Board okays revised rules for attendance

The Cass City School Board adopted a more lenient discipline policy at its regular monthly meeting Monday at the school. It is a policy, President Jim Turner said, in which no one got all they wanted. Everyone had to give a little.

The new policy retains the reduction of grades for unexcused absences and excessive tardies that the teaching staff feels was effective. What the new code does is provide for more notification and makes it easier to avoid a grade reduction.

Students will have the day and the next 2 days to bring excuses or have parents call in for the days absent. So that students will know that they are charged with missing a half or full day of school, an absence list will be posted on the office window at the end of each day.

On the first instance that a student has suffered a grade reduction, it will be possible for the student to redeem the grade reduction by performing a task as outlined by the classroom teacher.

After 2 days absent from a class, the school will attempt to notify the parent by telephone. If unsuccessful, a letter will be sent.

The new regulations ended a debate that stretched over monthly board meetings and sparked lengthy discus-

While grade reduction as a discipline measure was retained at the high school, it was abandoned in the middle school. On the recommendation of Principal Jeanne Lohela, the school will work with the truant officer to handle any problems.

Another change adopted was to reduce the middle school grade average for graduation from 65 percent to 62 percent in all core sub-

For the love of the game

A Cass City couple has reopened Northwood Shores Golf Course in Cass City with plans to build on a reputation of offering affordable recreation for the entire fam-

Kevin and Dee Ann Mulligan recently purchased the business from Joe and Barbara Howard, Cass City. The Howards, out of frustration, decided not to open the course in the spring after vandals damaged the course for a second time since they took over ownership 5 years

Kevin Mulligan, 35, said the decision to buy the golf course was based largely on his enjoyment of the game.

"I love golf - that was really it - and I look at myself as a bit of an ambassador. And, to have a business in the golf industry, it's like a dream come true," he commented Saturday as he and his wife and a couple of helpers continued work on the course in preparation for the July 4 holiday.

"It takes a lot of time, but it doesn't feel like work," he said. "It's not work in the typical sense of it; it's enjoy-

The couple is planning to celebrate the course re-opening with a bang - a milliondollar bang - by offering golfers a chance to win big bucks in a hole-in-one contest during the upcoming holiday.

Mulligan explained golfers can join in by paying $5 for 5 balls. Qualifying will take place June 30-July 1 with participants trying to hit a ball onto a floating raft. Those who qualify will then move on to tees, with the golfer closest to the pin getting a shot at the $1 million prize. The main event - an attempt at a hole-in-one at a distance of 165 yards — is slated for July 1 at 4 p.m. "It's serious business. We have to have a PGA pro here ficer, and raw video footage," said Mulligan, who moved to Cass City 4 years ago. Promoting the course will be one of the keys to success, according to the Oakland County native, who plans to utilize his skills in salesmanship (he currently works as a Chevrolet-Pontiac in Ubly). "I'm going to entrust some of that marketing background to promote the course," he said. "I think the difference will be, I've played a lot of golf, so I can lean on some of that history and knowledge to promote the course."

Mulligan said he and Dee Ann will cater to golfers of all experience levels, young and old.

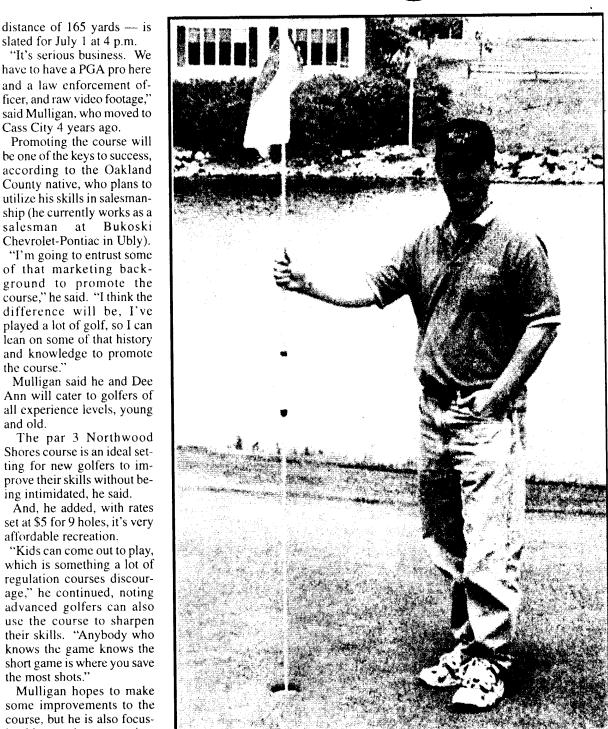

The par 3 Northwood Shores course is an ideal setting for new golfers to improve their skills without being intimidated, he said.

