Board okays Campbell work

The opening salvo in the next major school improvement plan was fired Monday night in an otherwise uneventful meeting of the Cass City School Board.

The board approved a plan submitted by Superintendent Ken Micklash for the replacement of the windows at Campbell Elementary School. The walls around the windows are rotted severely and make repair at best a very emporary solution.

The project is roughly estimated to cost some $200,000 but funds will come from the general fund not from a special millage.

Barring unexpected changes in the school's revenues, the plan is to spread the cost over at least 2 years with $100,000 coming from the 2001 budget.

The board appeared to be in accord with the replacement plan and authorized the superintendent to get actual cost estimates for the construction.

Another project for improvement at Campbell School will be replacing the tile floor in the cafeteria. That's a smaller cost item, estimated at $40,000 or less, and will definitely be completed next year, the superintendent said. The progress made at the Kindergarten Literacy Support class, new this year, was presented to the board by teachers Paula LeValley and Kelly Ball.

The class meets all-day, 4 days a week, and is paid for . from a grant earmarked for class size reduction funds. Students attending the class that 20 is probably an optiheld at Deford School are selected on the basis of need as recommended by teachers and the students' records.

There are now 20 students in the class that started with 22. LeValley and Ball agreed

IGA owner: lack of town support closed local store

Wills says his decision to close the local grocery store was based on a number of factors, but a lack of community support tops the list.

Wills, who posted a sign announcing a "going out of business sale" a little over a week ago, expected to close the doors by early this week.

"I think the bottom line is, the community didn't want to support the store," said Wills, who also owns an IGA store in Bay City. "I think if I was a member of the community and lived there, things would have gone a lot better. But my wife and I are good people and hard work-

"I'm kind of bitter about the whole thing."

Wills said one of the reasons he first came to Cass City 4 years ago was that Cass City IGA owner Dan people told him they wanted ees that were working there a nicer, cleaner store. "Unfortunately," he added, "it got to the point where they (customers) were just coming in and buying the specials.

> "You can't pay your bills with that. It was costing me more to keep it open than to close it," he said. "I probably should have closed it a year ago, to be frank."

Wills said there were other factors that contributed to the closing of the Cass City store, including expenses related to dealing with a contaminated well and replacing a roof. He said annexing the store property to the village also cost him more than he was led to believe it would. Wills added that he wanted the community to accept him, so when he purchased the store he kept the employ-at the time. But he said that led to a number of personnel problems.

On top of that, he continued, shoppers are very mobile and willing to take their business to other communities. When the new Meijer store opened in Bay City, he said, the increased competition hit the Cass City store's bottom line more than that of the Bay City IGA Store. "And with the new 'super' Wal-Mart opening in Caro, there was just no sense in trying to recover."

Wills indicated he hopes the decision to close the Cass City IGA won't affect all of his customers in the community, but he felt he had no choice. "At this point and time, I'm really discouraged," he said.

Gun club hosts debate

House candidates agree on firearm rights issues

Tom Meyer and Pam Stillwell-Binder agreed on most issues, including residents' right to "keep and bear arms", during a debate in front of about 50 people at the Cass City Gun Club Sunday afternoon.

Meyer, a Republican, and Stillwell-Binder, a Democrat, are both seeking the 84th District Michigan House of Representatives seat in the Nov. 7 general election.

Meyer, 58, a veteran radio station manager from Bad Axe, dominated a field of 3 candidates in the August Republican primary election. Stillwell-Binder, 39, who has worked in the service industry, factory, real estate, banking and education fields, ran unopposed in the primary.

The 84th District seat, representing Huron and Tuscola counties, is currently held by Mike Green (R-Mayville), who is being forced from office due to term limits.

Sunday's debate, sponsored by the Thumb Area Responsible Gun Owners, touched on a number of issues, but questions related to gun rights surfaced on several

Asked to define the guarantees of the Second Amendment in the U.S. Constitution as well as the right to keep and bear arms for the defense of self and state as outlined in the Michigan Constitution, Meyer said he believes no one should infringe on those rights.

'I think what they meant was that we're supposed to be a free country," he said, adding more enforcement of current gun control laws, rather than new laws, may be the key.

"People should be allowed to have their guns to protect their property and state as well as (for) hunting," Stillwell-Binder agreed. "I think we need to be diligent to maintain that right." She said the focus should be on getting guns out of the hands of criminals and children. Meyer said he believes the state and U.S. constitutions were designed to protect citizens. "I think we've got to get back to the basics of our Constitution.

"I don't think it leaves a lot of room for interpretation. It is what it is," Stillwell-Binder said. "It's there for our prothey're the type of person tection as well as our guid-

INTERPRETATION

The candidates were also asked to address the state's concealed weapons laws and how gun boards vary from county to county in their interpretations of those laws.

"I think we need to be very careful of who is allowed to carry a concealed weapon," Stillwell-Binder responded. However, she said, if a citizen has a clean record, he or she should be allowed to obtain a permit.

Meyer said he would like to see a uniform concealed weapon permit policy statewide. "If they can show that that needs a gun. . .then they have a right to do so," he added.

The candidates also said they would support "shall issue" legislation that would guarantee a concealed weapons permit to any citizen who meets the statute requirements.

It's a matter of going back to the Constitution, according to Meyer, who said residents without a criminal record have the right to keep and bear arms.

'We still have the right to bear arms, and I agree if you don't have the criminal element in your background, you should be able" to obtain a permit, Stillwell-Binder said.

