Hospital welcomes donation of Baker campus

by Tom Montgomery
Editor

The closure of the Baker College campus in Cass City won't leave another empty building on Main Street after all.

Hills and Dales General Hospital officials last week said they've decided to accept Baker College officials' generous offer to donate the local campus, including the 13,816-square-foot building, to the Cass City hospital.

"When the Baker College building became available...we decided to tour it, and it really is a great space. We will be able to utilize almost all of it and look forward to seeing the building not be vacant," said Jean Anthony, president and CEO of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

"We continue to experience growth in our clinics and in the hospital, seeing more patients than ever before. With growth, we also continue to employ more people," noted Anthony, who said Hills and Dales now boasts more than 300 employees – full-time, part-time and casual. "The number of specialty physicians we have has increased, as well as the number of our own physicians and nurse practitioners, which has resulted in more patients and an increased number of clinic staff members.

"We also offer new programs, like the Swing Bed Program, smoking cessation, pulmonary rehabilitation, etc., which requires additional staff to be within the hospital to offer these services," she added.

"We have outgrown our available office space almost everywhere on our campus," Anthony continued. "We have been talking for quite some time about what the next step would be."

Hills and Dales will move some of its non-clinical staff to the building, where they will utilize the office space, according to Anthony, who said the hospital will also use the larger conference rooms for meeting space and for educational training such as CPR courses, SafeSitter courses, support group meetings and other groups that meet at the hospital on a routine basis.

"Our plans right now for the non-clinical area to move (to the college campus) would be our finance department, as we are currently leasing off campus," Anthony explained.

School holding the line in new budget

by Tom Montgomery
Editor

Cass City School officials say the district's finances are looking healthy for now, but they're planning to hold the line financially over the next 12 months just the same.

The local board of education this week reviewed and adopted a new spending plan that projects spending will dip slightly — by roughly $88,300 out of a nearly $10 million budget — in 2018-19.

The board also approved a revised 2017-18 general fund budget, which ends the fiscal year June 30 in the black.

In reviewing the revised 2017-18 spending plan, Cass City Schools Chief Financial Officer Allison Zimba noted the current budget is expected to end with total revenues of $9,994,041 and expenditures of $9,975,932 in revenues, leaving a difference of $18,109 that will be rolled over into the fund balance.

Cass City's fund balance remains healthy at nearly $1.7 million, or an amount equal to nearly 17 percent of the general fund budget.

Meeting in regular session, following a special 30-minute budget session Monday night, the school board formally accepted both the old and new spending plans in compliance with state law, which requires schools to have new budgets in place by July 1.

Zimba said revenues and expenditures were both higher — by $66,164 and $61,600, respectively — than originally budgeted in 2017-18 due

HILLS AND Dales General Hospital officials in Cass City last week announced they have accepted Baker College's generous offer to donate its Cass City campus, which has been closed, to the hospital. Hills and Dales will initially utilize the additional space to house its finance department as well as offer various training courses.

Report: crashes involving drugs or alcohol on the rise in county

by Tom Montgomery
Editor

Law enforcement agencies in Tuscola County are facing an uphill climb in their effort to keep impaired drivers off area roads and highways if the numbers released in the latest Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning (OHSP) report are any indication. According to the OHSP 2017

Michigan Traffic Crash Facts report, the number of traffic crashes involving drivers under the influence of alcohol or drugs in Tuscola County continued to climb last year.

The numbers have Tuscola County Sheriff Glen Skrent concerned.

"I like to see the most current stats to see where we are right now," Skrent said of the report. "I feel some of the public doesn't see using marijuana and driving as a problem, much like alcohol was 30 years ago. It's important for the public to educate themselves on what is going on around them.

"The marijuana and its derivatives has increased the potency dramatically from previous decades," Skrent said. "When you

Residents air concerns regarding pot business

by Clarke Haire

If the opinions shared by a couple of citizens during the regular monthly meeting of the Cass City Village Council Monday night are any indication, the proposed medical marijuana growing facility inside a Garfield Avenue factory could face plenty of opposition.

The proposal, boasting a $1.5 million initial investment, calls for a 25,000-square-foot operation inside the current Millennium Industries building. The facility would have 24/7 security, and all employees would undergo stringent background checks. Also in place are safeguards for waste disposal and odor control, according to Gary Vollmar, president of Millennium Industries, and longtime business partner Gus Ploss, who are requesting a special-use permit to launch the business.

They indicated operations at Millennium Industries, which specializes in the design, development, manufacture, and distribution of automotive fuel systems and engine component parts, would remain unchanged.

They also estimate the medical marijuana growing operation would create up to 35 permanent jobs with an annual payroll of more than $1.2 million in the first year and over $2 million by year five. They say the new company would generate an estimated $40,000 in property taxes annually.

Those benefits notwithstanding, Cass City residents Randy Perry and Sharon Dunn indicated Monday they don't believe Cass City needs a cannabis shop located in the community.

CATHOLIC Diocese of Saginaw Bishop Joseph Cistone (right) performs the Sacrament of Holy Orders for Adam Maher to become a Catholic priest.

