Hunter appointed trustee

O-G board okays new budget

The Owen-Gage Board of Education appointed a new board trustee, and approved a proposed 1995-96 budget during a special meeting held last week in the Owendale High School library.

The board unanimously voted in favor of the nomination of Paul Hunter of Gagetown to fill a vacancy left by Lisa McIlvenna, who recently resigned.

If he accepts the appointment, Hunter would serve until the next regular school election in June 1996. He would then have the option of seeking reelection to complete the remaining 2-years of McIlvenna's 4-year term.

Turning to finances, school Supt. Manuel Thies outlined the 1995-96 spending plan, saying the budget is tentative at best and will likely undergo several changes over the next several months as school officials receive more definite information regarding state funding.

He noted approval of a budget at this time meets a state mandate requiring schools to draft a budget and hold a hearing prior to the start of the new fiscal year.

Thies estimated expenditures will total $1.79 million in 1995-96, about the same as the previous year.

The total is composed of $603,200 for elementary instruction and support staff, $822,703 for secondary instruction and support staff, $40,000 for elementary and secondary supplies, $30,000 for capital outlay, $200,000 for plant operation and maintenance, $90,000 in transportation costs, and $5,000 in interest for money borrowed in anticipation of future revenue.

On the revenue side, Thies estimates funding will total $1.797 million in the next school year.

The biggest source of funding — state aid — will total about $1.66 million, some $47,000 more than in 1994-95. Thies explained the 3-percent hike, from $5,200 per pupil to $5,353 per pupil, represents the incremental increase promised by the state.

Other funding sources in 1995-96 include: $60,527 in non-homestead tax revenue, $48,000 in interest on investments, and $63,500 in Chapter I and II dollars.

Thies promised the board a more detailed picture of the budget at the regular July meeting, but again emphasized the numbers will only be estimates until school officials have a handle on a number of variables, including enrollment, which determines the amount of state funding the district will receive.

In other business during the June 28 special session, the board approved the hiring of Joel Douglas.

The new teacher earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in history from Grand Valley State University and a teacher's certification in history and social studies from Western Michigan University, according to high school Please turn to back page.

Although dark skies threatened Cass City early in the weekend, sun and cooler than normal temperatures took center stage Saturday, lifting spirits high at the 17th Annual Fourth of July festival.

"From my personal standpoint, I thought it went very well," commented festival co-chairman Alan Sward. "I think we're very lucky sometimes," he continued, referring to the festival's tradition of nice weather.

And judging from his experiences at the Lions Pavilion, the crowds were hungry. Sward helped fellow Lions Club members serve up chicken dinners in the afternoon and bratwurst in the evening — both menus sold out.

"On an overall basis, it was a wonderful day," he remarked.

"We certainly look forward to doing it next year," said festival co-chairman Jim Ceranski.

Festival coordinator Jane Hittler said she thought the threat of rainy weather might have kept some people away, but added each event she attended was a success.

"There is just so much work entailed in every little detail of the event," Hittler explained.

"The kids' games were fantastic. We had twice or 3 times as many games as we've had in years past," she observed, adding there were continuous lines at each event geared toward children.

"It does reaffirm the fact that this is a family event, and it's very healthy for kids and adults alike," she said. "And until kids can go out on their own, they have to go to these things with at least one parent."

One such family event was the greased pig contest, which drew some 40 children, prompting event organizer Charlie Carpenter to open a 3rd division.

Zach Dorland, 8, caught one of 2 pigs donated by the Dave Little family in the 9-year-old and under category; 10-year-old Travis Jensen beat 8 other 10- to 12-year-old boys to take home the $10 prize; and Erin McMahan, 12, won in the 10- to 12-year-old girls division.

A little less energy was required of those who earlier in the day joined the crowd on Main Street to watch the parade.

"I thought the parade crowd was excellent," Ceranski commented.

"The clowns were wonderful, and we had a few extra clowns around," Hittler remarked.

Featured in the parade were this year's 4 award-winning floats, including the Thumb National Bank President's Award winner.

Shabbona United Methodist Church's float was judged the Most Sentimental with its praying hands bursting out of a globe; the judges voted the First Presbyterian Church of Cass City's float to be the Prettiest Float; and the Octagon Barn float took the Most Original Award.

Following the parade, many festival-goers made their way to the north end of the Cass City Recreational Park to watch the Thumb Area Tractor Pulling Association's truck and tractor pull.

Pull organizer Sharon Brown said enough people attended the pull to raise the more than $2,000 needed to pay the bills.

"Everyone that came in just had a great time," Brown commented, adding many local businesses supported the pull financially.

"We would not have been able to come in without their support," she said.

But a handful of people watched the pull from outside the roped-off area without paying, causing Brown and her husband Bruce to consider not returning to the festival next year.

They are looking to find a tall fence to close off the pull arena in the future.

"If you have it every year, you keep having more people coming," she remarked. The association could put on a bigger show with more attendance.

And inside the pull, everything ran like clockwork, producing a 2 1/2 hour show.

"It was a real nice pull,"

Brown said.

At the other end of the park, a constant crowd populated the lawn around the expanded music program in the gazebo, signaling its success, Hittler said.

And program organizer Jan Moore said the show went off without a hitch.

Just north of the gazebo, the battle raged on in the 7th Please turn to back page.

Goodchild hired as new Kingston superintendent

A veteran Montrose School District official will take over the reins as superintendent of the Kingston School District.

The Kingston Board of Education last week hired George Goodchild, 50, after narrowing a field of more than a dozen candidates to just 2; Goodchild and Andrew Cook of Swartz Creek.

Interviews of the finalists were held in May and the school board offered Goodchild the job during its June 26 monthly meeting.

Goodchild, who has 17 years of administrative experience, has spent the bulk of his 29-year career in education in the Montrose School District, where he currently serves as supervisor of operations.

The husband and father of 3, has also served as a middle school principal, assistant high school principal, technology coordinator, security director, state/federal programs director, community education director, public relations director and curriculum director.

