Decker girl dies in stolen truck crash

A Decker girl was killed and 2 other Cass City area youths were seriously injured early Saturday morning when the stolen pickup truck they were riding in left M-81 and rolled over about 8 miles southwest of Caro. Edelfina Nazario, 12, 6595 Shabbona Rd., Decker, was pronounced dead at the scene.

The other girls, Jessica Mester, 12, 6551 Ritter Rd., Cass City, and Amanda Smith, 14, 7636 Mushroom Rd., Deford, were transported to St. Mary's Medical Center, Saginaw, by Vassar Area Ambulance and FlightCare Helicopter.

A hospital spokeswoman said Jessica is listed in serious condition in the neurointensive care unit, and Amanda is listed as critical in the hospital's burn unit.

Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies reported the fatal crash occurred at about 1:10 a.m. as Reese police pursued the stolen, eastbound pickup on M-81 near Kirk Road.

The accident culminated a series of events that began about 14 hours earlier, when the girls — all students at Cass City Middle School — allegedly stole a pickup truck from the parking lot at the Charmont restaurant in Cass City.

According to Cass City police, the 1993 Chevrolet S-10 pickup, owned by Terry Cramer of Bad Axe, was reported stolen at 10:45 a.m. Friday.

A witness who stated she saw some kids get into the vehicle and drive off, told police she followed the pickup to Caro, where she stopped at the sheriff's department and notified authorities.

Village police were contacted later in the day by a trooper from the Michigan State Police post in Sandusky, who advised that he had taken a runaway report on Jessica Mester. It's uncertain whether the other 2 girls were reported as runaways.

The accident remains under investigation by the sheriff's department, which was assisted at the scene by the Vassar Area Ambulance Service and the Vassar and Reese fire departments.

The accident sent shock waves through the student body and staff at Cass City Middle School, where officials offered counseling to students who wanted to talk about the loss of their classmate.

The Cass City Ministerial Association offered its help along with staff members from the elementary and high school, Principal Don Schelke said, adding high school students trained as Natural Helpers were also on hand.

"We're trying to be as routine as we can, but it's pretty difficult," Schelke commented. "This age group, they're pretty emotional anyway, and when you have a tragedy, that just compounds it. "Time heals," he concluded. "We're going through a grieving process right now. That's natural."

Elkland hears complaints

Budgets, roads top annual meet topics

Budgets and road improvements topped the agendas at area annual township meetings Saturday afternoon.

ELKLAND

The annual meeting of the Elkland Township Board was highlighted by complaints from 2 township residents and the adoption of the annual budget.

The budget revealed that the township is in a healthy financial condition. At the beginning of the year the township had $429,175.08 in cash surplus. At the end of the year, March 31, the fund had swelled to just over a half million dollars ($504,472.68).

The township spent $229,000.32 last year and collected $245,680.40. The budget for 1995-96 calls for expenditures of $256,850, an increase of $27,849.68.

As usual, the largest single expenditure was for road maintenance and construction. Last year the township spent $78,470.48 and the budget for this fiscal year calls for expenditures of $86,980.0, an increase of $8,519.12.

There is a total of $61,550 budgeted for the fire department, virtually the same amount that was spent last year. In addition to fees collected, running the department cost taxpayers $21,000, which was transferred from the general fund.

COMPLAINTS

Sophie Peters, 7027

Milligan Road, complained about water draining on her property. She said that the land across the road from her was filled in and changed the way the water drained.

Supervisor Dave Milligan said that he would ask the Tuscola County Road Commission to survey the land to see what was natural flow of the water. He agreed that it is illegal to change the natural flow of water and said the township could take no action until the road engineers inform them of how the water naturally flows.

Peters said that the pond of water that collects on her property is a threat to her water well and septic tank.

Greg and Cathy Lenda, who live near the Crawford and Elmwood road intersection, presented pictures that showed old cars and partially completed buildings on adjacent property that is occupied by Jim McDonald.

They asked that the township act to force a clean-up of the property.

After viewing the pictures, the board voted to have a lawyer send McDonald a letter demanding action.

The board hoped that the letter would be all that is necessary to secure action and not just the first step in a long, drawn out procedure.

EVERGREEN

Evergreen Township officials approved a 1995-96 budget that includes more spending for road improvements.

Township Clerk Arthur Severance reported proposed expenses are set at $92,877, with revenues of $134,157, including $49,000 carried over from the previous budget. Expenses in 1994-95 totaled $58,972, he said.

"We spent last year on roads, for brush, patch and gravel, and brine, $17,000. This year we're planning on spending at least $40,000 because we're going to build 2 miles of road," Severance explained. "All the other expenses are basically the same as last year."

This year's road work will consist of building up one mile of Severance Road, west of M-53, and construction of the last 2 miles of Germania Road.

Asphalt was placed on one mile of Germania Road last year at a cost of $4,500, according to the clerk, who said the proposed construction in 1995-96 will cost $15,000. Plans call for those 2 miles to be paved the following year.

Severance said salaries will remain the same in the coming year at $4,500 for supervisor/assessor, $2,500 each for the clerk and treasurer, and $60 per meeting for trustees.

In other business during the 2-hour session, attended by 5 electors, the board approved an annual $250 donation to the Cass City Recreational Park, and voted to realign fire department coverage in the township.

CASS CITY officials will hold a public hearing next month to consider a tax abatement application submitted by Walbro Corp., which plans to double the size of its Aftermarket Service building (above). Officials said the $850,000 expansion will generate additional jobs in the community.

Contract approved in split vote

Walbro to expand in Cass City, seeks tax abatement

Cass City Village officials will consider granting a tax abatement for a 12,000-square foot addition at Walbro Corp. in Cass City.

A public hearing on the proposal was scheduled for 7:30 p.m. April 24 at the municipal building. The motion to schedule the hearing was approved on a vote of 5-0, with village President L.E. Althaver, who is also president and CEO of Walbro Corp., abstaining.

The tax abatement request was formally presented during the council's monthly meeting Monday night.

In a letter to the council, William G. Ewald, director of purchasing, said Walbro is anticipating building an 80-foot by 160-foot addition to the existing Aftermarket Service building, which is located just west of the company's world headquarters at 6214 Garfield Ave.

The purpose of expanding the manufacturing facility is to increase the capacity for all of Walbro's aftermarket service requirements, he stated.

The Cass City facility handles all of the aftermarket service for both the Walbro automotive and small engine divisions, according to Althaver, who said the proposed addition would double the size of the existing facility.

It's expected the estimated $850,000 addition will generate additional assembly-type jobs. A specific number was not available.

Under the state tax abatement program for manufacturing facilities, the village can grant Walbro a tax break of up to 50 percent for up to 12 years on the new construction.

If approved, the maximum tax break for the addition would total about $3,400 per year based on the construction estimate.

In the past, the village has granted abatements under the same program to Walbro, General Cable Co. and Orbital Fluid Technologies, and in each case has granted the maximum tax break allowed in an effort to encourage growth among the village's manufacturers.

SPLIT VOTE

Turning to other matters, a rare split-vote came on a motion related to hiring an accountant firm to handle the village's audits for the next 3 years.

The council discussed a 3-year contract renewal proposal submitted by Yeo & Yeo, Saginaw, the village's auditing firm for the past 22 years. The firm proposed a maximum fee schedule of $7,850 in 1995, $8,000 in 1996 and $8,200 in 1997.

The 1994 general audit cost the village $7,650.

Trustee Matt Prieskorn said he would like to see the council go out for bids, and made a motion to that effect.

Trustee Mike Weaver commented that the village is in a difficult position. On one hand, the council has worked with Yeo & Yeo for years and is confident in the firm's ability, and on the other hand, there is also a feeling that a local accountant should be considered, he said.

"I just think you have to give the local people a shot," Prieskorn said.

The council has previously bid out the audit and local companies have submitted bids reasonably comparable with Yeo & Yeo, Althaver said. However, he pointed out Yeo & Yeo has made government audits a specialty and is considered one of the premier municipal auditing firms in the state.

Trustee Les Karr indicated that if the difference in bids were a couple hundred dollars, he would rather stay with Yeo & Yeo.

Weaver supported Prieskorn's motion, which was then rejected on a vote of 4-2. Karr, Althaver, Trustee Cathy Kropewnicki and Trustee Sandra Haley cast the "no" votes.

A motion was then made to accept the proposal submitted by Yeo & Yeo, and the measure passed, 5-1, with Prieskorn casting the lone "no" vote.

CURB AND GUTTER

In other business, the council established a special assessment district for construction of curb and gutter on Hospital Drive, from Hill Street to Dale Street.

The district was established following a very brief public hearing during which no comments were offered.

A special assessment district enables the village to charge property owners on the affected road for the cost of installing curb and gutter.

In all, 7 property owners, including Hills and Dales General Hospital, will pay a combined $15,982. The total project cost, including paving, is estimated at $83,200.

The contracts for curb and gutter, and paving were then awarded to the lowest bidders in each category.

Tapping sugar bush a sweet success

The sky was clear and the air crisp Friday morning as Leslie Beach, Don Schwartz and Jack Downing headed across a plowed field into a grove of maples behind Beach's Gagetown area farm.

"Today is a typical day. It froze last night and it'll run good today," Beach said of the sap dripping from holes tapped into the trees.

Beach, who will turn 86 in a week and a half, has harvested sap from his modest 9-acre sugar bush, then boiled it down into maple syrup — the old fashioned way — for at least the past 20 years.

He says the work has gotten to be a bit much for him, but with the help of his 2 friends he's still enjoying sweet success each spring.

According to Beach, the maple syrup season usually begins around the first of March and continues for about a month. The secret of a great season is cold nights followed by warm days, he explained.

However, Downing pointed out, "Mother Nature dictates everything."

Schwartz agreed. "If it stays warm for 2 or 3 days, everything quits, and if it stays too cold for 2 or 3 days, everything quits," he said.

The maple syrup process begins with collecting sap, which is accomplished by tapping holes in the sugar maple trees, inserting spigots and hanging buckets under them to catch each drop of the thin liquid.

Beach recalled a time when he would go out and tap into 400 trees, but the operation has since been scaled down.

110 TREES TAPPED

"We figure we've got 110 trees (tapped) now, at least," Schwartz said.

"It's rather a primitive set-up," Downing commented, but we get the job done.

Downing, a rural mail carrier who joined the operation after retiring from the Cass City Post Office 2 years ago, added the work was made easier this year with the addition of a small generator brought in by Beach's brother, Clayton. Previously, he noted, every hole was drilled with a hand auger.

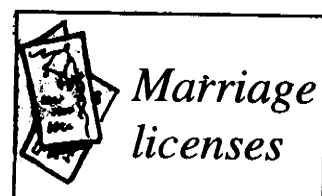

The next step is to empty the buckets into larger, 10-gallon milk cans, which are transported throughout the sugar bush on a trailer pulled

Among those attending the Michigan High School basketball finals Saturday from Cass City were: Bill Wallace, John Haire, Clare Comment, Roy Tuckey, Bob Tuckey, Wayne Dillon, Dr. Robert Green, Dr. Paul Chappel, Don Tonti, Dan Erla, Bob Stickle, Todd Comment and Matt Prieskorn.

