VOLUME 88, NUMBER 40 — WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 4, 1995 — FIFTY CENTS — 10 PAGES — 1 SUPPLEMENT

Over $5 million

New construction sets record in village in '94

New construction in Cass City topped a whopping $5 million in 1994, a new record for the village.

The total, boosted by the new Homestead at Northwood Lake senior community complex, surpassed new construction in 1993 by more than $3 million. Building permits issued to the Homestead last year list the building cost at $2,823,020.

The development, located just west of Northwood Shores Golf Course, will be a full-service senior citizens community.

Two phases are planned for the 146,189-square-foot complex, which is owned by Homestead at Northwood Lake Inc. Phase one, which includes 46 units of one- and 2-bedroom apartments and duplexes, began Aug. 1 and is expected to be completed by spring.

Cass City's new construction figures for 1994 also showed continued growth at Northwood Lake Condominiums, where 5 condo buildings (2 units per building) were built at a combined construction cost of $790,000.

In addition, 5 new homes were built at a combined cost of $707,800, and there was another $171,995 listed for residential additions.

Construction last year also included $302,200 in commercial additions, including $200,000 for an expansion at Marshall Distributing; $45,000 for an industrial addition at Micro EDM, $34,560 for the village's walking trail and gazebo, and $2,750 in demolition costs.

It was a banner year, village Manager Lou S. LaPonsie acknowledged, adding consistent growth in tax base is very important.

"It really is," he said, "because our costs are going up each year, so we depend on that to stay where we're at" in terms of the millage rate.

In all, new construction in 1994 totalled $5,008,150, which translates into roughly $2.5 million in new State Equalized Valuation (SEV), or about $40,464 in added tax revenue based on the tax rate of 16.16 mills.

The year's building totals surpassed the previous record, set just 2 years earlier, by some $455,000. The 1992 total of $4,552,332 in new construction included Detroit Edison's $3 million North Area Energy Center complex, located in the Cass City Industrial Park.

Police probe break-in of All Season Rent-All

Cass City police are continuing their investigation into the Dec. 29 break-in of a local business.

Douglas Wilson, owner of All Season Rent-All, 6585 Main St., Cass City, reported someone entered his business sometime after 8 p.m. and took money from a pair of cash registers, as well as an unknown number of silver coins kept in a 2-quart glass jar.

A total of $315 in cash was missing from the registers, according to reports.

Investigators believe the culprit(s) entered the business through a rear-garage, 12-foot overhead door.

Wilson, who discovered the break-in when he opened for business Friday, told police those responsible apparently were familiar with the layout of the building and also knew how to operate cash registers.

Also last week, police reported making 2 arrests.

The first took place at 6:45 a.m. Saturday, when police stopped a vehicle on Main Street near West Street. The driver, Richard C. Mallory, 23, of Deford, was arrested for driving while license was suspended, reports state.

Thirty-five minutes later, police arrested Tommy Lee Powell, 35, of Cass City, at a local bar.

According to reports, Powell was wanted on a warrant for failure to appear in court for arraignment on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, and driving while his license was suspended.

Truck destroyed in barn fire

A barn fire last week caused little structural damage, but destroyed a pick-up truck and some hay.

Elkland Township fire fighters were called to the barn at 7612 Hadley Rd. at 7:48 p.m. Thursday.

Fire Chief Milt Connolly reported the owner, Bernard Wolny Jr., was moving some hay out of the building with his pick-up when the blaze started. Connolly said it's uncertain exactly what caused the fire.

Elkland firemen, who remained at the scene until 9:17 p.m., were assisted by the Elmwood-Gagetown and Ubly fire departments.

No dollar estimate was available on the loss. The fire remains under investigation.

Also recently, Elkland-Township fire fighters extinguished a car fire near Severance and Lampton roads. The alarm came in at 2:46 a.m. Dec. 23.

Connolly said the car, a 1978 Cutlas owned by Allen R. Miller, sustained extensive damage. No dollar estimate was available.

Brisk yule sales make '94 fair to good year

Cass City business owners enjoyed a merry, or at least fairly merry Christmas.

Judging by the comments of a number of village retailers, the trend that gave retailers throughout the country a prosperous 1994 holiday shopping season was seen locally, with business owners rating end-of-the-year sales fair to good.

