CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 14, 2019

.75 CENTS - 16 PAGES - 2 SUPPLEMENTS

CASS CITY native Ty Perry, now of Las Vegas, Nev., holds one of the note cards he designed to showcase bits and pieces of Cass City's history in photos with brief historical narratives printed on the back. He is selling the cards through his own business – The Tuscola Paper Co. – which he founded earlier this year, and will be on hand at Rawson Memorial District Library Friday with copies of his first set of cards available for purchase.

Blast from the past...

Perry will be at library Friday with historical cards

by Tom Montgomery
Editor

Ty Perry resides in Las Vegas, Nev., these days, but if home really is where the heart is, Cass City will never be far from his thoughts.

It's that devotion — and a lifelong passion for uncovering the history behind the lives of those who made the Cass City community what it is today — that prompted Perry to start up his own small business this year with an eye on sharing an appreciation for the village's past in the form of note cards featuring historical photos with the mini-stories behind them printed on the back of each card.

One card featuring Cass City's unusually wide

Main Street, for example, notes the Seeger family, who owned much of the land that makes up the village, hired Civil War veteran and surveyor Travis Leach to design the layout of Cass City. Leach's design called for a 99-foot-wide Main Street that would make it possible for horse-drawn wagons and carriages to turn around in the street.

"I've got just the three (cards) so far, and then I plan to do different sets," said Perry, who added he's looking at designing some holiday-themed cards focusing on winter scenes and Cass City's years as Michigan's Christmas Town.

Lansing rally set in support of Caro Center campaign

by Mary Drier
For the Chronicle

Although the state has announced plans to keep a scaled-down version of the Caro Center open, efforts are continuing to convince the governor of the need for the 200-bed, $115 million psychiatric facility the Michigan Legislature promised to build in Tuscola County.

In fact, a rally has been scheduled to promote that message at the state capitol Tuesday, Aug. 27, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. The message will be simple: "Build New. Maintain Care. Stay Caro Strong."

"Decision-making now shifts to budget negotiations between the governor and legislative leaders. We need to stay at the table. We need to make our voices heard. We need to stay Caro Strong," said Jean Doss, a partner with the lobbying firm Capitol Services, which Tuscola County commissioners hired to assist in the effort to keep the spotlight on Caro as the perfect location for the new state psychiatric hospital.

"It is critical that as many people as possible, not just from Tuscola County, but from all across the region and the state, come to this rally," said Doss, noting a list of potential speakers is being developed.

She said she contacted Caro School Supt. Pete Newman to be one of those speakers, and he is going to try and get the Caro High School Marching Band to the rally at the capitol steps as well.

Time is of the essence because lawmakers are in the process of drafting next year's budget, which is supposed to be in place by Oct. 1 when the next fiscal year starts.

"Based upon the consulting firm's evaluation of the Caro Center, DHHS Director Robert Gordon is recommending to Gov. Whitmer that she keep the Caro Center open, reduce beds by almost 50 percent, and renovate, rather than replace, the aging, unsafe Caro facilities," said Doss in a recap of events to-date.

However, Doss — who has met with the governor's cabinet secretary and reviewed the consultant's report and DHHS's recommendations to the governor — pointed out that "everyone needs to understand that this effort is not over. Thanks to the tireless advocacy of the community and the region, we are in a strong position for the next steps in this negotiation."

Medical marijuana grow facility still in the works

by Mary Drier
For the Chronicle

Although the Cass City officials earlier this year paved the way for a medical marijuana growing and processing operation to set up shop in the village, it will still be several months before the facility is operational.

The village council approved the request from Millennium Industries' owner Gary Vollmar and Millenniums CEO Gus Ploss to establish the business inside the factory at 6285 Garfield Ave., which is located in the Cass City Industrial Park.

Millennium requested permission to develop a Class C marijuana grow operation in a 25,000-square-foot area of unused space in the back of the factory.

However, work to convert that part of the facility is not expected to get underway until September.

"We are in the process of finalizing the equipment we want to use and doing the specifications," said Ploss. "We will start applying for permitting and will be starting to do demolition inside the plant right after Labor Day."

Developing a medical marijuana facility in the unused section of the facility will support plans for electrical, heating and cooling upgrades as well as other improvements to the manufacturing side of the business in the main part of the plant, according to Vollmar.

"We are just in the process of working everything out and making some final decisions, so we don't have a firm number yet," Ploss said. "We have a couple of other things we are dealing with. We are going to have to reroof and do some other upgrades to the entire facility."

Millennium Industries designs, develops, manufactures and distributes automotive fuel systems and engine components.

A hunter's dream...

AN EARLY MORNING fog last week prompted Cass City's Cheryl Viney Osentoski to venture out with her camera in search of some nature photos. Osentoski, a regular contributor to the Chronicle, wasn't disappointed, capturing a number of scenic shots, including this buck standing in a field off McAlpine Road in Huron County.

Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

A partnership that may well save lives

Nearly five million teens across the United States are vaping and using tobacco, with very few programs designed to help them quit.

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (MDHHS) is partnering with National Jewish Health and eight other states to do something about that. It's an effort worth recognizing, because it may very well save many lives down the road.

The partners have joined to organize a program designed to help teens who want to stop using tobacco products, including electronic cigarettes and vapes.

The new My Life, My Quit program includes educational materials designed for teens and created through focus groups with teens, subject matter experts and community stakeholders. Teens can text or call a toll-free number – 855-891-9989 – or they can visit MyLife-MyQuit.com for real-time coaching. Through the program, teens work with a coach who listens and understands their unique needs, provides personalized support and helps them build a quit plan to become free from nicotine.

The School Health Survey System, Michigan Profile for Healthy Youth, has shown an escalating rate of youth using e-cigarettes in 2017-2018 compared to 2015-2016. Increases in 39 of the state's counties ranged from 29 percent to 118 percent.

