Church gearing up to launch new food pantry

by Tom Montgomery
Editor

Members of a local church are planning to take a bite out of the financial struggles many area families are facing these days by setting up a mobile food pantry this month and distributing food to anyone in need. No strings attached.

The congregation of the Cass City Missionary Church has spent weeks researching the project and making contacts with other groups that have taken on similar efforts. The church has also established a relationship with the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan in Flint, which provides food to people in need through 350 partner agencies in 22 Michigan counties.

The church hopes to draw support for the project from other area congregations as well as the community - anyone willing to get involved - in an effort to continue the free food distributions in the future from a permanent home somewhere in the village.

The Cass City Missionary Church has been the force behind "Revive", an annual spring outreach that began as a children's fair and community services over a 2-day period. This year, the celebration was trimmed down to one day and included a community pantry offering residents free household items and clothing. Attendance was estimated at 500 people.

"We've had our Revive event for the past few years, and especially this year, with the community food pantry - the response we had was just overwhelming," said the Rev. Bob Sweeney, pastor. "So many people said it was meeting needs for them. That caught our attention."

Which led church members to contact the organizers of a food pantry in Marlette for advice, and the Food Bank of Eastern Michigan for the food to distribute.

Their initial efforts will come to a head Friday, July 11, with their first distribution, which will be staged at the corner of Main and Seeger streets (behind the Cass City Municipal Building) from 4 to 6 p.m. Volunteers will be doing all the work, but families planning to take advantage of the offer are asked to bring bags or boxes to hold their food.

"It's called a mobile food pantry because we don't have a permanent place yet," Sweeney explained. "Anyone in need is welcome. There are no financial guidelines for this. We're not looking at W-2s."

The church will provide a number of volunteers, "but we'll take more. You can never have enough," said Sweeney, who is hopeful that others will be willing to lend a hand for the distribution, which is expected to provide enough food for up to 500 families.

"We need quite a few people," he added. "They're (food bank) going to bring a semi load of food. I think it's at least 12 pallets."

It's a big undertaking, one that Sweeney and other members of the church would like to see embraced by other churches as well as the local business community.

"As this grows, we hope that other churches will get on board. We want

Council hears update on DFA plant

Cass City's courtship of Dairy Farmers of America (DFA) continued Monday night at the regular meeting of the village council.

The board called for a special council meeting July 16, when a pair of public hearings will be held beginning at 7 p.m.

Although a number of positive meetings have taken place during June with DFA officials, in addition to summits with representatives of the Michigan Economic Development Corporation and Department of Agriculture, Village Manager Peter Cristiano vowed to continue their efforts to secure the milk processing facility until the "shovels are in the ground."

"Our first hurdle is establishing an extension to the Renaissance Zone in the industrial park," Cristiano said.

That will be addressed during one of the public hearings, when a 15-year extension on 40 acres of land within the industrial park will be conducted.

The council also approved a contract with Spicer Engineering to complete a Boundary Topographic and Utility Survey of the 65-acre Industrial Park for a cost not to exceed $13,500. An exact description and mapping of the property is required to obtain the milk processing plant, which is expected to initially employ 30 people with an annual payroll of over $1 million.

While the DFA proposal remains one of the council's top priority, the other public hearing scheduled during the special council meeting could also lead to more jobs for area residents, many who have struggled during Michigan's economic downturn.

Preceding the discussions to extend the Renaissance Zone, the council will hold a hearing to establish an Industrial Development District for Ceramic Systems, 6201 Church St.

Cristiano says the designation will allow Eldor Herrmann, owner of the former Nestles building, the opportunity to request tax abatements and

Expenses hit O-G hard

Skyrocketing fuel expenses along with unexpected employee-related costs and other factors combined this past year to hit the Owen-Gage School District's bottom line hard.

The good news is the school system's general fund remained in the black following the 2007-08 fiscal year, which ended Monday. But not by much.

"Our general fund, at the end of the year, shows a fund balance of $1,400, but that's before the audit," Supt. Dana Compton said following last week's regular monthly meeting of the Owen-Gage Board of Education.

Compton outlined amendments to the 2007-08 spending plan, and presented a proposed 2008-09 budget.

"One of the big things that hit us (in 2007-08) was, we had to transfer $56,000 to the athletic fund to cover the cost of athletics. And, of course, our expenditures for fuel was substantially higher, our pupil transportation budget was about $20,000 out of whack," said Compton. He added that a district employee who handled both transportation and maintenance duties was ill during the year, forcing school officials to cover both sick/vacation pay and the cost of hiring a replacement worker.

Together, those factors trimmed down what Compton had projected would be a year-end fund balance of $40,000 or $50,000. "We knew we were going to be tight, but we didn't think we'd be that tight," he said. Still, school officials have not had to make any significant program cuts, he added.

"It's a little more positive for next year," noted Compton, who is projecting 2008-09 revenues at $1.96 million and expenditures at $1.9 million, with a year-end fund balance of roughly $60,000.

"It (spending) is just a tad under what we had projected for last year," Compton said. He explained the projection is based, in part, on plans to CASS CITY'S Rebecca Doerr was recently crowned the 2008 Michigan Sugar Queen and will spend her summer representing the state's sugarbeet industry in more than 20 parades as well as other public appearances.

Sweet opportunity Cass City's Doerr crowned sugar queen

Homecoming queen, Cass City's Junior Citizen of the Year, recent high school graduate. It's been quite an exciting year for Rebecca Doerr.

And this summer promises to be even sweeter for the 18-year-old Cass City resident, who was recently crowned the 2008 Michigan Sugar Queen.

"It's been amazing. There have been so many opportunities this year. Definitely," commented Doerr, the daughter of David and Janice Doerr of Cass City. "It's been a great year. I can't believe all the honors I've been given this year."

Doerr, who was crowned during the 44th annual Michigan Sugar Festival in Sebawaing, will have a busy year ahead of her, representing the sugarbeet industry as she visits with public officials, food industry leaders and the general public. Her schedule includes many official appearances, riding on the Pioneer Sugar float in more than 20 parades throughout Michigan.

"I was really shocked (to win the Michigan Sugar Queen title)," recalled Doerr, whose future also includes attending Delta College in the fall to study dental hygiene. "I was not expecting to win. It was such an honor."

First runner-up Ashlyn Gurley of Burt and second runner-up Tara Binder of Unionville will serve on the queen's court. Both will accompany Doerr in various parades and other public appearances.

Jeff Adamo, director of Human Resources for Michigan Sugar Company, was among the judges for the queen scholarship committee.

"Again this year we had several qualified candidates with very diverse backgrounds," Adamo said. "With so many excellent candidates to choose from, it was difficult for the selection committee to make a decision. All of the candidates should be proud of themselves, and hopefully all took away something positive from this experience."

Michigan Sugar Company solely sponsors the Michigan Sugar Queen competition. As the sponsor, the company and grower-owners provide the queen with a $2,000 scholarship for use at the university of their choice. The first and second runners-up each will be awarded a $1,000

The CCHS class of '51 is planning a reunion for this summer. We reunited in 2006, but decided not to wait another 5 years, due to the continual thinning of our ranks.

I've been assigned the task of finding out when and why Maroon & Gray became Maroon and White as school colors. So far I've batted zero, so if anyone out there remembers when the transition took place, please let me know.

Of course, one question leads to another. How were maroon and gray chosen in the first place?

Personally, I like maroon and white. I think it looks sharp.

Mothers might have been responsible for the original choice of gray because it would have been so hard to keep whites white in those days.

Chances are that few people remember how laundry was done in the old days. I am one who does, which makes me forever thankful for my automatic washer and dryer.

Monday was washday, and water had to be hauled into the house and heated on the stove in a huge oval boiler. Then it was transferred to the washer. The washtubs in which the clothes were rinsed had to be filled too. I tell you, women in those days could have lived in Lake Wobegone, where all the women are strong, etc.

The procedure was to wash the white things first, then the colors, then the dark, grimy clothes, all in the same water. (Kind of like the bath time ritual when you hoped the least dirty got the first turn in the tub by the old potbelly stove.)

For the benefit of the young and pampered, the clothes were taken from the washing machine, put through the wringers into the first rinse tub, then through the wringers into the second rinse, and finally through the wringers again into a basket to be taken outdoors and hung on the clothesline.

Of course, in winter the clothesline was strung in the house and getting whacked in the face with somebody's wet long underwear was a common occurrence.

Getting the clothes through those wringers was somewhat of an art. You had to hold them in such a way that the article would catch between the rolling wringers, and yet be able to let go quickly so your hand wouldn't.

At the end of the day, when the clothes were finally washed and the laundress was wiped out, all the water had to be carried back outside and dumped.

Despite being washed first, the white clothes didn't necessarily come out very white, even with Roman Cleanser, shaved Fels Naptha and LaFrance bluing agent. (I was never sure why a "bluing" agent was intended to get things white.)

I vaguely remember a product called Satina, which I think had something to do with making ironing easier. Anything that helped with that task was definitely worth the expense.

Ironing was another whole ball of wax, which is why it took all day Tuesday.

I didn't realize ironing had become archaic until recently. As an icebreaker at a women's social affair, we were asked to find someone in the group who fit various categories. One of the criteria was "Do you still iron?"

The question surprised me, as did the number present who said they don't. They didn't look like they slept in their clothes! Do they send them all to the cleaners? Or do they only buy Perma Pressed articles?

A lot of people hate ironing, I know. I don't mind it, especially if I have an audio book or an old movie to watch on TV. In fact, I do ironing for a friend who doesn't have the time or inclination.

Now vacuuming and general house-cleaning are quite another matter. Anybody want to trade chores?

Cass City's Uhl named TCD poster contest winner

Mackenzie Uhl

Mackenzie Uhl, a second grade Cass City student, was recently named this year's Tuscola Conservation District Poster Contest winner in her age division.

Uhl, daughter of Valerie Kappen, Cass City, received a Barnes and Noble Bookstore gift certificate for her effort in this year's contest, which featured the theme, "Water is Life". Her work along with the other winning posters are currently on display at the USDA Service Center, 1075 Cleaver Rd., Caro, and can be viewed from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on any weekday.

