Enrollment decline blamed

$250,000 savings expected following staff reduction

The Cass City School Board approved a reduction in staff that will save the district an estimated quarter million dollars in the next school

Cut will be one teacher in the elementary school, one in the middle school and another in administration. The post of full-time assistant high school principal will be consolidated. Jeff Hartel, now athletic director and assistant middle school principal, will do triple duty. He remains athletic director, but moves to the high school where he will work until 2 p.m. before returning to the middle school to finish the Retired Jim Mastie's classes in the seventh grade will be spread among the staff and he will not be replaced.

Several teachers have voiced concern about the staff reduction. Joan Helwig, guidance councilor, questioned whether having 3 different persons sharing the principal work would be effective. Dave Hoard who has served as athletic director feels that the workload for the athletic director would be too heavy.

Supt. Ken Micklash explained that the reductions were mandated by a decrease in enrollment. Over the years, he added, enrollment has varied little until recently. Now we are experiencing a sharp student decline. In 1998-99 the enrollment was 571 students. This year the total was 496. The trend is forecast to continue next year. The loss of about 100 students computes to a reduction of $670,000 in state aid. We need to cut our staff and are doing it through attrition rather than wait and be forced to terminate good teachers, Micklash pointed

KUNTZ HIRED

Dorland Kuntz was hired to assist new high school principal Jon Good in scheduling students and other work on the computer. He will be paid $10,000 up front for up to 200 hours of work and $50 an hour for any work after the preparing another person on the staff to know the work without any decision reached. Kuntz said class scheduling needs to be in the hands of one person to solve problems for the students.

Discussion centered over

In the short span of 5 years at the school, Lohela has become one of the betterknown community leaders in Cass City.

Her career here is marked by her inexhaustible energy and outstanding relations with students and their parents.

It was typical of her approach to her job that she is planning a goodbye party for the middle school students at the playscape Friday, June 28, at 2:30 p.m. She will be serving ice cream and homemade cookies.

One of the primary reasons is the salary offered. Lohela will receive some $20,000 more at Byron than she is receiving in Cass City.

One of the reasons that she was tapped for the job is that she worked with the present Byron superintendent when he was employed at Thornapple-Kellog School in Middleville.

Tuckey looks back on career

by Tom Montgomery Editor

Barb Tuckey has devoted her professional life to nurturing young minds in the classroom, but she's never lost the desire to continue learning herself.

During her 38 years of teaching, Tuckey not only went on to earn her master's degree, but she also earned 25 hours of educational credit beyond that, and she attended countless other classes in an effort to better herself as an educator.

Barb Tuckey

Even now, after announcing her retirement from her job as a third grade teacher at Campbell Elementary School, Tuckey is looking forward to future educational sessions, and to continue playing some role in helping youngsters experience the thrill of success when they discover they are, indeed, learning. "I'm leaving the door open," Tuckey said of her future plans in education. "I enjoy teaching - it's a rewarding experience. I thoroughly enjoyed doing it. Even with the difficult children, there's a reward," she added.

"I felt lucky to be teaching in Cass City. The wider the circle you go, the more you realize what a gem we have here. The people we have here are exceptional," Tuckey said, adding she's watched her fellow teachers go above and beyond to meet a variety of needs among their students.

"There's a compassion there and an understanding, and a high standard. It isn't something you can brag about because that's not how we do things here, but I think that's pretty special."

The decision to go into education wasn't difficult for Tuckey, whose family provided a multitude of inspiration, including a great-grandmother, cousin, brother and aunt who all chose teaching as a career.

Group targeting urban seniors, families

Quality of life key to local promotion

Several local residents are combining forces to launch a campaign designed to encourage families and senior citizens living in urban areas of the state to consider making Cass City their home.

The newly formed group, composed of representatives of the village's senior citizen community, real estate and home construction businesses, healthcare industry, chamber of commerce and others, plans to utilize a number of tools, including advertising and personal

Their goal is simple: to sell the quality of life Cass City has to offer.

"A group of us has been talking about the fact that this community, for many years, has been a nice place to retire," said spokesman L.E. Althaver, a former longtime village president who currently serves on Cass City's DDA-EDC Board.

Althaver noted local developer Tom Herron, who is among those spearheading the new campaign, has enjoyed much success in luring Detroit area retirees to his condominium complex over the past several years with advertising specifically targeting urban residents who are near retirement or who are simply looking for a

"We still think that's a viable market," Althaver said. 'We're going to try to appeal to the Detroit suburban market, and the Flint, Saginaw and Bay City areas." "What we're trying to do is sell the image of the community. The whole basis of this is a friendly, safe, secure, neat, full-of-pride community," he added. The selling points include outstanding recreational facilities, stateof-the art medical facilities and a solid school system. Cass City also is a regional center for businesses such as UPS and Detroit Edison, the Thumb Area Dialysis Center and Thumb MRI Center.