"We know more teens are vaping and using tobacco and may need help quitting," said Dr. Joneigh Khaldun, MDHHS chief medical executive and chief deputy director for health. "This new program combines best practices for tobacco cessation adapted to teens to include vaping and new ways for teens to reach quit coaches using real-time text messaging and online chat."

My Life, My Quit provides youth access to tailored resources for quitting, including:

- *Free and confidential help from a quit coach specially trained to listen to teens, help teens navigate social situations that involve tobacco or vaping, and find healthy ways to cope with stress.

- *Teen-focused messages in promotional and educational materials – created with youth input – that encourage teens to quit vaping or using tobacco.

- *Five coaching sessions via live text messaging or by phone on a dedicated toll-free number (855-891-9989) or online chat.

- *Simplified online and mobile program registration to get teens to a coach quicker.

- *Dedicated teen website with online enrollment, live chat with a coach, information about vaping and tobacco and activities to support quitting and stress relief.

- *Ongoing text messages for encouragement throughout the quit process.

National Jewish Health QuitLogix is an evidence-based, comprehensive tobacco cessation program that provides personalized coaching, print and online resources to help people quit smoking or using tobacco products.

National Jewish Health currently operates the quitline for 16 states and numerous health plans. The program has helped thousands of adults quit using tobacco and has a nearly 40 percent participant quit rate for people who receive coaching and medications, one of the highest quit rates in the country.

Memories withstand the test of time?

From a previous column, you all know I'm going to go to my first class reunion.

The 50th class reunion of Sebewaing High School's Class of 1969 is coming up this month. And, I'm having mixed feelings about the event. I cannot quite describe what I'm feeling. I'm not anxious or excited. Although I'm a wordsmith, I cannot find the right adjective to describe the way I'm feeling.

As a journalist, I've been in a variety of situations where I didn't blink an eye.

Some of those situations have included: taking photos at murder and accident scenes, and covering a variety of trials. I have met every governor since Soapy Williams, several congressmen, and have state representatives on speed dial on my cell-phone.

I have been to the governor's mansion a couple of times, sat in a seat on the floor during session at the capitol, and testified before a committee of Lansing lawmakers.

All of that without pause.

But, I'm unsure how to handle going to a class reunion.

It has been 50 years since I saw all but a handful of my former classmates.

My fishnet nylons and miniskirts of high school days are a distant memory. I'm sure support hose do not go with a miniskirt — even if I found a miniskirt in a tent and awning size for me.

Back when I was in high school, wearing pants to school was not allowed no matter how cold the weather. I didn't own a pair of blue jeans until I was in my mid 20s.

Going to the reunion has me tripping down memory lane, and looking up a few former classmates.

I'm mostly curious what career path some of my fellow Sebewaing Indians classmates followed. One of the kindest, sweetest girls in the class I found became a nurse at a military hospital, which must have been very difficult. Another unexpected discovery was a classmate who was a total tomboy and who I never considered to be very nurturing is a caregiver for a family member.

Several of those who I graduated with became teachers. Among their careers, was a librarian, company executives, one who seems to be a wandering nomad, business owners, some went straight to marriage and motherhood. That is not a judgment — just a simple statement of fact.

I was surprised to see the guy who I thought was the cutest boy in the class and had dreams of running my fingers through his hair is now mostly bald. And, the girl who I thought had the best figure, her body has given way to gravity, like most all of us.

Letters to the Editor

We love this community!

Editor,

As six-year residents of Cass City, our family loves this place! From the Friday nights at Rotary Park to the Freedom Festival, and don't even get me started on how much we love the pool. Our grandchildren have become more confident swimmers because of the great instructors/lifeguards.

The Rawson Memorial District Library and its many activities and resources has been the site for some wonderful family memories.

The Cass City Chronicle staff can be seen at most everything, snapping photos and capturing the events for the next publication.

I could go on and on with kudos for this village, but will just add that the level of patriotism is amazing and we appreciate that so much.

Promise, my last thing: Someone at our house would be greatly disappointed if I didn't recognize the friendly and professional service at Rolling Hills Golf Course.

Sincerely,

Deb Robinson and Dave Block

The biggest surprise I found was when I came across some of their photos on Facebook. They have aged. In my mind's eye, they still look the same as the day we graduated... I'm not sure I want to lose that image.

Rabbit Tracks

by Clarke Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Tuscola County voters' willingness to dig a little deeper in their pockets to cover a millage increase for the sheriff's department in August 2017 continues to pay dividends.

Aside from paving the way to hire additional deputies, the extra money enabled Sheriff Glen Skrent to establish a K9 unit for his department. Deputy Ryan Robinson was subsequently paired with new K9 Officer Blek, a Dutch Shepherd from Poland.

"Deputy Robinson and K9 Blek were called into action again this morning around 7:45 a.m. to assist MSP (troopers) with a crash on Millington Road near Bray Road in Arbela Township," Skrent reported Wednesday. "Troopers were trying to locate the driver of the crash. They had information that the subject may still be hiding in the area," he said. "After K-9's arrival, Blek tracked and located the subject hiding in a field. The 28-year-old male was taken into custody by MSP."

Since completing their training, Robinson and Blek have been called upon for a variety of duties ranging from searching for missing elderly residents and run-aways to tracking down suspects wanted in criminal complaints to investigating a suspicious package.

"Having a K9 is proving to be a very valuable asset for all countywide officers and even adjacent counties when needed. None of this was possible without the vote of the public for the road patrol millage," Skrent added.

Former Cass City native, teacher and businessman Ed Doerr, now 93, will be participating in Caseville's 21st annual Cheeseburger Festival.