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Rabbit Tracks

by John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

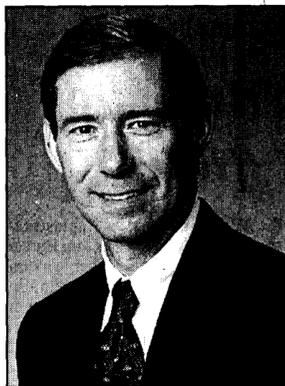

Did you catch the story about the new California law starting Jan. 1 next year that requires all new cars to carry "green" stickers depicting the impact the car has on the environment? The stickers are designed to reveal the environmental effect of each car or truck. Each car is rated on a 1-10 scale with 10 the highest and one the lowest. A 5 rating will be average. The rating number is printed on the sticker. Historically, advances in producing a cleaner environment start in California and often spread across the country. Sponsors of the new law say it's part of California's efforts to educate consumers about the environmental impact of vehicle emissions.

The bad news for the district tournament for 9- and 10-year-old baseball players on the Cass City team is that the embryo Hawks are scheduled in the tournament bracket that features all-star teams from Saginaw and Bay City. The good news is that the district tournament is scheduled in Cass City and baseball fans will be able to see the better teams in action as well as compare the area team with the big city representatives. The tourney starts July 9 with Bay City northwest playing Bay City northeast at 5 p.m. and Saginaw north meeting Bay City southwest playing at 7 p.m. Cass City's opening game is Thursday, July 10 against Essexville at 5 p.m. The second game that day pits Saginaw south against Caro. It is a double-loss tournament. If Cass City wins its opener it will play July 11 at 7 p.m. If it loses, it will play at 2 p.m. July 12.

Visited with Chronicle correspondent Thelma Jackson last week and found the 90-year-old is still ready, willing and able to continue writing for at least this year. There's no doubt that in length of service she is at the head of the list. She took over the writing from a neighbor to "give it a try." She is the only employee at the paper who has been working longer than I have. She can't remember the exact date she started, but she worked for the former publisher, H. F. Lenzner, who turned the reins over to me in March 1951.

Shaw among TFNGers at recent launch

When Space Shuttle Discovery and her STS-124 crew recently lifted off for a 14-day mission to the International Space Station, there was a distinguished group of onlookers down below - the first ever space shuttle astronaut class that included one of Boeing's own. NASA's 1978 astronaut class, better known as the TFNGers or "Thirty-five new guys," includes Boeing Space Exploration Vice President and General Manager Brewster Shaw, a Cass City native. Sixteen of the original 35 showed up for a weekend reunion during Discovery's May 31 launch to deliver the Japanese Pressurized Module to the orbiting outpost. "It has been an honor to serve my country and a privilege to be part of the first shuttle astronaut class," Shaw said. "This was a wonderful weekend reminiscing with my classmates, talking about the exciting future of our space program, and culminating with a terrific launch of Discovery and her STS-124 crew." Headquartered in Houston, Texas, and near NASA's Johnson Space Center, Boeing Space Exploration is a division of Boeing Integrated Defense Systems and the leading global supplier of reusable and human space systems and services. Shaw flew 3 Space Shuttle missions - as pilot of STS-9 in November 1983, as commander of STS-61B in November 1985, and as commander of STS-28 in August 1989. Shaw received a Bachelor of Science degree in 1968 and a Master's of Science degree in 1969, both in engineering mechanics from the University of Wisconsin. He was born in Cass City. The '78 class was the eighth group selected by NASA and the first selected nearly a decade after the end of the Apollo era. From this group came the first female astronauts - Anna Fisher, Shannon Lucid, Judith Resnik, Sally Ride, Rhea Seddon, and Kathryn Sullivan - as well as the first black astronauts - Guion Bluford, Fred Gregory, and Ron McNair. With all their great accomplishments, the group also experienced great tragedy when 4 of their members perished in the Challenger disaster on Jan. 28, 1986. Ronald McNair, Ellison Onizuka, Judith Resnik, and Richard Scobee were among the 7 crew members that lost their lives during the launch of space shuttle Challenger - Gregory Jarvis, Christa McAuliffe, and Michael Smith were the other 3 crew members. During the early years, the TFNGers comprised the bulk of the shuttle crews, and from 1983 to 1992, there would be at least one TFNG member on each mission (STS-7 to STS-49). "Similar to the atmosphere 30-years ago, there is an exciting future in space exploration," added Shaw. "Our group was the first group selected specifically for the space shuttle era in space exploration, and now we stand next to today's young astronauts, and those to be selected in the future, and know that they will feel the same excitement that comes from being the next generation of space explorers."

Cass City police nab 2 teens in Fairway break-in last week

Two area teens allegedly took shoplifting a step farther last week when they broke into the Fairway Discount Store, 6520 Main St., Cass City. Cass City police say they caught the pair red-handed during the early morning hours of Tuesday, June 24. Cass City Officer Mike McCrea was dispatched to the local business at about 12:18 a.m. to investigate a store alarm, according to reports, which state McCrea arrive to find the store's rear overhead door slightly open. McCrea, who approached the building and heard someone moving inside, requested assistance from the Caro Police Department. McCrea and a Caro officer entered the business and discovered 2 teens on the floor at the northeast corner of the store. They arrested one of the suspects, Chelsea L. Depner, 17, Cass City, and they released the other, a 15-year-old Deford resident, to family members. Reports state the 2 had in their possession nearly $90 worth of merchandise, including condoms, tobacco and candy. Cass City Police Chief Craig Haynes said the Tuscola County Prosecutor's Office has authorized felony charges of breaking and entering a building with intent to commit larceny, and larceny in a building against Depner. The other suspect, he added, will be petitioned into the juvenile division of the Tuscola County court system.

Sanilac drug team seizes pot, cash

Sanilac County Drug Task Force officers harvested a jackpot of marijuana, cash and property during a recent investigation in Marlette Township. Officers, serving a search warrant June 23 in the 5400 block of Cotter Road, seized marijuana with a street value of several thousand dollars as well as a loaded revolver and $7,400 in cash.

In addition to the loaded handgun, he noted, the suspect had electrified the home's glass sliding patio door by connecting an electric "cattle fence" to the door and door track. Investigators avoided the trap by entering the front door of the home, according to Gray, who said the day's seizures included a large amount of marijuana manufacturing equipment and a Toyota pickup truck.

According to task force Director William Gray, officers forced their way into the home, where the suspect - a 53-year-old Marlette Township man - was known to be armed with a loaded .38-caliber revolver.

"The total estimated retail street value of all of the marijuana seized is more than $20,000," Gray reported. "The total value of all of the equipment, cash (and) vehicle is at least an additional $15,000."

"A search of the home resulted in the recovery of 16 marijuana plants growing in the main floor area of the home. A search of the basement disclosed the suspect was in the process of constructing a larger scale grow area...in order to expand the marijuana manufacturing activity he was already engaged in," Gray said. Officers recovered more than 425 grams of already-harvested and processed marijuana ready for retail sale/distribution, and a triple beam scale. "Investigators also located a bathroom wastebasket filled with used toilet paper, which when dumped out had $7,400 in small and large denomination bills," Gray said.

The suspect was questioned and released pending crime lab certification of the marijuana. The task force, meanwhile, is seeking a warrant charging him with manufacturing marijuana, possession with intent to deliver marijuana, possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony, possession of an unregistered handgun, maintaining a drug house, and possession of marijuana.

Additional federal firearms violations are also possible pending the outcome of the investigation, which is continuing. Sanilac County residents can report any suspected illegal drug-related activities anonymously by calling 1-800-544-DRUG(3784).

The Haire Net

Give-away raises some suspicions

The idle talk at a recent Rotary meeting switched to the political issues of the day and commentary about the rally staged in Detroit by Barack Obama. Were you there, joked one staunch Republican, kidding another staunch Republican, Dave Milligan, about the rally. In the spirit of the conversation, Dave answered, no, but I bet John was. No, I replied, but I was there in spirit. Actually, I was disappointed when Obama won the primary nomination. I figured that Clinton was the better choice. But after 7-plus years of the presidency of George Bush, my vote is as much, or perhaps more, in protest of his policies than a strong support of the Democratic candidate. Speaking candidly, I haven't been able to justify one major issue that he endorses that is in the direction that I would have our country go. The opening of off-shore drilling for oil. His support of oil subsidies for the big oil companies when they all report record profits and oil prices climb, climb, climb. His determination to drag us into war with Iraq and tax policy that favors big business more than the middle class or the poor are ones that are diametrically opposite to the direction that I feel is best for the country. Last Thursday a report from the government informed me that my incentive payment should be coming my way, probably before my birthday, June 22. Sorry, that's another poor Bush proposal. Of course, the money will come in handy, but with the country already going deeper in debt, down the road someone will have to pay. It's an incentive, the president says, to get the recipients to spread the money around and get the economy rolling again. It's not fair to doubt the president's sincerity when he claims that the dole will get the economy in motion. Still, with the give-away coming just before the election and the strides taken by the Democrats in the last election, this first-ever national give-away raises a suspicion that politics could be a factor as strong as the faltering economy.

Biniecki best choice for Sanilac sheriff

I have known Under Sheriff Garry Biniecki for 16 years. During my association with Garry I was a customer on dive charters and have had several opportunities to serve on his scuba dive boat as divemaster.

Garry taught me many things about safe diving and the Sanilac shipwreck preserve. Garry has been featured in several Discovery Channel documentaries on Great Lakes shipwrecks and is respected throughout the diving community.

Several years ago, I took my cousin Mark diving on Garry's boat. My cousin had a panic attack that caused an air embolism. Garry's quick thinking and management of the accident saved my cousin's life. He had me clear Mark's air passage and administer oxygen while we went to shore. At the dock, the EMS transferred Mark to the Sandusky hospital and after an examination by the doctors it was determined that Mark did not have to go to a decompression chamber. Garry Biniecki was insistent that my cousin be transported to the nearest chamber. Had Garry not been so insistent, my cousin would have died or been disabled for the rest of his life.

Use this personal story to illustrate how a leader works under extreme pressure and to stand fast with unwavering conviction for what is right.

I am a retired school superintendent and was responsible for several hundred employees along with several thousand students. I know first hand what it takes to administer a large budget and manage people while maintaining a high ethical standard and conviction to the people I served.

