Cass City student enrollment continues to decline in 2015

by Tom Montgomery Editor

Student enrollment and mold issues at the former Campbell Elementary School building dominated the Cass Board of Education's September monthly meeting Monday night.

Just days before school districts across the state are scheduled to conduct one of two annual enrollment counts to determine their state fund- at the elementary school, with anoth-Hartel offered the board an update on local student numbers.

And the preliminary numbers aren't great. In fact, if the figures hold steady, this will be the first time in memory that Cass City High School's enrollment (grades 9 through 12) will dip below 300.

According to Hartel, the latest tally revealed a total of about 545 students ing, Cass City School Supt. Jeff er 472 in grades seven through 12 for a total district enrollment of 1,017 as of Monday. The total high school enrollment includes 299 in grades nine through 12, which is the figure used for athletic classification.

> Overall, the district lost 38 students compared to last fall – 15 students since last winter, said Hartel, who noted the latter figure is closer to

Super moon!

SUNDAY NIGHT'S cloud cover gave way to clear skies just in time to give local residents a great view of a "super moon" (the closest full moon of the year) in combination with a lunar eclipse, as the earth's shadow swallowed up the moon for more than hour. The last such eclipse occurred in 1982 and won't happen again until 2033. (Photo courtesy of Cheryl Viney Osentoski)

Auditors give village thumbs up on budget

by Clarke Haire Publisher

The 2014 financial audit highlighted Monday's regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council, where Anderson, Tuckey, Bernhardt & Doran Certified Public Accountants Val Hartel and Angela Burnette informed trustees that they were glad to present a good report, which was quickly approved.

"Very healthy, very strong," Hartel said of the audit, noting all fund balances ended the year with positive balances.

Although the village's financial statements received an unmodified opinion - the highest possible assurance that acceptable accounting practices are followed - the audit also uncovered significant deficiencies in the village's internal controls.

Among the areas that need improving, according to Hartel, are segregation of duties, submitting bank reconciliations in a timely matter and late audit submissions due to year-end accounting, and closing processes that are not completed in a timely matter.

Still, local governmental fund balances at the end of 2014, according to Burnette, show $304,466 in the general fund, $94,966 in the major street fund, and $28,671 in the local street fund, while proprietary funds show a net position of $1,856,405 in the combined sewer and water funds.

Zip line accident fatal Thursday at Bay Shore

by Tom Montgomery

A Belmont man lost his life in a freak zip line accident Thursday afternoon at Bay Shore Camp.

Huron County Sheriff Kelly J. Hanson identified the victim as 85-year-old James J. McNeil.

Hanson reported the accident occurred at about 1:30 p.m. at the Sebewaing area campground. "Preliminary investigation, as well as witness statements and video, are indicating that the zip line harness attached to (the victim) came unfastened, causing Mr. McNeil to fall and suffer fatal injuries," he said.

"Resuscitation efforts were attempted, but the victim was later pronounced dead at Scheurer Hospital in Pigeon," Hanson added. "An autopsy has been ordered by the Huron County medical examiner and this investigation will

County. Pontello, whose bond has been set at a combined $300,000, was taken into custody Sept. 18 after deputies were dispatched to investigate a breaking and entering complaint. "The homeowner had come home and found his house broken into, and reported a suspicious person in the area of his house on a bicycle,"

Skrent said. '(After) arriving in the area, Sgt. Mattlin saw a person matching the description given by the victim. Upon contact with (Pontello), a loaded handgun was found on his person. Also in his possession, in a backpack, were a broken down shotgun, ammo and ballistic armor," Skrent said.

Going back in time

Weather picture-perfect for third annual cemetery walk

by Tom Montgomery Editor

Organizers of the Elkland Township Cemetery Walk were again blessed with mild, fall weather Sunday as they welcomed some 200 people from the Cass City area and beyond to take a trip back in time to "meet" several of Cass City's notable citizens during this year's third annual event.

Judging by the comments heard by Kate Van Auken throughout the afternoon, the cemetery walk was well received and then some not surprising, considering it took less than four days to sell out.

'It was great. People were thrilled," commented Van Auken, who again spearheaded organization of the walk along with Katie Jackson, Doris Jones and Jim Ware. Also playing a key role each munity's annual Pinktober celeyear have been Elkland Township Cemetery Sexton Steve Wright and his crew, including Joe Krol and Alan Witkovsky.

"It just keeps getting better, because I think the actors – they get so into it. Every year they just surprise me. I mean, Dale Churchill brought sheep, and Bob (Battel) spoke with a German accent," Van Auken added, noting the experience has been made even more interesting by the fact that a number of relatives of past citizens being portrayed have attended the walk and shared their stories and

Van Auken and her fellow volunteers upped the number of available tickets this year by 50, enabling them tory lesson featuring actors who to raise $2,000, all of which will be tell the stories of a handful of past donated to the American Cancer Society in conjunction with the com-bration observing October as Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

However, Van Auken doesn't anticipate expanding attendance significantly in the future. "I don't think it can get any bigger, because as it was, we sold 200 tickets," she said.

Organizers began planning this year's event in January. The work includes selecting past citizens to feature during the walk, as well as research, writing scripts, and approaching area residents willing to serve as actors.

For those unfamiliar with a cemetery walk, Van Auken describes the activity as a walk-through hislocal citizens — each having left

Huron Co. pair face home invasion charges

by Tom Montgomery Editor

A pair of Elkton residents have been arraigned in Huron County District Court on home invasion charges stemming from a Sept. 19 burglary in Sebewaing

The suspects, Dennis Bricker, 32, and Kimberly Wilkinson, 33, were both formally charged last week. Wilkinson also faces an unrelated contempt of court charge. Both pleaded not guilty, and bond was set at $10,000 for each defendant. Both were scheduled to return to court later this week for preliminary examina-

Huron County Sheriff Kelly J. Hanson indicated the pair could also face additional charges in Huron and Tuscola counties stemming from at least four other break-ins police believe are related. "More (crimes) may have occurred and the victims may not yet be aware that they've been victimized," he said.