The candidates agreed with the idea of adding 2 community members to gun boards, which are currently composed of the sheriff, state police representative and prosecutor.

Gun boards may lose the discretion they now have, according to Green, who was on hand during Sunday's de-

Green told the audience that there's a 99 percent chance that his "shall issue" concealed weapons permit legislation will pass this year. The law would require all gun boards to issue permits unless they can determine an applicant is mentally unfit to receive one.

Haunted Forest awaits

Hospital eyes new facility

Hospital workers digging graves? Performing emergency procedures in the woods? Decorating tree limbs with decapitated heads? These activities sound a bit alarming, particularly when they take place on several wooded acres behind the hospital CEO's home under a moonlit sky. But it's all in fun for Hills and Dales General Hospital employees, who recently rolled up their sleeves to create a "Haunted Forest" this Halloween. And the public is invited. In fact, area residents who love a good scare can satisfy their appetite for fright and at the same time help raise funds for a new Alzheimer's Unit at the hospital.

The Haunted Forest, located 1 1/2 miles east of Kingston (turn north on Harrison Road from M-46 and follow the signs), officially opened Friday night and will be open this week Friday, Saturday and Sun-

Those who are "faint of heart" are encouraged to attend from 7 to 8 p.m. while the "fearless" are invited to visit between 8 and 10 p.m. The cost is $5 per person, with a $20 per family maximum charge.

Hospital officials last June announced they were considering building an assisted living complex. The announcement came on the heels of a decision to close Tri-County Medical Equipment.

Those plans, along with a specially-designed Alzheimer's unit, are still alive, but Hills and Dales CEO Dee McKrow cautioned that hospital officials have not yet decided to proceed with the project.

"We're doing a feasibility study on a 20-unit assisted living and a 20-unit Alzheimer's Unit, but it's a very expensive study," she

If the project is approved, both the assisted living and Alzheimer's units would be located in one complex. 'They're separate things, but they'll be hooked up together.

"There's a very real need. We have an aging community," McKrow adding, noted nursing home placement or family care are currently the only options for Alzheimer's and Dementia patients in this

We're really hoping for a good turnout for our 50-year get-together.

The people who attend reunions always wonder why some classmates choose not to. It's hard to say, but perhaps their memories of those days aren't something they care to relive. School days aren't necessarily happy

Looking back, I can see how some students, the quieter ones and those who had to struggle, may not have felt those were carefree years. Teenagers are not especially thoughtful about seeking out the good in, or looking for what's troubling, peers relegated to the background. They're too busy developing and preserving their own fragile self image.

Looking over the class roll, see the names of several people that I scarcely knew. They weren't jocks or cheerleaders or brains. They just sort of blended in, not distinguishing themselves in any way. Now I wish I'd taken time to get to know them.

One fellow in particular was very artistically talented, but painfully shy. I'm sure we could have been good friends. It's too late now. He's one of the 17 no longer with us.

It's good to see kids today getting accolades for areas other than athletics, which is fleeting fame at best. Now talents are recognized in theater, debate, academic games, art, music, etc. But there are still those who seemingly don't stand out in any area as teenagers.

Many of them will go on to be successful, even outstanding, in one field or another. Others may not. They are, nevertheless, worthwhile people in their own right. Most of those that were overlooked will probably not care about attending high school class reunions. Unfortunately, the Class of 2001, and those that follow will repeat our error and wonder 50 years hence why to get together.

We grow too soon old and too late smart.

Folic acid reduces health risk acid, a B vitamin, can prevent up to 70 percent of neural tube defects, which affect the brain and spinal cord, when women get sufficient amounts during the earliest weeks of pregnancy. And there is growing evidence that suggests eating at least 400 micrograms of folic acid per day will lower the risk of heart disease.

So, where can you get this Research shows that folic amazing nutrient? Peanuts! One ounce of roasted peanuts provides 10 percent of the daily value of folate recommended for the reduction of birth defects and lowered heart disease risk.

I've had better days than last Tuesday when the paper was published. I was good-naturedly informed by the sister of Nick Gibbas that I had identified the wrong person as the visitor in the press box for the Mayville-Cass City football

The error occurred when I was asked if I knew the visitor. I guessed that it was a center for the basketball team that lived next to the former Little's Funeral Home. Wayne Dillon said that fellow was Nick Gibbas and that ended the conversa-

That fellow was Gibbas, but the man next to me was Fred Hurlburt, a coach in Cass City in the early 1970s.

I was informed that Nick, who lives in California, was amused by the whole episode. Somehow that didn't make me feel a whole lot better.

But I felt a whole lot worse when the paper came out and the pictures of the babies on page 2 came out black after I thought that the printing problem had been corrected. It was the second attempt to do it right and it didn't come out as expected.

We are publishing the pictures again this week with apologies to the families.

Be assured we WILL get it right.

Saturday is "Make a Difference Day" when an estimated 75,000 persons will volunteer for more than 500 projects. A survey conducted by the Michigan Nonprofit Association indicates who are the most frequent volunteers, men or women, and what age group produces the most volunteers. Men do better than women, 58 percent to 42 percent. Statewide 47 percent of the population surveyed volunteer.

Most frequent volunteers are persons in age groups 30 to 39 and those 40 to 49 years old who were 24 percent volunteer. Next are seniors, 65 years old or older, with 17 percent. That's a big up tick from the soon to be seniors (60-64 years) record which ranks at the bottom of the volunteer group with just 6 percent active. The young adults (25-29) don't do much for free either with just 7 percent active volunteers. Persons in the 18-24 group were slightly better with 10 percent participation. It should be noted that the survey covered just the Northern Lower and Upper Peninsulas.