For these reasons and many more Garry Biniecki is the best choice for sheriff for Sanilac County. Garry is experienced, hard working, honest, intelligent and articulate. He will fight to keep our community safe while maintaining a high ethical standard and always do his best for the people he serves.

scholarship.

State Rep. Terry Brown (D-Pigeon) last week hosted Doerr at the Michigan Capitol during her first official appearance as the newly-crowned Michigan Sugar Queen.

"It was an absolute delight to welcome Rebecca to the Capitol in her new role as an ambassador for the sugar industry, which is a major employer and an essential economic force in the Thumb," Brown said.

"The 2008 Michigan Sugar Queen's visit to the Capitol created a lot of excitement as well as opportunities to educate my fellow legislators about how the sugar industry can contribute to Michigan's economic growth and job creation," he added. "Everyone was very impressed with how well Rebecca represented our sugarbeet growers and the Thumb in general."

Doerr visited the Capitol with her parents and sister, Libby, along with Ray Van Driessche of Michigan Sugar Co. Brown introduced her to the Michigan House of Representatives, while state Senator Jim Barcia (D-Bay City) introduced her to members of the Michigan Senate. She also taped a public service announcement with Brown promoting Michigan-made products.

Michigan Sugar Co. is a cooperative owned by about 1,250 sugarbeet growers that employs 50 full-time workers plus another 1,200 seasonal employees. With factories in Caro, Sebawaing, Crosswell and Bay City, the company now processes all the sugar produced in Michigan — some one billion pounds a year under the Pioneer and Big Chief brand names.

"I'm very honored to be down here today to represent the Michigan sugar industry," Doerr said. "I appreciate the kind hospitality that Representative Brown and Senator Barcia and everyone else here has shown me at the Capitol. I've been given a great opportunity and I really appreciate the chance to represent the Michigan sugar industry in the capital city."

Huron sheriff, county settle car-use dispute

Embattled Huron County Sheriff Kent Tibbits and the Huron County Board of Commissioners made peace last week.

Both sides settled a dispute that began with Tibbits' personal use of a county-owned vehicle. The board later asked for the sheriff's resignation, and Tibbits along with several supporters filed suit against the county.

An investigation into Tibbits' alleged misuse of county property began when Tibbits took his assigned county-owned vehicle on a family vacation to Florida last spring.

Last week, both Tibbits and the county agreed to move on.

"I am very pleased we have reached a settlement with the Huron County commissioners regarding the prosecutor's investigation of my use of the motor vehicle that was assigned to me as sheriff," Tibbits said in a written statement.

"As I indicated in the beginning when the allegation arose that I had used my car improperly by taking it to Florida, I am willing to pay the county for its use. "However, as I have maintained from the very beginning, there was absolutely no violation of the law or no violation of policy regarding my use of the vehicle," he added.

Tibbits said his own personal policy has been that, once he was traveling outside the state, he paid for his own gas.

"Some individuals have felt that I was not truthful when I made the statement because there was gas purchased in Michigan on my way to Florida, and gas purchased at the border of Indiana on my way back to Michigan," he said. "I never intended to mislead the commissioners or the public, and if they felt misled, I have and do apologize.

"Once I was traveling outside the state of Michigan, I did pay for all of the gas on my trip. The commissioners and I have agreed on $1,500 as restitution, which I will pay to get this matter behind me and the county."

The county, meanwhile, agreed to rescind a resolution asking Tibbits to resign and pay more than $7,000 in restitution.

"The suit alleging the violation of the Open Meetings Act, filed by myself and some other citizens...is being dismissed," Tibbits said. "A policy relating to the motor vehicle assigned to me has been reviewed and approved by both the commissioners and myself. And, of course, I will abide by this policy.

"I bear no ill-will towards the commissioners," Tibbits added. "They were simply trying to do their job, given a very difficult political climate."

Tibbits seeks reelection

Huron County Sheriff Kent Tibbits recently announced he will seek a third term in office in the Tuesday, Aug. 5, primary election. He will run on the Republican ballot.

"I hope to continue many of the fine programs we've developed over the years, which work for the good of so many residents," Tibbits said. He listed several examples, including inmate programs such as the Community Work Program in which county prisoners volunteer to work on public and charitable projects throughout the county. That program saved the community more than $120,000 last year, he said.

Tibbits cited other examples, including Forgotten Man Ministries, Kids Against Drugs, Safetyville, Law Enforcement Explorers and Operation Identification - Child Fingerprinting, and Neighborhood Watch programs.

"With economic times being what they are, we try to do our fair share," Tibbits said. "This past year alone, through donations, grants and revenue, we have brought in $1.044 million at the sheriff's office.

"We've learned over the years where and how to apply for grant money and equipment that is available," he added. "It's a win/win for the community when law enforcement agencies demonstrate that they know how to put grants to their most effective use. A constant search and watch over state and federal grants for law enforcement has brought many thousands of additional dollars to the Huron County Sheriff's Office."

Tibbits said he has always tried to be fiscally responsible to Huron County taxpayers.

"For each of my 8 years as sheriff, I have come in at or under budget," he added. "I have always worked hard with the board of commissioners to find innovative ways to get the most from every available tax dollar. My staff and I have worked hard to run an efficient jail."

Tibbits noted he is very pleased with the Triad program, which involves his department, local police and senior citizens, who work together on concerns for the elderly. The effort has included the 55 Alive Drivers Training Class, providing a legal hotline, the Do Not Call Registry Information to Seniors, and the Send Help sign program.

"Another popular program is free emergency cell phones for seniors. To-date, this program has delivered around 900 cell phones into the local community," Tibbits said.

The sheriff said his 34 years in law enforcement have made him well acquainted with area police departments, drug enforcement units, fire departments and ambulance services, creating a vital bond for prompt and effective cooperation in handling cases.

Summer music series on

by Emily Davis
Staff Writer

The sweet sounds of music will fill downtown Cass City every Friday night until the end of summer. The Village of Cass City and the Cass City Rotary Club are sponsoring the "Music in the Park" series previously sponsored by the Cass City Arts Council. There will be performances every Friday from now until Aug. 29, with the exception of July 4 because of the Freedom Festival. The concerts will be free of charge and will run from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Rotary Park. Nathan Haag, Cass City Parks and Recreation director, indicated he's looking forward to seeing how the event does this year. "There's been decent groups the last 2 years, I hope we get at least 50 people the first night," he said. "I'm expecting we can get 100 people as it gains popularity." Haag noted there are similar programs in both Caro and Bad Axe, and he feels that if it can work there, it can work in Cass City, too. Haag expects the program will most likely attract a slightly older crowd. "Other park activities may not be geared towards them quite as much. This will be good for them," he said. However, he hopes the program will appeal to a wide range of ages.

There will be a variety of musicians throughout the summer, according to Haag. There will be music of all sorts — saxophone, guitar, banjo, base, gospel, group players, basic singing and more. Haag said the musicians are mostly from the Thumb area. There will be artists coming from Unionville, Caro, Pigeon, Deford and Cass City. He is happy to bring in local talent to help showcase the area. "Why spend hundreds of thousands of dollars from who knows where, when we have the talent here?" The Cass City Rotary Club donated $500 to the event for the whole summer. Haag said this should be enough to fund the program. With the donations from the Rotary Club, there will be no charge for viewers. "It's something people can find time to do and is free. It's a way to get out of the house and enjoy the weather. We need more things that are inexpensive," Haag said. The musicians will all bring in their own sound system and equipment, which is one less thing for the village and the Rotary Club to have to pay for. They will set up in the newly built band shelter at Rotary Park. Haag said that when he asked some of the musicians how much they normally get paid to perform, some said up to $300 per show. However, many groups were willing to take a lot less so they could be a part of the "Music in the Park" program. "I appreciate they're flexible with their time and money, they just like to play. We're proud they get to play in Cass City," Haag said.

SHANNON ALLEN SHOWS emotion while she sings at Friday's Music in the Park event. Allen sings mostly Christian contemporary music. "I'm just happy to sing, anytime, anywhere," she said.

Festival events a big hit with people of all ages

What are you most looking forward to at the Cass City Freedom Festival?

The 30th annual Cass City Freedom Festival will have something for everyone. The festival is a tradition in Cass City and an event that almost everyone enjoys. From food vendors to the big parade, there is a wide variety of activities. For Cass City local Heidi Vatter, the festival is something to look forward to. Vatter has lived in Cass City her entire life and she said she has gone to the festival every year. She now looks forward to going so her 4-year-old daughter Elizabeth McCormick can enjoy the many activities. "I look forward to the petting zoo and the horsy rides. That's because of her," Vatter said pointing to her daughter. Vatter also added that she greatly enjoys seeing the fireworks display each year and all of the beautiful colors. The food vendors appeal to Vatter as well. She is very excited about the Methodist Church's strawberry ice cream social on Friday. For Vatter, the festival is a good chance to talk to and meet new people. She said it is something people can enjoy with good friends and family and get to see a lot of people, many of whom come in from out of town. Although Vatter loves the activities of the festival, she knows the significance of the holiday as well. "In my opinion, it is important to have this kind of festival because it celebrates freedom," she said.

For Kevin and Jimmy Merchant, showing pigs at the fair is never a boring experience, especially when it comes down to handling a 270-pound pig. The pigs are not always predictable and easy to control, the boys said. Jimmy said, one year his pig ran away from him when the judge came over to see it.

Jim Veneziano, manager of ProGraphix in Cass City, recently won a national award for his expertise in graphic design. The American Library Association awarded him "Best of Show" for website promotional materials and outstanding efforts in the area of library public relations during their annual conference in Toronto.

The Owen-Gage Board of Education Monday accepted Supt. Dan McKenzie's resignation and began weighing its options for filling the post. McKenzie, whose resignation was accepted "with regret and thanks for all he's done through difficult times" in the district, has accepted the position of superintendent for the Kalkaska Public Schools.

Cass City Schools Supt. Ken Micklash has been named the Michigan Association of School Administrators (MASA) Region 5 president for 2003-04.

10 YEARS AGO

Weather dominated talk in Cass City last week following the sighting of funnel clouds near the village during the morning hours of June 30.

