Schools to welcome 3,700 area students

Summer vacation will soon be but a memory for area students as officials in the Cass City, Kingston, Owen-Gage and Ubly school districts prepare to open their doors for the start of the 1994-95 school year.

Some 3,700 students in grades K-12 are expected to return to classes in the combined districts over the next 2 weeks.

The following is a round-up of back-to-school information on each of the schools:

Dr. Hall to leave Cass City Aug. 31

Dr. Richard Hall, D.O., made his widely-known decision to move his practice from Cass City official last week with a letter to patients telling them that his offices in Cass City would close Wednesday, Aug. 31.

It was a case of too much business for the popular physician, who cited the demands of the office and hospital practice were just too great. After 17 years in the community, Hall moves to 9978 Woodruff, Reese, starting Sept. 1.

He will continue to see patients from Cass City at his new office. He leaves the staff at Hills and Dales General Hospital and will be associated with St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw.

School Supt. Ken Micklash noted classes will begin 5 minutes earlier this year due to an earlier starting time at the skill center. The school day will begin at 8:20 a.m. and conclude at 3 p.m. at the elementary and middle schools, while high school students will attend classes from 8:25 a.m. to 3:10 p.m.

New this year will be a breakfast program slated to begin Tuesday, Sept. 6, for all grades. Cost will be 80 cents per day, and participating students will be allowed into the buildings 15 to 20 min-higher this year. Elementary students will pay 95 cents per day and high school students, $1 per day.

Several bus route adjustments have been made this year, according to Micklash, who urged students to be ready 15 to 20 minutes early until a routine has been established.

Think you've had a bad day? Consider my friend Minerva.

She overslept and had to hurry like crazy to get to work on time.

She discovered a run in her pantyhose shortly after arriving at the office where she works, and where chaos often reigns.

Before noon her supervisor chewed her out over a billing error that was clearly his fault, not hers.

Throughout the hectic morning she consoled herself with the knowledge that her husband, Hiram, had promised to make dinner that

Thankful for a lunch break away from the turmoil, she hurried to the store to buy replacement hose and discovered that she'd grabbed the wrong purse and had neither wallet nor checkbook.

After borrowing money for lunch, Min suffered through a long, exhausting afternoon, sustained by thoughts of going home and putting her feet up while Hi fixed the meal. It would be only hot dogs and French fries, but she wouldn't have to prepare it. En route home the tenor of the day continued when a police car pulled her over because her directional signal wasn't working. The nice cop, possibly moved by Min's tears, just issued a warning instead of a ticket, but it was upsetting. Never mind, Hiram was fixing din-

The first inkling that all was not well at home came when she found a fan propped up against the back door facing downward toward the utility room floor.

The second came when she saw Hi on his hands and knees in the kitchen with a roll of paper towels. It seems he had dutifully begun to prepare the evening meal. To speed up the process, he put the container of fat for the deep fryer in the microwave and set the timer for 10 minutes. The plastic jug just barely fit, but he squeezed it in there.

Now there's plenty of room. The container shriveled down to about 2 inches high and released its hot liquid contents all over the kitchen.

Just full of good intentions, after placing the fat in the microwave, Hi decided to wash a load of clothes. For reasons not yet clear, the washer overflowed just about the time he discovered the fat oozing over the kitchen counter and floor.

Surveying the situation, Min figured that this was probably not the best time to tell Hi about how her day had gone. Weary as she was, she decided to do what she could

When she went to put the clothes from the washer into the dryer, it was already full of wet clothes.

And would you believe it? The dryer wouldn't work!

Eventually they got the kitchen cleaned up, went out for dinner, and had the dryer and the directional signal

The problems with the grease ants and the sewer didn't arise until several days later, and that's another story.

The Cass City Retirees met Aug. 11 at J.J. Jamoke's in Caro with 12 members and one guest present.

Members were reminded about the senior fair in Caro at the Skill Center.

The next meeting will be at the hospital meeting room Sept. 8.

Summer home club celebrates centennial Aug. 25

This year marks the centennial of the Cass City Summer Home Club at Oak Bluff, Caseville. The club was incorporated Aug. 25, 1894. Most of the original founders are familiar names from Cass City's past. Brooker, Wickware, Crosby, Pinney, Heller, Landon, McPhail and McKensie are iust a few.