"The ultimate goal is more people, more shopping, more services. It means a better economy for our commu-

The group began meeting just a couple weeks ago, but has already begun work on an expanded website and brochures.

"We've identified and are working on some advertising connections in the city, and we've also established a distribution plan for the brochures," Althaver said.

In addition to advertising, the promotion will offer a toll-free phone number that will enable anyone interested to contact the village.

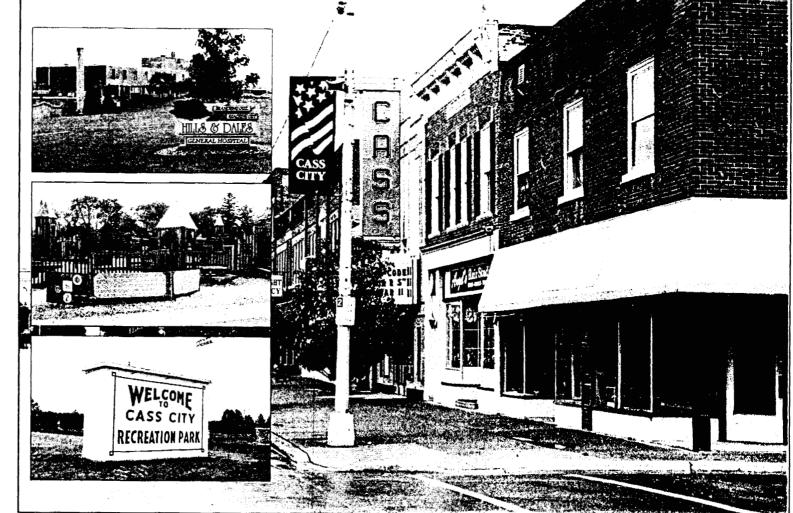

"A volunteer will call them back, make an appointment and host them on a very complete tour of the village," Althaver said, adding the pool of volunteers is composed of local residents who are excited about the community.

"Our experience is that it takes 3 to 7 visits to convince someone — this is the place they want to move to," he continued. Once someone indicates a real interest in the community, they will be provided with a list of area real estate professionals and home builders.

The promotion is being funded largely by private donations, and representatives of the local real estate and home construction businesses, as well as Northwood Meadows/Hills and Dales General Hospital have all committed some funding, Althaver said. "We're going to operate under the umbrella of the chamber of commerce, and donations would be appreciated," Althaver explained. He noted the arrangement enables community members to make tax-deductible donations.

Anyone interested in making a donation or learning more is encouraged to call the chamber office at (989) 872-4618.

A LOCAL GROUP of volunteers is gearing up for a campaign to lure retirees and families from urban areas in the state to Cass City. The promotion is emphasizing the quality of life the village has to offer.

Denali, Alaska's Great Wilderness: The Indians called the frozen peak of this great Alaskan mountain range DENALI, or "the high one." Most know it as Mount McKinley. This preserved wilderness comes to life with the thaw of spring and wildlife abounds during the brief summer, only to succumb to the grip of the long winter. Watch as five-week-old grizzly cubs play, a moose gives birth to her calf, and a wood frog survives the deep freeze of winter. Breathtaking shots of dazzling northern lights over vast and lush wilderness make this an unforgettable Eden. (60 minutes)

Round Robin: This film, about the summer in the life of a pair of robins, opens with a male robin establishing his territory in the backyard of an urban home in England. The robin defends his territory and chooses his mate, and together they build their nest and raise their young. Scientific aspects of territoriality and problems of raising young birds are explained. The photography is excellent with very good details of all activities. The narration, told through the male robin, is appealing and Marcia Schultz of Lapeer and Ann Fay of Waterford spent Friday afternoon and evening with their Aunt Charlotte LaPeer.

Our older grandson, Drew, celebrated his 10th birthday earlier this month with a Sponge Bob Square Pants

In case you're not familiar with Sponge Bob, ask your kids or grandkids, or tune in to the Nickelodeon channel.

I'm not sure how you do a Sponge Bob Square Pants party, but obviously our daughter-in-law, Shelley, knew. She could be a professional party planner.

When brother Spencer had his Spiderman birthday party in February, we were in California and got to see Spiderman himself show up to conduct the games, etc.

If the real Sponge Bob appeared for Drew's party, I'm sorry we missed it.

Whenever one of these unlikely characters becomes successful, I try to imagine how they came into being. Invariably I picture a couple of college age guys sitting around eating pizza and trying to out-burp each other. (You can see why it's always guys in my imagination.)

