Tuckey needs no introduction to the majority of area residents. He is a native of Cass City, the son of Luke and Evelyn Tuckey.

He has served on a variety of volunteer organizations. Tuckey received wide acclaim for organizing the Cass City Booster Club that raised over $50,000 to maintain extracurricular activities at Cass City High School in 1981, when budget constraints had forced the school to cancel them.

He played a major role in another Booster Club activity in 1989, when the Boosters raised $150,000 with the help of local service clubs and others to build an allweather track at the park.

Tuckey's interest in track and other sports was evident in high school. He won the coveted Paul Smarks award as Cass City High School's outstanding athlete in 1959. He held the 880-yard track record for 13 years.

He earned a B.S. degree from Central Michigan in 1964, helped run the family redi-mix business until he left the business and became a certified public accountant. He has been a partner Anderson, Tuckey, Bernhardt & Co. for 20 years.

He is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. He served in a variety of offices, including president in 1989.

In addition to the Boosters Club, he is active in many other areas of the community, including: • Cass City Lions Club.

 Salem United Methodist Church, where he served as chairman of the administrative board. • Elkland Township Zoning Review Board.

Tidbits about this and that, gathered from here and

* As a public service, a list of "commonly called phone numbers" appeared in the Concord, Calif., newspaper. Along with listings for Police, Garbage Collection, Recycling, etc., were numbers for "Potholes" and 'Street Trees.'

I know some people in Concord, and I'm pretty sure they've never felt the need to call a pothole or street tree. I suppose it's good to know you could if you wanted to.

* If you are, or are married to, one of those people who when driving any distance will stop only for dire emergencies, and then reluctantly, here's good news.

McDonalds, always eager to be where hungry folks are, has opened several outlets at gas stations. Now you and the car will be able to gas up and be back on the road in a matter of minutes.

Unfortunately, the outlets are only in Arkansas, Florida, Indiana and Massachusetts so far.

* If your pet tags along and your travels take you can also save time by using the Puppy Hut Drivethrough.

You can order doggie steaks, cheeseburgers, fries and Kanine Kola (beef flavored broth). Average price for a doggie meal is $5.00.

The doghouse shaped drive-through also has a fenced-in "Park 'N' Bark area, complete with a-fire hydrant. Everything Fido could ask for.

Fast food is also available for cats, hamsters, monkeys,

* Bet the Puppy Hut people would scramble if Pat Webber dropped by with her pooches. It would be like a Dairy Queen after a Little League tournament.

According to an Associated Press article, Ms Webber was fined for a variety of violations resulting from keeping 79 dogs in her double-wide mobile home in Palm Harbor, Fla.

The report said she divorced her husband because he "couldn't take care of the pets to her standards." (There really wasn't room for him anyway.)

* The drive-through kick brings us back to Concord, Calif., where those little photo shops that used to be found in shopping center parking lots are being transformed into drive-through espresso bars. Two of them have sprung up just a few blocks from our son and daughter-in law's home.

They target sleepy commuters and parents taking their kids to school who need a serious caffeine lift.

The founder of the "Java Express" was quoted as saying, "Coffee is the last vice left that hasn't been overtaxed or made illegal." Cashing in on the last legal vice, they serve a variety of coffees, hot chocolate and tea. Their specialty, "Jump Start", a triple shot of espresso, is intended only for the serious coffee connoisseur or the really slow starter.

Those shops probably wouldn't thrive in a small town, but one in the parking lot between our house and the Chronicle could do a bang up business Monday mornings.

The Bay Port Hotel is in line to get more publicity. At the Hotel sampling the fish was Tom Gilchrist of the Bay City Times. He reports that he is doing a story on the hotel for a special supplement planned later this year by the Times.

Chatting with Tom, who writes a column as well as general reporting for the Times, I remarked that I expected an announcement any day that he had moved onward and upward in the business. (Gilchrist started his career at the Tuscola County Advertiser.)