Goodchild earned his Bachelor of Arts degree at Michigan State University, and his master's degree at Eastern Michigan University.

He has completed a number of hours beyond his master's and is certified both as a superintendent and central office administrator.

He is a veteran, having served with the U.S. Air Force during the Vietnam war.

Goodchild's salary as the new Kingston superintendent hasn't been set yet.

"A contract is now being negotiated and he will be coming on board in July," said current Supt. Jerry H. Laycock, who is retiring after 40 years in education, including 12 years at the helm of Kingston Schools.

DeLong part of effort to help Kenya preserves

by Melissa B. Turmo

Some 14 rolls of film showing the Kenyan countryside remain undeveloped in Sharie DeLong's bags, but the papers and presentations she helped write could already be aiding the country's wildlife service to preserve its national parks.

The Cass City native recently spent 3 weeks looking for ways to make 5 wildlife preserves better places for the animals that live in them. The Michigan State University senior traveled and worked with 16 other college students, 2 university professors and the chairman of the Kenya Wildlife Service, Perez Olindo.

"I feel like we've helped him think things through more," DeLong commented. "I know it's always better to have 10 minds working on a problem instead of one."

Together, the students developed management plans to combat problems including overgrown plants, declining animal populations and the negative effects of tourism.

"We were busier than the professors thought we'd be."

DeLong studied in Kenya from June 1 to June 24 as part of a first-year program organized through MSU's fisheries and wildlife program.

"Anytime you do something for the first time, there will be kinks," she said. "But for the most part, everything went great."

Like DeLong, the majority of the students on the trip were fisheries and wildlife majors, although students studying subjects from political science to business came too.

She said the work proved frustrating for those other majors, but added, "the fisheries and wildlife majors, we all learned a lot and we all appreciated what we learned."

By 6 a.m. each day, the group piled into the vans that took them through each park where they made the first steps toward developing solutions.

For example, "in some of the parks, there's a concern that the animal densities are low," DeLong explained.

Leslie Merchant, a delivery driver for United Parcel Service, was recently recognized by the company for completing 20 years of driving without an accident.

Merchant works out of the UPS facility located in Cass City.

"It's basically just working at safety all the time. You have to drive your vehicle plus everyone elses to insure safety. Also, don't get ahead of yourself, it develops bad habits," said Merchant.

It's probably worth the price of the books just to realize that even erudite lawyers sometimes say stupid things. Here are a few excerpts:

Q. Now, Mrs. Johnson, how was your first marriage terminated?

A. By death.

Q. And by whose death was it terminated?

Q. Doctor, did you say he was shot in the woods?

A. No, I said he was shot in the lumbar region.

Q. Are you married?

A. No, I'm divorced.

Q. And what did your husband do before you divorced him?

A. A lot of things I didn't know about.

Q. Now, you have investigated other murders, have you not, where there was a victim?

Q. What is your name?

A. Ernestine McDowell.

Q. And what is your marital status?

A. Fair.

Q. And who is this person you are speaking of?

A. My ex-widow said it.

Q. What happened then?

A. He told me, he says, "I have to kill you because you can identify me."

Q. Did he kill you?

A. No.

Q. Mrs. Jones, is your appearance this morning pursuant to a deposition notice which I sent to your attorney?

A. No. This is how I dress when I go to work.

Q. (Showing man picture) That's you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you were present when the picture was taken, right?

Q. When he went, had you gone and had she, if she wanted to and were able, for the time being excluding all the restraints on her not to go, gone alone, would he have brought you, meaning you and she, with him to the station?

Mr. Brooks: Objection. That sentence should be taken out and shot.

Q. The truth of the matter is that you were not an unbiased objective witness, isn't it? You, too, were shot in the fracas?

A. No sir. I was shot midway between the fracas and the navel.

Case dismissed.

(And anyone else he can get to help.)

We stopped at J. B. Brighton House, 10180 Grand River, Brighton, because there was a parking lot nearly filled with cars and we assumed a restaurant that attracted that many customers must have something to offer.

It did. Ordered was Marlin steak and sauted shrimp. The fish was good, the shrimp very good. They were big and cooked in a special sauce and there was a lot of them. Potatoes and salad were okay, but not anything out of the ordinary.

Service was good. What made it good was the boss who visited our table twice to help out with coffee, water and other details to aid the busy waitress.

All-in-all it was a pleasant experience. The cost for 2 was $32.80.

A reprint of a poll taken by the local paper rated the restaurant as tops in several categories including a place with atmosphere to dine inexpensively. (Inexpensively? Obviously they never have been in a Cass City restaurant).

Anyway on the one to 10 scale it rates about a 6 3/4.

The Harold Isard golf open is a tournament for members of the Cass City Golf League and is strictly a "for fun" event. Members anti up a buck per team for a small prize that goes to the winner.

The 20th running of the tourney in memory of Isard was held June 26. This year's winners were Ernie Bellew, Jim Apley, Jack Burns and Duane Henn.

Idle note: Dorland Kuntz has been a part of the administration for several years now, but became a full-time administrator with his appointment as high school principal.

He's come full circle since his days as a teacher. When he was in the classroom he also served as the president of Cass City Teacher's Association and was one of the chief negotiators.

And this was at the time when there was no such thing as a one-meeting settlement between teachers and the school district.

PROGRESS IN EDUCATION

from the desk of Ken Micklash, Superintendent

This past spring our school district was awarded a grant from the Michigan Educational Leadership Collaborative along with thirteen other schools from across the state. The purpose of this grant is to assist schools with the development of ideas and methods which will ultimately strengthen staff and community involvement with their local schools.

Districts in addition to Cass City, that will be involved with this project include: Lakeview, Bellevue, Carman-Ainsworth, Carsonville-Port Sanilac, Wyoming, Novi, Hartford, Bridgeport-Spaulling, Northport, Traverse City, Jackson, Allen Park and Detroit.