Would the results be better if the Thumb were included? Just asking.

Mary Muegge, of Cass City should be a certain vote for U.S. Representative James Barcia Nov. 7. After all, he was instrumental in raising her from the dead.

That's the bureaucratic graveyard we are talking about. When her husband died June 8, her name as well as his was entered into the computer. With this faux pas all benefits ceased. Health care and social security benefits were gone and despite her best efforts not reinstated. On July 1 she was told by the agency that it would be 30 to 40 days before the records would be changed.

I called Barcia, she said, and bingo! The next week I was "alive" again. Two weeks later my social security came with 2 weeks' back pay.

Nearly 300 county Extension Council members from 64 counties recently attended a statewide conference at Michigan State University.

Representing Tuscola County were Dotty Scollon, Cass City; Greg Harrington, Akron; and Kris Swartzendruber, Tuscola 4-H and Youth at Risk agent. The aim of the conference was to bring together members of county advisory councils to learn about emerging demographic trends, explore current issues, learn new leadership skills, and to share ideas.

Keynote speaker Mary Lou McPherson, Extension Community Development specialist, highlighted social and economic trends shaping Michigan communities and suggested ways that county councils can use information on these to connect Extension's educational programming with current local community issues.

Conference workshops explored a wide variety of topics, from land use and technology to building youth assets and food safety. Leadership development sessions focused on topics such as marketing Extension programs, identifying community issues and building partnerships.

A proclamation signed by Gov. John Engler declaring Sept. 18 "County Extension Council Day" was presented by Senator Alma Wheeler Smith and Lisa Curtis, representing Rep. David Meade.

The annual Friends of Extension Award was presented to former state legislator

The current ambitious plan to revitalize the Cass City downtown area is not the first that has been attempted. There have been 2 others in the last 40 years and perhaps others that occurred in the pre-historic times before I arrived in town.

There is a major difference between the previous plans and the one now underway. In the early efforts the problem of Main Street was just one facet of the plan. The emphasis was on industrial development and regulating where commercial firms could operate.

The early plans did provide a concentrated industrial development area and protect residential homeowners' property. In hindsight, one phase of previous plans that backfired was the attempt to discourage and perhaps eventually discontinue Main Street upper floor apart-

The clock has swung fullcircle on that one. Planners would love to see as many apartments as possible on the main stem.

While there have been other plans, there never has been one like the one launched last week. It's different because it deals solely with the business district and it's different because the village is ready to spend significant amounts of money to make it go. How much will be decided as the 2001 budget is adopted. The essence of the plan is to make downtown a pleasant place to wile away leisure time and enjoy a shopping experience. The plan details what's necessary to do this including customer benches on the walks, trash receptacles, customized banners and landscaping.

Landscaping by a professional is stressed. Façade improvement and elimination of substandard buildings are outlined together with special loans available and

My recent fish canning experience is a good example. I smoked some fish a few years ago, but I had never canned fish.

My wife canned lots of stuff before she learned her rights and got a full time job. Now, Connie won't go anywhere near a pressure cooker.

She told me where she hid the canner, though. So I built a smoker, got a new recipe, and went to work with some equipment I had never seen before. In other words, I did it my way.

I had some salmon and some sturgeon and started thawing the fish on Thursday night. I worked for the extension service years ago and knew fish is supposed to be thawed in the refrigerator, rather than on the kitchen counter.

I also know extension home economists will scare you to death if you ask them about food safety. They are right, of course, but scarey just the

Our fridge was full, so I put the fish outside in a cooler. It was 36 degrees outside, just like the refrigerator. By vides a comprehensive guide Saturday night my fish was thawed.

I mixed up the brine. Water, apple juice, soy sauce, salt, brown sugar, onion powder, and garlic powder. (Put it in a crock, keep it cold, and don't go out in public for a few days.)

Sunday morning I was ready to go. Wood, smoker, from the extension service.

I read the directions and followed them to the letter as much as possible. Finally, I thought, "If smoking fish was that dangerous, Lewis and Clark wouldn't have found anybody on the West Coast." I did my best, though. Monday I was ready to can. (The fish was kept cold after smoking, like it's supposed to be).

Then, I started looking for jars and lids. Found some of each and filled the jars with fish. Then I went back to find lids the same size as the jars. Finally, Monday afternoon the fish was canned! I had

Leadership forum

This past Thursday student council members attended a leadership forum at the Tuscola Technology Center in Caro, Michigan for the whole day. Cass City's student council members have been going to the Tech Center for this leadership forum for the past couple of years. This year Michelle Derfiny and Aaron Diegel were on the planning committee and helped organize the forum. This year's forum had an overall theme about success.

This forum gives students an opportunity to talk with kids from other schools and share the different things they do. Along with all the students, there were also several working adults that were brought in to speak as panelists. We had about forty minutes to listen to the panelists talk about previous positions and what they learned through these experiences. They also gave some very good advice.

We then split into several small groups with a new speaker and discussed different things. In my room we talked about jobs we had or have now and how we thought they were preparing us for a career we wanted to go into. It was quite interesting to see how many high schoolers had jobs and the types of jobs they had.