For many years the activities of the club members and their guests prompted a summertime column in the Chronicle called Oak Bluff Breezes. Today there are fewer members from Cass City than from other parts of the country, but Oak Bluff remains a popular destination, functioning just as it did 100 years ago.

Members of the association and their guests, including former members, are planning a centennial dinner at Hidden Harbor restaurant in Caseville in September.

A booklet is being prepared outlining the events of the past century in the 23-acre association. Thirty-seven families own cottages at Oak Bluff and over 300 have been affiliated since its inception.

"If It Fitz...."

Thank you for not smelling

By Jim Fitzgerald

We traveled back to the and Elaine. Renaissance period, which lasted around three and onehalf centuries, approximately the same length of time that Detroit's Renaissance Censance period in Europe was smoking areas: the 14th Century to 17th Century transitional movement between medieval and modern times. So it was appropriate that, while traveling back to that long-ago time, we suddenly hit a modern and evil chuckhole, uncovering 13 lost hubcaps.

It was last Sunday, and we'd been to church, where communion was served. All of us except 3-month-old Elaine, the newest grandchild, had bread and grape juice. Elaine stuck to her bottle of milk. And in the holy silence following the ceremony, there was suddenly one of the loudest burps you ever heard.

It came from Elaine. I told my wife I was never more inheritably proud of my progeny, and the dairy industry should also be proud. She said I shouldn't say another word about it.

SMELLING OUT SOME ISSUES

And I wouldn't have, except the next day, my favorite newspaper reported that a Northville church is giving a new dimension to church 96, who now lives in pews by offering a scent-free. seating section. It's for people who can't stand and don't emit - the smell of perfume, cologne, afterright, came from shave lotion and, I assume, more personal odors.

Gladwin and Ken-I think it's splendid for a church to deal so openly with a subject that many people might consider too offensive to mention. And now I feel free to brag that if you want to sit near world-class burping in church, just follow me

My only disappointment is that the Northville church designates the scent-free pews with sign saying "Frapeople have been lost in grance Free Section." I would prefer the more polite, politically correct type of But seriously, the Renais- sign, such as used in no

'Thank You For Not Smell-

After church, we headed for a press preview of the 15th Annual Renaissance Festival, which opens Saturday a mile north of Mt. Holly on Dixie Highway, between Pontiac and Flint. Lots of great family fun, including more than 200 food, drink and craft shops that your kids can bug you to buy from.

Because the Renaissance period is noted for artistic activity, rather than mechanical, I wasn't surprised to see the merry-go-round move only by virtue of several hard-walking artists operating a treadmill. But until Sunday I hadn't realized the Renaissance period is also responsible for the porta-

My favorite stage act was a pun-filled reenactment of the slaying of Julius Caesar, featuring not only Julius and Cassius but also Nebulous, Tedious and Malodorous. I seated 3-year-old Adam in the front row, hoping that, in his usual runaway manner, he'd climb on stage, thus giving me a chance to quote Caesar as saying, "Et tu, Adamus?" But Adam remained seated; the dumb kid doesn't know Grandpa is a columnist

As for the modern, massive chuckhole, our van hit it on westbound I-69 in Lapeer County, inside lane, between the Lake Nepessing and Elba exits. I'm being so precise just in case a repair crew needs directions. Our right front hubcap somehow flew across the outside lane and could easily have hit another car and caused an accident. And we found 12 other hubcaps in the tall grass before we found ours.

LIFE ISN'T ALL LAUGHS

It was a June 30 two-car accident that put 8-year-old Jenny Bankstahl of Lapeer in a coma, only two years after her older sister Lynn was killed in a car-bike collision. I wrote about the double tragedy two weeks ago, and thousands of you responded thoughtfully and generously. The girls' mother, Karen Bankstahl, is so very grate-

Jenny, still in a coma, has been transferred to C.S. Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. "Jenny's now off the critical list, and doctors are hoping for the best," her mother said this week.

Immunizations

Act 299, Public Acts of 1975, authorized the Director of the Michigan Department of Public Health to specify, by regulation, the immunizations and tests required of all children enrolling in Michigan schools for the first time. This year the following immunizations are required: Diphtheria, Tetanus, Rubella, Pertussis, Measles and Poliomyelitia.

In addition, each new school entry must have had a vision screen-

The parent or guardian who, because of religious or other convictions, does not want his child protected from these diseases must submit a signed statement to that effect. As part of our school admission procedure for your child, we must enforce the law stated above. We must have the health record or a similar statement in order to admit your child officially to school. If you have questions about this, please contact your local school, your doctor, or the Thumb District Health Department.