He said that naturally the thought had crossed his mind, but that he was happy in his present job. My home is in Vassar and I like what I'm doing, he explained before resuming his note taking for the story he will write.

The Bay City Times published a feature story about the Michigan Livestock Exchange Sunday with pictures from the Exchange in Cass City. Lorn Hillaker, auctioneer, was pictured and identified.

In a smaller photo near the bottom of the spread was a shot of a fellow herding along a calf.

That fellow was Charles Carpenter of Cass City. What has astonished all the fellows around the coffee table was that he was not identified in the story. What the guys can't understand is how a reporter and photographer could be around the yard long enough to do their job and not learn all about Charlie.

Maybe they weren't listening?

Today is Thursday, April 28, and we received a dozen or so subscription renewals. Among them were 2 from the Decker area and one from rural Cass City.

The Decker subscriptions went to Milwaukee, Wis., (according to the postmark) and the Cass City renewal went to Saginaw and back. The Cass City renewal was mailed Mar. 21.

Our dog Foozie is about 14 years old now. That's really old considering that large dogs like our Airedale tend to age more quickly than smaller dogs.

The other day he went for a walk and tried to act like a youngster. Ordinarily he doesn't get that much exercise and he paid for it later as most old geezers are wont to do. He spent the day trying to get up without success as his joints just would not function.

Though the flesh was weak, the spirit was willing. While he just couldn't navigate for awhile, when a visitor came to the house and entered his domain he made the supreme effort and got up to challenge the intruder. Since then he's been more or less his old self.

Is there a lesson there for all of us?

We are entering the most dangerous time of the year for high school drivers, especially seniors.

We can recall at least 3 different years when accidents claimed a student at this time when students are celebrating what are probably the first major achievements of their young lives.

Drugs play a prominent role in many tragedies. A study indicates that 90 percent of high school seniors have tried alcohol and about half report drinking in the last month. That's more than the number that have smoked cigarettes (62%), marijuana (32%) or cocaine

A little extra diligence by parents and others could well make the difference as the kids enjoy the prom and the commencement ceremonies ahead.

Leftover vacation notes... Fifty years ago I graduated from high school in the same class as Bill Ricketts. I've almost never seen him since, even though he has always lived in Port Huron, only a few miles from where I've always lived, in Detroit or Lapeer.

So, a few weeks ago, it was cause for great surprise and exclamation when hundreds of miles from home, Ricketts and his wife walked into a Tennessee restaurant and sat down next to me and my wife.

Wow! We agreed it was an astonishing coincidence, and had a fine time taking advantage of the once-in-a-

Mary Lou said if they promised not to tell anyone how careless she is with her wealth, she'd make her brother put their name in the newspaper.

The gracious purse-finders are Don and Goldie O'Neil of Harrison Township.

Incidentally, in that Florida dining room we were seated next to a familiar face who turned out to be Ben Smith, one of Michigan's finest amateur golfers.

And the Naples newspaper said the next Sunday's speaker at the First Baptist Church 9:45 a.m. service would be John DeLorean. It sure was nice to get away from everything that might

The biggest vacation laugh came in a restaurant when 12-year-old Emily, as is her crude but cool habit, crammed her mouth with ice from her water glass. The idea is to see how long she can stand the cold before spitting the ice back in the glass. But an alert waitress removed the empty glass before Emily could unload.

The weird moment had to be when I found myself playing a Monopoly-like game with 8-year-old Tricia, who not only makes up her own games, she also constructs and letters her own boards and auxiliary equipment. So help me, for more than an hour I threw dice made out of 2 shoe boxes.

Hospital celebrates '94 National Hospital Week

"Where Miracles Happen Every Day" is the theme of the 1994 National Hospital Week celebration, exploring the relationship between medicine and the miraculous events that are a routine part of hospital life.

