Something for everyone

Festival plans complete

by Marjory Raymer
Staff Writer

The 16th annual July 4 Festival weekend promises fun for everyone June 30-July 2 by expanding some traditional events and adding some new ones.

As always, the 3-day celebration comes at no cost to the public, with only registration fees for some competitions. Festival Coordinator Jane Hitler said, "Because everyone in this community gives time and money or both, this thing works every year — and gets better."

The parade and fireworks are sure to be spectacular events this year. The parade has added more musical performances to its march down Main Street from Brooker to Ale streets before ending at Cass City Recreational Park.

The Northern Aurora Drum and Bugle Corp, an 80-member competition group from Saginaw, and the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corp, 12-18-year-olds playing Civil War era music, will highlight in the parade, which is expected to last more than one hour this year. And, another Civil War era replica group, the Tittabawassee Fife and Drum Corp will meet parade goers at the center of events in Cass City Recreational Park with their patriotic welcome.

The tunes will carry over into the fireworks show this year as WIDL 92.1 FM and WKYO 1360 AM broadcast live from the festivities. Radio personality Dennis Lucas will join in on the fun as the crowd waits for the sun to set. When fireworks artist Dennis Kundering of Sebawaing lights up the sky at about 10 p.m., the station will simultaneously air a variety of patriotic songs until the display ends about 30 minutes later.

The theme will change slightly, but the music will continue Sunday, July 3 with a non-denominational religious service, which will include musical accompaniment and refreshments.

Two new chairwomen are inviting everyone to kick off the 3-day celebration by re-experiencing some other festival favorites like the Little Miss Pageant, 7 p.m. June 30 at Cass City High School, and Cruise Nite, 5:30 to dusk

July 1 on Main Street. Organizers also have highlighted some new events slated for July 2 in the park. The Greased Pig competition has wiggled its way into the festival agenda. Charlie Carpenter headed the planning of the classic contest of strength and agility that pits 8 to 10 or 10 to 12 year olds against a pig covered with Crisco at 4 p.m. in the boys' varsity baseball field. However, the older generation also can try their hand at a new event at 8:30 on the Please turn to back page.

Grand jury indicts 5 on drug charges

Five Huron County residents have been indicted by the Multi-County Citizens Grand Jury on various drug-related charges, Huron County Prosecutor Leslie Hagen announced.

Terry M. Tyll, 29, of Bad Axe, was charged in Huron County District Court on one count of delivery of marijuana and one count of delivery of LSD.

The offenses, which allegedly took place in January 1993, are punishable by up to 4 years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine, and up to 7 years in prison and/or a $5,000 fine, respectively.

Bond was set at $4,000 and a preliminary examination was to have been held June 2.

Brian W. Stomack, 36, and Angeleatte M. Stomack, 31, both of Elkton, were each arraigned on 3 counts of conspiracy to possess 225 or more but less than 650 grams of cocaine. The offense carries a mandatory minimum sentence of 20 to 30 years in prison.

The couple also face 2 counts of delivery of cocaine less than 50 grams, which is punishable by one to 20 years in prison.

Hagen said the offenses are alleged to have occurred in the summer and fall of 1993.

Bond was set at $20,000 for each defendant. Both face a preliminary exam June 30.

Two other residents were arraigned June 10.

Garth G. Langley, 40, of Bad Axe, was indicted on 4 counts of delivery of cocaine less than 50 grams, allegedly between October and December 1992. The offense is punishable by one to 20 years in prison and a Please turn to back page.

Business flames as residents battle heat

by Marjory Raymer
Staff Writer

The 4-day heat wave sparked a boost in business activity as it washed over Cass City last week, leaving area residents rushing for cover.

Although so far this month's average high temperature is only 3 degrees more than the 10-year average for June, the more than 90-degree heat starting June 15 reached a 98-degree peak Friday, a June temperature which Cass City last saw during 1988.

To deal with the heat, people turned to fans and air conditioners, and record amounts of electricity were used, according to Detroit Edison Company spokesman Scott Simons.

