Health officials say bat tested rabid in Deford

Health department officials last week announced that a bat tested positive for rabies after biting someone in the Deford area.

Ann Hepfer, director of nursing at the Tuscola County Health Department, said the bite victim "was treated and will be fine.'

This isn't the first time a rabid animal has been discovered in the Thumb, noted Hepfer, who said health officials want residents to be aware of the potential danger rabies poses.

"Rabies is always here. It's never gone," she added. "We only test them (animals) when they bite somebody' or when there is a likelihood that someone has been bit-

"This is a public health concern and thus a reminder to our community of the seriousness of the rabies disease," agreed Kelly Germain, Rabies is a preventable virus disease of mammals most often transmitted through the bite of a rabid animal. The vast majority of cases reported to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention each year occur in wild animals such as raccoons, skunks, bats and foxes. Domestic animals account for less than 10 percent of the reported rabies cases, with cats, cattle and dogs most often reported rabid.

"Rabies virus infects the central nervous system, causing encephalopathy and, ultimately, death," Germain

"Symptoms of rabies in humans are initially nonspecific, consisting of fever, aise. As the disease progresses, neurological symptoms appear and may include insomnia, anxiety, confusion, slight or partial paralysis, excitation, hallucinations, agitation, hypersalivation, difficulty swallowing, and hydrophobia (fear of water). Death usually occurs within days of the onset of symptoms.'

Germain said area residents can take several steps to help prevent the spread of rabies.

"Be a responsible pet owner," she said. "Keep vaccinations up to date for all dogs, cats and ferrets. This requirement is important not only to keep your pets from getting rabies, but also to provide a barrier of protection to you, if your animal is bitten by a rabid wild animal."

Germain recommends that resident keep their pets under direct supervision to prevent them from coming into contact with wild animals. Immediate veterinary care should be sought if a pet is bitten. Residents can also report any stray animals in their neighborhood, and officials recommend that all pets be spayed or neutered to reduce the number of unwanted pets that many not be properly cared for or vaccinated.

Germain said it's important to avoid contact with unfamiliar animals.

"Do not handle, feed or unintentionally attract wild animals with open garbage cans or litter," she added. "Never adopt wild animals or bring them into your home. Do not try to nurse sick animals to health. Call animal control or an animal rescue agency for assistance."

Children should be taught to keep their distance from unfamiliar animals, according to Germain, who also recprevent bates from entering living quarters or occupied spaces in homes, churches, schools and similar areas where they might come in contact with people or pets.

Board discusses Alternative ed, new arts center

Down the road it's possible that 2 additional school buildings will be serving the community-it's also possible that there will be zero additions to the educational landscape.

The Cass City School Board reviewed progress on turning the Deford School building into an Alternative Education Center. At a special meeting Wednesday morning, the board hired Kurt Tuckey to replace Kevin Green who resigned to take a job in special education at Laker High. There is more security in the Laker position than as teacher-director of the new school at Deford.

Tuckey has a bachelor's degree from Central Michigan University. He faces a challenging task at the Center. He is currently making calls to area schools to find possible

There are 8 students signed now, Supt. Ken Micklash said, and 17 full-time equivalent students are needed to break even. Five of the 8 students signed are from Cass City.

We could open the school for a term with 16 students, Micklash explained, but we definitely will not operate the facility at a loss. The education of the students at the center will be paid for by the state the same as all students which is $6,700 yearly.

The new facility is designed for high school students, ages 16 to 19.

While adding the Center to the system is immediate, if possibly not long-lasting, the second building is years away from reality. The initial start in the long process started at the Wednesday meeting. The board authorized TSSF and Kingscott to make a preliminary sketch of a new building to be used as a Performing Arts Center. The company's bid of $2,500 was low from 4 proposals received. Others ranged from $5,000 to $35,000.

Boosters of the building program want to use the sketch as a prop to selling the program to donors and the voters. A special bond issue would be mandatory if enough interest is shown.

The board authorized the use of school property to stage a carnival Oct. 1-2-3. Profit from the show will be

YFC auction scheduled Saturday

Area Youth for Christ officials say the summer deals will sizzle at their annual Youth for Christ Benefit Aug. 21, at Cass City Recreation Park.

"Whether it's furniture, garden supplies or shrubs and trees you are looking for, they've got it at the summer benefit auction," said Jeff Bader, Cass City and Kingston Campus Life director. The auction, which benefits student programs in Cass

City, Caro, Kingston and Auction, slated for Saturday, Reese, is the YFC ministry's largest fundraising event in Tuscola County. During last year's auction, nearly 150 bidders participated, generating a combined $38,000. The first auction, held 6 years ago, raised about $21,000.

"In addition to raising the money necessary to keep (the) ministry happening, we are looking to provide a fun family event that will give supporters a great time and some great deals," Bader said. "We will have some exciting new items in the sale this year, as well as many of the things the sale has become known for."