The Sept. 19 arrests came after the Huron County Sheriff's Department received a tip regarding two Elkton residents leaving the area, allegedly with stolen

Charles Auten

Charles Stuart Auten, 88, of Cass City died unexpectedly Saturday, September 26, 2015 in Covenant Medical Center, Cooper Campus, Saginaw.

He was born May 7, 1927 in Cass City, the youngest of four children born to Meredith B. and Virginia (Wilsey)

He married Lois Jean Jersey September 14, 1949 in Boyne City. They recently celebrated their 66th wedding anniversary.

As a young man, Chuck was very active in athletics, particularly track and field and football. He received many first place awards throughout his high school athletic career. In football, Chuck was given the honor of being voted most valuable player by his teammates. In 1945 the first varsity club was formed and Chuck was elected the first president. They named the athletic teams "Red Hawks". Chuck held many jobs as a young man, contributing to keeping the economy strong. At the age of 14 he drove the garbage route in Cass City which he did all through high school on Saturdays. He also had the Detroit Free Press route all through high school and was a pin setter at the bowling alley. During summer vacations, he was lifeguard at the pool, mowed grass at the cemetery, drove a dump truck for Hunt Construction and used a pick and shovel digging and replacing gas lines in Bad Axe for L.E. Meyers.

In 1945, Chuck began his military life. It was the end of World War II. He spent most of this time in the Philippines. After his marriage he was drafted a second time, finishing his tour during the Korean War. College found Chuck at Bowdoin College in Brunswick, ME. His time there was dominated by running the half mile. He received many first place awards against many college teams including Maine State and Vermont State. By the time he transferred to Michigan State University he had had enough of track and did not sign

At the age of 22 years and 3 months Chuck became the youngest Ford dealer on record. His dealership received Ford's highest honor of Four Letter Award year after year. Lois and Chuck also played with real estate with four apartment buildings and several other buildings in town. Chuck served on the board of directors of Cass City State Bank, Hills and Dales Hospital, Chamber of Commerce and Ford Dealer Board. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Cass City since his birth. Chuck and Lois owned Huntsville Mobile Home Park, the Ford Garage Building and were part owners of Lake Properties in Port Austin at one time.

After retirement, Chuck and Lois enjoyed traveling, spending summers in Boyne City and Charlevoix and winters in North Carolina and Florida. They also enjoyed their air stream trailers and the travel options these opened for Chuck is survived by his wife, Lois; daughter: Jill (Thomas) Thompson of Cass City, Barbara (Edwin) Gregory of Dallas, TX; grandchildren: Jody (Christopher) Hoffman, Tyler (Chris) Lieberman, Kathryn (Michael) McLeod; great-grandsons: Landon, Aiden and the third great- grandson due in October; sister-in-law, Jeanne Auten of Bradenton, FL. Chuck will also be missed by his nieces, nephews and their families: Peter Schmidt-Fellner, Blair Schmidt-Fellner, Mark Schmidt-Fellner, Mardi Auten Coury, Andrew Auten, Chas Auten, Rick Jersey, Nancy Merrill and Tim Jersey. He is preceded in death by his sisters: Charlotte (Alex) Schmidt-Fellner, Carolyn Auten; brother, Frederick Auten; brother-in-law, Wallace and Marilyn Jersey; and many dear friends.

A private family graveside service will be held at a later time. Interment will be in Elkland Township Cemetery. Memorials may be made to First Presbyterian Church of Cass City Challenge Fund. Military honors were under the direction of Cass City VFW Post #3644 and the U.S. Navy.

Family and friends may share memories, prayers and stories with the family at www.kranzfuneralhome.com.

Diabetes patients can live with this

Health officials haven't yet found a cure for diabetes, but while researchers search tirelessly for the key to eliminate the disease, experts are continuing to improve ways patients can better manage their dia-

In Michigan, an estimated one in 10 residents is diagnosed with diabetes mellitus, a long-term condition in which the body either no longer makes a hormone called insulin or the insulin that is made no longer works as well as it should. Either way, high levels of glucose (a form of sugar) build in the blood, and high glucose levels cause damage to eyes, kidneys, nerves and blood vessels. Diabetes also increases the risk for heart attacks and strokes.

For every person living with the disease, new recommendations now encourage them to receive Diabetes Self-Management Education and Support (DSMES) at four critical times during their lives in order to lessen the risk of complications.

According to the American Diabetes Association, American Association of Diabetes Educators and the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics, the four critical times to assess, provide and adjust DSMES are: at diagnosis, on a yearly basis, when changes in health affect self-management, and when changes in care happen, such as insurance changes that affect treatment or having a new medical team.

"Ongoing support is vital to controlling diabetes through self-management and healthy lifestyle choices," says Dr. Eden Wells, chief medical executive with the Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS). "Because individual needs may change over time, it's important to reassess diabetes self-management according to the newly recommended schedule."

DSMES refers to the information and skills people with diabetes need for proper self-care and the support they need to perform those skills and behaviors, such as healthy eating and taking medications.

Health care officials have long recognized that persons with diabetes perform most of the care needed themselves and therefore require DSMES.

That's where the American Diabetes Association guidance comes in, outlining the type of information and support patients might need at these important times. The statement also outlines the content to be taught, roles and action steps recommended for both the referring health care provider and for the diabetes educator.

Research has shown that DSMES helps to reduce glucose levels; reduces diabetes complications such as kidney disease and amputations; improves lifestyle behaviors, such as eating a more healthful diet and exercising more frequently; and decreases diabetesrelated depression. DSMES has also been shown to reduce hospital admissions and readmissions.

Persons with diabetes and their caregivers are encouraged to talk to their physicians about referrals to one of Michigan's 93 DSMES programs. At these programs, a certified diabetes educator will work with each patient to develop an individual education plan and goals.

The Healthy Michigan Plan, Medicare, Medicaid and state-regulated health insurance plans all cover DSMES.

Area residents can find much more information about DSMES and Michigan DSMES programs by visiting the website, www.michigan.gov/diabetes.

A large "pursenality"

A recent morning news show featured a segment couldn't believe it. on purses and what a handbag reveals about your personality. I watched with interest since less than 24 hours earlier my purse had saved me from grave bodily injury.

But I'm getting ahead of myself.