One of the key elements to successful planning must include communication. Since the vast majority of our community obtains school related information by reading the Cass City Chronicle, this space will be used to help community members become more informed of school related issues.

Obviously, one of our most prevalent issues relates to the necessity to deal with our middle school building concerns. Several of the upcoming articles will address this very important topic. Other areas of importance which will be addressed, just to name a few include: School funding, substance abuse, curriculum improvements, school to work, MEAP information, accreditation, school safety, etc., etc.

It is my hope that by strengthening channels of communication between our school and community we will help people gain a better understanding of school related issues and thus, improve the educational opportunities for our entire community.

If you have questions that you would like addressed please send them to me at the following address.

MADD OF MICHIGAN last week presented a Preliminary Breath Tester (PBT) to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department's Marine Division. MADD donates PBT

The summer months and holidays are some of the deadliest times of the year on Michigan's roads and waterways. Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) wants to change that.

To emphasize the importance of safe and sober driving and boating, MADD has donated a portable alcohol testing device, called a Preliminary Breath Tester (PBT), to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department's Marine Division.

PBTs are used by law enforcement when drivers are stopped on suspected drunk driving violations. The device offers a simple, accurate and economical method of determining blood alcohol levels.

Penny Fleischmann, administrative assistant, MADD, Michigan, presented the PBT to Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern and Undersheriff James Fyvie last week.

"MADD is pleased to help provide the necessary tools to the law enforcement officers who are out there on the front line in the battle to save lives and stop drunk driving," she said.

"During the summer months when so many more people take to the roads and waterways, we are asking that they make their plans to include an alcohol-free designated driver."

Beginning Memorial Day weekend and continuing through Labor Day weekend, MADD is promoting "Keep it a Safe Summer" (KISS), a public awareness campaign focusing on alcohol-free driving and boating.

Fleischmann urged area residents to consider the traffic crash death toll involving alcohol and other drugs for Michigan's 1994 summer holidays: Memorial Day weekend, 69.2 percent (9 of the total 13 fatalities); Fourth of July, 36.8 percent (7 out of 19 fatalities); and Labor Day weekend, 36.4 percent (4 out of 11 fatalities).

Over the course of 1994, 37.4 percent of the traffic fatalities (530 of the total 1,419) involved alcohol or other drugs, according to state police statistics.

MADD's mission is to stop drunk driving and support victims of this violent crime. As part of a national program, MADD volunteers in Michigan are promoting the KISS message in their home communities by participating in special events; parades, local festivals, fairs and programs.

The Haire Net

I won't lose a minute of sleep over governor John Engler's decision to keep casino gambling out of the metro areas and confined to Indian reservations. In the past, his vote would have been vigorously applauded because the thought here was that convenient gambling was a loaded gun ready to wreck havoc on folks who were least able to afford it.

The assumption is still valid. What has diluted my opposition is the wide spread and accessibility of casino gambling already in place.

Just last week the Bay City Times reported that the Standish-Pinconning area might get a casino in the Whites Beach area.

Today, Whites Beach isn't much. I visited it about 4 years ago and the same old bar that was there that operated in the 1940s was still going along about like I remembered it a half century ago.

Building would be on the Saginaw Chippewa reservation and the tribe has already donated over $100,000 to the townships of Standish and Lincoln for road improvements, ambulance service, fire equipment and drain work.

That would make casino gambling available in Standish, Mt. Pleasant and Traverse City area in the Lower Peninsula and at 4 or more locations in the Upper Peninsula.

Combine that with the casino in Windsor and others that are on the drawing board in Canada, barring other casinos to curb gambling is almost like beating a dead horse.

There's doubt of course about the long-term economic boost that casinos bring. There's no doubt that under the present set up it is a long-term and a short-term bonanza to the Indians.

Any business you care to name would be happy to operate like the Indian casinos. They are under no regulatory supervision from government. No forms, no taxes, no hassle, just count the money as it pours in. All that and a monopoly, too.

Considering all this, there is still mild opposition to allowing gambling off reservation in metro areas.

But if gambling comes to Detroit under the subterfuge of selling land to the Indians, then open it to true competition.

Given today's trend, it would be surprising if casino gambling wasn't available in our major cities by the turn of the century or soon after.

If that day comes to pass, it shouldn't be run as an Indian monopoly but as just another competitive, state-regulated business.

"If It Fitz...."

Hypocrisy surrounds debate on gambling

By Jim Fitzgerald

Casino gambling is "moral and economic insanity," said Oakland County Prosecutor Richard Thompson at a news conference with the Christian Coalition.

Sure. But if Detroit had gotten casino gambling, Oakland County wanted it, too. Oakland County Executive L. Brooks Patterson said so, strongly.

Patterson agrees casino gambling is a social ill and not the right answer to economic problems. But, if Gov. John Engler had said yes to that moral and economic insanity in Detroit, Patterson would demand the same insanity for Oakland County.

That would provide a splendid example of bravely standing up for your moral and economic principles. If prostitution were legalized in Wayne County, would Oakland County follow suit? What would the Christian Coalition think?

According to Patterson, it would be strictly a matter of competition. If neighboring Detroit went morally and economically crazy for casinos, Oakland county would have to do the same.

Otherwise, Oakland county would be forced to remain morally and economically sane?

Just as Detroit, against its voters' will, is now forced to be morally and economically sane while, just across the river, Windsor is going morally and economically nuts playing slot machines?

Please pass my throw-up pot.

GAMBLING REVENUE WOULD HELP A LITTLE

No rational person ever claimed casino gambling would "save" Detroit economically. It would just help a little; provide a few thousand jobs, keep a few million dollars here that would otherwise be spent in Windsor.

Similarly, no rational person ever claimed the state lottery and horse betting would "save" Michigan economically. It just helps a little. So little, in the case of horse betting, that Gov. Engler feels compelled to offer track owners a tax break to make them feel better about not being allowed the electronic gambling games that suck so many of their former customers to Windsor.