Ready to serve...

Rev. Adam Maher eager to serve the Our Lady Consolata Parish

by Mary Drier
Special for the Chronicle

As part of the Catholic Diocese of Saginaw's spiritual growth, Bishop Joseph Cistone announced several parish changes in May that take effect in July.

The Rev. Christian Tabares will go from pastor of Our Lady Consolata Parish in Cass City, formerly known as St. Pancratius Catholic Church, to pastor at St. Francis of Assisi Parish in Saginaw. He will begin his new assignment July 2.

"It is hard leaving. The parish is a family and a community. You create bonds and friendships. They are not just individuals who come to church; they become your friends and family," said Tabares. "So, leaving a family is always difficult, but you look forward to meeting new people and serving the Lord where He wants you to serve."

Tabares is from Columbia, South America. He attended Saint Thomas Aquinas Seminary and was ordained in 2011. He has been in the United States since 2008 when he left Greece.

The newly-ordained Rev. Adam Maher will take on the role of parochial administrator of Our Lady Consolata Parish when Tabares leaves.

Maher is from Port Sanilac. He graduated from Carsonville-Port Sanilac School and earned a degree in education from Saginaw Valley State University.

"I taught in Marlette Schools for a couple of years, but as I kept growing in my relationship with the Lord, I became convinced that the Lord wanted me to keep teaching — teach about Him," said Maher. "I prayed about it for a while and felt I was being called to do it."

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

When monkeys fly...

Measles still a threat, vaccinations still key

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) has confirmed a second case of measles in Michigan for 2018.

Officials say the latest case is unrelated to Michigan's first incidence of measles in 2018, which occurred in March – and both cases were the result of exposure outside of the country. However, they underscore the importance of being protected against the disease by vaccination.

Measles is a vaccine-preventable respiratory infection that can result in hospitalization, pneumonia, encephalitis and death.

The illness begins with a high fever, red eyes, cough, runny nose, and is followed by a red, raised body rash starting on the head and face that then spreads to the rest of the body. Measles patients often experience eye pain and sensitivity to light. Cases can be contagious a few days before the rash appears, which increases the possibility of unknowingly exposing others.

“Immunizations are the best way to protect our families and communities from the harmful, sometimes deadly consequences of vaccine-preventable diseases like measles,” said Dr. Eden Wells, chief medical executive with the MDHHS. “If you have questions about a child’s vaccination status or your own vaccination history, talk to your doctor right away to ensure your family has optimal protection.”

Because measles is easily spread, vaccination is the best protection against the disease. Successful prevention and control of measles requires high levels of immunity in all communities.

The measles vaccine is highly effective and very safe. Adults who do not have evidence of immunity against measles should get at least one dose of the vaccine. The first of two routine childhood measles vaccine doses is given at 12 months of age. A second vaccine dose is given before the start of kindergarten.

For international travel, infants as young as six months should be vaccinated against measles. Measles vaccine, or other acceptable documentation of immunity to measles, is recommended for all persons traveling internationally.

Measles is a rare disease in the United States as a result of inclusion of the measles vaccine in routine childhood immunization since the 1960s. However, measles continues to be common in other countries.

This year, several countries in Europe are reporting significant measles outbreaks, including France, Italy, Germany, England, Romania, and Ukraine, among others. Recent outbreaks have also been reported in Venezuela, Colombia and Brazil.

From 2001 through 2012, the average number of measles cases reported nationally per year was about 60. But in recent years there have been more, which is of great concern to public health authorities.

In 2017, there were 118 cases in the United States, including two cases in Michigan. And the majority of people who contracted measles were not vaccinated.

In an effort to help parents protect their children from serious vaccine-preventable diseases, MDHHS has partnered with the Franny Strong Foundation in launching the “I Vaccinate” campaign. I Vaccinate provides vaccination facts for parents to make informed decisions about vaccinations.

For more information, visit IVaccinate.org.

Jerry Maren, who was the last of the surviving “Wizard of Oz” munchkins, died this month at age 99.

Whenever there is a tornado warning issued, I think of the movie The Wizard of Oz and the first time I saw it on television when I was a child.

The idea of being swept away by a storm to a far-away land with characters – including witches and little people – isn’t what makes me apprehensive about storms. The idea of being swept away by a storm to a land where there are flying monkeys is what has stayed in my mind even as an adult — that aspect of the movie gave me nightmares for several years.

When I learned of Maren’s passing, I went on-line to look up more information about the movie. I came across the website <http://flavorwire.com/411724/50-things-you-didnt-know-about-the-wizard-of-oz>, which outlines 50 little-known things about the movie.

The following are a few of the facts about the movie I found interesting:

*Bert Lahr’s Cowardly Lion costume weighed almost 100 pounds and was made with real lion pelts.

*The early Technicolor process required more light than a normal film production, so the set temperatures often exceeded 100 degrees.

*In L. Frank Baum’s 1900 novel, “The Wonderful Wizard of Oz”, Dorothy’s slippers were silver. They were changed to “ruby” because of Technicolor.