Discrimination Prohibition and Student Information

It is the policy of the Cass City Public Schools to not discriminate on the basis of sex, race, religion, or other prohibited matters in employment, or in educational programs. Anyone who feels that a violation of rights has occurred should notify: Curtis Cleland, Jr. Civil Rights Coordinator, Cass City Public Schools, 4868 N. Seeger St., Cass City, MI 48726, (517) 872-2148.

On occasion the Cass City Public Schools does release the names of individual students and directory information such as grade level, honors and awards. If any parent or adult student wishes to not have such information released, notification, in writing, must be sent to: Kenneth J. Micklash, Superintendent, Cass City Public Schools, 4868 N. Seeger St., Cass City, MI 48726.

Student Accident Insurance Policy

Student accident insurance is available for parents to purchase through the Guarantee Trust Life Insurance Company. This low cost insurance plan can provide coverage for students at both school and home. Forms for participation will be given to all students to take home during the first week of school. Please review this information carefully and contact your child's principal if you have any questions.

Guidance and Counseling

The school guidance program is designed to assist students who have personal and social concerns, and to help students design academic programs to meet their individual needs and abilities. College admission and financial aid assistance is provided for students interested in continuing their schooling after graduation. One of the programs designed to benefit both the student and the community is the cooperative education program. Under this program, some students are placed in on-the-job-work situations for part of each school day. Students and parents desiring more information are encouraged to contact the guidance offices.

Free and Reduced-Prices Student Meals

The Cass City Public School's policy for free and reduced-price meals or for children unable to pay the full price meals served under the National School Lunch, School Breakfast or Commodity School Programs uses the following household size and income criteria to determine eligibility.

Students may be able to get milk free or at reduced price. If you now get food stamps or AFDC for your child, that child can have free milk. If your total household income is the same or less than the amounts on the Income Chart, please apply for free milk. Sometimes a foster child may get free milk even if your income is higher than that on the chart. FOR YOUR CHILD TO GET FREE MILK, YOU MUST COMPLETE AN APPLICATION AVAILABLE AT THE SCHOOL.

HOW TO APPLY:

FOOD STAMP/A.F.D.C. HOUSEHOLDS: Write the child's name, the Food Stamp or AFDC case number for that child, and the signature of an adult household member on the application. FOSTER CHILD: Write the foster child's name, his/her personal income, and the signature of an adult on the application.

ALL OTHER HOUSEHOLDS: The application must have the child's name and the names of all household members. List the amount of income each person received last month with the source of each person's income (example: pay, Social Security, etc.). The signature of an adult household member and that person's Social Security number (or the word "none" if that adult does not have a Social Security number).

OTHER INFORMATION:

PROOF OF INCOME: The school may ask for proof of your household income or proof of Food Stamp/AFDC information at any time during the school year.

INCOME CHANGES: Tell the school if your income increases by more than $50 per month ($600 per year) or if the number of people in your household changes. Tell the school when you stop receiving Food Stamps or AFDC. You may fill out another application with income information. PRIVATE INFORMATION: School officials will NOT use the information on this application for ANY purpose other than deciding if your child should get free milk.

FAIR HEARING: If you do not agree with the school's decision on your application or with the results of your proof of income (verification), you have the right to a fair hearing. To get a hearing, call or write: Mr. Micklash, 4868 N. Seeger St., Cass City, MI 48726,

Under the provisions of the policy the building principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. The household also has the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the following official: Kenneth J. Micklash, Superintendent, 4868 N. Seeger St., Cass City, MI 48726

Hendrick: Hollywood trip unforgettable

Unforgettable.

That's how Dick Hendrick describes his and wife Elaine's recent trip to Hollywood, Calif., courtesy of Wheel of Fortune.

The trip included tours of Universal Studios, which was of special interest to the longtime owners of the Cass Theatre. They also attended the first screening of "The Little Rascals" and, of course, met Wheel of Fortune hosts Pat Sajak and Vanna White.

Area residents may get a peek at the local couple Aug. 19-23, when film clips and photos shot during the trip are scheduled to be broadcast during Wheel of Fortune.

The Hendricks were among 100 winners of trips for 2 given away by the popular game show in a contest requiring viewers to unscramble the names of movie stars over a 10-day period.