Gee. Would that tax break give Michigan taxpayers the marvelous opportunity to subsidize moral and economic insanity?

It's dumb enough to insist that playing slot machines is economically insane but that horse and lottery betting isn't. But how about this morality nonsense?

I've said it before: It's discrimination for the government to approve — urge! — gambling on horse races and lottery games while at the same time calling it unlawful for blackjack and slot players to enjoy the same sort of fun.

And it's hypocritical to say casino gambling is immoral, but lottery and horse gambling aren't.

STATE BEGS FOR LOTTERY MONEY

Engler and his supporters say casinos create gambling addicts and attract crime. You know, crime such as the one committed in 1993 by the Oakland County Sheriff's Department employee who confessed to stealing more than $50,000 and compulsively blowing it on the state lottery.

Or a crime such as the one committed every time a horse race is fixed.

Through sleazy advertising, this state begs for lottery money. And it eagerly drags the horse-bet pot. Isn't hypocrisy immoral?

Some Engler supporters say it took guts for him to thwart Detroit voters and their mayor. I say Engler knew he had more to gain — state-wide and nationally — by kissing the Christian Coalition's butt than he had to lose by making Detroit angry.

Engler will show me some guts when he quits discriminating and concedes that all organized gambling is equally insane — or sane — morally and economically.

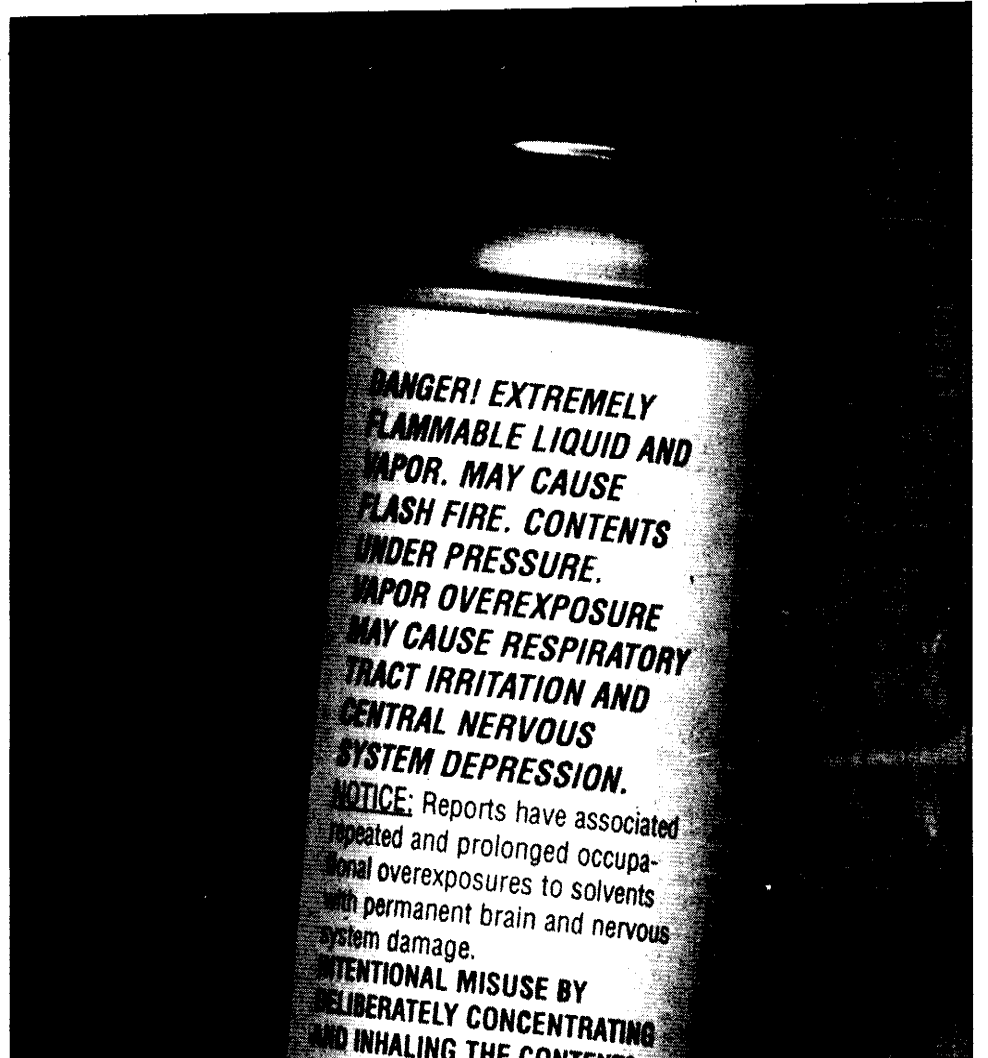

And that it is disgustingly two-faced for government officials to insist casino gambling is all wrong, but if a casino opens next door, they want one too, by gosh.

Quilters plan show

The Elmwood Quilting Circle is having a quilt show during July Sidewalk Sale Days at the Cultural Center. Donations will be $1 per ticket or 6 for $5.

Shockingly, the way some kids get high these days comes with a complete set of instructions.

Would you be disturbed to learn that kids are sniffing everyday household products to get high? Does it come as a surprise that kids actually seek out the most toxic ones by looking for danger warnings on the labels? Are you alarmed that most of these abusers are only between 8 and 14 years old? But do you also realize that the skull and crossbones on a label still means that kids can get very sick, suffer brain damage and even die from inhaling these products? Fortunately, there is something you can do, short of keeping every bottle and can in the house under lock and key. Call 1-800-729-6686 for more information on the most effective ways to talk to your children. And find out about the dangers of inhalants. Before your kids do.

A GAME OF PIG is one of the favorite pastimes shared by Tony Samons, his Big Brother George Kerschenheiter and Beau the dog.

Kerschenheiter in for long haul with Big Brother program

by Melissa B. Turmo
Staff Writer

The relationship might be a little unusual, but after 6 months, the Kerschenheiter says they're in it for the long haul.