Alice Riley, now of Lebanon, Ohio, was in Cass City Wednesday visiting old friends. She and her late husband, Joe Riley, were business people in the community for many years where they operated a combination shoe store and shoe repair business. Joe Riley was one of the first investors in the original 10 acres that formed the basis for the industrial development park in the village.

Stacey A. Klinkman, a freshman at Michigan Technological University, was named to the dean's list for the winter quarter. Students must maintain a 3.5 or better grade point average to be listed.

Randy and Carmen Damm took their son Jason to Flint Saturday afternoon, where he spent overnight with his aunt and uncle, Susan and Tim Wooster, and attended the motorcycle races Saturday evening. The Woosters brought him home Sunday afternoon.

Jeff Hartel, Dave Bartnik and Clarke Haire of Cass City and Tim Muz of Caro spent the weekend golfing in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mrs. Marjorie Pearce of Bad Axe spent Wednesday and had lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Gaylord LaPeer.

Making a living as a door-to-door salesman has to be tough.

It's hard enough to give something away door-to-door.

This is how I know.

After hearing about the "Jesus Video Project" and viewing the film, which was very professionally done, we decided it was a worthwhile endeavor. So we volunteered, along with about 60 others from the area, to help distribute the free videos.

An anonymous donor provided the 77-minute videos, which depict the life of Jesus as told in the Book of Luke, for every family in Cass City, and perhaps Deford and Gagetown.

Most of the volunteers will be delivering the videos next week, but because of a schedule conflict, we had to start early.

Nine o'clock Saturday morning seemed like a good time to begin. People would probably still be at home, we thought. So we started out with our canvas bag full of videos and our hearts full of enthusiasm.

We returned home an hour and a half later with 6 fewer videos and slightly less enthusiasm.

We were wrong, it seems, about Saturday morning. Out of the 26 residences assigned to us, only 8 people answered the door, and we had awakened some of them.

Fortunately, when we ventured forth later in the afternoon, we managed to find a few more takers.

It was an interesting experience.

We encountered only a couple of dogs, one chained just outside the entrance to the home. My partner was undeterred, but ended up covered with muddy paw prints.

Most of the people, even those we had awakened, were gracious. Nobody slammed the door in our faces, although a few showed some reluctance to open it.

Actually, only 2 people refused to accept the videos. One of them seemed apprehensive, probably assuming that we represented some cult. That's understandable. After all, nobody goes around giving away videos without some catch, do they?

The second refusal came from a man who sounded like he'd been hassled previously about religion by an over zealous acquaintance.

We fully intend to make another effort to reach the remaining people on our list. So if you see us out with our canvas bag, don't be alarmed.

And if someone else comes to your door next week with a free video, they're not members of a cult, nor are they trying to recruit or proselytize you into joining their church.

They're just neighbors, from any number of area churches, trying to do something nice for the community just before Easter. Be kind to them.

O-G Drama Club sets play April 6-7

A cast of 13 Owen-Gage High School Drama Club students will present the play, "Off the Track", at 7 p.m. April 6 and 7 in the Gagetown Elementary School.

The play is a 3-act comedy with a twist of location. A group of strangers are thrown together when a train is derailed and the passengers are forced to wait for a relief train.

The excitement begins when a $10,000 strand of pearls comes up missing. Someone in the waiting room took them, but who?

Area residents are invited to help solve the mystery along with the cast, which consists of Michelle Pisarek, Stacy Rievert, Jeff Maxson, Lisa Warack, Jason Ramirez, Ricky Merchant, Brandy Harmon, Lane Tetil, Jenny Niester, Jennifer Jaworski, Ann Warack, Heather Ross and Lily Leiternann.

Tickets for the play are $3 for adults and $2 for students.

Garden Club meets Monday

The Cass City Garden Club will hold its first meeting this year Monday, April 3.

The club will be meeting in the community room of the Detroit Edison Building at 10 o'clock and welcomes anyone who is interested in beautifying the village.

Fete Dorlands on 45th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Dorland of Decker were guests of honor at a dinner Saturday evening at the Deford Community Church. The couple celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary.

Otis Dorland and the former Donna Mitchell were married March 24, 1950, at the Mizpah Missionary Church. Attendees were the late Chester Dorland and Ellen (Mitchell) Lambert of Marlette.

The couple has 8 children, Cheryl, Kilbourn, Jim Dorland and Tim Dorland, all of Deford, Barbara McComb, Tom Dorland and David Dorland, all of Cass City, Debra Heacock of Pottsville and Kathy Luana of Decker. They have 22 grandchildren and 3 step-grandchildren.

Otis is a retired farmer and employee of General Cable and Donna is currently a school bus driver for Cass City Public Schools.

by John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

The Chronicle received calls telling us that a tip of the hat is due first-year Cass City High School play director Veronica Commire. An estimated 300 attended the standing room only show Thursday.

The musical, "Rock-N-Roll" is being called the best student production in years.

Sometimes it hurts to be an alumnus of Michigan State. At the semi-final basketball games held at MSU Friday there were S-L-O-W moving lines about a block long wanting to buy tickets in the afternoon.

The gym was a third empty for the games and many fans were unable to buy tickets in time. After the game we were directed to a line to buy tickets for the evening game when we went to a ticket window. After a few minutes another MSU employee told us we were in the wrong line and directed us to the window where we originally attempted to buy tickets.

Another example of bad management occurred in the parking lot. With this one, the school lost and we profited. After getting a ticket at the gate coming in, we found the gate open and unattended when we left the game. That saved us $5, not nearly enough to overcome the previous aggravations.

*****

We made a return visit after a dozen years or more to the Grey Gables, 308 Belvedere, Charlevoix, a place where we enjoyed a full evening of family fun.

It hasn't changed much. It's still an old grey house with a small sign in front with the same small dance floor and piano in the corner. We arrived early, so there was no music while we ate.

The quality is still good and the cost about average for an upscale restaurant in northern Michigan.

A New York strip steak, 22-ounce, cost $13.95, including soup and salad. A couple of prime ribs cost $15.95 each and whitefish, $15.95. That's fairly reasonable if you stick to the basics. We didn't. Caesar salad, twice baked potatoes and all drinks were extra. Two mixed drinks and 2 beers were served. The entire meal cost $130 with tip.

The quality was good, say about an 8 on the 1-10 scale. The price brings it down to maybe a 6 1/2.

*****

It's time to spring forward again and set clocks ahead one hour. Daylight Savings Time goes into effect at 2 a.m. Sunday. It's wonderful to have those long summer evenings to enjoy Michigan's great outdoors, but it would suit me better if they waited another 15 days or so to make the switch. You, too?

Blue honored at U-M

Some 5,400 University of Michigan students, including Lida R. Blue of Cass City, were recognized at the university's annual Honors Convocation, held March 19.

Blue, who attends the school's Residential College, received class honors.

A total of 6,392 students were recognized at the convocation. Of the total, 5,134 were class honors, recognizing an undergraduate academic record equal to at least half As and half Bs for 2 terms in 1994.

Moore's students shine

Jan Moore of Cass City had 10 piano students earn first class honors at the American Music Scholarship Association Competition held at St. Peter and Paul School, Ruth, March 19.

Moore is master teacher of A.M.S.A. and chairperson of the center.

Students had to have a score of 85 percent to 100 percent to receive an invitation to the national semi-finals. All 10 students received 90 percent to 99 percent scores, and are invited to Cincinnati, Ohio, July 1-7 for the national competition. They will compete with students from all over the world.

The students are Michelle Derfny, 12, Dara Iwankovitch, 10, Holli Christine Cooper, 12, Alissa Pasant, 10, Timothy Khoury, 11, Ryan Stumpo, 11, Jalal Khoury, 12, Rebecca Stumpo, 12, Kareem Khoury, 16, and Joseph Khoury, 15.

Paul Kerbyson of Bay City was the judge and formerly taught piano at Interlochen.

Bob and Linda Stumpo of Caro and Cathy Goodwine, Sandusky, assisted Moore at the competition.

She was commended on her teaching and building confidence in her students.

Moore teaches piano, organ, voice and saxophone.

A.M.S.A. was founded in 1956 and has become the major source for musical education and identification for piano talent in the United States. By serving this function, Cincinnati has become the international headquarters for musical excellence in piano artistry.

A.M.S.A.'s World Piano competition is the world's only non-profit arts education organization, and is artistically directed by over 50 world renowned artists, including Leonard Bernstein, Jorge Bolet and Andr Watts.

A.M.S.A. is managed and operated by a 26 member Board of Trustees.

Any piano teacher wishing to enter their students in the competition for next year can contact Moore for more information at 872-5318.

"If It Fitz...."

The good, bad, ugly on busing and parking

By Jim Fitzgerald

There are a few things you should know about busing and parking....

When life serves you a lemon, make some tasty lemonade. If possible.

When one of Detroit transit chief Albert Martin's bus drivers became disoriented, took a wrong turn and drove hundreds of miles off course, ending up near Gaylord, Martin said:

"One of the positive aspects of this is that we had a bus maintained to the extent that it was able to drive 698 miles without incident, accident or breakdown."

That was adroit squeezing. But a few weeks later, when $50,000 in bus fares was discovered missing, and no arrests were made, although three employees were transferred to other Department of Transportation jobs, the lemon was apparently too tough. Martin did not say:

"One of the positive aspects of this is that we have some employees smart enough to steal $50,000 without going to jail or even getting fired, which means their valuable intelligence is still on our payroll."

ICY EMPLOYEES

Last Dec. 29, Bonnie Jackson of Hubbard Lake, along with several members of her family, attended the Great Lakes Invitational hockey tournament at Joe Louis Arena in downtown Detroit. It was a good time that went bad.

"Being ardent hockey fans for many years, we always enjoy the games immensely. However, our joy was cut short when we discovered that our car, safely parked (we thought) in the Joe Louis parking structure, had been vandalized and robbed. We never dreamed it would happen in a well-guarded, well-lit, paid parking structure right next to the home of the Red Wings," Jackson said.

"To add injury to insult, the employees of the parking garage acted like they could 'care less' about our problem. When my husband asked to use the phone, he was told that he couldn't do that. When he asked where the nearest police station was located, they had no idea!" Welcome to Detroit.

INEXCUSABLE ACTIONS

There's still an unbelievably high number of allegedly handicapped drivers parking free all day at regular (not handicap) meters near the McNamara Federal Building in downtown Detroit.

One afternoon last September, I counted 42 cars with handicap permit placards hanging from the rearview mirror or on the dashboard. The count Feb. 17 was 38. According to state law, the placard excuses the driver from putting money in the meter.

No sane person believes that many handicapped people actually work in the McNamara building.

According to city and state officials I interviewed last fall, too many doctors suck up to their patients by approving them for handicap placards they don't deserve. And too many healthy drivers use placards issued to someone else with an actual handicap.

The result is that legitimately handicapped and non-handicapped drivers can't find a parking space.

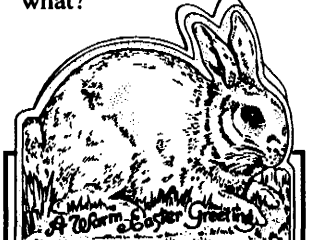

That situation was on George Jordan's mind Jan. 23 when he was ticketed for illegal parking at the Bronx Bar, which he owns, on Second Street near Wayne State University.

