disappearing, and you lose the identity of who you are."

Wood agreed. "It's a part of the history of this town. I just have a deep feeling that we've forgotten our past."

The railroad played an important role in that past. The railroad through Kingston was completed in 1883, according to Peter, who said the depot used to stand on the north side of M-46 across from the village park on Kingston's west side.

Kingston and the surrounding community grew more rapidly as a result of the railroad, which provided many services that made rural living more convenient.

"People could travel more freely. Food, livestock and supplies were shipped in and out of our area," Peter said. "For example, our area was known in the early days for its wonderful orchards. Apples and peaches were often shipped out by rail.

"Mail service gradually improved to 2 trains going north and 2 going south daily."

The railroad era ended in Kingston Sept. 17, 1984, when the tracks were removed.

"About 5 years before that an ad was placed in the Cass City Chronicle that the Kingston Depot was for sale," Peter said. "The building was sold and torn down. It seemed it was there one day and gone the next."

It will take a lot of time and a lot of people willing to get involved to make the Kingston Depot stand again, but the effort will be worth it, Wood concluded.

"If we don't put a mark on history today, it will be gone forever."

nance, and physician recruitment, which has been hit hard by malpractice costs.

As for his own future plans, Jensen indicated he and wife Georgine, who have 4 grown children and 10 grandchildren, will move on.

"I'm going to dust off my (resume) and start looking for a position in the next few weeks," he concluded. "I figure I've got at least 10 good years in me."