*The special effects crew used flavored Jell-O powder to color the horses for the Emerald City scenes. It had to be a fast shoot since the horses attempted to lick themselves clean.

*Buddy Ebsen (a.k.a. Jed Clampett on “The Beverly Hillbillies”) was the first choice for the Tin Man, but the actor suffered from an extreme allergic reaction to the aluminum dust in his makeup. Jack Haley took over the role, and makeup artists switched to an aluminum paste, which gave him an eye infection.

*The Wicked Witch of the West’s makeup was toxic, so the actress – Margaret Hamilton — lived on a liquid diet to avoid accidental ingestion. Her face stayed green for weeks after shooting finished due to the copper-based ingredients. Also, Hamilton was severely burned in the scene where she disappears into a cloud of smoke. Her stand-in and stunt double, Betty Danko, was also injured during the skywriting sequence.

*The now famous song “Over the Rainbow” was almost cut from the movie, because executives thought it made the movie too long.

*After the Scarecrow gets his brain, he states the isosceles Pythagorean Theorem – but incorrectly.

*The shabby coat that Frank Morgan’s Professor Marvel/The Wiz wore was a thrift store find. It was discovered later that it used to belong to Oz author L. Frank Baum (his name was sewn into the garment). Baum’s widow and tailor confirmed the find.

*Chrysotile asbestos fibers (the carcinogenic stuff) were used to create the snow in the poppy field scene.

*Ray Bolger’s Scarecrow prosthetic face created an intense impression of lines on his face. It took about a year for them to disappear.

*The film was nominated for six Academy Awards, but lost Best Picture to “Gone with the Wind.”

When I hear or see a tornado warning notice, I cannot help but think of that movie, and wonder if the expression of skepticism – “when monkeys fly” — comes from that movie.

Don’t forget that next week trash pickup for village residents in Cass City will be a day later than usual - taking place on Friday following the 4th of July holiday.

Other useful information regarding trash pickup includes: trash should be out at the curb by 7:00 a.m. and is limited to one large item (washer, stove, couch, etc.) per week. Also, approved containers are not to exceed 50 pounds, while no tires, concrete or free liquids will be accepted.

Further, carpet must be dry and cut in 4 foot lengths, tied and bundled.

With this year’s Cass City Freedom Festival annual parade just around the corner, Cass City Rotary Club member Carolyn Sorenson is reminding everyone to consider purchasing a raffle ticket before the festivities kick into high gear.

“On Saturday, before the Freedom Festival parade, Rotarians will be selling 50/50 tickets as one of our fundraisers, so that we can continue giving back to our local and global community,” said Sorenson.

“Some of our projects include donating to our local Boy Scouts, Cass City Chamber, Hills and Dales Foundation, Christmas for Kids, Rotary college scholarships, inbound and outbound exchange students, Rotary Park, disc golf, literacy projects, Financial Peace seminars and sending kids to Rotary Camp, just to name a few,” she added.

As usual, the winning number of this 50/50 will be on the last entry in the parade.

Please remember that next week’s Chronicle edition will arrive a day later than usual, as our office will be closed Wednesday in observance of Independence Day. We hope the holiday allows for time to be spent with family, and we caution folks about the hazards associated with the use of fireworks.

According to the personal-finance website WalletHub, Americans will spend over $825 million on fireworks this year and 68 percent of firework injuries occur within a month of July 4.

WalletHub also reports, Americans plan to spend $6.9 billion on 4th of July food, consuming 150 million hot dogs each 4th of July. Americans are expected to spend $1.6 billion on 4th of July beer and wine.

Finally, WalletHub says 49.5 million people will travel 50+ miles from home for the 4th of July.

Just divide... and conquer

by Tom Montgomery
Editor

Ever feel so overwhelmed with a list of tasks, no matter how menial, that you ended up just sitting down and accomplishing nothing?

I'm sure the experts have assigned a name to this sort of mental paralysis, but I couldn't say for sure. What I am certain of is that just about every time I sit down to write a column – because I have to, not because I'm ready to – it's like pulling teeth; the ideas don't flow and it feels like I'll never get it finished.

My mind wanders all over the place, from the stories I need to wrap up and the photos still not taken for the front page, to whether or not to put the effort into cutting two acres of grass when only an eighth of that is really green thanks to days of dry weather, to figuring out what I want to prepare for dinner (I'm chief cook and bottle washer at home).

Tons of things to keep me occupied and then some, but I just can't seem to get busy on any of them.

It doesn't help that my stellar multi-tasking skills are at war with my OCD tendencies, but that's an entirely different column (which I hope I never get around to writing).

Anyway, I've felt this way before, and it always shut me down productivity-wise, especially when it comes to writing. Which makes just about every little stress seem much worse than it really is, because each one is a reminder of all that I need to get done but hadn't yet. It's a pretty vicious circle, you know?

It's the sort of frustration that used to make it easy to pick up a drink – and, of course, that always made me much more productive and creative. Not.