L.J. Gascho Solid Oak Furniture is always a favorite with bidders, and they will be treated to some special items from that category at this year's auction. In addition, outdoor furniture selections will include a pair of Cedar Adirondack Chairs along with the unfinished, treated ones the auction sports every year.

joined in to support the work happening on their campuses by donating sports passes to be auctioned," Bader said. "Not to mention the many local businesses who have pitched in, regardless of the construction in downtown Caro, to ensure there are many items and gift certificates on the auction

In addition to items for the home, camp or wherever, the auction always features some of the area's most plea-"The local schools have surable dining experiences.

> "This year our annual Christmas Dinner will be back," Bader said. "The evening includes a wonderful meal and some great holiday music by DeeDee and Russ Tibbits of Caro.'

> The unique dining experiences don't stop there, however, as YFC officials have scheduled a Valentine's Dinner that was also popular in the past, and there are some others in the works. A scrapbooking party and hayride will also be auctioned during the sale.

"We have been trying to think outside of the items supporters have seen every year and make sure that this year's auction offers a greater variety of items," Bader

"We could never pull the auction off year after year without the help and support

School lunch prices going up locally, across country

Cass City kids getting ready for back-to-school may need to throw a few extra dimes in their pockets.

In addition to higher prices, students may notice slightly healthier food, thanks to a national push to get kids to eat healthier.

"We'll be offering fewer a la carte items, like desserts," Micklash said. "The cooks may be changing their frying oil as well.

Owen-Gage area students, however, can leave the dimes at home. The district decided not to follow the national trend and keep their prices steady at $1.25 for lunch, $1 for breakfast and a quarter for a pint of milk.

Despite financial woes in the district, the lunch program received a monetary boost when Own-Gage Elementary closed earlier this summer. Any shortcomings the food program had will be made up by the money saved from operating only one caf-

Industries officials and employees chose to raise money to send Jennah to her dream destination, as they have been doing for the last five years with terminally ill Michigan children. Millennium sponsored a bake sale and raffle Friday to start the fundraising process, and raised a total of $1,326. "We did fantastic. Our employees did exceptionally well, especially for this being our first one," said Administrative Assistant Marie Spencer, who lauded the employees for all of their work in making the bake sale a Spencer said the company works hard at raising money for children and winter wear for children who cannot afford it. "They are both good causes," she added said. "We want to help the community.'

Millennium splits half of the money they raise between each charity group. Last year, the company sent a young Michigan boy on his wish trip. Shortly thereafter, he died, but not before sending a letter to the company telling them all about his trip. Anyone wishing to donate to either cause has a few upcoming chances. A bowl-athon at Charmont will take place Aug. 28, and Millennium will match however much money the community donates. The annual food drive takes place in September followed by the November adopt-a-family for Christmas.

Jennah, meanwhile, is enjoying herself at Head Start and dreaming of dancing like a ballerina and being friends with the princesses at Disney World.

Our salads were just ordinary and not very large. The rolls were good and included 3 varieties. There was a generous portion of salmon accompanied by a tangy sauce that hit the spot. The Haire Net School day reminiscing

After spending decade after decade when the end of summer was always signified by the Labor Day holiday, it's still hard to get used to swinging into the fall season in the middle of August.

Sparking the change, of course, is the opening of school prior to the holiday. but really it's more than that.

All of the seasons overlap. The Michigan State Fair, a fixture during the Labor Day holiday is now completed before Labor Day, High school sports are in full swing. That's officially in full swing. Unofficially they have been in action all during the vacation period.

Going back to pre-historic times when I attended school, reading and writing and arithmetic not only started after Labor Day, but there were also fall vacations in small towns. One in Pinconning that I recall was a "beet" vacation, usually for a week, but longer if nature had been singularly unkind to the farmers. School was dismissed so that the kids could help with the harvest. The first day of pheasant season was also a holiday, probably because there were so many absent that it didn't make sense to run a class any-

Of course back then in the 1940s there were a lot of small schools that could be vacationed. Consolidations have eliminated many of them and the trend contin-

I reminisce, but not because these were the good old days. Certainly then there was a closer relationship between the administration and the students because the schools were smaller.

Senior citizens will probably take issue with this, but I believe that schools today are much tougher than they were a half century or more ago. It's harder to gain admittance into the most popular institutions and it's more important than ever to do so.

Sixty years ago a college education wasn't a prerequisite to landing a job that would support a family.

Today the chances for landing a job without some kind of advanced training isn't impossible, but it is very hard

A common complaint is the cost of attending college today. It's true that the cost to the students has gone up at a rate greater than inflation. But finding enough money to attend college prior to World War II was greater than it is today.

The number of grants and scholarships are a major help today. They weren't in abundance in the 1940s

Neither was the money for education. In many families finding enough money to finish high school was more than could be managed.