And, he added, with rates set at $5 for 9 holes, it's very affordable recreation. "Kids can come out to play, which is something a lot of regulation courses discourage," he continued, noting advanced golfers can also use the course to sharpen their skills. "Anybody who knows the game knows the short game is where you save the most shots.'

Mulligan hopes to make some improvements to the course, but he is also focusing his attention on a variety of new activities, from hosting casual golf seminars and corporate outings to organizing youth leagues. "What I'd like to do is get some leagues

Hills and Dales to focus on education, teleradiology

by Tom Montgomery Editor

The same kind of collaboration that brought the Thumb MRI Center and the Thumb Dialysis Center to the Cass City area will be put to good use again thanks to the awarding of a $200,000 Rural Health Initiative grant to Hills and Dales General Hospital.

But this time, the cooperation will focus on bringing health education along with a teleradiology system to the

The grant application was submitted by the Thumb Health Coalition, consisting of Hills and Dales, Huron Memorial, Marlette Community and Scheurer hospitals, and the Thumb Area Health Educator Coalition, which is composed largely of area hospitals, colleges/universities and health departments.

Dee McKrow, president and CEO of Hills and Dales, explained the $200,000 grant will be combined with a $125,664 U.S.D.A. grant and a $180,853 U.S.D.A. loan to fund long-distance learning (video) classrooms and teleradiology systems. The video classrooms will be located at Hills and Dales, Marlette Community and Scheurer, and they will be linked to a 16-port bridging switch located at the Regional Educational Media Center in Cass City.

McKrow noted the switch and classroom at Hills and Dales, which are expected to be operational by fall, were funded by the Public Telecommunication Fund Pro-

The video classrooms in each hospital will bring continuing education classes to the Thumb area, provide a means for teaching the general public techniques for health maintenance and prevention, (and) reach K-12 students in order to instill prevention at an early age," McKrow said.

Health education is a key element of the project, according to hospital officials, who cite what they describe as alarming health statistics in the Thumb (see chart accompanying this story).

"The teleradiology system (will) allow timely review of diagnostic tests either by the radiologist located at another hospital, or a consultant located at a tertiary care center," McKrow said. "It would reduce the travel to the tertiary care center and reduce the number of in-patients transferred."

She explained the teleradiology system will make it possible to transmit CT, ultrasound, nuclear medicine and radiographic images to a web browser where a specialist miles away would have access to them. In addition, the rural hospitals will be able to consult with each other.

"Currently, diseases and trauma often require a timely evaluation to treat. The only option to the rural hospital is to transfer, often exceeding the time factor for a positive outcome such as in stroke patients," she said. "This system (will) allow the rural hospitals of the Thumb to meet the criteria and treat locally, reducing the need to travel or transfer the patient. If a transfer is still required, the tertiary facility would have the necessary results of the test to prepare to treat upon arrival." McKrow indicated she's excited about the positive changes the grant funding will bring to health care in

Guilds honored by U.S. academy

The United States Achievement Academy recently announced that Danielle Guilds of Cass City has been named an All-American Scholar.

The USAA has established the All-American Scholar Award Program to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the academic disciplines.

The All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3, or higher, grade point average. Only scholars selected by a school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the USAA.

Guilds, who attends Cass City High School, was nominated for this national award by band teacher Marc Palma. She will appear in the All-American Scholar Yearbook, which is published nation-

Melancholy's Father Daughter by Gail Godwin: When stage designer Madelyn Farley arrives at the Gower Residence in her silver Mustang, 6-year-old Margaret is not impressed with her. As a matter of fact she doesn't like her at all. When Margaret comes home from school and finds out that her mother has left in that same Mustang she begins to understand why she had such a reaction to Ms. Farley. When her mother doesn't return, Madelyn takes on much of the household responsibilities and tries to take care of her father, Walter, an Episcopal priest. Her father is usually a happy soul, but he is subject to periodic depressions and Margaret must struggle with these dark times as she matures and finds a way to get on with her own life.