"Miracles happen so frequently in a hospital, it's easy to see them as mundane occurrences," said Ken E. Jensen, president and CEO of Hills & Dales General Hospital. "In 1994, we are helping everyone in our facility and community remember that when an infection is cured or a broken bone mends, we have been a small part of a very large

The slogan "Where Miracles Happen Every Day" will be a prominent part of the Hills & Dales celebration of National Hospital Week, May 8-14.

Begun in 1921, National Hospital Week was initiated by a magazine editor who, concerned about the public's fear of hospitals, started a community awareness campaign regarding the function of medical facilities. Every year, National Hospital Week is scheduled for the Sunday through Saturday surrounding May 12, birthdate of nursing pioneer Florence Nightingale.

Hills & Dales is planning a number of events in coordination with National Hospital Week. Activities include a children's poster contest with prizes donated by the Cass Theater and Hardees; hospital tours for local students; a free cholesterol and blood pressure screening Wednesday, May 11; a hospital "What am I" riddle for employees, with dinner and golf donated by Northwood Shores Golf Course and Restaurant to be awarded to the winner; theme dinners all week featuring Italian, German, Hawaiian and Mexican dishes; a potluck; a Florence Nightingale birthday cake, and much more!

"This is our chance to share with the community how proud we are to be their hometown hospital," said Tina Zahm, community relations manager at Hills & Dales. "This is not just the hospital's week. It also recognizes all those who support and use our hospital." More information on National Hospital Week events at Hills & Dales is available by contacting Zahm at 872-

Thanks to full scholarships from Dan Handley and Associates of Saginaw, 3 Tuscola teens graduated from the 4-H/Dale Carnegie Corporations program at a recognition ceremony held April 16 at the Bay County Fairgrounds.

Mary Stec, 16, daughter of Dan and Debbie Stec; Matt Steele, 16, son of Nick and Becky Steele, and Amy Thomas, 17, daughter of Doug and Sharon Thomas, each received a certificate of graduation after attending 12 training sessions which took keeps the DPW's arsenal of equipment — a street sweeper, backhoe, loader, grader, bucket truck, 2 blade trucks and a pair of dump trucks — in top shape.

HELPING HAND

The equipment has been put to good use by Stoutenburg. Although he never belonged to any of the local service clubs, he was always quick to offer his skills where needed, such as helping to build ball diamonds in the park.

"The village has been good to let me use the equipment," he noted.

An active member of the Salem United Methodist Church, Stoutenburg has contributed to the community in other ways, including 16 years of service on the fire department and a combined 20 years as a little league and girls traveling league coach.

Now, the grandfather of 4 is looking forward to doing some traveling with wife

'We've got a boy out in Colorado, so we want to go out and see him," he said, noting the couple have another son who lives in Cass City, and a daughter who resides in Southfield.

Stoutenburg acknowledged he'll probably miss the daily routine associated with being a member of the DPW

And he'll be missed, according to village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie. "He's a guy that was always there and always congenial," he said. "He's been very faithful to the village."

Looking back on his career and changes in the village, Stoutenburg indicated he'll take with him a certain sense of accomplishment.

"You feel you had a part in it. I guess that's the big thing," he said.

"I've enjoyed working here. The people have been good to me. The people in town have been good. It's been a good place to work."

Farmers -- save speaking in public, increase self-confidence, enhance seed corn bag tags

Tuscola County Farm Bureau is urging farmers to save the tags from their seed corn bags and drop them at one of several collection sites in Tuscola County. According to Tuscola County Farm Bureau President Richard Starkey, "The purpose of the seed corn tag collection is to send as many tags as possible to Washington to demonstrate our support for the use of ethanol in the EPA's Reformulated Gasoline program." The EPA proposal would require the use of renewable fuels such as ethanol to replace at least 30 percent of the oxygenates required for reformulated gasoline. According to Keith Muxlow, Executive Director of the Michigan Corn Growers Association, "the EPA directive has the potential to double, possibly triple, the corn usage for ethanol by the year Collection sites for the seed corn tags include the Tuscola County Farm Bureau office, Farmer's Petroleum Cooperative, Farm Bureau Insurance offices, several implement dealers and fertilizer outlets. All the farmer has to do is stop into one of the collection sites and drop the tags in the box. In addition, Starkey asks that each farmer sign the petition form that will be there.