After 54 years of mowing grass and keeping track of burial records, Virginia Auslander has retired her duties to her daughter Janet Severance, and her husband, Arthur. Since 1944 Auslander and her late husband, Clair, kept the grounds of Evergreen Township Cemetery free of brush and overgrown grass and weeds, and recorded the names of individuals buried and what site they occupied in the cemetery. "I did it for others, not myself," Auslander recently said, adding, "No one cared about the cemetery."

An overcast sky and cool temperatures didn't deter thousands from attending Cass City's 20th annual Fourth of July Festival, which organizers deemed a success. "Considering the weather, we did very well crowdwise," said Jane Hittler, July 4 Festival coordinator. "The crowd is to be commended. It wasn't any smaller than other years." At least average, agreed Duke Sward. The festival remains a popular activity for the holiday weekend. Even new events like wrestling went over well. So well, in fact, that Doug Hyatt, who is in charge of park grounds added, "there were about 100 people that stood outside the fence (to watch the wrestlers)."

25 YEARS AGO

Two Cass City students have been awarded music scholarships for summer student study at Blue Lakes Fine Arts Camp near Muskegon. They are Paul Asher, an intermediate school student and the son of David and Sharon Asher, and Annette M. Stachura, a high school student who is the daughter of Raymond and Antoinette Stachura.

The Cass City High School boys' and girls' cross country teams combined efforts to complete their goal of making the 209-mile run across the state last Thursday in order to raise money. According to girls' cross country coach Doug Grezeszak it took the group 22 hours, six minutes and one second to make the trek - two hours ahead of schedule. The eight girls and nine boys ran the distance in relay fashion passing a baton to the next runner. The furthest interval anyone ran at a time was one mile. The members who participated in the run from Montague to Forestville last Wednesday and Thursday were: LaDonna Hawley, Lorie Hurley, Chris Tuckey, Renae Stimpfel, Ann Leslie, Dicky Green, Dana Zdrojewski, Beth Cleland, Ruby Bryant, Randy Nicholas, Ed Hewitt, Chuck McPhail, Kurt Bliss, Greg Bliss, Mike Middaugh, Randy Jackson and Kevin Bliss.

The runners undertook the challenge in order to raise money to buy shoes, orange juice for meets and a trip to Sleeper State Park. Coaches estimated between $2,000-$2,500 in pledges will be collected.

In addition to Grezeszak and boys' cross country coach Dennis Meck, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Meck, Danny Gee and Katha Cleland helped do the behind-the-scenes work such as driving the vehicles.

Randy Rieck of Fairgrove won the 1,800-lb. limited modified mini-tractor division in front of an estimated 700 people at Sunday afternoon's popular Tractor Pull.

35 YEARS AGO

Inclement weather fails to stop postman Dick Root, who has been delivering mail for 16 years. Root has served on the Elkland Township Fire Department for 21 years.

Saturday was the day and the Cass City Recreational Park was the setting for the Cass City Horse show sponsored by the Jr. Wranglers of the 4-H. Cass City's Mark Neiman was high point winner with 25 points, followed by Carrie Carpenter with 23. A total of 20 classes were judged.

Cass City's building boom continued last year, despite inflation and at times, inclement weather. Figures for the period June 1, 1972 through June 1, 1973, show the dollar value up 51 percent over last year. In this period, 66 building permits were issued with a total dollar value of $1,664,515. This compared with $936,865 for the same period last year. Forty-four permits were issued in last year's period.

Winners of Hills and Dales Hospital $1,000 scholarships are: Mary E. Powell of Cass City, in her second year at Delta, who expects to graduate in 1974; Paula Decker of Cass City who plans to attend Ferris State College and graduate in 1975, and Nancy Kerbyson, a Sophomore at Michigan State who expects to graduate in 1976. The girls receive $1,000 per year and the grants are renewable each year if grades are maintained. In return, the winners agree to return to the hospital to work for one year after graduation or to refund the scholarship money.

The regular season schedule in the Cass City Little League is ending and the teams are preparing for the post season play-offs ahead. At the end of last week several teams had two games left to play but it was all academic...the Yankees had saluted away the toga for the third straight year. Yankee members are: Bathoy Lari Tonti, Brian Hagg, Shawn Papp, Craig Tonti, Brad Hartel, Randy Severance, Tim Johnson, Tim Severance, Steve Bergman, Jeff Hartel, Tony Doerr, Joel Palmater, Jeff Rutkowski and Jeff Prieskorn. The team is coached by Jim Johnson and Don Tonti. Team manager is Lee Hartel.

Stoeckle recognized for riding

Ashleigh Stoeckle of Cass City recently earned an award for logging 250 hours in the American Quarter Horse Association Horseback Riding Program.

The program recognizes and rewards AQHA Members for time spent with their American Quarter Horses in activities such as trail rides, working cattle, pleasure driving and simply riding.

A unique aspect of the program is its simplicity. Current AQHA Members complete a program application and pay a one-time $25 enrollment fee. Each enrollee receives an official AQHA log sheet to record their hours driving or riding an American Quarter Horse. Participants need not own their own horse, but all official hours must be accrued with a registered American Quarter Horse.

Nine subsequent awards are presented at 100 to 5,000 hour levels and range from merchandise gift certificates from Drysdale's Western Store to a Montana Silversmith trophy belt buckle at the highest level.

Expenses hitting O-G hard review athletic expenses, including the cost of transporting junior high sports teams to away games.

Owen-Gage officials annually dip into their general fund to subsidize the district's athletic fund, but not to the extent they had to in 2007-08. Compton noted that a Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) ruling forced school officials to purchase new basketball uniforms for home games, for example.

On a brighter note, Compton reported the district's food service budget ended 2007-08 with a fund balance of $16,600. The food program, which in the past battled growing deficits, should have a year-end balance of nearly $30,000 in 2008-09, he said.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business last week, the board:

- Reviewed curriculum plans for the coming school year. Compton discussed several adjustments, including expanding foreign language offerings by adding a middle school language exploratory class; expanding virtual/distance learning options at the high school; eliminating very basic computer knowledge classes that teach skills most students have already learned at an earlier age; adding a math remediation lab at the high school; and utilizing more multi-age coursework in the middle school grades.

• Discussed possibly holding students financially responsible for virtual classes they enroll in but don't complete. The district currently covers the cost of those classes, which cost $300 to $500 each.

• Approved a motion to maintain the district's 18-mill non-homestead property tax.

• Approved a plan to shift the hours that students attend tech center classes, from the afternoon to the morning.

• Approved an agreement with Baker College that will allow Owen-Gage juniors and seniors to enroll in classes for college credit while still attending high school.

Church launching pantry

that - we want this to be a community effort," he said.

As for the missionary church's role, Sweeney pointed out that supporting various missions in this country and abroad has always been a priority, and setting up a food pantry is a part of that effort. "We're trying to make sure that, as we receive money and other financial resources, that we're trying to reach all the areas that (God) said we should be reaching. We have to be sure we're meeting needs in this area."

The bottom line, according to Sweeney, is that organizing a food pantry offers the church another opportunity to reach out to the community.

"The theme for Revive has been communicating to the community that Jesus transforms lives," said Sweeney, who added there are countless examples in the Bible where Jesus met physical as well as spiritual needs. "This is definitely a needy time," he said, "and it's just one tangible way for us to help out."

"It's been fun. We don't know every step we're taking, but you can see (God) opening doors as we take each step," Sweeney said of the project.

"This is really what we should be doing," he added. "You have to get out there in the community. That's how the church grew - we see that in the New Testament - and that hasn't changed."

Editor's note: Anyone interested in getting involved in the project can learn more by calling the church at 872-2729, or by logging onto www.revivecc.org.

other tax benefits from the state.

Turning to other matters during the 45-minute gathering, the council took action to improve streets within the village. A motion was approved to hire Scodeller Construction, Wixom, for street crack and joint filling work for Church Street and Garfield Avenue at $1.39 per pound, with the total cost not to exceed $25,000.

The council also authorized the village to receive and open bids for the 2008 Sidewalk Repair Program July 22. Bids will be based on 1,300 lineal feet, concentrating on Third Street between Brooker Street and Woodland Avenue.

The estimated cost of the sidewalk repairs is $25,000. Homeowners will be required to pay 50 percent of the repairs, and will not be charged interest if paid within 90 days upon completion of the project. However, thereafter an interest rate of 10 percent per annum will be charged. If the bill goes delinquent after 2 years, it will be transferred to the next village tax bill.

The council also approved a pair of purchases during their June meeting. For a cost of $5,854.90, the purchase and installation of a telephone and paging system for the department of public works building was granted to I.T.I., Inc. of Bridgeport.

The council also approved a motion for the purchase of a 2000 Chevrolet pick-up truck and snow plow unit for $7,300 from Curtis Chrysler, Cass City.

"The equipment will be used as a backup vehicle and additional snow plowing for the winter season," Cristiano said, adding, "We were offered a good opportunity" that we couldn't pass up.

In other business, the council:

• Approved the bid of $31,252 from Niles Industrial Painting, Fenton, to paint the exterior of the equalization basin at the wastewater treatment plant.

• Appointed Robert Brooks to fill the vacancy on the Downtown Development Authority and the Economic Development Corporation boards. Brooks will fill the terms of Jim Rutkowski who has resigned from both boards.

• Received and filed the May minutes from the Downtown Development Authority and Economic Development Corporation.

• Accepted the financial statements ending May 31, 2008, with a cash balance of $1,179,206.

Coaches needed

Cass City's newly hired athletic director, Don Markel, reports that the Red Hawks have a pair of coaching positions available for the 2008-09 school year.

Anyone interested in coaching either the seventh or eighth grade volleyball teams is asked to call Markel at (989) 872-2148.

BEN VARNEY WORKS on the hole 9 green at the Rolling Hills Golf Course. Maintaining and monitoring the greens is a constant job, he said.

A day in the life of...

Golf course work never ends

By Emily Davis
Staff Writer

Editor's note: The following is another installment in a series of stories entitled "A day in the life of..."

The stories, written by Chronicle summer intern Emily Davis, will appear regularly this summer and focus on a variety of professionals in the community, from a local contractor to a daycare provider to a veterinarian. The goal of the series is to share with our readers some insight into what it takes to tackle various jobs and why those interviewed decided on their chosen fields.