The records started breaking June 15 as Detroit Edison reported that from 4 to 5 p.m., 9.342 million kilowatts of electricity were used, surpassing the previous record for any one hour in June and July during its 91-year history. But, that was just the beginning.

During the same hour Thursday, Detroit Edison reported an all time high with a 9.685 million kilowatt-hour. The record was previously set Aug. 27, 1993, at 9.362 million kwh. The usage Friday tied the new record. And the trend continued Saturday and Sunday as the weekend usage record was replaced.

"When there is a heat wave, it just keeps building momentum," Simons remarked. "People just want to escape."

Simons explained why all records were broken during the same time period, between 4 and 5 p.m. Businesses remain open, yet at the same time many people return home and attempt to cool their homes with fans or air conditioners during that hour, he said.

Locally, Schneeberger TV Sales and Service's business has been "absolutely fabulous," said saleswoman Kim Smutek, and the telephone has been ringing "non-stop" with requests for air conditioners. She has been waiting for a new shipment of cooling units to arrive at the store since the heat wave began and the store sold more than 50 air conditioners in 2 days, wiping out its entire supply. "I wish we had a few hundred more," Smutek said.

SAFETY FIRST

Without the use of cooling aids, body temperature can rise in excessively hot and humid conditions, leading to heat cramps, heat exhaustion or heatstroke. Tina Zahm, community relations director at Hills and Dales General Hospital, said several cases of heat exhaustion already have been treated at the facility.

According to information supplied by Hills and Dales and published by the Mayo

Foundation for Medical Education and Research, protecting one's self from these medical ills, with symptoms ranging from aches and pains to possibly fatal brain, liver or kidney damage is largely a matter of common sense. Please turn to back page.

Sexual criminal assault

16-year-old faces charge as adult

A Tuscola County teen charged with sexually assaulting a woman after allegedly breaking into a Fairgrove Township residence will be prosecuted as an adult.

The offense allegedly took place Saturday — 10 days after the defendant's 16th birthday — according to Tuscola County District Court records.

The teen, Allen D. Parrish of Fairgrove, was arrested and arraigned the same day on a charge of first degree criminal sexual conduct involving penetration, during the commission of another felony; breaking and entering an occupied dwelling with the intent of committing larceny. The charge also alleges the youth was armed or acted in a manner leading the victim to believe he was armed.

Bond was denied for the youth, who faces a preliminary examination Friday at 9 a.m.

Michigan law allows minors ages 15 and 16, who are charged with life offenses, to be prosecuted as adults. The decision is left under the discretion of the prosecutor's office.

In another recent district court arraignment, John C. Hess Jr., 21, of Caro, faces charges of carrying a concealed weapon (double edged knife) in a motor vehicle, and transporting or possessing an open intoxicant in a motor vehicle May 31 in Caro.

Bond in the case was set at $5,000, and preliminary exam was scheduled for Friday morning.

Crystal Apple award winner

Sean Zawilinski always desperately wanted to teach

When it came to a career choice, Sean Zawilinski always knew she would spend her life teaching.

"It was something I desperately wanted all my life," the Cass City High School graduate said. "I remember almost every school teacher I had and the impact they had on my life."

Zawilinski, now a teacher in the Cass City Schools for the past 7 years, was recently named a recipient of the Crystal Apple Award for teaching excellence.

Sponsored by the Saginaw News, the honor goes to educators who go above and beyond their jobs to make an impact on their students. In all, 10 teachers received the award at a ceremony held last Wednesday at the Germania Club in Saginaw. Zawilinski has a simple teaching philosophy: her students come first.

The feeling is mutual, judging by a letter written by one of those students, Jamie Laws, 16, who nominated the local teacher for the Crystal Apple.

Laws, who is deaf, said attending public school has been difficult for her.

"I have found that many teachers have felt uncomfortable having a hearing impaired student in their classroom," she wrote. "I have not felt included as a part of the class because teachers tend to talk to my interpreter and not to me." Not so this year, said Laws, who had Zawilinski for physical education/health.