If you plan to attend today's (Wednesday) annual Tropical Parade of Fools – the fun starts at 5:30 p.m. in downtown Caseville – keep an eye out for Mr. Doerr. He will be representing The Cass City Summer Home Club (CCSHC) that is celebrating its 125th year anniversary with an entry in the parade.

The founding of the CCSHC by native Cass City civic leaders is a fascinating glimpse into our local history and Mr. Doerr is well versed in its history and club member anecdotes.

Make sure to give a shout-out when the group's float passes by, or better yet, look-up the Cass City booster at the conclusion of the event.

Let's test your Michigan trivia knowledge. The Haire families gathered to celebrate my daughter's 19th birthday over the weekend. We took in many famous tourist attractions, including Arch Rock, Skull Cave, Point Lookout and a spot were British troops landed in the early 1800s.

Chances are good that you've been there also. So, where did we visit with 2018 Cass City grad Lauren Fernald who has a summer job in this northern Michigan destination?

Okay, so most folks already know where we took our end of summer vacation, but if you need a few more clues these surely will give our location away. One, this place is known for its fudge shops and horses. And two, it's home to the Governor's summer residence and also to the Grand Hotel.

Yep, of course I'm describing Mackinac Island. Speaking of the Grand Hotel. We made our way to the Copula Bar that offers a wonderful view of the surrounding area, including the Mackinac Bridge. Although it requires a fee of $10 to enter, it was worth the money in my opinion.

In addition to a bird's-eye view, I discovered a new drink – the John Daly.

Actually, the cocktail starts as an Arnold Palmer that is a mixture of ice tea and lemonade. Add a splash of vodka and it becomes the John Daly.

Reporter's notebook

Oops! We did it again...

by Tom Montgomery
Editor

Typo-
n, pl. -pos
1. A typographical error (see also misprint, mistake, error, gaff, etc.).

The typo will always be the bane of an editor's existence, not to mention the proofreader whose eye for errors frequently keeps the editor/reporter out of hot water.

The advent of all sorts of technology aids (spell check, etc.) has helped, but it's been no panacea. In fact, those little helpers frequently turn correctly spelled words and sentences into unintelligible gobbledygook that leave those of us in the business simply shaking our heads.

Which is all a long-winded way of saying journalists make mistakes, and even the most experienced among us are hard pressed to explain just how a misspelling always manages to remain invisible on a page until the moment hard copies of the newspaper hit the stands.

I realize it's been a while since we've printed a typo column – not surprisingly a pretty popular topic – but you have to understand that a journalist of my experience and skill rarely makes a mistake. Thankfully, other members of our staff make tons of them.

Well, that's my story and I'm sticking with it. Anyway, here are a few recent gems that never made it into print, thanks to veteran Chronicle proofreader Deb Severance:

—“And the Tuscola County Prospector's Office is pursuing...” There must be gold in them thar court files. (Prosecutor's) —“Fire in the Sky Three on Thee Tournament...” Seems like an unfair advantage for the three. (Three) —“(Hailey) Green, who also claimed Grand Champion Beer Showman honors...” No doubt I might have brought home a few of those titles back in my drinking days. Well, if I could have found my way to the fairgrounds. (Beef)

—“Cass City's compost SAT scores...” Wonder what would happen if school officials just piled up those scores and let them sit in the sun. (composite) —“...lying to a peach officer.” Talk about demonstrating a lack of respect for someone sworn to produce and serve. (peace)

—“...a finalist for this year's Youth in Action Pillage Award...” They're giving out awards for that, too, these days? (Pillar)

—“State officials announced the awarding of $10 in private activity bonds.” Guess that's all that's left after socking away nearly every penny for road work. ($10 million)

—“Upgrades will also target the hearing system.” My wife will tell you she would love to find a way to upgrade my hearing system. (heating)

—“Lie-saving techniques and ideas...” A chapter ripped right out of the How to Become a Politician Handbook. (Life)

—“...breeding sites for mosquitoes...” Can you imagine how many of those little suckers you'd have to breed to make a decent meal? (breeding)

—“Former Gov. Snyder already agreed to spend $115 on a new building.” Those Republicans are real cheapskates, right? ($115 million)

—“...earned college credit via duel enrollment.” Tough classes! (dual) —“Wenzlaff... sold her sheep, weighing in at 144 and 145 pounds... for $350 a pound.” Boy, those Tuscola County Fair buyers really are over the top when it comes to bidding! I mean, that's $50,000-plus per lamb! ($3.50)

Caro Center rally set Aug. 27 in Lansing

"The Department of Health and Human Services can say what it wants to say, but the Legislature has to agree and make the decision for the money," Canfield said. "So far the Legislature has previously agreed to spending the $115 million for a 200 bed in Caro.

"The conversation on this is far from over."

The Michigan Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) recently recommended an 84-bed facility in Caro.

Until just recently, the Caro Center had operated as a 150-bed hospital. However, the population was lowered "temporarily, because a Michigan Occupational Safety & Health Administration (MIOSHA) investigation discovered excessive overtime was being demanded and the hospital lacked enough professionals.

"This (state proposal) just doesn't do a darn thing for what we need — more intermediate and long-term psychiatric beds," said Mark Reinstein, president and CEO of the Okemos-based Mental Health Association in Michigan, a non-profit advocacy group.

Reinstein noted there continues to be long waits for seriously ill patients to be admitted to state psychiatric hospitals, a gap in care cited in a 2018 state report that revealed a 200-person waiting list at Michigan's state-run psychiatric hospitals.

"There is a shortage of in-patient psychiatric beds across the state and rest of the nation," agreed Kevin Fischer, executive director of the National Alliance for Mental Health (NAMH) in Michigan. "There is a chronic bed shortage in the state of Michigan, and rebuilding the Caro Center will help with this problem."

