The Village of Cass City Census 2000 figures are expected to jump by as much as 20 percent from the previous 1990 census, according to Jane Downing, village manager.

The 1990 census figures for the Village of Cass City have a recorded 2,276 residents.

The 1998 population estimates according to Barbara Clayton, information specialist out of Detroit, already shows an increase in residents from the previous 8 years, listing population figures at 2,321.

With 2000 drawing near, it's time to find out for sure. Every 10 years, the United States Constitution mandates a census to determine how many seats each state will have in the U.S. House of Representatives. The census began in 1790.

Norma Rivas-Ricci, Government Partnership Specialist from the U.S. Department of Commerce Bureau of Census, said that the census is the law.

"It's not a survey, it's a census," she said. "According to the law, it's unlawful to not Returning the census is not only lawful-it benefits the community.

Census numbers are used to help determine the distribution of over $100 billion in federal funds and even more in state funds. This money will help fund hospitals, highway repairs and school lunch programs, among other

An accurate count also means better representation at the state level, according to the Bureau of the Census. April 1, 2000, is designated census day. However, planning for the census has already begun.

"I've been working on this for the past year or so, to make sure we have maps corrected," Downing said. "There are a lot of technicaltype issues we get involved in with the census.' The development of address lists and the recruitment of census workers began in 1998. The census questionnaires will be delivered beginning mid-March 2000. From April-June 2000, census takers will visit housing units that did not return census forms. All states will receive redistricting counts on April 1, 2001.

Census 2000 questionnaires will come in a long form and a short form. The short forms, the shortest in 180 years, ask questions on 7 subjects and should take 10 minutes to complete. The long form addresses 34 subjects and should take the average household approximately 38 minutes to complete, according to Rivas-

"But that is taking into consideration there are only one or 2 persons in the household," Rivas-Ricci explained. "For a family of 6 or 8, it'll take longer."

Eighty-three percent of housing units in the country will receive the short form. One out of every 6 homes will receive the long form. However, that may not ring true with everyone.

A larger share of housing units in small towns and rural counties will receive the long form.

Rivas-Ricci said although the Village of Cass City may not receive a larger ratio of long forms, residents in rural areas around the village. such as those on rural roads may receive a higher per-

Six of the 13 applicants for the newly created position of Cass City Middle School assistant principal already work in the Cass City district, according to Superintendent Ken

Micklash said the internal candidates are Jeff Hartel, Dave Hoard, Cathy Kropewnicki, Linda Edwards, Chad Daniels and Kurt Dennis. Candidate names were not available for applicants who do not currently work in the district

The new position was created, according to Micklash, for additional support needed in the middle school building. The position of athletic director, previously filled by Russ Biefer, will now be the responsibility of the assistant middle school principal as well. Biefer will be overseeing a new alternative education program for troubled students.

The candidate awarded the position of assistant principal will be supervised by Cass City Middle School Principal Jeanne Lohela. As athletic director, the successful candidate will be responsible to Micklash.

Library book sale July 28-31

The annual Friend of the Library book sale at Rawson Memorial Library is set for July 28-31 in conjunction with the Cass City Sidewalk Sale Days. While some of the books to be sold are library discards many are donated by members of the community. Hard cover and paperback books in good condition may still be brought to the library through July 26. Most hard cover books will sell for 50 cents and paperbacks for 25 cents. This will be a 4-day event with a "Buck-a-Bag" sale Saturday. Books will be sold Wednesday and Friday from 9-9, Thursday from 9-5:30, and Saturday from 9-4.

The Friends of the Library have already donated $4,000 to the library this year. Money from the book sale will be added to this total. These funds are used to buy books and other materials, produce the library newsletter and provide special programming for everyone in the community to enjoy.

Editor's note: This week's Haire Net was written by Editor Tom Montgomery, who is filling in for vacationing Publisher John Haire.

I can't say I knew Kally Maharg. She was barely an acquaintance, but in one short hour a year ago, I learned enough about the veteran educator to admire her as much as anyone I've come to know during my years as a reporter.

Her passing last week after a long battle with cancer struck a chord, I suppose in part because a death seems so much more personal in a community the size of Cass

That's especially true when the loss involves someone who spends a lifetime giving of themselves with little fanfare or recognition.

I believe Maharg was that kind of person and not just because she devoted a 26year career in teaching to hundreds of children in this community.

Anyone who knew her will tell you she was a fighter, so it was no surprise that she faced her October 1995 cancer diagnosis with courage and an undeniable determination to battle past the pain and emerge the victor.