REGULAR STUDENT

"As a member of her class, she constantly encouraged others to communicate with me. In an effort to accomplish that, she has made learning sign language a part of her course requirements. Now I could not only be educated, but also be included as a regular student.

"My teacher taught the whole classroom not only about health, but to share the gift of communication. No one forced them to do this; they learned from the example of my teacher to accept and tolerate people with handicaps."

During the course of the year, Laws received a special gift from her classmates: a hearing impaired phone.

"I'm sure that there are many teachers that are special, but (Zawilinski) is the most outstanding person in my life. If the award was made of pure gold it couldn't compare to the value of what I've received from (her) — acceptance."

Zawilinski, who also teaches history and psychology at the high school, strives to develop a rapport with her students that goes beyond that of just teacher.

Bike-a-thon raises $2,082 for St. Jude

The St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-thon which was held in Cass City was a success. Thirty-seven children and adults raised $2,082 from their May 7 ride. After the event, riders collected their pledges. Garrett Wichert collected $225. Five others turned in $100 or more. They include Nate Brown, Michelle Derfiny, Christine Sheppard, Matt Perry, and Tim Karr.

Five of the riders logged 30 or more miles during the 4-hour event. Those who accumulated the most miles were Jason Humpert with 35 and Jeremy Reed with 33. Michelle Derfiny, Tim Karr and Erin McMahan all logged 30 miles each.

Cass City Chairperson Linda Derfiny expressed her appreciation to the 4 churches which help organize the event, and to the local merchants who supplied food and drink to the participants.

Historical society sets slide program

The Cass City Area Historical Society is showing slides and displaying photographs and memorabilia of the 1965 Cass City Centennial celebration. The program will be Monday, June 27, at 7 p.m. at Rawson Memorial Library and will be repeated Wednesday and Friday evenings, June 29 and July 1. Everyone is invited to drop in and enjoy looking back.

Anyone having material that they could lend for this program is asked to drop it off at the library.

A limited number of volumes of "The History of Cass City and Elkland Township," published by Pinney State Bank in 1962, will be on sale for $6.00 each. Proceeds will be used to help fund the book the society is writing of the past 30 years of Cass City history.

The hot, humid weather we've been experiencing can be dangerous. I'm thinking not so much about the direct effects, such as heat stroke, as of the indirect results. When everybody's sweaty and uncomfortable, and when people can't sleep because of the heat, tempers get short and patience disappears.

Add those factors to an already stressed-out society, where a wrong word or look can cause someone to open fire on anybody at hand, and you have a potentially explosive environment.

What makes us so uptight? Is it because we feel driven — to excel, to make sure nobody's getting ahead of us, to get or keep more of what we feel we have coming, to obtain more things?

Life seems to move at such an incredibly rapid pace these days that if you aren't feeling stress, you obviously don't know what's going on.

Can this rat race really be the "good life?"

The pressure to achieve and the sense of having more to do than you can possibly get done is felt even by small children. Whatever happened to carefree childhood?

On the other end of the spectrum, senior citizens have become so addicted to stress that a lot of them can't slow down even after retirement.

We can't do much about the heat, but maybe we can learn to cope with stress.

A recent issue of "Better Homes and Gardens" offered some tips for stress reduction.

Among the suggestions was physical exercise. Walking, tennis, soccer, swimming or golf help a lot of people relax. You have to be careful, though, that your "play" is fun and doesn't become one more source of stress.

Other recommendations were gardening, soaking in a tubful of warm water for 15 minutes or playing the piano.

Laughing is a proven stress remedy. It's impossible to have a clenched fist or jaw when you're really laughing.

Ben Franklin's method of coping with stress involved writing down what he wanted most out of life. It should be no more than 6 items, written on a card to be carried with you and referred to daily. Remembering what really matters helps keep things in perspective.

A similar way to alter your focus is to occasionally go through a day as if it were your last day on earth. That should result in an attitude adjustment.

I liked the story in the devotional booklet, "Our Daily Bread," about the rich industrialist, disgusted with a fisherman he saw loafing beside his boat.

He asked, "Why aren't you out there fishing?"

"Because I've caught enough fish for today," the fisherman replied.