Even if school didn't start until after Labor Day.

The back forty by Roger Pond

What a summer this has been! Summers are always busy at our house, but this one was exceptional.

My wife and I always take a few trips each summer, and all of our relatives live 2,000 miles away. So, when folks do come to visit, it's generally a full-time event.

I enjoy having the company, of course, but there are adjustments to be made. While one group of relatives may stay up until midnight and sleep until 10:00 A.M., the next gets up at 6:00 A.M. - ready to go fishing.

My wife's family arrived first this year. Connie's mother, sister, and niece came to visit in July.

Grandma stayed at my daughter and son-in-law's house, while Barb and Erica bunked with us. Then, the five women would shuttle back and forth for visiting. One day there would be five women at our house, and the next the entire group would be at my daughter's.

My son-in-law noticed it first. "What happened to all of the toilet paper?" Jeff asked. "With five women in the house, we're sure going through a lot of toilet paper.'

Conversations were changed, too. While Jeff and I are used to saying a few words and getting it over with, five women have a lot to talk about

I told Jeff, "If we took all of the words spoken here today and put them into a hat then drew one out. There's not a chance in a million it would be ours.' After a few days, I was beginning to talk like everyone else. I would see the dog lying on the deck and say, "O-o-h look at Molly, isn't that cute?" Or pick up a little pillow and say, "Isn't that just darling? Where did you find this?" I wasn't sure I would ever return to normal. (My wife, of course, was probably hoping I wouldn't.) When my brother and his wife arrived a week or so later we had a whole different deal. My brother is a deer hunter, bear hunter, rabbit hunter. If it walks, runs, flies, or crawls he hunts it.

I don't suppose Kenny has said, "O-o-h, isn't that cute?" in his entire life. Conversations turned to bullet weights, grains of powder, muzzle velocity.

Soon I was back to bass fisherman language. "I dunno." "Nice fish." "Get the net!" Then I would think of something else to say in the after-

My wife adjusted to all of this — just as I adjusted to the women's visit. After everyone left I told Connie, "This has surely been a busy summer. Too bad it's about

"I dunno," she said, "I've been thinking about that sixty grains of 4895 with a 200-grain bullet? A load like that might kick the snot out

Retired Sanilac K-9 Dandy dies

Sheriff's Department recently announced the death of retired K-9 Deputy Dandy. Dandy began service at the Sanilac County Sheriff's Department in 1992 and had a very successful career with an outstanding success rate until his retirement in 2000. During his career, he was instrumental in many tracking and search and rescue cases and assisted in several criminal apprehensions and narcotics cases and he was an asset in vehicle forfeiture.

Dandy was born in 1990 in Czechoslovakia and through generous donations from the Sanilac County citizens was able to be brought to Michigan to train with his handler Sgt. James Wagester. He has lived at home with Sgt. Wagester for the past 4 years.

Judge offers barn group $10,000 "challenge grant"

The Friends of the Thumb Octagon Barn in Gagetown have received a $10,000 "challenge grant" to move a one-room schoolhouse to the group's agricultural history education center and museum.

The grant was offered by Judge John M. Brundage of Marshall, the grandson of John Munro, one of the 2 Munro brothers who built the historical, 8-sided barn.

The $10,000 grant will be awarded when the friends organization raises $10,000 in new support towards the project.

"We have wanted to add a schoolhouse to our site and have even set up a simulated one-room school in the garage during the annual school tours," said Rose Putnam, president of the friends. "Judge Brundage's challenge is an exciting opportunity and it will help us raise the funds to bring the school to the property, build its foundation and make it a working part of our exhib-

The Mast schoolhouse was built in Sebewaing in the late 1800s and was used until June 1947. Putnam said the building is in excellent condition on the inside, with many original items still in

"The exterior will be resided and painted," she added. "A group of local retired teachers has committed to research the history of the building and the curriculums of its early days so as to make the education presentation as authentic as possible."

In making the challenge, Judge Brundage said, "I am immensely impressed with the progress that has been made in restoring the barn and establishing the educational program. This grant is made in recognition of the huge amount of work and contributions furnished by hundreds of volunteers to move the projects forward." Gagetown's octagon barn is a well-known landmark in the Thumb. Built in 1923-24, the structure is visible for miles, rising 75 feet high and measuring 102 feet across from each opposing side of the octagon. The Friends of the Octagon Barn formed in 1993 to save the unique barn and an adjoining house and garage from demolition. The group is made up of volunteers from Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties and has a membership approaching 700 across the country.