Jordan has a legitimate handicap placard because arthritis forces him to walk with a cane. For a few minutes he was parked too near the bar door, where it would be easier to unload some boxes.

When he protested the $20 citation to the meter maid, mentioning the continually ignored, daylong abuse of handicapped parking privileges downtown, he said the parking officer answered: "This isn't downtown."

Is that what you call selective law enforcement, or what?

Smith awarded scholarship

Kevin D. Smith of Decker has received a 1994-1995 Dr. Dorothy M. Ross Scholarship from the Automotive Hall of Fame.

Smith, currently enrolled at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, where he is majoring in physics and electrical engineering, received the $250 scholarship based on his outstanding academic achievement and work experience.

Following graduation in May, Smith, the son of Russell and Janet Smith of Decker, will seek an engineering position in research and development of digital products.

The Automotive Hall of Fame's Dr. Dorothy M. Ross scholarship is one of 26 awarded by the Hall of Fame's education program - "Think Automotive!"

The Automotive Hall of Fame is the only industry-wide hall of fame for men and women of the motor vehicle industry. It is dedicated to preserving the history of the motor vehicle industry through the contributions of its pioneers and leaders. Besides Hall of Fame induction - its highest honor - Hall of Fame awards include the Distinguished Service Citation, the Young Leadership and Excellence Award and the Industry Leader of the Year.

by a farm tractor. Typically, the buckets are emptied once a day. "Sometimes twice a day if it's running good," Downing noted. "Other days, we don't get anything."

The sap is then poured into a 30-gallon pan that sits above a wood stove enclosed by cement. Schwartz said the liquid is heated to a temperature of about 212 degrees. "As it starts to evaporate, then you add more on the end (of the pan), and it settles on the other end," he added.

In the process, some 25 gallons of sap are steamed away each hour. At that rate, Schwartz said, they could empty a 5-gallon pail of sap into the pan every 10 minutes.

In time, the thickening sap is poured into a smaller pan and boiled.

"It's syrup when it reaches 220 degrees. That's when we start filtering and canning," said Downing. He noted the finished product is purified through filtering, a process that is repeated 3 times before the syrup is bottled.

FIRST BATCH

"The first batch is always the best," Beach remarked, adding the first sap has the most sugar. "It makes a big difference."

When it's all said and done, the area men expect to bottle about 40 gallons of syrup — no small task considering it takes 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup.

"There's a lot of work to it," Beach acknowledged.

"It takes a lot of cooking."

"We use a lot of Tylenol," Schwartz joked.

"And Ben Gay," Downing added. "You have to be a gopher because you go-fer a lot of wood. You find out you should have been exercising all winter."

"We don't make it an all-night job, but when it's going good, we'll work from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.," Schwartz said. He chuckled and added that if the hours of labor were added up, their pay would probably amount to 10 cents an hour.

"We do good work, but we work too cheap," Beach joked.

But there are a lot of fringe benefits. Schwartz said he and Downing have known each other for years, but until now haven't had much time to visit. When they're out collecting sap or boiling, there's plenty of time to reminisce, he added.

Downing smiled. "After being in the house all winter, you have to get away from the wife's turf," he said.

All 3 men agreed they return to the sugar bush each year for the same reason: they enjoy doing it.

"This is just something you have to give to your friends, and they appreciate it," Schwartz concluded.

SCHWARTZ POURS gas into the tank of a tractor used to pull a trailer throughout the sugar bush. Sap collected from the trees is poured into these 10-gallon milk cans, then transported back to the sugar shack.

7 face felony charges

The following people were recently arraigned on felony charges in Tuscola County District Court:

• Ronald W. Fisher, 32, Caro, faces 2 counts of first degree criminal sexual conduct allegedly involving children under the age of 13 years in January-March in Caro.

Bond in the case was set at $150,000. A preliminary examination was scheduled for 9 a.m. April 7.

• Kenneth S. Wright, 24, Southfield, was arraigned on 2 counts each of second degree home invasion and larceny in a building.

Court records state he allegedly entered a dwelling at 4636 Arden Park Dr., Shay Lake, Jan. 29, and stole an extension cord, radio and 2 heaters, and allegedly entered a dwelling at 4637 Arden Park Dr., Shay Lake, Feb. 14, and stole a color TV, push mower, clock and copper pipe.

Bond in the cases has been set at a combined $100,000.

Wright faces a preliminary exam Friday at 9 a.m.

• Anthony House, 28, Caro, is charged with conspiracy to deliver marijuana in March-April 1994 in Tuscola County.

Bond was set at $40,000 and a preliminary exam was scheduled for Friday morning.

• Allan L. Stephen, 19, Fostoria, was arraigned on charges of second degree home invasion, conspiracy to commit home invasion, larceny of firearms in a building, and receiving and concealing a stolen firearm.

The charges stem from an alleged incident involving an Arbela Township residence Feb. 1.

Bond for Stephen was set at $40,000. He faces a preliminary exam Friday morning.

• Cory L. Walstead, 18, Caro, is charged with second degree home invasion and larceny in a building March 15 in Caro. Court records state he is accused of entering a home at 163 Millwood Ave., and stealing a gun and money.

Bond was set at $15,000 and a preliminary exam was scheduled for Friday morning.

• Anthony J. Stephen, 18, Fostoria, was arraigned on charges of larceny of a tire and rim Oct. 27 in Millington Township, larceny of a radio and speakers from a motor vehicle Oct. 18 in Millington Township, and second degree home invasion, conspiracy to commit home invasion, larceny of firearms in a building, and receiving and concealing a stolen firearm Feb. 1 in Arbela Township.

Bond was set at a combined $30,000. A preliminary exam is to be held Friday morning.

• Scott M. Davis, 23, Cass City, was arraigned on one count of writing 3 non-sufficient fund checks within 10 days. The offense allegedly involves checks of $22.30, $32.30 and $28.96 written between Oct. 15 and Oct. 19, court records state.

Bond was set at $5,000. A preliminary exam was scheduled for 9 a.m. April 7.

Recycling display set

Tuscola County Recycling will have a display set up at Rawson Memorial Library, Cass City, during the week of April 3-7.

As part of a Department of Natural Resources Solid Waste Alternatives Program grant project, the Clinton County Department of Waste Management has developed an education station for use in teaching the public about recycling.

The station is a 3-section, stand-alone exhibit featuring a detailed "Mural with a Moral". Turning each panel's "Reduce, Reuse, Recycle" wheel reveals a total of 24 different pieces of information about recycling and responsible management.

Freezing tips

Food experts recommend freezing meat for only 6-12 months. The reason is oxidation. Oxidation causes rancidity, which doesn't cause health problems but does make meat smell bad and taste awful. You can make meat last longer in the freezer by putting it in freezer wrap, freezer bags or plastic freezer containers.

13 appear in circuit court

Thirteen people appeared in Tuscola County Circuit Court on various criminal charges last week.

•Dale D. Gilmore Jr., 23, Mayville, was found innocent of first degree criminal sexual conduct following a 2-day jury trial. The jury reached the verdict after deliberating for a little over 2 hours.

Court records state Gilmore had been accused of assaulting a child under the age of 13 years June 16 in Fremont Township.

•Gary R. Grieshaber, 32, Saint Clair Shores, pleaded guilty to attempted malicious destruction of property over $100. He is charged with damaging a room at the Charmont Motel, 6138 E. Cass City Rd., Cass City, Feb. 28.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered in the case, bond was continued at $2,000 and the defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department. Sentencing is to be scheduled.

•Richard L. Olson, 34, Fostoria, entered a plea of guilty to 2 counts of assault with a dangerous weapon (rifle) Sept. 2 and Sept. 3 in Watertown Township.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered, bond was continued at a combined $50,000 and Olson was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department. Sentencing is to be set.

•Roy H. Harcus, 37, Caro, was sentenced to an additional 24 months of probation and 90 days in the county jail, with work site privileges, for his plea of guilty to probation violation.

Court records state he failed to report to the Tuscola Adult Probation Office Oct. 3 through Oct. 24, 1991, and that he failed to attend court-ordered substance abuse counseling.

Harcus was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department.

•Stefan Zechmeister, 40, Caro, was sentenced for a plea of guilty to operating a motor vehicle while his license was suspended, and altering a license plate Sept. 14 in Caro.

Zechmeister was ordered to serve 90 days in jail (60 days suspended), with work site privileges, for the first count. He received a one-year delayed sentence and was ordered to pay $500 in court costs plus attorneys fees, a $40 victim crime fee and $120 in oversight fees for the second count.

•Gary W. Mitchell, 30, Caro, was sentenced to 2 years probation and 30 days in jail, with work site privileges, for a plea of guilty to attempted manufacture of marijuana in March-April 1994 in Tuscola County.

Mitchell was ordered to pay $400 in costs and fines plus attorneys fees, a $30 victim crime fee and $720 in oversight fees.

•Richard M. Stakalos, 29, Caro, was sentenced to 3 years probation and 365 days in jail (6 months deferred to the end of probation), with work release, for 2 counts of larceny over $100 and one count of breaking and entering a building with intent to commit larceny.

He was charged with entering a pole barn at 3371 Colwood Rd. in Ellington Township, and stealing 2 generators between Dec. 15, 1991, and Jan. 6, 1992.

Stakalos was ordered to pay costs and fines totaling $600 plus attorneys fees, restitution of $2,862, a $40 victim crime fee and oversight fees totaling $1,080.

•Jesus P. Berlanga, 18, Flint, entered a motion to withdraw his guilty plea to a charge of assault with intent to murder, stemming from the Aug. 2, 1994, hammer attack on another man in Arbel Township.

The motion was granted by the court, which ordered an evidence hearing to be scheduled. Berlanga was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department.

•Smiley Villa, 21, Caro, was sentenced to 40 to 60 months in prison for his plea of guilty to breaking and entering a motor vehicle with intent to steal property over $5 Jan. 26 in Caro.

He was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department.

•Darren W. Hatfield, 29, Clifford, was sentenced to 120 days in jail for a plea of guilty to probation violation — use of marijuana.

Hatfield, whose probation was reinstated by the court, was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department.

•Chad C. Williams, 22, Vassar, was sentenced to 3 years probation and 365 days in jail (6 months deferred to the end of probation), with work release, for his plea of guilty to breaking and entering an unoccupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny.

The offense took place at a residence at 4097 Vassar Rd. between Aug. 30 and Sept. 5, 1994, court records state.

Williams was ordered to pay $1,000 in costs and fines plus attorneys fees, restitution of $818, oversight fees totaling $1,080 and a $40 victim crime fee.

•Trent L. Darling, 32, Deford, stood mute to a charge of second degree criminal sexual conduct allegedly involving a victim under the age of 13 years in August/September 1992 in Cass City.

A pre-trial hearing is to be scheduled. Bond was continued at $15,000 and the defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department.