If purses reveal our personalities, I am a study in contrasts. I jockey between two bags. The first is minimalist: tiny, with enough room for a cell phone, small wallet and maybe a chapstick or pen

My other purse is maximalist. It contains everything needed for survival, and then some. In it I carry pepper spray and a mini stun gun because a girl can never be too careful. There's a crank flashlight in case of power outages, a small notebook situations, a charging cord and outlet thingy for my phone, a blanket and umbrella in the event of inclement weather, bottled water for thirsty times, a brush, mirror and makeup for primping, Pepto Bismal tablets – just in case and chapstick and pen (plenty of room for both).

Some people have a bag packed with items needed for survival in case of natural disaster or emergency. These are called bug out bags. I don't need a bug out bag; I have my purse.

As I alluded earlier, last night my purse nearly saved my life. And it had nothing to do with the pepper spray or stun gun.

My husband, oldest son and I were at a youth football game watching our youngest son. Rain threatened, so I packed not one but three umbrellas into my big bug out purse. I jammed them in next to the blanket and pepper spray and we were ready for the game – rain or shine or whatever else we might encounter. Prepared is my middle initial.

The rain did come. And the lightning that accompanied it put a halt to the game. As we ran across the road to our parked car, my foot caught on an uneven bump in the pavement and I went down. Fast. And hard. I didn't even have time to see my life flash before my eyes. I didn't even know I was falling until I was lying face down on the road with a car zooming toward me.

My husband was quickly by my side, clearly con-

I did what most people do after they've fallen in an embarrassing manner. I hopped up and tried to pretend it never happened. As I made my way to the car I assessed my injuries. Surprisingly, there were next to none. I had two minor scratches on my hands where they'd hit the pavement. Otherwise, I was intact and injury-free. I honestly

etters to the Kid

During the ride home, my husband described the accident. He'd observed the ugly tumble in its entirety and knew why I hadn't done a complete face plant. My purse – jam-packed with three umbrellas and a blanket – hit the ground before me and cushioned my fall. Thank goodness for the threatening rain.

Some say a purse, and its contents, reveals a lot about your personality. Sometimes it shows you to be a survivor, whether that entails pepper spray, gum or a good old blanket. Moral of the story? Never make fun of a girl with a big purse. She (and it) may save someone's life some day. Either that, or offer vou an umbrella.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Yep, that's Dagmar "Walker" Brown. The Cass City senior citizen who recently completed her 56th trek across the Mackinac Bridge on Labor Day. In a letter to the Chronicle, Dagmar wrote: Labor Day is the only day pedestrians are allowed on the bridge. The crowd of walkers was estimated at 50,000. Governor Rick Snyder and his entourage from Lansing led the walk.

Everything went well in spite of the weather -- there was a heavy rain with high winds that did eventually let up. As always, she stopped at about the halfway point to drop three new pennies into the lake for good health, happiness and peace for herself and friends.

Seems to be working.

Littly to the Lutter Still time to be part

of local time capsule

The village of Cass City is concluding a very special time in its history — our 150th sesquicentennial year is quickly coming to a close, and an integral part of that celebration is our time capsule.

We will be ending our time capsule collection activities soon. If you live in or around Cass City and would like to have your items included in the time capsule, you still have time. We are encouraging everyone to bring your non-returnable photos, business annual report, history, or other special items to the village municipal office by Sept. 30 to ensure it is included.

'Guest pages" will be available for your signature at select locations in Cass City through Sept. 30. If you are traveling through, please stop by and add your signature. Guest pages can be found at Rawson Memorial District Library, the Cass City Municipal Building, Frankenmuth Credit Union, Chemical Bank, Thumb National Bank, and Independent Bank.

On Friday, Oct. 2, Cass City High School will host its 2015 homecoming parade and football game, where the time capsule will make one of its final appearances. It will then be on display at the municipal building until its sealing ceremony at 6 p.m. Monday, Oct. 26. Then it will be locked away until the village of Cass City celebrates its 200th anniversary in 2065.

On behalf of everyone at the village of Cass City and the supporting agencies that have been the foundation on which this great community was laid, we recognize your support, dedication and commitment.

"The open houses will provide an opportunity for hunters and outdoor enthusiasts to learn about the areas and interact directly with DNR personnel," said Joe Robison, wildlife biologist supervisor for the DNR. "These areas offer world-class waterfowl hunting opportunities and various recreational activities that many outdoor enthusiasts can enjoy."

The DNR invites the public and hunters to join the staff at several managed waterfowl hunting areas to tour them and learn about all the possibilities for hunting and other

The open houses will include events at the following locations: the Shiawassee River State Game Area (Saginaw County) - Thursday, Oct. 1, at 6 p.m.; Fish Point State Wildlife Area (Tuscola County) - Monday, Oct. 5, at 6 p.m.; and the Nayanquing Point State Wildlife Area (Bay County) - Tuesday, Oct. 6, at 6 p.m.

Guided tours will include observation of habitat improvements conducted to provide optimal habitat for waterfowl, plus other wildlife management techniques that make these areas attractive to a host of wildlife.

Additionally, visitors can learn about the Michigan Waterfowl Legacy, a 10-year, cooperative partnership to restore, conserve and celebrate Michigan's waterfowl, wetland and waterfowl hunting community.

Waterfowl hunters will learn about how each area is run and what to expect when they come in for a hunt drawing. In addition, they will learn about other areas nearby that are open to hunting, and visitors will have a chance to have questions answered during a Q & A period.

Each open house also will feature information on this year's Wetland Wonders Challenge, a hunting contest that the DNR has developed to highlight the exceptional waterfowl hunting opportunities available to the public at these managed waterfowl hunting areas. The challenge takes place at the seven areas throughout southern Michigan and will run from Oct. 10 through Jan. 31. Seven winners will be chosen Feb. 15.

To be entered for the grand-prize drawing, hunters must hunt at three of the seven managed waterfowl hunting areas. Hunters who hunt all seven areas will win a prize.

More information about the Michigan Waterfowl Legacy can be found at www.michigan.gov/mwl, and information on the managed waterfowl hunting areas and the Wetland Wonders Challenge can be found at www.michigan.gov/wetlandwonders.