Nearly 90 percent of the barn and 60 percent of the house and garage have since been restored, and the friends group is in the process of buying the property from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The friends are well known for their annual octagon barn school tours, which last spring attracted nearly 1,500 school children who learned about the development of agriculture in Michigan. In addition, the annual Fall

Family Days celebration attracts more than 10,000 residents from across the state for 2 days of educational fun and historical displays. The theme for both programs is the area's lumber industry and includes a sawmill and display of lumber equipment. "The addition of a one-room schoolhouse to the property brings the friends one step closer to fulfilling a plan that includes future construction of a multipurpose building to house a rural/agricultural museum and the many donated items that the friends have received from people locally as well as statewide," Putnam said.

"When completed, the Thumb Octagon Barn will celebrate local history, the architecture and beauty of the barn, and the development of agriculture in local and Michigan history."

Anyone interested in mak ing a donation to the project may do so by sending a check payable to the Friends of the Octagon Barn to: P.O. Box 145, Gagetown, MI

Drug trafficking defendant gets years in prison

a cocaine trafficking sting last spring in Sanilac County has been sentenced to Jeffery A. Roland, 24, of Detroit, previously pled guilty to possession with intent to deliver 250 grams of cocaine and fleeing and eluding police in a motor vehicle. He was sentenced in Sanilac County Circuit Court to 6 1/2 years to 20 years in prison.

Roland, who was granted credit for time already served, has been held at the Sanilac County Jail since his

"The 3 defendants in this matter were arrested in the early morning hours on March 9 in Marlette Township when they arrived in 2 separate vehicles to sell 10 ounces of cocaine to drug task force deputy Mark Siemen for $10,000," said Sanilac County Drug Task Force Director William Gray. "This undercover cocaine purchase was the culmination of a long-term investigation by the drug task force into the source for large amounts of cocaine and marijuana that were being distributed throughout the western portions of Sanilac County," Gray explained, "Working in an undercover capacity over a period of months, task force Deputy Mark Siemen had made a series of marijuana and cocaine purchases that led to the delivery of 9 ounces of cocaine in Marlette Township on March 9."

Gray said Siemen negotiated with Roland for the delivery of 10 ounces at an agreed price of $10,000. Roland arrived at the sale site and met with Siemen to finalize the exchange of cocaine for cash while the other 2 defendants, both Romulus wholesale level cocaine suppliers who were armed with a loaded stolen semi-automatic pistol, arrived in the area with the cocaine in a second vehicle.

"As surveillance and arrest teams closed in on the sale location, the 3 defendants left the scene without completing the cocaine/cash exchange," Gray said. "The 2 Romulus cocaine suppliers were stopped, disarmed, arrested and the cocaine seized by Deputy Mark Siemen and 2 task force surveillance teams a short distance from the sale site."

Roland fled the area, pursued by Sgt. Jim Wagester in a Sanilac County Sheriff's Department road patrol unit. Wagester and a drug task force team pursued Roland southbound on M-53 into Lapeer County for 20 miles. As Roland approached the north city limits of Imlay City, the Imlay City police deployed "spike strips" which flattened 2 of the tires on the suspect's vehicle.

"Roland continued for southbound for another 3 miles before he was finally forced to stop by officers from Imlay City P.D., Almont P.D., Lapeer County Sheriff's Department, Sgt. Wagester and the drug task force," Gray The other 2 defendants in the case have also entered guilty pleas and are scheduled to be sentenced Aug. 30.

Ronnie Jackson, 43, has pleaded guilty to possession with intent to deliver 250 grams of cocaine and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony, and his son, Kevin Jackson, 23, has pleaded guilty to possession with intent to delivery 250 grams of cocaine.

Intern says farewell to town

by Benjamin Ray Staff Writer

Well, folks, my time is up. It's that time when I must say farewell to the people and places of Cass City I have come to know since mid-May.

I'll get to that in a moment, but first, I want to talk briefly about the Bush rally in Saginaw two weeks ago.

The rally was interesting because I had never been in one place with that many people who support the president. I attend a university, which are places where students find out how much to hate Republicans and are given extra credit and favor if they lean to the left. I'm not kidding.

I went to the rally with my friend Ryan, a fellow student and journalist who says he's voting for Kerry. Being objective journalists, Ryan and I did not really clap or cheer like the other thousands did, although as Bush spoke I felt a renewed hope for the country stirring in my soul.

Our president sees things in black and white, which has worked to his detriment and favor. He spoke plainly and simply, appealing to each voter's particular interest but also coming across as the guy next door, someone who believes firmly in God, national security and schools, not to mention equality for all people.

On the way out of the rally, Ryan and I were attacked by a group of Kerry supporters who had lined up across the street from Wendler Arena. The supporters chanted the usual drivel - no war for oil, Billionaires for Bush - and one even went so far as to whap Ryan and me over the head with his plastic sign.

