PERRY HELESKI feeds some of the elk at the Ubly area ranch he opened just 2 years ago. Heleski and his wife, Paulette, have diversified the operation in an effort to better their chances for long-term success.

Success story

Heleski: diversity key at Ubly elk ranch

by Tom Montgomery

Farming has always been a way of life for Perry Heleski, but the Ubly native took a big chance when he left his second job at Tower Automotive in Elkton 2 years ago to open his own elk ranch.

The risk has paid off for Heleski, 26, who feels his success so far has a lot to do with his decision to diversify.

"I could have filled my beef barns with 300 head of beef cattle, but then again you're left with only one option, and that's to sell (the animals) and get what you can get," Heleski said of the 80acre elk ranch he and his wife. Paulette, operate just north of Atwater Road on Thomas Road.

The couple have about 230 Rocky Mountain and Manitoban elk - 80 breeding age females and the rest yearlings and bulls.

Heleski, a 1994 Ubly High School graduate, said he devoted 6 months to research before opening the ranch, good fit with his agricultural background. "I grew up on a dairy farm, so working with livestock was not a problem at all," he said. "I tell people the difference between elk and cows is they run faster and kick harder. "When we originally got into this, our 2 main focuses were the meat industry and the antler industry. Then the velvet (antler) market took a slight hit, so we moved some of the bulls into the hunting industry.'

Heleski explained his operation involves several moneymaking ventures, including the sale of elk meat as well as specialty products such as pepper steak, jerky and summer sausage.

"We'll go through 40 to 50 animals a year in meat alone. People love the taste and quality of what we sell," he

"I call it the better red meat. It's a lot healthier for you," Heleski added, noting elk meat has .9 of a percent fat which has proven to be a per serving compared to 6.5 percent per serving of beef.

"Price-wise, it's a fair bit more, but you're paying for better quality. But, when you fry an (elk) burger, it doesn't cook down to a hockey puck."

The Heleski's also offer guided elk hunts on a 40acre, heavily wooded section of their ranch.

Hunters have their choice of weapon and time of their hunt. "We're a licensed preserve, so we can use anything in here," Heleski said. "If a hunter wants to go out at daybreak, we'll go out and sit down and I'll call them in. It normally takes 4 to 6 hours to do a good hunt out

"Most of our hunts will be done September through December. We should do right around 40 hunts this

"The good thing about it is you're guaranteed a bull," he said of his hunting packages, which range from $800 for a yearling cow up to $10,000 for a 400-class bull. All packages include slaughtering and packing, and the trophy bull hunts include a head and shoulder mount. "People like it because they don't have to take a week and a half off and go out west, and they're not guaranteed an

The Heleskis also harvest antlers while they're still in velvet. The antlers are ground up and sold as a joint pain remedy in Korea and the United States.

"The antlers will grow an inch a day. We cut them off 60 to 70 days after they start growing," Heleski said, adding the couple collects shed antlers and use them to make furniture.

The ranch also offers educational tours. "That's probably the most rewarding thing I do," Heleski noted. Probably the least enjoyable task has been wading through all the red tape involved in securing state certifications for the ranch. But Heleski is vigilant because he knows the health of his herd is the key to success.

"We're a TB certified ranch," he said, adding each of his animals has been tested for Chronic Wasting Disease (CWD) since April. "We are being monitored and we've been working real close with the state.

"There has not been a case of CWD in Michigan yet, to my knowledge. But to me, to get a disease like that would put me out of busi-

CWD is a brain disease related to Bovine Spongiform Encelphalopathy, also known as "Mad Cow Disease". The disease attacks the nervous systems of deer and elk, causing chronic weight loss that eventually leads to death. It is not known to be contagious to humans, livestock or other animals.

The detection of CWD in Wisconsin deer has prompted state officials to develop and implement plans for testing and, if necessary, to prevent the spread of the disease should it be found in Michigan.

Heleski hopes to all but eliminate the risk to his elk in the near future by relying on his herd alone to build

"Probably we'll have to bring in animals next year, and the following year that will be it," he said. "We're looking to be able to be selfsufficient out here."

Heleski also plans to be the only organic, certified elk ranch in the country following a switch from standard feed production to all-organic methods, which prohibit the use of fertilizers, pesticides and growth hormones.

Heleski is also looking to the future. I still farm 800 acres, and we're looking at a couple different options for statewide enrollment count revealed that student numbers in several Thumb area school districts, including Cass City, are continuing to

The count, conducted last Wednesday, revealed a total of 1,573 students in Cass City - 481 students at the high school, 515 at the middle school, 544 at Campbell Elementary, and 33 at Deford Elementary.

The local district has 21 fewer students compared to a year ago. The loss follows a decline of some 40 students from the year before.

In other area districts: Owen-Gage School officials reported an enrollment of 241 students - 86 students in the elementary grades and 155 at the junior-senior high school. The total is down by 23 students compared to a Kingston Community School officials reported an enrollment increase of 21 students compared to a year ago. Last week's count revealed 757 students - 379 students in the elementary grades, 345 in high school and 33 Teen Ranch students. The enrollment totaled 736 a year ago.

•Ubly Community School officials reported an enrollment of 912 students last week, with 462 students in the elementary grades 159 in junior high, 289 in high school and 2 alternative education students. The enrollment is up by 13 students compared to a year ago.

Cass City Schools receives $6,700 per student in state funding, an increase of $200 per student compared to last year. Still, the loss of 21 students is significant, adding up to a revenue loss of $140,700.

"I was expecting a little more (of a student loss), actually," school Supt. Ken Micklash said, noting this year's enrollment decline can be traced to a smaller kindergarten class - just under 100 students - combined with a graduating class of 125 students last year. "That pretty much accounts for the whole 20-student decrease this year.