Sheriff: drug suspect's criminal past includes murder conviction

by Tom Montgomery Editor

Huron County Sheriff's deputies are continuing their investigation into an on-going drug-related probe that resulted in the arrest a suspect whose criminal past includes a second degree murder conviction.

The arrest came after officers served a search warrant Friday afternoon at 7011 Main St. in Caseville.

'Packets of heroin, crack cocaine, loaded syringes, cash and other drug paraphernalia were seized, as well as a 2002 Chevrolet Avalanche pickup," Huron County Sheriff Kelly J. Hanson said. "Four occupants were

"The 2014 financial audit has been completed. It was a chaotic year because of the infrastructure being built for the milk plant. The village received grants for portions of Doerr Road, the extension of North Division Street, and the Schwaderer drain," said Village Manager Peter Cristiano.

"The DPW and WWTP crew worked, in addition to their regular duties, to build a lift station and install water and sanitary sewer lines. They need to be commended for the work they did," added Cristiano, who praised Gary Barnes, Rick Mohr and Nanette Walsh for helping to produce a balance budget despite having to match funds for work centering around the Dairy Farmers of American (DFA) milk plant.

Of weekly papers and liquid crap...

by Tom Montgomery Editor

I'm frequently asked about the future of weekly newspapers, usually by folks who do so with a pained look in their eyes.

Will they disappear altogether, resigned to the same graveyard assigned to other old relics that have outlived their usefulness? I suppose they will at some point. Honestly, I'm a little surprised the relatively few weeklies that are still around are, well, still around.

A retired journalist I became acquainted with a few years ago may have said it best: too many people have dropped the habit of reading a paper on a regular basis, and the Internet has provided competition for advertising dollars to a degree television and radio never did.

I'm guessing some of our faithful readers could provide the best insight into what still draws them to their local paper week after week. I hope it's more than a habit. I hope it's because they still find something inside worth paying for, something they won't find among the pages of one of the dailies.

Personally, I hate the thought of small town newspapers disappearing, largely because of the important role they've played in their communities over so many decades. I used to worry about watching my career go down the tubes along with the print media, but I haven't lost sleep over that thought in years. I'm confident there will always be some sort of work for communicators, even broken down, small town weekly newspaper editors.

Until that day comes, I take comfort in the words of a former Chronicle intern – Larry Werner – whose career spanned nearly 45 years – much of that time writing and editing for daily newspapers in Louisville, Detroit, Dallas, Minneapolis and elsewhere – but ending with a stint as an executive with a group of weeklies.

"Weekly editors go to the city council and school board meetings, to the civic festivals and the sports events. And when those tough stories have to be written, the mayors and superintendents don't hesitate to call the editors or stop them on the street," Werner said.

"When you work for a weekly, you meet readers," he added. "And you hear from the people about whom you write. Why? Because that newspaper is telling the story of the places where people live and play, where they send their kids to school and where, after they retire, they hang out at local coffee shops.

"The daily newspaper is a powerful institution. The community weekly is a friend."

I hope that rings true with Chronicle readers.

I'm not shy when it comes to telling people I'm in love with our place in Novesta Township, where we've lived for close to a year now.

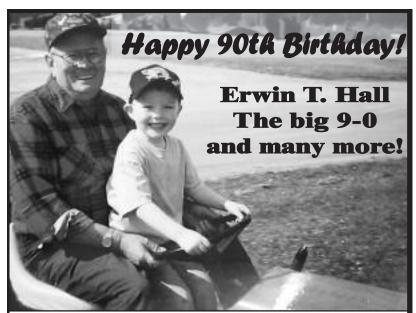

That's not to say I love everything about living out in the burbs of Deford, however. I'm no poet – and I'm not seriously complaining here - but a recent event prompted me to share my thoughts about certain farming practices.

Here goes:

Dear Farmer Brown, you broke my heart. I'm at a loss for where to start. All summer long, the smell of hay, That sweet, sweet scene you brought our way.

Your field next door, a welcome sight, So green, so fragrant, always right. But now you've gone and wrecked it so, With giant tanker trucks in tow.

The air, once fresh and nice and light, Hangs heavy now. It's just not right. Instead of hay, so sweet, like sap Our place now smells like liquid crap.

Sheriff: drivers not yielding

by Tom Montgomery Editor

Some Thumb motorists could use a driver's education refresher course when it comes to dealing with approaching or stopped emergency vehicles on area roadways, according to Huron County Sheriff Kelly J. Hanson.

Drivers are either not aware of the law or they're simply ignoring it, and their risk of getting a ticket for failing to yield to emergency vehicles will be increasing as law enforcement agencies crack down on viola-

"A serious safety concern continues to grow as our office has been contacted by fire, ambulance and towing services, about motorist falling to yield to moving emergency vehicles when they have their emergency lights activated and siren sounding or while they're stationary alongside of roadways, with visible emergency lights activated," Hanson said.

Under Michigan law, when a motorist is approached by an authorized emergency vehicle, which is responding to an emergency situation and is displaying flashing, rotating or oscillating red or blue lights, as well as sounding an audible siren, drivers are required to yield the right of way – that is, immediately drive to a position parallel to and as close as intersection, then stop and remain in that position until the emergency vehicle has passed (unless otherwise directed by a police officer). Violators can be ticketed for committing a civil infraction.

As for stationary emergency vehicle that have their lights activated, drivers are required to adhere to what is known as Michigan's "move over law".

"Motorists are required to move over for stationary emergency vehicles when their lights are activated or slow down and pass with caution if it is not possible to safely change lanes," Hanson explained.

"The law applies to the police, fire, rescue, ambulance and road service, which includes tow trucks or courtesy vehicles operated by the Michigan Department Transportation," he noted. "Drivers charged with this violation could be guilty of a misdemeanor punishable close accidents have occurred."

possible to the right-hand edge or by a fine of not more than $500 or curb of the roadway, clear of an imprisonment of no more than 90 days, or both."

However, if a driver causes injury to a police officer, fire fighter or other emergency response personnel, the penalty raises to a felony violation punishable by a maximum prison term of two years and a fine of up to $1,000, or both.

"Lastly, if a driver causes death to a police officer, fire fighter or other emergency response personnel, they now face a felony charge with a fine not more than $7,500 or by imprisonment of not more than 15 years, or both," Hanson said.

