Judge rules in favor of O-G in lawsuit

by Tom Montgomery Editor

Richard Knoblock last week ruled in favor of the Owen-Gage School District in an Open Meetings Act lawsuit Owen-Gage School Board trustee.

Knoblock granted the school district's motion for summary disposition, saying the plaintiff in the case -Mike Mandich of Owendale lacked proof that school officials had violated the Open Meetings Act.

ruling some time after today (Wednesday), when the parties' period of discovery ends. If Mandich and his lawyer, Bay City attorney Kim Higgs, are unable to present evidence by that date proving a violation of the act, the case will be dismissed. Mandich filed the suit in late 2008 against Owen-Gage Board of Education members Terry Muntz, Deb Quick, Jeff Leinweber and Kathy Champagne.

In the suit, he alleged the 4 board members violated provisions of the Open Meetings Act Oct. 27 when Compton met with the district's auditor prior to a regular meeting. Mandich, a lifelong resident of the school district who served on the school board for 8 years, also stated the gathering was not properly noticed, was not conducted in a meeting open to the public, and no minutes were taken during the meeting. ..if members of (the) Owendale-Gagetown Area School Board of Trustees gather, a quorum being present, for the purpose of deliberating, the meeting is subject to the provision of the Open Meetings act, even if there is no intention that the deliberations will lead to the rendering of a decision on that occasion," the suit

School officials acknowledge a preregular meeting gathering of the district's budget committee took place with Compton and the auditor, but they say there was no quorum of the board present.

Committee members Terry Muntz, Deb Quick and Kathy Champagne were in attendance, but board President Jeff Leinweber was not, according to Compton, who said the purpose of the gathering was to update committee members on the audit report that was again presented during the regular meeting. There was no discussion or action prior to the regular

Fritz waives arraignment

The former Owen-Gage High School softball coach accused of having a sexual relationship with a 14-year-old girl waived his arraignment on several counts of criminal sexual conduct last week in Tuscola County Circuit Court. Cory Douglas Fritz' next appearance in court will be for a pre-trial hearing. A date for that hearing has not vet been set.

The charges against Fritz, 26, of Sebewaing, stem from allegations that he had multiple sexual encounters with an Owen-Gage High School sophomore back in 2005/06.

Michigan State Police detectives are investigating the alleged sex crimes along with a possible missing infant allegedly fathered by the suspect with the victim. Prosecutor's allege the victim buried the remains of the baby, but Please turn to back page.

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

School's in session; stay alert, drivers

Cass City area children returned to the classroom this week for a new school year, significantly boosting pedestrian traffic on local sidewalks, crosswalks and streets each weekday morning

And the risk for a tragic accident that could be avoided if motorists are willing to take the time to remind themselves (often) that defensive driving isn't just about "watching the other guy" on the road, but also staying alert at all times, keeping an eye out for youngsters who sometimes don't pay attention to the rules of traffic safety.

The Cass City community has an enviable record when it comes to the number of accidents involving kids and cars in town, but that could change in an instant, especially in these times, when technology has added to the number of distractions already readily available behind the wheel.

Think about it; cell phone calls, texting, navigation devices, not to mention the old standbys — fast food, changing the radio sta-

We're all guilty of it.

But extensive research confirms the dangers of distracted driving. Studies say that drivers using cell phones are 4 times as likely to cause a crash as other drivers. Research also shows that hands-free devices do not significantly eliminate the risks, and may worsen them by convincing motorists that the behavior is safe.

A 2003 Harvard study estimated that cell phone distractions cause 2,600 traffic deaths every year and 330,000 accidents that result in moderate or severe injuries.

The risks are even greater when it comes to drivers with the least amount of experience on the road. Michigan Secretary of State Terri Lynn Land annually encourages parents to be vigilant, and this year is no different.

"Research shows that inexperience accounts for the largest share of crashes involving young drivers," Land said in a recent news release. "Training, practice and parental involvement are essential if our children are to develop the skills needed to stay safe on the road."

Land notes the most critical time of day for young driver fatal crashes is the 3-hour block at the end of the school day, from 2 to 5 p.m., and that September, now the traditional start of the school year, is one of the deadliest months for teen motorists. 4 years and the patients and people of order to get their records sent after 2 "Distractions, compounded by inexperience, are more likely to lead to a panicked reaction or over-reaction, increasing the chances of a crash," she said.

Land also pointed out, and rightly so, that parents are important role models when it comes to demonstrating safe and responsible driving habits, including obeying traffic laws, never driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs, and always wearing a seatbelt. In addition, under the Michigan Graduated Driver Licensing Program, parents have the authority to restrict or take away their teen's license if they believe their child isn't developing good judgment or driving skills.

"Whether novice or experienced, all drivers should take care driving in school zones, at school crosswalks, when buses are stopped or whenever children are seen walking or biking on streets or sidewalks," Land said.