"We're here until Tony doesn't want us to be anymore," said Carol Kerschenheiter of she and her husband George. "We're committed to Tony — totally."

10-year-old Tony Samons' evening visits with his Big Brother and Big Sister have become a welcome part of the weekly routine.

"We just know that every Tuesday, Tony's going to be there," Carol explained, adding when either they or Tony cannot meet on a Tuesday, they try to reschedule for a different day.

The 3 hit it off the first time they met — at a Christmas party thrown by Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Tuscola County.

Case workers at the agency were reluctant to ask the Kerschenheiter to start a long-term relationship with Tony because of the distance between their homes. The Kerschenheiter live in Caro; Tony, in Cass City.

"Generally we don't match in more than a 10-mile radius," she said, but the exception was made when Carol called asking to be matched with Tony.

George works as a wildlife technician from the Department of Natural Resources office on M-81. In January, Tony was matched officially with his new "Big Couple" and started riding home with George after work once a week.

"We try not to have something big planned all the time," commented Carol, who works part time at JJ's All Outdoors in Caro. "We operate as a normal family."

But this evening starts out a little differently than most. A newspaper reporter is there, and Tony rocks back and forth in a glider chair, mostly listening to George's and Carol's comments.

Carol tells how Tony's grades have improved since they've met him, and Tony adds he's gone from getting D's and E's to earning A's and B's.

The conversation turns to Tony's plans for the summer, and George thinks out loud trying to decide when he might make Tony his field work assistant for a day.

They also talk about canoeing down the Cass River, something all 3 of them think they'll enjoy.

Since school has let out, Tony spends Tuesday nights with the Kerschenheiter, and George jokes Tony will have to fight him for Tony's cooler sleeping spot in the furnished basement.

Tony eventually seems to grow tired of the conversation and joins George and Carol's 22-month old daughter Kelli on the floor, teaching her how to make colorful Disney characters pop up out of one of her toys.

"It's nice for Kelli to have someone else in the house, too," Carol said.

Sandy Gaudreau, executive director of Tuscola County Big Brothers/Big Sisters, said in an interview Thursday the Kerschenheiter's consistent friendship with Tony has been a remarkably good experience for all of them.

"It's just what you want it to be," she remarked. "I just can't say enough good things about that match."

Although it's unusual to match a couple with a little brother or sister — of the 44 matches the Tuscola County agency made in 1994, 3 involved Big Couples — Gaudreau is quick to add Big Couples tend to work out very well. It ensures both husband and wife are supporting the friendship.

"It's nice when you're a couple," Carol agreed. "Because if something comes up with me, or if George just decides to pick him up and go fishing, he can do that."

And Tony profits from both the Kerschenheiter's interests.

Tony said he really likes to play games on the Kerschenheiter's Packard Bell computer, especially a game where he pieces a dinosaur together, choosing the appropriate tail, head and body. He also liked making birthday cards for his family including personalized crossword puzzles from the computer — something Carol helps him with.

And he and George often make it out to the family's basketball hoop to shoot a game of Pig or Horse.

The Kerschenheiter went through a thorough application process before becoming a Big Couple. All applicants are asked questions ranging from their physical and mental health to their police records and home situations.

"They grill you," George explained. "It's almost like a psychological profile."

Gaudreau stressed more Big Brothers and Big Sisters are needed — 14 children are on the waiting list from Cass City, and the number of unmatched children in Tuscola and Huron Counties rises to 94.

Because people are often very busy, Big Brothers/Big Sisters recently has started programs requiring less commitment than the relationship Tony has with the Kerschenheiter, Gaudreau explained.

Volunteers can mentor children for an hour once a week during the school year or spend a day with a child when they have the time.

The agency also organizes several activities and tips each year for children to attend whether they have a Big Brother or Sister or not.

And Tony and George have it on their calendars to go to one of these activities this summer — a Detroit Tigers baseball game.

10-YEAR-OLD TONY Samons watches intently as his Big Sister Carol Kerschenheiter shows him how to print a copy of a dinosaur he made on the computer.

DESPITE A FEW sprinkles, the festival was wrapped up in style Saturday night with an impressive fireworks display that drew hundreds of area residents to Cass City Recreational Park.

SIX-YEAR-OLD Tiffany Glaza, seated, holds her first-place trophy in the Little Miss category. Whitney Braun, 6, stands on the left as the 1st runner up and 10-year-old Sara Guc takes her place as the 2nd runner up.

CASS CITY football players and staff members earned support for their program by getting dunked — repeatedly — Saturday in the park. Above, Andy Gray takes his turn in the tank.

THERE WAS PLENTY of souped-up action at the Thumb Tractor Pulling Association competition Saturday in the park. Above, event organizer Bruce Brown of Linwood pulls to a first-place win with a distance of 303 feet, 2 inches in the Limited Mod Trucks category.

CASS CITY SERVICE clubs served up plenty of goodies in the park following the parade. Above, members of the Gavel Club grill their famous brats.