"Motorists are cautioned that our office and local law enforcement will be making extra efforts to enforce these laws, as well as cracking down on motorists who pass through funeral processions, which is a civil infraction," the sheriff added.

"Fortunately, no serious mishaps have happened locally, but many

Attempted scam reports again pouring into sheriff's office

Huron County Sheriff Kelly J. Hanson knows he probably sounds like a broken record when it comes to warning Thumb citizens about scam artists, but he figured it was time to repeat himself after more than three dozen residents reportedly received suspicious phone calls recently.

"Our office has recently been inundated with scam attempts, mainly being made by individuals calling and representing themselves as the IRS agents and employees of Publisher's Clearing House," Hanson said last Wednesday. "Our office alone received information that scams have been attempted on over 40 Huron County citizens this week.

"These scams are nothing new to the area and we've warned of them before," Hanson noted. "In March, I personally called a contact number supplied by a victim of a suspicious agent and spoke to an individual with a foreign accent claiming to be an IRS agent. After extending an invitation to that person to come to our office so we could meet and work more closely with him or any other member of his agency, he used obscenities and hung up. I attempted a follow up call with no answer — clearly a scam, and many other local police officers have placed similar calls with the same results.

"We cannot express enough to always be suspicious when receiving a call from a supposed governmental agency that is demanding money. These practices would normally be done in official mailings or in person," he said. "As far as being notified of being the recipient of a cash or other substantial prize, always remember — if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

"Unfortunately, victims who send money before making sure the call is legitimate seldom ever recover what they've sent. Residents are encouraged not to become a victim of a preventable fraud."

Canfield appointed to state vets affairs subcommittee

State Rep. Edward "Ned" Canfield has been appointed to the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Military and Veterans Affairs, which reviews the budget for the Department of Military and Veterans Affairs and determines expenditures of state dollars related to veterans programs.

'As a veteran, I am especially excited about this opportunity," Canfield said. "Men and women in the military, veterans and their families deserve the best treatment possible, and as a member of this committee, I will do everything I can to ensure their voices are heard."

The Sebewaing lawmaker already serves on the full House Appropriations Committee, where he takes part in larger discussions on the state budget and chairs the Appropriations Subcommittee on the Department of Transportation. Canfield also serves on the appropriations subcommittees for the Department of Agriculture, Department of Community Health, Department of Corrections and Department of Education.

Local vet missed in open house article

A story in last week's edition of the Chronicle, announcing plans for a special open house to honor local World War II veterans, inadvertently left out the name of one of the veterans slated to participate in the event.

The open house is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 7, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the VFW Post 3644 Hall on Veterans Drive in Cass City.

Deputies issued a "be on the lookout" notice to police agencies throughout the region, including Bay City and Saginaw. Later the same day, deputies were dispatched to a

Caro Road residence in Sebewaing Township, where the homeowner had just returned home to find his house open with an unknown vehicle in the driveway, according to Hanson. "An unknown suspect had also

"Apparently, the suspect had asked the acquaintance for help in locating his girlfriend because he claimed they had gotten into a fight on Caro Road and she had gotten out and started walking. When they never found her, they returned to Sebewaing to get some gas," Hanson said, adding Bricker went in to pay for the gas, but never returned to the car. Officers located and arrested Bricker after bringing in a Michigan State Police tracking dog.

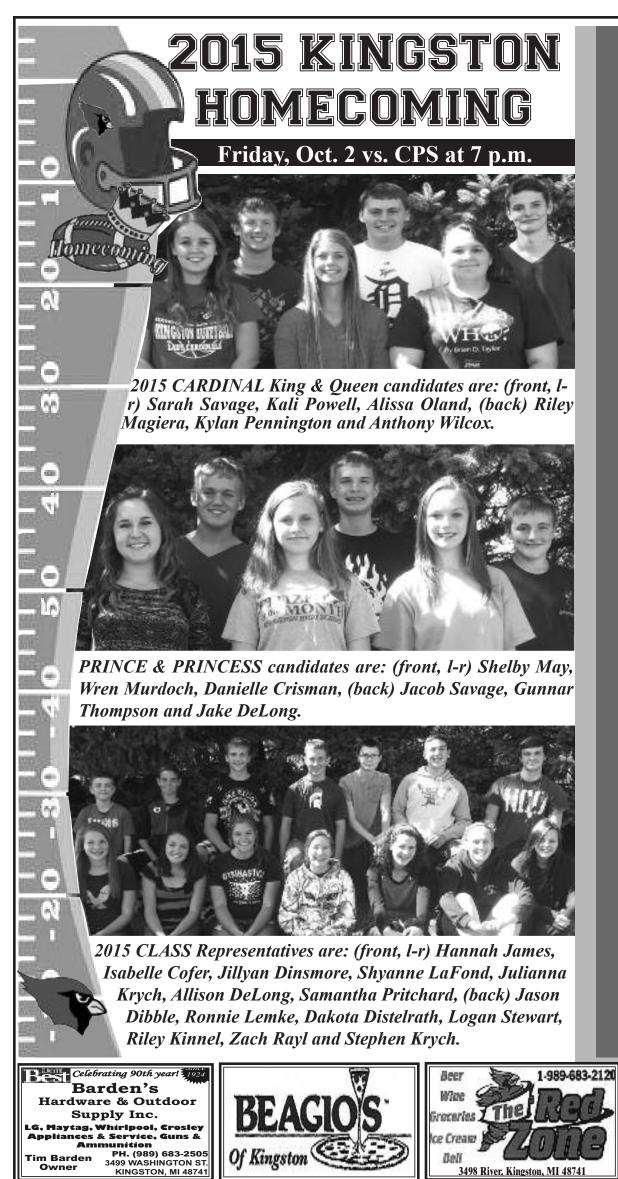

Investigators then went to the Caro residence in search of Wilkinson.

"While they were doing so, a the suspect vehicle from earlier. The motorist pulled up with the suspect," Hanson said. He added the motorist, unaware of the break-in that had occurred about a half-mile from her residence, agreed to give Wilkinson "A little while later, the Sebewaing a ride to Elkton. "However, once she saw the patrol vehicles on Caro Road, she became suspicious of her passenger (and) decided to go directwas then learned when the resident ly to the officers."