Cass City School officials have taken a proactive approach to the danger inherent when children walk to school. Last year a grant-funded effort paid for a "safe routes to school" program in which the school, local police department, Michigan Department of Transportation and other agencies worked together to physi- make right in this world? cally map out the best and safest routes for kids walking to

However, nothing can take the place of good, old-fashioned safe driving practices when it comes to avoiding an accident that could change your life and the lives of others, in an instant.

It happens. In 2008, 11 pedestrians ages 6 to 17 were killed and 491 others were injured in Michigan. Three bicyclists in the with the lawsuit. same age range were killed and 542 suffered injuries, according to the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning (OHSP).

In the end, the safety of our children is paramount, something we can all agree on AND do something about while behind the wheel, especially in school zones and while driving in and around schools and buses.

After all, has there ever been a cell phone call, text message or hunger pang that couldn't wait a few minutes until you're safely parked on the side of the road or in your driveway?

Add the names of Rob Maurer, Snover, and Rachel Deacons, Filion, to that list. Rob's mom, Rachel Maurer, has been an employee of the Cass City post office for 14 years, and his dad, Dale Maurer, has been employed at Cole Carbide for 27 years.

You can cast your vote for either couple to win by logging onto: www.connectmidmichigan.com until Sept. 14.

Cass City Chief of Police Craig Haynes has been serving on the Tuscola County Underage Drinking Prevention Committee since May. Their goal is to reduce the problems associated with underage alcohol consumption using the media, education and enforcement. Focusing on the latter, Chief Haynes has applied for a $1,400 state grant that would fund an Alcohol Enforcement patrol following the Red Hawks' 4 home varsity football games and 10 home basketball games this fall. The patrol would begin their 5-hour shift at 7 p.m., to coincide with the start of the sporting event, and end their shift at 12 a.m., providing 70 hours of dedicated patrol to reduce underage drinking.

Cass City, like many small communities, has always benefited from tireless volunteer work of area residents. Sam Moore, Cass City Parks and Recreation director, says Rich Little and Carolyn Sorenson are 2 of the best.

Little has spent many, many tireless hours, according to Moore, helping to make our Farmer's Market successful, while Sorenson has done the same by organizing the weekly concerts in the downtown Rotary Park.

Village of Ubly clerk F. Schrader eyes votes

Editor's note: The Chronicle's editorial staff recently asked area village candidates seeking contested seats in next week's elections to respond to a series of 3 questions:

1) Why are you running for a seat on the village council?

2) What experience or background do you possess that would help to make you an effective member of the council?

3) What do you feel are the greatest challenges facing local government right now, and how would you like to approach possible solutions to those challenges?

Ouestionnaires were mailed to the 4 candidates vying for 3 trustee seats in the village of Owendale, and to each of the 2 candidates battling for the offices of clerk and treasurer in the village of Ubly.

The only candidate to respond was longtime incumbent Ubly Village Clerk Florence E. Schrader. The folving are her answers:

Florence Schrader

1. Please note I am running for reelection as village treasurer. I want to continue to give back to the community all it has given me; good place to raise my children, the friendly hellos, good schools, leadership, organizations who give so much back to the village in so many ways, the cooperation between the council, township

Most of all, I would like to help get the transition to a new clerk and 3 new council members off to a good start. I would like to be there for them. Since there are no office hours per se, it is a 24/7 job.

2. The knowledge and experience I have gained as treasurer the past 34 years; living in the village for 61 years I feel I am more familiar with the wants and needs of the residents; have held positions of leadership in several organizations in Ubly.

I am currently serving on the board of directors for the Michigan Municipal League and former member of the board of trustees, giving me the chance to see how other municipalities of all sizes work and deal with issues along with keeping me current on the laws and regulations required by the state and federal laws.

3. As treasurer, I do not have a vote, but as a citizen I would like to see the council bring new businesses to town to fill the vacant buildings with jobs for anybody who needs one, but especially to keep our young people local; make Ubly appealing to every age for many reasons and to keep the safe and secure community we now live in; invest the taxpayer's money prudently and still have enough to run the village smoothly.

In 2008, the investments earned approximately $40,000 dollars in interest as additional income; keep up-to-date on changes and requirements concerning money matters as it pertains to village business and be responsible for all accounts according to the laws and regulations for each. In these economic times, you must be able to know how to invest wisely and safely to get good returns.

Red Hawk tennis team searching for maiden victory

Say this about the Cass City tennis team, they are consistent.