A Time Without Shadows by Ted Allbeury: Philip Maclean is recruited by British Intelligence in 1940 and sent to France to become Scorpio, a resident networker. When he is told that an Allied invasion is coming soon, Scorpio begins a major campaign of sabotage against the Germans. It doesn't take long for the Nazis to find out who he is and arrest and execute him. Forty years later, Harry Chapman of British Intelligence takes on the job of finding out who betrayed Scorpio and why. The files have been destroyed so he has to talk to the survivors, but he gets much too close to the truth and endangers his own life in the process.

Spring Came on Forever by Bess Streeter Aldrich: Amalia Holmsdorfer is a member of a group of German immigrants that settle the prairie of America. The story is about how this formidable woman confronts and defeats the forces of nature and society that drive many people out of the west and cause many to lose everything. This novel is the story of the hardy people that settled the American west Recker*, Laurie Sadro, and how they managed to survive the hardships they Researching a project for Rotary, I delved into issues of the Chronicle from 1930 and came across a page ad for Folkert's Bargain Store in Cass City. It was run by the Glen Folkerts, the parents of Geraldine (Folkert) Prieskorn of Cass City. The Folkerts later owned and operated the Mill End Stores in mid-Michigan.

Anyway, what caught my eye were the prices in the ad. Talk about inflation! Two items among dozens in the ad were: 3 bars Palmolive soap for 10 cents and Men's Black Dress Oxfords...$1.95 pair.

Watching giant modern lumber mills chew up trees in a matter of minutes creates a concern from the uninitiated about how long the supply will last.

According to the USDA Forest Service, there's no need to worry. Since the last tree count in 1980 in Michigan, our forests have increased by one million acres. In all, 19.3 million acres of forestland cover 53 percent of the state's total land area.

A little of this and that gleaned from the news of the day. Items that sparked a reaction when viewed from the corner of Oak and Main streets.

If I had a vote, the Riverfront East Alliance would have been 939 signatures instead of 940 signatures shy of getting a proposal for banning casinos along the Detroit River on the November ballot.

The group needed just under 5,000 signatures on petitions to qualify the measure for the ballot.

When the casinos gobble up the waterfront, it will mark the end of Detroit's last chance to create something for the good of the entire city similar to the great development along Lake Michigan in Chicago.

It's not that the casinos need to build along the water to be successful. The 2 casinos now open in "temporary" buildings are exceeding projected revenues.

Spokesmen for the defeated Alliance say it is not giving up and will continue to fight.

More power to them, but why do I get the feeling that more fight is just whistling

Like the vast majority, if not all schools, it is one of the aims at Cass City Schools to teach subjects in the way that allows student scores to improve MEAP scores.

Several states, including Ohio and Illinois, have been helping students cheat on standardized tests, guiding them to the correct answers.

It seems everyone wants to drag us into the information age. I've made up my mind: I'm not going!

First we got faster computers, then call waiting and fax machines. Now it's voice mail, e-Mail, and the World Wide Web.

I can't complain about computers. I love computers, but some of this other stuff has been oversold it seems to me.

Consider how folks would react if this technology were reversed. What if the internet was fifty years old, and the telephone was brand new?

Wouldn't it be great to call people up, listen to their voices, talk as fast as you want, and get an answer immediately. What a great invention — the telephone.

Then, imagine having to type a note or letter, leave it on someone's machine, and wait for them to type a note or letter in response. That's what we do with e-Mail: Send folks a note and then call them up to make sure they got it.

It's better than a telegram. At least we don't have to learn Morse Code.

How about fax machines? The fax machine always reminds me of public relations agencies I used to write for.

The PR agencies wanted everything by overnight mail. No matter what it was, it had to go overnight.

So, we mailed their stuff overnight and charged them another $12. Then, when I hadn't heard anything for a couple of weeks, I would call them up. Nine times out of ten, the person who received the overnight copy hadn't read it. He was on vacation, had his appendix removed, or his dog ate the mail. That's where the fax machine comes in. The fax lets us transmit copy instantly because we were too disorganized to mail it a couple of days sooner.

This week I read that companies in Italy and Japan are making refrigerators and ovens featuring internet access.