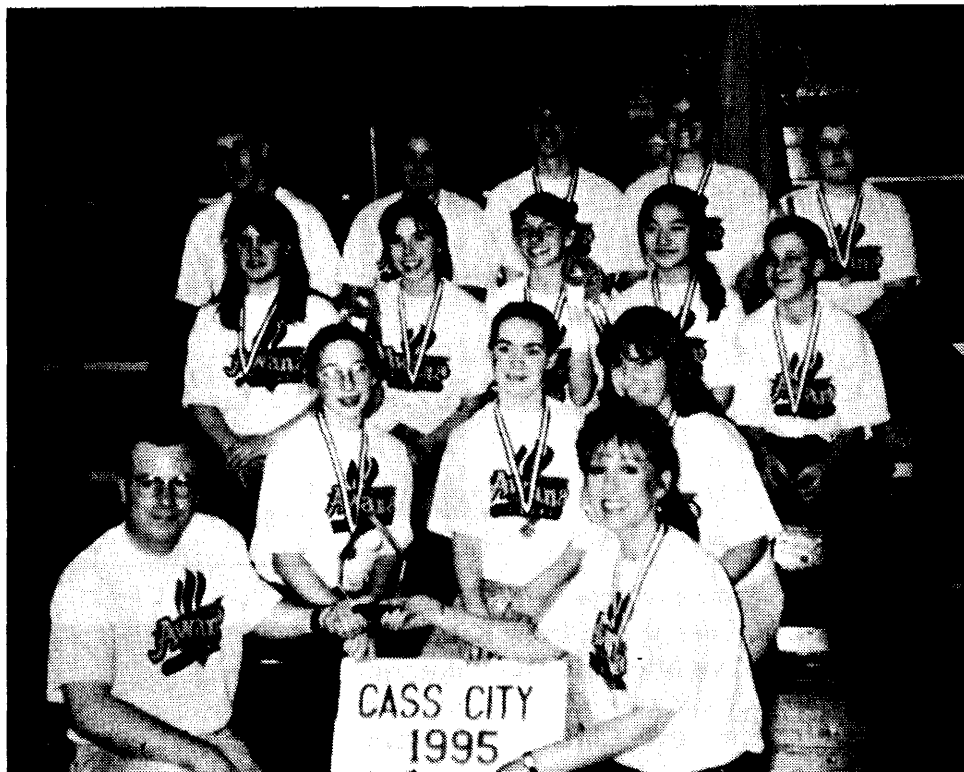

•William D. Cook, 34, Mayville, stood mute to charges of larceny of keys and cash from a building, assault or assault and battery, unlawfully driving a way a motor vehicle, possession of an open intoxicant in a motor vehicle, and operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense.

The offenses allegedly took place Feb. 25 in Fremont and Indianfields townships, according to court records.

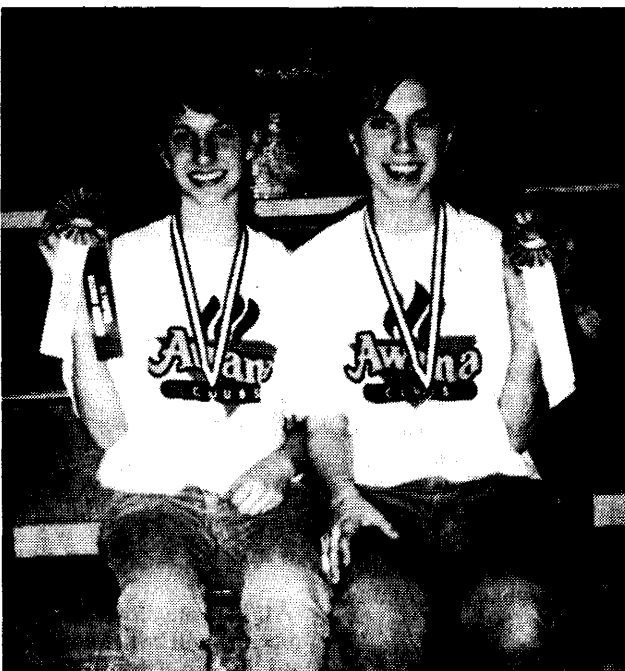

A pre-trial hearing was ordered scheduled and bond was continued at $25,000. Cook was remanded to the custody of the sheriff's department.

Shana Adkins named "student of the month"

Owen-Gage High School senior Shana Adkins has been named "student of the month" for March.

The daughter of Douglas and Valerie Fritz of Sebawing, she is president of the National Honor Society, and secretary of the Student Council and Trip Club. A member of the basketball, softball and volleyball teams, she is also active in the yearbook and school newspaper staffs, Drama Club, French Club and Pep Club.

Shana Adkins

Her future plans include attending Michigan State University, where she plans to major in broadcasting.

Cass City AWANA teams compete

Area youth involved in the AWANA program of the First Baptist Church, Cass City, participated in the AWANA Olympics March 18 at Beaverton High School.

The full day of competition was divided up into 3 age brackets: the Sparks, composed of children in grades K-2, the Clubbers (grades 3-6), and the Junior Varsity (grades 7 and 8).

The local Sparks team came home with a first-place trophy in the "A" league, and the Junior Varsity team — in its first competition — brought home a first-place trophy.

The boys' Clubbers team earned third-place in the "A" league. Andrew Adams broke his nose during the first of 10 events, but managed to earn the first-place points in that event, despite his injury.

The girls' Clubbers team also enjoyed success, earning second place in the "A" league.

Blood drives slated

Volunteers will be in the spotlight in April, which has been designated "Volunteer Month", and the American Red Cross is celebrating as the number one volunteer organization in the world.

The Red Cross has scheduled a number of blood drives in April, including 2 in the Cass City area.

The first will be held April 6 from 1 to 6:45 p.m. at Hills and Dales General Hospital, Cass City. The other is slated for April 24 from 2 to 6:45 p.m. in the Owen-Gage High School cafeteria, Owendale.

"Red Cross recognizes the wonderful work of volunteers daily, but especially during the month of April," said Teri Robinson, Red Cross public relations director. "Volunteers serve blood services in many ways, including blood donors, registration, canteen, walking donors and various administrative functions."

Asparagus harvest near

Asparagus is one of the first Michigan crops to come to market in late spring. An asparagus spear can grow up to 10 inches a day, and in peak season, may have to be harvested twice daily. Michigan farmers are the number 3 producers in the nation in asparagus output.

Hawk softball

Pitching, speed is strength of team, says Coach Hoard

The good news for Cass City High School's softball team is the club has 2 solid pitchers returning. The bad news is the team lost 9 seniors by graduation.

Despite the loss, veteran mentor Dave Hoard feels his club will be a solid outfit, capable of defeating any team in the league, although he says Bay City All Saints and Marlette should be considered favorites for the Thumb C National title.

The graduation losses include many of the mainstays of the team in recent years. Jodi LaRoche, an all conference performer, heads the list. Others sure to be missed are Stacey Klinkman, Becky Britt, Denelle DeLong, Kristy Messing, Darcie Monroe, Karla Zinnecker and Sarah Wright.

Last year the team was 22-10. To meet or better that record, the Hawks will need outstanding performance from veterans and help from a promising crew of players up from last season's junior varsity.

The strong mound staff is headed by senior Lisa Burns, who can throw hard with control, and junior LeAnn Deering, up from the junior varsity, is also a fine thrower. Also expected to anchor the team is Marlene Shimer, team captain, who has speed and is good with both the bat and the glove. Jamie Caister is also a good defensive player with speed.

A group of players from the junior varsity is expected to make a significant impact. Among them are Cori Britt, infielder; Jill Wright, catcher; Kelli VanVliet, outfielder, and Joie Humes, infield.

Hoard says that there are holes to fill in the right side of the infield and in the outfield. When the younger players blend with the seniors we should have a good team. One of the biggest problems will be hitting in the early part of the season, the coach feels.

The Hawks are scheduled to open the season Monday, April 3, at Caro.

Hawk baseball outlook

Pitching key to team's success

If pitching is 90 percent of a baseball team's strength, the Cass City Red Hawks should be able to better last year's 18-16 (7-5 in the Thumb C National League) record.

Coach Doug Hall, starting his 8th year at the helm, says that pitching will be the strength of this year's team. Jason Morgan, who was named to the first team all league and district teams last year, is one of the moundsmen. He will also play in the infield. Kevin Storm, also an all-league performer, will also pitch and play the infield.

Catching will be Rob Gnagey, a fine defensive player who can hit with power. Rounding out the returning veterans will be Jim Hempton, whom Hall describes as a real worker who loves to play baseball.

There are 3 other seniors on the team sure to see plenty of action. They are Aaron Biefer, outfielder; Nathan Mastie, infielder, and Brian Graichen, outfielder, pitcher.

Seven players have been lost through graduation. Missed will be Matt Anthony, Steve Muska, Mark Kubacki, John Phillips, Tavis Osentoski, Kris Repshinska and Darren Wallace.

Hall will not predict a league champion this year, saying only that the addition of Bay City All Saints and Cros-Lex promises to make the always competitive Thumb C National even stronger.

Besides the 6 seniors, there are 10 juniors on the squad and how these players develop to fill the holes left by graduation will go a long ways towards deciding just how competitive the Hawks will be this season.

Drivers' informational meeting set in Caro

A community informational meeting will be held April 20 at 1:30 p.m. at the Brentwood in Caro. The topic that will be discussed is the drug and alcohol testing requirements for commercial driver's license holders and the companies that employ them.

Program speakers will be Ron Edwards from the Michigan Trucking Association and Dorothy Millbrandt from Examination Management Services. Edwards will address the group on the general requirements for drug and alcohol testing, including identifying who is affected by this new law. Millbrandt will demonstrate how the drug and alcohol testing will be conducted.

This program is an informational meeting only! It is open to any individual or company interested in this issue. The program should answer the most commonly asked questions about legal requirements of drug and alcohol testing under the new law. Michigan State Police, Motor Carrier Division, personnel will also be on hand to answer any questions the group may have.

Those interested in attending should contact Susan Woern at (517) 673-6574, or Officer Julie Sholten (Caro State Police Post) at (517) 673-2156.

Assault center volunteers' meet set

The Thumb Area Assault Crisis Center (ACC) has announced the schedule for spring volunteer training, April 27 through April 29 at the Human Development Commission in Caro.

Volunteers are needed for several areas of ACC programs including: crisis phone workers, data entry programmer, transporters, public speaking, child care workers, retired or substitute school teachers, and more.

To volunteer or to register for training, please call Charlotte at 1-800-292-3666.

The Thumb Area Assault Crisis Center provides safety, support and prevention services to victims of domestic and sexual violence. ACC provides 24-hour emergency shelter as well as a 24-hour crisis telephone line. For assistance or for more information regarding the other services offered through the Assault Crisis Center, please call the toll-free number.

Morgan second at SVSU meet

The Cass City High School boys' track team opened their schedule Friday, competing for the first time at the Saginaw Valley State University indoor meet.

The Hawks finished 9th among 14 teams attending the Class C-D meet with 16 points.

Jason Morgan, who should become a 3 sport (football, basketball, baseball) All Conference performer at the conclusion of the spring baseball season, led the Hawk thinclads with a second place finish in the shot put. Morgan's efforts were the Hawks' only individual points earned on the day.

The team's other medal winners at the meet were Nick Bliss, Dan Sherman, Cory Regnier and Aaron Romstad, who took second place honors in the 800 meter relay.

The average American consumes about 340 pounds of dairy products a year.

Rebuilding year seen for Cass City boys' track team

Shane Robbins is in his first year as Cass City High School boys' track coach and he will have his work cut out for him. With just 3 players back who qualified for the state meet last season and only 4 seniors on the squad, a .500 season would be an achievement.