"Why don't you catch more fish than you need?" the rich man asked.

"What would I do with them?"

"You could earn more money, and buy a better boat so you could go deeper and catch more fish. You could purchase nylon nets, catch even more fish, and make more money. Soon you'd have a fleet of boats and be rich like me."

The fisherman asked, "Then what would I do?"

"You could sit down and enjoy life," said the industrialist.

"What do you think I'm doing now?" the fisherman replied.

Now there's a stress-free attitude!

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

Before leaving for Europe I was warned that the prices here are a little higher than those at home.

They were right. In France I visited a McDonald's and ordered a McChicken Sandwich. It's identical to the one served everywhere in the United States.

The cost in American money (converted from francs) was $6.05.

A full course meal for two costs between $55 and $70 at most restaurants. In the island of Burano, near Venice, the ~~our~~ paid for a full course dinner.

It included fish lasagna, salad, mineral water, a rice-fish dish, shrimp, squid and swordfish main course, plus fresh fruit cookies and all the beer and wine that you could drink. Liquid is not too bad if you can get over the 10 tentacles tickling out at you.)

It was good and enjoyable but... There is no ice available. Milk is something that is put in coffee that is generally so strong that most Americans can't drink it.

Okay, I'm back. Now don't hang up. This won't be a travelogue of a 16-day European vacation. Just a few oddities encountered in a 6-country, 3,700-mile excursion by bus.

•Don't look for this in the tour guide for England. Seated in a London restaurant, I chatted with a resident, Howard Isenberg. Besides giving us directions on where to eat, he informed us that he has discovered how to live forever. It all has to do with the mind, he says.

We didn't suggest that he should start using his formula before it's too late, but maybe we should have. He was born in 1944, he says, and believe me, he looked his age.

There were 44 persons on our tour bus and several of them have interesting stories to tell.

•For instance there were Blackie and Rio Swart from South Africa. Blackie is a retired general with 42 years of service. He's on pension. That's the good news, he says. The bad news is that, as a general, his pension is slightly less than that of a corporal in the United States.

•Maybe we don't know how good we have it in the at home department. Dining in a quaint restaurant in Brussels, we were served by a young man who may have been part of the family ownership.

Anyway, as the evening progressed he revealed that he had been in the United States at Cambridge for 2 years.

"It's a wonderful country," he gushed. "I can't wait to get back."

•Making the most of good fortune were Nancy and Bill Gibbins, who live in Paris, Ontario. They both have lived in England and their vacation extended after the tour to a couple of weeks in their old home area. The trip was made possible because Nancy won $5,000 in the Canadian lotto.

Incidentally, the Gibbins informed me that the first long distance call to Canada by Alexander Graham Bell was to Paris. (Travelling is so broadening).

•All over the continent, and especially in Italy, we ran into mysterious plumbing. About one time in 5 when you flushed the toilet more than once, the lights went out.

There were no admission refunds just because the lights go out. A determined attendant guards the door at most facilities and no money (change) means no entrance, regardless of how dire the emergency.

•Sign of the times: In the Swallow International Hotel, London, the sign on the wall in the bathroom said that overflowing the tub would cost 100 pounds. Then the threat was repeated in Japanese.

•Europe is an open society, especially in the bathroom. Most showers did not come equipped with a shower curtain, and some of the ladies were topless on the beach at Nice.

•Finally, a little about the tourist novice on his first trip. The first day abroad I attempted to call home and the phone kept rejecting my quarter. It took 2 rejects before it dawned that a good old United States quarter was nothing but a detestable foreign coin in England and the continent.

"If It Fitz...."

People-watching in greater Detroit

By Jim Fitzgerald

The sun was shining last Wednesday around 4 p.m. when my wife saw her first drug deal go down. It happened along Woodward, on the sidewalk, in the downtown that Mayor Dennis Archer said Detroit doesn't have.

"We don't have a downtown Detroit. We need one again. Tiger Stadium will help us create that," Archer announced at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island where the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce hosts its annual business summit.