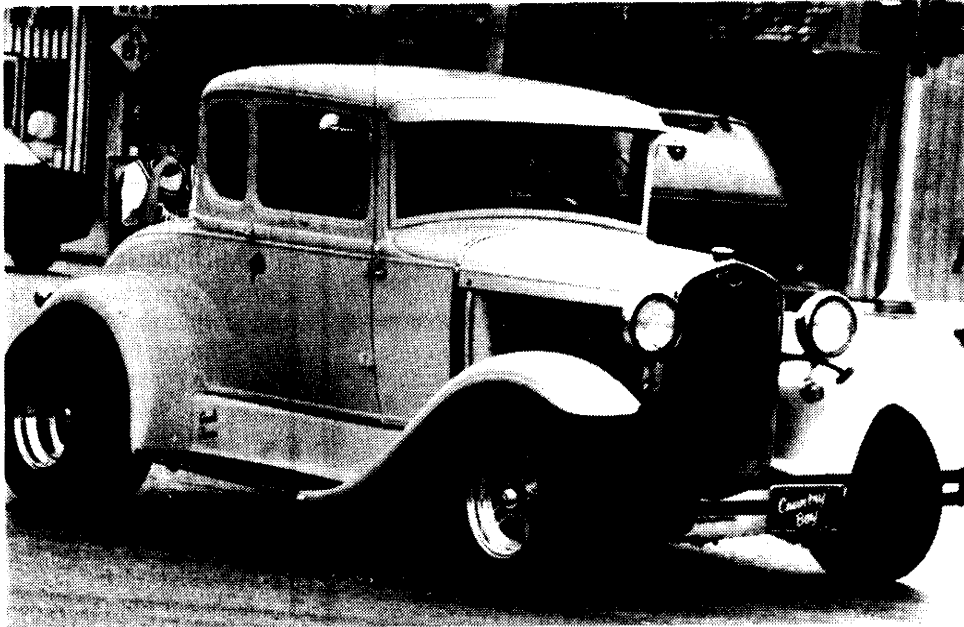

HAPPY HEART spreads a message of God's love — and lollipops — to the Main Street crowds before the parade. Chance Woodruff, 8, of Caro, gets a handful of candy to share with others still sitting on the curb.

THE 3-ON-3 tournament was well attended by both players and spectators.

A RACE AROUND the pen... and then 10-year-old Travis Jensen caught the back legs of the greased pig that earned him a $10 prize.

CLASSIC CARS cruised the main strip in Cass City Friday night as auto buffs admired the handiwork of their fellow car enthusiasts.

THE FAMILIAR Sally Doerr Dance Troupe is an annual crowd pleaser, and the dancers didn't disappoint this year as they kicked and twirled their way down the parade route.

THE CASS CITY High School Marching Band did its part to liven up the parade.

Your neighbor says Bank purchase is a good idea

From what she's heard about the village's proposal to buy the Chemical Bank building, Shirley Shaw said it sounds like a good idea.

It might be more convenient for many, especially older people who could stop in the village offices while running errands downtown, she commented.

"Personally, it doesn't make a whole lot of difference to me," Shaw said, because she rarely needs to visit the current municipal building.

Shaw said the village's idea to install public restrooms in the building would be very helpful downtown.

Currently people — especially those with young children — ask to use merchants' restrooms. The merchants generally are very gracious, Shaw remarked, but public restrooms would meet people's needs.

In all, the plan sounds workable to Shaw, who said it would be a shame to see the beautiful Chemical Bank building go unused.

Shaw has lived just outside Cass City with her husband Richard for 34 years. They have 3 grown children.

Dairy communicators meet representatives

A group of 50 MMPA dairy communicators visited Washington, D.C., June 13-15 to meet with Congressional representatives to discuss the upcoming Farm Bill. Attending from the area were Keith Wood, Kingston, and Mary Nichol, Deckerville.

The dairy communicators met with various members of the Michigan and Ohio Congressional delegation to discuss MMPA and National Milk Producers Federation's (NMPF) recommendations for the 1995 Farm Bill, currently being drafted.

The MMPA members presented their legislators with copies of NMPF's plan for dairy policy. The NMPF plan recognizes the need to grow U.S. markets for dairy products and the budget restraints imposed due to federal budget deficits. With adoption of the industry plan, government involvement in milk pricing will be almost eliminated, many milk marketing restrictions will be eliminated and U.S. dairy products will be priced to become competitive in world markets.

In addition to the congressional visits, the MMPA members also met with USDA officials at the Department of Agriculture to hear the Administration's proposal for the 1995 Farm Bill. Representatives from NMPF and the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives also met with the dairy communicators.

Cass City's McPhail competing at world games

David McPhail of Cass City is one of 74 Michigan Special Olympics athletes who are in New Haven, Conn., competing in the largest single athletic event in the world in 1995; the Special Olympics World Games, July 1-10.

Selected from among the gold winners in Michigan Special Olympics state competition, Team Michigan has joined Team USA and 6,500 other Special Olympics athletes from 140 countries in New Haven.

Held every 4 years, the Special Olympics World Games bring together children and adults with mental impairments from around the world to compete in sport in its purest form.

An estimated 500,000 spectators will view the World Games in Connecticut, with millions more watching via satellite.

"The mission of Special Olympics is being heard and heeded throughout the world," said Deborah Harmon, communications director for Michigan Special Olympics. "Special Olympics is now recognized as legitimate sports competition."

President and Mrs. Clinton, as well as some of the world's most popular entertainment and sports stars, attended opening ceremonies Saturday in New Haven's Yale Bowl. Athletic competitions will continue throughout the week.

Prior to the start of the World Games, members of Team Michigan traveled to Mt. Pleasant for 3 days of uniform fitting, photographs and intensive sports training.

The state's 75 athletes and 24 coaches departed from Detroit Metropolitan and Kent International (Grand Rapids) airports Friday. Thanks to the Cessna Citation Special Olympics Air-lift, Team Michigan flew direct to Connecticut aboard 15 corporate jets donated by Michigan companies.

Team Michigan is sharing housing with Team Montana along with delegates from Albania, Hong Kong and Jamaica.

Harmon encourages those who have never seen a Special Olympics competition to check for local listings for World Games coverage.

"Special Olympics is, indeed, the true spirit of sport," she said. "It's refreshing, in this era of million dollar endorsements and labor disputes, to watch athletes whose primary motivation is achieving their personal best."

Homeowners can still seek refund

Homeowners who did not receive the Homestead Exemption from School Property Taxes on their principal residence in 1994 may seek relief and a refund of extra taxes paid under a new law.

Taxpayers who want to appeal their exemption status must contact their local unit of government as soon as possible in order to have their appeal heard by the local July Board of Review which meets July 18.

Public Act 74 of 1995, recently signed by Gov. John Engler, allows qualified homeowners to claim their homestead status for tax years 1994 and 1995 at the July or December board of review meetings. Appeals of agricultural land may also be presented at those meetings.