"It (declining enrollment) seems to be where the trend is going in the upper Thumb area," Micklash said. "I guess I would still classify us as stable, but I'd probably change that if we see another declining year."

School officials already implemented several measures to offset the funding loss, including elimination of one administrative position, 4 teaching positions a bus driver and a part-time custodial position.

Enrollment in Cass City has fluctuated back and forth over the past several years. In 1984-85, the student population totaled 1,663. The numbers have since ranged from this year's low to a high of 1,683 in 1999. Enrollment has been a key factor in school funding throughout Michigan since voters approved Proposal A, which put the lion's share of local funding in the hands of the state for distribution to individual school districts. State dollars accounted for 88 percent of the Cass City Schools' revenue this year.

Schools receive the majority of their funding in the form of a state foundation allowance, which is applied to the number of students to see that we get the same enrolled in each district. The amount.'

enrollment is determined by "blending" 2 separate student counts; one conducted in September and the other during the previous Febru-

The state's formula places a heavy emphasis on the fall count, which is worth 80 percent of a district's blended total enrollment.

As for increases in state funding, Micklash indicated he isn't optimist about next year given the state's economic condition and a looming $1 billion deficit.

'The outlook for next year isn't real positive," he said. "It's up in the air. The only thing they've said is they're going to do the best they can

"I don't really see a lot of deer," said Arnie Karr, a wildlife habitat biologist at the DNR's Cass City Field Office. "It will definitely be worth their while to go hunt-

"One thing we have been seeing in the past couple years is where people are practicing volunteer quality deer management - we're seeing some pretty good results there. And, they're taking more does in those areas."

Karr said deer density has stabilized at 25 to 27 animals per square mile in Tuscola and Sanilac counties.

"Five years ago it was con-

14 percent last year.

There are few changes in hunting regulations this year. Hunters may purchase a single-tag buck license for the archery and firearm seasons, or a 2-tag license that allows hunters to take the deer whenever they choose. However, hunters who opt for the 2-tag license can kill a second buck only if the animal has at least 4 antler points on one side.

DNR officials say there are no more public land antlerless deer tags - those licenses were all issued during a lottery held July 1-Aug. 1 — but hunters with access to private land should have no problem purchasing one. One change this year is that hunters no longer have to submit a tax identification number to purchase a private land antlerless tag.

Archery season will continue through Nov. 14, followed by the 16-day regular firearm season. The archery season resumes Dec. 1 and remains open through Jan. 1.

In addition, the DNR has again scheduled a late antlerless deer season on private land only in several Michigan deer management units, including Tuscola and Sanilac counties. The hunt

Kingston bond issue approved

Kingston Community School voters narrowly approved a proposed $3.9 million bond issue to fund an elementary school expansion project.

The measure was approved by just 14 votes - 242 to 228, with a voter turnout of about 20 percent.

"I thought it would be close. Economically, things are tough right now," said school Supt. George Bednorek. "But we were fortunate to get it passed. We have just a super community. We're real pleased."

The request amounted to an additional .7 of a mill for 24.5 years. The millage rate will be 3.43 mills, however, the actual increase is much smaller because school officials have been able to refinance some debt.

School officials plan to add a 6-class wing along with some restroom facilities and storage space. In addition, plans call for a new cafetorium to be added onto the existing elementary gymnasium. The facility will

When I think about it, I know intellectually that Joe Weiler is old enough to retire. He's 62 now and quitting his job as administrator at McKenzie Hospital in Sandusky.

Weiler left a job as an administrator of Cass City Hospital and was involved in the community for 8 years prior to leaving in 1967.

In my mind, when the story of his retirement was announced I had to stop and say to myself that the Joe Weiler I pictured when his name surfaced was not the Joe Weiler of today.

The same time stops syndrome is alive and well everywhere I look.

I recently was contacted by an associate in the office of the air corps where we were stationed during World War II. I know that he's old and gray today (or maybe without any hair at all), but in my mind he's the young guy I knew over a half century ago. I often thought that it would be fabulous if all the office gang at Perrin Field, Sherman, Texas could get together for a reunion. Now I concede that it could be a deflating occasion. The guys and gals in the office I knew then, if alive, are not the ones that I conjure in the bubble of the fairyland past. Perhaps it's better to not be able to shatter rosy memories with a dose of reality. Once in a while, against all odds, the dream bubble is not shattered when an old acquaintance crosses the horizon. That occurred for me when a student at Pinconning High School attended a reunion. In a span of 50 years Joe changed so little that he looked as he did when I admired him as a kid for his outstanding athletic prow-

Well, they did it again. They messed up another election in Florida.

Now everybody is blaming everybody. Voters blame election officials, officials blame the voters and young people are blaming old people.

Don't blame the old people! It's like one guy said last fall. "Those folks play five bingo cards at once. They aren't confused that easily.'

They only way Florida is going to solve its election problem is to move the polls to Georgia. That way folks can stop and vote on their way down in the fall.

I'm told some Florida counties installed new touch screen voting machines for this election. Then they forgot to test the machines to see if folks knew how to use

Now they're saying the kids who installed the Florida machines knew how to use them, but the voters didn't. So election officials want to recruit some kids to teach people how to use voting machines

The whole thing reminds me of the time we visited my mother and dad in Florida. Mother and Dad lived in a mobile home park where the rules require residents to be 50 or older.

My son was about 10 on that visit, and he was into skateboarding. Russ would go outside with his skateboard and run up and down the streets - doing jumps and

Pretty soon we could see people peeking out from behind their window blinds. I'm sure they were thinking, "There's a kid in the park! There's a kid in the park!"