The purpose of the gathering, attended by hundreds of rich people, is to improve business in greater Detroit. Seeing that the Greater Mackinac Island Chamber of Commerce never holds 3-day conventions in greater Detroit, some cynics might wonder why the Detroit chamber invited all those wealthy business people and Officeholder-Expense-Fund politicians to come spend their money on the island, rather than in Detroit.

Archer probably answered that question when he revealed there's no downtown Detroit. The convention could hardly be held on Belle Isle, where there's no room service. I guess the Renaissance Center and attached hotels were moved to downtown Toledo when I wasn't looking. But they will surely be back in time for the first game in the new ballpark, with the first pitch thrown by the mayor from a luxury suite with 3 bedrooms and landscaping.

Anyway, I wasn't as fascinated as my wife was by the sight of a drug-dealer openly exchanging small envelopes for cash in front of a liquor store, servicing 5 walk-up customers in a minute. My wife stays home and sews a lot, but I've sneaked peeks at enough dope deals that I sometimes forget they're illegal.

Until the next time I read that a child was killed by a stray bullet, or a cop was killed by an aimed bullet, fired in a drug battle that wouldn't have been fought if liquor stores could add pot and coke to their legal drug wares, even if those sissy drugs don't cause nearly as much damage and woe as booze does.

In fact, shortly before my wife gasped at the sight of a drug deal, I had been more fascinated by the sight of a hospital patient. Thirtysomething and wearing the usual peek-a-boo gown, the man was standing outside the main entrance of Ford Hospital. He was bent over and appeared terribly sick. Tubes from a wheeled IV cart were stuck into his frail body.

Why was he outside instead of inside the hospital? He had to have a cigarette, no matter what.

A cigarette made with tobacco grown by tax-subsidized farmers and sold legally wherever money can be made, especially in foreign countries to which the U.S. government ships the health woes it fights at home.

Anyway, fascinating people-watching in greater Detroit continued into the evening in Boodles Restaurant, where we eavesdropped on a fortysomething man as he asked a blonde woman at the bar if she were Marie. When she answered no, he retreated until another blonde woman appeared. He asked her the same question, she answered yes, they smiled and sat down at a table.

"A blind date," my wife said. "Maybe one of those computer dating services," I said. We silently wished them a happy relationship. But suddenly the woman got up and walked swiftly out the front door, leaving the man alone with his drink. We felt bad.

A few minutes later, she returned, and the new couple resumed smiling. "She went out to her car to get snapshots of her children," my wife speculated.

I said she went to her car to tell a friend it was OK to leave her there because she'd finally caught a keeper.

Call me crazy, but I've always found it more interesting to hang around greater Detroit — even without a downtown — than to dodge horse poop on Mackinac Island.

Milk consumption

The average American drank over 25 gallons of milk last year. Consumption of all dairy products added up to 585 pounds per person.

Avoiding Childhood Dog Bites

Dogs are man's best friend and we all want our children to learn the friendship of a nice little puppy or the family pet.

But dogs and children do not mix well. All too often something goes wrong and a young child gets bitten.

Most dog bites are provoked attacks--something alarmed the dog or caused him to protect his territory. Unprovoked attacks are when a dog goes out of his way to bite a person.

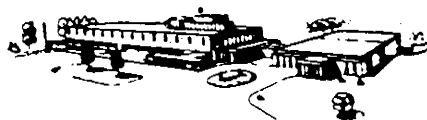

Provoked bites occur because dogs are protective and territorial animals. They will protect their territory and especially their food. It is foolish to let a child feed a dog or to feed dogs when children are around. A wrong move by a child results in a "snap" so quickly, nothing can be done.

The bites frequently occur on the face and often need stitches. Sometimes plastic surgery is needed to repair large lacerations. This is especially true when the injury is to the lips, nose, or eyes.

Children should be taught how to react to dogs. A small warning nip by a dog should be heeded, but children are likely to slap the dog or scream, provoking a real bite.

Older children on bikes must not kick at dogs. The dog is usually reacting to the motion of the wheels, so slowing down resolves the problem while speeding up and kicking at the dog further excites the dog.