Added to the inexperience is the loss of several key performers by graduation. Mike Sherman, who qualified for the state in the 400 meter and 200 meter races and ran a leg on the 800 and 1600-meter relays, is gone. Barry Hornbacher, a distance runner and a runner on the 1600-meter relay team, has graduated.

The strength of this year's club in the field events is in the shot put and the discus, anchored by Jason Morgan, who qualified for the state finals in the shot put. Also back are Dan Sherman and Aaron Romstad, who ran in the 800-meter relay at the state last year.

Area's blood supply at dangerously low level

To meet the blood needs of 30 hospitals and patients throughout its 27-county area, the American Red Cross, Wolverine Blood Region must collect and process at least 250 units of blood daily. A 3-5 day supply of available blood and blood products is ideal, however the Wolverine Region currently has a 1-2 day supply. Blood donors must be 17 years of age or older, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in good health. Modern medicine can perform miracles by transplanting vital organs from one human being to another and perform surgeries through the use of laser technology. However, one miracle cannot be manufactured...the miracle of blood. Blood must come from healthy donors. If you are eligible, please mark your calendar for Thursday, April 6, to donate blood at Hills and Dales Hospital, 4675 Hill Street in Cass City from 1 p.m.-6:45 p.m.

For more information, call 1-(800) GIVE-LIFE.

Blood drive set at school

The Cass City High School Student Council is sponsoring a blood drive March 31, 8:25 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at the high school gym balcony. It is for students, teachers and staff.

Track team lacks depth

Middle finish seen for Hawk girls

Coach Larry Robinson picks a middle of the pack finish for the Cass City Red Hawk girls' track team, which will be led by veterans and bolstered by freshmen and sophomores.

Last year the team won one and lost 2 in the Blue Bay League. This season Robinson feels that his charges will be competitive in the relays, sprints and 400 meters. Middle distance and distance events are questionable, but the potential for improvement is there, he added.

Depth promises to be a problem, but the number of girls on the squad is up from last season.

Among the veterans the Hawks will look to are co-captain Mandy Nizzola in the hurdles and co-captain Amy Burns in the distance events. Shivaugh Rayl is a proven performer in the 400-meter and the relays. She is one of 4 juniors who lettered on the squad. Others are Andrea Cooper, Amy Schelke and LeAnn Foster, who will all compete in the sprints and relays.

Robinson says that the team will be helped by new arrivals. Among them is Becky Laming, a sophomore, who is looked to in the shot and discus. A freshman, Andrea Rea, will compete in the same events and give the Hawks a potent one-two punch.

Other freshmen who should earn points this season include Deanna Stine, 800-meter and high jump; Missy Lowe, distance and high jump, and Jamie Englehart, sprints and long jump.

Robinson points to defending champion Lakers as the team to beat, with a strong challenge from Cros-Lex. They will be followed by Bad Axe, Cass City, Marlette and Bay City All Saints.

Girl Scouts celebrate 83 years

On March 12, 1912, the first Girl Scout troop was formed. Sunday, March 12, 9 Cass City Girl Scouts, along with their families, celebrated the 83rd year of girl scouting. About 100 people attended a potluck banquet held at the VFW hall. After the dinner and cake were served, the program included performances of short skits, singing and awarding of badges to each girl. Several volunteers were also recognized for the time they put towards Girl Scouts. This birthday party event, along with other Girl Scout functions, represents the dedication of time and support by many volunteers and sponsors.

Jeremy Melnik awarded medal

Jeremy J. Melnik has been decorated with the good conduct medal. The medal is awarded to those individuals who depict and demonstrate exemplary conduct, bearing and behavior while serving in the military services. The airman was recently promoted to the rank of senior airman. Melnik, a financial services specialist, is the son of Bev A. Melnik of Ubly and James H. Melnik of Sebawaing. His wife, Nicole, is the daughter of Lawrence L. and Patricia M. Maurer of Ruth. He is a 1991 graduate of Ubly High School.

stall the curb and gutter at a cost of $15,873, and Saginaw Asphalt Co. will pave the road at a cost of $15,329. Four other curb and gutter bids (ranging from $16,786 to $19,240) were submitted. The council also reviewed 3 other paving bids, ranging from $16,220 to $23,614.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

Also Monday, the council:

- Approved a request to abandon the portion of Industrial Street behind Marshall Distributing Inc., 4162 Doerr Rd. The request, submitted by owner Roger Marshall, will give the firm an additional 33 feet of land for future expansion.

- Heard an annual audit report from a Yeo & Yeo representative, who gave the village's books and accounting procedures a clean bill of health after explaining the 1994 audit.

- Approved a village Planning Commission recommendation to change a section of the village zoning ordinance dealing with the installation of television and radio towers.

The changes will allow the Regional Educational Media Center #10, Cass City, to install a 440-foot tower needed to transmit signals for the new Thumb Area Television project. The tower will be located on a parcel located behind Walbro Corp.

- Learned Craig Guernsey recently resigned his position on the Planning Commission. Guernsey resigned after accepting a 3-year assignment with Walbro EMC in Singapore.

- Recognized village police officer Craig Haynes, who received a glowing evaluation from the Michigan Department of State Police regarding his work as the Cass City Schools' D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) instructor.

- Noted appreciation for checks of $2,000 and $300 received from Elkland Township and Novesta Township, respectively, for Cass City recreational programs.

- Rescheduled the May monthly council meeting from May 29 (Memorial Day) to May 22 at 7 p.m.

- Approved the nomination of Haley as Cass City's 1995 Memorial Day Parade chairperson.

The job usually goes to the newest council member, and Kropewnicki — last year's parade chairperson — was quick to continue the tradition by nominating Haley.

Scouts' annual derby a success

The Cass City Cub Scouts and Tiger Cubs of pack 3594 held their annual Pinewood Derby March 18.

The event was deemed a huge success with a very large turnout. In all, 38 Tiger Cubs and Cub Scouts pitted their creations against one another.

The Pinewood Derby is an event shared throughout the country by all Cub Scout packs and it provides several benefits to the entrants. It teaches the young scout to work with tools, shaping a block of pine into a race car and adding weights, axles and wheels. Usually, the boy works closely with a parent, who guides him in the use of any tools and in basic design work.

The race also instills a sense of competition and pride in workmanship as the scout sees his car speeding down a long wooden track next to other cars. Many of the vehicles sport innovative designs or decorations, and awards are given to the best entries in those categories.

Each Tiger Cub and Cub Scout racer received a participation ribbon and a certificate. In addition, many other awards were also presented.

Receiving the prize for the fastest Tiger Cub car was Jeff Wills. The second-place Tiger Cub was Austin LaPorte, and the third-place Tiger Cub was Matthew Bock.

The fastest Wolf Cub Scout car belonged to Jay Lester. The fastest Bear Cub Scout car was the creation of Jacob Skinner, and coming in first for the Webelos was Andy Veneziano.

The overall pack standings for the fastest race cars were Jacob Skinner, first place; Andy Veneziano, second place, and Jay Lester, third place. Special thanks went to Tom Lounsbury for his weigh-in skills and equipment, and numerous volunteers and Boy Scouts that assisted in coordinating the derby.

Sharing the event were the monthly pack awards ceremonies for Cub Scout achievements.

Galen Ponder and Andrew Whittaker each achieved the status of Wolf Scout, and Andrew also received one gold and 2 silver arrow points. Chuck Keiser received the craftsman, aquanaut, artist, citizen, handyman, scholar, scientist and showman badges. Tom Sugden received the craftsman, traveler, aquanaut, artist, citizen, handyman, scholar, scientist and showman badges.

Jeremy Weippert received the craftsman, scholar, showman, citizen, handyman, scientist and sportsman badges. Jerred Glaza received the craftsman, citizen and scientist badges. Jonathan Bock received the craftsman, artist, citizen, family member, scientist and showman badges.

The April pack meeting will be the last one for the summer. However, many events will be taking place over the summer to fill in the gap until the packs start regular meetings again in the fall. The boys will have day camps, overnight camps with parents and sporting events.

Few weeds are okay

Unless you are competing for the best-lawn-in-the-neighborhood award, lawn experts say you don't have to annihilate every single weed in your yard. Up to 10 or 20 percent of your lawn can have weeds without ruining the turf.

ISD name changed

The Tuscola Intermediate Board of Education, at a March 20 meeting, unanimously approved changing the name of Tuscola Area Skill Center to Tuscola Technology Center. The new name will more accurately reflect the sophistication of job preparation and life-long learning for Tuscola County's high school students, adults, and those local growing businesses and industries taking advantage of customized training opportunities for employees.

Technology has changed at a rapid pace and the world of work has changed dramatically. Tuscola Area Skill Center is evolving to meet the challenges of training for higher-wage, higher-skill occupations for students.

TISD Administrators reported that the purchase of computer and "high-tech" equipment and restructured, expanded curriculum for the training site warranted a name change.

Updates throughout the building include state of the art CAD stations in drafting and landscaping; 2 IBM compatible computer labs in the Business Services Technology Cluster; 2 Macintosh computer labs in the Visual Imaging Cluster, which includes the Advertising Design and Graphic Communications programs; a building-wide area network; multimedia stations with video and editing capabilities and full color scanning and printing processes; automated Manufacturing Technology including robotics and programmable logic controllers; an Automotive Technology Cluster, which includes computerized specification and diagnosis libraries, an in-floor driveability diagnostics and testing center, and health care equipment such as a pulse-oximeter, thermocan instant thermometer, oxygen concentrator, and an enteral feeding pump for nursing careers and health occupations training.

The new name will be used beginning this summer and the 1995-96 school year.

Townships discuss budgets, roads

Severance explained the township is now served by the Elkland and Moore Township fire departments.

Saturday's action transfers 6 sections on the east side of the township from those departments to the Argyle Township Fire Department, he said, adding another 3 miles on the south side of the township, previously served by Elkland Township, will now be covered by the Lamotte Township Fire Department.

The purpose of the realignment is to ensure each section in the township is being served by the fire department closest to them, Severance said.

GREENLEAF

The Greenleaf Township Board and 11 electors reviewed a proposed 1995-96 budget set at $74,020, about the same amount spent the previous year.

Revenues are also set at $74,020, according to township Clerk Clare Brown, who said the township carried over another $40,000 from the 1994-95 fiscal year.

He explained the township usually has a sizable carryover fund due to 2 special millage levies, each one mill, for fire protection and road improvements.

Among the township's biggest expenses each year is road work, and 1995-96 is no exception, with about $30,000 earmarked for improvements.

"We're going to go with quite a bit of heavy gravel patch instead of new construction," Brown said. He noted the township spent $37,000 on road work last year.

Other major expenses include fire protection ($10,000), the township dump ($7,500) and ambulance service ($1,334).

Township officials' salaries will remain the same. They are: $2,800 for the supervisor, $2,500 for the treasurer, $2,300 for the clerk and $35 per meeting for trustees.

In other business during the hour-long meeting, Brown said the board discussed whether to brine all roads in the township or continue to brine only in front of residences. It was decided to continue with the current program, which costs $10,000 a year.

NOVESTA

The Novesta Township Board and 8 electors reviewed new and revised spending plans, and discussed waste pick-up service during an hour-long annual meeting in Deford.