Farm Bureau will be mailing all the tags to Washington just before the first of June when EPA is expected to act on the proposal.

Writers club meets set

Regular meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesday of each month and start at 7:30 p.m.

Writers needing encouragement in their creative endeavors are urged to attend.

The letter also said that the village clerk should work closely with the township office and that a list should be available to the village with the names of persons eligible.

That was never done and the Sontags went through the voter registration list in Gagetown and removed from the rolls the names of Gagetown residents who would not be eligible to vote if they hadn't voted in other state or county elections.

Removed were scores of eligible voters. Elaine N. Seibel, Elmwood Township clerk, has worked to see that all voters improperly stricken from the village registration books have been restored.

Four residents were then refused the right to vote in the recent Gagetown village election when they should have been eligible because they voted in other elections in the state. Madeline Sontag said Monday that she had been told that the election bureau has termed the issue a misunderstanding. I haven't received an official notification of that, she added.

Spring brings garden memories

Spring time is garden time and it's appreciated even if you no long have one, says Mike Kostanko, 78, of rural Cass City.

We don't have a garden anymore, Kostanko told the Chronicle ruefully, because age has caught up with us.

The genial Kostanko explained that because of his health and the arthritis of his wife, they have given up gar-

It was a different story in the years gone by, he pointed out. At one time the garden at their farm home included 2 quarter-acre plots, one in the front of the house and the other in the back.

Then we discontinued the garden in the front and finally went out of gardening all together, Kostanko said. Health is the main reason. Kostanko has had successful bypass heart surgery.

Although they are out of gardening, they do spent lots of time working outside. They have a large lawn with ornamental shade trees which they maintain.

The Kostankos have lived in the Cass City area for most of their lives. They have 3 children.

What Is An Allergy?

The body has defenses against virtually everything. Sometimes, however, the body chooses the wrong defenses to handle certain proteins such as the pollens and molds it comes in touch with.

In this case, the wrong antibody--called IgE--is produced. The IgE antibody attaches to cells in the skin, nose, lungs and the eyes. These cells, called mast cells, contain the substances that cause the symptoms of allergies.

When the proteins of pollen or mold spores come in contact with the IgE antibody, a reaction takes place in the mast cell that releases histamine and several other very notent substances. These chemicals cause the runny nose and sneezing and the watery, itchy eyes. This is what an allergy is.

Certain proteins, such as molds and ragweed or grass pollens, can very easily induce allergies because of their size and chemical makeup.

Heredity plays a big role in who will develop allergies. A person has a greater chance of allergies if close relatives have had hay fever, asthma, or eczema. About 15% of Americans have allergies.

Medicines can help many people and allergy shots help most people by inducing the body to develop the right defenses.

Checking the blood level of the IgE antibody can also be quite useful in evaluating allergies. A high level will assure your doctor that allergy testing is worthwhile while a low level makes it less likely that allergies are the cause of your symptoms and other treatments may be tried first.

Exercise-Induced Asthma

Asthma is one of the most common respiratory diseases and is characterized by a spasm of the smooth muscles in the bronchial tubes in the lungs, and swelling and inflammation of the mucus linings. Plugging of the airways can occur from the accumulated mucus. Wheezing is a main symp-

Exercise-induced asthma usually occurs in a known asthmatic, but it can occur in some athletes only when they are exercising strenuously. Different sports have a different potential for stimulating the onset of an exercise-induced asthma attack. Running sports produce the highest incidence in those who are susceptible while swimmers are least likely to be affected. This is thought to be related to the temperature of the air as inhaling cold air, as when running during the winter months, can lead to spasm of the bronchial tubes during or after activity which can lead to an

RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS from Coach Jeff Hartel after he accepted a scholarship offer from Aquinas College is Paul Ulfig. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Ulfig, were present for the signing.