After all our discussions with the panelists and breakout speakers, we had went into a room set up with chairs and tables for our meeting with the school board. Johanna Hoelzle, President of the Executive Board, welcomed them and thanked them for taking time out of their busy schedules. Then student council members introduced themselves, stated their positions, and also explained why they joined student council. Johanna then thanked them for various things they did around the school (some of which we requested at last year's leadership forum). Some examples were the new mats in the gym, the new doors at the south entrance, the full-length mirror in the girl's bathroom, the new curtain in the speech room, and

Then we had some requests that various student council members addressed and presented to the board. Aaron Diegel brought up the idea for a new sound system in the gym, and that athletic events and other activities in the gym would really benefit from this. Matt Stoutenburg requested that the lockers in the girls' locker room be painted by the janitors, since the Girls Varsity Basketball Team already painted the rest on their own. Josh Dillon presented the idea of advanced placement classes and the fact that students would benefit from this be-After lunch was over we cause it would prepare them more for college.

After the board heard our requests we had the opportunity for an open discussion, and the board and council discussed some of the requests. As part of the closing, Mrs. Zawilinski announced that this was her last year and Aaron Diegel was recognized as the new student council member that would be on the school board and attend the meetings.

The forum was very productive and it was great that we could discuss our ideas and gratification's with the board. On behalf of student council, I just wanted to thank the people that attended the forum and took time out of their busy day for us. Thank you also for listening to our requests and thank you for all the effort you put into meeting our requests. Thank you also to all the student council members, on behalf of the executive board and Mrs. Zawilinski, for your excellent and respectful behavior. We as members of Cass City High School's student council really stood out as leaders of our school and community.

Letter to Our Community:

What's the latest "buzz" around town? Everyone I talk to is mentioning things like revitalization, the cost of hiring HyettPalma and how Cass City is going to pull this one off!

I believe that HyettPalma's recommendations to retain and recruit businesses, as well as beautify our downtown will prove invaluable. As for how we are going to do this, I believe we will have to do it one step at a time. Nothing worthwhile happens overnight. Can our people work together to accomplish this? If we look around, it is amazing how resourceful we can be. Look at the many great things our town has accomplished. Our community has an extraordinary amount of pride. We also have a lot of decent, hard-working, warm-hearted people here. How many times, when one of our own has been down on their luck. has had a catastrophe such as a home fire, medical situation, or a death in the family has this community opened their hearts and wallets to help? I am amazed and proud of how our community "takes care of their own". I believe these same people will be there to revitalize our

It is a fact that many small towns, including Cass City, have suffered because of the one-stop department stores that are invading our communities. These "marts" are claiming to be good for your town and cheaper than other businesses. The truth is they are not community-minded and are not always cheaper. They are trying to destroy the small towns around them and even the ones they are part of. Their goods and services are often inferior. Most times service is just plain non-ex-

I believe you get what you pay for. I believe our small stores often offer a better quality product and more personalized service. That being said, I do not feel being loyal to your downtown businesses gives them the right to price gouge. As business people we all need to look at our product or service and ask ourselves, "Would I pay that price for this?"

As consumers, when we leave our town, to shop for items or services that are readily available in town, we need to ask ourselves, "What did I just do?" The answer? "I left my neighbors, my friends and the business owners, who invested their time and hard-earned money to better my community, to line the pocket of some large corporation. How much will that large corporation do for me if my family needs a helping hand? Will these "marts" give me the support I need? Will they give from their hearts if my home burns and I have nowhere to go? If my child needs an operation and my insurance doesn't cover? If there's a death in my family and I simply need a hug, a kind word or a shoulder to cry on? I don't know about you, but I'm not holding out much hope that they will be there.

Every business owner wonders if their particular business will survive the test of time. I am no different. I hope ours can, but more importantly, I hope our town as a whole can. As a member of this community and as a business owner I would love to see this town thrive. I want the same things for my son, as my parents wanted for their children... a clean, safe town that we can all be proud of. I want businesses that I can count on to be there

Judges deserve voters support

To the Editor.

On the non-partisan section of the November ballot, voters will be asked to choose 3 Supreme Court Justices. I urge you to vote for Justices Markman, Taylor and Young. These hardworking judges deserve our vote because they have qualities we need on our Supreme Court - - integrity, fairness and common sense. Many votes skip the nonpartisan section of the ballot because "they don't know the candidates". In some areas that drop-off approaches 50 percent. If you don't skip the non-partisan section then your vote counts double.

As a concerned Michigan resident, trial judge, and former county chief drug unit prosecutor, I know Justices Markman, Taylor and Young as honest, intelligent and hardworking judges. In addition, their legal opinions are scholarly, well written, and based on the law. For all of these reasons and more, Justices Markman, Taylor and Young have earned, and deserve, our vote.

Please remember Justices Markman, Taylor and Young when you vote the non-partisan ballot. Thank you for your consideration and support of these outstanding incumbent justices on our Michigan Supreme Court.

In turn, we will all be helping ourselves. If the town prospers, our property values rise, our people have jobs and our heads will be held high. Ev-> population has increased. We must have something worthwhile here to attract so many people. Last week, one of our new residents asked me if I truly thought our community would do the hard work of revitalizing this town. Would they put in the long hours to build crosswalks, landscape and help to repair storefronts? Will they continue to shop their town and convince others to do the same? My answer is, "Yes, I believe they will!" We are farmers, who are used to long, hard hours spent in our fields. We are factory workers, working double shifts to get the product out. We are the doctors, nurses, mechanics, construction workers.... I'm thinking "We" invented hard work! We are up for the challenge! In order for Cass City to grow, we need to, as consumers, make a conscious effort to shop our town, to get involved in our community and to tell the businesses what we want. As business people we need to listen, even if we don't always like what we are hearing, we need to encourage new business, offer quality products and services and keep our businesses clean and attractive.