A reduced budget for 1995-

96, presented by township Treasurer Ralph Zinnecker, was approved.

Expenditures in the new fiscal year are set at $113,780 and revenues are expected to total $115,000. The new budget represents a decrease of nearly $12,000, or about 10.5 percent, compared to actual spending in 1994-95.

Zinnecker also reviewed the 1994-95 spending plan, saying expenses totaled $125,755. Revenues came in at $168,230, leaving a fund balance of $42,575.

Township Supervisor Maynard Stine outlined planned road work in the coming year, saying the township hopes to re-surface Kelly Road, from Dodge to Warner, and finish up Dodge Road, from Deckerville to White Creek.

In addition, gravel will be placed on selected bad spots on various roads throughout the township, he added.

Stine said the cost to pave 2 miles of road is about $22,000, and grading and draining work on Dodge Road will cost $13,000.

Salaries will remain the same in 1995-96: $5,175 for the supervisor, $3,792 each for the clerk and treasurer, $316 each for the deputy clerk and deputy treasurer, and $960 for trustees.

In other business Saturday, board members and electors briefly debated the future of garbage pick-up in the township.

Currently, residents pay $60 per year for a permit that allows them to take their trash to a pick-up site (township hall) once or twice a month, depending on the time of year.

The problem is that permit sales aren't generating nearly enough funding to cover the cost of the service. The permits raised about $5,500 in 1994-95, however, the township spent $12,400 for waste pick-up service.

"The township has no obligation to do that," commented resident Nurse Kloc. "I have weekly pick-up and I like it," said Dick Root, another elector who estimated he pays about $46 per quarter for the service.

Trustee Ron Patera suggested that eliminating the service might result in a garbage problem, as not everyone could afford to pay for curbside pick-up. "I don't know how many people would just let the junk build up," he added.

Zinnecker suggested that a survey on the topic be circulated among residents, perhaps during an election.

Nothing can be done at this point, he explained, because the township's existing waste service contract won't expire until December.

Also Saturday, those in attendance voted to continue holding an annual meeting, and they learned Southeastern Michigan Gas Co. won't be extending service to Deford in the near future.

Two company representatives in attendance explained that running a gas main from Kingston, some 40,000 linear feet north into Novesta Township would be cost prohibitive at this time.

The problem, they said, is there are only 102 potential customers along the route, compared to the required 35 to 40 homes per mile. Even with an additional surcharge added to help cover construction expenses, it would still cost too much, they added.

However, the men pointed out it may be possible to extend gas service to Deford and other areas of the township in the future, with continued growth and/or the addition of new gas wells closer to the area.

Valuable resource*Protect trees says MSU horticulturist

A wooded lot demands a premium price, so if you've bought such a lot, it certainly makes sense to protect the desirable trees on it.

"Trees often decline and die after construction work is finished," observes Curt Peterson, Extension horticulturist at Michigan State University. "Both new construction and remodeling projects can injure and kill trees."

During construction, trees may be damaged directly by physical wounding or indirectly by changes in the environment.

Careless movement of construction equipment, improper pruning and physical injury caused by trees being removed can cause wounds that then serve as entry points for decay organisms. Excavation and grade changes can reduce the tree's root system or tear and damage major roots. Trenching too close can remove enough major roots to undermine the tree's structural support. Driving heavy equipment over tree roots may bruise or crush them.

The weight of heavy equipment can also compact soil and change the mix of air and moisture in the soil around plant roots, Peterson points out. Combine this with grading that changes the water table -- either to divert water or to increase the soil moisture content -- and trees will suffer.

"Bringing in fill or spreading the subsoil from the basement over existing topsoil also changes the soil environment around tree roots," he adds. "As little as one or 2 inches of heavy clay spread on top of the existing grade may damage sensitive trees such as oaks and conifers."

To protect mature trees from construction damage, first mark the proposed locations of buildings, driveways and other features and determine which trees definitely must be removed, which ones are sufficiently out of the way that they don't need special protection and which ones are unlikely to survive without special care.

"It's a good idea to prioritize trees for saving," Peterson suggests. "Trees directly in the way of construction, weedy tree species, trees that are already in decline and structurally unsafe trees should be marked for removal."

Remove those trees carefully to avoid damaging the ones you want to keep. Then take steps to protect the remaining trees.

Fences built around individual trees or stands of trees can prevent bumps and scrapes and keep heavy equipment out of the root zone. If fencing is not an option, 6 to 12 inches of wood chip mulch over sensitive tree roots can cushion the impact of foot or machinery traffic.

Avoiding grade changes is the best way to protect tree roots. When a grade change can't be avoided, building wells around trees when an area is being filled or retaining walls when the grade is lowered preserves the trees' roots. Though a tree's root system extends well beyond the drip line, the area inside the drip line is usually considered to contain the essential roots. Efforts to prevent root damage should focus on that area, Peterson advises. After construction, regular maintenance -- deep watering during dry periods, soil aeration, mulching, pruning to remove damaged or dead branches, control of potentially serious pests and regular fertilization -- can help stressed trees recover.

Set area compost clinics

Multi-County Recycling will be holding backyard composting workshops in Tuscola County to assist residents in complying with a new state law. Beginning March 27, no yard waste may be landfilled in the State of Michigan. This includes grass, leaves and brush and other tree trimmings less than 4 feet in length and 2 inches in diameter. This does not include stumps, agricultural waste, animal waste, roots, sludge, garbage and diseased or infested yard waste. The workshops are open to anyone and will be held at:

Susan Briggs, Coordinator, will demonstrate how to construct and utilize a variety of compost bins for use in the backyard. Compost is a nutrient rich soil enhancer which may be used throughout your yard and garden. Anyone interested in learning how to compost leaves, grass, weeds, and food waste is encouraged to attend. Also, discover how to compost indoors with red worms, learn why you should mulch with wood chips and grass, and find out what grasscycling means. Instructions will be available so those attending may make their own compost bins at home and many commercial bins will be displayed.

Multi-County Recycling is working under a grant from the Department of Natural Resources to educate citizens and municipalities on composting to adjust to the upcoming ban.

Nation-wide program

Plant extra row for the hungry

Sowing a few extra seeds in your garden this year may seem to not be the most significant way to join the fight against hunger, but come harvest time it will make a world of difference to someone without food.

A new program aimed at wiping out hunger through the help of home gardeners is gaining support throughout the country. Dubbed "Plant a Row," the idea is to enlist gardeners to go a step further during the planting season by laying down an extra row of seeds, resulting in vegetables and fruits that can be donated to local food pantries after they've been picked.

"Plant a Row" organizations have begun springing up around the country thanks to the generosity of gardeners and the encouragement of The Garden Writers Association of America (GWAA), a group of 1,300 journalists interested in horticulture.

"We want to send the message to each gardener that their contributions can really make a difference," says Jeff Lowenfels, president of the GWAA. "Garden writers across the country are already helping to get the word out to close to 100 million gardeners who read magazines and newspapers, listen to the radio and watch TV. Between the garden writers and our nation's gardeners, we can make a tremendous contribution towards ending hunger."

Easy Gardener, Inc., manufacturers of gardening products such as WeedBlock and BioBlock, are supporters of the Garden Writers Association of America, and fully back the "Plant a Row" program.

"Providing fresh fruits and vegetables to the hungry is something Easy Gardener stands behind strongly and we will help to make this program grow," says Boyd Thomas, marketing director for Easy Gardener. "Donations of fruits and vegetables really make a difference in the fight against hunger, and that is a tribute to those gardeners that support this program."

Getting the Most out of Your Garden

Planting one extra row will take up a very small area in the garden. The following are some helpful tips on getting the most out of the space you have.

There are a number of ways to go about raising vegetables. Planting in wider rows, up to 15 inches across, or in blocks, with seeds scattered at random, yields four times as many vegetables than those planted in narrow rows. If your garden is small, planting in blocks will increase your yield.

Another way to boost your harvest is to grow vegetables on vertical supports. This increases the yield per square foot. Planting crops in raised beds, where the soil is in a raised mound several inches above ground level, allows the bed to warm up faster and provides for better drainage.

Lastly, planter boxes mainly used for herbs and spices may produce small yields, but they take up no garden space and can be trimmed throughout the summer for food. Remember, the smallest donations help in the fight against hunger, so whatever planting style you prefer to generate food is the one you should stick with.

After You've Planted

Almost all cities and towns have a food program for the hungry. Many are sponsored by churches, synagogues, the Salvation Army or similar organizations. If you can't locate a food program where you live, contact the county offices, which will direct you to a program.

Lowenfels adds that the hungry are sometimes forgotten about during the warm summer months, but the need for fresh fruit and vegetables remains high even at this time, especially for children.

"During the summer months fresh produce and vegetables are crucial because the gardens can help feed children while free school breakfast and lunch programs are not available," he said. The vitamins and minerals contained in fresh vegetables, as opposed to canned products where some nutrients are lost, will help in child development.

So come August, when the tomatoes are red and the green beans are ready to eat, pick the row designated for the hungry. You're likely to find that your garden once again has provided an abundance of food even after the donation. Plus, you'll have that extra satisfaction that you can only get from sharing with others.

SHARE THE HARVEST — Make a difference this year by joining the Garden Writers Association of America and Easy Gardener in supporting Plant a Row for the Hungry. Simply plant an extra row of vegetables and bring the food to a nearby soup kitchen or homeless shelter.

Cast iron tubs still popular

How many household products can you think of that were made 30, 40 or 50 years ago, that are still in use today and looking good besides?

Give up? Try a cast iron bathtub. Millions have been installed since the turn of the century and are still used every day. These venerable baths owe their longevity to their cast iron construction.

Cast iron is one of the strongest materials known, with a long-lasting beauty that comes from its thick enamel coating, according to Tim O'Conner, manager, Bathing Products, for Kohler

Co., the nation's major producer of cast iron plumbingware.

Because the enamel is a glass surface which has been fused to the cast iron at extremely high temperatures, the finish has a high luster that retains its gloss through repeated scrubbing. In addition, independent tests have shown that the heavy enamel finish on cast iron is less likely than enameled steel to chip, when subjected to direct impact.

Its time-tested durability makes cast iron an excellent choice for a big investment like a whirlpool. FH920873

Today's consumers are discovering the joys of designing with carpet

For today's homeowners, carpet is the floor covering of choice. The luxurious look and feel is the prime reason for its popularity.

But that's not all carpet offers. There's the comfort it provides underfoot, the ease of maintenance, and the warmth it brings to a home. Plus, carpet softens noise and adds a safety factor. And with new advances like built-in crush and stain resistance, carpet is a better value than ever.

But with the ever-expanding range of colors, styles and textures, choosing a carpet can sometimes be confusing. Allied Fibers, manufacturers of Anso CrushResister carpet fiber, has come to the rescue with an informative, beautifully illustrated 16-page guide entitled "The Joy of Designing with Carpet."

This booklet will help you select the right carpet — so you can shop with confidence, even if you're doing it for the very first time. Taking an objective look at how your family lives is the first step in making the right carpet choice. Put yourself through an initial "lifestyle interview" and ask yourself questions — much as a professional designer would ask — such as "In which rooms do I spend most of my time?" and "Do I prefer a casual or formal home environment?"