In the case of Sponge Bob, I envision a sponge lying innocently on the table by the pizza. One of the guys picks it up and starts a dialog in a falsetto voice. (Another scenario that seems more typically male.)

Then one of them sketches a stick figure with square pants. And they're off! How they manage to sell the idea is beyond my powers of imagination. With the phenomenally successful Christian videos, Veggie Tales, which feature characters like Larry the Cucumber and Bob the Tomato, I can see 2 different college guys with another pizza, same burping contest, looking at a can of vegetables beside the pizza.

One of them comments, "You know, if you took the "b" out of vegetables, you'd have "vegetales."

"Hey, we could make up tales about veggies!" says the other. And somehow it worked.

In reality, I don't have a clue as to how these ideas came about, but that's just about the only way I can see it hap-

But back to birthday par-

It's a good thing my kids grew up when they did. Birthday parties were few and far between in those days, and when they did have one, it was a pretty simple affair - a game or 2 and some cake and ice cream with a few friends. Something even an uninspired mom could handle.

I think our son and daughter had maybe 2 parties each in the 17 years they were part of our household. And we never felt they were slighted.

How times have changed! Now it's an annual event with a theme, party favors, piñatas, often with rented facilities, gifts for the attendees, etc.

When Drew had a cowboy party a few years ago, Shelley made. made, cowboy/girl vests for the dozen or so friends who came, along with cowboy hats, bandanas, and a picture of each kid on a 'wanted" poster. All this plus goodie bags to take home.

And she's not alone. We were in a restaurant the other week when a lady came in with a group of youngsters, including the birthday boy. Each guest received a video in addition to the meal.

Did I mention that birthday parties have become expensive affairs? One more reason we couldn't have managed it in the old days.

I thought it was unfortunate that Dawn Prieskorn decided to seek a seat on the Cass City School Board when incumbent Randy Severance was seeking election. Severance has been a popular, hard working and effective member of the board. Prieskorn has a record of community service, putting her shoulder to the wheel on many community events including the United Way.

It's likely that at least one of the current board members will be leaving the board at the conclusion of their term. When the vacancy occurs, the community will benefit if she runs again and is elected.

News travels fast. The day before Jeanne Lohela's resignation became generally known around town, she received a call from a reporter from the Grand Rapids Press asking about her new job as high school principal at Byron Center High

It must be a little discouraging to members of the Cass City Garden Club to learn that there are businesses in Cass City that do not want flower pots placed in front of their stores. Why they wouldn't is a mystery, because the pots are tended by club members. Maybe this lack of appreciation is one reason that Garden Club membership is declining.

Susan Shaw Richardson, sister of astronaut Brewster Shaw, asked for the place mentioned in the Chronicle where her brother was expected to speak. He does so many of these appearances I can't keep up, she said.

Another reason for the call was that she learned that the signs at the village entrances announcing that Cass City was the home of Brewster Shaw were replaced with a tribute to the state-champion girls' track team.

She called village manager Frank Sheridan and was relieved to learn that the current signs were planned for one year and will be replaced by the Shaw tribute signs when the year is over.

At an environmental forum held recently in Brighton all 8 gubernatorial candidates except Lt. Gov. Dick Posthumus favored expansion of the bottle deposit law.

It's been a great boon to Michigan's environment. Traveling the countryside north and south it's almost a given that any bottle found will be tossed by visitors from a state with no deposit requirements.

There's always a reluctance to change the status quo. Every change doesn't work out, but many of them do. When lead-free gas was first mandated, the wails reverberated across the state. The gas was more expensive and the engines didn't work as well without the traditional gas. Today engines thrive on no lead and leaded gas is merely a memory.

Like most of us, I like to feel that I welcome change, but really that's not true. If you have been around for a while you will recall the changes in refuse disposal.

At one time we got rid of the garbage and leaves and grass from our yards any way we pleased. My solution was to put the garbage in a barrel in the lawn in back of the house and burn it. Emptying the barrel of the burned debris was hired every few weeks.

Following that, I fretted because it became necessary to put the barrel in the front of the house to get service.

Worse than that, burning was outlawed in the village, ruining my practice of raking the leaves in the driveway and burning them.