The new law allows homeowners who missed the original deadlines for filing homestead exemption affidavits to apply retroactively for the exemption. Taxpayers will be refunded any taxes they had paid that are subject to the exemption. The refund of 1994 non-homestead taxes are paid to the taxpayer by the county treasurer.

Several other changes were made to the law governing homestead exemptions, including:

- * Requiring local (or county) treasurers to issue a corrected tax bill when a denial notice is received on a parcel of property.

- * Allowing a 30-day grace period for taxpayers who have additional 1994 property taxes levied due to the denial of their exemption application. After the 30 days, and for taxes due for 1995, penalty and interest charges will accrue.

AS A VOLUNTEER for a Navy education program, Raymond Piskowski is helping students understand the importance of math and science.

Cass City grad, sailor helping students learn

As a volunteer for a Navy educational program known as Starbase Atlantis, Raymond Piskowski is helping students understand the importance of math and science. The son of Mary Piskowski of Cass City, said the program helps children understand these difficult subjects, and in turn, opens career doors for them as adults.

"We try to emphasize math and science. We want to help create (future) doctors and scientists," said Piskowski. "Today's kids need something to look forward to."

Starbase Atlantis is an innovative, educational program which offers fifth grade students and their teachers an opportunity to experience real-world applications of math and science utilizing a variety of Navy training simulators and curriculum at the Norfolk Naval Base.

The students in the program attend classes once a week over a 5-week period. Sailors like Piskowski demonstrate how math, science and technology skills are applied in many areas such as flight, shiphandling, meteorology and navigation. In addition to lectures, the students get hands-on instruction with ship, submarine and flight simulators.

Piskowski helped launch Starbase Atlantis, producing some of the videotapes used in the program, as well as serving as a tour guide for field trips.

"Working with fifth graders is very important. At this age, you can make a big impression with a positive influence."

Math and science are 2 subjects that play a prominent role in Piskowski's daily life. The 1979 graduate of Cass City High School is a sonar technician. He's an expert in underwater surveillance, tracking underwater objects and repairing anti-submarine warfare control equipment and underwater radiotelephones.

While his career has centered around submarine duty, he currently serves as an instructor for one of the navy's newest training systems at the Norfolk-based Fleet Training Center.

"The importance of the training I provide sailors is the cost savings to the government and the Navy, which adds up in tax dollars," said the 34-year-old first class petty officer. "The best part of my job is seeing the satisfaction each student gets when they master the course and feel they received something valuable."

Education is one of the most valuable things Piskowski feels he's gotten from the navy. He said the training and experience he received in his field helped prepare him for his navy career as well as any job in a related field when he leaves the service.

"One of the most exciting things I've done was reenlist in Poland. I was one of the first sailors to have done so in a long time."

When he first enlisted in 1979, he said he chose the navy because of the positive outlook of his recruiters. "I felt the navy really wanted to take care of its people, so that's why I chose this branch."

One good turn deserves another, and Piskowski said his biggest contribution to the navy came when he served as a recruiter in Michigan.

"I helped people find a better way of life, in a place they could believe in and that would give them a chance to be somebody."

Piskowski plans to retire from the navy and enter the teaching field. He said he would like to settle in Virginia with his wife, the former Mary Malloy.

While he tries to influence his students in the Starbase Atlantis program, he said the experience has definitely had an influence on him. He said he would like to teach at the middle or high school level.

"At home or overseas, the projects I've been involved with (like Starbase Atlantis) have been very rewarding, just knowing any little contribution really makes a difference."

We can't afford another tax hike

To the Editor:

Taxes - Taxes - Taxes
The inevitable.

We just received our summer tax bill as everyone else has, I'm sure.

It is amazing how we can receive a substantial reduction in our property taxes from the State last year. I really appreciated that. My tax came down substantially. (Around $700/yr., as I recall). That was nice.

Last year I paid Cass City about $680 for my summer tax. This year it was $799. That (I think) is a 15 percent increase. Why is that? Why the increase?

Of course my assessed evaluation increased from $41,000 to $43,000, (3 percent), why, I don't know. There were no improvements that I know of. Some units were sold, but not of that value.

But none the less, good citizen that I am, I pay the tax and accept the situation without question.

Several weeks ago a couple of business enterprises in town had decided to expand. Low and behold, we are giving them a 12-year tax abatement. (To hold them in town?) This is a standard procedure (I am led to believe), when any company expands. (Jobs, increased tax base, etc.). I can understand that.

So we, the common citizens, have to make up the difference. That's OK, I guess. Maybe there's some benefits?

I received 2.6 percent increase in Social Security benefits (gratefully), and no increase in pension compensation. I don't mind paying taxes that are necessary to our common good, therefore I will comply with my latest bill.

However, (to the city and school officials) do not be surprised when your school millages fail. Those that we can still vote on, that is. We cannot take a 15 percent increase in city taxes on a 2.6 percent increase in personal income and still vote an increase in school millage.

We understand a need for a new intermediate school and support it. But, with all the other tax increases we simply cannot afford it.

Perhaps we should reconsider some of these individual tax abatement grants, which could contribute substantially to our school funding.

I wish I knew the answers, but I don't.

Perhaps we need to resurrect Solomon for some wiser decisions.

Many instrumental in successful drill

To the Editor:

Hills and Dales General Hospital would like to commend everyone in the planning and implementation of our recent disaster drill. Members of the hospital staff, as well as representatives from the Elkland Township Fire Department, Tuscola County Sheriff's Office, Cass City and Caro Mobile Medical Response, the Michigan State Police and student volunteers from Cass City, were instrumental in planning and carrying out a well-coordinated response to a simulated tornado disaster.

