Eye boost in sewer rates

The Cass City village council is eyeing a raise in sewer rates to keep the department on a self liquidating basis, it was disclosed Tuesday night at the regular session of the council at the Municipal Building.

Although taxes for 1968 have not been officially discussed, the budget indicates that the village will hold the line on taxes.

Seek funds for retarded activity center

Authorities of the Tuscola County Association for Retarded Children are looking for donations for a rummage and bake sale planned in Caro Feb. 8-9-10.

Money raised will be used to start a fund for an activity center for older retarded persons and others unable to attend any school.

The association has obtained the Connor school on Riley Road for the center.

Donations can be made by contacting Chairman Mrs. Fred Dewald, Unionville, or other area volunteers. Locally, donations can be made by calling Stuart Copeland, Kingston, or Ronald PreFontaine, Cass City.

More books available at library

The book selection at the Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library increased sharply this week as an agreement signed with the Saginaw Public Library in November was activated.

Under discussion for many months, the Thumb area branch of the Saginaw system was established Jan. 25 when 13 public libraries from Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties joined the cooperative system in a meeting at Hoyt Public Library in Saginaw.

At the meeting last week, trustees from Cass City selected 200 books to use on a six-month basis and brought 70 of them back to the library.

Mrs. Arthur Little, librarian, says that the first books are already in circulation. Some 6,000 books will be available on loan from the Michigan State Library in Lansing under the new system. Thumb headquarters will be in Caro and Miss Jennie Kuhlberg, retired librarian from Sage Public Library in Bay City, will consult with area librarians each Wednesday. Books will be picked up and delivered at the affiliated libraries periodically.

Cost to the system is 10 cents per capita of each library. The contract may be renewed or terminated at the end of one year.

Cass City library trustees attending the meeting Thursday were: Mrs. Robert Keating, Mrs. John Zinnecker and Mrs. Esther McCullough.

No change in strike at Walbro

There has been no change in the strike situation at Walbro Corporation since the workers walked off the job 8 days ago, Lambert Althaver, vice-president, said Tuesday evening.

We have had no negotiation sessions and none are scheduled at this time.

Meanwhile, pickets have kept a vigil at the plants. Wednesday morning the workers were equipped with walkie talkies to trace cars entering and leaving the plant to see if supplies were being received or shipped.

President Lambert Althaver said that taxpayers took a substantial raise in taxes a year ago and he feels that another boost, despite rising village costs, would be too hard on residents' budgets.

The raise in sewer rates suggested would be from 50 to 100 per cent of the amount paid for water. Translated into dollars it means $2.00 per quarter or $8.00 per year for homes that are on a minimum charge for water. Bulk users will pay more.

Coupled with the raise to the home user will be a reappraisal of Wesley Milk Co. which now pays a flat rate. Since Michigan Milk Producers stopped taking milk in cans the load at Westleys has about doubled and the council is thinking of metering the sewage to establish a rate. The company uses its own well for water.

The raise is expected to add about $6,000 to the $50,000 collected by the water and sewer department.

The budget calls for receipts of $209,450 without the raise in sewer rates. That's over $6,000 more than was received in 1967.

Some of the capital expenditure reductions in 1968 will be at the sanitary landfill. Last year $13,700 was spent in construction of the facility. In 1968 this cost is expected to drop to $5,250 and part of this expense will be defrayed by $1,500 from Elkland township and charges for residents outside of Elkland township to use the facility.

Also out from the 1968 budget was $5,769 for construction of new sanitary sewers and $3,230 for alley work.

In 1967 the village built a sewer to the new high school and surfaced the alley south of Main Street in the business district.

Two Huron county youths killed in action

Two soldiers who entered the Army together in October of 1966 and went to Vietnam in October, 1967, aboard the same ship were killed in action in the same week.

Spec. 4 Michael R. Zurek, 20, Uby, and Cpl. Robert J. Miller, 19, Bad Axe, were the victims.

Specialist Zurek was killed Friday and Cpl. Miller killed two days earlier.

Zurek's father is a World War II veteran who served 38 months in the Pacific theater and is a commander of Thumb Veterans Post No. 1, Uby.

Specialist Zurek was the husband of the former Ilene Koelba and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond N. Zurek, Uby.

CHIEF CARL PALMATEER displays some of the equipment that is ready for emergency use by the department at all times. Except for the two tear gas grenades, the equipment is always available in the police car, the chief said.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

At the Michigan Press Association 100th anniversary celebration Friday and Saturday one of the entertainers was "Fat Bob" the plumber. An excellent singer, he got his start when he criticized a record played over WJR and went on to a professional career that includes guest spots over network TV.

Despite my success, Fat Bob reported slyly to the 750 newsmen and legislators present, I still am plumbing every day. I love to sing but, let's face it, with my plumbing job I'm getting rich.