Game show officials told the Hendricks they would have to pay a gift tax on the prize, and that the couple would be furnished with 6 meals during the Aug. 4-7

However, Dick commented Friday that nearly everything was provided by Wheel of Fortune officials, who treated their guests like royalty.

"It was just great. We didn't spend $200," he said. "They had so much food, anytime we wanted we could go down to a hospitality suite and eat. It seemed there wasn't a time when they didn't have something in front of you."

The Hendricks, who received their plane tickets just 3 days before their departure, left early Aug. 4 from Tri-City International Airport en route to Pittsburgh, Penn., where they switched planes and headed for Los Angeles after a 2-hour delay.

With vouchers sent to them by Wheel of Fortune, the couple were transported to the Universal Studios Hilton, where they registered and later attended an introduction gathering in one of the posh hotel's ballrooms.

Dick, whose wife couldn't attend Friday's interview with the Chronicle, noted the accommodations, including the couple's $200 to $300 per night room, were very nice. "They went all out. We had a bathroom as big as the back room at Hardees, all marble and everything," he said, adding, "I never saw such a big bed."

The next morning, Dick was taking advantage of the hotel pool and jacuzzi when he met and talked to a television news anchor from Channel 7 in Los Angeles, who arranged to interview the Michigan couple on their

Later that morning, the Hendricks, along with the other game show winners, attended a ballroom reception where they met Pat Sajak and Vanna White. Show executive Merv Griffin couldn't attend, but was broadcast live via satellite from his pool. Griffin told the winners they were among more than 10 million people who entered the contest.

Each of the guests was offered an opportunity to ask questions of Sajak and White, according to Hendrick, who said he asked them how the IRS keeps track of game show winners and winnings. Sajak replied the IRS sends special forms to declare their winnings.

"I found Pat to be on the shy side," Hendrick recalled, adding he quickly warmed up to the crowd and was very friendly.

"Vanna was like a hometown girl, very friendly, and she looks just great," he added. "It was just like you were talking to somebody in your hometown."

Afterwards, the Hendricks' daughter, Sue, joined them from San Diego. Hendrick said Wheel of Fortune officials welcomed her and invited her to accompany her parents on their trip, which included a VIP Tram Excursion of Universal Studios.

"It was fun because we went into back lots," he said, noting they saw a number of familiar sets and buildings, including one used in the movie Home Alone 2.

"That building wasn't as high as my garage, Hendrick pointed out. He said the buildings are basically shells that open up into sound stages. The doors are quite narrow, which has a slimming effect on the actors, he explained.

Later, at a barbecue, the Hendricks were interviewed by a Los Angeles television reporter, who asked for his impression of the game show hosts. He enthusiastically described Vanna White as very cute, then drew some laughs when he couldn't recall Pat Sajak's name.

The winners were also treated to a show called Hollywood Nights, and a laser show over a man-made lake.

Hendrick said the group was always introduced as Wheel of Fortune contest winners. "Everywhere we went, we went as a group with security, and they had TV cameras rolling all the

On Saturday, Aug. 6, the Hendricks enjoyed some sightseeing with their daughter, then returned to Universal Studios for the first screening of "The Little Ras-

"I had a glass of wine and it was $6," Hendrick said, adding he added up the number of shrimp on his plate and guessed he was being charged $1.50 each.

The couple headed home to Cass City the next day after enjoying a continental break-

Hendrick said he still isn't certain what the trip will cost him in terms of taxes, although he did learn the prize is valued at $3,000 to $5,000.

Regardless of the bottom line come tax time, he indicated it was well worth it. "If I never win anything again, this will be something I'll always remember," he concluded.

Your neighbor says

Restrictions on tobacco good idea

The recent uproar between Congress and the tobacco in dustry isn't without cause, said one Cass City teen. At 17, Diana Kocan already has seen some of her friends start smoking and she believes people can get addicted to nicotine. "I think nicotine could be addictive for some people.'

She supports the current restrictions that don't allow anyone under the age of 17 to purchase any tobacco products. "I think that's all right," she remarked.

Kocan doesn't smoke herself and neither do her family members, so she likes to avoid cigarettes as much as possible.

With the dangers of second-hand smoke that isn't always a personal decision though. The new laws, however, limiting smoking in public places help her.

She advocates restrictions on smoking in public places and appreciates it when businesses act on their own accord to protect non-smoking customers like her.

And, Kocan believes the proposed new regulations on nicotine levels as discussed during congressional committee hearings might not be a bad idea either.