"(Business was) definitely good, no doubt about it, better than last year," said Mike Weaver, owner of Coach Light Pharmacy. "Sales were up, really, in every category.

"I think the economy's up enough that we're feeling it here."

The news is particularly positive in that a number of shoppers seem to be coming back to small town stores for the service they offer, rather than fight mall crowds, Weaver said. "You have to have good prices, too, (but) people are looking for more personal, hometown service.

"More and more we're hearing that chain stores are not the end of the world for everybody — they're not the salvation of mankind."

Tom Proctor, owner of Old Wood Drug, also offered a positive report, noting holiday sales were decent overall. "The season went very well," he said. "I'm quite pleased."

"It's been a good year," agreed Bud Schneeberger of Schneeberger's Furniture and TV, where sales in late December were very good.

"Everything is selling," Schneeberger said, noting the new, smaller satellite dishes are proving to be an increasingly popular item among area residents.

Some local retailers indicated holiday sales could have been better in 1994.

Ben Franklin store owner Gerald Prieskorn described the Christmas shopping season, as well as the year as a whole, as just "fair."

This year's unusually mild fall hurt sales for other businesses, including Kritzman's Clothing Store, which carries several lines of coats, boots and other cold weather apparel.

But owner Bill Kritzman reported a decent Christmas season should make up the difference.

"The holiday season came out better than I thought it would, with the weather," he said. "Our holiday sales were up a little."

Overall, 1994 sales held their own, Kritzman added. "We had a good spring and we had a slow fall, but December sales were up a little bit, so it came out (about even)."

It was also a good year for a number of businesses that don't depend on the holidays for a sizeable chunk of annual sales.

"Our holiday sales don't amount to that much, but our sales are good a year 'round," commented Gerald Stilson, who owns Bigelow's Hardware.

"We had a good year," Stilson said, noting it's only been 18 months since he repurchased the business. "We're back to about where we were when we sold the store in the 1980s.

"Our business is growing all the time, and were very happy with it."

Register now to vote in school millage election

The debate concerning the merits of a new $8.35 million school has not yet reached the heights that it will prior to the vote.

Supporters and detractors will be presenting their views to all and sundry.

If the past is an indication, one of the most important phases of the campaign will receive scant attention.

That's seeing that the eligible voters are registered. That Jan. 19 deadline is fast approaching.

Judging by the last vote, it wouldn't take too many additional voters to change the course of the election.

The bond issue was defeated 682 to 563. That's a meager 119 votes. The total is less than a third of the persons now registered in the district.

Vassar man killed when hit by car

A Vassar man was killed last week when he was struck by a car while walking along Sheridan Road in eastern Juniata Township.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies identified the victim as Marvin L. Porter Jr., 35, 6383 Sheridan Rd.

Investigators said Porter was walking northbound and was struck from behind by a northbound car driven by Jeffery G. Moore, 28, of Caro. Moore didn't see Porter until the last second, according to deputies, who noted the victim was wearing dark-colored clothing and was walking in an unlighted, rural roadway.

Deputies were assisted at the scene by the Vassar Area Ambulance Service and Millington police.

Witherspoon: the people were best part of long carrier career

In all his years at the Cass City Post Office, Al Witherspoon rarely had a problem living up to the mailman's age-old code.

Neither rain nor sleet nor dark of night were much of problem, according to the veteran rural letter carrier, who recently retired after 30 years of service in Cass City.

A flood, on the other hand, is a different matter altogether.

"Probably the most unusual situation I ran into was the flood in September 1986," Witherspoon recalled. "I drove 146 miles and could only get to 3 families. That flood is something I'll never forget."

Witherspoon, whose lengthy tenure includes credit for time served in the military, started out as substitute rural carrier in 1966. He continued in that role until he was switched to full-time 10 years later.

He continued to work as rural mail carrier throughout the years, and during that time, the focus of the job really didn't change all that much, he pointed out.

"You get the mail to the right people at the time it's supposed to be there," he said. "You try to get to each house at the same time each day."

However, he added, that's easier said than done, and it's become increasingly difficult over the years, largely because mail volume varies so much from day to day, and because of the way mail is distributed from bulk mail centers to outlying areas.