Their basic message was: Our message makes no sense, but we'll beat you over the head with it until you give up and believe us

Now, like I've said before, I cannot speak for all residents of Cass City (which, as you may remember, is the point of this column). But most of the people here I've spoken with seem to support Bush and America as a whole. Sure, we've screwed up, as has every other country. Yes, Bush makes mistakes, but would anyone honestly do everything right when faced with the enormity of the job of president?

Clinton took the easy way out by just having a good time and being charming, which deflected the public from the other things he did, like bomb Europe for no good reason and send military there, even though they posed no threat to the United

Where was the ACLU on that one? Oh, right, they were defending NAMBLA, a group of "men" who enjoy sex with underage boys. ACLU took their case free of charge, even.

Anyway, back to the point of this column, which is to say farewell to Cass City. Every Tuesday, I stand in the back of the Chronicle counting and stuffing papers with staff members here. We have a circulation of about 3,600, although I've met maybe 100 of those since May.

But some of those personalities will always stick. I'll never forget the neighbor who helped me carry a couch up the steepest flight of stairs in the Thumb. I'll remember those who I stopped on the streets to ask for Your Neighbor Says features. I won't forget frequent chats with Dick Hendrick at the theatre, Jane Hittler at her mansion of sorts, Kelly Smith, Doug Hyatt, Dave Milligan, Reverend Happy and, of course, the staff at McDonald's, that probably has most of my July rent money in their cash reg-

"We have an amazing number of groups and agencies in Tuscola County with a lot to offer, but you can't use what you can't find," Andrus said. "This expo will help make people aware of who does what in the area."

The Networking Expo is open to the general public as well as local businesses.

public officials and persons involved with agencies or groups that assist residents in various ways.

"If individuals don't know where to find what they need, they usually turn to local groups or agencies for help," Andrus said. "So, if we can better education their staff members about local resources, we create a knowledgeable source of referrals. That can accomplish goals faster and eliminate a lot of fustration on everybody's

More than 50 governmental agencies, charitable organizations, service groups and business have already registered to participate Thursday, according to Andrus.

"There will be numerous breakout sessions during the expo to allow participants to present additional information about their programs," she said.

"The breakout sessions give an indication of the wide variety of services which will be represented at the expo. But that's just the tip of the iceberg," Andrus continued.

She noted the coordinating council has wanted to organize an event like this for years, but money was always an issue. The expo is being funded through the support of Spaulding for Children, a Southfield-based organization committed to assuring that all children grow up in permanent families and have the help they need to be successful in life.

CASS CITY'S Ryan Biddinger watches his tee shot off the 5th tee at Rolling Hills Golf course Monday afternoon. The Red Hawk sophomore shared medallist honors with Bad Axe's Jon Cook, as he carded a 40. However, the hosts fell to visiting Bad Axe, 175-184

Hatchets hand hosts Cass City Greater Thumb Conference golf setback Monday

Cass City opened its Greater Thumb Conference golf campaign on a sour note Monday afternoon, falling to visiting Bad Axe, 175-184. Coach Jim Green's young Red Hawk team will try to rebound from the setback tonight (Wednesday) when Valley Lutheran arrives at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

Against the Hatchets, Red Hawk sophomore Ryan Biddinger posted medallist honors, along with Bad Axe's Jon Cook, as the pair took advantage of ideal scoring conditions to card 40s on the par 35 track.

However, Biddinger didn't receive much help as the Hawks had Evan Laurie with 46, while Cameron Lautner and Brent Kucharczyk each tallied 49s.

For the winners, foreign exchange student Auaggoon Srisojaritpanich carded a 41, while Eric Glaza and Pete Salens each tallied 47.

CASS CITY INVITE

Croswell-Lexington captured the 9-school Cass City Invite Thursday at Rolling Hills Golf Course with a winning score of 140.

Finishing runner-up at the event was Carsonville-Port Sanilac with a total of 146, while North Branch placed 3rd at 149.

Cass City finished in a tie for 5th place, with Mayville, at 155.

Scoring at the event consisted of 9-holes of scramble play and 9-holes of best ball play. Each school entered three 2-man teams with the highest combined score discarded.

The team of Biddinger and Kucharczyk, who combined to shoot 73, led the hosts. Teammates Lautner and Lauric and teammates Ryan Ross and Kurt Handy each posted an 82.

CASS CITY FIN-ISHED 5th at its own invite Thursday at Rolling Hills Golf Course. The Red Hawk team consisted of (front, I-r)Ryan Biddinger, Evan Laurie (back, I-r) Ryan Ross, Kurt Hanby, Cameron Lautner and Brent Kucharczyk.

Ethanol trend spreading

As Michigan corn producers continue to struggle with stagnant commodity prices, they are looking at the potential for marketing their crops through value-added opportunities.

A new southeastern Michigan ethanol plant might provide a marketing outlet for producers across the state and beyond.