Many individuals suffering a mental health crises wind up in emergency rooms for hours or days while health professionals scramble to find an inpatient psychiatric facility that will admit them.

Michigan was ranked fourth among the worst states in the country in 2016 based on the number of state psychiatric beds available per capita.

In response, state officials have opened the door to establishing unique mental health courts designed to address the problems faced by offenders battling mental health issues. Tuscola County Circuit Judge Amy Grace Gierhart is in the process of setting up a mental health court in the county.

Myers and Stauffer — the firm state officials hired to conduct their own study of the Caro Center project — recommended refurbishing one of the facilities at the Caro Center, building a new 84-bed hospital in Caro, and renovating some other state hospitals to create 61 beds. It was estimated the renovations to existing facilities would add up to $30 million to $55 million less than spending $115 million to build a new hospital in Caro.

However, the cost comparison did not take into consideration the fact that the proposed $115 million would have added 50 additional beds for mental health care.

State Rep. Phil Green (R-Millington) referred to the report as a "backdoor way" to close the Caro Center because the governor previously said she would not build a new hospital, and because renovations are not a realistic option.

Canfield says he agrees with Green's concerns about the viability of just doing upgrades to the Caro Center.

"The newest facility there in Caro is 60-plus years old. It would have to be ADA (American with Disability Act) compliant, and the electrical is outdated. All of that information and more has been testified about. Modernization is not an option for the Caro Center," stated Canfield.

The proposed plan just shifts around beds without creating new ones, and the fact remains there is a need for at least 200 additional beds in mental health facilities.

"This delay puts those people who need services at risk, puts them in prisons and jails rather than in psychiatric hospitals where they can get help and services. Each passing day puts those patients at risk. This needs action now," Canfield said.

Earlier this year, after the DHHS director visited the site, Gov. Gretchen Whitmer ordered construction halted in March — just a few months after state officials gathered for a ground-breaking ceremony at the Caro Center site — while the state conducted a review based on some concerns.

The decision stunned Tuscola County officials, who responded by hiring two consultants and gathering and submitting reams of documentation demonstrating the suitability of Caro as the best site for a new psychiatric hospital.

People of all ages and all racial, ethnic and socioeconomic backgrounds experience depression.

SYMPTOMS Depression can present different symptoms, depending on the person. But for most people, depressive disorder changes how they function day-to-day, and typically for more than two weeks. Common symptoms include:

- ~ Changes in sleep ~ Changes in appetite ~ Lack of concentration
- ~ Suicidal thoughts ~ Loss of energy ~ Lack of interest in activities
- ~ Hopelessness or guilty thoughts ~ Physical aches and pains
- ~ Changes in movement (less activity or agitation)

CAUSES Depression does not have a single cause. It can be triggered by a life crisis, physical illness or something else - but it can also occur spontaneously. Several factors may contribute to depression:

- ~ Trauma. When people experience trauma at an early age, it can cause long-term changes in how their brains respond to fear and stress. These changes may lead to depression.
- ~ Genetics. Mood disorders, such as depression, tend to run in families.
- ~ Life circumstances. Marital status, relationship changes, financial standing and where a person lives influence whether a person develops depression.
- ~ Brain changes. Imaging studies have shown that the frontal lobe of the brain becomes less active when a person is depressed. Depression is also associated with changes in how the pituitary gland and hypothalamus respond to hormone stimulation.
- ~ Other medical conditions. People who have a history of sleep disturbances, medical illness, chronic pain, anxiety and attention-deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD) are more likely to develop depression. Some medical syndromes (like hypothyroidism) can mimic depressive disorder. Some medications can also cause symptoms of depression.
- ~ Drug and alcohol abuse. Approximately 30% of people with substance abuse problems also have depression. Source: NAMI

Village water tower facelift is underway

by Mary Drier
For the Chronicle

Cass City Village leaders are taking steps to make sure the community makes a good impression on visitors to the community.

Because the first image coming into view when approaching a community is its water tower, village officials went to work in an effort to incorporate a fresh look during maintenance of the tower, which is getting not only a paint job, but also a distinct look with the name of the community added.

As a result of the ongoing upgrades, the water tower is running on pressure from well pumps, which recently prompted officials to ask residents to conserve water this month when watering their lawns and gardens through Sept. 7, when the work is scheduled to be completed.

Last spring, residents were asked to weigh in on which logo they liked best. Their choices were the depiction of a Cass City Red Hawk – the school's mascot – two intertwined C's, or the word Cass City written out. Having the village's name spelled out is the design that was selected.

L and T Painting Inc. will be tackling the tower maintenance along with the scripted "Cass City", according to village Manager Debbie Powell. Cost of the project is $84,000, with Nelson Tank Engineering and Consulting (NTEC) serving as the general contractor for $8,320.

The maintenance work includes vent modification, power washing, spot cleaning and re-coating surfaces, spot blasting and epoxying.

"We are over budget by $9,320. The budget issue was discussed with the public service committee, and they recommend that we do the entire project now and not pay additional mobilizing fees down the road," Powell said, noting the overrun on the cost will come from funds in a contractual services account.

HDC officials honor group of RSVP volunteers serving in Thumb area

The soft sound of Celtic music and the aroma of pizza in the air was the perfect atmosphere for a night of recognizing those whose efforts have made the Human Development Commissions' (HDC) Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) a success.

The RSVP volunteers recently gathered at the Brentwood in Caro for an evening of celebration, great conversation and lots of laughter, according to Wendy M. Jacot, HDC human resources/marketing manager.

"Across Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties, 103 volunteers served over 17,000 hours in their communities. The RSVP volunteers dedicated their time at food pantries, schools and many business/organizations," Jacot explained. "They shared their 'superpower' knowledge, experience and skills each day with the individuals they served in their community."