"They don't give us the mail in the same fashion as they used to, and we (carriers) usually get the flack down here," he continued.

"But it's a mammoth organization. It's amazing it runs as good as it does."

Although the job hasn't changed drastically, Witherspoon said he's seen a lot of growth in Route 3, where he served area residents south and east and west of Cass City throughout much of his career.

"It started off with 424 families — 84 miles — and it grew to 547 families and 81 miles," he explained, adding the growth prompted an adjustment in his route. "When I retired it was a 44-hour(per week) route with 456 families and 81 miles.

Witherspoon's hours were also adjusted, from 7 1/2 hours per day 6 days a week, to 9 hours per day 5 days a week.

Perhaps the biggest change over the years has been the amount of mail delivered, Witherspoon said.

"The mail volume has increased tremendously. (My route) increased 16 hours a week and the mileage went down 3 miles; that's all volume."

As for working conditions, the veteran mail carrier said he's run into few problems on his route, aside from the flood of 1986. "Probably the worst part about driving a route was ice," he said, "and mud in the spring."

And the busiest time of year? Christmas. "You lose your Christmas spirit to a degree," he confided, "but that's only because you're tired."

Asked what he enjoyed most about the job, the longtime Cass City resident didn't hesitate with a reply: "The people. You never get to know them real well, but you get to know what kind of people they are," he said, "and we've got good people, patient people."

In time, Witherspoon, a husband, father of 3 and grandfather of 5, found himself delivering mail to the grown children of folks on his route. He smiled and noted, "You watch them grow up and leave."

During his career, he was active in the Michigan Rural Letter Carriers Association, serving as president, vice president and treasurer over a 7-year span. He was also active in the state association for some 20 years.

Witherspoon expressed gratitude to his fellow employees and for the opportunity to serve area residents. He acknowledged he misses his daily rounds, but he's keeping busy, "trying to catch up after 15 years of not being real active" in the life insurance business.

Looking back on his career, Witherspoon indicated he's satisfied with his career with the postal service.

"It was a good job and I like people," he concluded. "It's a good feeling."

MORNINGS SPENT sorting mail at this work station are but a memory for veteran rural letter carrier Al Witherspoon, who has retired after 30 years at the Cass City Post Office.

Meg's Peg

It has to be Ernie!

by Melva E. Guinther

Old Ernie's been working overtime.

Ernie, you may recall, is the rascal who hides the grater that you ALWAYS put inside the bottom cupboard door and the can of tuna you KNOW was on the pantry shelf. Then, just for laughs, he often returns them to their rightful place when you're not looking.

Sometimes he stashes items in such unlikely places that there's simply no other explanation for how they got there.

Nobody ever actually sees Ernie. You just know he's been around when something is missing or misplaced.

It would be interesting to catch him on videotape if you could somehow manage to tape the daily activities of your household.

Of course, a videotape might also show you clearing off the kitchen table, picking up a can of soup and a bottle of nail polish and absent-mindedly depositing both on the shelf in the bathroom.

Ernie always gets blamed for things like that.

Ern must have quite a collection of bookmarks now. (He rarely returns bookmarks.) You take one out of a book and 2 minutes later when you go to answer the door, it's gone. Simply disappeared.

Books themselves often make their way to Ernie's place, wherever that is.

He's been known to make off with study books complete with all the notes prepared for presenting a lesson, which had been put in a "safe place."

One of his favorite tricks is to make off with your glasses. Of course, without your glasses, it's hard to find them. Ernie loves that.

A friend of mine reached the point of despair the other day when she couldn't find her glasses. She'd had them at work that day, but in the evening when she needed them to read the paper, they were gone. She searched the whole house diligently, to no avail, and made not one, but 2 trips back to the office to look for them.

She finally found them in the tote bag that she'd searched 3 times. It had to be Ernie.

He took a watch that disappeared between 4 a.m. and the time its owner left the house before 9:00.

He must have needed a screw driver one day, too. The guy using it on a project claims he never left the work area, and a half hour later, the thing was gone.

Probably the best way to deal with old Ern is to refuse to get flustered when he swipes things. If he sees he can't get your goat, he's far more likely to return whatever's missing.