A Cass City High School junior, Kathleen Bolton, 16, is leaving in August for Trichardt, South Africa, as a Rotary International foreign exchange student.

Because of the financial condition of the school, Athletic Director Don Schelke and Don Markel, football coach, have withdrawn their request for a junior high football team next fall.

JoEllen Pratt, a 1989 graduate of Cass City High School, daughter of Art and Mary Helen Pratt, Deford, has been selected to participate in an auditioned choir June 13-24. ### 10 YEARS AGO

June 12, Kevin Anthony, 30, of Ubyly was struck by lightning while in the process of connecting an antenna wire to his television when the 30-foot antenna tower outside was struck by lightning. The bolt caused Anthony to fly about 10 feet through the air where he hit the fireplace. He was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital and was released Tuesday. He now must spend a couple of weeks at home recuperating.

In a Cass City Church League upset last week, the Deford Green team beat the Catholics, 7-6. Winning pitcher was Mike Wilson. Gary Robinson took the loss.

The reported 3-5 inches of rain which fell last Saturday and Sunday hurt farmers and washed out roads.

Because of all the water in the backyard at the Robert and Lillie Adams home at the corner of Church and Oak Streets a sinkhole was created there Sunday morning. It measures about 10 feet across and 6 feet deep.

Dean Little received a bachelor's degree in religious education from Great Lakes Bible College in Lansing May 26.

Exchange student

Hiraishi: will always remember Thumb home

by Marjory Raymer
Staff Writer

Even half a world away from her family, one Japanese student found a home in Cass City.

One year ago, Nyika Hiraishi left her mother, father and 2 siblings in the island country to come to the United States. Now, she's carried a suitcase large enough to hold all of her Christmas presents back to Japan.

Hiraishi spent the year as a foreign exchange student in Cass City, while staying with the family of Edward and Nancy Adams. "It was really great," the newly-turned 18 year old smiled in an interview before her departure Sunday.

Her stay in America wasn't easy though. Even after studying English 3 days per week for 7 years, the petite student had some learning to do. But, she listened and learned until she could express herself better.

In the beginning, Hiraishi constantly communicated with her family in Japan. "I wrote letters a lot. I told them everything from when I woke to when I went to bed."

Then, she cut down her correspondence to once a month when the activities started.

The third-seat trumpet player marched in her first parade, played in her first pep rally and brought music to the crowd at her first football game. "Marching band is a lot of fun," she said.

However, Hiraishi prefers concert band, because of its focus on sound instead of loudness. But, Americans often act louder than she expects, which she attributed to a different way of thinking between the 2 cultures.

"It is kind of old-style (in Japan) . . . quiet is good," she explained.

But, Hiraishi also liked the differences — especially at holidays. Easter and Christmas were her favorites, but she also dressed up like a witch for Halloween. She got a bag full of candy, which the future dietitian said no one person could eat alone.

Upon Hiraishi's return to Japan, she has one more year of high school and an entrance exam before she can go on to college to study healthy eating habits. As for her experience with the American menu, "It's not so healthy, but it tastes good."

After finishing school in 5 years, Hiraishi wants to leave home again for a foreign land. "I have a dream," she revealed, "to go abroad to a poor country and help people. When we live this good, we must think of them too."

First, however, she had to conquer the 17-hour return flight Sunday. Her immediate plans upon seeing her family and friends she left half a world away were to share her experiences with everything from Betty Boop to Washington, D.C.

Hiraishi said maybe someday, many years from now, she'll be able to return to this big country with so much beautiful wilderness. As for now, however, she only knows she always will remember her home on the other side of the globe.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT Nyika Hiraishi enjoys the warm Michigan weather on the lawn of Cass City High School, where she learned about small town America during her year in the States.

County to receive $5,000 School-to-Work grant

Governor John Engler recently announced the award of a $5,000 local planning grant to the Tuscola County School-to-Work partnership administered by the Tuscola County Intermediate School District.

"School-to-Work programs are vital to Michigan's economic development strategy since they forge important linkages between classroom learning and the rapidly changing world of work," said the governor.