The Red Hawk racket program, in only its second year of competition, both under Coach Bill Potter have started the season winless in 4 attempts. Moreover, the final scores of each outing have ended with a 5-3

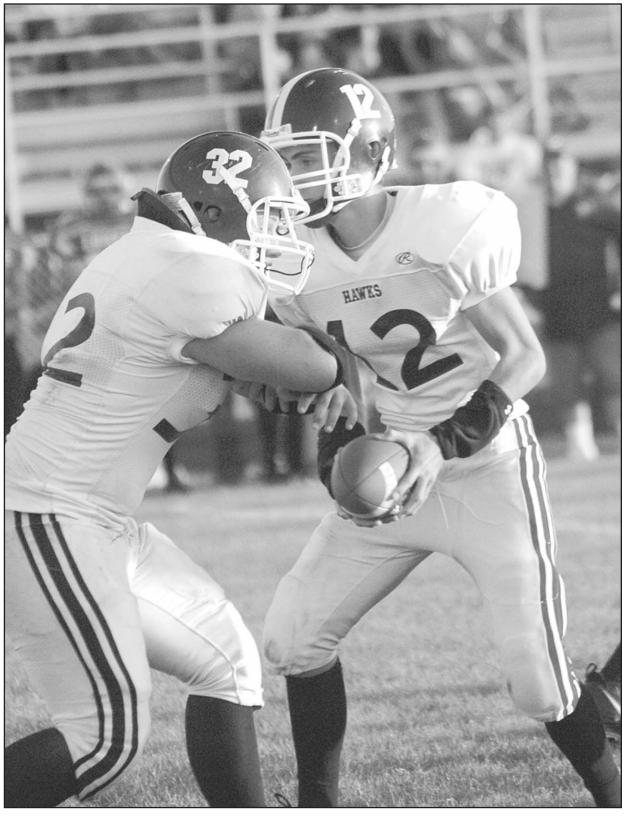

Cass City opened its campaign on the road against Croswell-Lexington, Imlay City and Sandusky, before bowing at home last Wednesday to visiting Bay City John Glenn during the team's most recent action.

"CrosLex, Imlay City, John Glenn, all have student enrollment of 750-950 making them Class B schools," Potter said of his opening foes.

Despite the sluggish start, the Red Hawks stand at 0-1 in conference play entering tonight's (Wednesday) Greater Thumb Conference meeting with Bay City All Saints in the Recreational Park.

Highlighting the team's success in the early going has been #2 doubles partners Lindsay Jamieson and Nicole Kelley, whose only defeat came against Imlay City's Joe Rettell and Kyle Strohm by identical scores of 6-2. The twosome defeated CrosLex's Taylor McAllister and Jason Wright 6-2, 6-3; Sandusky's Emily Hale and Marissa DeMott 4-6, 6-3 and 7-5; and John Glenn's Chad Meyer and Dan Gould 7-6, 6-1.

Potter also praised the efforts of QUARTERBACK JUSTIN Ketterer hands the ball to Cass City running back Marker who went undefeated in the Austin Osentoski during Thursday's GTW opener in Pigeon. The Lakers steam #3 doubles slot and lost once playing rolled to a 26-7 victory, improving to 1-1 on the season, while the Red Hawks slip to 0-2.

Collaborative to benefit area youth

For the first time, all Michigan young children and their families will soon have access to a local Great Start Collaborative, a statewide effort to help ensure that local kids get the social, safety, educational and medical support they need to thrive and grow.

"We know that investing in our children when they are very young significantly increases their chance for success," said Judy Samelson, CEO of the Early Childhood Investment Corporation, which funds the 55 collaboratives statewide. "When it comes to wise use of our financial resources in these tough economic times, you can't top that." Total investment in the Great Start Collaboratives is $7.9 million, which includes private foundation funding. The state's contribution for this fiscal year is $6.75 million. Sanilac received $120,000 of those dollars.

"This money is critically important because it comes at a time when the state and local communities have to make scarce resources work harder and longer," said Nancy Dean, Great Start Sanilac Director. "Ensuring that local programs and services for children 5 and younger are available and effective has never been more impor-

Since the first 21 GSCs were created in 2006, they have leveraged $3 million from local businesses and nonprofits to help with the effort. "These community leaders see the work that's being done by the Great Start Collaboratives, and the opportunity they have to contribute, and they're stepping up," said Samelson. "Communities are uniting around the issue of early childhood programs and supports because they know well-prepared children are vital to Michigan's future."

The local Great Start Collaboratives are composed of community leaders from education, child welfare, health and mental health, childcare, philanthropy and business, as well as parents. The mission of each Great Start Collaborative is to coordinate and oversee ongoing improvement of local early-childhood services and programs, based on a comprehensive community plan.

Great Start Collaboratives provide input that is used to develop an annual early-childhood policy agenda that the governor, legislators and policymakers can use to spearhead state ac-

"Michigan is making an investment in its economic future by ensuring that every child receives the educational, social, medical and other supports they need to reach their potential," said Joan Nagelkirk, Coowner of Clear Ideas. "That's a goal we should never lose sight of - especially in challenging economic times like these."

Dr. Paul Chappel of Cass City would like to publicly announce he is leaving his practice in Cass City after 36 years. On behalf of his wife, Suzanne, and himself, Dr. Chappel would like to thank the people of Cass City and the surrounding communities, especially Marlette, Caro, Bad Axe and Pigeon for their loyalty and patronage to his practice throughout those years. It has been very fulfilling to provide treatment to such wonderful people, and we will not soon forget them.