"The levels of nicotine should be regulated," she explained, "since people can get addicted to it."

Farm Bureau sets Sept. 1 meeting date

The 74th Annual Meeting of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau will be held Thursday, Sept. 1, at the Knights · of Columbus Hall, 903 Ryan Rd., Caro. The dinner runs from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m. and the meeting begins promptly at 8:00 p.m. Tickets sell for $6.00 per person and are available at the Tuscola County Farm Bureau office, 1023 E.Caro Rd., Caro, or call (517) 673-4155.

This meeting is held in order to vote on proposed policy resolutions. If the proposed policies are adopted, then they are sent to Michigan Farm Bureau and are voted on at the State Annual Meeting. This legislative process is the soul purpose of the Farm Bureau. A few of the issues that will be discussed during the meeting include the 1995 Farm Bill, GATT, labor laws and health care.

The sessions will be offered this fall at locations across the State of Michigan. In this area the teleconferences will be hosted by REMC #10, Cass City, and the Sanilac Science and Math Center, Peck. REMC #10 will host the teleconferences "live" and later the same evenings

The programs will originate from The Private Universe Project at Harvard University and be transmitted by satellite to downlink sites across the state. The teleconferences will be presented during October, November and December. Dates and times will vary to accommodate local schedules, so teachers interested in attending should contact REMC #10 or, in Sanilac County, the Science and Math Center.

Participants will learn the latest ideas in science education that can be directly applied to the classroom.

Participants who register for two hours of MSU graduate credit will complete the requirements by attending sessions and preparing a written assignment. CEU's will be available. Credit and CEU's are also available from Colorado State Univer-

Olivet football grant rewards Connolly for grid dedication

by Marjory Raymer Staff Writer

No one can take Mac Connolly's dreams away from him . . . most wouldn't

The offensive guard headed for Olivet College Aug. 14 on a football scholarship that will help pay the $14,000 per year tuition bill, and he couldn't be happier.

Connolly has wanted to play college ball since the first time he tackled the 100yard green field. He's played for more than 4 years, broken at least one bone a season and missed one game, when he broke 2 ribs. Now, his dedication has payed off.

He lifts weights, a lot of weights. For nearly 2 years, he's been working out for 3-4 hours every day (with a little break on Saturday and Sunday so he doesn't get "burned out"). Since mid-November 1992, he has improved his bench press from 235 pounds to about 350

Originally, the son of John and Connie Connolly planed to join the Marine Corps, but he decided he wanted something more. So, he turned instead to the Air Force. Then several schools started asking about his college plans, and he realized he might not have to desert his true passion, football.

He touched base with several schools, including Saginaw Valley State and Olivet hosts a very athletic atmosphere, Connolly remarked. Most of the campus population participates in sports, he said. His roommate also is a football player and they've gotten a chance to talk already. "He is like a duplicate personality of me," Connolly commented.

He doesn't expect too difficult a time with studies. All football players are required to attend a study hour with their teammates every day, where the upper classmen players are available to help. Plus, he'll be studying courses he is interested in, which should make a big difference, Connolly stated.

He plans to concentrate his studies around athletic training and coaching. "Once I realized what athletic training was, I knew it was for me. I was like, my God, this is the perfect job.'

The team at Olivet will practice for 6 to 8 hours a day until school starts, which is no problem for Connolly. "Practice is no problem. I like that. I'd be practicing whether I was here or there," he said. "Moving's the only problem."

As he calmly anticipated his departure from Cass City, he said he'll have his weights and his dreams with him. "I'll have fun, I'm sure," said Connolly as he lightly tossed a football in Cass City Recreational Park.

Roll back selenium in feed

Based on complaints of environmental contamination of waterfowl in the central valley of California, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has rolled back the legal level of selenium (Se) that can be fed to livestock to pre-1987 levels. This action was taken without regard for geographic variation in soil selenium levels or livestock response to supplementation. The ruling went into effect in September of 1993, but enforcement was delayed one year to allow interested parties time to present information in opposition of this action.