Each RSVP Volunteer was presented with a certificate and pin to commemorate their achievement.

Volunteers reaching milestone years of service were: Shirley Barriger of Unionville and Tony Dow of Caro, five years of service; and Betty DeRosia of Mayville, Barbara Ward of Caro, Janet Kitchen of Deford and Carol Dorman of Marlette, all with 10 years of service.

"The Human Development Commission has sponsored the Retired and Senior Volunteer Program in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties since 2000. The program matches seniors over the age of 55 in agencies and organizations throughout the Thumb," Jacot noted.

"The volunteers help to make our communities stronger and safer," she said.

The Retired and Senior Volunteer Program – made possible with funding from the Adult and Aging Services Agency, Corporation for National and Community Service, and various local fundraising – is in need of caring individuals who would like to share their skills and experiences with the community.

Foundation announces appointments

John Hunter, executive director of the Tuscola County Community Foundation, recently announced the appointment of three new members to the foundation's board of trustees.

The new members include Debra L. Kranz, a licensed funeral home director and business owner in the Cass City area since 1990, and the Honorable Nancy L. Thane, Caro, who began her term as Tuscola County probate judge in January 2013 and also serves as the family court presiding judge.

Logan Gutierrez, a student at Millington Community Schools, is also a new board member representing Future Youth Involvement (FYI), the youth advisory council of the Tuscola County Community Foundation.

The foundation, in partnership with donors of 100-plus funds, awards grants and scholarships throughout the Tuscola County community. More than $5 million in funds have been distributed since the foundation was established in the late 1990s. Current assets exceed $13 million.

The foundation's mission is to make Tuscola County a better place to live by maintaining a permanent philanthropic endowment base to assist and fund a variety of efforts, turning needs and dreams into realities.

More information about the Tuscola County Community Foundation is available by writing to P.O. Box 534, Caro, MI 48723; by calling (989) 673-8223; via email at jhunter@tuscolaccf.org; and by visiting the website www.tuscolaccf.org.

Blast from the past

Perry, who named his business The Tuscola Paper Co., will be showcasing his cards Friday, Aug. 16, from 9 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Rawson Memorial District Library. The vintage cards will be available for purchase for $4 each or three for $10.

This will be the first organized showcase for Perry, who up until now has taken orders on what he describes as a small scale through his Facebook page.

Perry, the son of Randy and Joy Perry, is a Cass City native and 2010 graduate of Cass City High School. He's currently on an extended visit "home" with his wife, Elisabeth, and their daughter, Charlotte, while also working long-distance in his role as a ministry representative with The Friends of Israel Gospel Ministry.

He says the idea for starting his own business stemmed from his interest in writing and sending thank-you and note cards.

"I thought, I'd really like to have some personalized (cards). I love Cass City, and I have all these pictures from Jack Esau," Perry explained, referring to the late Jack Esau, a longtime local resident and U.S. Marine veteran who along with his wife, the late Ruth Esau, was a treasure trove of historical information when it came to Cass City and its past citizens and businesses.

Perry recalled a number of visits with the Esaus in 2006-17. "Jack had this trunk, and in it were all these pictures and artifacts he had saved. He would take a picture out and explain the history and stories he knew about it, and then he would give me the picture," he said. "He knew so much about the town, and he had stories that would color the history. Jack and Ruth became very dear friends."

Perry, 28, has collected postcards and other Cass City memorabilia for years. Back in the day, he explained, "companies would come through small towns to take photos and sell them to local businesses as postcards. I got one from England a couple years ago - it had been sent there and (had) some sort of connection" to someone in Cass City.

Connections like those are a big part of what draws Perry to Cass City's past. He also represents the sixth generation of the Perry family to call Cass City home.

"It started when I was in middle school/junior high. Part of it was my dad - he likes history, and whenever we would get together, there would be stories of our past.

His curiosity skyrocketed when he was invited by the owners of the former New Sheridan Healthmart and Bookmart to explore the second story of their building, which previously served as home to Old Wood Drugstore for many years.

The structure, located at the corner of Main and Seeger streets (now part of Coachlight Pharmacy) was built in 1900 as the New Sheridan Hotel, but later hosted a variety of businesses, including a barbershop, photo studio, dental office, library and meeting hall.

"That was fascinating," he said of the tour, which offered a first-hand glimpse into a small portion of the village's past.

"I think, for me, it's a narrative. A town - any place - it's a stage and you think about all the scenes that have played out. That's history, that's a story," Perry said. "That idea of the story really connects me to the history of the town and the history of the individuals that have called the town home.

"I do think there's something so inviting about a small town, especially ours," he added. "There's a kind of belonging. You feel so welcome when you come here."

THE SEEGER family, which owned much of the land that makes up the village, hired Civil War veteran and surveyor Travis Leach to design the layout of Cass City. Leach's designed called for a 99-foot-wide Main Street that would make it possible for horse-drawn wagons and carriages to turn around in the street. (Photo courtesy of Elisabeth Perry)

Changes Take Effect as Sports Practices Begin

An assortment of game rules, preseason policy and postseason tournament changes will greet more than 100,000 high school student-athletes as 2019-20 Fall practices begun this week for nine sports for which the Michigan High School Athletic Association sponsors postseason tournaments.

The most immediately noticeable adjustment will allow boys soccer, girls and boys cross country, boys tennis and girls golf teams to begin practice Monday, Aug. 12, along with football teams across the state.

Football practice traditionally begins before the rest of fall sports, by rule on the 16th Monday before Thanksgiving. However, a change approved by the MHSAA Representative Council will allow sports with MHSAA Finals tied to a specific weekend every fall – for example, Lower Peninsula Cross Country Finals always are the first weekend in November – the opportunity to begin practice on that 16th Monday as well, which will keep those teams from losing about a week of practice and competition during “late” Thanksgiving years when the holiday is during the fourth full week of November. Volleyball and Lower Peninsula girls swimming & diving – which, like football, have Finals tied to Thanksgiving – are not affected by the lateness of the holiday and will begin practice Wednesday, Aug. 14, keeping with their traditional starts.