One day Dad told us about some folks whose relatives visited a few months earlier. Some of the permanent residents had to reprimand a couple of the kids for running near the pool.

"How old were the kids?" I asked. "Oh, about thirty," he Fall sports are in full swing. Besides girls' basketball, and football, there is golf, cross country, and boys' soccer going strong. Each of these sports are working hard this season to try to end the same. if not better, than last season. All teams have experienced a loss of people who helped ter this year." them succeed last year.

The golf team is coached by Ryan Pritchett. This year the team has 3 seniors, 4 juniors and 2 freshmen. Captain Chris Maharg said, "We're a young team this year. We could get a lot better, but it all comes down to getting four scores in every round in the low 40s." Over the summer, there were optional practices that the players could attend, but mostly they worked on their game individually. The golfers have 3 losses right now. One of the losses is a league match to Valley Lutheran. Their goal for the season is to win their 6th straight league title. The team will be having a fundraiser this fall at Rolling Hills Golf Course. This will be a 4 man scramble that anyone can join. The money raised will go towards golf supplies such as rain suits, team shirts, and golf balls.

The cross country team has 6 girls and 4 boys. They are headed by Amy Cuthrell and assisted by Jeff Schember. The captains are Anniea Tanton, Liz Hoyt and Ryan Thornton. During the summer they ran on their own to get into shape for the season. Their goals for the season are to finish every race and to win. Their team goal is to win the league this year and have people go to the state finals. Liz Hoyt said, "I wish that more people would try to run." Annjea Tanton said,

"This year has been really fun. We have had really tough practices and have been working very hard. I expect that our team will do really good and that all the girls that are running this year are great. We are going to have a lot of memories af-

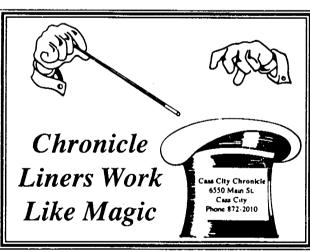

The boys' soccer team has grown a lot this year. They are now up to 21 guys. The team is headed by Chuck Reed and assisted by Jeff Windsor. There are 8 seniors, 2 juniors, 2 sophomores and 9 freshmen. The captains for the season are Josh Windsor, Cory Rickett, Jordan Glaza and Jarred Glaza. The soccer team has been practicing for this season since last winter. In the winter, they had optional indoor practices. Then during the summer many players played on their own or on a league. Some played AYSO, MMYSO (Mid-Michigan Youth Soccer Organization) and some coached or helped referee younger AYSO teams. So far, the season is going well. Everyone is working hard and giving it their all. Some goals for the season are to do better than last year, hopefully win more games, and to have the underclassmen get more experience so the team will stay strong next year. Josh Windsor said, "I'm looking forward to a good season. We've all come a long ways. Hopefully, we can finish with a couple more wins and we, the seniors, can prepare the freshmen for next

Thumb producers now eligible for federal payments

Beginning this month, beef and dairy cattle farmers along with sheep and buffalo producers in 72 Michigan counties, including the Thumb, can apply for federal disaster payments to help them recover from losses suffered as a result of last year's drought.

The assistance is being made available through a new $752 million Livestock Compensation Program authorized by the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA). The program makes livestock producers who reside in areas that have received primary disaster designation status due to drought in 2001 and/or 2002 eligible for compensation supported by USDA Section 32 funding.

The aid is designated to help livestock producers make up for national drought-related revenue losses of $103 million in 2001 and $583 million in 2002, along with additional expenses estimated at $51 million in 2001 and $415 million in 2002.

In determining revenue losses, USDA officials analyzed how drought factors such as heat stress and water availability contributed to animal death and unanticipated costs for utilities such as electricity and water.

Administered through local Farm Service Agency offices, payments will be $18 a head for beef cows, $31.50 a head for dairy cows, $13.50 a head for stockers, $4.50 a head for sheep, and $18 a head for buffalo. Producers will be subject to a $2.5 million gross income limit, and payments will be limited to $40,000 per person. The program is available statewide in 7 states and in specified counties in 30 additional states.

Michigan qualified based on a drought disaster designation granted in 2001 for heavy agricultural losses resulting from the year's dry, hot summer weather. While 72 counties were considered weather conditions.

"primary" disasters.

The Livestock Compensation Program only covers counties designated as "primary" disaster areas, so the program is available in all Michigan counties except Allegan, Baraga, Barry, Branch, Calhoun, Crawford, Eaton, Gogebic, Houghton, Keweenaw and Ontonagon.

Even though the program's focus is narrow in that it's specifically targeted at livestock producers in certain counties, it's extremely important for Michigan because it provides some relief to those farmers who operate in areas that were hardest hit by last year's drought," said Sarah Black, Michigan Farm Bureau national legislative

"These are farmers who normally may have grazed their animals, for instance, but were forced to incur higher feed costs because of the drought."

The program is also beneficial because livestock producers traditionally have been unable to purchase insurance for their animals like crop farmers can for their commodities, Black added.

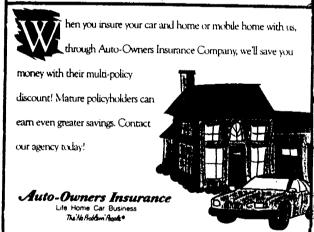

She noted that the 2002

federal disaster designation granted in July to 50 Michigan counties is not associated with the Livestock Compensation Program because the designation was not fied to drought, but rather record high temperatures in April followed by freezing temperatures, frost, hail, and cold, wet weather through

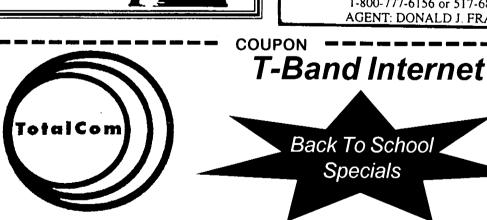

"Farm Bureau continues to push for broad-based federal disaster assistance to cover weather-related losses suffered this year and last year by farmers (for) all commodities," Black said.