For those of you who shop our gift store or have been in to sign up for the Internet, or just stopped to chat - thank you. For those of you who buy your appliances, prescriptions, groceries, vehicles, etc., here in town thank you. For those of you who work in our factories, teach our children, clean our cars - thank you. We all play a part in making Cass City "the place to be".

Do I have any doubt that we can work together as a group (without one being more important than the other) to revitalize our town? NO! Why? Because this town is who WE are.

Sincerely,

Bunny (Newsome) Porter

Tax dollars should go to solutions, not new targets

To the Editor,

I read the "downtown vision" in your paper and I feel a need to comment. First, is there a "need" for brick crosswalks, customized banners, drinking fountains, or special signs in our parking lots? This will be at taxpayer expense. Second, why create more areas available for vandalism? We have many police working in Cass City and excel recording offenses, however the solving of offenses does not equal the solution tally mark. Areas that are repeatedly recorded are golf course, property vandalism, stolen cars, vans, RVs, defacing park gazebos, nature trail and walk trail and park equipment. Suggestions may be to spend money on motion activated lights and video equipment to increase "solution" to crime, rather than create more targets.

One rationale for the village offices to move downtown was that the "new" facility could have public restrooms. There is ample room there. It is now suggested that our local restaurants provide this service. This should not be a requirement for them to provide for "non-paying" customers. Places of business could provide this service, but then they would also need to pick up increased water and sewer costs. Business owners have traditionally paid extra for services to our community. They participate by donations for school programs, class projects and similar services. Service clubs have donated glasses, exams, physicals and project development.

As a former principal of our elementary school for over 21 years, hundreds of children were helped by Bill help our local theater stay open and was refused. It had to close and remained so for years. We now give big business tax breaks, but not the small business owner. The village pays over $6,000 a year to the Caro Airport so they can have close access to their planes. How does this help the small Cass City business man? We expect them to paint, improve, pay for advertisement, help our youth, give low prices to get our business. I heard one retired citizen mention when getting a prescription filled down town, "You know, there is a lot of interesting stuff in here. Haven't been in here before?

We do have some reputation as a central hub of the Thumb. This is good, but they must keep improving. Why are there people who continue to go to Saginaw, Detroit, Bay City for dialysis/shopping? We have a community that has not changed much in population of around 2,500 over the years. Our student population holds stable. There is a limit of what you can expect from that community. We do not need to spend more money on a part-time person to meet with small businessmen who are already struggling to keep business going. Our village council can call special meetings from time to time with them to work out plans.

The council's main job is tr provide good water service, sewer, and police and fire resources. We need to examine where we are losing 20% of our water. We chose as a council not to spend $80,000 on our water softening system, and all the old water mains are breaking and this after new construction occurs. A study needs to b, made to pinpoint problem areas and resolve them before they escalate to greater proportions. Is the loss greater at certain times of the year? The village would be better advised to spend their next $25,000 on water purification and closing leaks. Repairs are not made until property owners incur costs on their own as we did sev eral years past before the village became involved.

My family has lived here for over 55 years and have seen many things come and go. It is our/my town, and we're proud of it. We are former small business owners and this is the reason that I feel it necessary to expound on our village and the positive attributes of the unsung "heroes", our small businessman and taxpayers and the necessity of positive use of our tax based dollars.

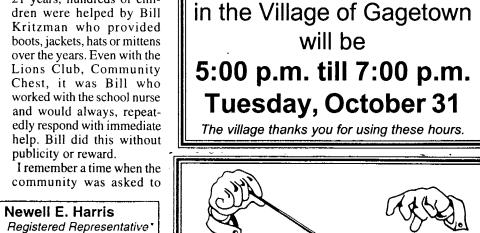

Sincerely, Jacqueline Freiburger

were Huron County Prosecutor Mark Gaertner and Tuscola County Sheriff Tom Kern. Gaertner noted some 800 concealed weapon permits have been issued in Huron County, which translates into about one permit for every 37 county residents. "And we have not had one single problem," he said.

Kern said discrimination in the issuance of concealed weapon permits is rampant statewide. "There's too much partiality, too much favoritism," he said, adding he would like to see the process taken out of the hands of gun boards and handled by the secretary of state.

OTHER ISSUES

Meyer and Stillwell-Binder disagreed when asked their opinions about Michigan's Proposal 00-2, which will also be decided by voters

:Hospital eyes new facility

Assisted living housing isn't a new concept. In Cass City, 2 separate efforts to build such a facility have failed to materialize in recent years. Developers proposed building the facilities in the northwest corner of the village, and one of them even began construction before abandoning the project.

But there is a real need locally for the assisted living concept, which offers some residents an alternative to living in a nursing home, according to McKrow.

She said hospital officials frequently see patients for whom assisted living would be ideal, providing them with independence through assistance with meal preparation and household chores. "There are quite a few people who fit into that category. That's why there is such a tremendous need for this.

The proposal would require a super majority, or twothirds votes, rather than a simple majority, in the Michigan House and Senate on bills that would eliminate or pre-empt local ordinances or charter provisions.

"I think it's just designed to circumvent the State Constitution," Meyer said. "I think it's another piece of bad legislation.'

Still-Binder indicated she supports the initiative. "I think it's a good idea," she said, adding she believe local units of government should be protected from state intervention. "We need to respect the chain of command and checks and balances.'