It was a case of hollering before I was hit. The village started sweeping up leaves and all that was necessary

The project by the Gavel Club is another in a long series of improvement work at the park. One of the early projects was with the football field. The club sponsored the new field and then worked as ticket takers and other volunteer jobs to pay for the construction. Volunteer work at various athletic contests continues to this

The plan was approved by the Cass City School Board because it includes revamping the restroom facilities, which have been a major problem. The current facilities will be completely replaced. They are a mess, Supt. Ken Micklash said, dirty and often overflowing. An 18-foot addition to each side of the present stadium will be added, and used as locker rooms and toilet facilities. The current press was to get them in the street gutters. It beats burning by a wide margin. Regular garbage pick-up is a service well worth the small fee charged. The only negative is that the aroma from burning leaves will no longer be enjoyed. Taking care of returnables is a problem for retailers and they should be paid for their work.

There were no details about how many items would be added if the bottle bill expanded. The vote here is to put a deposit on every bottle and can. Once the goats' owners realize the fainting condition is heritable, they began breeding these animals to protect other livestock from predators. The idea was for the goat to become frightened by the predator and keel-over.

By the time the predator has finished with the goat, the sheep, turkeys, pigs have escaped. (Just like the old "grizzly bear and the hunters" joke.) This doesn't sound good to

The Cass City Rotary Club recently sent 6 juniors from Cass City High School to the Rotary Youth Leadership Camp in Clare, Michigan. In the spring, the teachers at the high school had a chance to nominate students who they thought would do a good job at representing Cass City. After an interview on April 23, Jason Barrigar, Nick Turner, Chris Maharg, Dara Iwankovitsch, Jessica Nicol, and myself were selected to attend this camp.

The seminar took place at Camp Rotary, which is run by the Boy Scouts of America, Lake Huron Area Council, from June 9 through June 13. We left Cass City on Sunday at 12:30 in the afternoon and arrived at the camp at 2:30 for check-in and cabin assignments. After getting the cabin assignments, we went to our cabin and tried to get to know the other students. The next thing for the day was to meet your group and group leader. The camp of 80 students was divided into 6 co-ed groups with about 15 people per group. At this time, the students talked and played games to try to get to know each other. Since this was a Boy Scout camp, there was a flag raising and lowering ceremony each day.

Sunday night the groups started planning their campfire. The groups were told that they had to make up a skit of at least 7 minutes long, and they would be performing the skit during the campfire on Tuesday night. With this in mind, the groups started their preparations and worked on this until the time came for the campfire.

Monday, there were 6 activities to rotate between. The activities were archery, field games, swimming, handicap walk, climbing, and C.O.P.E. Archery was more of an individual activity than a team effort. The field game that we played was ultimate Frisbee. This game is a lot like football but without tackling and with a Frisbee. Swimming was a swim test that you had to pass if you wanted to go in the water or go canoeing. The handicap walk was a group effort. This is where the group leader came up with different handicaps such as being mute, blind, and having only one arm or leg. Each group member had a handicap and had to get from point A to point B with the whole group. Once the group reached the destination, they talked about the group effort and then came up with harder handicaps and tried it all over again. The camp had a climbing wall, which you could repel down and climb back up. One of your group members would hold your rope, and you had to learn to trust each other. The last event was the C.O.P.E. course. This was a big physical activity. There were obstacles such as a 12 foot wall that your group would have to get everyone over. This made you work as a team and still learn to trust other people. If you didn't trust, then the activities wouldn't work. There were speakers Tuesday through Thursday mornings. The groups went back to activities after the speakers. Thursday, our last day, came quicker than we expected. Many people went to camp only knowing the few people from their school but left knowing more than half of the camp. Everyone enjoyed their experience at Camp Rotary. Jessica Nicol said, "I thought never in my life would I be able to trust total strangers. By going to Camp Rotary, I was allowed to form new friendships and learned to enjoy every minute of each day because you never know what life has in store for you." Chris Maharg said, "When I was chosen to go to Camp Rotary, I didn't know what to expect. Once I was there though, I learned to work in a group and overcome obstacles together. It was a great experience and I made many new friendships." Nick Turner said, "After I was told that I was accepted to attend Camp Rotary, I was sort of surprised. During school I never thought of myself as a leader. I took a chance and had an incredible time trusting and bonding with strangers and changing from strangers to close friends." Jason Barrigar said, "Going to Camp Rotary was the great-learned to trust people in a whole new way. It was a great place to meet new friends." Dara Iwankovitsch said, "Rotary Camp was a great experience. I'll never forget all the people I met and the good time I had.'

In 2000, Citizens for Traditional Values, one of the nation's top-tier pro-family advocacy groups, endorsed me. I also led the fight for marriage tax penalty relief, another measure that promotes traditional values. In addition, as co-Chairman of the Pro-Life Caucus in Congress, I fully support adoption as an alternative to abortion. Does my opponent support abortion over adoption? Would he prefer a child stricken with AIDS ends its life in the clinical setting of a hospital rather than be nurtured by a loving caregiver? Ask Mike what his choice would be if that child were his relative. In 1999, there were more than 3,600 children languishing in foster care in the District of Columbia. Sadly, many of those children fell into the least desirable adoptive category because they were too often suffering from HIV infection, crack cocaine addiction or some other horrific problem. The possibility that any couple, married or otherwise, might want to adopt them should have been encouraged, not disparaged.