Owning a golf course is no 8 to 5 job.

Ben Varney, owner of Rolling Hills Golf Course, knows that even when he is not at the golf course, he is still at work. "Even if I'm not here (the golf course), it's still a 24-hour-a-day job," he said.

Varney has been the owner of Rolling Hills for 4 years. Prior to working at the golf course, he owned other businesses and after they were sold, he wanted to buy another. The golf course was available and something he found interesting, so he ended up there.

Varney said the job is a fun one because of how different each day can be. "It's a challenge every day," he said. "It's different every day." Having that variety, though, is nice for Varney because it gives him more freedom. He enjoys being able to take time off when necessary to see his children compete in sporting events.

Varney has the flexibility to leave when he needs to. He employs about 10 workers and is always in close contact with them. "If something comes up, they can call me on my cell phone," he said. On a typical day, Varney spends between 12 and 14 hours at the golf course. When the course closes at night, the restaurant and bar are usually still open. He said that sometimes he's at the restaurant until 2 a.m. and has to be in around 6 the next morning.

An average day at the golf course starts off with giving job assignments. "We try to make a list of jobs and the outside staff works off that list. For the inside workers, things don't change too much," Varney said. The biggest part of his day consists of working outside on the lawns. "The actual involvement of taking care of the greens is very extensive. We're constantly monitoring the greens for fungus, insects and damage. I like working outside, though. It's much nicer than being inside," he said. Varney added that the time it takes to work on the greens could take up to 5 hours a day, depending on what needs to be done.

Rain is one of the biggest weather factors that affects the golf course, Varney said. "It's really a learning experience because the weather controls what we can and cannot do. If we get enough rain, it can shut the course down. Usually that happens in the spring when the ground is still saturated and the rain has nowhere to go," he said. When the weather turns cold and it is time to shut down the course for the season, work needs to be done to prevent as much damage as possible. "We have to blow out the water lines on the irrigation system and have to aerate the greens at the end of the year. We try to be vigilant about getting leaves cut by the woods, too," Varney said. It takes about a week to get the course running again when the weather gets nice.

Luckily for Varney, the problems the golf course encounters are not too severe. "We sometimes have problems with vandalizing, but it doesn't happen often. Mowers and carts breaking are the 2 biggest issues we deal with," he said. Varney also said that deer can be a significant problem at the course as well. "Once the course closes, the deer come out and eat a lot of the shrubs. We also have muskrats that do damage around the pond and damage the fairways by digging holes."

Varney really wants to help the game of golf expand to attract more people. "We're constantly trying to do promotions for golf as a family. Right now, if a golfer pays the regular price, the child can play for a dollar," Varney said. "We're trying to promote golf in general."

WORKING OUTSIDE IS Ben Varney's favorite part of owning the Rolling Hills Golf Course. He greatly enjoys spending his time outdoors and keeping an eye on the course.

SUPPLEMENT TO CASS CITY CHRONICLE - WEDNESDAY, JULY 2, 2008

Tractor pulls slated for 30th Freedom Festival

Tractors aren't always used just for work - they can also be a great form of entertainment.

The Cass City Freedom Festival will welcome the Mid-Michigan Mini Tractor Pulling Association and the M-T Pocket Pullers. The Mid-Michigan Mini Tractor Pulling Association event will be on Friday at noon and the M-T Pocket Pullers on Saturday at 1 p.m. Both will be at the track by the sled hill. The rules for the 2 events are very similar and will include the same style races. The races will have drivers of mini-tractors pulling sleds of 5,000 to 6,000 pounds.

M-T Pocket Pullers treasurer Melissa Richardson said the race should be anywhere from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours. There will be a pull-off if the race ends in a tie.

Richardson said the event is usually pretty full and expects to get anywhere from 40 to 60 racers. "It's open to the public to pull," she said,

"It's $15 to pull if you're not in the organization and $10 if you are. It is broken down into 11 classes, each with a winner." There will be a 50-50 raffle that will help award cash prizes to the winners. The costs to enter are the same for the Mid-Michigan Mini Tractor Pulling Association event.

Pam Hawley, who helps bring the Mid-Michigan Mini Tractor Pulling Association to Cass City, is very happy to have the event in Cass City. "Cass City's pull is very important to me," she said. "It's always fun to pull in your hometown." This year's pull is especially important to her because it is in remembrance of her son.

Richardson said the M-T Pocket Pullers event is one that keeps everyone entertained. It's something that both the racers and the audience enjoy. "The challenge of trying to win is great. Whoever has competition in their blood - that makes it a thrill," she said. Richardson pulls and is excited for the event this year.

Both events are expected to bring large crowds. "Last year the stands were completely full and people were sitting out in lawn chairs, too," Hawley said. "People cheer a lot, especially when the children pull."

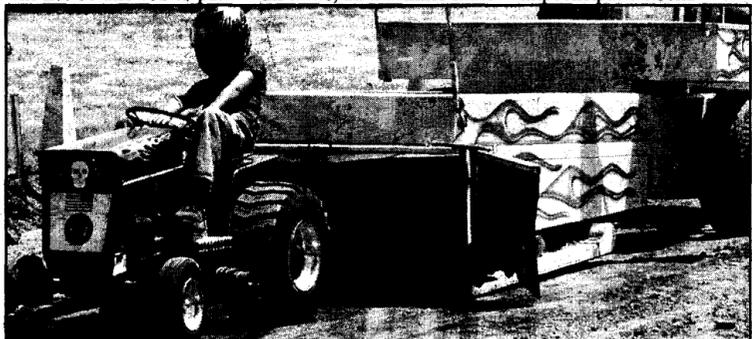

M-T Pocket Pullers is a family-oriented group that was established in 1991. The non-profit and charitable organization's name is used because it sounds like empty pockets," she said. To join the organization, one can fill out a paper, give some money and will then be a part of the group. The organization donates money to charities like Big Brothers, Big Sisters, the American Cancer Society and many more.

To ensure safety and fun for everyone, both organizations have rules for participants. The very first rule listed on the Mid-Michigan Mini Tractor Pulling Association's web site, <http://minipulling.com>, states that no alcohol will be allowed during or before the event. Any driver drinking alcohol before or during the event will not be allowed to pull.

Reckless driving is not allowed and anyone causing problems at the event will be asked to leave. For safety reasons, drivers must attend a meeting before they are allowed to pull, they must be in control of their machine at all times, all machines must have working breaks and unsafe driving is not allowed. Rules for the M-T Pocket Pullers are very similar and also state that cheating and foul language will not be tolerated. A full list of their rules can be found at <http://mtpocketpullers.com>.

THE M-T POCKET Pullers tractor pull will take place at 1 p.m. on Saturday at the Cass City Hill. The Mid-Michigan Mini Tractor Pulling Association will also have a pull on Friday starting at noon.

SAVE MICHIGAN.

Variety and quality important aspects of food at festival

Visitors will not go hungry at the Freedom Festival.

With food ranging from chicken dinners to barbecue sandwiches to ice cream, there will be more than enough to satisfy everyone.

"There's a large variety between what is offered," said Emily Phillips, chairperson in charge of food vendors. "There's a lot to be had."

Phillips is in charge of organizing the vendors. She sends out information to local organizations trying to get them to come as vendors. "I have to make sure they have their food licenses and insurance," she said. Phillips said that the cost of food licenses has about doubled in the past year. "It's costly to get licensed, especially if you just need it for one day," she said. This has made it harder for some non-profit organizations and vendors to come to the festival.

Despite the fact that some vendors from previous years will not be returning to the festival, a wide variety of food will still be available. Phillips said the committee tries not to have too many vendors selling the same food. If there is a lot of overlap, then the vendors are not going to make much money, she said. The Cass City Lions Club, Cass City United Methodist Church, Bechler's Fun Foods, Hoppy's Concessions, Sunshine Concessions, Eric's Deputy Dawgs and the Cass City boys' little league will be some of the vendors at the festival. The vendors will sell a variety of food including chicken dinners, strawberry ice cream, apple dumplings, smoothies, floats, barbecue sandwiches, hot dogs and nachos. Phillips said the Cass City Lions Club dinner is a common favorite. "The Lions Club has been here for several years, they always do a great job."

The food will be set up in time for dinner on Friday and will be available all day Saturday. The vendors will be in a shaded area between the tennis courts and the craft area, Phillips said.

"It will all be pretty affordable, general concession food prices," Phillips said.

MARK ZMIERSKI AND Barry Brown pose in front of Hoppy's Concessions, which will serve barbecue sandwiches at the festival.

Animals fun for kids to pet and ride at festival

What kid doesn't like those cute, furry friends?

The Maplewood Petting Zoo will return to Cass City's Freedom Festival along with many animals. Bill Simpson, co-owner of Maplewood Petting Zoo, said they will bring miniature horses, miniature donkeys, pot-bellied pigs, goats, sheep and probably some birds and rabbits. But not just kids can enjoy this event. "It's for all ages," Simpson said. "A lot of people never have chance to touch these kinds of animals or get close to them. Where else do you get to see a variety of animals?"

People may have the chance to feed the animals as well as pet them. "We do not carry feed stands with us, but people can pet the animals and if there is grass close by, they can feed them," Simpson said. He said there will be between 10 and 12 of the bigger animals there and then a few birds and rabbits.

Simpson said the workers will do everything they can to make sure everyone stays safe. They will only bring certain animals to the festival. "They (the animals) have to prove to us they are calm," he said. "But people have to use common sense, too. Sticking your fingers in an animal's mouth isn't a good idea."

Simpson said there will be probably 3 or 4 people from Maplewood working at the event. They will all be monitoring the animals and making sure everything is going smoothly.

Maplewood Petting Zoo will be bringing the ponies to the festival as well. Simpson said they will probably bring 3 or 4 ponies, but only use 2 at a time and have the others as backups. Again, Simpson said safety is very important. "We're licensed under the USDA and they set the standards. We don't let the kids go off with the ponies, one of us is with them at all times." Simpson said the ponies will be able to hold up to about 100 pounds, so any child 100 pounds or under will be able to ride. "We just want people to come out and enjoy it."

Dancing brigade

Excel dancers to perform during and after parade

Dancers will excel at the 30th annual Cass City Freedom Festival.