The undersheriff, who added investigators concluded Pontello may not have been involved in the break-in, reported the suspect threatened to kill a deputy and a Michigan State Police trooper while being transported to the Tuscola County Jail. He also threatened to attack the jail once he is released, Skrent said.

Tuscola County Pumpkin Festival

October 1-4, 2015

Caro is the home of the Tuscola October tradition which was started in 1981 by a small group of local residents. Annually, the four-day festival attracts approximately 50,000 visitors. The Pumpkin Festival gets their pumpkins from the Jim delivered to primary school youth in the area who decorate the pumpkins and submit them for display where petitive categories. In addition, the Pumpkin Festival Royal Court is selected based on the largest pumpkins grown.

In 1981 the Caro Chamber of Commerce board members set out to retail sales in Caro. Members started asking around town and the idea of a Pumpkin Festival came from John Sauber and Gary Fulgham who were familiar with other pumpkin festivals. Carol Ellsworth, Ruby Reid, Alva Hayes, John Sauber and Gary Fulgham formed a committee and are now affectionately referred to as Pumpkins were grown by local farmto decorate and return for display on along with a carved pumpkin display which has added a new dimension. In the early days, giant pumpkin seeds were handed out at the local schools and large pumpkins were grown. A selection was then made from the largest grown pumpkin for the "Prince and Princess" of the festival. In early 1991 a contest was held to name the newly created mascot and the name Harvey was cho-reality based on how the state determines state funding.

Enrollment plays a key role in school funding from the state, which "blends" student counts conducted twice a year by districts; once in the fall and again the following February. The state's blending formula places the greatest emphasis on the fall count, which is worth 90 percent of the total.

The blended enrollment number is multiplied by schools' foundation allowances to determine how much revenue they will receive for the year. Cass City, for example, is slated to receive roughly $7,391 per student for the 2015-16 school year.

In the final preliminary analysis, if Monday's numbers hold true, Cass City Schools will be looking at a net loss of roughly 33 kids.

"We budgeted for a loss of 25 students," Hartel said, adding another eight students (for the total of 33) would translate into nearly $57,000 less in state revenue than anticipated.

The actual 2015-16 enrollment numbers will be determined by the next two counts, starting with the next tally set for Wednesday, Oct. 7.

CAMPBELL MOLD

Turning to other matters Monday, board members learned that this past summer's hot and humid weather, combined with little air circulation in the largely empty former Campbell Elementary School building, apparently set the stage for a "perfect storm" of sorts for mold growth in the structure.

Hartel told the board that mold has been found in the Campbell building, portions of which are currently being leased to businesses. A formal inspection conducted in mid-September confirmed the widespread presence of a type of mold that could cause health problems for people with lowered immune systems and those with respiratory infections. High counts of mold were detected in the structure's crawl spaces.

Hartel noted the rooms currently being leased have been cleaned. "(But) we have to determine what to do with the rest of the building."

After discussing options, the board opted to pursue a surface clean-up of the building interior with bleach – at an estimated cost of $1,200 to $1,500 - along with increasing air circulation and setting up air dehumidifiers.

Board President Alice Zaleski pressed her fellow board members for action on what she indicated is the bigger question: what can the board do to get rid of the old school, which school officials closed about four years ago, largely due to enrollment losses.

'We need a plan. It needs to be sold," Zaleski said.

Hartel asked if the board is willing to drop its asking price – currently at $120,000. "You want my honest opinion? If someone would buy it for ten bucks, I'd (take it)," he said.

Trustee Dan Manwell took issue with that comment, saying previous discussions surrounding disposal of the building have prompted citizens to voice opinions stating they want the district to keep the building. Some board members have also voiced reluctance to sell based on a belief that the district might need the classroom space again sometime in the future.

If the school is sold, Manwell said, the board has an obligation to do right by taxpayers. "We still have that responsibility to them; to get every dollar we can for it," he added.

Meanwhile, Zaleski commented, school officials have spent $80,000 over the past four years on basic utility costs for an empty building that has virtually no chance of being needed again for classrooms, considering Cass City has continued to see enrollment losses year after year.

Hartel said he wasn't serious about selling the building for $10, but Zaleski indicated she might be at this point.

"We really need to work on ways to get rid of that building. It's costing us money and we haven't raised our student count in the four years since we closed it," said.

"I don't have a perfect answer. I don't think any of us does," said Hartel, who agreed to seek another informal appraisal to determine an appropriate price to seek for the building.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board:

*Heard building updates from the district's administrators, as well as updates on food service and transportation.

Shari Bock, food service director, told board members that 54 percent of elementary students and 52 percent of students at the junior-senior high school qualify for free and reduce meals this year, and 43 percent of the kids at the elementary are eating breakfast. "That's huge. That's up quite a bit," said Bock, who also reported the district is the proud owner of two new salad bars – one donated by an individual and the other won in a national contest in which citizens in the community were asked to cast votes via Facebook.

Hartel, who also serves as the district's transportation director, reported Cass City has a combined 12 buses in use; eight on the roads each school day with four substitute buses. Last year, he said, those buses traveled a total of 151,110 miles and using 20,240 gallons of fuel for an average of 7.47

Of the buses in use on a regular basis, Hartel noted, mileage totals range 92,504 (on the newest bus, purchased in 2011) to 175,000 miles on a 2001

*Agreed to meet 30 minutes prior to its regular October board meeting, Monday, Oct. 26, at 7 p.m., to discuss and approve board goals for the 2015-16 school year.

*Was encouraged to attend a fall board workshop slated Thursday, Oct. 29, starting at 6 p.m. at the Tuscola Technology Center in Caro.

*Approved a motion to allow the high school band to participate in the Tuscola County Pumpkin Festival Parade Sunday, Oct. 4, in Caro.

Nick Perry recorded the game's first points, capping a 65-yard drive with a three-yard plunge on Cass City's opening possession. Then, after a blotched Bad Axe punt fake, Cass City scored again on a Sawyer Cuthrell 40-yard run to extend the gap to 14-0 entering the second quar-

Cuthrell collected 157 rushing yards on 17 carries and three TDs, while Perry rushed for 71 yards on 10 totes and two markers to pace the Cass City offense. Quarterback Mason Erla added 41 yards rushing and one marker.