Asked about the potential of facing legislation that would permit marriages for gay and lesbian couples, Stillwell-Binder said her vote would be based on the beliefs of her constituency.

Meyer said he believes such marriages are wrong. "I would definitely vote against gay and lesbian marriages in the state of Michigan," he added.

But the candidates agreed on several other issues, including:

*Proposal 00-1, which would allow students in "failing" public school districts to receive about $3,000 in state funding to attend a non-public school of their choice. Both candidates said they believe the proposal represents a violation of separation of church and state.

*Disparity in the property taxes paid by mobile home owners and those paid by owners of real property. Both agreed the gap should be addressed and closed.

*A Mississippi law enacted to protect police officers and citizens from civil lawsuits in cases involving justifiable homicide. The candidates both indicated they would support similar legislation in Michigan. *Partial birth abortion. Meyer said he's a Pro-Life candidate and would not support abortion. Stillwell-Binder described herself as a Pro-Choice candidate, but said she is appalled by partial birth abortion and would support any measure to end such procedures provided her constituency agreed.

*The death penalty. The candidates both said they would support legislation allowing the death penalty in Michigan.

*Overcrowding at county jails. Both agreed they would support measures, including state funding, to relieve overcrowding.

The candidates also addressed decision-making and communication with their constituency.

"If I want to know about farming issues, I would go to farmers. If I wanted to know about education issues, I would go to everyone involved," Stillwell-Binder said. She noted she would like to utilize e-mail, newspapers and radio stations to maintain close contact with residents in the district.

Meyer said he would consider the stand of his party's leadership, talk to district residents and then research an issue before making a decision. As for communication, he said he would continue to listen to residents and maintain regular constituent hours to ensure residents have an opportunity to talk to him.

In his final statements, Meyer cited his broad business experience and commitment to communication with residents. "I've always rose to a leadership position in every organization I've been involved in," he said.

"I'm qualified for this job because I represent the working class. I am the working class," said Stillwell-Binder, who added she also brings the views of a working mother who is willing to work tirelessly to solve problems.

Aside from Meyer and Stillwell-Binder, several other candidates seeking office in the November election spoke briefly about their campaigns. They included Gaertner and Huron County Sheriff-elect Kent Tibbits, both running unopposed; and Kern and his Republican opponent, Troy Estes.

Soybean harvest, yield variable in Thumb area

Favorable weather last crop is averaging in the mid quality from the European to catch up on soybean harvest, but they were still only about a third done, according to Bruce Sutherland, branch manager of the Lansing office of Michigan Agricultural Commodities, a Michigan-based elevator and grain merchandiser.

"Farmers started and stopped several times because of the weather, so it's difficult to get a good handle on where the harvest is," he said. "Areas in the eastern part of the Thumb were still quite wet, so in those areas the crop may be somewhat less than 25 percent harvested,"

Farmers also report that yields are variable, Sutherland said.

"The latest report we have is that the crop will be about average, but below last year," he said. "Reports from central Michigan are that the week gave farmers a chance 40s (bushels per acre), with Union. Combine that with a lows in the 30s. But nobody said it's better than they anticipated."

The crop itself is in variable stages of development because of the wide range of planting dates this spring, again, due to weather, said Bob Boehm, manager of the commodity and marketing department at Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The early planted beans are coming off well, but the late crop that was planted into wet soil isn't quite as far along," he said.

A late soybean harvest may decrease wheat acreage in Michigan this year, Boehm said, but that may mean longterm price improvements, according to Sutherland.

"I think we can build a case for improved prices for wheat in the long term," he said. "The Australian crop is down, and China is experiencing drought. There are concerns over the crop's

Through the years, Marie has remained active on the farm. In fact, Ron noted, she always makes a point of wrapping up her spring cleaning early so she can help out with the spring farm work.

This year was a rare exception. Marie broke her hip last February and later underwent hip replacement surgery. She put as much effort into rehabilitation as she does into her farm work, but as spring approached, Ron explained, his mother had to undergo another surgery, this time to repair an ulcer.

"So, she missed out on spring work," he said. "She wasn't too happy."

However, he added, she was raring to go when it came time to harvest wheat. "She's a trooper. She'd rather do this than be sitting home, watching TV."

Marie, who has 3 children, 9 grandchildren and 5 great-grandchildren, agreed.

Bulldogs end season with 41-18 victory over visiting AuGres

The Owen-Gage gridiron season ended Friday in grand fashion when Coach Scott Gaeth's Bulldogs rushed past AuGres 41-18 in Owendale.

The hosts scored a season's best 6 touchdowns that included an impressive 388 rushing yards. The victory puts Owen-Gage in the official books at 5-4, its best finish since the 1989 campaign.

Senior Nick Warack turned in a dandy performance against the Wolverines in his final contest at Owendale. Warack tallied 3 scores and lead all rushers with 207 yards. For the season, The Diesel, ran for over 1,000 yards. Warack also did his part on the defensive side on the field recording 8 tackles.

Warack's junior back field partner, Nathan Kain, gave Bulldog backers' glimpses of a bright future, as he waltzed through the AuGres' defense for a pair of scores and 167 yards rushing.

The pair helped the hosts account for a quick 14-0 lead against AuGres on the Bulldogs' opening 2 drives. Kain struck first with a 25-yard jaunt to pay dirt and Warack followed with a 17-yard run near the 6-minute mark of the period.