Donna McAlpine reports spotting 5 blue birds in her yard last week during the unseasonable warm weather. If the poor birds are still around they have to be singing the blues, wishing that they had migrated south like they were supposed to. (Don't we all?).

Other than for special occasions Treasure Island in Saginaw had never been visited. That changed Friday and it was a pleasant surprise. The food had never been that great when sampled as part of a large group.

It was different last week. The walleye, served in the pan it was prepared in, with a special sauce put it a step ahead of the ordinary. The sauteed perch was good as were the Caesar's salad and tossed salad with an orange dressing. Included were 2 glasses of wine and the total cost was $40 including tip. It ranks a 7 on the 1-10 scale.

It's a little harder now than it used to be to determine the first baby of the year born to a family in the Cass City area. At one time it was simply a matter of waiting for the announcement from Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Now determining who will receive the prizes given by area merchants to the first arrival is not that simple.

We ask that anyone with knowledge of the first arrival of 1995 call the Chronicle so we can award the free gifts.

The Haire Net

The Detroit Free Press in its Wednesday, Dec. 28 edition printed a story about a 34-year old man, Michael James Murphy, who fell through the ice on Tipsico Lake (Oakland County) in Rose Township and drowned.

Don't dwell on the name because as far as I know there is no local connection. But he has a lot of clones in the ice fishing sport.

It's almost as sure as death and taxes that the misfortune that claimed the life of Murphy will be repeated elsewhere before the year is over, perhaps in Saginaw Bay.

While your heart goes out to the drowning victim and his family, you can't help wondering why he would take such a chance.

I felt the same way the Friday before Christmas as I passed the cut at Quanicassee. In one of the ditches near the river a fisherman was standing on the ice, fishing not 5 feet from where open water was plainly visible. One thing about it, punching a hole through that ice to fish took no time at all.

I guess he got away with it....that time. Next time his luck might just run out.

There's enough danger ice fishing on the Bay even if you take ordinary precautions. Two-feet thick ice can crack because of the pressure and experienced ice fishermen watch for it. An offshore wind can be deadly when conditions are right.

Still the majority of fatal accidents have to be caused by not taking ordinary safety precautions either because they aren't known or are ignored.

Experienced ice fishermen know that ice, to be safe, must be at least 6 inches thick.

It's better not to be in any area where there is a remote chance of falling in. But if it happens, say the experts, spread out your weight so that as you crawl out you won't continually break the thin ice needed to support you.

Once on top, don't stand up, roll along the ice in a prone position. It's better to be fishing with a partner so they can assist or go for help.

Added precaution is needed when driving on ice. While 6 inches of ice will support a fisherman it may be a different story for a car.

Every year one or more cars plunge though "safe" ice on Saginaw Bay, sometimes when most of the ice is a foot thick or more.

That's because the ice thickness varies with pockets of soft, thin ice.

Fishing or playing on the ice is one of the perks of winter time in Michigan. Ice boating and ice fishing are just great sports.

It would be great if we defied the odds this year and no one fell through and drowned and not one car had to be dredged from the bottom of the lake.

It would be great, but I don't believe it will happen.

"If It Fitz...."

They didn't say right words soon enough

By Jim Fitzgerald

The letter, which included a question about me, was postmarked Dec. 11, 1944. But I didn't read it until a few days ago, almost exactly 50 years after it was written.

"So Jimmy Fitz is in Ft. Knox, Kentucky....how does he like the Army?" asked my then 20-year-old cousin, Pvt. Robert (Bobby) Smith, writing from Germany to his mother, Clara Gleason of Port Huron.

Aunt Clara lived until only four years ago, and the yellowed old letter was recently found among her papers by her marvelous good friend, Martha Koerber of Port Huron, who thought I might like to read it. Yes, and I'd also like to answer it.

Coincidentally, I read something else this month that reminded me of my Army days. It was a newspaper report that a West Bloomfield Township hairdresser had discovered a new use for condoms — to protect previously permed or colored hair from being damaged while other patches of the same head of hair are being permed.

Hey, I discovered a new use for condoms in the infantry. To look as glamorous as paratroopers, ordinary infantrymen often bloused the bottoms of their pantlegs up over the tops of their boots. And instead of rubber bands, we used the condoms distributed free to the troops.