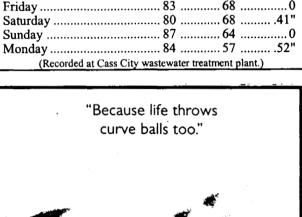

frigerator" has more computing power than most PCs and keeps your vegetables cold at the same time. I don't know what a refrigerator computes, but it should be able to tell us when the cheese turns green. This smart fridge is controlled by a touch panel on the door, or verbally through a built-in microphone. Experts say American consumers will prefer the touch panel over the microphone. Most of us are used to talking to an open fridge, but giving commands through the door is just another way to frighten the kids.

The "intelligent oven" is supposed to take over where the internet refrigerator leaves off. This oven will pull a recipe from the internet and cook a roast for us. (Provided we remember to buy the roast.)

How can we remember to buy the roast? I can't speak for others, but I just put a note on my refrigerator.

200 attend celebration at new TOPC facility

by Lynn Heitkamp Staff Writer

An estimated 200 people attended the grand opening celebration for the Thumb Oilseed Producers Cooperative's $2.3 million facility in Ubly, Monday.

The Co-op will enter its 2nd year of production July 19. Visitors were able to tour the plant and attend a presentation from TOPC officials and executives of partner companies.

"What this place represents is the new future of agriculture," Leroy Hanson, president of Insta-Pro, the company that designed most of the machinery and processes the plant uses, said.

Insta-Pro is affiliated with 100 operations similar to the Ubly facility, Hanson said, but TOPC has the largest number of farmers involved, the largest facility and a cooperation with a marketing firm. "All those things are very unique and may be a model for agriculture of the future," he stated.

The plant allows growers to be actively involved in the marketing of their crops, Hanson said. Farmers are realizing they should do more than just grow crops and see what money they can get for them, he added.

"We're proud of the product," John Knoerr, president of TOPC, said. "It's meeting all the tests we expected it to meet."

The soybean product improves performance in all animals, Hanson said, citing a test where cows on the feed produced 10 pounds more milk on the Insta-Pro method than off it.

Furst-McNess, out of London, Ont., markets the feed. The product is distributed over most of Michigan and

The Co-op is also looking into other business ventures. Soy is becoming a popular part of human diet, Gary Wruble, manager of the plant, said. "TOPC's in a real good position to exploit that market possibility," he said. The Co-op is looking into TOPC uses extrusion ma-

Currently, the facility uses 4,700 bushels of soybeans to produce 115 tons of meal and. 38,000 pounds of oil a day. In February of 1999, officials had estimated the plant would produce 90 tons a day of meal and around 15,000 pounds of oil a day during its first year.

According to financial reports through May 31, operating costs are also lower than expected. Officials estimated the cost per bushel would be $1.25, but actually it was around $1.01.

Utility rate relief on the way in state

Michigan consumers will see some relief in the form of a utility rate cut.

Gov. John Engler has already approved 2 measures in a 4-bill package that restructures the state's utilities and ensures reliable power at a reasonable cost for consumers, according to State Rep. Mike Green (R-Mayville).

The highlight of the package is a 5-percent rate cut for all Consumers Energy and Detroit Edison customers through 2003.

Currently, Michigan residents and small businesses pay electric rates 6 percent higher than the national average, according to the Michigan Public Service

Free tree guide

"What Tree Is That?," a pocket guide for identifying trees, is available free-ofcharge from the National Arbor Day Foundation.

The 72-page guide will help you identify 135 different trees found in the eastern and central U.S.

Well-known trees are included: oaks, maples, spruces, and pines. Also species such as horsechestnut and mockernut hickory, sassafras and shadbush, persimmon and pawpaw and pagodatree and pecan.

Dozens of drawings illustrate the trees' leaves or needles and their acorns, berries, seed pods, cones, etc. "What Tree Is That?" is organized to make it easy to identify trees in a simple step-by-step fashion.

To obtain your free tree ID guide, send your name and address to "What Tree Is That?," The National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, NE 68410.

our Answer Corner 🐉

Why do I need to rotate my tires?