A year ago I was convinced that she would do just that.

What impressed me most was her desire to help other cancer victims fight, and to do something constructive to help researchers find a cure, by raising money through the annual Relay for Life in Bay City. Maharg wasn't alone. Flanked by a small group of other local educators, including Carol Pasant, Nancy Weippert and Fran Lovejoy, and other women - many cancer survivors - Maharg and her fellow relay participants openly discussed their own fights against cancer, and their hopes of helping others beat the disease, during a brief interview inside the clubhouse at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

The women, who formed a relay team of their own, calling themselves the "Bogey Bunch", focused on a simple message: cancer doesn't have to mean the end of all hope. "There's got to be a cure out there and we've got to find it," Maharg said that afternoon. "I see it (relay) as a kind of rallying point for morale, and feeling like you're doing something about it.

"They've made tremendous progress (in cancer research). I see an end to it. I really do," she added.

Maharg struck me as the kind of individual who scorned self-pity and embraced each day - celebrated every little event — during her battle.

It seems to me that if a cure is found, a good deal of the credit should go to people like Kally Maharg, who looked past her own mortality and envisioned the day when the words "you have cancer" would no longer mean a death sentence. And who was willing to do anything in her power to make

'There is an extra diamond now and the soccer fields needed to be put on." The old map was also off scale, she said. Nizzola visited the park for an entire day, measuring location distances and structures such as the pavilions, gazebo and the pool. "I also looked at the plans for Scotty McCullough Drive," Nizzola said. "They were drawn by Osminski's in Bad Axe. The plans showed that the road was getting curbed and guttered."

After designing the map, Nizzola said she was very pleased with the final prod-

"I got the biggest joy because I wanted it accurate and it was," she said.

The map was used during the July 4 Festival. Nizzola said the map may possibly be used during construction of a new cross-country course for the 1999-2000 school

TEE SHIRT TIMES

The tee-shirt design project was presented to Nizzola by Greg Hanby, head athletic trainer at the Michigan Athletic Rehabilitation Center (MARC), which sponsors the July 4 festival 5-K run/walk and 1-mile fun walk. "He's the shot-put and discus coach for track," Nizzola explained, "and he said he needed a design for a teeshirt."

Nizzola told him she had 65,000 images of click art on her computer and could possibly come up with a design.

The tee shirt features a clock with the MARC runner logo in the place of clock numbers.

"I love to see things done," she said. "It makes me 10 times happier to actually see it printed."

BRIDGE DESIGN

Earlier this summer, Nizzola had a chance to explore the field of civil engineering and experience her most challenging design yet.

Through a 2-week program, which began June 28, Nizzola worked with a team designing a bridge that could span the Sturgeon River Falls near Houghton in Michigan's upper peninsula. The program at Michigan Tech was offered through a state-funded summer institute program for the gifted/ talented.

Nizzola began interviewing for the program in early January. She filled out forms, interviewed at a county level and then interviewed at a state level.

"If you make state level you're almost guaranteed to go to the summer institute site," she said. "This was my second year applying for it."

While in Houghton, Nizzola spent a day at the site of the Sturgeon River Falls. The bridge would cover a 40-50 foot span and Nizzola was put in a group with 3 other students to design that "They said we'd need 4-5 years of college experience behind us to understand how everything was done," she explained, "but the teacher broke it all down for us."

"It was really fun. I got to know everyone and their opinions. We learned to work in a team situation."

TEAMWORK

This wasn't the first time Nizzola worked on a team. She had team experience during the Technology Team Challenge for the Academic Games at Saginaw Valley State University (SVSU).

Held last March, the Academic Games challenge was to make a device to put a golf ball in a golf-tee.

"We had 2 minutes," she commented, "no more and no less.'

The Cass City High School team placed first out of the 5 teams.

A member of the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA), this future engineer has competed in VICA's Competition of Trades. On April 23-25, she competed in the job-interviewing category at the state finals in Lansing. She placed in the top 5 of the 90 percentile. Nizzola is also a member of the Cass City Ladies' Auxiliary and the Cass City Gu

HOBBIES

She is an avid deer hunter Nizzola sat with her father brother and sister during dee season since she was in sec ond grade.

"Since I was 16, I've sat b myself," she added.

Although Nizzola describe herself as an out-of-door: person, there are times wher she enjoys working insidelike when she's rebuilding car engines.