The planning grant will be administered by a local community partnership comprised of representatives from secondary and post-secondary educational institutions, employees, organized labor, business associations, the Job Training Partnership Act service delivery area, vocational training agencies, teachers, and rehabilitation and apprenticeship training organizations.

Funding for the initiative is provided through a special $410,000 School-to-Work Opportunities Grant awarded to Michigan by the U.S. Departments of Labor and Education and will be administered by the Michigan Jobs Commission.

Meredith scholarship recipient

Angela Meredith has been awarded the Academic Achievement Scholarship at Cedarville College for the 1994-1995 academic year. This merit-based scholarship recognizes her excellent secondary school achievement and potential for high achievement in college.

Meredith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Meredith of Snover. A graduating senior at Ubyly High School, she plans to study elementary education at Cedarville. She has participated in National Honor Society, Honors Band, and Library of Michigan Writing Contest semi-finals.

Court upholds Joslyn

The Michigan Court of Appeals has upheld Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Patrick R. Joslyn in the matter of People v Allen Lee Furgason. Furgason pleaded no contest to first-degree criminal sexual conduct Aug. 28, 1990, in exchange for dismissal of charges for first-degree criminal sexual conduct, kidnapping and unlawfully driving away an automobile.

The charges arose when he raped a woman employee in a video store in Caro, then kidnapped her, stealing her car and locking her in the trunk. He drove to a rural area and raped her again. Furgason then abandoned her with the vehicle after getting it stuck.

Judge Joslyn sentenced Furgason to 30 to 60 years imprisonment. The Court of Appeals upheld the sentence, stating that it was within the guidelines and was proportionate to the circumstances of the offense and offender.

SAVING EVERGREEN PARK became a mission accomplished for American Bikers Aiming Towards Education Region 7 when more than 300 people gathered Friday through Sunday to raise $2,300 to keep the park in operation for another summer. ## Board okays maintenance expenses

Road and roadside maintenance dominated last week's monthly Elkland Township Board meeting.

The board approved a Tuscola County Road Commission bid of $3,000 to spray roadside brush, according to township Clerk Norma Wallace, who said the board also okayed spreading 1,000 yards of pit run gravel on Spence, Crane and Wilsie roads.

The board also voted to pay Lyle Kreh $1,200 for roadside mowing in the township this summer. He'll receive another $1,000 if a second mowing is needed, Wallace reported.

EPA advisory

Water lead levels a concern

The Human Development Commission (HDC) is passing along an advisory from the Environmental Protection Agency regarding potential lead contamination of domestic well water.

The advisory is aimed at those with deep wells powered by submersible pumps. The EPA has learned that, in recent field tests, water drawn from such wells contained lead concentrations at levels of hundreds or even thousands of parts per billion; the agency considers 15 parts per billion of lead in water to violate health standards in public water supplies.

EPA has further advised that those who drink water from private wells switch temporarily to bottled water and test for lead contamination from pumps installed in the past year, and that other households with older pumps have the tests done while continuing to use the well water.

A safe-drinking water hotline has been set up at 1-800-426-4791, and is operable weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. A typical water test usually costs between $20 and $70.

Mothers using powdered infant formula, one of the products available through HDC's Commodity Supplemental Food Program, should take special note of the EPA advisory; infants and small children are among the populations most vulnerable to the potential damaging effects of lead contamination, which can include brain damage and developmental problems for fetuses and young children.

More information is available by calling the Human Development Commission's Information and Referral line at 1-800-292-3666.

July 1 deadline to report crops

Huron County Farmers are reminded to stop by the county ASCS Office and report their crops.

The deadline to report is July 1; all producers must have at least contacted the office by this date.

Participating farms in the wheat and feed grain programs must certify their crops by the July 1 deadline to be in compliance with the rules of the program. Non-participating farms do not have to report, but producers are encouraged to certify. By certifying a non-participating farm this allows the bases to be increased for the farm.

Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) participants are also reminded that certification is a requirement and must be completed annually for the life of the contract.