These days I make a more concerted effort to break free of this syndrome by doing the same thing that helped me stay on the straight and narrow back when I was really struggling to hang onto my sobriety: I simply pick a task – any task, but typically a small one – and just get it done. Period.

Okay, so it isn't rocket science. But it does lighten the “list of things to do”, gives me a sense of accomplishment and encourages me to move on to the next job at hand. You might also be surprised at how the stress level starts to fade.

Bottom line? It's a simple matter of learning to divide and conquer. The problem is what Aaron Lynn describes as “analysis paralysis” in an article posted on the website asianefficiency.com.

“No matter how many anti-procrastination tips and tricks you know, or how much mental discipline or self-control you have,” Lynn says, “when you're faced with too many projects and tasks...it's hard to tell what's important, and what you're supposed to be working on next.”

Lynn says reducing the number of tasks – say to three at a time – is the key, because when you have only a few things to focus on, you pretty much know if you're being productive (by doing it) or making excuses (by not). And, once you've accomplished those three, go to three more.

His other suggestions include avoiding multitasking (okay, so that one will never work for me), wrap up all your small tasks first, and change your work environment.

Sound advice and worth considering. And I will, just as soon as I can get past these other 19 things on my plate.

School budget holding the line to a number of unforeseen circumstances.

On the revenue side, the district received $7,500 donations from the Pinney Foundation and the band boosters for new drums, another $9,250 came in the form of ag science grants, and $16,000 in delinquent taxes were paid. There were also insurance reimbursements for a damaged truck, a bus garage door and an awning at the daycare.

On the expenditure side, Zimba added, school officials purchased bleacher boards, dead bolts for all classroom doors, new wall panels for the elementary school gym and outdoor LED lights, and the district sustained higher utility and fuel bills.

Looking ahead at 2018-19, Zimba told the board she again followed the conservative projection of a continued downward trend in student numbers, which has averaged about 25 kids annually over the past several years. The good news, she added, is the state has come through with an additional payment of $240 per student for the coming year, so even if Cass City does lose 25 more kids, the financial impact should not be significant.

Last fall, school Supt. Jeff Hartel reported the loss of only a couple students, but he pointed out it was the first time in a decade that the district hadn't lost 25 of 30 students.

Enrollment plays a key role in school funding from the state, which makes up schools' largest funding source. State officials "blend" student counts conducted twice a year by districts; once in February and again the following fall. The state's blending formula places the greatest emphasis on the fall count, which is worth 90 percent of the total.

The blended enrollment number is multiplied by schools' foundation allowances to determine how much revenue they will receive for the year. Cass City, for example, is slated to receive $7,841 per student for the 2018-19 school year.

Over the past 15 years or so, Cass City officials have watched local student numbers fall by hundreds of youngsters – losing an average of 3.7 percent of the district's student population annually since the 2005-06 school year, when the district boasted 1,500 students. In 2001-02, Cass City had more than 1,600 kids enrolled.

Enrollment isn't the only "unknown" factor in the new budget. Zimba pointed out school and union representatives are currently negotiating a new teacher's contract.

A raise of one percent was incorporated into the 2018-19 spending plan for the district's administration and non-certified teaching staff.

Aside from the past and new general fund budgets, the board accepted the district's revised 2017-18 and proposed food service budgets. The current budget revealed a loss of $11,500 this year, but that figure is expected to rebound in 2018-19, with estimated revenues of $541,600 and expenditures of $538,600, leaving an anticipated surplus of $3,000 and an end-of-the-year fund balance of about $106,300.

Zimba explained this year's food service deficit was due largely to the retirement of two or three employees and the subsequent payout of sick day liabilities, and revenue losses stemming from nine snow days.

One change approved for the coming school year will be elimination of free breakfasts for all students, a plan that was implemented in hopes of drawing more students who qualify for free and reduced meals. The desired outcome didn't materialize, according to Zimba, who noted free breakfasts will continue to be offered to students who qualify for free and reduced meals.

In a related financial matter, the board approved a routine motion requesting bids for a state aid funding loan — $1 million this year. School officials use the money to maintain cash flow until state aid payments resume in the fall.

IN OTHER BUSINESS

In other business during the regular monthly meeting, the board:

*Added an additional one year to the revolving two-year contracts of administrators Chad Daniels, Aaron Fernald and Don Markel following a brief executive session to discuss the principals' performance evaluations. Hartel said all three administrators were rated as being effective.

*Accepted the resignation of food service employee Sharon Delong.

*Noted district residents interested in running for a seat on the board of education must file the necessary paperwork by Tuesday, July 24. Current board members' whose four-year terms are expiring are President Alice Zaleski, Treasurer Dave Osentoski and Trustee Stacey Bliss.

*Approved a routine resolution renewing Cass City's membership in the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA).

that I am not altogether opposed to the legitimate use of medical marijuana. I personally believe that there are many medicinal properties in marijuana that could and should be developed and made available," Perry told trustees and a small crowd gathered at the village municipal building.