As to the issue of same-sex adoptions, my opponent falsely claimed that a vote I cast in 1999 allowed homosexuals and unmarried couples to adopt children. Had my opponent been honest (a good family value) and checked his facts, he would have discovered the amendment I voted against applied only to couples in the District of Columbia and would have prohibited those not related by blood or marriage from adopting a child. I am unaware of a single case in the District of Columbia in which a child has been adopted by a homosexual couple as a result of my vote. Republican Congressman Dave Camp - someone Mike Green has characterized as a role model for family values and who attended a Green

650 attend annual TEC meet

An estimated 650 people braved a chilly wind and rain to attend the 65th annual meeting of the Thumb Electric Cooperative, held Saturday at Cass City Recreation

Re-elected to 3-year terms during the cooperative's business meeting were Beth Mc-Donald, Huron County; Allan Shaw, Sanilac County: and Martin Damm, Tuscola County. Others nominated for a director position were Phil Dast of Huron County. Donald Bush of Sanilac County, and Tuscola County resident Dwight Keinath.

The board of directors reelected Louis Wenzlaff president; Karl DeSimpelare, vice president; Beth McDonald, secretary; and Leonard Briolat, treasurer.

General Manager Michael Kraus presented the 2001 financial statement, which showed operating revenues of $10,560,933 and expenses of $9,898,478, resulting in an operating margin of $622,455.

The cooperative also earned $125,780 in interest on short-term investments, rental income and patronage capital from other cooperative organizations. Total assignable margins were $815,655 for 2001.

Members' 2001 patronage capital accounts were allocated nearly 8 cents on each dollar paid by TEC members. The 2001 general patronage retirement appeared as a credit on electric bills received in April 2002.

Wenzlaff highlighted the following areas:

*In 2001 TEC employees designed and constructed $2.7 million of new utility plant, bringing TEC's total investment in the 3-county service area to nearly $48 million, serving nearly 11,800 member accounts.

*Since patronage capital retirements began, TEC has refunded nearly $3.2 million to its members.

*The major projects for 2002 include the addition of 1,500 kW of generating capacity at TEC's Ubly Power Plant. TEC also has under construction a project with a total cost estimated at $1 million that will enhance transmission reliability in Sanilac County.

*Indicated the board's involvement in assuring TEC's members are protected as deregulation and open access began in 2002. It is TEC's position that it is unlikely deregulation will bring any real benefits to rural Michigan. The cooperatives in Michigan are not required to open their systems. until 2005.

*Successfully refinanced nearly $5 million in loans to lower interest rates, saving hundreds of thousands of dollars.

*Recognized TEC's employees for completing 4 years of no lost time accidents. Ed Falls and Keith Houghtaling, both scheduled to retire, were honored for their many years of service to TEC.

TEC General Manager Michael Krause highlighted the cooperative's financial status, rates, member services, marketing activities and patronage capital retirement. His report included:

*The cooperative maintained a strong financial position due to strong sale growth in kilowatt hours sales despite mild winter

*Members were lauded for their participation in TEC's energy management programs. More than 4,700 members are participating in the cooperative's managed water heating and dual fueled space conditioning programs. TEC's free electric water heater program continues to flourish, with more than 2.600 high efficiency water heaters being placed in members' homes and; busi-

*Members were informed that without new base load power plants using coal or nuclear fuel as supply, TEC can not continue to offer the reliable low cost electricity members have become accustom to. Long-term supply needs can't focus on natural gas as a supply source. Renewables such as wind and solar are starting to become more viable in certain locations around the nation, but they are not the answer to meeting long-term. growth.

*TEC continues to take a proactive business approach in the new deregulated environment to assure low cost yet reliable power supply sources for its members. TEC's current supply agreements run until late 2007. *In 2001, TEC paid more than $384,000 in property taxes to schools and governmental bodies in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

*TEC continued its maintenance program, including right-of-way clearing and pole testing programs.

*U.S. Congressmen Jim Barcia, State Senator Joel Gougeon and Representatives Tom Meyer and Steve Ehardt were recognized for their support of TEC and the rural electric program.