In most cases with CRP participants that call ahead and let the office know that they are coming in to certify, the office can have everything prepared and waiting at the counter.

Producers that certify their crops and do not plant any dry edible beans are urged to call the ASCS Office immediately to make an appointment. The ASCS Office is trying to get the CRP and producers that do not grow dry edible beans to report now while there is no waiting.

Later in June, the rest of the producers that grow dry edible beans report and the office staff is overwhelmed with customers.

$25,000 fine. Bond in the case was set at $5,000. A preliminary exam was to have been held Thursday.

Joseph G. Lewandowski, 38, Port Austin, faces one count of delivery of cocaine less than 50 grams. The offense allegedly took place in August 1991.

His bond was set at $1,000. A preliminary exam was to have been held Thursday.

Hagen said the cases were investigated by the Thumb Narcotics Unit, Huron County Sheriff's Department and the Bad Axe Police Department.

Older workers to benefit from job training grant

The Michigan Jobs Commission (MJC) announced the award of $29,206 to the Thumb Area Employment Training Consortium to provide job training services to older workers. The state's Older Worker Program is funded by the Job Training Partnership Act.

"Michigan is intent on increasing the skills and abilities of our older workers to a level that makes them competitive with their peers in the labor force," said Doug Rothwell, Chief Executive Officer of the MJC. The ultimate goal of the program is to have its participants achieve productive, full-time unsubsidized employment. Last year some 1,095 older workers completed the program with 664 finding jobs.

Those eligible for services under the Older Worker Program must be 55 years of age or older and be economically disadvantaged. That includes those whose incomes fall below state and federal guidelines or who receive public assistance or food stamps or who qualify as homeless individuals.

Services may include job search assistance, job counseling, remedial education and basic skills training, high school completion, occupational skills training, on-the-job training, and retraining. In addition, individuals may receive the supportive services necessary to enable them to participate in the program and to assist them in retraining employment.

"This program helps older workers who are without the skills necessary to compete in today's labor market," Rothwell said. The Older Worker grants were awarded through a state-wide competitive process.

The MJC, established last year by Governor John Engler, helps existing businesses expand and create jobs, and has consolidated more than $400 million in job training programs. It also works to improve the state's business and regulatory climate.

Zawilinski earns teaching award

"I think getting to know them as people and not just students is the most important part of my job," she said.

"It's hard to explain, the interaction between students and a teacher. They have their own 'comfort' zone, and if you don't fit into it, they're not going to interact with you. If they're comfortable in the classroom, they're willing to do just about anything you ask of them."

Which is important in this classroom, Zawilinski joked.

STRANGE THINGS

"We do some strange things; in history, we fight the civil war all over again," she said, adding students in her psychology class explore conformity by doing things such as going outside and walking differently than they normally do, or playing childhood games.

In health class, students are required to create a collage focusing on themselves, and then explain and act out the project.

Zawilinski indicated her greatest challenge as a teacher is battling her own self-esteem.

"We (teachers) get bashed an awful lot, and we seem to be criticized more," she explained. "They see a few bad apples that get all the publicity, but there's so many good teachers out there."

Zawilinski said many people don't realize teachers today must take on the roles of counselor and parent, as well as educator, for a number of students who are in desperate need of affection and attention.

The key, she noted, is making time available for students.

"We have to get to know our students. Realistically, we can't meet every need, but I think if we get to know the students and show them acceptance and compassion, we'll get further with them. 'They're people. They just want to be accepted for who they are.'"

Zawilinski and her husband, Martin, have 3 children: Heather, 18, Heath, 13, and Sarah Jane, 7. She acknowledge it's often difficult to measure success as teacher. But not impossible.

"It may be years before you know, and then sometimes you'll get a little note on your desk or a postcard (from a student) on vacation and then you know they thought about you," she said.

Zawilinski celebrates her students' successes — small and large — with them, and isn't shy about shedding a tear at graduation time.

"That is enough, to see that they've succeeded," she said. "The students are the reason I stay in teaching, and if you make an impact on one student, you feel your career has been worthwhile. 'If I ever lose sight of that, I hope I have the sense to get out.'"