Anti-gay stance hurting youth

I guess my last letter to the editor has stirred things up a bit, and I must admit I'm quite pleased. Not that people seem so angry but that it has brought some attention to the issue.

First off, I want to share a personal situation that happened to our family that made us realize what a problem some small towns (and yes, even some larger towns) have with homopho-

When my daughter, Laura, was in the 8th grade (she is presently a senior) she overheard kids using the word gay as a put down. She simply informed them that being gay isn't an insult. By the end of that day she had been called everything from a faggot-lover to a dyke and several other derogatory names in between. Strangers came up to her in school and asked, "Are you really a lesbian?" And when she asked

Had she been a weaker person and influenced by popular opinion, she would have bowed under the barrage of insults. But instead she learned from it and came out the winner. She said "Mom, I never realized how hard and scary it would be to grow up

This past year she had a pflag mom (p-flag stands for Parents, Friends, and Family of Lesbians and Gays) come and speak to one of her classes at school to try and educate. This mother's son was forced to drop out of school because of the physical abuse he had to endure by fellow students.

Now you may say as Christians you do not condone violence. But you discriminate against these people for no apparent reason and then want me to believe it's your Christian duty? Suicide is the leading cause of death in gay and lesbian youth, and whether you want to face it or not, your 'anti-gay' stance is responsible for most of it. Now I would like to respond to a few of the citizens who wrote in. One of the writers insinuated that I am somehow trying to take away their rights as Christians. I too am a Christian, Mr. Guinther, and just because I don't believe as you do, does not make this fact less true. If someone feels guilty or intimidated by their beliefs, then perhaps they need to do some soul searching.

The Bible doesn't give anyone the right to oppress others, and that no one can come up with any other reasons why gavs should be withheld of their basic human rights, other than 'The Bible says' is very troubling. Es-individuals chose to ignore many of the laws mentioned within the Bible. It seemed nobody wanted to answer why this law in particular is singled out and attacked with such fervor, when laws like stoning children and di-

These are not all laws of God, but laws of Jewish men at that time. And deep down I think you know it. If you truly disbelieve this, then please start applying all laws mentioned in the Bible to your own personal life. But do not force them on others, as people came to this country to get away from groups intent on religious bullying. Another of the people who wrote in had possible suggestions for what Lott 'might' have been trying to do. Very convenient... We can all twist the Bible and interpret it to meet our own view, but it doesn't make it right. Even the KKK found verses from the Bible to condone sla-

I sincerely wish you could all come and sit at a P-flag meeting and listen to the kids speak about how difficult it is to grow up gay, and to hear their moms and dads speak about how they fear for their children's safety.

In ending, I would like to say it has been a pleasure being able to share my family and my opinions, be they ever so unpopular. As for my family, we believe Jesus is love and that he would be sad to see how he has been misrepresented. We live in a very caring little community, and I am proud of it. But just because we are a small town, does not mean we all must think and be alike to be good citizens or people.

Drivers beware - it's car-deer crash season program recently announced by the Michigan Deer Crash compared to 8 deer-related Coalition (MDCC) underscores the need for motorists to be extra watchful for deer when driving this fall.

Public service announcements sent to all Michigan radio stations are part of the MDCC's campaign to keep the car-deer crash problem in the forefront of motorists' minds. Michigan's large deer herd is moving into the fall mating season, when they are the most active, and when most crashes occur.

"Michigan's car-deer crash totals have leveled out over the last 5 years," said Coalition Chairman Richard J. Miller of AAA Michigan, "but the results of these crashes in deaths, injuries and millions of dollars in damage caused each year remain huge.

In 2001, there were 66,993 crashes, up 3 percent from the year before. Forty-four percent of the crashes occurred in the October-December period. Due to unreported crashes, he said, the actual figure is pegged at closer to 80,000.

Crashes also are prevalent in spring when deer seek out the first green grass near highways. Since 1991, state car-deer crashes have risen 39 percent. Michigan's annual total represents nearly half of all reported car-deer crashes in 5 Midwestern states: Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and

Eleven Michigan motorists

A new public education were killed and 2,109 persons were injured in 2001, crash deaths and a similar number of injuries in 2000.

> "That means on average there are 184 crashes a day, one every 8 minutes, all year long," Miller said.

"The fact that there are cardeer crashes occurring in every Michigan county is why we are stressing to motorists to think 'deer', whether they are driving in Detroit's suburbs or in northern Michigan's woods, and always fasten your safety belts and drive defensively. Safety belts are your first line of defense in any crash." If a crash with a deer is unavoidable, the MDCC recommends motorists:

- * Stay in your lane.
- * Brake firmly.
- * Hold onto the steering wheel.
- Come to a controlled stop. Get your vehicle off the roadway.

'Very few persons are injured by simply striking a deer. They are injured when they swerve to try to avoid a crash, go out of control and hit an obstacle or an oncoming car, or roll over. And they often hit the deer regardless, Miller said.

Several factors are combining to make the car-deer crash problem grow, he said. Urban growth spreading into deer habitat and a swelling deer population that is 4 times higher than in 1970 combine to force deer into smaller areas and into contact with people - too often in the form of car-deer colli-

Many drivers may think that most car-deer crashes occur in northern Michigan. However, more than half occur in southern Lower Michigan.

Here are some tips to avoid injury should you encounter a deer in the road:

* Watch for deer at dawn and dusk. Deer are most active then, especially during the fall mating season. In the spring deer will move from cover to find food, and back to cover. They often feed along roads, where grass greens up first.