"I rebuilt the engine of my '85 New Yorker, with the help of my father," she explained. "When Dad's work ing on stuff in the garage, I'l always help."

In the past 4 years, she has met and exceeded many of her goals. She has more recent ones to work on now She hopes to enroll for a second year in the Tuscola Technology Center drafting class However, if she can't Nizzola wants to find a coop job where she can continue her experiences ir drafting.

Michigan Tech is her college of choice. While there she plans to earn a bachelor's degree in civil engineering while obtaining work expe rience over the summers.

"I'd then like to get into a corporation that would helf. pay for me to get my master's degree," she said.

Through all the hard work and persistence, Nizzola still has a few concerns.

"Right now," she commented, "I'm just concerned with getting into Tech, finishing high school, graduating with honors and having fur along the way."

Reports state a southbound vehicle driven by Emily S. Bennett, 17, Cass City, pulled into the path of a westbound vehicle driven by Megan S. Powell, 36, also of Cass City.

Powell suffered minor head injuries and was transported by MMR personnel to Hills and Dales General Hospital, where she was treated and then released.

Both drivers were wearing seat belts, according to reports, which state Bennett was cited for failure to yield.

Well, each of the 4 youths has virtually memorized all 50 chapters of the book of Genesis – the focus of this year's Bible Bowl competition. Roche can even recite the book backwards.

Speirs explained the Bible Bowl competition format is similar to the television game show Jeopardy: 2 teams are asked a question and the first individual to activate a buzzer system has the first opportunity to answer that question.

Aside from knowledge, quick reflexes are key, although it's important not to hit the buzzer before enough of the question has been read to understand what answer they're looking for, commented Chuck Emmert, pastor of the Novesta Church of Christ.

Emmert was among the more than 2,000 people who were on hand for the national competition. "They did well. They made us proud," he said of the local team. "It was pretty special." The caliber of Novesta's Bible Bowl teams has steadily improved since the program was established in the early 1980s.

This year, the program drew 15 teens, although the Venema sisters, Roche and Diebel were selected to represent the church in tournament competition.

"They've done well the past few years," said Speirs, whose teams have been ranked in the top 24 in each of the past 2 years. This year's team, ranked fifth going into nationals, was the fifth Novesta group to qualify for nationals in as many years.

The road to nationals began last fall, when Bible Bowl teams began monthly round robin competitions, followed by tournaments starting in "Your (performances) in the

As summer continues to bloom, so do the garage sales. Tammie Whittaker holds a garage sale about once a year.

That way, she said, garage sale preparation time is cut drasically. She usually spends days preparing for it. Whittaker, a middle school eacher in Sebewaing, held he July 15-16 garage sale t her mother-in-law's iome on Hospital Drive in Cass City. She and her husand, Dave, have 3 boys, Andrew, 12, Tyler, 10, and 3radley, 6.

3radley would agree. He had a lemonade stand at the sale. a cup of cold, pink lemonade cost only 25 cents. Bradley njoyed doing business, always serving the drink with a mile on his face.

He made $4.25 alone on Thursday. Figures weren't in for 'riday's total.

And what does he plan to do with the money he has earned? Maybe buy my own TV", he said with a grin.

Whittaker holds garage sales mainly to get rid of things he no longer needs.

She also goes to garage sales, where she has found quite a ew deals. Bradley accompanies his mother and sometimes

She did find a colored TV at a sale - for only $4.00. A ega Genesis was also discovered. Whittaker bought it and commented that it worked just like new.

Garage sales which advertise books are the first ones Whittaker hits in the morning. She holds a summer reading rogram at her school and collects books for it.

"It saves the school money," she said, "and I don't mind oing it.'

She said she enjoys having garage sales, as well as going always in the back of her mind - and it's no wonder that it would be.

When she was 5 years old, Mills lost her 3-year-old brother, Aeron Mills, during open-heart surgery. He had quite a few surgeries.

But now, after 2 weeks in Houston at the National Youth Leadership Forum on Medicine, Mills knows for sure. She still wants to become a physical therapist. A life as a doctor, she was told over and over, is full of sacrifices. Mills wants a family. She won't sacrifice that.

"I talked to a panel of medical students and they said I'd have 4 years of college, 4 years of medical school and 3-10 years residency," Mills explained. "I wouldn't get out of school until I'm 30 and I'd have an $80,000 debt from medical school."

She added, "It'd take up a big part of my life."