Football teams must have 12 days of preseason practice at all levels before their first game, over a period of 16 calendar days before the first kickoff, with the first games this fall scheduled for the weekend of Aug. 29-31. Competition this fall may begin Aug. 16 for cross country, golf, soccer and tennis and Aug. 23 for volleyball and swimming & diving.

The most publicized change in MHSAA policy this fall likely will be the addition of limited seeding for Lower Peninsula Boys Soccer District play, using a Michigan Power Ratings (MPR) formula that debuted to assist in Boys Lacrosse Regional seeding this past spring and will be utilized as well for Districts in girls and boys basketball this winter and girls soccer beginning in 2020. The MPR formula ranks teams based on success and strength of schedule, with the top two teams in each District then placed on opposite sides of the bracket on the draw date for that sport. For boys soccer this fall, all games reported to the MHSAA through Sept. 28 will be used for MPR, with brackets announced Sept. 29. For more information on MPR and the boys soccer selection process, go to the MHSAA Website's Boys Soccer page and see the information under “Tracking the Tournament” (direct link: <https://www.mhsaa.com/Sports/Boys-Soccer>).

Football remains the most played sport among MHSAA member school student-athletes and will introduce this season a series of in-game and practice-related changes. To improve pace of play, all varsity games will be played with a 40-second play clock that begins after the conclusion of the previous play except when there is an exception (penalty, timeout, etc.). In those circumstances, a 25-second clock will start with the referee's ready-to-play whistle. Also beginning this football season, at the MHSAA Finals level, instant replay will be used to review all scoring plays and turnovers or potential scoring plays and turnovers (that is, when an official's decision may have prevented or awarded a score or turnover). Replay review will be automatic in these situations.

The other notable rules changes in football continue a focus on safety. Tripping a ball carrier – that is, intentionally using the lower leg or foot to obstruct a runner below the knees – now will result in a 15-yard penalty. The definition of a horse-collar tackle also has been expanded to include grabbing of the name plate area on the back of the jersey (along with the inside of the neck area of the jersey or shoulder pads) to bring a runner to the ground. Horse-collar tackling also is penalized with a 15-yard personal foul.

Also beginning this season, the amount of practice “collision” contact will be defined in minutes instead of allowed days. Teams will be allowed no more than six hours of full-pads collision contact per week during the preseason and no more than 30 minutes of collision contact during a week of in-season (after games begin) practice. “Collision” is defined as contact at game speed, with the execution of full tackles at a competitive pace, taking players to the ground. Although “collision” contact will be limited, “thud” contact will be unlimited. “Thud” is not considered collision contact and defined as full speed but above the waist only, with no player taken to the ground and no winner or loser.

MHSAA Provides Heat Management Reminders

While this summer may have seemed to arrive late in many parts of Michigan, the warm and sunny weather over these last few weeks has provided another reminder that student-athletes must prepare for training in hot weather that traditionally accompanies the beginning of August as Michigan High School Athletic Association member schools prepare to begin fall sports practices this month.

Each year, the MHSAA provides information to its member schools to help them prepare for hot weather practice and game conditions during the late summer and early fall. Practices for cross country, football, Lower Peninsula girls golf, boys soccer and Lower Peninsula boys and Upper Peninsula girls tennis can begin August 12, with volleyball and Lower Peninsula girls swimming & diving able to start August 14.

The “Health & Safety” page of the MHSAA Website (<https://www.mhsaa.com/Schools/Health-Safety-Resources>) has a number of links to various publications and information including guidelines for acclimatization from the National Athletic Trainers' Association and recommendations on proper hydration from the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS). The preseason publication Heat Ways also is available for download and includes valuable information on heat management in addition to requirements and resources regarding head injuries and sudden cardiac arrest.

The first days of formal practices in hot weather should be more for heat acclimatization than the conditioning of athletes, and practices in such conditions need planning to become longer and more strenuous over a gradual progression of time. Schools also must consider moving practices to different locations or different times of day, or change practice plans to include different activities depending on the conditions. Furthermore, football practice rules allow for only helmets to be worn during the first two days, only shoulder pads to be added on the third and fourth days, and full pads to not be worn until the fifth day of team practice.

The MHSAA advises student-athletes to make sure to hydrate all day long – beginning before practice, continuing during and also after practice is done. Water and properly-formulated sports drinks are the best choices for hydration, while energy drinks, high-carbohydrate fruit juices (greater than eight percent carb content), carbonated and caffeinated beverages are among those that should be avoided.

A number of member schools follow the MHSAA's Model Policy for Managing Heat & Humidity, which while not mandated for member schools was adopted as a rule for MHSAA postseason competition in 2013. The plan directs schools to begin monitoring the heat index at the activity site once the air temperature reaches 80 degrees, and provides recommendations when the heat index reaches certain points, including ceasing activities when it rises above 104 degrees. (When the temperature is below 80 degrees, there is no combination of heat and humidity that will result in a need to curtail activity.) The model heat & humidity policy is outlined in a number of places on the MHSAA Website, including as part of Heat Ways.

The MHSAA is a private, not-for-profit corporation of voluntary membership by more than 1,500 public and private senior high schools and junior high/middle schools which exists to develop common rules for athletic eligibility and competition. No government funds or tax dollars support the MHSAA, which was the first such association nationally to not accept membership dues or tournament entry fees from schools. Member schools which enforce these rules are permitted to participate in MHSAA tournaments, which attract more than 1.4 million spectators each year.