I would like to respond to the new school bond issue proposal and one particular attitude (The 'ole "It was good enough for me and it's good enough for them" attitude). The best way for me to clarify why I'm troubled by this attitude is through an analogy car. But by today's standards it's failing. Today's rules are different. The 1950 Buick didn't have seat belts. Today the law not only says we need seat belts, but we must be secured by shoulder harnesses as well. The 1950 Buick ran on leaded fuel and only got around 15 miles to the gallon. The rules have changed here, too. The car would not meet today's emissions control standards or take me as far for my dollar. The rust has eaten away the

The same is true with our middle school. In its day it was a premium facility. But the rules have also changed in education. Educators are faced with the task of preparing students for a global market; just as the automobile dards to compete with the Japanese. The auto makers had to update their facilities and modernize equipment in order to help their employees produce a product that would compete with the Japanese. The same is true with schools. We need to update and equip them so that their products (the students) will be able to compete in the job market. When the existing school was in its prime, society's needs were thing as computers in the classroom. Schools must keep up with technology and students need the skills to compete for jobs. Our current middle school doesn't even have enough plugs in the classroom to adequately equip computers in the classrooms, let alone the space to set up the computers. And then, the load on the electrical system, as old as it is, could be a fire hazard. And if a fire did break out in this building, because of its structural design and lack of fire walling and stairwell fire doors, I fear our students on the second and third floors could not escape without great harm. Fire codes of vesterday did not require all of these structural fire defenses, but today's laws do. Are there ladders in Tuscola County large enough to rescue our children from this building if a fire were to occur? I'm not sure there are! We need to protect our children from potential harm in their educational homes.

Then there's the new law about handicapped accessibility. Back when the middle school was in its prime, handicapped children were not sent to school with the socalled "regular" kids. We now have "Least Restrictive Environment" laws that allow handicapped children the same education privileges that all other children Updated, safe school needed middle school structure is very restrictive for any person who may be confined to a wheelchair or have a visual impairment, or how about a physically handicapped student who needs the aid of a walker, crutches, or who may use an artificial limb. Our school does not meet the needs of these children or parents who may have similar handicaps. And in an emergency situation, such as a fire or tornado, how easy is it going to be to get a wheelchair bound student off the second or third floor? When the school was in its prime and no handicapped children attended it - we didn't have to worry about that question...the rules have changed. The game is the same, "Educating Students", but society's needs and laws are different. We need an UPDATED and SAFE facility that meets the need of ALL children, where we can send our children and feel comfortable about their safety, and in an environment that allows and promotes learning that prepares our children for the 21st century.

> Yes, the building was "good enough for them," but it no longer meets the needs of today's fire codes, classroom technology demands, or handicapped accessibility

Dear Editor:

Dear Editor,

Our government owes us a full and logical explanation of why Russian soldiers have been invited to the United States for military training.

It is reported that the Clinton administration with some backing by some influential members of Congress, including Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., and Sen. Carl Levin from Michigan, have approved joint training of Russian troops with U.S. military forces at U.S. military bases as an alternate to our forces training in Russia, which turned down the proposal.

Another thing that needs an up front, clear explanation is the presence of many Russians tanks and armored trucks reportedly seen on railroad flat cars in Montana and near Camp Pendleton, warm, uplifting stories Calif. Also, the many Russian attack helicopters at a military base in Mississippi.

The Defense Department has failed to admit the presence of the many Russian

PRECAUTIONS FOR

Column offers amusing,

People need to be prepared for medical problems when they go on vacations outside the United States. These days, more people who are older or have illnesses are traveling than ever before.

TRAVELERS

Any person with medical problems should see their doctor for a checkup before any prolonged trip or traveling to distant areas. Your doctor can update prescriptions and make sure you have enough of the medicines for the length of the trip. It is good to have the doctor write down your diagnoses, medicines, and dosages on a slip of paper which can be kept in your billfold in case of emergencies. If you have an abnormal heartbeat, a copy of your cardiogram can be carried.

Travelers who need glasses or contact lenses should carry backup devices or at least the prescription. Losing your glasses or a hearing aid may ruin a vacation.

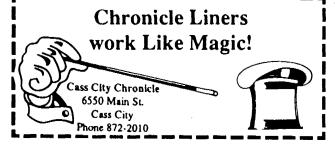

People traveling to foreign countries may want a Directory of Physicians in Foreign Countries. This can be very helpful if you become sick.

Occasionally immunizations are needed, especially for traveling to Third World countries. You should be sure you are up-to-date on tetanus, polio, measles, and perhaps receive a protective shot for hepatitis. Some countries require immunizations for yellow fever or cholera, and others require close observation for malaria, meningitis, or other diseases. The Public Health Service can advise you on which vaccinations are needed and precautions that are appropriate for the area you are traveling to.