The dancers from the ExcelDance Studio will perform at, and after, the grand parade. Jeralyn Bliss of ExcelDance Studio said there will be chorus line dancers from high school age to adult on a float during the parade. There will also be a performance right after the parade in the parking lot of Baker College. This will be a public performance with dancers ranging from ages 3 to adult.

Bliss said she likes the publicity her girls get by doing shows like these. "It's beneficial to them to dance in a different setting than inside a studio or on stage. We see crowds we wouldn't normally be able to perform in front of," she said. Bliss said the girls are excited to be in the parade and to do the performance afterward.

The dancers will perform a variety of styles of dance. "We do a little bit of everything. Jazz, tap, ballet, hip-hop, modern...not usually acrobatic tumbling because we will be on pavement," Bliss said.

The performance after the parade should last around 50 minutes to an hour, Bliss said.

"We do a little bit of everything. Jazz, tap, ballet, hip-hop, modern...not usually acrobatic tumbling because we will be on pavement."

-Jeralyn Bliss

She said she enjoys doing the performance and the parade when the girls get a positive reaction from the crowd. "We like it when they clap or give positive feedback. We enjoy that very much," she said.

There are a lot of costs that go into making performances like these possible, Bliss said. "We do not have to pay an entry fee for the parade, but there are a lot of other costs," she said. The driver, the float, decorations are just some of the things the studio will have to fund.

The Excel dancers have been involved in the Cass City Freedom Festival since before Bliss has worked at the studio. "I've been here for 7 years, and they were doing it before me," she said.

The Excel dancers will come from a variety of areas, Bliss said. "They come from all 3 counties - Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac," she said. She has a lot of girls return and stay in her studio for a long time. "I'm also consistently having new students."

DANCERS FROM EXCELDANCE Studio will perform during the parade and afterwards in the Baker College parking lot. Jeralyn Bliss, of ExcelDance Studio, said the girls look forward to having this kind of exposure.

Time to organize

Hard work and planning go into Cass City's Freedom Festival

Setting up Cass City's largest festival is no easy task. The Fourth of July Freedom Festival typically costs over $10,000, with the fireworks and parade being the most expensive. "The fireworks are the most expensive, but the parade is not far behind," Freedom Festival Financial Secretary Emily Phillips said.

"The entries (for the parade) cost money. Groups come from all over the state." Phillips said that there are a lot of little things that need to be paid for that most people don't think about. Advertising, porta johns and the petting zoo are just some of the things that cost money. Also, in order to have the fireworks display, the Fourth of July Committee must make a down payment around February. Luckily, this year the committee had a good start financially from the money left over from last year's festival. All of the money for the festival comes from donations and fees that vendors and events pay to be involved. "We send out letters asking for donations from businesses and members of the community. We've had a couple good years, despite the poor economy. Businesses and community members have done a great job. Without their contributions this wouldn't be possible," Phillips said.

The festival makes some money from vendors, as well. There is a $35 entry fee for any vendor selling food or drinks and that goes to the festival committee. Vendors keep any money they make at the festival. Phillips also said the Rolling Hills Golf Tournament and some of the other sports give money back to the festival.

This year, the festival is doing well financially. "Everything is on track," Phillips said about the finances. "It's somewhat unpredictable because we're not sure what people will give. Money can be donated up until the day of the festival."

Sponsors also help to ease the financial stress on the committee. This year, the festival will have a mini-fireworks show, which is sponsored by the Cass City Lions Club and will be on Friday night. The car cruise will also be on Friday night and is sponsored by McDonald's. The Chamber of Commerce will expand the children's area by putting up inflatable activities.

Phillips said the committee is very thankful for the help they receive from the area. "The village does a lot to help us out - the crew is down there working to help set up," Phillips said.

Freedom Festival chairman Kevin Mulligan said the planning for the festival is going very smoothly. "Emily Phillips has done a terrific job getting money," he said. "The community has done a tremendous job. The only way this is possible is through donations." He said the committee takes a lot of time to plan out the festival and it's good to see all the hard work pay off in the end. Mulligan said the food, crafters and parade take the most time to organize. He said the committee will have a debriefing meeting in August to talk about how the festival went and he hopes to start planning for next year's festival in the fall.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE
Cass City ~ (989) 872-2010

BOOM! Fireworks provide variety of colors to fill Cass City sky

Cass City's Freedom Festival will end with a big bang.

The large fireworks show will wrap-up the weekend's events. "The show will start at dusk on Saturday and is put on by Kundis Fireworks of Sebewaing. The show will be similar to previous years' shows. However, Dennis Kunding, sales person and lead shooter for Kundis Fireworks, said there will be some changes. "We're getting new shells and putting in new colors," he said.

The show will be a large show that will take around 20 minutes. Chairman Kevin Mulligan said the show is always popular. "The show will probably be similar to years past. It may be slightly smaller due to costs, but people should still go," he said. The cost for the fireworks is about $5,200, financial secretary Emily Phillips said. Mulligan said the best place to watch the display is just north of the baseball diamonds.

Kunding said a show like Cass City's takes a fair amount of time to put together. "Setting up the show itself takes several hours. The main show takes about 3 hours of work and the finale takes about 6 hours to set up," he said. Setting up a fireworks show is a lot of work. The actual show itself takes a long time to set up and then there is the planning that goes into it. Kunding said that for a show like this, a proposal needs to be done, products need to be ordered and then there is the general set-up.

Kunding said the finale is typically the favorite part of the show. "The shells I put into the finale are the most expensive in the show," he said. The finale will last about 1.5 minutes. Most of the firework shells Kundis Fireworks will use in the show will come from Japan and China, he said.

To make sure everything goes smoothly and safely, Kundis Fireworks makes sure their employees and audience members follow safety regulations. "Fireworks need to be a minimum of 70 feet per inch of shell away from people," he said. "So a 6 inch shell must be at least 420 feet away from viewers." However, to be extra cautious, Kunding said he likes to be closer to 100 feet away than 70 feet.

There will most likely be 4 people from Kundis working at the fireworks show, Kunding said. While working with the fireworks, the workers will have to be wearing hard hats, face shields, ear plugs or ear muffs, long pants, long sleeves, cotton clothing and will have to be able to move quickly in case of an accident.

A new event at this year's festival will include a fireworks preview show on Friday night. The Cass City Lion's Club is sponsoring the show. Lion's Club President Blaine de Beaubien said Gary Jones promoted the idea of a mini fireworks show. "Some local people made me aware of the fact that it might be a good idea," Jones said.

De Beaubien is excited about the fireworks preview and hopes a lot of people hear about it and come out. "I think the numbers of people that come out will depend on how many people know of it," he said. "For the people that are aware, I think it will be well attended."

De Beaubien expects the show to be similar to the big fireworks display on Saturday night, but maybe slightly smaller. He said the cost for the fireworks preview show was only about $500, so he expects that with the significant price differences between the shows, the preview show will not be as large.

CASS CITY'S FIREWORKS display is always a highlight of the festival weekend. This year, there will be 2 fireworks shows and therefore 2 chances for people to enjoy a beautiful, colorful show.

Kids' creativity encouraged at Freedom Festival

Where can you find the best artwork? At the fancy museums in New York and France? No, at the Kids' Paint-In at the Cass City Freedom Festival.

The Cass City/Thumb Area branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) will once again be sponsoring the Kids' Paint-In. The Paint-In will start at 1 p.m. on Saturday and will be located just east of the gazebo. Children can come and make their own style of artwork for absolutely no cost. Ann Craig of the AAUW said everything will be provided for them. "Brushes, paint, paint shirts, paper - everything is free," she said. The easels will also be provided for the children to use.

After the children are done making their paintings, they can hang them up on a clothesline to dry. They can leave and come back later in the day to pick up their paintings, Craig said. "It's fun to see what the kids make. It's so cute," she said.

There will be Cass City/Thumb Area members of the AAUW working the event in case any problems come up. Craig said that there will probably be 3 members there to supervise.

Craig said the event is usually quite popular and expects it to be again this year. "If it's a beautiful day, and it usually is, the Paint-In is usually fun for everyone." Craig said the AAUW members and other adults tend to enjoy it just as much as the children do. Most adults enjoy seeing the creativity come from the young children.

Giving children a chance to be creative is a great way for them to have fun while expanding knowledge. The Paint-In will be a great chance for them to explore and create whatever comes to mind. "I think all children like to paint. Here they can paint whatever they want, it's not a structured activity," Craig said.

THE TRADITIONAL KIDS' Paint-In will return to the Freedom Festival for another year. Children will get to express their creativity at an unstructured event.

Great Parade

Festival's parade key ingredient in festival activities

The festival parade will be very similar to years past - with one exception.

For the first time in over 20 years, Gary Jones is not the coordinator of the parade. Don't think he's completely out of the game, though. Jones, along with Jane Hittler, will serve as grand marshals for the parade.

Richard Little has taken over the parade this year, and has done a great job according to Jones. "I'm easing myself out of the parade, Rich is like my protégé," he said.

Little is excited to be working as the parade coordinator, though it is more than he was expecting. Little said one of the most challenging parts is getting in touch with people and making sure they are still planning on being in the parade. He said a lot of people are waiting until the last minute and it makes his job a lot more difficult.

Despite the stress the parade has added to his life, Little is happy to be working with such a significant part of the festival. "The parade gets a really big crowd, it's probably the biggest thing that happens around here. Main Street is usually lined with people," he said. He hopes the parade will be as popular this year as it has been in the past. "Everybody likes a parade."

The line-up for the parade on Saturday will begin at 9 a.m. on Brooker Street. Each entry will be given a number that corresponds to their place in the parade. The parade will start at 10:30 a.m. where Brooker and Main streets meet. The parade will continue down Main Street and wrap around to end at the park near the gazebo. Little estimates the parade will take about an hour.

There are more than 60 very different entries in the parade. There will be multiple music groups, Clydesdale horses, many local businesses, various youth groups, the Cass

City High School Marching Band, a kids' section and more. All parade entries will receive a ribbon for participating. There will be trophies for the President's Choice, Prettiest and Most Patriotic parade entry. There will be a team of 3 judges that will decide who wins each trophy. Little said most of the entries participate for free, but the festival does have to pay for a few. He estimated the total cost to be over $2,000.