However, Perry added, "Cass City does not need the pot industry to stay afloat and even to prosper again. We can do better than this and I urge the council members and this community to take the high road, to look beyond the immediate – to consider what a Pandora's box we will be opening."

Perry indicated he's concerned about the expense of drafting an ordinance to allow the proposal to move forward, as well as potential legal ramifications for the village.

Perry ended his 5-minute allotted time slot by asking if the proposal on the table is the only licensed grow operation that will be allowed, and would this promote other types of marijuana-related businesses to want to set up shop elsewhere in town?

Vollmar pointed out that the new business would not be a point-of-sale operation and would involve marijuana used strictly for medical purposes.

"We will not market (our product) and no one will come into town to buy it," he said, noting the final product would be directly transferred to a provisioning center by a secured independent license transporter.

Despite around-the-clock security, Dunn expressed concern about safety.

"I am concerned that this endeavor will end up costing the village money. We will certainly have to increase our village police force to have more coverage, especially at night when I think we currently have one officer on duty. How will we pay for this? Will are taxes have to be raised?" Dunn asked.

"I understand wanting to keep jobs in town, but this is not in the best interests of the community and the people residing here. I think a grocery store would be more of a priority and helpful at this time."

Perry and Dunn both feel more information is needed to make an informed decision on the matter.

Vollmar and Ploss are hoping to provide the community with just that during a public information meeting scheduled for this week.

Residents are encouraged to attend and express their opinions during the open forum, scheduled for Tuesday, June 26, starting at 7 p.m. at the Cass City VFW Hall on Weaver Street, just north of Main Street.

Hospital accepts Baker donation

"Once they move, we will look at patient flow, and who can be moved off-site opens up square footage for more services to be offered within the hospital. It is easier for the patients if they can get numerous services done while in one building, compared to getting in their car and going to another building," she added.

"The college building is set for classrooms, including one end of the building that can open up and seat probably more than 80 people. We can offer certification classes for nurses – both our own and other organizations – and other educational courses as needed," Anthony said.

"We are thrilled that this valuable asset will continue to benefit the community through Hills and Dales General Hospital," commented Baker College of Flint President Wen Hemingway. "That the facility will continue to house training among other operations is an added plus."

"With Phase One of our renovation and expansion project coming to completion, this comes at an opportune time to get everyone settled into their new spaces," Anthony said. "We hope to start utilizing the Baker College building very soon."

Rev. Maher eager to serve new parish

As part of his renewed spiritual awakening, he started out helping more in church and eventually was asked if he ever thought about becoming a priest.

"When I was asked that, my reaction was like, 'no.' All I ever thought about was being a teacher, but then when I went to a Franciscans University Conference for young Catholics, I saw a bunch of young priests there," he said. "That was when I thought I could do this."

"I prayed about it for a while and felt I was being called to do it. I felt my relationship with the Lord growing. I read scriptures and did a lot of praying."

In 2012, he decided to attend the Sacred Heart Major Seminary. He was there for six years, becoming an ordained pastor about three weeks ago.

"This assignment will be my first parish. I'm super excited and I know the Lord will give me the grace to do all that I need to do," said Maher. "It's awesome to be joining this church family."

His pastoral duties cover more than the Our Lady Consolata Parish in Cass City. Our Lady Consolata Parish also ministers to the Holy Family Church in Sebewaing, which is an additional-use church; and St. Agatha Church in Gageton, which is an occasional-use church, and to St. Michael Church in Wilmot, which is also an occasional use church.

Holy Family, as an additional-use church, offers weekend masses, while St. Agatha and St. Michael, as occasional-use churches, are utilized only with the permission of the diocese for activities such as wedding ceremonies and funerals for current members, and occasional masses.

As part of the Saginaw Catholic Diocese's Planning Tomorrow's Parishes restructuring program that began in 2013, some churches closed or were combined with others.

As part of that plan, the names of some churches were changed. That's was when St. Pancratius became Our Lady Consolata Parish, and also when Holy Family in Sebewaing, St. Agatha in Gageton, and St. Michael in Wilmot merged to form a new parish under the umbrella of Our Lady Consolata effective July 1, 2014.

"I will be living in Cass City. I want to be with the people. I'm a town boy," said Maher. "I enjoy football, hockey and exercising."

Although Maher is an ordained priest, his title is "parochial administrator."

"I'm a priest, but the title the diocese gave me is parochial administrator," he explained. "I still have all of the responsibilities of a pastor, but without the title."

They are doing that now because I'm so new. In a year or two I'll have the title. It is all kind of complicated."

As part of the transition, the two priests have met several times to discuss blessings, challenges, what has been accomplished, and what needs to be done.

"To all my parishioners, I say I have been very blessed to be in this spiritual community who has been so spiritually and emotionally supportive. It is my blessing that I feel I can leave a church community where I was part of a family," said Tabares. "I will keep them all in my prayers and my thoughts. I ask them to forgive whatever needs to be forgiven. I hope I helped them spiritually and emotionally."

"I ask they pray for me and with me. They will always be in my heart and my thoughts and friends."