I wonder if he was kidding?

The long slow trek towards another vote for a community college and vocational training center started again officially this week as the citizens advisory committee met Tuesday.

It promises to be an uphill battle. Schools are seeking more and more money and a larger and larger share of the tax dollar and the temptation is great to say no when they ask to tap the till again.

Yet, no other single thing is needed more in the Thumb than the college.

I have yet to hear of one that has not been enthusiastically accepted once it starts operating. At Michigan State last week end I heard them called last chance colleges.

Students say that kids can get in to study when their grades won't let them enter anywhere else. . . and many an immature youngster has "grown up" at a community college near home and gone on to complete his education at a four-year institution. And the kids who didn't find out that college wasn't for them at a fraction of the cost of a brief stay at a school away from home.

The college transfer phase of the program is important . . . but you'll find most industrial leaders saying that the vocational program is not only needed, but is long overdue if a stable labor force is going to be available for orderly growth of new and present industries.

These thoughts aren't new. What is new is the steering committee directing the second campaign.

If they can get across the needs and the benefits of a community college for the Thumb the money will be voted . . . if they can't, progress here will be sent back again until the need becomes so apparent that money will be voted . . . and the later it comes the more it is going to cost.

Around the clock

Cass Cityans pay $12 each for trained police force

It costs about $12 per year for every man, woman and child in Cass City for local police protection, Chief Carl Palmateer estimates, and the $27,000 budget brings residents the most diversified, best trained and best equipped department in the history of the community.

The days of the town constable with a part time job keeping order and watching traffic has disappeared in a wave of new regulations, supreme court decisions and a mobile population.

In Cass City the metamorphosis has moved the village from a one man department with part time help to nearly full time protection with three full time men.

With the increase has come a corresponding increase in equipment.

A shotgun, carbine, camera, riot helmet, tear gas, radar and mace are tools used or available. The mace replaced the night stick. With it, Palmateer says, our department can immobilize a person more effectively than with a night stick and without danger of cracking an offender's skull.

When this gas hits his face, it's like 50 hot needles striking and it takes his breath away, Palmateer explained, but it does no permanent damage.

When to use this equipment is one of the reasons why officers have to be better trained today. Before making an arrest, the suspect must be advised of his rights. . . Palmateer has a standard card that he shows before starting investigation.

To keep up with the latest in law enforcement, the department has started a library with the latest books on law enforcement.

Palmateer has gone to special courses at Michigan State and plans to send the other two men in the department, William McKinley and James Jezewski, to an MSC course this summer.

McKinley was a part time officer when Palmateer arrived to take over the department six years ago.

He moved to full time shortly thereafter when another part-time officer was hired. In 1964 the third man started a full time schedule and the protection was increased.

Six years ago the chief worked from 9 a. m. to 2 a. m. and was on call 24 hours. Today the department works 22 hours everyday in winter and 24 hours a day in the summer.

And they are better equipped to handle calls. The car and the desk at the municipal building.

Oak street unsettled

Plan year's road work

Work on Main, Oak and Church Streets is the tentative plan for Cass City in 1968, members of the Cass City Village Council revealed Tuesday night as they examined the proposed budget and learned that $24,000 would be available for construction this year.

A new state tax package passed in 1967 will give the community an estimated $4,000 more to work with this year.

Owengage PTC to discuss millage

The Owengage PTC has scheduled a meeting Thursday, Feb. 1, at the Gagetown School cafeteria at 8 p. m. to discuss the proposed extra millage for operating.

Supt. Allen Fennell will tell details about the millage request that will be before the voters in March.

Refreshments will be served and all interested persons are urged to attend, authorities said.

No injuries in minor area mishaps

Two minor non-injury accidents involving Cass City area drivers were reported to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department during the week.

The left front of a car driven by Mrs. Beverly Ann Auten was damaged when she collided with a doe deer Thursday.

The deer was killed in the mishap that occurred on M-81, about a quarter of a mile east of Selweger Road in Elkland township.

No one was injured in a two-car mishap Saturday on Colwood Road, just south of Hoppe Road in Columbia township.

Cars driven by Barbara Joy Generous, Gagetown, and Diane Lynn Rocheleau, Gagetown, collided.

The Generous vehicle was headed north and the Rocheleau car south when the accident occurred. Both drivers told investigating officers that the other driver was driving in the middle of the road.

The left rear fender of the Generous car and the left front fender of the Rocheleau car were damaged.

In Cass City, a minor mishap was investigated by the Cass City Police Department.

Cars driven by Harold Dean Ballagh and Arlene Violet Herr collided on Church Street Friday. The Ballagh car slid into the rear of the Herr vehicle. Minor property damage to both cars was reported.

Despite the increase, the council will be hard pressed to complete all the construction talked about.