Basketball scholarship Ulfig signs with Aquinas College

Paul Ulfig's college basketball career starts the minute after his final baseball game has been played for Cass City High School.

The Cass City senior accepted a scholarship offer and signed Friday to attend Aquinas College in Grand

While he won't be playing immediately, the 6-7 Ulfig, son of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Ulfig of Cass City, said that Coach Rick Albo said that the first priority for him this summer will be working out with the weights and running a mile a day to build strength and agility.

"I haven't done as much of that in high school as I probably should have," he smiled.

The scholarship signed Friday is worth some $10,700, Ulfig reported. The cost of a year at Aquinas, a private school, is worth $15,300. Ulfig says that he will be able to attend for about

In addition to the scholarship he accepted. Ulfig was offered one from Ferris State University. He accepted the Aquinas offer for several reasons. One is that he felt more comfortable playing at Aquinas, which plays in the NAIA, than at Ferris, which plays in Division 11.

Aquinas is a Catholic School, which is my religion, he added, and I like the coaches there. Ferris representatives were talking about redshirting me for a year, he pointed out, and I want to finish college in 4 years. After graduation I hope to get a job teaching. Biology will be my major, he explained.

While at Cass City, Ulfig became the school's all-time scoring leader and was at his best in his senior year in the most important games. He scored 357 points in the regular season and led the team in rebounds. He also had 58 assists. He carried the club to the finals in the regionals and scored 24 points in the regional finals.

He said that present plans call for him to spend a few days this summer working out with the team. He also said that he would be there for a week or longer when he will stay and associate with other team members.

The coaches are talking about placing me on the junior varsity, he explained, but I hope to be able to play at the varsity level. One advantage he will have is his height. He will be the tallest player on the squad and expects to play at either power forward or center.

Coach Jeff Hartel said that he feels that Ulfig has the ability to make a major contribution on the court. By far the biggest test, he feels, will be meeting the academic requirements at the school. It will be a big adjustment, he predicts.

Ulfig says that his major regret about attending Aquinas is that he will not be able to return home very often to see his brother, a junior, play.

Basketball is year-around at Aquinas, he concluded.

Hawks bounce back to win 3 games

The basketball season is ball with a runner on base to finally over, Coach Doug snuff out a potential Vulcan Hall said, following the 3 rally. Kris Repshinska colwins his charges posted last lected a pair of hits and week after losing 4 of 5 the scored a run from his leadpreceding week. Hall feels off position. He was the only that the long, successful hoop season cut into the concentration of his team in the early games this spring.

Included in the wins was a victory over Vassar in the Tuscola County tournament Saturday at Millington. The Hawks posted a 3-0 decision over the Vulcans, who had defeated them handily in a doubleheader a few days earlier.

Jason Morgan spun a neat 4-hitter in the game called after 5 innings because of rain. He also hit a long home run out of the park in left center that Hall estimated traveled well over

A key play in the game was a catch by John Phillips in left field. Phillips made a diving catch on a short fly player to garner more than one hit.

Taking the loss for Vassar was Kevin Schnell.

The tournament is expected to conclude this Saturday and Cass City will play at least 3 games and perhaps more, depending on the outcome of the games.

HARBOR BEACH

Wednesday the Harbor Beach Pirates travelled to Cass City and were defeated twice. The first game was called by the mercy rule after 4 1/2 innings as the Hawks scored early and often to win, 17-2.

Paul Ulfig started for Cass City and went 4 innings to get the win. Jim Hempton pitched a hitless fifth inning in relief. Ulfig allowed 3 hits, 3 walks and struck out

Two players had a perfect game at the plate. Going 3 for 3 were Kevin Storm and Phillips. In all, Cass City pounded out 17 hits against the Pirates' Hurren.