Less than one week after the drill, a real tornado warning was issued in Tuscola County. Hospital staff and volunteers acted quickly and compassionately to ensure the safety of patients and visitors, including a bus load of students from Vassar, who took shelter in the hospital basement. The Elkland Township Fire Department was on-site immediately, as crisis preparations began. Fortunately, when the "all-clear" was issued, there had been no local injuries or casualties.

The real tornado warning, with its potential dangers, reinforced the local commitment to drill exercises that

DeLong in Kenya

But when the students considered burning away overgrown vegetation to provide more grasslands where animals such as lions and gazelles could live, they had to consider what "critters" would be harmed by the burning.

In addition, thick vegetation usually protected the animals from tourists that otherwise tip park guides to drive off the road, ruining animals' natural habitats and harassing them to get "good" photos; so the students tried to strike a balance between suggesting to promote heavy vegetation life or to create more grassland areas.

The students did most of their observation from inside the vehicle for safety reasons, but they occasionally walked outside, bringing them close to many African animals.

"You can get relatively close without going off the road," DeLong commented, adding the animals seemed accustomed to people and cars.

She was ignored by the lion she stood less than 10 feet away from, but recounted a more frightening moment when the group was approached by hyenas.

The students were outside in the rain pushing a van that got stuck in the muddy park roads, and a pack of hyenas came toward them from the fields.

"They must have heard us or something," DeLong recalled, adding no one was hurt.

Although most of her time was spent with the animals, DeLong's trip included some time for sight seeing, including a view of Mount Kilimanjaro, the highest point in Africa.

Guides told the students they only saw a small part of Kenya, but to DeLong it seemed they saw a lot of the "beautiful" country.

Annual Fire in the Sky 3-on-3 basketball tournament.

According to event organizer Matt Prieskorn, the weather kept players in the 8 divisions relatively cool, helping make a good tournament.

In the Over the Hill division, the Baker College team took first place, followed by the Zappers from Cass City.

The most popular Men's Open division produced a winning team headed by Jim Green, and Cass City's Dog on a Stick took 2nd place.

Caution Flammable of Harbor Beach took first in the Boys' Varsity division, followed by Cass City and a Liar from the village.

The Boys' Junior Varsity division saw a 3-way tie between McNeil Bus Drivers from the Unionville/Sebewaing area, Arsenal of Lakers and Fly by You Jammers of Harbor Beach.

Caro's Farmboys took first in the Junior High division; Cass City's Rising Star took 2nd.

The Elementary division was headed by Main Street Auto Care and The Fab Four, both from Cass City.

Cass City's Contenders took first in the Girls' High School division, followed by The Thumb Hoopsters also from Cass City.

Two teams from the village,

Cheese Whiz and Hot Shots, took first and 2nd place, respectively, in the Girls' Junior High division.

Sports tournament action began earlier in the week with Thursday's Fourth of July Festival Golf Tournament.

5 arraigned on felony charges

Five people were recently arraigned on felony charges in Tuscola County District Court.

Hernando Zamora, 31, Akron, faces charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, third offense, driving while his license was suspended or revoked, and possession of an open intoxicant in a motor vehicle June 25 in Caro.

Bond in the case was set at $400. A preliminary examination was scheduled for 9 a.m. July 11.

Kieffly V. Vickers, 25, Vassar, was arraigned on 4 counts of delivery of less than 50 grams of a narcotic or cocaine Jan. 4, 5, 10 and 12 in Tuscola County.

Bond was set at $40,000 and a preliminary exam was slated for 9 a.m. July 14.

Charles T. Buhl, 22, Caro, is charged with arson of personal property (Volkswagon automobile) and arson — preparation to burn personal property over $50 (flat bed truck) June 30 in Fremont Township, and home invasion, second degree, and larceny of returnable bottles and cans June 21 in Indianfields Township.

Bond was set at $8,000. He faces a preliminary exam July 14 at 9 a.m.

Franklin H. Primeau, 41, Caro, was arraigned on charges of assault with intent to commit criminal sexual conduct and fourth degree criminal sexual conduct allegedly involving a victim at least 13 years of age but under 16 years last May in Caro.

Bond was set at $100,000. Primeau faces a preliminary exam July 11 at 1:30 p.m.

Announce service expansion

The Human Development Commission (HDC) has announced the expansion of services offered by the Thumb Area Assault Crisis Center (ACC). At the June 7 advisory council meeting, ACC announced several actions taken to increase its role in the community.

Two women have joined the volunteer staff. The first volunteer will staff the crisis phone line and provide secretarial services. The second participates in the Foster Grandparent Program and will spend 3 mornings each week throughout the summer, offering companionship to the children living at the shelter and assisting them with their special needs.

Two new support groups have been established in Sanilac County. These support groups will serve the victims of sexual assault and domestic violence, and focus on issues pertaining to both subjects.

ment at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

"Again we dodged a bullet on the weather there," commented Sward, who organized the event with course owner John Maharg.

For the 4th year in a row, the team of Pigeon residents Dave Wojicki, Dan Reynolds, Chris Wurst and John Bibeninder swung its way to the winners slot. The 4-man Scramble tournament attracted its goal of 72 golfers.

Thursday's celebrations continued at the Cass City High School, where a crowd of family and friends gathered to watch 22 girls compete for the trophies in the Little Miss Pageant.

Amanda Kaake, 3, took home the 1st place trophy in the Tiny Miss category. Second-place went to Megan VanVliet, 4, and 6-year-old Jaclyn Hendrick received the 3rd-place award.

The Little Miss division brought Tiffany Glaza, 6, a moment of fame as the 1st-place winner. Whitney Braun, 6, was the 2nd-place winner, and judges awarded 10-year-old Sara Guc the 3rd-place trophy.

Danielle Guilds, 11, was crowned the Junior Miss winner. Kimberly Kleekamp, 12, won the 2nd-place trophy, and 3rd-place went to 10-year-old Talisa Talaski.

The weekend ended with an early morning religious and patriotic service at the gazebo. Hitler said attendance was down from last year, but attributed most of that drop to cool temperatures.

"The sunrise service went very well," she remarked.