The wolverines sliced into the hosts' advantage when Adam Little ended the opening quarter scoring on a 17vard run.

However, Kain and Warack would each score again before the half, where Owen-Gage enjoyed a 27-6 margin. Kain opened the 2nd quarter scoring when he crossed the goal line from one-yard out. Warack then ended the scoring with a 2-yard burst with just over a minute remaining

New books at library

Flint by Paul Eddy: Undercover policewoman Grace Flint is nearly killed when a sting operation goes awry. It takes months for her to heal physically, but mentally she is still dealing with the effects of nearly losing her life. When Flint gets an unexpected clue and disappears on a mission to find out who was responsible for her pain, she doesn't know she is getting into a complex web of international treachery, extortion and murder. Harry Cohen, former legal adviser to the British Security Services, gets involved because people are worried about Flint, or so they say. Cohen finds himself in the middle of a conspiracy involving governments on both sides of the Atlantic and the consequences for him and for Flint could be dire.

Digital Literacy by Paul Gilster (nonfiction): This book isn't about how to get around on the Internet. There are plenty of books on that subject. The book does provide, however, the basic thinking skills and core competencies novices need to thrive in an interactive environment which is different from the television and print media they are used to. Digital Literacy shows the reader how to evaluate sources of information found in news groups, bulletin boards and other online sources. It demonstrates how to focus search strategies and it leads you through the new rhetorical tools of hypertext and hypermedia. In the end the reader learns how to customize the Internet for professional and personal use.

Hong Kong by Stephen Coonts: Jack Grafton takes his wife Callie with him when he goes to Hong Kong to investigate a charge that Consul-General Tiger Cole is mixed up in a political money-raising scandal. The Graftons soon find that lots of trouble is brewing in Hong Kong. A political murder combined with the government's closure of a foreign bank are the sparks that set off an explosion and Tiger Cole is right in the middle of the action. When Callie is kidnapped, Jake asks for help from CIA operative Tommy Carmellini to save his wife. Jake soon finds himself embroiled in the civil war and he must make sure the right side wins.

Visiting Owen-Gage Coach Dave Fritz is hoping the home court edge holds true this Thursday for his cagers when Akron-Fairgrove invades Owendale.

Both schools traded hoops throughout the initial half at CPS and were deadlocked at 9 entering the 2nd quarter and then played to a 19-19 score at the intermission.

Aebel paced the hosts in the early going with 3 hoops from the floor. The Tigers, who collected 6 treys on the night, used a pair of 3-pointers from Melissa Schultz during the 2nd stanza to maintain pace with their Bulldog senior Dee Fritz offset the efforts of Schultz and Aebel in the opening half with an 8-13 effort from the foul stripe.

However, the Bulldogs continued to have problems at the charity line and converted just 23 of 40 tosses on the night.

The Tigers built a doubledigit advantage entering the game's final 8 minutes behind Aebel who recorded 14 of her game high 27 points in the 3rd frame. Aebel scored on a variety of inside moves and canned 2 shots from behind the 3-point arc during her scoring blitz. Fritz led the visitors with 17 points. Teammate Melissa Ziehm added a baker's dozen. Schultz was the only other player to reach double figures and tossed in 16.

Homakie, Pasant key win

Cass City edges Valley Lutheran

It took outstanding performances by a pair of Hawks at Valley Lutheran to enable the Cass City Red Hawks to post a hair-raising 39-38 decision in a Greater Thumb West game last Tuesday.

Not unexpectedly, one of the performances was by Sara Homakie who scored 19 points and ripped the boards for 15 rebounds. The other Hawk to step up was Elise Pasant who, coach John Maharg pointed out, played a fine floor game.

Both performances were needed as the 2 teams battled tooth and nail for the entire 4 quarters.

It was a defensive battle all the way. The Hawks jumped in front at the end of the first quarter, 10-6. Cass City used balanced scoring in the period and Valley Lutheran stayed in the hunt as Warnke accounted for all of the team's points with 3 hoops.

Valley Lutheran registered its best quarter of the night to close within a basket of the Hawks at the intermission. With balanced scoring with 6 players contributing, they outscored the Hawks 14-12 sion. Homakie scored 8 points in the quarter.

The teams traded baskets in the third quarter and it was a one-point game going into the final 8 minutes.

Valley Lutheran kept the game in doubt until the final minute with some fine free throw shooting. The losers converted 5 of 6 attempts. Cass City was just 2 of 5 from the charity circle, but were helped as Pasant converted a key trey for the Lakers muscle cage win over visiting Hawks

The surging Laker basketball team capitalized on its muscle under the boards to defeat the Cass City Red Hawks Thursday, 49-35, in a key Greater Thumb West league game and even the season's series between the schools.

Both schools now have a 5-3 league record facing an uphill battle for the league crown. They trail leagueleading Bay City All Saints (7-1) by 2 games and second place Reese (7-2) by a game and a half.

To have any chance at all the Hawks will need to win the rest of the way, starting with the next two games that will end a 5-game stretch on the road. The Hawks were to face Bad Axe Tuesday and USA Friday.

The team finally returns home Monday against Reese, a game changed from Tuesday because of Hallow-

It was an uphill battle with the Lakers all the way. Cass City trailed almost from the opening whistle and made several charges only to fall

The first came with 2:56 left in the second quarter when the Hawks tied the game at 15-all. Lakers answered the challenge to lead at the intermission, 19-16.

An 8-3 spurt by the Lakers starting the third quarter, pushed the Lakers in front 30-19 and proved too much for Cass City to overcome.