SOME GOOD NEWS

Everyone likes to hear good news, especially when it concerns them. Therefore, we should especially keep in mind the good news that God is always with us in the person of the Holy Spirit. When Jesus was born, it was prophesied that He would be called Emmanuel, which means "God is with us," and when Jesus went to His Father in Heaven, He sent the Holy Spirit to always be with us. However, having God with us does not mean that we will never have problems; it is simply the assurance that God will never leave or forsake us. Compared to eternity, we have been put on this earth for a short period of time. Our life is like a test to see how we each live our lives and how we react to all of the happenings of this world. The Bible tells us that we have all sinned and have fallen short of the glory of God (Romans 3:23). However, God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life (John 3:16). This is truly "Good News," because we are assured that this world is not the end for those who love and trust in the Lord.

It was a picture perfect weekend for an outdoor party, and probably few area bashes equaled the reveling that took place at Sanilac County's Evergreen Park. The park, located about 5 miles southeast of Cass City in Evergreen Township, resembled a tent city of sorts, with crowds of leather clad men and women milling around, stopping to talk and laugh, and browse the latest in leather wear or airbrushing art at vendors' booths.

Despite a sluggish start, agricultural representatives maintain crops are doing well. Carrie Andrich, agricultural agent of the Huron County Extension Office, said for the most part the crops are slightly behind but are about on average. Despite being a bit behind overall in terms of growth development, Andrich said the crops are doing better than last year. Bringing the Vietnam Veteran's Memorial Moving Wall was once a dream, but is slowly becoming a reality. Bob Gornowicz, a sponsor of the moving wall and coowner of Copeland Insurance Gornowicz Agency, Inc., said the wall is still on schedule to be on display at the Courthouse lawn in Sandusky. Opening ceremonies are scheduled for Aug. 23 at 9 a.m.

10 YEARS AGO

A handful of local residents voiced some concern over the possibility of a tax hike, but the mood was positive overall at a public hearing Monday night that focused on a proposed Downtown Development Authority for Cass City. President L.E. Althaver said a DDA is being considered because Cass City, like other small communities, faces a challenge concerning preservation and growth of its downtown area, particularly in the face of growing competition from larger retail chains.

Although it is impossible to predict at this time what school revenues will be, Supt. Ken Micklash said that even in a worst case scenario, the school will not have to raise taxes for operation next year. It's all speculation right now, the superintendent told the board, but if revenues dropped some $300,000, we would operate in the red, but could carry through the next school year. The reason is that the district spent some $200,000 this year on capital improvements, mostly for a new middle school building roof. Despite its name, some union employees at the Tendercare nursing home in Cass City believe when it comes to employees, the company doesn't live up to the name. The 85-member Local 79 of Service Employees International Union is in the midst of bargaining with Tendercare officials, and union steward Cora Remsing said she and others believe the company is trying to break the union.

25 YEARS AGO

The Cass City Village Council, at a special meeting Tuesday night, established priorities for the streets to be reconstructed with the $337,000 it is getting in federal public work funds. Cass City is receiving a total of $459,000 in federal funds, with the remaining $122,000 going to the school district for construction of the Campbell Elementary addi-shutdown on orders of the Thumb District Health Department. According to Edward L. Kimbrue, Health Department chief sanitarian for Tuscola County, the seven landfills were given interim operating permits a few years ago when it appeared the county Board of Commissioners was going to establish a county-owned landfill to serve the entire county.

Tuscola County's wheat crop will probably be about 25 percent less than normal, according to Tuscola County Extension Director William Bortel. In contrast to past years, when yields ranged from 35 to 60 bushels per acre, 25 to 35 bushels per acre will be common and 45 "will be real good".

One of the oldest businesses in the area will close Friday, July 14, when the Frutchey Bean Co. of Deford will close its doors, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Terry announced this week. The Deford elevator is one of the oldest in the chain of 24 elevators and warehouses in the present Frutchey

Presented by the Michigan Water Pollution Control Association, the award is a top safety honor given in recognition of three consecutive years of work without a lost-time injury at the Cass City Plant.

A rash of fires hit the Cass City area last week including a $30,000 blaze that destroyed Walt's Tavern in Gagetown. The cause of the fire, according to sheriff's officials was a toaster left plugged in located in the rear living quarters of the build-

After a two-day rain delay, the Giants and Orioles battled in the first game of the single elimination playoffs. The game was tight after 3 innings with the Giants clinging to a 3-2 lead. But with numerous doubles and walks in the 4th inning, the Orioles tallied 6 runs for some breathing room. The tough Orioles statement had no answer from the Giants. The stage was set for Friday night, pitting the top 2 teams in the Cass City Little League. The undefeated Yankees were ready for another rematch with the young Oriole batters. Like all year, the Yankees were able to come through for 3 more runs to grab back the lead, 5-

SUMMER TIPS

Protect Your Family at The Pool This Summer

(NU) - In the summer. swimming pools are filled with millions of people having funand staying cool. But did you know that germs can contaminate swimming water even if it is treated with chlorine?