Tabares will say mass at 5 p.m. Friday, June 29, in Cass City, and at 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. in Sebewaing.

Silver Bullet Speedway transition to IMCA track provides lots of action

By Mary Drier
 Special for the Chronicle.

The 63rd racing season at the Silver Bullet Speedway has seen lots of action, and there is more to come as the season continues.

This year the track transitioned to IMCA modifier races. The change made Silver Bullet Speedway the fourth IMCA modified track in the state.

"This season has had a lot of close finishes in all divisions. Some of the best finishes I have ever seen there. It has been fun to watch!" said Dave Mellendorf.

For some, going to the race track is a family event. "My daughter and I go to Silver Bullet Speedway every Saturday night. We love that we have a local dirt track to spend our Saturday nights at," said Evelyn Crandall of Sebewaing.

For others, visiting the track is a trip down memory lane. "We just went there and it was very nostalgic for me... the thrill and chills," said Stacey Klosowski Hyde, who recently moved from Roseville to the Sebewaing area. "It was great memories of my childhood. I remember mom racing the powder puff. I was so proud of her."

Throughout the season the track at 5801 Sebewaing Road hosts themed race events. Last Saturday's race was "First Responder Night." Police, firefighters and EMS personnel were admitted into the grandstands free. According to the track owners, it is their way to thank first responders for protecting us every day.

And, it was a double fun weekend. Besides all of the thrills on the race track, there was a mud bog Sunday.

The fun continues next weekend. There will be fireworks hosted by Pyro Paradise of Bad Axe, Caro and Cassville. And on July 7 active duty and veterans get in free to thank them for protecting our freedoms.

Other special racing events include: on July 23 there will be fireworks, Sprint Car races on July 28 and Aug. 25, and other special events throughout the season.

Several improvements have been made at the racetrack since the brothers Matt and Nick Hoonhout bought the track in 2013. They have installed new fencing, implemented electronic scoring, re-graveled the driveways, built a new pit building, concession stand remodeling with commercial grade appliances and expanded the mud bog pit.

RACE RESULTS

The following is the race results as of June 23:

Randy Radabaugh of Owendale in car #1 took the number of his car to heart. Radabaugh placed first. His point total is 453.

Coming in second was Chad Bennett of Caro in car #50 with 425 points.

3rd place is Chad Bieri of Cassville with 349 points.

4th place is Scott Hurren of Port Huron with 257 points.

5th place is Chuck Kaake of Cass City with 233 points.

6th place is Andrew Fidler of Elwell with 127 points.

7th place is Kevin Scoviack of Owendale with 105 points.

8th place is Tracy Kile of Snover with 96 points.

MHSAA accepting registrations for 2018-19 game officials

The Michigan High School Athletic Association is accepting registrations by mail and online for game officials for the 2018-19 school year.

The MHSAA annually receives registration by more than 9,500 officials, and had 9,816 during the 2017-18 school year. The highest total of officials registered for basketball, 4,064, with football and baseball both with more than 2,000 registered officials during this past school year.

For all new and returning officials, those who register online again will receive a $5 discount off their processing fees. A $15 fee is charged for each sport in which an official wishes to register, and the online processing fee is $35. Officials submitting registration forms by mail or on a walk-up basis will incur a $40 processing fee. Officials registered in 2017-18 will be assessed a late fee of $30 for registration after July 31. The processing fee includes liability insurance coverage up to $1 million for officials while working contests involving MHSAA schools.

Online registration can be accessed by clicking "Officials" on the home page of the MHSAA Website at www.mhsaa.com. Forms also are available online that can be printed and submitted by traditional mail or hand delivery to the MHSAA Office. More information about officials registration may be obtained by contacting the MHSAA at 1661 Ramblewood Drive, East Lansing, MI, 48823, by phone at (517) 332-5046, or by e-mail at register@mhsaa.com.

There is an officials registration test for first-time officials and officials who were not registered during the past school year. The test consists of 45 questions derived from the MHSAA Officials Guidebook, which also is available on the Officials page of the MHSAA Website. Additional 50-question exams must be taken by those registering for football or basketball for the first time or those who were not registered for those sports during the previous school year. Manuals for both sports also are available on the Officials page. New officials and those who didn't officiate during 2017-18 also must complete the online MHSAA Principles of Officiating course, also available on the MHSAA Website.

The MHSAA is a private, not-for-profit corporation of voluntary membership by more than 1,500 public and private senior high schools and junior high/middle schools which exists to develop common rules for athletic eligibility and competition. No government funds or tax dollars support the MHSAA, which was the first such association nationally to not accept membership dues or tournament entry fees from schools. Member schools which enforce these rules are permitted to participate in MHSAA tournaments, which attract more than 1.4 million spectators each year.

CASS CITY — A special free program entitled "Community Cultural Teaching and Feast" will be offered at the Sanilac Petroglyphs Saturday, July 23, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

There will be two guest speakers, Stacy Tchorzynski and Isaac Murdoch, the event is open to the public, and a lunch will be provided. Guests are asked to bring law chairs and place settings.