It was also a good idea not to leave the busted condoms on the floor beside your bed when home on furlough. I don't think my mother believed the truth.

A DIFFERENT WORLD

But flash back to my first day at Ft. Knox, when I wandered away from my bed and got lost. It wasn't difficult. The fort is the size of a big city and every building looks like every other building. I sought directions from a bunch of husky soldiers playing soccer in their underwear.

I asked if they knew the way to the 10th Training Battalion, and they grinned widely and talked a language I didn't understand. For several minutes I tried to get my message across to those friendly guys, but they acted as if they didn't understand English.

I wondered if maybe I'd been drafted into the wrong army. A few days later, I learned that the friendly soccer players were Italian prisoners of war. If we'd bumped into each other only a few months earlier, in a different place, my government would have expected me to kill them before they killed me.

A few quick months later, I was in a different place — Germany. The war there had just ended and I was guarding German prisoners of war. They were as happy as I was about the peace. We shared joy. A few days earlier, they would have tried to kill me before I killed them.

But some older men in somber suits or overly-decorated uniforms had finally said the right words to each other, and the killing called war was over.

For a while.

PEACE COMES TOO LATE

In that letter written 50 years ago, my cousin Bobby also told his mother: "Was so glad to get a letter from you today. It was of Nov. 14 telling me about the baby. I do hope Phyllis and baby are coming along fine."

The father of that baby was Bobby's older brother, Lt. Jack Smith, then 22.

As mentioned, Bobby's letter was postmarked Dec. 11, 1944. Only eight days later, he was killed in action in Belgium.

Bobby died in the infamous Battle of the Bulge, the same action that sent me to Europe a few days earlier than originally scheduled.

And on Dec. 30, 11 days after Bobby's death, his brother, Jack, a fighter pilot, was killed in action flying over Belgium.

Jack never got to see his son.

Bobby never got to see his nephew.

The older men in somber suits and overly-decorated uniforms didn't say the right words to each other soon enough.

They never do.

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN

After 3 weeks off

Hawks' title defense begins at Bad Axe

The Cass City Red Hawks will have been away from game competition for 3 full weeks when the team returns to the hardwoods Jan. 10 at Bad Axe. The players did have scrimmages against Detroit area teams as the team prepares for its tough National Division Thumb C competition.

A quirk in the schedule pitted Cass City's first 5 games against non-league foes.

The Hawks will be heavy favorites to top Bad Axe Friday, but face a real test against the Lakers the following Tuesday.

Early games indicate that the Lakers have a stronger unit than pre-season estimates indicated. Led by Seth Maust, the Lakers were undefeated in pre-holiday games, winning several by decisive margins.

To successfully defend its league crown the Hawks will need to continue to show improvement. In the opening games the backcourt left much to be desired but in the final 2 games before the holidays some of the younger players seem to be adjusting to varsity competition.

Chad Zawilinski has shown the ability to hit the outside shot, as has Jeff Little. Dan Sherman, by far the quickest player on the team, had his best game in the last pre-holiday game against Harbor Beach. Nathan Mastie can handle the ball and the team never misses a beat when he's on the floor.

When Kevin Storm returns at full strength it will give the Hawks another outcourt shooter and a tough rebounder.

Cass City's front line is its strength. Jason Morgan has been all that everyone expected him to be. Scott Iwankovitsch should improve as the injury to his knee improves.

Corey Ulfig is tough on the boards and can score. As he adjusts to the varsity offense and defense he should be a key cog in the Hawks drive to league and tournament titles.

First Polar Bear Open held Monday

Chances are not many area linksters got more of a head start on this year's season than a group of Cass City golf enthusiasts.

The troop, 12 in total, kicked off the new year playing in Monday's First Polar Bear Open at Northwood Shores Golf Course.

The tournament, a 3-man scramble, consisted of playing 5 holes on the par 27 track. Players were allowed 2 clubs and their putter. Tournament organizer Bob Poirier says the tourney will be an annual event.

Capturing first place honors at the inaugural event was the team of Chad Tate, Dick Carlson and John Riddle. The trio shot a 5 hole total of 16. Finishing one shot back and finishing second were Poirier, Mark Swanson and Cathy Hellow. Hellow was the only woman contestant in the field.