* If you see one deer, there may be more. Deer often travel single file so if you see one deer cross the road, chances are more are nearby waiting to cross. When startled by an oncoming vehicle, they can dart out from any direction without warn-

* Be alert all year long in areas inhabited by deer, and especially on two-lane roads. Watch for deer warning signs. They are placed near known deer crossing areas and are your first alert that deer may be in the area.

Pallas harvests 64-pound watermelon in his Evergreen Township garden

Monster melon

Herbert Pallas had all but any young melons on the with the plants, I just like to given up on his watermelon crop this year. In fact, the avid home gardener didn't expect to harvest a single

That all changed, however, after the Evergreen Township man discovered one plant emerging. Weeks later, the plant's vines appeared to be barren, but they did yield a single, nice watermelon.

And then it began to grow. Pallas, 72, recently harvested that melon, which weighed in at a whopping 64 pounds, beating his previous largest watermelon by about 12 pounds.

"If I'd had a normal growing season this year, I bet I'd have had a melon around 100 pounds," he said, referring to drought-like conditions that ravaged the pair of 35-foot by 80-foot gardens he tends at his Decker area

"I've never seen a year like it. This was a very odd year." added Pallas, a retired mobile home production worker who has been gardening most of his life.

Pallas recalled purchasing his watermelon seed - a variety known as Carolina Cross - from the Jung Seed Catalogue. The catalogue described the watermelon as a 95-day variety with the potential of producing melons up to 260 pounds.

"I've tried them (watermelon) for the last couple of vears, and I had them up to 51 pounds a couple years ago," he said. "This year, I planted them and they took so long to come up, I decided the seeds rotted in the ground, so I tore them up and planted cucumbers.'

Later, Pallas was surprised to find a watermelon plant growing, but he didn't see plant at first.

Although his prized watermelon marks a personal best, Pallas has also had success with pumpkins, harvesting some weighing up to 200 pounds. He also enjoys growing corn, tomatoes, cucumbers and squash.

"I like to grow melons. I don't do anything special see how good they grow each year," he said. "I'm always experimenting.

As for the fate of his 64pound watermelon, Pallas is planning to enjoy the fruit of his labor.

"If I'm satisfied I've got a picture of it, I guess I'll cut it and hope the Lord it's ripe," means to be a social animal is to be aware of and responsive to, others' prestige or status. In our society, much of this status derives from material possessions. The kind of car we drive, the house we live in, the clothes we wear, who we are friends with - all of these things make a statement about the kind of person we are, or want to be. We are keenly aware of these things in others, and they help to shape our thoughts and feelings about them. Unfortunately, we often care too much about what others think of us, and we sometimes form hasty judgements about our fellow human beings based on superficial appearances. It is difficult not to be envious when we see people with nice things, such as expensive cars and homes, or with prestigious jobs and beautiful spouses. However, the envy we feel is ultimately damaging to ourselves, making us feel inadequate because we lack these things. The real sin of envy is not that it makes us mistreat our neighbors so much as it makes us think less of ourselves.

The Sin of Envy

You shall not covet your neighbor's house; you shall not covet your neighbor's wife ellipse or anything that is your neighbor's. R.S.V. Exodus 20:17

Hatchets use OT to defeat Cass City

The Hawks played twice at home this past week, recording a 1-1 tie against USA and a 2-1 loss in overtime against

The Hawks came out fast against USA, scoring on a penalty kick by Sean McFarland in the first minute. USA tied the game shortly after and that ended the scoring for the night. The intensity and action continued for the rest of the game, as the Hawks put constant pressure on the USA keeper. Caleb Hanby had 16 saves in net and Jarred Glaza and Joe Nauka had strong games on defense. Norm Pierce continued to play well, as did Hendrik Schmidt and Cory Rickett. USA had trouble mounting any consistent attack, and threatened only once late in the game.

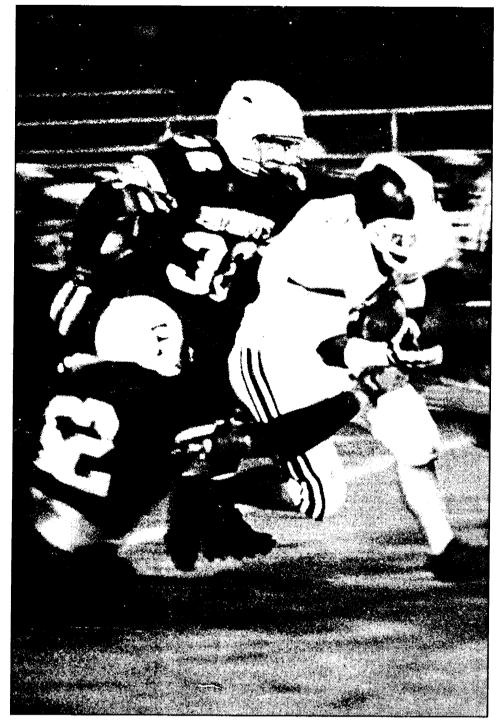

Offense was carried by Josh Windsor, Jordan Glaza and Stan Woodruff with lots of help from Ivan Peruski, Sam Howard and Lcon Sullins. Offense was putting pressure on USA the entire game, but failed to get the game winner even though play was in the offensive end most of the night.

Even though this was a league game, USA declined to play overtime to decide the contest and the Hawk fans left extremely disappointed at the outcome.