The Sanilac Petroglyphs Historic State Park – home of Michigan's only known rock carvings attributable to Native American Indians – consists of 240 acres and is located in Sanilac County's Greenleaf Township at 8251 Germania Rd., Cass City.

The historical site is open Wednesdays through Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., May 25 through Sept. 2.

This gathering is being organized to encourage all area men with farms of all sizes and commodities, as well as agri-businessmen, as it takes faith to farm in today's economic environment. Dinner will be provided. All are welcome. More information is available by contacting Randy at (989) 670-4079.

M-46 work slated to begin

TUSCOLA COUNTY — The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will invest $3.9 million to resurface more than five miles of M-46, from Sheridan Road to M-24 in Tuscola County.

The project is expected to get underway July 9 and be completed in November. The work will include joint repairs, intersection improvements, drainage and guardrail installation.

FFA offers to help in Ubyly

UBLY — During a recent Ubyly Village Council meeting, Future Farmers of America (FFA) members Bethany Gornowicz, Cheyenne Porzondik and Kylie Ogryski addressed the council, offering to help with the village planters.

The council accepted FFA's offer to plant 15 of the village's cement planters at a maximum cost of $1,600.

O-G okays loan proposal

OWENDALE — The Owendale-Gagetown Board of Education reviewed finances during a recent monthly meeting and voted to borrow $136,000 against anticipated state aid money to meet cash flow needs until state payments resume in the fall.

Because of the difference in budgeting calendars — state's budget year starting in October and school districts starting in July — there is a gap in the summer when there are no state aid payments. To address that, school districts routinely borrow money for operating expenses and then repay the loans in the fall when payments resume.

End of year wrapping up

UBLY — The Ubyly Board of Education recently accepted "with regret" the resignation of Sue Weber, who is retiring. The board also hired Briana Deacons as preschool director.

In addition, a lay-off notice was given to Valerie Kneffel, and the board approved participating in the state Schools of Choice program.

Sanilac road work on tap

SANILAC COUNTY — The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will be tackling some chip and seal work on M-19 in Sanilac and St. Clair counties.

The work is scheduled to start July 9 and be completed in early August.

The project, which will improve six miles of M-19 at a cost of roughly $526,000, will require a single-lane closure under flag control.

THE RENOVATION and expansion project at Hills and Dales General Hospital in Cass City is progressing. Hospital officials say the major facelift is on schedule for completion by the end of the year.

Local hospital's expansion and renovation project on schedule

by Mary Drier
Special for the Chronicle

A major expansion and renovation project underway at Hills and Dales General Hospital in Cass City is on schedule for completion later this year, according to hospital officials.

Groundbreaking for the $6 million facelift took place in April 2017.

"CIE workers are putting up metal panels on the front of the hospital, while Marlette Roofing does the roof work," said hospital President and CEO Jean Anthony.

The project is the latest in a series of renovations that have taken place over the years since Hills and Dales was built in 1960.

The renovation/expansion involves both the first and second floors of the existing facility, ranging from major upgrades to a dozen patient rooms to the creation of space to host both the hospital's specialty and after-hours clinics, now housed in office buildings located across from the hospital.

The renovated patient rooms on the inpatient (second) floor will transform them into private rooms each with a bathroom and shower.

Hospital officials say the renovations will allow Hills and Dales to offer patients brand new, larger rooms with private bathrooms and showers. It will also incorporate a family area into the rooms so that visitors feel welcome and have the space to stay overnight if they desire.

A change in the layout of the inpatient floor, meanwhile, will include updates to the physical therapy area, as well as the nurse's station, activities room, offices, and storage for the second floor.

A 25-foot expansion to the front of the hospital will become clinic space for two of Hills and Dales' physicians, as well as the hospital's specialty physician clinic and after-hours clinic. These clinics will be directly accessible from the main entrance of the hospital.

The renovated registration area, meanwhile, will centralize the hospital's emergency room and outpatient registration areas, which will be manned 24 hours a day. The area has been designed to provide a more private registration process for the patient and also ensures someone is always available to greet and direct patients and visitors, according to hospital officials.

The plans also call for a new gift shop for the Hills and Dales General Hospital Auxiliary; an expansion to the existing cafeteria on the lower level, providing more dining options, additional seating capacity and a friendlier environment for patients and visitors; and a new main entrance canopy and lobby area for the hospital, which will allow for more protection from the elements of the weather, as well as an inviting seating area in the lobby for patients and visitors.

"The project is about 60 percent done and on schedule to be completed at the end of the year," said Anthony.

Lottie Hergenreder

Lottie Marie Hergenreder, 93, died Thursday June 21, 2018 at Timberline Lodge in Caro. Lottie was born August 21, 1924, at home in Hamtramck, to the late Frank and Anna (Dominic) Woidan.

During her youth, Lottie's family moved to Delong Road in Deford and she was raised there on a farm. Before getting married, she worked at Stanley's Bakery in downtown Caro.