Rotating tires is a way of prolonging the life of your tires by letting them all wear evenly. Think of it like your shoes. Ever look at the bottom of your shoes, your kids' or your spouse's? Probably not, but if you did you will see everyone's shoes wear differently. Some wear on the edges while others wear on the heel. Some wear on the balls of their feet and some wear out the toes. This is because everyone walks differently, putting pressure on different areas of their shoes. This is like a car, the weight is different from the front to the rear and side to side, so the tires will wear differently depending on where they are mounted. Unfortunately we can't all trade shoes with each other as the soles start to wear, but tires we can. We can move the tires to different locations on our cars to get the full amount of life possible out of the tread. So remember to keep the tires rotated, but you probably shouldn't start trading your shoes.

Bill promises to broaden agriculture base

Michigan Governor John Engler has signed into law a bill that recognizes farming privately owned elk and deer as an agricultural endeavor that promises to broaden the agriculture base of Michigan. Single agency authority will reside with the Michigan Department of Agriculture in the regulation of the privately owned cervidae (elk and deer) production industry in Michigan According to The North American Elk Breeders Association (NAEBA) and The North American Deer Farmers Association (NADeFA), the elk and deer production industry is growing in the U.S. and Canada and is established in Russia, China, Europe, and most notably in New Zealand. Alex Draper, president of Michigan Deer Breeders Association, estimates the number of privately owned deer and elk in Michigan are close to 30,000, and growing as more producers seek this form of agriculture to stimulate a positive cash flow for their agri-business.

"This law generally supports good farming practices and considerations and specifically provides cervidae farmers the benefits of agricultural recognition," Draper

The people of Michigan provided overwhelming support for the new law with a rarely seen unanimous, unopposed, vote in both the Michigan Senate and House of Representatives under the leadership of Rep. Mike

Green.

The Michigan Deer Breeders Association and Michigan Elk Breeders Association resolved together to initiate the legislation that will provide value-added opportunities for Michigan Agriculture. There are approximately 900 premises currently producing privately owned deer and elk throughout the state. Ken Keeley, owner and operator of Antler Bay Hunting preserve, said this form of agriculture "represents over $300 million to Michigan's agriculture base." Keeley explained everyone in Michigan benefits with this new law by providing the farmer more choices about what to produce on the farm, "by giving farmers more options and opportunities to increase income to the family farm, it increases the likelihood the people of Michigan will benefit with more farmland and. open space by keeping the land out of the hands of developers. Preservation of open spaces is important to the people of Michigan." Michigan Farm Bureau supported the bills and recently created a statewide policy supporting single agency regulation of the privately owned cervidae industry in Michigan with the MDA.

"The cervidae production offers opportunities for farmers looking for options" said Farm Bureau Legislative Counsel, Ron Nelson. "Farmers need options such as those offered by this industry to keep the family farm in the family and the farmland in the hands of farmers.'

Privately owned deer and elk are grown to produce products ranging from venison, velvet antler, urine (as hunting lure) and for harvesting. The predominate interest of the industry is developing breeding stock to meet the growing demand for deer and elk products in North American and global mar-Venison consumption in the U.S. has more than doubled since 1992 according to Barbara Fox, executive director of NADeFA, "The global market is currently dominated by New Zealand, which supplies about 80% of the venison consumed in the U.S. market. Elk and deer venison is either sold to wholesalers or as a farmgate product, mail order, or into specialty markets such as gourmet restaurants, delicatessens, and health food stores.

A Multi-million dollar market exists for elk antler velvet, that is cartilage of antlers from the elk, and is sold as a commodity on the Asian and domestic market. A recent market study printed in NAEBA's journal publication "North American Elk," summer 1997 edition, ascertained total imports of antlers into Korea amounted to $30.3 million in 1996. Korea imported $11.5 million from New Zealand, $6 million from China, $4.3 million from Russia, $2.7 million from the United States and 1.9 million from Canada.

CAL Farms the largest elk production facility in Michigan, is co-owned and operated by Craig Stefanko, a past director of the Michigan Elk Breeders Association and NAEBA.

"Velvet is sold as a commodity on the Asian and domestic market," Stefanko explained. "Before the velvet is exported, it is purchased from elk breeders at prices ranging from $25 to $110 a pound. A mature bull elk, a 5-to-7 year old, produces about 20 pounds of antler a

There are also claims elk velvet cures arthritis, improves the body's immune system and is used as an endurance building supplement when taken regularly. There is a profitable future in elk and elk velvet."

Council authorized free parking in the business district during the 3-day Sidewalk Sale Days in Mid-July. While council gave its official blessing to eliminating parking meter fees July 17-19, it did so with misgivings. In its resolutions, council said the move will not set any precedents for future free parking days.