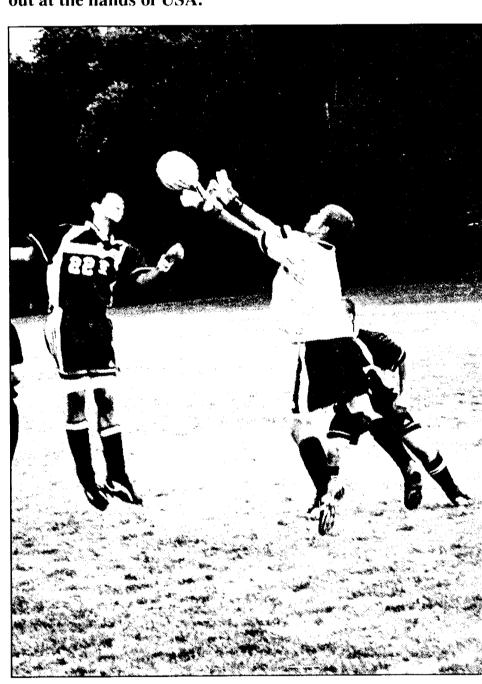

BADAXE

This was an extremely competitive game from the start as the score at half, 0-0, reflected. Cass City mounted several good scoring opportunities in the first half, as did Bad Axe, but good keeper play on both sides prevented any scoring. Caleb Hanby had 28 saves for the game, including a penalty kick in overtime, and the Hatchet keeper also stopped a penalty kick in regulation. Sean McFarland and Eric Reed had good scoring chances during the game, as did Sam Howard, and McFarland's goal in the second half put the Hawks ahead. Josh Windsor played an excellent defensive game covering the Hatchet's forward Matt Grevehble, one of the best players in the area. Two penalties against the Hawks late in the game resulted in the tying goal and two penalties called back to back in overtime resulted in the Bad Axe game winner.

The defense played an extremely aggressive game and kept the Hatchets from developing any type of consistent attack, while the Hawks created several good scoring chances using a passing attack that has not always been there in earlier games. The team is starting to gel and everyone is playing well together at this point. The loss was disappointing, but the effort and intensity of play was encouraging for the future, coach Chuck Reed said.

CASS CITY'S Matt Stoutenburg tries to get by a pair of Patriot defenders during the first quarter of Friday's 30-0 shutout at the hands of USA.

Potent Reese next

Cass City no match for hosts USA

It was a disappointing loss for the Cass City Red Hawks as they were overpowered by Unionville-Sebewaing, 30-0, in Greater Thumb West league action.

The Patriots were not as overpowering as the final score indicates. They cashed in on Hawk turnovers to barge in front by 2 touchdowns in the first quarter.

The first turnover came on the first series as Cass City was in a shotgun formation and the pass from center sailed over Nick Stoutenburg's head. USA took possession on the Cass City 20 and scored on a run from the 12-yard line by Bob Saenz.

The Hawks followed the first turnover with fumbles the next 2 times they had the ball.

The second USA touchdown was netted by Brad Gruehn on a 5-yard run. The 2-point conversion was good.

The Hawks will need to eliminate the turnovers if they are to have a chance to register their second win of the season Friday when they meet potent Reese, one of the elite teams in the GTW this

After a scoreless second quarter the Patriots scored twice in the last half. In the third quarter Ben Alegria scored on a 33-yard run and

The Pirates jumped out to a quick 12-0 advantage and then cruised to a decisive 45-0 North Central Thumb League victory.

The Pirates, who improved to 3-1 in NCTL play, recorded 2 scores before the hosts ran one offensive play. Quarterback Brandon Fairman accounted for both scores. He capped the visitors' opening drive with a short run around his own right end. Then, following a successful on-side kick, Fairman gave the Pirates a 12-0 edge entering the second stanza on a short burst through the middle of the Bulldog defense. In addition to the on-side kick, the Pirates also converted a fake punt to chalk-up its final score of the opening quarter.

Hawks set stage for battle of unbeatens with easy victories over Marlette, USA

Just where do the Cass City Red Hawks rank among the elite teams in the Thumb? The question was expected to be answered Tuesday when the undefeated Hawks faced the undefeated Mayville Wildcats. After that test the Hawks return to GTW action at Reese Thursday.

The Hawks warmed up for the Mayville test with a pair of wins over Marlette and Unionville-Sebewaing last week.

Neither game provided a major test for Cass City. USA stayed with the Hawks, trailing in the first quarter by just 2 points.

Cass City then used 2 big quarters and some tight defense to put the game way. In the second quarter Cass City roared to a 17-4 advantage led by Becky Hartel who knocked in a deuce and a 3pointer. In the quarter, 6 Hawks shared the scoring load.

It was more of the same in the third quarter. Led by Amy Howard, who posted 8 of her 12 points in the period, Cass City lengthened its lead to 45-15 going into the final quarter.

Eleven of the 13 players on the squad scored for Cass City. Hartel contributed 7 points, 4 rebounds, 5 assists and 3 steals. Freshman Ashley Hendrick led the rebounders with 8. The Hawks converted 22 of 53 shots for 42 percent.

MARLETTE GAME

It was a game for only the first 5 minutes and after that Cass City completely dominated the Marlette Red Raiders and waltzed to an easy 45-27 decision.

Howard opened the game with 2 quick hoops and Cass City never trailed, although the Raiders tied the game at 5-all midway through the period.

After that it was all Cass City. Marlette just couldn't cope with the Hawks' defensive pressure. Two quick turnovers started Cass City on a 9-point run and the Raiders trailed at the end of the first quarter, 17-7.

The Hawks' pressure defense caused numerous turn-

Bulldogs still alive in NCTL North title race

The Owen-Gage Bulldogs won a pair of victories last week and stayed in contention for the championship of the North Central Thumb North league with a win over North Huron and a crossover decision over C-PS.