Little by little, Kingston Days fest is coming together for Aug. 22-24

by Mary Drier
For the Chronicle

Little by little, events for the 2019 Kingston Days, slated for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 22, 23 and 24, are coming together.

The annual gathering celebrating community was close to becoming a thing of the past when a small group of volunteers stepped up last spring to revive the activity.

ASHLEY MacAlpine models one of the Kingston Days fundraiser T-shirts.

And, they were able to bring not only a full slate of events, but also the popular burnouts, which allow residents to burn a little rubber by holding down the brake while accelerating, making their tires smoke.

“Surprisingly there are some people that still live in this community or work in this community that had no idea that Kingston Days has brought back the burnouts,” said Amy Fetting, who is helping to coordinate this year’s festival.

The burnouts will take place Saturday, Aug. 24, on Fisher Street, right behind Memory Park, starting at 6 p.m.

This year’s fundraisers include sales of T-shirts to help support the event. The shirts are $15 and are available for purchase at Beagios, Pub and Grub, Bardens Hardware, Kingston Corners and the village hall. Ayre Street Graphics and Boutique designed the shirts.

Some of the other events on tap include:

*A golf-cart decorating contest starting at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. The theme for the decorating contest is “hot rods.” Participants’ golf carts must have an ORV sticker.

*The 11th annual 5k walk/run will take place at 7 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 22, at the Kingston Wesleyan Church, 3248 Washington St. There are several age divisions, and the fee to participate is $25. Prizes of $20 gift cards will go to the overall top male and female runners, and medals will be presented to the top three finishers in each age/sex division.

Online Registration can be completed at <https://runsignup.com/Race/MI/Kingston/KingstonDays5k>. The results will be posted on race day and at www.barc-mi.com.

For more information, call (810) 705-1775 or email sarahschuler4@yahoo.com.

The menu for the community picnic, set to get underway at 6 p.m. Thursday, will now be fried chicken. The chicken, plates, napkins, utensils, punch and rolls will be provided. Those who plan to attend are asked to bring a dish to pass, and a chair.

The grand marshals of the 2019 festival are Joseph and Trudy Peet.

“Come help us celebrate the love and dedication the Peet family has shown this community for over 50 years,” Fetting commented.

And, no festival is complete without a car show. The Kingston Lions Club will host the event Saturday beginning at 8 a.m. As part of that event, there will be 50-50 drawings, with the proceeds going to support vision testing/assistance and community activities. More information is available by calling (989) 683-2402.

The show will be preceded by a classic car cruise from 7 to 8 p.m. Friday, Aug. 23. Line-up will be at the high school parking lot. For more information, call (989) 683-2976.

There is still plenty of room for more crafters and vendors to get in on the fun. Booth spaces may be rented for $25 a day or $30 for both Friday and Saturday. Call (989) 678-2003 to reserve a space.

The weekend will also feature a teen street dance starting at 8 p.m. Saturday.

THIS YEAR’S fundraiser T-shirt for the Kingston Days festival captures the spirit of the celebration.

The weekend will again be emceed by Joe Atchinson.

For those staying in camp or close enough to drive in, there will be a 10 a.m. worship service Sunday featuring The Foresters. Concluding the weekend will be a $12 catered lunch at 11:30 a.m.

Food services are available Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday (lunch). A breakfast buffet begins at 7:30 a.m. Saturday in the camp dining hall, serving until 9:30 a.m. The price is $10 for adults and $5 for children ages five to 11 (kids under four eat free).

An outdoor barbecue dinner will be available throughout the day Saturday. Also available will be specialty desserts from Sweet Whimsies and a coffee cart provided by Emma's Coffee House. A buffet lunch also will be available from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday afternoon – the cost is $9 for everyone.

Concessions will also be available all weekend, and an ice cream social will be available Thursday through Saturday nights following the concerts.

Based on the overwhelming success of the first 21 Gospel Conventions, camp officials are preparing for an estimated 3,000 people to be on hand for this weekend's event. Those planning to sit outside should bring portable lawn chairs.

Bible study, a craft time and a movie are being planned. A Biblically-based miniature golf course will be available and the pool will also be open Friday and Saturday.

Lloyd Severance

It was a lifelong dream of Cass City area resident Lloyd “Chic” Severance to bring Gospel music to the Thumb area – music that anyone could enjoy free of charge — more than two decades ago.

Severance and his wife, Esther, were blessed with four children, 13 grandchildren, and 24 great-grandchildren. He started singing in the 1930s and sang bass in a church quartet.

Severance was part of the original community men's group called “The Layman's Club” in Cass City, which founded the New Year's Eve Gospel Sing in town that ended in 2015 after a 50-year run. The Calvarymen had participated in every one of those years.

The Layman's Club also brought in groups such as The Cathedrals, Bob Wills and the Inspirations, Toney Brothers and The Talleys to the Thumb for gospel concerts.