Cass City would strike twice more before the halftime break. Erla, who was 2-of-3 passing for 90 yards, teamed-up with Parker Haire for the team's next points. With 9:10 left on the clock, Erla tossed a strike to Haire on a short crossing pattern, that the senior end hauled in near midfield, shook off a tackle and outran the secondary down his own sideline on a pretty play that covered 60 yards.

Morley pens new book

When Bob Morley released Cass City Red Hawks Boys Basketball 1950 - 2001 in 2009, it was embraced by Red Hawks of all ages, and newer generations wanted more. In response, Morley is releasing Cass City Red Hawks Boys Basketball 1950 - 2014.

Much more than an update, this second edition is a virtually new book. Exhaustively researched, the new book revisits the old material with many more individual and team records as well as extra season highlights of games and scoring performances. As a special bonus, 13 more years of comprehensive team coverage has been added. All teams that won conference, district and regional titles are highlighted with pictures. And there are special features honoring the two outstanding teams from 1935 and 1944.

With the Greater Thumb Conference League Meet fast approaching, it's hard to fathom anyone challenging the Cass City Red Hawk cross country team for the conference crown.

Coach Jon Zdrojewski received another dominating performance Saturday at the Laker Invitational, where all 5 Red Hawk scorers placed among the top-10 finishers.

The winners tallied just 21 points, while Ubly with 50 points and Capac with 82 points round out the 3 best team scores on the day.

Brothers Bransen and CarLee Stimpfel paced Cass City over the weekend with a one-two finish and times of 16:42 and 17:02, respectively, while Jose Torres was fourth to cross the end line, completing the 5K run in 18:12. Torres was followed immediately by teammate Zane Wright in fifth place with a time of 18:23 and the final Red Hawk scorer was Michael Rader who finished ninth with a time of 19:01.

"Tournaments are long days of playing and then sitting. We started at 8:30 and finished at 5:00. Maegan LeValley had a good day hitting, but I also credit Baylee Murphy for her great performance. Baylee led the team in digs with her quick feet and her ability to read the hitters. She makes her passes look effortless. Baylee's serving is very consistent and accurate and she had the third highest number of aces. She has really improved lately and I like what I see," he said.

In pool play Saturday, Cass City had an easy time with host USA, Ubly, North Huron and Caseville, while splitting tilts with Caro. The Patriots fell with identical scores of 25-17, Ubly by scores of 25-18 and 25-14, North Huron by scores of 25-1 and 25-15 and Caseville fell by 25-7 and 25-13 margins.

Owen-Gage runs wild in Mid-Michigan win

Owen-Gage ran its record up to 5-0 romp. Friday with a lopsided decision over host Akron-Fairgrove in Mid-Michigan 8-Man play.

Up next for the undefeated Bulldogs is their homecoming match-up this Friday against guest New Haven Merritt Academy. The Mustangs improved to 4-1 - winning 52-42 over Burton Madison Academy in Week 5 - to set-up Owen-Gage's biggest challenge to this point of the season.

Owen-Gage's 2-headed rushing attack proved too much for Akron-Fairgrove. Dylan Fritz and David Binder each ran for over 250 yards as the visitors jetted to a 40-6 first quarter lead and never looked back en route to an 80-28 whipping.

Fritz found the end zone 4 times for the winners, while Binder struck for 6 TDs, including a pass reception of 40 yards from quarterback Jacob Wright. Wright, who was 3-of-5 passing, also threw a touchdown strike to Dan Good from 13-yards of the season, the league meet in Brown City and regionals in Harbor Beach. I expect good things for the remainder of the season for this group of very talented and dedicated athletes," Zdrojewski said, while noting the efforts of his entire roster.

"The remainder of the team ran impressively, with Gabe Farver in 17th in 20:01, Jamison Biskner-Kruse in 21st in 20:20, followed by Race Woloshen in 30th in 21:02 followed immediately by Tyler Laster in 31st in 21:03 and finally the team was rounded out with Hayden Larkin in 34th place in 21:41 in the field of 58 finishers.'

For Ubly, Alex Grifka was the third runner to finish with a time of 17:57. Nicholas Swanson added a 6th place finish with a time of 18:26, 2 spots better than Nathan Gilbert who was clocked in 18:35. Jonathan Wright turned in the 19th fastest time and Blake Schumacher was the 22nd fastest on the afternoon with times of 20:10 and 20:21.

Turning to the women's competition, Ubly held off Bad Axe 30-52 for first place honors, while Deckerville with 63 and Cass City with 75 completed the team listings.

The Bearcats had freshman Haili Gusa with a winning time of 21:13, while sophomore Janelle White was the runner-up, posting a time of 21:14. Emma Hembrough, with a time of 23:43, was eighth overall and Shannon Particka and Sabrina Schumacher complete the Ubly scorers with top-15 showings and times of 24:43 and 24:44, respectively.

24:32. DeeDee Haley was next for the Lady Red Hawks with a time of 26:43, while Kate Stimpfel recorded a time of 27:24. Ilana Blattner completed the team scoring for Cass City with a time of 32:41.

"For the first race of the year we had a full team of 5 athletes as dual sport athletes DeeDee Haley and Kate Stimpfel were both finally available," commented Zdrojewski.

FRANKENMUTH INVITE

On Thursday, the Cass City men's team dominated both the varsity and junior varsity races at the Frankenmuth Invite. The varsity race was won by Cass City standout Bransen Stimpfel in 16:52, followed closely by CarLee Stimpfel who was the runner-up in 17:21. Next for the Red Hawks was Jose Torres in eighth place in 18:43 then in tenth place was Zane Wright in 18:59. Rounding out the Red Hawk scorers was Michael Rader in 14th place with a time of 19:22.