The Bulldogs were favorites to defeat winless Akron-Fairgrove Tuesday in a league battle before facing Dryden on the road Thursday. An important league game is set next Tuesday with Caseville that is tied with Owen-Gage in the league race.

The Bulldogs were led by Kelly Zaleski in the win over North Huron and by Kayla Zaleski in the 48-37 decision over C-PS.

The Bulldogs were forced to come from behind to post the win Thursday over C-PS. The Bulldogs trailed at the end of the first quarter, 8-7. Both the Bulldogs and the Tigers warmed up the offense in the second quarter as Kavla Zaleski netted a pair of hoops and Katie Swiastyn converted 3 of 4 charity tosses. Kayla Ostrander who finished with 15 points kept the Tigers in contention with 3 hoops in

The Bulldogs were in front, 30-25, going into the final 8 minutes and Kelly Zaleski made sure that the Tigers wouldn't catch up.

She capped her big night with 8 points in the fourth quarter to end with 21 points to lead all scorers.

NORTH HURON GAME

Earlier in the week. On Tuesday, it was a tight defensive battle in the first half and an offensive explosion in the last half. Fortunately for Bulldog fans the O-G defense was a little tighter and its offense a shade more explosive than North Huron's. The Bulldogs won the North Central Thumb League North battle, margin to 15-9 going into the second quarter as Kelly Zaleski, shut out in the first quarter, started her career best scoring night with a pair of hoops.

Kelly burned the nets for 6 hoops in the third quarter and another in the last period. She also converted 3 of 4 free throws during crunch time to protect a lead that was down to 7 points.

Stephanie Berens did her best to keep North Huron in the game in the third quarter. The Bulldogs had stretched the lead to 14 points midway through the quarter. Berens scored all of her 8 points in the period to keep North Huron still in the game, 35-25, going into the last quar-

Kelly Zaleski scored 21 points, the only player on either team in double figures.

Get ready for winter now

Step by step guide to home repair projects

You can blame pop culture with a hose bib (common or blame the media, but the Warju's & Moore Carpet Installation & Carpet Cleaning truth is, women have always Fix-It' when things go bump, then crash in the house. Well, times are continually changing, and when 'Mr. Fix-It' is unavailable or worse - not handy at all - women are rolling up their sleeves, grabbing a socket wrench and tackling home improve-had to wait around for 'Mr.

The winter season is approaching, and there are several home-improvement projects lying in wait for eager hands. Take a look at how to master them, courtesy of "Dare to Repair: A Do-It-Herself Guide to Fixing (Almost) Anything in the Home" (HarperResource), by Julie Sussman and Stephanic Glakas-Tenet. Filled with detailed step-by-step illustrations for many of the repairs, the book is instructive, motivating, witty in tone and downright fun. Following are some of the easy homeimprovement projects the book contains:

• Winterize plumbing - You may not be ready to pull out your winter clothing, but don't put off covering those exposed water pipes in your home and winterizing your exterior water faucets. Whether you live in a new home with a frost-free exterior faucet or in an older home exterior faucet), your faucets are vulnerable during a harsh winter. The most important thing you can do to prevent faucets and pipes from freezing is to rid them of any water before winter. This project culminates in capping off exterior faucets with a cold weather faucet cover and covering exposed pipes with insulation. This job requires relatively few tools, including lubricating spray, an adjustable wrench, a rag and a cold weather faucet cover. • Clear gutters and downspouts - Gutters and downspouts are important parts of your home's exterior drainage system. They help prevent leaks in walls and the roof by draining away rain water and melting snow every year, so it's important to maintain them, especially in the fall and winter. Decayed leaves and mud can block the flow of water in the gutters and mineral deposits can lead to corrosion.

Cleaning the gutter system is not a difficult job, but it may be time consuming depending upon the size of your home. You'll need a ladder, a garden hose with spray nozzle, a bucket or a plastic grocery bag for collecting the leaves and a garden trowel or scoop to clear out the caked-on mess. You may also want to enlist a friend to help you correctly angle the ladder against the exterior of · Bleed hot water radiators - Many older homes utilize hot water radiators instead of a forced-air system. To help the system work efficiently, you need to clean it regularly and bleed it every fall. To bleed a radiator means to remove the hot air trapped inside that is blocking the flow of heat. Older radiators typically require a valve key to turn the bleeder valve; if not a screwdriver might work.

• The secret of the circuit breaker - Electrical systems are often a mystery to people, but they are responsible for running most of the appliances in your home. If you have a power outage, you should know how to quickly assess and remedy the situation.

Every home, whether it's an apartment or mansion has either circuit breakers or fuses located in the main service panel (typically a metal box). The purpose of circuit breakers and fuses is not to provide electricity to your home, but rather to protect the wires they're connected to from overheating. If too much power surges through the system, the circuit breaker will trip or the fuse will blow to cut off the power to your appliance, lighting fixture or other electrical

It's important to know that when working with a fuse or circuit breaker, you should only use one hand, while keeping the other at your side. The reason is that electricity will always find the quickest path to the ground. Therefore, if you have one hand on the main service panel and one on a fuse or circuit breaker, you could receive an electrical shock.

Whether you're living on your own, trying to save money, or out to prove a point, you will celebrate the emotional - and financial rewards of mechanical knowhow this season. To pick up a copy of "Dare to Repair," visit your local bookseller. Then make sure you're prepared for your improvements with OXO tools, available at www.oxo.com. FH029738

5 for $1.00 CASS CITY CHRONICLE 872-2010

MORE AND MORE political endorsement signs are springing up in Cass City and throughout the Thumb as local and state candidates vie for support. The Nov. 5 general election is less than 6 weeks away.