The price is worth it, though. "It's such a festive occasion. It's entertaining. It's kind of a kick-off for the day's activities," he said. Little said that he has gotten many requests for bag pipers to be in the parade this year. He also thinks the bag pipers and the Clydesdales will be 2 very popular parts of the parade. "There's also the kids' parade near the beginning, right before the band. With children in it, that always makes a difference," he said.

ENTRIES COME FROM all over Michigan to join in the Cass City Freedom Festival parade. The parade is usually one of the most popular parts of the festival and has Main Street lined with viewers. Fife and drum groups are a popular parade entry and will be returning this year.

Parade involvement fun for kids

Children can look forward to the chance to be a part of the Cass City 30th Annual Freedom Festival's grand parade.

"They will get a small prize just to get them to do the parade."

-Sharon Erla
coordinator of the event

This year's festival will include many activities for children, including a special part of the parade. The children's section of the parade will be similar to previous years. Children ages 12 and under are welcomed to participate. "Kids decorate bikes or pets," Sharon Erla, coordinator of the event, said. "They will get a small prize just to get them to do the parade. It will not be a competition and will not be judged." Erla sent out notices to children on the last day of school in hopes of getting them into the parade. "I've got about 30 or 40 kids right now," she said of the parade involvement. Erla wants to have as many children as possible in the parade. She is happy to give children a chance to show their creativity and be a part of such a big festival. "The main thing is, we're (the committee) trying to get kids involved," Erla said. Children have been invited into the parade in years past and it makes an impact on them. "A lot of kids love to be in the parade. They're very excited. Nothing like a parade to get kids excited - and they get to be in it," she said. Erla hopes the children will enjoy this year's parade and will want to return in the following years.

Any child who wants to be in the parade should meet at the Chemical Bank parking lot on Main Street at 10 a.m. "There will be some parents walking with the kids, but pre-school aged kids should have adults with them. They may get tired and not want to walk the whole way," Erla said. She wants to make sure the children have a good time, but also are safe.

A bag full of treats is easily had for hard working youths at the grand parade.

CHILDREN AGES 12 and under will show off their pets and bikes in the Freedom Festival parade.

Classic car cruise

History drives through town in form of classic cars

A flashback in time will start at 6 p.m. Friday July 4.

The classic cars display will start at 6 p.m. at McDonald's. The cars will stay there until about 7:45 when the car cruise will begin. Harold Wills is excited to participate in the cruise and display. Wills will have cars in the display, the cruise and the grand parade on Saturday. "I think a lot of people enjoy it because they remember the cars they had in their lifetime," he said.

Wills said there will probably be between 30 and 45 cars in the cruise. Even though it is called a "classic car cruise," Wills said really anyone can put their cars in the cruise. "We prefer older cars, but if someone has a car they really want to show off, they are welcome. Pickups can be in it, too," he said.

McDonald's will provide small plaques for 50 of the people who put their cars in the cruise.

"The feature car is picked out by the car club," Wills said. "This year it's Bill Armstrong from Bad Axe with his '44 Coupe." There is no entry fee to participate in the cruise.

Wills said the route for the car cruise will be about a square mile. "We will go into a car cruise through Cass City. We'll go east down Main Street and then turn left onto Schwegler Road. We'll go one mile north and then turn left onto Milligan Road. From there we'll go past the golf course and turn left on Seeger and go back into Cass City," he said. The cruise will end around 8 p.m. The most important thing to Wills is that everyone is careful and safe during the cruise. He said he is grateful to the police for working with the cruise and helping to keep things safe.

Wills said about 10 to 15 of the cars from the cruise will be in the grand parade starting at 10:30 a.m. Saturday and will also be on display near the park.

It is exciting for Wills to have his cars get the kind of attention that they do in the cruise, display and parade because he does the work on them himself. "A lot of people do their own work and some people paid to have it done," he said of the car-owners. For Wills and others, feeling that sense of pride when someone admires the work put into the cars is a huge reason to be involved.

HAROLD WILLS STANDS by his 1954 Chevy pickup truck. He also has a 1957 Chevy and a 1953 Ford Victoria hard top. All 3 cars will be displayed and maybe driven in the car cruise.

Festival has long-standing history in Cass City

Cass City will host its biggest festival for the 30th year in a row.

The Fourth of July Freedom Festival is an event that attracts thousands of people. "I was born and raised in Cass City and I've been going to the festival for as long as I can remember," said Emily Phillips, financial secretary for the festival. "I look forward to it every year."

Long-time committee member Gary Jones said the festival is a great way to showcase Cass City. "It's one of the largest events in the area," he said. "Many people come from miles around because we have such a good festival."

For many people like Phillips, the festival is a chance to spend time with family and have fun. "It's a good time. People have fun and enjoy themselves. We (the committee) want it to be an event where people can spend time with their families. It really brings the community together," Jones agreed. "It gives people the opportunity to meet old friends and make new friends. The camaraderie amongst people is great," he said.

Chairman Kevin Mulligan said he really enjoys working with the festival committee and hopes to be the chairman again next year. "It's important to me because it's a community service. It helps people realize there are things more important than ourselves. It's a patriotic deed," Jones said he has worked with the festival for 25 years because it is a good contribution to the community. "It makes you feel good to do something people enjoy," he said.

Phillips said people get very excited about the festival and all the activities. "People will set out chairs along the street the night before to get a seat for the parade," she said. "Then seeing the mass crowd of people going into the park after the parade is always interesting to watch."

Mulligan said the festival is a great way to get the community involved. "It's a great way to celebrate the nation's independence. It's also a fun activity to do in the summer and it's very family-oriented," he said. "Usually the parade and fireworks are the most popular, they appeal to the broadest audience."

Mike Weaver and Tom Herron were 2 of the main people involved in starting the festival 30 years ago. "We were just trying to get something going in the community," Herron said. "We wanted a festival to have something to bring some gusto to town," Weaver added.

Herron said the festival has not changed a whole lot since it started. "We started off with arts and crafts, a tractor pull, a parade...similar to now. The arts and crafts have stayed pretty much the same. The parade was as big then as it is now." However, there were a few more behind-the-scenes kinds of things that were different. "We only allowed organizations to sell food, no vendors. We also didn't allow politicians in the parade. But really, it's not too much different," Herron said. One big difference, though, is the festival did not originally have fireworks. Now, the fireworks display is one of the biggest events of the festival.

Groups and events came to Cass City's first Freedom Festival from all over, Herron said. It brought a lot of people into town. He estimated that around 10,000 people were in attendance for the first festival, similar to what the committee expects for this year.

Herron said he is glad to see the festival doing so well 30 years later, even though he has not been involved for 21 years. "I still go, but I don't get involved. They've done a good job setting it up in recent years," he said. He enjoyed working with the festival for the 9 years he was involved. "I had a lot of fun putting it together. We did a lot of work."

Most people want to see the Cass City Freedom Festival continue to grow. Herron is definitely one of those people. "As long as people want to take over, it should continue. It's good for the community and a lot of people come out," he said.

Wide range of unique homemade crafts and artwork on tap for freedom festival

A variety of arts and crafts will be available for people to admire and purchase at the Cass City Freedom Festival.

Nancy Simms, who is in charge of the craft show, said there will be a wide variety of homemade crafts on display. "We also have an artist coming this year," Simms said. "Her name is Shannon Lundgren and she does the most beautiful, delicate paintings." Simms said Lundgren will be selling her paintings and most likely doing some painting at the show, as well. Simms seemed excited to have something come to the craft show that would make it different from past years.

Simms said there will not be as many vendors at the craft show as there have been in the past. She said this is mostly because the first day of the craft show is on the actual 4th of July holiday. However, there will be new vendors and new crafters at the show with a variety of merchandise.

"There's so much we're offering," Simms said. She said some merchandise available will be homemade chocolates, quilts, antique photos, home interiors, jewelry, candles, afghans and more. Simms said the prices of the merchandise will vary. Some things will be very inexpensive, while others will be more high-priced.

The craft show will take place on Friday from 4 to 9 p.m. in and around the craft building near the park gazebo. The show will go from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday at the same location. Simms said that the crafters can come and set up when they need to and can open early on Friday if they want. With the Mid Michigan Mini Tractor Pulling Association's tractor pull going from noon to 4 p.m. on Friday, Simms said viewers may filter down to see the craft show a little early. She wants to give the crafters as much of a chance as possible to sell their merchandise and give others a chance to find things they may want to buy.

The cost for a crafter to come to the festival is $35 for an indoor space and $30 for one outdoors. "That price is for both days. They only pay once and they pay the same price if they only stay one day," Simms said. She added that she likes to see crafters stay for both days.

The registration fees from the craft show will go to the festival committee and help pay for things like the fireworks display and the parade.

Simms said the craft show is a popular part of the festival because it has such a variety of options. "It's a chance to get homemade goods," she said. She said the parade ends near the craft building, bringing the craft show a lot of attention.

Races good way to stay healthy and active

Hills & Dales will host its 12th annual Center for Rehabilitation run/walk on Saturday.

There will be 3 races, a 5K run, a 5K walk and an 8K run.

There will be age groups for each race. The first division is 14 and under, then it is 15 to 19, and it goes by 5 years up to 60 years old. The 60 and older division is called the masters' group. Anyone interested in participating can register for $15 ahead of time by visiting either the Cass City or Caro Hills & Dales Center for Rehabilitation. They can also register online at www.hdghehab.com. Online registration closes July 3 at 4 p.m. Participants can also register on-site for $18. All entering the race will receive a T-shirt, fruit, water and juice at the start and finish line, and entry into a drawing. The money raised from the registration fees

Hills & Dales General Hospital. Wohl said if there ever is a significant amount of money left over from the race, it would be donated to the festival committee.

All 3 races will start at 8 a.m. at the Hills & Dales General Hospital Medical Arts & Rehabilitation Center, across the street from the hospital. The races will also end at the Medical Arts & Rehabilitation Center.

The races will go through town and will be a somewhat hilly course. Wohl said the course for the 5K run and 5K walk will share about 2 miles with the 8K run. There will be 2 water stations for each race.

Wohl said there are normally about 70 to 80 people in the races and it is a good, healthy event. "We wanted to do something to promote health and fitness in the area. We wanted to get involved with the 4th of July festival because it's such a big deal," he said.