Also competing in the tournament, which was completed in about 30 minutes, were Jack Backer, Doug Miller, Lee Morgan, Pat Dillon, Rich Tate and Doug Zdrojewski.

Despite temperatures below freezing, Poirier says that the cold weather didn't phase them.

"It was a lot of fun. We actually worked up a sweat. We were dressed for the occasion."

Henry Kubacki

Henry Theodore Kubacki, 74, of Ubly, formerly of Bloomfield Hills, died Thursday, Dec. 29, at Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe.

He was born April 25, 1920 in Paris Township, the son of John N. and Clara (Gosdzinski) Kubacki.

He is survived by 3 sisters, Susan Pawlowski of Filion, Mrs. Earl (Stephanie) Dunavant of Mayfield, Ky., and Mrs. Irvin (Alice) Champagne of Caseville, and many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by 2 brothers, Roman and Clemens Kubacki and one sister, Cecelia Klebba.

Arrangements were handled by Zinger-Smigielski Funeral Home in Ubly.

Writer's club airs meet dates

The Thumb Area Writer's Club (TAWC) now holds its regular meetings at the County Conference Rooms, located at the county extension office, 37 Austin St., just south of the state police post in downtown Sandusky.

Regular meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

This month the meetings are Tuesday, Jan. 10, and Tuesday, Jan. 24.

Writer's needing encouragement in their creative endeavors, are urged to attend. Everyone is welcome.

Membership is open to poets, fiction and non-fiction writers.

THE AREA'S LONG-awaited — and belated — white Christmas finally arrived over the weekend, but that didn't stop Cass City youngsters, Andrea Erla, 7, and Tyler Erla, 9, from celebrating the new year bouncing on their new trampoline.

California Air Resources Board

Dunlap appointed chairman

Cass City native John Dunlap III was recently appointed chairman of the California Air Resources Board.

"John's background in air quality issues will serve California well as we continue to lead the country in the development of innovative methods to improve air quality," California Gov. Pete Wilson said in making the announcement.

Dunlap, 36, is currently chief deputy director of the Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC), a branch of the California Environmental Protection Agency that oversees firms which handle hazardous wastes.

He came to DTSC in January 1993 after a decade with the South Coast Air Quality Management District (AQMD).

In November 1988, Dunlap began serving as the AQMD's transportation program manager, which entailed overseeing the administration and marketing of a wide range of transportation and air quality regulatory programs.

He also served as the AQMD's principal liaison and representative with public agencies, businesses and the environmental community.

In 1989, Dunlap was appointed to the post of public advisor. In this role he managed a comprehensive community liaison program ensuring that voices of community and civic groups, small and large businesses, environmentalists, public agencies and private organizations were heard at the AQMD.

Dunlap earned a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of Redlands in 1980 and a master's degree in public policy from Claremont Graduate School in 1982.

Dunlap, who resides in Rancho Cucamonga with his wife, Jane, and the couple's 4 children, still has family in the Cass City area, including aunts and uncles, Don and Janice Smith of Decker, Gary and Doris Jones of Cass City, and Fred and Joan Matthews of Decker.

Masons sponsor clinics for kids

The Michigan Masons, in conjunction with the Endocrinology Department of the Children's Hospital of Michigan, will sponsor a state-wide series of FREE clinics for children with diabetes. These all-day clinics are an opportunity for patients and parents to meet with a diabetes team consisting of an endocrinologist, nurse clinician, and dietitian.

The most up-to-date methods of diabetes management will be discussed, including adjusting insulin doses according to daily fluctuations in blood sugars, nutrition, and exercise. A social worker will also be available to assist families with the emotional and financial stresses of having a diabetic child.

The Masons of the Tyler Masonic Lodge No. 317 encourage families in the Cass City area with children and adolescents who have diabetes requiring insulin to attend the Feb. 8 clinic. It will be held at the Flint Osteopathic Hospital, Flint, Mich. Children are seen by appointment only. Appointments can be made by contacting the master of the Masonic Lodge in your community who can also assist with transportation to and from Cass City or surrounding area.

For more information, call T.L. Wallace, Tyler Lodge #317 F & AM, Cass City, 872-3101.