4-H Centennial Alumnus

Laurie among honorees

Two Tuscola County 4-H alumni were among 62 former 4-H members honored Sept. 13 as 4-H Centennial Alumni.

Margaret A. Bethel, of Belmont, and John G. Laurie, of Cass City, were recognized by Michigan 4-H Youth Development at the 4-H Centennial Gala at the Michigan Historical Museum in Lansing. The Michigan 4-H Centennial Alumni were chosen for recognition as part of Michigan's celebration of the 100th anniversary of national 4-H and the Michigan 4-H Foundation's 50th anniversary.

They were inducted into the inaugural class of the Michigan 4-H Emerald Clover Society, which honors former Michigan 4-H members whose professional leadership and community service reflect the ultimate outcome of 4-H membership - extraordinary use of an individual's head, heart, hands and health to make communities, the country and the world better places in which to live.

Laurie retired in 2000 as president emeritus of the Michigan Farm Bureau. During his tenure, he had significant impact on state legislative support for agricultural research and education. He chaired the executive committee that led the Revitalization of Animal Agriculture in Michigan Initiative, which helped to build and renovate livestock research facilities and increase staffing for the animal agriculture programs at Michigan State University.

He has been an avid supporter and advocate for Michigan 4-H, especially for the Vision 2021 Campaign to renovate Kettunen Center. the state 4-H leadership training center.

After 2002, Michigan 4-H Emerald Clover Society members will be inducted every 2 years. For more information on the 2002 class, visit www.mi4hfdtn.org/ecs.

Christians to meet candidates

An election-year tradition continues in Tuscola County at Caro's First Baptist Church Oct. 14.

"Christians Meet the Candidates" is a forum where ministers and church laymen get to question candidates for public office on the issues of special concern to evangelical believers. It has been held somewhere each election year for more than 20 years under the sponsorship of independent Baptist

This year's meeting will be held the second Monday evening of October at 7 p.m., and the public is invited.

Republican and Democratic nominees whose names will appear on the ballot for the general election Nov. 5 have been responding to C.M.C.'s invitations to participate in the forum.

Both Jim Barcia and Mike Green, candidates for the state senate, have said that they will be coming. Congressman Dale Kildee also plans to attend No work has been received as yet from the office of Jennifer Granholm, but a representative of Dick Posthumous will be attending. Tom Meyer, representative in the state house is planning to come, although his opponent Tom Kern will be unable to attend because of a previous commitment. Organizers of the event say that they expect the evening to be enlightening, lively and interesting. The First Baptist Church is located at 1535 Gilford Rd. The candidates will be asked questions prepared by a committee of pastors, and further questions will be submitted "from the floor."

The accreditation was based on the results of a recent on-site inspection.

The laboratory's manager, Dale Weidman, was advised of the national recognition and congratulated for the "excellence of the services being provided." Hills and Dales General Hospital's laboratory is now one of the more than 6,000 CAP accredited facilities nationwide.

In order to earn CARF accreditation, Marlette's Center for Rehabilitation showed that it meets a demanding set of quality standards that are formulated by physicians, nurses, physical therapists, and other rehabilitation professionals. These standards are substantially higher than those required for licensure by government agencies.

McEwen pointed out that "our rehab team carned CARF's 3-year accreditation, which is the agency's highest form of recognition. This helps to set Marlette's program apart from some others, which CARF sees a need to inspect every year."

Marlette's Center for Rehabilitation is one of only 49 medical rehabilitation programs in Michigan that are accredited by CARF.

"Marlette and its neighboring communities can be very proud of the Center for Rehabilitation," said CARF President Brian J. Boon, Ph.D. "It meets the highest standards of the rehabilitation professions.

Karr encourages successful hunters to report to the Cass City field office so DNR staffers can collect standard biological data. The office will also be handing out DNR Cooperator patches.

Karr said the DNR needs to collect the heads of 50 deer harvested in Tuscola County as part of the state's Chronic Wasting Disease surveillance program. However, he noted, TB testing is no longer required in the upper Thumb because an estimated 2,000 animals sampled over the past 2 years all tested

MARC offering Pilates classes

It's said that everything old becomes new again.

This is certainly the case with exercise based on the teachings of Joseph Pilates (pi-la-teez). In the 1920s, Pilates designed a series of controlled, non-impact movements that engage the mind and body in a way that develops strong, flexible muscles without building

Today this exercise method is achieving acclaim among athletes, dancers, medical professionals and among fitness professionals, who are finding this type of mat and machine-based exercise appeals to their clients.

This month, Michigan Athletic and Rehabilitation Center (MARC) will join a handful of other facilities in the Thumb and surrounding areas to offer Pilates classes to the public.

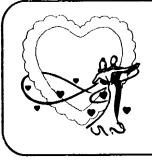

Fitness supervisor Jeanne Putman and instructor Angela Holder recently attended a Pilates certification workshop in Chicago, and are looking forward to sharing their newfound knowledge with the community. Putman notes that the Pilates is especially effective for reducing or preventing low back pain. She has been a fitness instructor for 12 years, Holder for 7 years. All of MARC's fitness instructors are experienced and certified through NDEITA.

Beginning Thursday, MARC will offer Pilates classes on-site in Caro Monday and Wednesday evenings (6 to 6:45 p.m.) and Tuesday mornings (9:15 to 10 a.m.). Classes cost $42 (once/week for 7 weeks) or $84 (twice/week for 7 weeks).

For more information, call 673-4999 or stop by MARC at 1186 Cleaver Rd.

In addition, MARC will offer Pilates in Cass City through Cass City Community Education beginning Oct. 8. These classes will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays (6 to 6:45 p.m.) and will cost $60 (once/week for 10 weeks) or $120 (twice/week for 10 weeks).