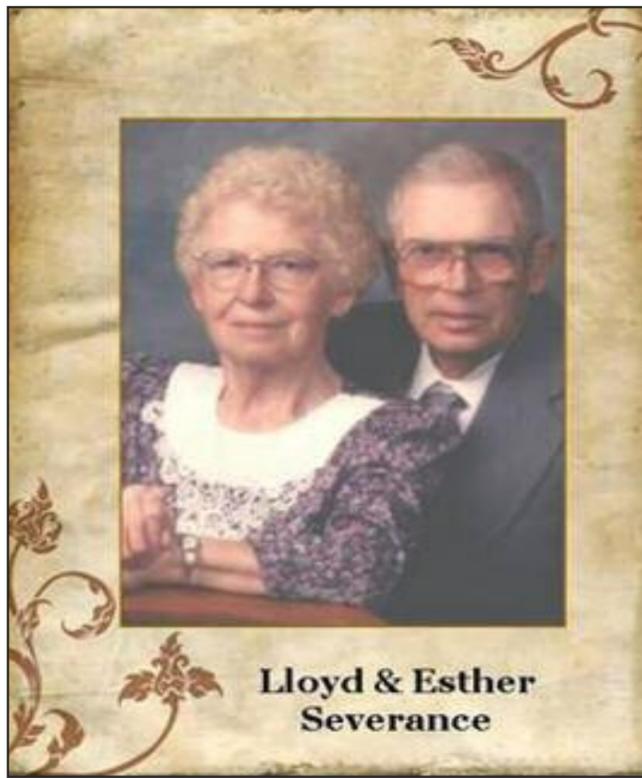

In 1997, Severance and son Arthur, who served as Gospel committee chairman, visited with then-Bay Shore Camp Director Lew Tibbits about bringing a Gospel sing to Bay Shore Camp and having a concert, with proceeds going to the camp.

A committee was formed, comprised of Lloyd Severance, Cliff Jacoby, Bob Bader, Arthur Severance, Leslie Severance, Donna Rhodes, Dan Grimshaw, Barbie Brooks and Lew Tibbits. The first concert was held in August 1998, with Donny Cox, from WSNL radio in Flint, as the MC. Fewer than 10 RVs were on the grounds and attendance was estimated at roughly 500 people for the one-day concert on Saturday.

Fifteen years later, in 2012, 17 groups performed, with Donny and Judy Cox continuing to MC in the tabernacle, and Mark Jacoby as the MC in the youth center. Volunteers parked 153 paid RV guests, camp housing was filled to capacity, and some 3,000 people enjoyed the four-day event.

After Lloyd's passing in 2000, convention officials renamed the event in honor of his many contributions to Gospel singing in the Thumb and greater Michigan.

Medical marijuana facility

looking for ways to diversify, and they say developing a medical marijuana facility will achieve that goal.

“Our goal is to start the operation around Thanksgiving time. That is a very aggressive deadline, but that is our goal,” Ploss said.

As a Class C operation, the company can grow, cultivate and cure up to 1,500 medical marijuana plants. The operation will be housed in a secure state-of-the-art facility with H/Vac to control any odor, 24/7 security with camera monitoring, and it will utilize a hydroponic system. The finished product will then be transported to an independent licensed provisioning center by an independent licensed transporter.

“With all of that, (the investment) will be somewhere north of $2 million in renovations to start to be operational,” Ploss said.

Once the business is up and running, it's estimated the operation will generate about $40,000 in property taxes and employ roughly 35 people.

The marijuana industry is the fastest growing industry in the United States. The industry is projected to reach $22 billion by 2022 with 340,000 full time jobs, and the state of Michigan projects $700 million in medical cannabis revenue annually.

Medical marijuana operations have to be licensed. The laws regulating medical marijuana were revised two years ago. There are licensing procedures with fees. A licensing board issues licenses in five categories: growers, processors, transporters, testing facilities and dispensaries will be licensed. Each of those businesses are overseen by the Department of Licensing And Regulatory Affairs (LARA).

In order to operate a medical marijuana business, it has to be licensed by both the state and the local municipality on an annual basis.

Although Cass City officials approved supporting a medical marijuana operation in the community, they were united in prohibiting recreational marijuana outlets. They approved opting out of the “Michigan Regulation and Taxation of Marijuana Act” and passed an ordinance not to allow any recreational marijuana establishments in town.

Sanilac church to host showing of “Coming Up For Air” Aug. 28

Even as more and more communities offer outstanding mental health resources, caregivers struggle to persuade those in need to take advantage of the helping hands available to them.

In an effort to address that challenge, Sanilac County Community Mental Health (CMH) and the Sandusky Presbyterian Church are co-sponsoring a special event planned for next month, featuring the 2019 film, “Coming Up For Air”, a project of the Heartland Independent Film Forum based in Muskegon.

The film offers a unique opportunity to reach those who can benefit today from readily available treatment, according to Deb Messing, executive administrative assistant, Sanilac CMH, who noted the production focuses on the impact of mental health on families as told through the story of a young college student who is also a competitive diver.

The film is set for national theatrical release in the fall.

Sanilac CMH, along with the Sandusky Presbyterian Church and other local partners, will present a preview of the film along with a panel discussion of local resources Wednesday, Aug. 28, at 6 p.m. at the Sandusky Presbyterian Church.

The 90-minute preview event will include four scenes from the film plus an introduction from the producer/co-screenwriter, according to Messing.

Following a presentation by the film's production team, community mental health experts will detail the readily available services that can prevent tragedy and give hope to families everywhere.

The mission of the film is to inspire empathy for individuals and their families, explore the complexities of personal responsibility, demonstrate how crisis intervention can prevent tragedy, and foster community discussion of mental health and its stigmas, Messing said. At a time when mental health services are better and better, the need for those services has never been higher, she added.

Free and open to the public, this event will combine a relatable film, local mental health experts and caregivers in a town hall setting, and focusing uniquely on the impact of the mentally ill on family members. Sanilac CMH provides services to residents of Sanilac County who are experiencing a serious mental illness, severe emotional problem, or intellectual/developmental disability, including individuals with co-occurring substance-use disorders.

More information is available by visiting the website www.sanilac-cmh.org or by calling 1-888-225-4447.

HURON COUNTY residents and law enforcement worked together to rescue an injured Bald Eagle last week. "It was found in a field driveway on Grassmere Road, north of M-142 in Oliver Township," Huron County Sheriff Kelly J. Hanson reported. Nehemiah Messing discovered the bird and assisted Sgt. James Hunt in catching and transporting the eagle to Hunt's residence until it could be taken to a bird rescue facility, according to Hanson, who noted it's unknown how the eagle was hurt.