This summer, learning about recreational water illnesses (RWIs) which are spread by swimming in contaminated water, such as swimming pools. waterparks, lakes BA and the ocean. can protect you from illness. RWIs caused by germs like "Crypto" (KRIP-toe, short for Cryptosporidium). Giardia (gee-ARE-dee-uh), E. coli 0157:H7 and Shigella (Shi-GEluh) and are spread by accidentally swallowing water that has been contaminated with fecal matter. Remember, you share the water with everyone in the pool.

Germs causing RWIs are killed by chlorine, but chlorine doesn't work right away. It takes time to kill germs. Plus. some germs like Crypto are resistent to historiae and got live. sistant to chlorine and can live in pools for days. That is why even the best maintained pools can spread illness.

Healthy swimming behaviors are needed to protect you and your family from RWIs and will help stop germs from getting in the pool in the first place. Here are six "P-L-E-As" promote healthy

Migraine headaches plague 6 out of 100

these chronic headaches is to (NAPS)--What migraine headaches? What are the symptoms? What causes them? And, most importantly, what prevents them? A common type of chronic headache, migraines affect six out of every 100 people-about 17 million Americans

More common among women, migraines usually strike people between the ages of 10 and 60. Migraine headaches are usually accompanied by throbbing, pulsating pain on the left, right or both sides of the head, and the pains are either severe or dull. Depending on the severity of the attacks, these headaches usually last six to 48 hours.

Even though symptoms of migraine headaches vary from person to person, there are still some common symptoms that are evident in most migraine cases. These may include nausea, vomiting, blurred vision, sensitivity to sound and light, and a tingling sensation. Severe migraines may incapacitate a person.

While migraine is most often inherited genetically, many researchers are taking a closer look at the changes in the brain and blood vessels occurring with migraines. Some believe that changes in brain activity cause the neryous system to respond. This leads to inflamed blood vessels and nerves around the brain, which can result in a migraine.

Environmental factors can also trigger migraines to flare up, such as specific noise pitches, lighting situations, weather and high altitudes. In addition, flare-ups can be instigated by physical factors and eating habits. These include too much sleep or too little sleep; stress; certain foods containing monosodium glutamate (MSG), such as seasoning salts and sauces; and foods containing high levels of nitrates, such as sausage, hot dogs and smoked fish.

Migraines may also be associated with gender. For instance, many women have migraine attacks linked to their menstrual cycles. In these cases, fluctuating estrogen levels are believed to play a role. Fortunately, this type of migraine tends learn how to manage them. This generally consists of drug therapy and lifestyle management. There are many migraine drugs available, but it is important that you find one that is best for your migraine condition.

Adjusting your lifestyle to avoid environmental elements that can trigger migraine headaches, such as dusty rooms, bad lighting, humid areas and noise levels, may also help to decrease the likelihood of attacks.

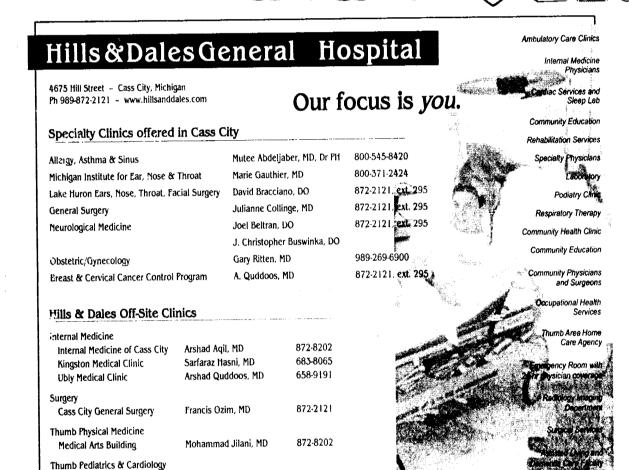

With proper knowledge about migraines and a physician's care, the frequency and severity of migraine attacks may decrease dramaticallyallowing you to live your life more comfortably.

Wheat crop behind

Michigan's 2002 winter wheat crop forecast was unchanged from last month, according to the Federal/ State Michigan Agricultural Statistics Service.

As a result of an exceedingly cool, wet May, the Michigan winter wheat crop is behind normal progress. Only about one-fifth of the crop had headed by June 1, well below the 5-year mean of 60 percent. This report was based on conditions as of June 1.