"Corn is the backbone of our industry," said Mike Score, Michigan State University Extension (MSUE) agriculture and natural resources agent. "We have to move past commodity production to increase profit margins, and we need to produce products that are divest $2.50 to produce each bushel of corn and receive $2.60 in return - a very small return on investment. The initiative to build an ethanol-processing facility began when MSUE brought producers together in Janu-

rected to the consumer."

"Currently 50 percent of the corn produced in Michigan is shipped out of state," said Jeff Ehlert, president of Great Lakes Ethanol. "Ethanol is a value-added product that can increase the corn price by 10 cents per bushel."

In 2002, Michigan consum-

Michigan's only current ethanol plant, located in Caro, produced only 40 million gallons that year. Ehlert estimates Great Lakes Ethanol's annual production will be around 50 million gallons, with a capacity for 60 million gallons annually. The majority of investors are farmers from across the state. So far, 255 farmers have become involved in the project Construction is scheduled to begin in Lenawee County this fall, and ethanol production will begin 12 to 14 groundbreaking.

Great Lakes Ethanol will create 40 new full-time jobs and will indirectly create 25 new jobs with the opening of a carbon dioxide plant that will make use of byproducts from the corn processing.

ACT launches website

ACT has launched www.actstudent.org, a new website for students taking Southeastern Michigan the college admissions exam. The new site features information that changes according to the needs the student has during the school

> "Students need clear information when preparing for college and for admissions tests," said Jon Erickson, vice president-educational services. "We have worked to make the information friendly and easy-to-find. We know that this time is stressful for students and we want to make sure that they have access to information that will make the process as easy as possible.'

ACT has organized the material on the website based on experience with students' website visits and knowledge of the questions they ask ACT staff. The information at www.actstudent.org will change, anticipating students' needs as they register for the test, prepare for the test and use the test scores after taking the test.

"Students ask a lot of questions, like what kind of calculator can be used. We've put the answers to these popular questions in easy-tofind locations," Erickson

Services and information at www.actstudent.org include:

Dinner with JFK or Tiger Woods?

Question: If you could have dinner with any three famous people, who would they be?

Seeley

We often wonder what it would be like to meet someone famous, although many times we don't know who we'd really want to meet. Two local women, however, have come up with a list.

Sherryl Seeley of Chemical Bank said she would pick Tiger Woods, JFK and actor Sydney Poitier. "I like JFK as a president,

I liked Sydney as an actor and Tiger is a good golfer," Munsell Seeley said. Fairway employee Marti Munsell also picked JFK but decided Martin Luther King, Jr. and Abraham Lincoln could join her at the dinner table. "I liked the things they stood for - equality among all people," she said. "They probably got shot because of what they stood for."

Munsell, 52, also said if she could invite a fourth dinner guest, it would be former Genesis drummer/ singer Phil Collins.

Cass City resident Sherryl Seeley is an assistant vice president at Chemical Bank. Marti Munsell also lives in Cass City and enjoys putting together puzzles and working on her computer in her spare time.

Protecting Marriage

Today in America the gay agenda has come roaring out of the closet full steam and is attempting to overthrow all vestiges of what has been normal human behavior over the last six millennia. Currently our congress and courts are so befuddled and intimidated by this gay onslaught, they can't even remember what is obviously and apparently right or normal anymore. And so, with recent decisions in Massachusetts, New York, and California, in favor of same sex marriage, we find the existence of the human family, as we know it, on the verge of extinction. You would not think it necessary, but because of what the individual states are wrongly allowing, it has become vital that we have a federal statement clearly defining marriage as between one man and one woman. Unfortunately, our Senate recently filibustered a marriage amendment proposal right off the floor, that body finding it beyond itself to take a stand for decency. Senator Debbie Stabenow's answer to my personal correspondence was that same sex marriage is something the states should decide. That's just a cop out -a way to get the heat off the senators and allow an activist judiciary to make the call.

If our elected representatives refuse to protect the God ordained institution of marriage, it leaves only us. Again, why does traditional marriage and its long held standard seem so difficult to defend today? Let me submit the reason is that we have gotten away from a basic biblical world view, i.e., we no longer look at all things in our world through the lens of scripture. We are confused on such fundamental issues as marriage because we no longer see it from God's perspective – the One who created the institution in the first place. Read Matthew 19, verses 1-6, and review some very important, though mostly ignored, words from Christ as He clearly defines marriage for the Jews. Matthew 19:1-6, NASB:

And it came about that when Jesus had finished these words, he departed from Galilee, and came to the region of Judea beyond the Jordan;

2 and great multitudes followed Him, and He healed them there. 3 And some Pharisees came to Him, testing Him, and saying, "Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife for any

4 And He answered and said, "Have you not read, that He who created them from the beginning MADE THEM

5 and said, 'FOR THIS CAUSE A MAN SHALL LEAVE HIS FATHER AND MOTHER, AND SHALL CLEAVE

TO HIS WIFE; AND THE TWO SHALL BECOME ONE FLESH'? 6 "Consequently they are no longer two, but one flesh. What therefore God has joined together, let no man