Stuart and Joan Merchant this week are holding the grand opening of their new restaurant operated in conjunction with their bakery. Cass City Lions officers formally presented the village park with its newest addition - - a lion-sized drinking fountain - - during ceremonies Friday. The fountain cost the club $700.

Bradley Joseph Goslin, 17, of Gagetown suffered multiple injuries, including 2 broken legs, a broken ankle and dislocated pelvis, when his car went out of control and smashed into 2 trees in a grinding single-car crash early Sunday morning.

An Ypsilanti man was uninjured Thursday after the single-engine airplane he was piloting skidded and slid into a ditch at an airstrip on Elmwood Road southwest of Cass City. Craig Duane Thompson, 26, was unhurt after the plane went into a skid as Thompson applied the brakes.

35 YEARS AGO

Cass City will have a 3-man police force and almost around the clock police protection, following a decision of trustees to hire another officer.

Cliff Ryan, long-time Cass City businessman, has announced the purchase of the former M & M Plumbing building on Main Street where he will open a men's and boys' ready-to-wear clothing store.

Festival great time for family

Cass City's Fourth of July Festival is a good time to get together with out-of-town family, Lena Teller said. The festival is a good excuse for her daughter Linda and her family to come up from Troy, where they live. "They love parades," Teller said. Teller has 5 grown daughters and 16 grandchildren, ranging from 22 to 3 months old. Daughters Susan and Sandy and their families live in Cass City. Her 2 other daughters live out of state.

One of her grandchildren's favorite activities is always the face-painting booth, she added. The family also usually stops by the Lions Club chicken barbecue because Teller's son-in-law, Steve Wright, is a member.

"It's a fun day with the kids, watching the parade and going to the fireworks," she said.

Teller has lived in Cass City since 1971, so she's been to almost every Fourth of July Festival. "If I don't have to work, I go down," she said. This year, however, she'll be working at the hospital during the festival. Her daughters and grandchildren are still going to be in town to enjoy the festivities, though, she said.

Michigan Farm Bureau understands the importance of Chockley, Amy and Christocommunicating with its members — more than Betty Myers of Gladwin 169,000 member families. spent a few days with Ray Tuscola County Farm Bureau also understands the importance of keeping contact with their county members, as they launched their county Farm Bureau Web site. The site, a subset of the Michigan Farm Bureau site, will be used for members to access updates and upcoming events.

"A county Farm Bureau Web site is a good way for counties to establish presence on the Internet and provides yet another way for members to get information about their county Farm Bureau," said Glenn Hoeppner, web administrator for Michigan Farm Bureau. "Tuscola County has done a good job organizing their site and getting information on the site that members can use."

Hoeppner worked with Tuscola County in organizing and launching the site. He will continue to work with the county to do quarterly updates, and will continue to work with other county Farm Bureaus interested in launching a site.

The Tuscola County site features the different Farm Bureau programs Tuscola County offers, as well as the member services and programs in which Farm Bureau is represented. It also includes a map on how to get to the county office, a copy of the latest county newsletter, a list of board of directors and how to get in contact with them, as well as the state legislators who represent the county.

The site can be accessed at: t t p : / / www.michiganfarmbureau.com/ tuscola.html.

PUBLIC HEARING

PROPOSED ZONING ORDINANCE REVISIONS ELKLAND TOWNSHIP

The Township of Elkland Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on proposed revisions to its current zoning ordinance. The changes are on file at the Elkland Township Town Hall at 6691 Church Street, Cass City, MI. 48726

Minor revisions are proposed in the "Dimensional Requirements" in the B-1 Business Zoning District and FC-1 Forestry and Conservation Zoning District.

Changes in the B-1 Business Zoning District would be to change the Front Yard Setback from 35 ft. for all buildings to 60 ft. for residence and 75 ft. for all other buildings.

Changes in the FC-1 Forestry and Conservation Zoning District would change Side Yard Setback from 50 ft. to 25 ft. Also to change Rear Yard Setback from 60 ft. to 25

Maps and detailed texts of these changes will be presented at the public hearing, which will be held as follows:

Tuesday, July 18, 2000 at 8:00 p.m. Elkland Township Hall 6691 Church Street Cass City, MI 48726

Comments, suggestions and possible revisions will be accepted at the public hearing and in written material submitted to township offices before or at the public hearing.