Cass City took the nightcap in a slugfest, 18-11. Everyone suited for Cass City played in the game.

It was a much closer game than the score indicated. After 6 innings the Pirates had a one-run lead, 11-10. Cass City iced the game in their half of the last inning by sending 13 men to the plate to score 8 runs. In the rally the Hawks collected 6 hits and a walk.

Storm started on the mound for Cass City and gave up 10 runs in 3 1/3 innings. Morgan relieved him and went $\bar{2}$ 2/3 innings, giving up a run and 3 hits. Ulfig pitched the last inning and allowed a hit and no runs. Morgan was credited with the vic-

Softball team rolls to wins over Pirates

The Cass City Red Hawks stepped out of conference competition last week and won a doubleheader over visiting Harbor Beach.

Lisa Burns got the Hawks off to a flying start with a no-hit game. She allowed no runs, walked one and struck out 7 in the game called after 4 1/2 innings by the mercy rule, with Cass City in front, 17-0.

The Hawks batted around in the second and fourth innings, scoring 9 runs in the second and 6 in the fourth.

Cass City pounded out 15 hits, led by Jodi LaRoche with 3 hits in 4 tries, including a triple and a home run. The no-hitter was the second for Hawk hurlers in as many weeks.

The first was by Darcie Monroe and she was on the mound in the nightcap game against the Pirates. She

The Environmental Protection Agency is soon to make its decision on whether to stay with its ruling that 30 percent of the cleaner burning fuel additives required under the Clean Air Act should come from renewable sources. Farmers believe ethanol is good for the environment and at the same time it cuts our dependence on foreign oil.

Cass City won, 12-1.

Cass City took control of the game early with a 3-run rally in the first. Karla Zinnecker got the big blow that drove in 2 runs.

The Hawks racked up another 3 runs in the third on consecutiv its by DeLong, LaRoche and Zinnecker. In the fifth Harbor Beach counted their only run in the twin bill, and that was unearned. Ford received life on hurled a neat 6-hitter and an error and came home on a hit by Gornowich.

The Hawks scored 5 more unearned runs in the sixth but that was merely icing on the cake.

Zinnecker ended the game with 3 hits in 4 tries and 3 RBIs. LaRoche was 3 for 4 with 3 RBIs and Jaime Caister also collected 3 hits. Cass City remains at 1-1 in Blue Bay League play and has a gaudy 8-2 record for the season.

Student: disappointed with bond issue vote

Dear Editor:

I am a seventh grade student at Cass City Middle School. I was very disappointed when I heard that our town had voted against a new Middle School. The current building is so old and worn down.

It has three floors and climbing those stairs in 80 degree weather with no air conditioning is awful. The stairs are dangerous, too. It's easy to lose your balance need a new Middle School. and fall down them.

If you're on first or second floor and the class above you is rearranging desks it sounds like the ceiling could fall. But the gym is the worst. It's dark and stuffy. It echoes and the floorboards move when you step on them in certain places. Also, there is a big, black stain seeping down the wall.

I don't understand how our town can think we don't

Safety expert cautions

Check slow moving vehicle signs

Since spring has arrived and tractors and other farm equipment are travelling public roadways in increasing numbers, it is time for farmers and other motorists to remember the significance of SMV's (Slow Moving Vehicle emblems) reports Geraldine R. Smith, Huron County Health Department agricultural safety specialist. The orange, reflective triangle has a definite meaning that must be recognized by all motorists.

traffic approaching from the rear that a slower moving vehicle is ahead of them. If a farm vehicle is travelling 15 mph when the SMV is seen by a driver going 55 miles per hour, the driver then has 7 seconds to recognize the SMV and react. The faster moving vehicle must begin slowing immediately in order to avoid a collision.

It is vital that farmers check equipment before leaving the farmyard to ensure SMV's are in place, reflective and clean. If they are gone or no longer reflective, they must be replaced before