She married Eugene H. Hergenreder on July 3, 1949. Lottie and her husband owned a grocery store in Wilmot, and Lottie operated the store on a daily basis, managing all of that responsibility while raising two young daughters. After selling the store, Lottie worked at Snover Stamping, Walbro of Cass City, and a manufacturing plant in Kingston.

Although she was an avid gardener, and truly enjoyed tending her many flowerbeds, her greatest love was being with her family. Her enjoyment came from cooking meals and celebrating holidays with the whole family.

Lottie is survived by her daughters, Judith (Dennis) Nepper, Joan (Fred) Peter of Caro, Eugene (Sharon) Hergenreder of Cass City; grandchildren, Steven (Farrah) Hammett, Michelle (Kenneth) Buggia, Michael (Carrie) Peter, Brandon (Ashley) Hergenreder and Allison Hergenreder; 8 great-grandchildren; and many nieces and nephews.

Lottie was predeceased by her husband of 66 years, Eugene H. Hergenreder; brothers, Andrew Woidan, Henry Woidan, Walt Woidan and Frank Woidan; and sisters, Mary Bruce, Wanda Pentowski and Genevieve McCallum.

The family wishes to extend a very special Thank You to Vickie Trout Balz and her very caring staff at Timberline Lodge of Caro. Each and every caregiver there always provided the utmost compassion and care to Lottie, and treated each of us as family. A special Thank You is also extended to the staff of Southern Care Hospice of Saginaw for their love and support.

At Lottie's request, cremation has taken place and a private service will be held at a later date.

Those planning an expression of sympathy are asked to consider memorial contributions to Southern Care Hospice Services, 6272 State Street, Saginaw, Michigan 48603.

Kingston officials trying to save bit of history during construction work

by Mary Drier
Special for the Chronicle

The demolition of part of Kingston Elementary School – scheduled to get underway early last week – has been postponed.

However, when the work begins, school officials are hoping to save the keystone above an entrance that reads “Kingston School”, as well as the cornerstone that has the construction date.

“The section that says Kingston School is not a load-bearing wall, so we hope to save that and relocate it,” said Kingston Schools Supt. Matt Drake. “I’ve heard from some of the area historians there might be a time capsule (place) behind the cornerstone.

Putting in a time capsule was a tradition back then when a building was completed, from what I understand.”

Saving those two key pieces of history may prove to be a challenge.

“The company that is doing the work is used to doing demolition, and besides trying to save those stones, taking down just three walls inside of four could be rather difficult,” Drake noted.

The section of the school that will come down was built in 1930. The cost of razing part of that structure is estimated at $306,373.

That is only part of the work that will be done at the school this summer. Some of the other projects planned include replacing the 50-year old gym floor in the high school, replacing the bleachers, installing new LED lights, parking lot work, installation of new boilers, and refinishing the elementary gym floor.

Funds for the work come from a $4.8 million bond extension voters approved in November 2017.

The bonds will also pay for technology upgrades, new security systems at Kingston Junior-Senior High School and Kingston Elementary School, new bleachers at the school football field, and new boilers at the junior-senior high school.

Dr. Walsh completes training in Cincinnati

Kyle B. Walsh, MD, MS, a 2003 graduate of Ubly High School, recently completed postgraduate fellowship medical training at the University of Cincinnati.

Walsh graduated with a Bachelor of Science in Human Biology Degree in 2007 and a Doctor of Medicine Degree in 2011, both from Michigan State University. He then completed a four-year emergency medicine residency training program at the University of Cincinnati, graduating in 2015, and became Board Certified by the American Board of Emergency Medicine in 2016.

Following residency, Walsh began a three-year fellowship training program in neurocritical care, stroke and research, also at the University of Cincinnati.

In 2017, he graduated with a Master of Science in Clinical and Translational Research Degree from the University of Cincinnati. His fellowship research training was supported by a T32 grant from the National Institutes of Health (NIH).

Walsh has been an investigator for a number of research studies in the field of stroke, including those sponsored by the NIH, industry and local institutions. He has published many research articles in peer-reviewed journals, with topics including protein and lipid stroke biomarkers, neuroinflammation following intracerebral hemorrhage, and stroke epidemiology.

Following graduation from his fellowship in June 2018, Walsh accepted a faculty position at the University of Cincinnati as an attending emergency medicine physician, neurointensivist, a member of the institutional stroke team, and an assistant professor of emergency medicine.

Walsh is the son of Roderick and Marilyn Walsh of Ubly and the grandson of the late Leo and Rita Walsh, and Dolan and Beatrice Sweeney, all of Ubly. He resides in Villa Hills, Ky., with his wife, Katie, and son, Luke.

WORKERS FROM LJ Construction were recently in Kingston to install a fence in preparation for when a portion of Kingston Elementary School will be razed.

ALTHOUGH part of Kingston Elementary School will be razed, officials hope to be able to save the keystone with the school’s name engraved on it.

A SECTION of the school that was built in 1930 will be demolished, but the plan is to try to save the cornerstone, which might have a time capsule buried behind it.