Some highlights of the Crop

Production Report include: Michigan wheat farmers expect to harvest 460,000 acres, down 100,000 acres from last year. Winter wheat in Michigan is forecast at 67 bushels per acre, up 3 bushels from 2001 but 5 bushels short of the record high of 72 bushels per acre set in 2000. Wheat production in the State is expected to total 30.8 million bushels, a de-

Tuckey looks back to both sides of the family. I came to this from a strong background," she said. "It was kind of a given, and it was during an era when there were 2 choices (for women); nursing and education."

Originally from the Chicago area, Tuckey earned her bachelor's degree from Michigan State University in 1964. She taught for about 6 months in Warren. Then, after meeting and marrying her husband, Bob, the couple moved to Cass City in 1965. That same fall, she was hired to teach sixth grade in town.

After 3 years, Tuckey left the classroom to have her daughter, Christine. She went back to work within a year, but left again 4 years later when her son, Steven was born. Tuckey didn't return to her classroom for 9 years, but served as a substitute teacher and taught night school.

When she did return, some 18 years ago, she taught third and fifth grades at Deford Elementary. After 4 years, named she took on a third grade class at Campbell Elementary, where she has remained

After starting out teaching sixth grade and then fifth grade, Tuckey confided she wasn't sure if she would enjoy the third grade, but she didn't have to wonder for

"I felt comfortable in third grade as a teacher, and the kids were always willing,' she said. "Third graders are honest. They like to deal directly with things, and given the opportunity, they do the right thing.

"And third grade is kind of a definitive year," Tuckey added. "This is the year that when they leave, they need to be successful learners. We know that if they are not successful by the third grade, their chance for success diminishes.'

Perhaps more than any other subject, reading has been a passion for Tuckey, and she's enjoyed being a part of the balanced literacy program established in Cass City about 7 years ago.

The emphasis in balanced literacy is on one-to-one and small group settings where teachers interact with students and focus on their individual needs, she explained, adding the program also emphasizes account-

Students to list

Central Michigan University's spring semester honors list includes several students from the Cass City area who earned a minimum 3.5 grade point average.

The area students are: Joshua Brinkman, Adam Dorland, Lindsey Gaszczynski, David Hobbs, Danielle Lapratt, Timothy Micklash, Steven Muska, Emily Rayl, Jennifer Winchester and Eric Zawilinski, all of Cass City; Amy Joles of Gagetown; Laura Laming, Heather Movish, Jessica Pollum and Alicia Walsh, all of Ubly; and Jennifer Bulgrien of Snover.

ability and incorporates a lot of writing.

"It really is a terrific approach. You're always looking at that child and saying, what do they need next. And vou build on it every year. It's progressive," she said.

The most exciting aspect of the program has been watching students learn, Tuckey said. "They see themselves as being successful readers," she added. "There's a moment when you see it click, and that student understands. That's the thing I'm going to miss the most.

Still, Tuckey is looking forward to having more time with her family, including her children and their families. She and Bob are also planning a 6,000-mile boat trip down the Mississippi River to Florida, then back up the East Coast.

"People tell you you'll know when it's time (to retire). I just felt it was time," Tuckey said.

"It's kind of a bittersweet decision," she said. "It's not an easy decision for me — it isn't an easy decision for many of us. We've enjoyed our work here."

Middleville, which is in the same athletic conference as Byron Center.

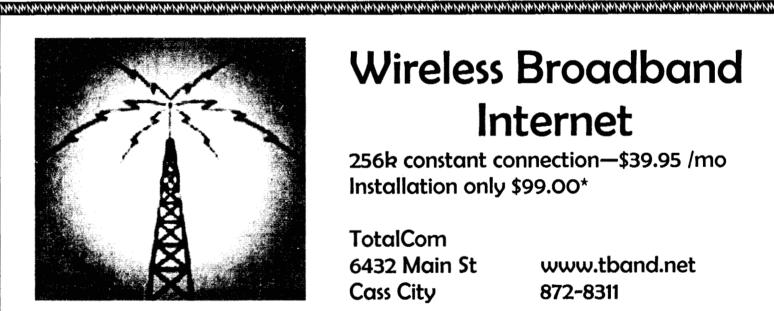

Although she is leaving and is committed for at least 3 years, long-range plans call for her to return to the area. "We haven't sold our home here", she advised us, as a born and raised Thumb area resident this is still home to Lohela will begin her new duties in August.

IT'S NOT NECESSARY to be an adult to give a helping hand to the residents at Tendercare in Cass City. Shelia Wasserman, right, will enter the eighth grade at Cass City Middle School next fall, but she has been volunteering for 2 years. Her helping hand includes painting nails for residents and working around the yard. Seeing that she does it right is her mother, Deanne, a 25-year employee at the facility.