Roger Root, Chairman Elkland Township Planning Commission

2 million to travel over holiday

More Michiganians have Fourth of July travel plans this year than last—an estimated 2 million state residents will travel during the Independence Day holiday—and a lot more will keep their travel dollars in state, says a recent AAA Michigan survey of 500 state residents.

In 1999, 41 percent of those surveyed said they would remain in Michigan during the Independence Day holiday. This year, 70 percent of re-would remain in Michigan a 41-percent increase. High gas prices may be a factor in the decision. More than onethird (35 percent) of those surveyed said higher gas prices would affect their summer travel plans in some way. The average reported trip length is 6 days.

Some motorists will travel this summer despite high gas prices—AAA's Regional Routing Center in Milwaukee reports a 15-percent overall increase in June the lower peninsula (78 per-TripTik® routings requested for 16 states, including Michigan.

The trend to spend travel dollars in state mirrors survey results first reported by AAA Michigan during the Memorial Day weekend, when 65 percent of state residents said they would keep closer to home this year. According to the Auto Club survey, conducted in late May, most of the Michigan

New, surprise acts shine in annual parade

Look out for some changes in the 22nd annual festival grand parade.

Gary Jones has organized the event for almost 20 years, but he's never actually seen it before. He always is busy Saturday morning lining up acts on Brooker Street before the parade turns onto Main.

This year, however, he will be in it. Jones won the Citizen of the Year honor from the Cass City Chamber of Commerce in April. Traditionally, the honoree rides in a convertible in the parade.

"I will undoubtedly participate," Jones said. "At least that's the plan." Jones is also festival co-chair this year with Doug Hyatt. There will be other acts to look for in the parade this year. Hooper, the Detroit Pistons' mascot, will make his first appearance at the festival. Kids of all ages can follow him from the parade route to the park gazebo, where he'll be signing autographs and passing out free posters, T-shirts and CDs af-the John Deere 2-Cyclinder Tractor Club and the Thumbarea Antique Auto Club machines up close.

The auto club also will be A Ford Roadster.

The Tittabawassee Fife and Drum Corps is back. Not only will they march in the parade, they also will perform in the gazebo at 12:30 p.m. The Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps and Flint Banjo Club are two other musical acts scheduled in the parade.

Expect to see members of showing off their unique vehicles. They are scheduled to park their cars and tractors at the park after the parade for those interested in seeing the

We Can Help You... YEARS OF EXCELLENCE Life Line Screening Avoid a Stroke

In Just 10 Minutes

Stroke is America's third leading killer. It is also the #1 cause for nursing home admissions. Unfortunately, two out of three people who suffer a stroke show no prior symptoms before the attack.

We'll be in Your Neighborhood!

Where: Cass City - VFW Post #3644

When: Monday, July 10th

Pre-Registration is a Must: 1-800-407-4557

There are Three Ways We Can Help

We provide non-invasive, completely painless screenings for vascular disease using the most advanced Ultrasound and Doppler technology. The screenings will quickly detect arterial abnormalities which can cause irregular blood flow. We offer three separate tests.

Carotid Vascular Test

This test scans the Carotid arteries in the neck for plaque build-up. 75% of all strokes are linked to Carotid artery blockage

2 Abdominal Aortic Aneurysm Test

This tests for the existence of an ancurysm in the abdominal aorta. The vast majority of people who have an ancurysm have no symptoms. See back for complete details on tests.

3 Ankle Brachial Index Test

This test screens for Peripheral Arterial Disease (plaque build-up) in the lower extremities which is linked to coronary artery disease.

Also... Detect Osteoporosis In Just 60 Seconds

"...What the screening had revealed was an ulceration that could have given me a stroke. By taking quick action this saved my life or quite possibly mental or physical impairment. All because of Life Line Screening!"

process you will take the report to your physician who can then order further testing and give consideration for n catment. Life time Sercening does not want to replace your doctor or hospital in any way. We would simply like osteoporasis as part of your own personal prevention plan. It a significant finding is noted through the sereening physician typically cannot order an ultrasound evaluation on someone who has no symptoms of vascular disease or osteoporosis. Fife Line enables you to have yourself checked for indications of vascular disease or to proxide them with more information that can help you avoid a stroke or other vascular disease.