Once you've identified these lifestyle concerns, you can factor them into the ultimate objective of creating the right mood for the room or area you're carpeting. And that's where color plays a critical role.

"The Joy of Designing with Carpet" recommends choosing a color scheme that feels best to you and also complements the room's function. It also explains how dark colors create a cozy look, how pastels and tints can enlarge a space, and how contrasting colors create energy and excitement. It also reviews the three fundamental color schemes: monochromatic, analogous and complementary.

Carpet style and texture also are important considerations. Surface character varies from style to style, contributing to the casual or elegant look of a room. Velvets are smooth, while friezes are "pebbled," for instance. "The Joy of Designing with Carpet" explains the characteristics of each style and what type of mood they'll help you create.

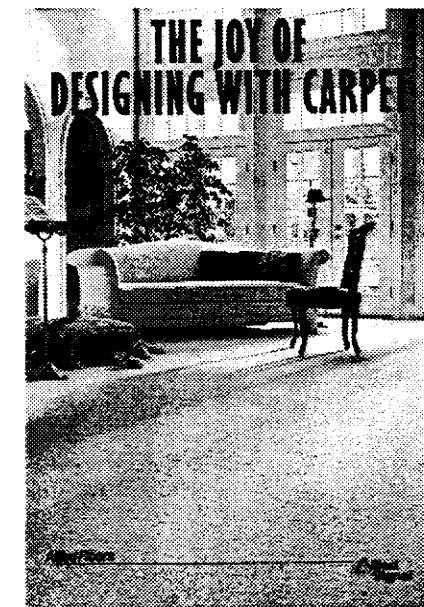

Choosing a quality carpet fiber is also key to your long-term satisfaction. You should keep in mind the old axiom, "You get what you pay for." Higher-quality fibers, like Allied Fibers' Anso CrushResister fiber, means better performance and longer life. Anso CrushResister features Allied Fibers' unique, 100 percent nylon cross-bonding technology, which creates a clean surface appearance and helps the carpet bounce back under foot traffic.

Another shopping tip for extending carpet-life: Buy good quality cushion. It absorbs foot-traffic impact, insulates against cold and noise, and makes for a more comfortable walking surface — and it can add years to the life of your carpet.

Once the carpeting has been ordered, it's a good idea to plan for the delivery: do any painting or wallpapering first, find out whose responsibility it is to move the furniture and whether the installer will remove any old carpeting; trim door bottoms if necessary to allow them to swing freely over the new carpet.

With an informed, enlightened approach to selecting and buying carpet, you'll have the satisfaction of making the right choice and enjoying the beautiful results for years to come.

STYLISH OPTIONS — "The Joy of Designing with Carpet" is a beautifully photographed, full color 16-page guide which provides dozens of proven design tips that will help you select the right carpet and decorate with confidence. For your free copy, call Allied Fibers at 1-800-545-ANSO.

Various types explained

Wallpaper dos and don'ts offered

By Jeff Keller
For News USA

(NU) - Two of the more frequent home improvement tasks also happen to be two of the least popular — removing old wallpaper and hanging a new wallcovering.

Borders are printed paper or vinyl rolls that can be prepasted. Borders can be used alone as decorative trim on painted walls. Borders also can be coordinated with wallcoverings.

For children's rooms, you may wish to paint and decorate with a border and appliques kit that uses the Post-it Note removable adhesive technology. The 3M Room Decorating Kit selection includes Thomas the Tank Engine, Peanuts, dinosaurs and many other designs.

A kit contains colorful, vinyl-like, removable border that surrounds the room. Dozens of repositionable character appliques are placed on the wall to interact with the border scene. Jumbo appliques also are available. To locate the kit at a store near you, call 1-800-999-6554.

Most, but not all, wallcoverings are sold in double or triple rolls. One roll contains 36 square feet. Order more paper than required to cover mistakes and incorrect measurements. The extra paper will ensure that the order comes from the same lot, eliminating color variations.

Standard printed wallpapers are the least expensive and the easiest to hang. Some are prepasted. Tearing is possible if paper is handled roughly. Uncoated surfaces are difficult to clean. Vinyl is bonded to a paper or cloth backing. Colors will not fade quickly from sun exposure and washing. For non-prepasted vinyls, use a mildew retardant adhesive. Use special vinyl-to-vinyl glue for overlaps.

Foils and metallics are shiny papers that reflect light. These papers create glare in sunny areas. Foils direct attention to faults on a wall, so lining paper is needed for less-than-perfect surfaces.

Flocks are modern versions of traditional patterns with raised designs. Washable flocks are easy to handle. Others are difficult to handle and clean. Natural-looking coverings include grass cloth, hemp, burlap and cork.

Embossed coverings are made of paper or plastic. Raised designs can hide minor wall imperfections. Fabrics, such as damask and suede, stretch and are difficult to hang.

Papering over paper, though possible, is risky. The water in wallpaper paste can loosen old layers of paper, forcing them to pull away from the wall.

Keller

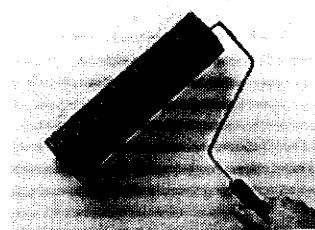

Unless the wall is too fragile to risk paper stripping, the wise choice is to remove old paper and paste. New coverings always will adhere better to a stripped wall. Here is a combination of new and old removal methods.

New gel: 3M Wallpaper & Paste Remover is a quick-acting, water-based formula that penetrates all wallpaper, including grass cloth and foil, for easy removal in 20 to 30 minutes. It also removes paper backing and paste residue.

Benefits: Ready to use, no mixing required; no prior paper scoring that could mark walls; saves working time; permits vertical cling to reduce mess; won't damage walls and surrounding woodwork.

Soaking: Some coverings need to be roughened with coarse sandpaper or a wire brush before being soaked with hot water. Scoring methods can scratch and damage walls.

Chemical removers: All are diluted in water before use. Most recommend applying multiple coats before trying to remove the wallpaper. All products suggest scoring waterproof wallpaper before application.

Steaming: For papers that do not respond to soaking, an electric steamer will allow steam to penetrate areas resistant to water. The steamer plate must be held firmly against the wall. In about three minutes, the paper around the plate will dampen and darken. The plate must be moved to an adjacent area of the same strip of paper and the process repeated. When an entire strip has been exposed to steam, it can be removed.

The machine is heavy and users may risk skin burns from both the steam and hot machine.

Dry-stripping: Many vinyl and vinyl-coated coverings and some other kinds of wallcoverings can be stripped from walls without soaking or steaming. Scrapers and other hand-held tools can be used. It can be a time-consuming process. If not pulled correctly, paper backing may rip unevenly. This will result in a rough, uneven surface.

Jeff Keller can be heard nationwide every Saturday morning on the "Mr. Handyman" show. Check local radio listings for time and station.

Consumption of organic foods increasing rapidly in USA

(NU) - After years of hearing that Americans are eating more fast, fatty and fiberless foods, here's some good news: Consumption of organic foods is on the rise.

The result could be tastier, healthier food, cleaner soil and water, and a new lease on life for small family farms.

"Organic" used to be a vague term used by roadside markets and health food stores. But in 1990, the federal government established specific standards for producers and handlers of products labeled "organic."

Basically, organic crops are grown without toxic and persistent fertilizers, pesticides or additives. Soil is replenished using biological activity — through crop rotations, recycling organic wastes and minimal, balanced application of natural minerals. Organic meat is produced by feeding animals only organic feed; growth promoters, hormones, antibiotics and synthetic additives are prohibited.

The goal is to emulate natural ecosystems, which achieve stability through diversity and the recycling of energy and nutrients.

try, while still a small segment of the enormous U.S. food market, has established a strong foothold with the American public and is growing rapidly, according to the nonprofit Organic Trade Association, a 10-year-old organization that represents leading organic growers, shippers, processors, distributors and retailers.

Organic food producers say they're experiencing strong growth — 20 to 25 percent a year. The association says sales of organic products have grown from $178 million in 1980 to almost $2 billion today. Of all new foods and beverages introduced, nearly 6 percent are organic.

For more information about organic foods, call the Organic Trade Association at 1-413-774-7511.

Match tree with site

Spring is ideal time to plant trees

Early spring, before trees have started to grow, is an ideal time to plant trees, especially evergreens but also deciduous species. Dormant planting gives them a chance to get their roots established in the new location before new top growth begins and well before winter.

The first steps in tree planting are selecting the site and an appropriate tree, says Curt Peterson, Extension horticulturist at Michigan State University. Cold hardiness, adaptation to the site conditions, tree size and shape, the presence or absence of flowers and fruits, fall color, susceptibility to insect pests or disease, and a host of other considerations go into tree selection.

Once you have the tree on site, proper planting is essential to its success in the landscape.

-- Dig a large planting hole. In loamy, well drained soils, the hole should be as deep as the root ball and about twice as wide. The aim is to provide a large volume of loosened soil through which the roots can move easily and rapidly, Peterson explains.

In heavy clay sites with poor drainage, he often recommends digging a shallow hole and setting the root ball in it, then filling in and building up a mound of normal topsoil over and around the roots.

"If you merely set the root ball in a hole in the clay, water that gets into the planting hole will be very slow to drain out," he observes. "The roots may rot and the tree may not survive."

-- Remove all plastic burlap, plastic pots, wire, plastic cord or other materials that could constrict root growth or girdle the trunk as the tree grows.

-- Backfill the hole. Look for a change in color on the bark of the trunk to indicate the previous soil level. The newly planted tree should be covered to that level when you're finished. Firm the soil gently around the root ball with a shovel or your hands. After filling the hole half way, water to settle the soil and eliminate air pockets. Then continue filling and water again. Do not use your feet to tamp around the tree base -- this compacts the soil and may damage the roots.

-- Form a ridge of soil 2 to 4 inches high around the outside edge of the hole to create a reservoir for watering.

-- Support the tree, if necessary, to keep it from being wind-whipped or blown over. Use one stake on the windward side, 2 stakes on opposite sides, or 3 equally spaced for a large tree. Place stakes carefully to avoid injuring the roots. To protect the bark, use woven belt fabric or rope or wire passed through a section of garden hose to connect the tree to the stakes. Plan to remove the stakes at the end of the first growing season.

-- Mulch over the root zone. Two to 4 inches of leaf litter, shredded bark, aged wood chips or other organic material conserves soil moisture and protects newly planted trees from extremes of heat and cold. It also reduces weed competition for moisture and nutrients and eliminates the need to mow next to the trunk -- this helps prevent "lawn mower blight" and other injuries to the bark.

Avoid using fresh wood chips or sawdust, he cautions -- these materials will tie up the available nitrogen in the soil as they decompose, making it unavailable for the trees.

-- Water regularly during dry periods. Water deeply to moisten the entire root zone, but avoid overwatering, especially in poorly drained clay soils -- roots that stand in saturated soil for long periods will die and rot.

Fertilizing at planting time with granular fertilizers is generally not recommended, Peterson notes, though applying liquid fertilizers once or twice during the first year is OK. Generally, he advises waiting a year until the tree is well established before fertilizing.

Small space garden tips offered

Lack of space for a traditional garden doesn't mean you can't grow flowers or even vegetables. If you have a balcony, a patio or a postage stamp-sized lot or even a wide window sill, you can garden in containers.