The races will be timed and winners will be named in each of the races. There will be a male and a female winner from the 5K run, the 5K walk, the 8K run and from the masters' division in each of the 3 races. These winners will receive a large trophy. Smaller trophies will be given out to the winners of each age group for each race, as well. Wohl said the times for the 5K run usually range from about 35 minutes to as fast as 18 minutes. The 5K walk can take up to an hour and for the 8K race, times range from about 52 minutes to 28 minutes. Wohl said the times vary and it depends on the person, the age and the race.

Wohl is very proud of the race and encourages people to participate. "We're the only race in the Thumb endorsed by the Governor's Council," he said. Participating in a race endorsed by the council gives people a chance to apply to be one of the 300 people who run the Mackinac Bridge every Labor Day.

Being safe is the most important way to ensure a fun, enjoyable 4th of July holiday.

While many people know the dangers that come with shooting off fireworks, the laws behind them are not as well known. Cass City Chief of Police Craig Haynes said the laws exist to ensure everyone's safety.

For the fireworks shows that the festival will put on, Haynes said it is very important to stay in the marked safety zones. "Don't try to get beyond the safety zone," he warned. "That's why we have the viewing area, to keep people safe." He said there will be officers around the viewing area to make sure people don't try ground. However, fireworks that give off a "shower" of color are legal.

The National Council on Fireworks Safety web site has a list of tips people should follow when doing their own fireworks show. Some of the tips include: use fireworks outdoors only, only use fireworks if

"Fireworks are best left to the professionals because of the dangers - loss of eyesight, loss of fingers."

-Craig Haynes
Cass City Chief of Police

"Fireworks are best left to the professionals because of the dangers - loss of eyesight, loss of fingers," he said.

Safety is Haynes' main concern with fireworks. "With legal fireworks, make sure to supervise your children and have water at hand. With sparklers, you want a way to safely dispose of them," he said. Haynes said that shooting fireworks of any kind can be extremely dangerous when the weather gets dry. "You have to be concerned with starting fires," he said.

to get too close to the fireworks.

The 4th of July season tends to be the firecracker season, Haynes said. He said that if an officer sees illegal fireworks going off, or if the department gets a complaint, they will issue a ticket for the offense. It is a misdemeanor to have possession of illegal fireworks.

Haynes said the best way to decipher between legal and illegal fireworks are what they do. He said that if fireworks explode, they are illegal. They are also illegal if they leave the

they are legal, always have either a hose or buckets of water on hand, never re-light a dud (wait 20 minutes and then soak it in water), spectators should keep a safe distance away and the shooter should wear safety glasses, do not consume alcohol before or while shooting fireworks, keep children under 12 away from fireworks and do not use homemade fireworks. More information on fireworks can be found at the National Council on Fireworks Safety's web site, <http://www.fireworksafety.com>.

New inflatable activities to appeal to kids

Kids will not be bored at this year's Cass City Freedom Festival.

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce will expand the kids' area to include 6 different inflatable activities. Dee Mulligan, event coordinator for the kids' area, said the chamber saw the kids' area last year and wanted to expand on it. "There's a lot for the adults to do at the festival, but not much for younger children. We (the Chamber of Commerce) saw that as a place to add something," she said.

The kids' area will be open from noon to 5 on Saturday. It will be located between the Lions' pavilion and the pool. Families can buy bracelets for their kids who will then be able to play on any of the 6 different inflatables. The bracelets will cost between $5 and $10, depending on age, Mulligan said. The inflatable activities that kids will be able to choose from include: a moon bounce, a 7-element obstacle course, an inflatable t-ball set, a Velcro wall, a 30-foot climbing wall and a game called aero ball, a trampoline-based game. After buying a bracelet to enter the kids' area, kids will be able to play as much as they want. There will also be an airbrush tattoo artist near the kids' area, Mulligan said. "The inflatables are coming from Detroit," Mulligan said.

"Their workers will set them up and a few will stay to keep an eye on the events. We will have volunteers at each inflatable to make sure the kids are safe and have a bracelet. We will take volunteers at any time," she said.

Mulligan said that the Chamber of Commerce wanted to find items that would be fun for kids from a couple years old up to early teens. "I really think the Velcro wall and aero ball will aim more towards older kids. The moon bounce will be great for younger kids," she said.

Renting the equipment will cost the chamber a little over $2,000. "With money being very tight, we decided to get these 6 items and hope for bigger events next year," Mulligan said. "If this year is successful, then next year we want to increase it (the kids' area) and get bigger items so we can have a lot of events for kids." The costs of the bracelets should help offset the renting costs. Mulligan said she would love to see this event grow and be positive for the community.

"Our community is continuously trying to make people know what we have and how good it is," Mulligan said. "We hope people will see something they like and come back."

Having a large kids' area will help to keep parents at the festival longer, too. "We want to make the festival as positive for families as possible. Hopefully if we can keep kids having fun, parents will stay and enjoy the festival," Mulligan said. Freedom Festival Secretary Emily

Phillips said she is grateful to the Chamber of Commerce for their work and is excited to have the kids' area. "Before, parents would leave if their kids were bored, now there will be more things to keep the kids occupied," she said.

But the main reason to have such a big kids' area is to give kids a chance to have fun. Mulligan expects kids will love the activities. The inflatables at the Freedom

Festival will be similar to those at Summer Mania. Mulligan said kids love Summer Mania, so she thinks they will love the Freedom Festival activities as well. "It's for them and something they can participate in."

Competition will heat up with sports tourneys

The Cass City Freedom Festival will swing into action with the Rolling Hills Golf tournament on Thursday.

The golf tournament will start at 10 a.m. Thursday, July 3 and will last about 5 hours, said Don Warner, event coordinator for the tournament. Check-in will begin at 9 a.m.

Warner said he hopes to have at least 18 teams participate. "We've always had 20 to 22 teams compete, but we could do it with 18," said Warner. A "whole gamut" of ages will compete, he said.

The Rolling Hills tournament will be set up as a 4-person scramble. Warner said this means that everyone on a team will hit the ball off the first tee, and then they will all go to where the farthest ball went. They will then all hit from there and do the same process for the entire 18 holes.

The registration fee for the tournament is $220. This includes refreshments, including a hot-dog lunch at the break and a dinner once it is over. The money from the registration fees will go towards the winners and back to the festival committee. "A good part of the money goes back to the 4th committee for the fireworks," Warner said. A portion of the money will also go to the top few teams, depending on how many teams enter the tournament.

There will also be the usual 3-on-3-basketball tournament. The games will start on Saturday around noon, as soon as the parade is over. The entire tournament usually takes between 3 1/2 and 4 hours and will be in the park. Ben Varney, who is in charge of the tournament, said there will be a minimum of 25 teams participating. "We typically have about 150 people playing and have had upwards of 35 or 40 teams in some years," Varney said.

The basketball tournament uses half of the basketball court and only 3 people from each team may be on the court at once. However, some teams will have a fourth person as a substitute. It costs $70 per team to register and registration goes until July 4, but teams are encouraged to sign up before that. The winning team will receive a trophy.

Varney said that most participants will be in the range of 21 to 25 years old. "We typically have 8-year-olds all the way through adult, about age 25, playing," he said. "People like to come out because their kids, relatives or friends are playing." Both men and women will be allowed to play in the tournament.

The Cass City High School boys' and girls' basketball teams will help out at the tournament. They will keep track of the scores and players will call their own fouls. The money received through the registration fees will go to the athletic boosters. Varney said the coaches for the girls' and boys' basketball teams will be helping out and will get money that usually goes to supporting their team camps. "The rest of the money goes to the boosters and is typically used for the weight room, but it's not set in stone where it goes," he said.

There will be a minor league and little league game on Friday the fourth. Matt Prieskorn, who is in charge of the games, said the 5 best players from 5 minor league and 5 little league teams were chosen to compete in the All-

Star games. The boys' minor league game will be at 5 p.m. at the north ball diamond. The girls' little league game will also be at 5 p.m., but will be at the diamond just east of the pool. The boys' little league game will be at 7 p.m. at the north ball diamond. The ages for the minor league teams can be anywhere up to 10 years old, but Prieskorn said the majority of the children competing will be between ages 7 and 10. For the little league games, the ages are 10, 11 and 12. There will be no fee to play. "It's just for fun," Prieskorn said. There are no prizes. However, there will be a presentation for the regular season and play-offs, where the athletes will get trophies. Prieskorn said the games are usually quite popular. "It's a big deal."

A brand new event for the festival will be the all-star football game. It will also be in the park and will start at 7 p.m. on Saturday. "The game should be over just about when the fireworks start," said Varney, who is also in charge of the football game.

Al Dadacki suggested the idea of an all-star football game to other football coaches. Participants must be seniors who graduated this year. They will come from Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties, as well as from teams in the Greater Thumb Conference or the NCTL conference. A total of 25 schools will be sending students who were nominated by their coaches to play in the game. "The Sports Writers Association of the Thumb as well as the committee selected the players and formed the teams," Varney said.

There will be 2 teams playing in one regular, 4-quarter tackle football game. Players will be separated by conference. One team will be made up of the Greater Thumb West Conference and the NCTL North to make the Northwest team. The other team will be the Greater Thumb East Conference and the NCTL South to make the Southeast team. There will be about 30 players on each team. "It's a regular football game, with some minor changes to accommodate a shorter practice schedule," Varney said. "For example, no blitzing will be allowed."

The game will also have a half-time show like a normal high school football game. "The Cass City marching band and dance troupe will be performing at half time," Varney said.

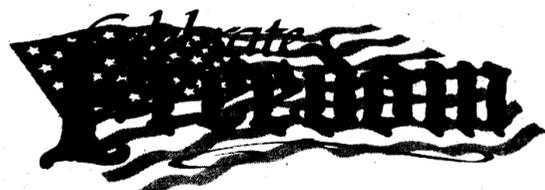

Jerseys, with the individual player's name on it, and pants will be provided for the players, but they will wear helmets from their own schools. "The only thing we ask of the kids is to send us a biography to put in the program guide."

Varney said all players will get to keep their jerseys and the winning team will win bragging rights. There is no cost for the teams to participate.