New, better apricots

A new apricot variety could soon offer consumers a tastier summer snack. Named Helena, the new apricot is big and juicy with a deeper orange skin than most apricots. As an added bonus to farmers, the apricot is self-pollinating, which means it can bear fruit without needing another variety of apricot tree nearby.

Survey shows falls leading cause of injuries on farm

The National Safety Council found from a 31 state farm accident survey, that more than 20 percent of injuries were due to falls. The survey showed that those 65 and older suffered the highest rate of injuries resulting from falls, reports Geraldine R. Smith, Ag Safety Specialist, Huron County Health Department.

Falls can occur anywhere on a farm. Over 50 percent of the falls reported in the survey were from one level to another, such as off a ladder, roof, farm machine, tree, horse or down a stairway or chute. Falls from farm machinery are among the most serious, especially if you land in the path of a wheel or trailing implement. Victims include extra riders, often children, and operators.

Same-level falls usually involve a slippery or irregular walking surface, or various obstacles in the way. Ice and snow are common culprits this time of year, but also watch out for grease, manure, mud and kitchen spills.

Footwear is a factor in many falls. Wearing the wrong type for the activity or walking conditions has resulted in tumbles for many individuals and often injury. Dale Anthony, director of the Iowa Sentinel Project which tracks farm injuries, indicates that 75 percent of the slip and fall injuries involve tennis shoes. Although they are comfortable to wear, they don't provide enough traction on slippery surfaces, nor do they provide adequate protection around machinery and livestock. Worn-out shoes and boots, or the wrong size or fit, have put many workers in casts.

Here are some suggestions for reducing the risk of falling:

* Choose footwear appropriate for the job or activity. Soles should provide good footing for the walking surface.

* Always watch your step. What was a clear path earlier, may now have a bucket, rake or toy left in the way, or something spilled.
* Watch for oil and grease on floors of machinery sheds and shops. Wipe up spills immediately.
* Remove clutter and tripping hazards from stairways, work areas, and high-traffic areas. Keep walks and steps clear of snow and ice.

* Use sturdy hand rails when you go up and down stairs, don't leave things on the stairs. Install grab bars in the shower or bathtub.
* Take special care when you climb up and down silo, grain bin and machinery access ladders. Clean mud, manure and snow from boots, shoes and steps.
* Turn on lights to see your way safely.
* Use ladders and step stools properly.
* Be cautious when you carry bulky or heavy items. If your load blocks your vision or is a struggle to lift and carry, you need help.
* Don't allow extra riders on farm equipment!!

Register for school election for the number of persons in the district eligible to vote if registered, but it seems sure that they exceed not only the 119-vote no-vote margin and perhaps the total vote itself.

As outlined in the official notification printed in this issue, residents can register at their respective township clerks' offices, their county clerk's office, or any Secretary of State office.

It's hard to understand why there is such apathy about an issue that will affect the community for the next 20 years.

Residents will be paying for the new school for 2 decades, and perhaps more important, the direction the school will heading will be decided.

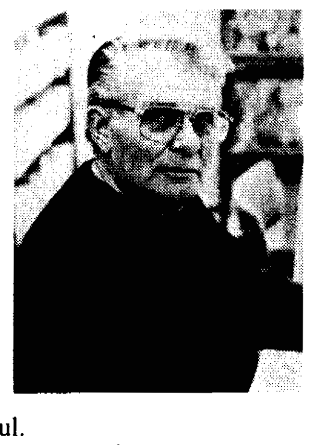
Your neighbor says

Resolutions are made all year

The New Year is the time that many of us pause, assess what has happened in the previous year and make one or more resolutions. Often the resolve dissolves with the passing days only to be renewed when the next New Year comes around.



That never happens to Edward Patch, Cass City. He doesn't use the New Year as an excuse to make resolutions. I make resolutions all year, not at any specific time.

I'm a hard head, he grinned. When I make resolutions I follow through. For instance, Patch made up his mind 25 or 30 years ago to quit smoking, when he was having sinus trouble, and was successful.

Patch came to Cass City from Plymouth 11 years ago to work as an engineer for Rail Car Specialties (then Evans Products) in Gagetown.

He has been in semi-retirement for the last 3 years, but does engineering work on a part-time basis.