Cass City defeated Ubly 34-80 for team bragging rights, while New Lothrop was a distant third with 107. In the junior varsity race, Cass City defeated New Lothrop 29-45 for top

"I split the team of 10 into a junior varsity team of 5 hoping that these athletes would have a chance to win a meet without the very strong runners always ahead of them. This worked better than expected, the junior varsity race had Gabe Farver finishing in first place in 20:13 fol-For Cass City, Lauren Fernald came lowed closely by Jamison Biskner-

Schneeberger's ATHLETE of the WEEK

Schneeberger's Athlete of the Week honors goes to Cass City volleyball player Baylee Murphy. The Lady Red Hawk sophomore turned in a spectacular week for Coach Bill Potter as his team improved to 23-9-2 on the season. Murphy had 37 digs and 9 aces to aide her team in capturing the USA tournament over the weekend, which followed solid showings in GTW action against Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port and Bad

Against the Lakers, Murphy's stats included 10 digs and 4 aces, while against the Hatchets she came off the bench to shine at the service line.

"Baylee's serving is very consistent and accurate and she had the (against Bad Axe). She has really improved lately and I like what I see," said Potter. Baylee is the daughter of Scott and Michelle Murphy.

their own positive legacy in the community. "It's just a different activity in a unique venue you wouldn't expect," she added.

The popularity of the event doesn't surprise Van Auken.

"I think it's interesting — not only do people here give back financially and volunteer-wise, but there's also a rich history, and people want to know more about it," she said. The 2015 cemetery walk featured the following past citizens: *E.B. "Chick" Schwaderer, portrayed by Dick Wallace.

Schwaderer, born in 1893, was perhaps best known for expertise in construction. His own company built roads (including paving portions of M-81, M-53, M-46 and M-24 in the Thumb), air strips and concrete bunkers at military installations throughout the state. He also constructed the first public swimming pool in Cass City and was instru-

"Mac" McCullough and his brother, trayed by Norma Wallace. Glenn "Scotty" McCullough. McCullough was also involved in many community organizations.

*Harold "Doc" Oatley, portrayed by Kim Glaspie.

Oatley, a long-time educator and active citizen, was well known for his leadership and influence in Boy Scouting. Born in 1908, he's credited with helping 15 young men earn scouting's highest rank — the Eagle. *James Hitchcock, portrayed by Tommy Fulcher.

Born in 1830, Hitchcock was among the early settlers of Cass City, a tinsmith who turned his craft into a very successful business. He built the "Finest Opera House in the Thumb" on the north side of Main Street between Leach and West *William Audley Rawson, portrayed by Joe Van Auken.

A farmer born in 1893, Rawson was elected Elkland Township supervisor and went on to serve as a state representative and state senator. His bill requiring traffic to stop for students entering and exiting school buses is Chick Schwaderer's wife, Belle was born in 1900 on the family farm near Greenleaf. She worked at Cass City State Bank, and her contributions to the community were many and included civic, church and "airplane spotter" activities.

*Adam Benkelman, portrayed by Bob Battel.

Born in 1824, Benkelman was an apprentice cooper (barrel maker) as a teen and went on to become a skilled craftsman. A native of Belgium, he along with John Striffler built the first store in Cass City for Nathaniel Clark. It was Clark who suggested the name Cass City in honor of Lewis Cass, the second territorial governor of Michigan.

Interestingly, Battel is the greatgreat-great-grandson of Benkelman and Striffler *Esther McCullough, portrayed by Barbara Hutchinson.

McCullough, born in 1904, was a teacher in Illinois and Alpena before coming to Cass City to teach at the then-new high school. She later worked at a local drug store pur-*Isabelle "Belle" Schwaderer, por- credited with saving countless young chased by her husband, Raymond lives across the state and country. The Rawson name is well known, in part due to the family's generous donation of $60,000 to build the library at its current location at the corner of Pine and Seeger streets.

Dr. Crandell is remembered as a beloved veterinarian who treated farm animals of every size and description. Born in 1914, he was a staunch supporter of 4-H and the Tuscola County Fair for more than

*Irene Freeman, portrayed by Kate

Freeman, born in 1911, was a nurse who worked at the former Pleasant Home Hospital in Cass City before buying the hospital and operating it for 26 years. Also active in civic organizations, she later worked at the then-new Hills and Dales General Hospital and eventually went to work for well-known Cass City physician the late Dr. H.T. Donahue.

The Elkland Township Cemetery Walk generated $800 for the American Cancer Society in its inaugural year, and $1,050 in 2014.

FORMER LONGTIME Rawson Memorial District Library Director Barbara Hutchinson portrayed Esther McCullough, a veteran educator who was very active in the community. Her husband, Raymond "Mac" McCullough, and his brother, Glenn "Scotty" McCullough, owned and operated a local drugstore for many years.

Audley Rawson

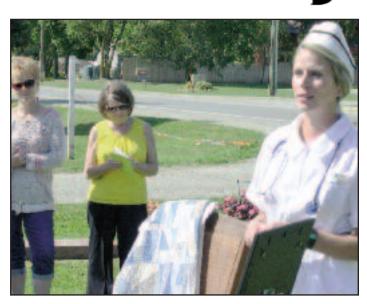

THE LATE William Audley Rawson, portrayed above by Joe Van Auken, was a farmer who served as Elkland Township supervisor before becoming a state legislator. He and his wife, Lena, established a foundation that provided $60,000 for construction of Rawson Memorial District Library.

TOMMY FULCHER offered cemetery walk visitors a glimpse into the life of James Hitchcock, one of the early settlers of Cass City and a tinsmith who turned his craft into a very successful business.

KATE FERNALD shared the story of notable Cass City citizen of the past, Irene Freeman, who owned and operated Pleasant Home Hospital in town for 26 years. She later worked for longtime Cass City physician Dr. H.T. Donahue.

BOB BATTEL portrayed his real life great-greatgreat- grandfather, Adam Benkelman, a master craftsman in the art of barrel-making. Benkelman immigrated to the United States from Belgium in the mid-1800s.

CASS CITY NATIVE John Scollon again made the rounds of the cemetery walk with his camera. Scollon has recorded, edited and produced DVDs of the event in each of the past three years.

NORMA AND Dick Wallace took on the roles of Isabelle "Belle" and E.B. "Chick" Schwaderer, whose contributions to the community ranged from civic service to playing a key role in the building of roads in the region along with overseeing construction of the local hospital and library.