The main requirements for most vegetables and many flowers are a spot that receives at least 5 to 6 hours of direct sunlight per day, containers, well drained soilless planting mix, water and fertilizer.

All sorts of containers will work, says Mary McLellan, Master Gardener coordinator at Michigan State University. Ordinary clay flower pots, plastic pots, bushel baskets, half barrels, wooden boxes and even the bags the planting mix comes in can hold a variety of plants.

How large a container you need depends on what you want to grow. Choose containers to hold plants when they reach their mature size. For a pepper plant, for instance, a 10-inch pot should be large enough; chives could flourish in a 6-inch pot, while a standard tomato plant might need a laundry tub-sized container.

"Different types of containers have pros and cons in various situations," she points out. "Clay pots, for instance, break and cost quite a bit, though they come in a wide range of sizes and shapes and they're easy to find. They're also heavy -- which can be a plus if you're growing a top-heavy plant like a staked tomato, but a disadvantage if you need to move your container garden."

No matter what type of container you use, it must have drainage holes in or near the bottom to let excess water drain away from plant roots, she says. Waterlogged roots quickly rot.

Water -- either too much or not enough -- is frequently the limiting factor for container-grown plants. The planting mix in containers tends to dry out quickly. Plants often need daily watering. In hot, dry, windy weather, you may need to check them and water even more often to keep them from wilting.

Plants in containers need frequent fertilization to provide the nutrients for growth, McLellan points out. Water-soluble fertilizers mixed according to label directions are easy and convenient to use with container plants.

Available sunlight often determines or limits your choice of plants. Plants that need full sun -- tomatoes, peppers, bush squash, snap beans, and flowering annuals such as marigolds, geraniums, petunias and zinnias -- need at least 6 hours of direct sunlight each day. Shade-tolerant annuals such as coleus and dusty miller and perennials such as tuberous begonias will do well in a spot that receives morning sun and light shade the rest of the day. Leafy vegetables such as lettuce and spinach and root vegetables such as radishes and carrots tolerate some shade.

Even sun-loving plants may suffer in a spot where they receive direct afternoon sun, especially if it's reflected back onto them from a nearby light-colored wall. In an unshaded western or southern exposure, even full-sun plants may wilt on hot summer days.

In vegetables, particularly, selecting the right variety can make a big difference.

"Plant breeders have developed many varieties specifically for growing in containers," she notes. "These so-called patio varieties are often highly productive for their size."

Bush varieties of crops such as snap beans and summer and winter squash are also well suited to container culture, as are herbs, chives, green onions, radishes, greens and other crops that need little space. Crops that ordinarily require a lot of garden space to produce in any quantity -- sweet corn, potatoes, peas, vining squash, pumpkins -- are not well suited to containers.

Garden pests and weeds can occur in container-grown plants, McLellan points out.

In containers as in traditional garden plots, mulch can discourage weeds and help retain soil moisture. Pest control can be easier in container gardens than in larger scale plantings because the need for daily watering means you have a chance to spot pest problems while they're still small. Careful monitoring of plants and hand removal of potato beetles from eggplants, for instance, or tomato hornworms from tomato plants may enable you to avoid using pesticides altogether.

Wind damage, on the other hand, may be more of a problem in a container garden than in a traditional garden.

Gardens poorly kept waste water

As gardeners continue to become more and more environment-conscious, it's not surprising to learn that the latest buzzword in yard care is "conservation." From backyard composting to using drip irrigation, gardeners everywhere are starting to employ techniques and equipment that will conserve time as well as water and other precious natural resources.

To help keep the flowers, shrubs and trees in your landscape looking beautiful all season long, and conserve water at the same time, try implementing a few of these water-friendly practices suggested by the experts at DIG Corporation, manufacturers of the Drip Watering Kit and Microsprinkler Kit.

Landscape Maintenance

Experienced gardeners know that overgrown trees, shrubs and poorly maintained lawns aren't just eyesores; they're also tremendous water wasters. The truth is that a well-manicured plant uses water much more efficiently than an overgrown one, so water-conscious homeowners should try to keep their plants properly trimmed and pruned at all times.

overgrown and needs to be cut back more dramatically, additional trimming may be necessary.

A "thinning" cut removes old limbs at the base of the shrub, allowing light to reach the interior of the plant, thereby encouraging new growth. A "heading" cut takes the branch only as far back as the bud, which stimulates side branching, enabling the plant to grow more compactly over time.

For the lawn, it's best to mow often but not too closely, never removing more than one-third of the grass height in a single cutting. A more severe or deeper cut will leave grass plants more susceptible to scalding, troublesome pests and a variety of diseases than can damage or kill the lawn. As a rule, cut more frequently when grass is growing rapidly and less often when growth slows during mid-summer months. By mowing at the tallest height appropriate for your grass, you can also reduce weed problems. A healthy, full turf will be much thicker and naturally more resistant to any invading weeds or lawn pests.

Drip Irrigation

Perhaps one of the easiest steps you can take to help rejuvenate the natural beauty of your landscape and save water is to prune properly. To start, remove all of the dead or injured branches from shrubs and trees using pruning scissors, being sure to trim any weak, spindly growths. If a shrub is seriously

To reduce the amount of time spent around the yard watering by hand or sprinkler, and to ease the burden on precious water supplies, homeowners should consider installing a drip irrigation system around trees, shrubs and in flower beds.

Essentially, drip irrigation systems use

HOME &amp; GARDEN FEATURES

GET WATER WISE — A great looking garden doesn't have to mean high water bills. A drip irrigation system, such as the Microsprinkler Kit from the DIG Corporation will not only reduce water bills and conserve precious water, but will result in lush plant growth.

flexible plastic tubing with drip emitters to dispense water slowly and precisely to a plant's root zone. Drip irrigation is ideally controlled by an automatic timer, which eliminates over- and under-watering problems. In addition, the drip systems operate in gallons per hour as opposed to the gallons per minute used by sprinklers, so very little water is lost to evaporation and runoff, and large areas can be watered more efficiently from a small water source.

If installing a system sounds like an expensive proposition and a lot of work, guess again. Drip irrigation kits, such as DIG's Drip Watering Kit, can run as low as about $15 and are quite consumer-friendly.

In fact, with a little pre-planning systems can be in place in an afternoon.

Having a lush, beautiful landscape doesn't mean you have to have an outrageous water bill. With some advance consideration and a bit of creativity, designing a yard with colorful flowers and shrubs can be fun, inexpensive and water-friendly.

To educate homeowners about drip irrigation and how it works, DIG Corporation offers a free consumer booklet on the subject. Simply send a self-addressed, stamped #10 envelope to: DIG Booklet Offer, 130 Bosstick Blvd., San Marcos, CA 92069.

Proper mowing necessary for better lawn care

Of course, the basic function of any mower is to cut grass. The following are basic guidelines that will lead to a nice cut and a healthier lawn:

- Cut Modestly — no more than one-third of a grass blade should be cut in one mower pass. A lawn grown excessively tall can be brought under control by a two-step mowing regimen. First, mow at the machine's highest setting. Second, mow again in a few days at one setting lower. This gradually removes excess blade length and conditions the plant for subsequent mowings.

- Cut High — a lawn cut high is better equipped to stay green and growing through periods of dry spells than one cut low. Optimal height is 2 1/3 to 3 inches.

- Cut Clean — keep a sharp blade on the mower at all times to ensure a clean, crisp cut. Dull blades tear grass and leave ragged edges that turn an unsightly brown.

- Cut Dry — wet grass makes it easy for the operator to slip and difficult for the machine to cleanly cut and discharge clippings. For safety's sake, and the lawn's, wait until moisture from dew, irrigation and rainfall has dried.

- Cut Often — mowing twice a week during heavy growth periods is easier on lawns than maintaining a rigid weekly schedule. Frequently mowing means less blade is cut and clippings, in return, will decompose more quickly. Weekly mowing is okay during summer, when growth has naturally slowed.

- Let Clippings Lie — mulching mowers such as the Mulchinator series from Ryobi eliminate the need to bag clippings. Turf experts say grass clippings return so much nutrition to soil that homeowners can skip one lawn feeding each year if clippings are left to decompose, rather than being bagged and carted off.

- Cut Attentively — pay attention to what you're doing, nearby children and pets. Look out for rocks and other objects that could be thrown if caught under the mower deck.

Of course, lawn care is more than good mowing practices. Regular feeding is a must. Three feedings yearly are recommended, the most important being applied in November, which nourishes grass roots for spring.

Plenty of water is vital. Lawns need an average of one inch of water weekly. If rainfall isn't adequate, water heavily once a week or lightly several times a week. Turf experts aren't sure which of the two approaches is best.

What does seem sure is that smart cutting combined with prudent care methods will lead to a healthy, thick turf; and that condition isn't only a beautiful sight but an effective defense against drought, weeds, insects and disease.

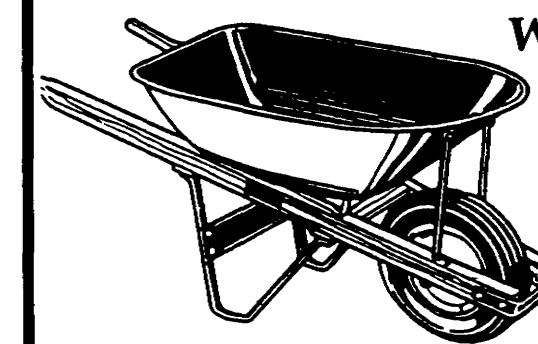

Ryobi customer service fields more than 40,000 calls a month from consumers. If you have any questions about the Mulchinator call 1-800-525-1579.

Students producing bargain sheds

Sometime just before the end of the current school year, a pair of area homeowners each will be receiving a storage shed at a bargain price, thanks to the efforts of 8 students in a carpentry class taught by Dave

Hoard at Cass City High School. The course is considered advanced carpentry and building the sheds is the end product of 2 years of training. After beginning classes taken one year, the students are eligible to get into Hoard's advanced carpentry class.

The first semester is devoted to book training and the visiting of residential building sites to witness actual construction work.

Work on the buildings started in January. When finished, each unit will have about $1,000 worth of materials in it, which will be paid by the persons receiving the sheds.

It evidently is a bargain. Hoard said that he announced the project in the student newspaper and received about 10 requests for the sheds. We "sold" them on a first come, first served basis, he added.

Receiving the units will be Alden Asher and Wayne Dillon.

Building sheds for residents as a hands-on project at the school is not new, but it has been 3 years since any were built by a class.

Low enrollment made us abandon the class for 3 years,

Hoard explained. Previously we constructed 2 a year for several years.

For most of the class the construction work is a new learning experience. Among the 8 only Jeff Powell and Brent Morley had any building experience outside of the class.

While the boys do the construction, they are closely monitored by Hoard. While gathering this story the teacher had to excuse himself to stop the boys, who had nailed a board incorrectly. The board was removed after the teacher patiently explained why it had been nailed incorrectly.

The buildings have approximately the same total space. The taller of the 2 is 8 feet wide and 12 feet long. The shorter building is 10 feet wide and 12 feet long.

The taller shed will be completed with vinyl siding. The short shed will be of rough sawn fir.