Mills attended the medical forum, a non-profit, educational organization, from July 4-14. Out of a half dozen hospitals she was able to choose from, Mills chose the Houston-Galveston Hospital because of its specialty in heart surgeries.

However, things didn't go as planned. Instead of watching heart surgeries, she was sent to the Veteran Affairs Medical Center in Houston.

"I tried to see if they could switch me. My mom even called and told them about my brother," Mills said. "They didn't help much."

Despite the initial disappointment of the forum, Mills said she had a very exciting time. In fact, she was busy almost every day from 7:30 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. with speakers, sessions, conferences, seminars, among many other activities.

One of Mills' most memorable days was when she had the unique opportunity to follow a psychologist at Veteran Affairs Medical Center and experience his job with him. The mentoring was one-on-one, something Mills found very educational.

"I was able to sit in during different patients," she explained, "and I sat in during a group session where people struggled with panic at-

"He had a liver transplant," Mills explained. "When he was doing surgery on a patient, he contracted Hepati-

After the transplant, Berry is doing fine and performing surgeries once again, Mills

At the session, Berry gave each person a donor card. Mills still has the card and she plans to fill it out. "We donated my brother's

Mills also found the specialized seminar on spinal cord rehabilitation very in-

"They showed us many different tests for this," she said. She also attended seminars on orthopedic surgery and sports medicine, which hit very close to home.

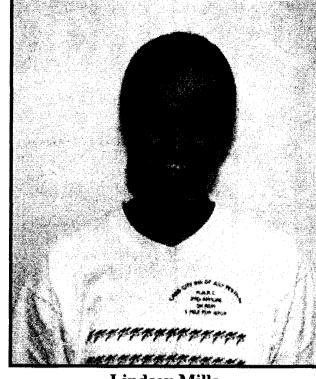

"I'd like to go into physical therapy and sports medicine," she explained. The session detailed how to treat iniuries.

Mills, the daughter of Scott and Janeen Mills, works as a student athletic trainer at Cass City High School and will be traveling with the girls' basketball team to away games this fall.

To prepare for this, Mills will soon be attending a 3day athletic trainer's camp, sponsored by Cramer, a company that makes athletic tape. The camp, held at Michigan State University, will teach students how to tape injuries.

Mills plans to attend Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant upon graduation in 2000.

Drunk driving arrests up slightly in Michigan creased in 1998, according to the just-released 1998 Michigan Annual Drunk Driving

The audit distributed by the Michigan State Police, Central Records Division, contains statewide and county information regarding drunk driving arrests and crashes as well as the convictions taking place when the cases are brought to court.

In 1998 there were 60,971 alcohol-related arrests in Michigan compared to 60,665 in 1997. However, 1984 still remains the leading year in drunk driving arrests, with 79,812. Drunk driving arrests in the Upper

nity Mental Health Authority pecame Tuscola Behavioral Health Systems (TBHS) in hange was precipitated by a !-day strategic planning sesion under the guidance of Charles Ray, a nationallycnown specialist in mental nealth planning and develop-

During this session, it was ecognized that the agency not only provides mental nealth services for persons vho are developmentally disibled or mentally ill, but also or those who are experiencng the effects of substance buse. The concept of "Benavioral Health" is generally accepted as encompassing hese areas of service.

While a name change can be significant to any organization, the leadership of TBHS nas emphasized since December that its dedication to consumers and the services they receive had not changed. 'We changed our name because we believe it should reflect the full range of services we offer," said CEO Robert E. Chadwick II. "Our consumers, as well as our friends and supporters, can be confident that we will coninue to provide the same quality care and professional service they have come to expect from us."

The TBHS name change was accompanied by the redesign of the agency's logo, which now features "People-Friendly" artwork depicting the sun, a tree, and a stream. All these elements suggest both local geography as well as the agency's dedication to helping its consumers toward the light of better health and, eventually, a better life. (This new logo can be seen in the TBHS ad in local newspapers every Wednesday).

The agency also adopted both a new mission statement and vision statement when it changed its name and logo. Careful observers will note, nowever, that the TBHS logo continues to include the statement: "A Michigan Community Mental Health Authority serving Tuscola County and the Greater Thumb Area." This is being lone to recognize the fact hat the agency continues in ts "authority" status, a desgnation which allows the igency to exercise options avorable to its operations. Tuscola County Community Mental Health Services 3oard (as TBHS was originally known) was formally uthorized by Tuscola County Commissioners' Resolution 75-R-14 July 22, 1975, an action which solidiied into a single county pro-2ram the services which were being provided. For nany years thereafter, the programs and services provided by the agency were noused in buildings on the grounds of the Caro Regional Center (now known simply as Caro Center).