Sparked by some fine outside shooting by Diedre Deering and Elise Pasant. each with a pair of treys, Cass City moved to within 4 points and had the ball, but that proved to be the Hawks' last rally.

The Lakers took control again to chalk up the win.

Coach John Maharg said that the game was won under the boards. The Lakers were stronger than we were. We also missed too many shots in the paint. A bright spot for the team was the defense on the Laker guards. We shut them down pretty well, the coach added.

for the purpose of electing candidates to the various offices: Electors of the President/Vice-President of the United States, United States Senator, Representative in Congress-5th District, State Representative-83rd District, Members of the State Board of Education, Regents of the University of Michigan, Trustees of Michigan State University, Governors of Wayne State University, Prosecuting Attorney, Sheriff, County Clerk, County Treasurer, Register of Deeds, Drain Commissioner, County Surveyor, Road Commissioner, County Commissioner and nonpartisan candidates for Supreme Court Justice, Appeals Court Judge, Probate Court Judge and local offices (mayor, clerk, treasurer, council member and library board), if any. The following proposals will also appear on the ballot:

STATE PROPOSALS

PROPOSAL OO-1 A PROPOSAL TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION TO PERMIT STATE TO PROVIDE INDIRECT SUPPORT TO STUDENTS ATTENDING NONPUBLIC PRE-ELEMENTARY, ELEMENTARY AND SECONDARY SCHOOLS; ALLOW THE USE OF TUITION VOUCHERS IN CERTAIN SCHOOL DISTRICTS; AND REQUIRE ENCACTMENT OF TERACHER TESTING LAWS

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1.) Eliminate ban on indirect support of students attending nonpublic schools through tuition vouchers, credits, tax benefits, exemptions or deductions, subsidies, grants or loans of public monies or property.
- 2.) Allow students to use tuition vouchers to attend nonpublic schools in districts with a graduation rate. under 2/3 in 1998-1999 and districts approving tuition vouchers through school board action or a public vote. Each voucher would be limited to 1/2 of state average per-pupil public school revenue.
- 3.) Require teacher testing on academic subjects in public schools and in nonpublic schools redeeming tuition vouchers.
- 4.) Adjust minimum per-pupil funding from 1994-1995 to 2000-2001 level.

Should this proposal be adopted?

PROPOSAL OO-2

A PROPOSAL TO AMEND THE CONSTITUTION TO REQUIRE A SUPER MAJORITY VOGE (2/3 VOTE) OF THE STATE LEGISLATURE TO ENACT CERTAIN LAWS AFFECTING LOCAL GOVERNMENTS

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1.) Require a super majority vote (2/3 vote) of the State Legislature to enact any law which addresses a matter which a county, city, township, village or municipal authority could otherwise address under its governing powers or which places a condition on unrestricted aid extended local governments by the State. (Currently, a simple majority vote of legislature is required to enact such laws.)
- 2.) Retroactively apply the super majority vote requirement to any such law enacted on or after March 1,
- 3.) Exempt from the super majority vote requirement any such law which can be applied at the option of local governments.

Should this proposal be adopted?

Dairy production increases

Dairy herds in Michigan produced 462 million pounds of milk during September, up 4.1 percent from a year ago, according to the Federal/State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service. The daily rate per cow was 50.8 pounds, an increase of 1.3 pounds from 1999. The dairy herd was estimated at 303,000 head for September, up 1.3 percent from 1999.

Milk production in the 20 major states during September totaled 11.5 billion pounds, up 2.8 percent from September 1999. The August revision represented a decrease of 0.3 percent or 32 million pounds from last month's preliminary production estimate.

Brewster and Leone lived for nearly 7 years at Whysall, the Shaw family home, on Woodward Avenue in Bloomfield Hills. Early in 1945 they moved to Briarstone Farm in Cass City where he operated Shaw Contracting Company and 2 farms, Briarstone Farm on Pringle Road and Shaw Acres on M-81.

Shaw was a man of few words whose life was his family. His Hill School yearbook described him as a "staunch little man". He held a private pilot's license from 1929 to 1931. He flew a Waco bi-plane with the same engine Lindbergh used to cross the Atlantic. He once landed the plane on the lawn of the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island, and on another occasion, in the oval at Churchill Downs.

He loved to hunt and fish. He spent many happy hours with friends hunting pheasant over his Brittany Spaniels or English Setters in the fields at Briarstone Farm or fishing on Wildfowl Bay from his cottage near Caseville. He enjoyed several trips hunting moose and elk in Montana, Wyoming and Canada.

Most of his adult years were spent close to hearth and home. But during the last couple of years of his life he took 2 wonderful trips: a train trip across Canada and a cruise up the inside passage to Alaska.

He took pride in hard work. But his greatest pleasure was in his family and in the land. No funeral rites are being held. A get-together for family and friends is tentatively

Your Answer Corner

What do you want?

OK, this time we are not answering any questions, we are asking. This is a chance for you to tell us what you want from an auto repair shop, and yes, we really want to know. I'm not saying 🌠 we will do everything everybody wants, but we do want to make changes to better serve you. We sometimes feel that being a fair and honest dealership is en ough, but we want to know what you think. We, at Curtis Chrysler, would feel honored if you would give us your suggestions. Good or bad, we want to know. We want to be a part of your community and a part of your automotive lives. It would be nice if we can combine the trust and personalized service of yesteryear with the high tech repairs of the future. This is our goal at Curtis Chrysler and any help from you would be appreciated.