In the context of this passage the Pharisces approached Jesus in an attempt to test Him on the issue of divorce. Their goal was likely twofold. First, they wanted to see if they could set Him at odds with the Mosaic Law, which actually allowed divorce. Second, they tried to pin Him down as to which school of thought Jesus followed – Rabbi Hillel or Rabbi Shammai, two leading teachers of the day. But Jesus wasted no time with their games and brought them back to basics, back to the fundamentals, back to the beginning. When questioned by the doctors and teachers of the Law, how does Jesus answer? He answers with scripture! Verse 4, "Have you not read...?" Jesus is quoting Genesis, the "book of beginnings." The Lord is referring to that book as a Holy Spirit inspired authority, in this case, on the topic of marriage. But if you look at verse four with spiritual eyes, you will see something else. Jesus here agrees that God created man. When? In the beginning! In what form? Male and female! In these two verses Christ quotes Genesis 1:27 5:2, and 2:24. Evidently the Only Begotten Son of God took God at His Word and believed the Genesis account of creation! God formed Adam from the dust and from His side He made Eve. Jesus believed the biblical account, in fact, participated in it, "...and without Him was not anything made that was made," John 1:3. If He believed it, we ought to believe it as well.

God designed marriage. Not only did He put it on the drawing board, but from the raw materials He made, He constructed the finished product. Adam and Eve formed the prototype marriage as instituted by God Himself. The design and intent of the Creator was one man for one woman, and one woman for one man His design and intent, as Jesus answers the question on divorce, was that one man and one woman remain married because the two become one flesh. And this was the way it was until sin came to the race. Divorce never would have been a question at all if it were not for sin, but because we have fallen under its curse, divorce plagues the human family. Yet beyond this, the point Christ makes in our passage is an argument for a monogamous male/female relationship. Concerning God's design for marriage, Falwell aptly put it, "God created Adam and Eve, not Adam and Steve!"

After creation, throughout the Old Testament, we witness Satan's unrelenting assault against Jehovah's plan for the sanctity of marriage. Jesus stated God's original design and intent, yet it was not long before that design was corrupted. Satan tempted Eve, but Adam willingly followed her into sin. The first thing that was affected was their relationships - their relationship to God, and their relationship to each other. When they fell from their spiritual foundation, they fell from the foundation of their marriage. No longer did they live in perfect harmony as man and wife, but now the man would attempt to dominate the woman and the woman rebel against the leadership of the man. Later we see the patriarchs dealing with difficult family issues. We find Abraham unable to have children with Sarah and then take additional wives outside of God's will. Grandson Jacob did the same, much to his personal woe. David and Solomon as well, both men literally forfeiting the kingdom because of their dalliance with multiple wives. Jesus clearly shows us from His statement in our text that God's original and best design was one man for one woman, and one woman for one man. Anything that deviates from that pattern only brings trouble and heartache. It has been said that too many people marry for better or for worse but not for good. William Lyon Phelps said: "The highest happiness on earth is in marriage. Every man who is happily married is a successful man even if he has failed in everything else."

We have seen God's design and intent for marriage, now what can we determine is His will for this most sacred institution? From verses five and six in the text we see God's will is that a man leave his father and mother. Once the marriage bond is forged, the bond with mom and dad is released. Not to say we forget about our parents or dishonor them in any way, but when a man and a woman join in holy wedlock, a new family is formed, loyalties and responsibilities go forward into the new home that were previously fixed upon the household of our rearing. In other words, the new wife becomes the primary focus of the husband, and the new husband becomes the primary focus of the wife. If those loyalties do not shift, we have an unhealthy situation that will soon impede the development and happiness of the new home. Christ says the man is to cleave to his wife, i.e., he is to be so bonded to her that nothing can come between them – not mothers, not fathers, not in-laws, nor outlaws. Both husband and wife must leave the previous home behind and the previous home must take care not to interfere with the new family God has created.

God's will is that the two become one flesh. His will is that marriage become the medium in which sexual love is expressed. Solomon poetically speaks to this truth when he says in Proverbs 5:15-19, "Drink from your own cistern and fresh water from your own well. Should your springs be dispersed abroad, streams of water in the streets? Let them be yours alone, and not for strangers with you. Let your fountain be blessed, and rejoice in the wife of your youth. As a loving hind and graceful doe, let her breasts satisfy you at all times; be exhilarated always with her love." Again, Jesus says the two become one flesh, not multiple fleshes. Solomon says stay with one woman, the same wife you had from the days of your youth and be satisfied with her alone. God's will is that marriage be protected for the expression of sexual love and for the physical, emotional, and spiritual welfare of each mate. He wants marriage protected for the prosperity of the family and the blessing of children. Several times throughout Genesis, God commands, "Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth..." Every time He says it, it is within the context of the family - a husband and a wife, one man with one woman.