In the next 20 years or so, Community Mental Health programs and services expanded to meet the growing needs of Tuscola County 'esidents and their loved ones. Although the services provided by each organizaion were essentially distinct, ocal citizens and visitors

Tuscola County Commu-alike often believed that the Mental Health Services Board and the Caro Regional Center were one and the December of 1998. The same. It was partly because of this continuing confusion, and the desire to offer settings most conducive to professional levels of care, that administrators began to move all services (including, finally, administration) to new locations.

Today, Tuscola Behavioral Health Systems provides programs and services from several sites in the greater Caro area. In the Caro Industrial Park, cooperative ventures with the Village of Caro have allowed the agency to locate both Cass Valley Enterprises (CVE) and the Personal Independence Center (PIC) here in spacious and functional new buildings. CVE provides a home to the agency's Community Rehabilitation Organization, which affords consumers the opportunity to work in a fully-functioning manufacturing setting. Also housed here is the Supported Employment Program, allowing consumers access to meaningful jobs with local employers. Meanwhile PIC provides the setting for the agency's day program for persons with developmental disabilities. Here, consumers are guided toward their personal maximum levels of independence, learning skills which help them engage in everyday activities (such as meal preparation, budgeting, filling out job applications, social interaction, and more).

The agency's Almer Street location is the setting from which several programs are operated. These include: Assertive Community Treatment, which is designed to work with persons who have a chronic mental illness and are at high risk of psychiatric hospitalization; Special Children's Home-Based Services, working with families whose children are experiencing emotional difficulties; Aging Services, providing help to persons over 60 who have mental health needs, including those in nursing homes; Consumer Services Coordinator, helping consumers familiarize themselves with the mental health system and make best use of available services to meet their needs, and others. In rural Caro, both Pineland and The Ridge are residential facilities for consumers who are being served by Tuscola Behavioral Health Systems. Pineland is a foster care home for those with developmental disabilities, while The Ridge is a crisis residential facility for individuals with mental health problems.

In the rapidly developing M-24 corridor along Caro's Cleaver Road, Thumb Area Behavioral Services Center (TABSC) serves the needs of those who require substance

Novesta board approves cemetery lot price hike

The Novesta Township 30ard voted a $25 increase n the cost of cemetery lots luring a recent monthly neeting. It will now cost loal residents $100 to purhase a gravesite, while nonesidents will continue to pay $500 per grave.

Connie Benitez will receive the extra $25 per grave as pay for selling the cemetery lots. In other business, the board approved the purchase of a new typewriter for the township treasurer.

Agency CEO Chadwick indicates that there is at least one other idea which has loomed in the distance for several years in all areas of the health field, mental health included, and that is Managed Care. In fact, says Chadwick, "the era of managed care is here now, and Michigan Community Mental Health programs are feeling its effects in a number of ways." Primary among these, Chadwick notes, is the competitive bidding environment which is developing among Community Mental Health programs and other provid-

and is preparing for further implementation in the days

By the beginning of the fiscal year 2000-2001, Chadwick and his colleagues across the state fully expect that their programs will be required to engage in headto-head bidding with other providers for the service pro-trators, case managers, and been awarded by the state up until now.

> In order to compete on an equal footing with the often larger and more well-heeled private providers, many Community Mental Health programs have formed networks or alliances to maximize services and efficiencies of operation. Tuscola Behavioral Health Systems has exhaustively examined the wisdom of involving itself in this type of alliance, and has concluded that it is in the best interest of its consumers to do so.

In April of this year, TBHS became the fourth partner in what is now known as the Access Alliance of Michigan. The other participants in this organization are Bay-Arenac Community Mental Health, Saginaw Community Mental Health, and Gratiot Community Mental Health. Essentially, this alliance is a provider sponsored network whose purpose is to capitalize upon the strength of its partners, drawing from a larger collective base of consumers and minimizing duplication of effort in every instance possible. Implementation of all functions of the alliance has not yet been achieved, but is expected within the next few months.

As Tuscola Behavioral Health Systems approaches its 25th year of service to the people of Tuscola County, its employees, administrators, and board members look back upon a record of service that is exemplary. Likewise, they all look forward to a future of progress for their consumers, continuing quality employment, and vision contracts they have service to the community.