This is one of a series of articles brought to you in the interest of better health by

Reeders returning to roots

part of the past.

ANCIENT ART

The couple recreates the ancient art, beadwork and dress from the early 19th century-before white, European influence took a stronghold on the people's culture. Many of their creations are time intensive, because they use no machines . . . just their hands. Beadwork can take hundreds of hours to complete, and as they can tell you, sewing animal hides by hand isn't always easy.

But the Reeders find serenity in their work. "It just feels right when you're doing it," Mike explained.

Terri refers to her husband as "the real artist in the family." She describes her own work as a thread to her soul. Every emotion is woven into each piece she creates, and the concentration required brings her in touch with her feeling and herself, she explained.

"This is the heart of existence." Mike pointed out. "We put our heart and soul into these things.'

They have been exhibiting at the Wildwood Gallery for more than 2 months. "It's our own corner of the world," Terri commented.

Although many of their items are for sale, the couple's interests don't lie with money. It is preservation of their heritage that motivates them.

Recently an interest in Native American crafts has surged into the American market place, which has become almost saturated with uninspired, foreign made look-a-likes.

Terri finds the new pseudo-American Indian art aggravating. "If they would promote the culture — especially that which has been lost — as much as the looks, they are not passing that along too."

MISCONCEPTIONS

The Reeders say many of the original misconceptions about the indigenous population of the states still exist.

A major barrier to acceptance of Native Americans has been the belief that they worship multiple gods. In fact, there is only one Great Spirit although many other spirits roam the Earth, Mike explained. "Everything had to be created by one thing," he said.

The clash between Christianity and the American Indian culture/religion set the stage for the current trials and tribulations of their people, the Reeders said, which is unfortunate, because it was unnecessary.

"What a great unused opportunity for the 2 cultures to come together," Terri la-

Mike described the sacred traditions within hunting, giving gifts and honoring nature. "You know inside of you the right things to do. We never just kill things. We always trade and ask permission ahead of time.

The Spirit is essential to their daily living, he said. They follow its guiding hand and listen to its advice.

"Our spirituality is important to us. Without the Spirit you're a shell - nothing else."

When the parents of 4 were younger, their protests against the treatment of Native Americans were more predominant than their work for change. They raised their flags bottom-side-up in silent protest against the wrongs inflicted upon their people the loss of land, the abuse of treaties and the massacre of innocent people. They found, however, their actions became more of a negative reinforcement than it might do some good. But a positive one. So, the Spirit guided them to change directions, they said.

The Reeders now work to educate the public through several school and library programs as well as their gallery exhibitions and powwows.

PAST IN PRESENT

They take special care to make their participation in the powwow circle as traditional as possible. The couple created their tepee, the Red Hawk Lodge, with ancient symbolic designs painted on the hides in the Earth's pigments. It is their home away from their 2-story, country farm house. "We dress and live like they did, as near as we know how," Mike commented.

Many people don't understand that their Native American lifestyle is not a show. Mike related stories of youngsters grabbing hold of a ceremonial knife he was wearing, asking "Is this

Others have barged into the tepee during the middle of the night, believing it is an exhibition, instead of a dwelling. And still others misunderstand their dresshandmade, individually fit dear hides with traditional paints and tassels decorating

"Most people will say: 'We like your costumes.' Well, these are not costumes. They're our clothes," said Mike. "These are very real to us-probably more real than getting up and putting on a suit."

So, voluntarily or not, the Reeders swing open the entrance to their tepee to educate the public.

At the same time, the powwows fulfill a need each of them has.

The powwow circle is just one part of the Reeders' quest to balance their heritage with their modern desires, needs and responsibili-has identified several char nel problem areas and upland sites which have potential impact on water quality. The findings are a result of a study by the board. The study is being funded through a $70,000 Saginaw Bay Watershed Initiative grant.

The couple only wish more of the balance could be shifted toward the souls of Cetan Lutah and Wa-mni-omni Wanble Wi.

The Sebewaing River Watershed is a 65.000-acre watershed and includes the King, Columbian, State and Brookfield drains along with several other county drains.

The inter-county drainage board, working with the Huron and Tuscola Soil Conservation districts, is aiming to develop a comprehensive watershed plan which will deal with water quality issues as well as hydrologic concerns. The results of the planning phase will hopefully lead to practice implementation that will improve water quality within the wa-