It is God's will that matrimony between a man and a woman be a holy and respected union. Paul wrote in Hebrews 13:4, "Let marriage be held in honor among all, and let the marriage bed be undefiled; for fornicators and adulterers God will judge." Not only does God say marriage should be honored, but He literally honored it Himself. Jesus Christ chose a wedding to reveal His first miracle power, turning water into wine. By His very presence He demonstrated His support for this God ordained institution (John 2). And in our text, the Lord honors marriage by saying God has joined the man and woman together and no one should try to

We recognize God's will for marriage by what is stated here, but we also see His will by what is omitted. Nowhere in scripture, not in the New Testament nor in the Old, do we find a marital union described in any other way but as a man with a woman. In our text as well as throughout the rest of the historical scriptures, marriage is always assumed, if not directly understood, as between the two sexes. Nowhere is it ever endorsed or even mentioned as being between members of the same sex. So, after six thousand years of precedent, how do we suddenly come up with new truth that says same sex marriage is O.K.? How are same sex unions now valid and due all the blessings and benefits of a heterosexual marriage? Who's making up the rules here? It's definitely not the Lord. When did we become so omniscient and omnipotent that we have the power to alter, change, and overrule God's will concerning this most fundamental, heaven ordained institution? We don't have that power and it amazes me Americans and their legislators and judges can't see that we don't! How arrogant we have become, telling God that His plan and design is lacking and we have one that is equal or better. God does not condone same sex unions, indeed He condemns them. In Leviticus 18:22 He calls it an "abomination."

Nationally, every time Israel and Judah fell into apostasy away from the Lord, homosexuality increased. Under King Rehoboam, Solomon's son, Judah fell away and male cult prostitution flourished (1st Kings 14:24). Then, good King Asa came along and directed the people back to Jehovah. He removed the male cult prostitutes. Jehoshaphat, Asa's son, continued his father's program where 1st Kings 22:46 says, "And the remnant of the sodomites who remained in the days of his father Asa, he expelled from the land." In the last and final revival under King Josiah many years later, when the nation had again fallen into depravity (before captivity), Josiah, too, expelled the sodomites (2nd Kings 23:7).

Judah and Israel, because of their sin, both fell by the sword. They are an object lesson for us today, and we must learn the lesson. When governments and leaders endorse, protect, and defend homosexual interests as a special class, that government is headed for a fall. You all remember the blanket endorsement Bill Clinton gave to homosexual interest groups - the gay lobby with its gay agenda. If couples within this group are allowed the status of legal marriage, think of the chaos that will ensue. Think of the economic confusion that will occur regarding spousal benefits in corporations, in government, with insurances, and so on. Think about the legal confusion surrounding the adoption of children if same sex marriage is legitimized, not to mention the confusion and gender dilemma brought to the children themselves. Think about the burden to the healthcare industry due to this high-risk lifestyle. As Satan attacked God's institution of marriage from the beginning, he continues to press his attack today, knowing that the destruction of the family, the core unit of society, will destroy the nation. Will America be judged for accommodating this lifestyle as Judah and Israel were judged, indeed, even as Sodom and Gomorrah? Or will we follow God's design, His intent, and His will in this

Protecting marriage is our responsibility. What will you do? Would you pray about this issue? Would you talk to others? Would you even contact your congressmen and encourage them to pass a federal marriage amendment? Will you help protect marriage and God's plan for the human race?

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN

Beefmobile makes stop at United Producers Inc.

Area beef producers were hand-delivered beef checkoff research and promotion information when the Beefmobile visited United Producers Inc. in Cass City on Tuesday, August 3. Producers also were asked to provide input regarding how beef checkoff dollars should be invested in research and promotional projects on their behalf.

Funding for the Beefmobile comes from producers through the Cattlemen's Beef Board, comprising 108 beef producers who oversee the $1-per-head Beef Checkoff Program. The National Livestock Producers Association and its Beefmobile 'wrangler,' RaeMarie Gordon, manage the Beefmobile, on behalf of producers and the Beef Board

The stop at United Produc ers, Inc. is one of 100 scheduled between Jan. 1 and Sept. stock marketing facilities. "Thanks to the Beefmobile, BEEFMOBILE - Beef producers received a strong "You Count" message when the Beef Checkoff-funded Beefmobile visited United Producers, Inc. on Tuesday, Aug. 3. Beefmobile Wrangler RaeMarie Gordon addressed beef producers attending the auction including (left to right) Don Zandbergen from Calendonia and Katherine Twining with the Michigan Beef Industry Commission. Gordon also handed out information about the Beef Checkoff and manned a display that highlighted Beef Checkoff programs.