Letter to the editor

Watch out days in jail, with work reservice switches

Dear Citizens,

Hope we can save you some money by sharing an experience we just had.

Learned this week that phone companies can, w/o asking you or even notifying you, change you from the company you chose to their company.

Your first knowledge of this comes when you receive a much higher phone bill. Then, if you're lucky, you receive a letter from your chosen company saying another company has part of your account and to let them know if you want to go back with them.

When I called our chosen phone company, I told them that this sounded illegal. The lady said that the world was very complicated. No kidding!

To stop this from happening to you, you must call your company and request forms to stop this from happening. My company let me do it verbally over the phone. It's better to do this than to have come in the mail a shockingly high phone bill.

We'll be back with our old phone company in a few days; but we still are having to look forward to next month's phone bill from the company that, in my opinion, stole from us. The punishment for that seems to be that we have to pay them money.

Good luck in our new, improved, and complicated world.

Top gardeners to staff booth at Huron Fair

Master gardener volunteers from Huron. Sanilac and Tuscola counties will be staffing a booth at the Huron Community Fair, Bad Axe, in the Merchants' Building, from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Aug. 2-7.

The booth will serve as an educational demonstration on home composting and keeping soil healthy. Also featured at the booth will be various horticultural items donated by local greenhouses, nurseries, and floral shops. There will be drawings for some items throughout the week.

Master gardener is a program of Michigan State University Extension. The goal of the program is to provide gardeners with up-to-date horticultural information and knowledge.

Topics covered in the class include general plant science, pest management, woody ornamentals, lawn care, house plants, growing fruit trees, small fruit, flower and vegetable gardening, and perennials. Classes are designed to provide the participant with a basic knowledge of horticulture, as well as introducing them to sources of information for future refer-

The Master gardener program also furnishes an opportunity for participants to share their acquired information with others through community volunteer activities. Full master gardener status is not granted to participants until the volunteer requirement has been completed.

Examples of local master gardener volunteerism include community beautification projects, a junior master gardener program, volunteering in the MSU Extension office, adult education landscape classes, and many

Cost for the 11-week class is $165, which covers all registration fees and materials. The fall session will meet Thursdays from 6:30 to 10 p.m., beginning Sept. 23, at the Huron Area Technical Center in Bad Axe. Enrollment is limited to 40, so early registration is encouraged. Additional information and registration materials are available from Angela Eichorn, Extension agricultural agent, MSU Extension - Huron County, 104 County Building, Bad Axe, MI 48413 (517) 269-9949.

Funding shortfalls have prompted the closing of the Cass City commodity site effective immediately. Area residents are encouraged to pick up their commodities at the Caro site.

The death of a Cass City woman in northeastern Michigan is being treated as a homicide. The body of Eileen Marie Bolzman, 37, Green Road, was discovered lying in a roadway in Alcona County's Curtis Township Friday. She had been on a camping trip with her fam-

Alan Michael Walsh, 38, of Snover lost his life in a drowning accident over the weekend. Walsh was swimming with his family in a gravel pit on Mills Road in Wheatland Township when the incident occurred.

Cass City's walking trail will be expanded because of a $15,500 Michigan Recreation Bond grant awarded to the village earlier this summer. The money will be used to construct a walkway from the existing walking trail gazebo, located on the old Grand Trunk Railroad bridge over the Cass River, south to River Road.

Grain crop yields should be improved

Yields of Michigan's 1999 small grain crops are expected to bounce back from last year, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service.

Favorable early spring weather allowed farmers to get their spring seeded acreage in early, and favorable rains have kept yield potential high. Michigan's winter wheat crop has matured rapidly this season as harvesting started ahead of schedule. Barley and oats yields are both up from last season.

This report is based on conditions as of July 1, 1999. Some highlights of the Crop Production Report are as follows: The Michigan wheat yield is forecast at 58 bushels per acre compared with the 54 bushels per acre last year. This is up 2 bushels from last month. Michigan's wheat harvest began at the end of June, well ahead of normal. Heavy rains have flattened some wheat. Over 90 percent of the acreage was turning by July 1, compared with an Michigan's oats yield is forecast at 60 bushels per acre. This is 14 bushels above last season. Good spring planting weather and timely rains have put the crop in good condition. Crop progress is about one week ahead of normal.

The barley yield in Michigan is set at 60 bushels per acre, up 10 bushels from last season. The production forecast is 3 percent below last year. Michigan's spring conditions were excellent for planting and crop develop-