To be resurfaced will be the portion of Church Street that was curb and guttered last season. Church Street, Seeger to Ale, will be curb and guttered to prepare for surfacing in 1969.

This project is expected to cost about $18,000.

While the work on Church is fairly well set, the work on Oak is not.

The council would like to curb and gutter Oak from the intermediate school through to Garfield this year in preparation for blacktop the following year.

TREES REMOVED?

Still to be decided is the width of the street in the block south of Main. It has not been determined if parallel or angle parking will be established.

If Oak Street is widened for angle parking three trees would have to be removed. If the normal residential street width is maintained and parallel parking established, the trees can be saved.

President Lambert Althaver reported that Main Street will be resurfaced this year by the State Highway Department. However, only the roadway itself will be completed unless the village pays the department for extending the work to the curb.

The village plans to complete the parking area and the cost is estimated at $4,000.

No major change in new phone books

Everything from area codes to zip codes can be found in the new General Telephone directory now being delivered to customers in Cass City, Caseville, Elkton, and Kingston.

Richard Drews, district manager for the company, said there are no major changes in the new directory.

The list for frequently called numbers again appears on the inside back cover and a localized exchange area map, printed in conjunction with the continental U. S. Area Code map, appears again in the new directory.

"Many times important papers, letters, or even money, are placed in the telephone directory for safe keeping and forgotten," he said. "Also, re-continued on page four."

Quite often, I'm made to feel like the neighborhood villain when I must refuse to refill a prescription. But there is a very good reason for such a refusal.

A prescription is your doctor's personal request for specific drugs to be used as part of his treatment of your illness. He specifies how much of the drugs you are to receive, and he will sometimes place a limit on this by stating "Do not refill." This usually means that he wants to see the patient again, before providing more medication.

I would be wrong if I gave you the wrong amount of a drug, or the wrong kind of a drug. And I'd also be wrong in giving you a drug over and over again, by overlooking the doctor's instructions about refilling.

You see, drug dosages aren't the same for every patient, and they must often be changed every once in a while to suit the patient's needs. You may need less than the standard dose, or perhaps you will need more. Your doctor can gauge this by re-examining you after your first prescription has been used up.

Also, some drugs are habit forming and some are too dangerous to be taken without regular medical supervision.

If I refuse to refill your prescription, it is to protect you from possible danger. And I would rather have you annoyed with me than guilty of jeopardizing the health of you and your family.

Letter to Editor

2037 Melody Lane Brooksville, Fla. 33512

Dear Editor,

I have read with considerable interest the uses of the railroad in earlier days. I thought I might add something of interest to older readers and enlightening to younger ones.

In my H.S. days (1907 to 1911) it was quite a pastime to "meet the train." Especially was this true of the evening train when there was nothing else to do. There were two passenger trains north and two south each week day and as many freights as required.

But to go back another generation to the days when the Pontiac Oxford and Northern was New and Respected rather than Poor Old and Neglected as it was dubbed after the auto and trucks robbed it of its glory.

In the mid 80s my Uncle John Kitchin who attended the Wainwright school (one-half mile north of the cemetery) wished to write on Teacher's examination and as the family planned to move to Evergreen and he to teach at McHugh he wanted to write at Sandusky. To get there he took the train to Pigeon then the narrow gauge logging road to Bad Axe. Next the Pere Marquette to Carsonville where he hired a livery rig to go the last eight miles to Sandusky. There he put up at the Hotel McDonald and was given an attic room. About midnight they brought the old man McDonald in a drunken state and shut him in with him. Imagine how much sleep a backwoods, homesick boy away from home for the first time got that night. The next morning going down to breakfast he found the room full of tobacco smoke which made him sick.

Arrived at the examination room he learned they had already been writing the day before. Discouraged he was ready for home but the Commissioner urged him to try so by dint of diligent labor he completed two days work in one and passed.

He went another year taking the train to Clifford then to what was known as Saginaw Junction (near Pt. Huron) next to Carsonville and livery again to Sandusky. This time there were so many writing there was not room for all so having taught one successful year he was given a certificate without writing.

Why not drive a horse and buggy? No buggy and no roads. Isaac Cragg as Supervisor of Evergreen walked to Sandusky. We owe much to the hardy pioneers.

Yours sincerely, Jason A. Kitchin

Things I never knew about climate

By Dan Marlowe

Things I never knew until browsing through the Encyclopedia Britannica Atlas:

The climactic regions of the world are divided into 14 categories, with the cities used as illustrations falling into the same general averages in regard to temperatures and precipitation, as follows:

1) Rainforest: Continuously hot, heavy precipitation in all seasons (Manaos, Brazil; ave. temp. 81 degrees; ave. precip. 65.1 inches).

2) Savanna: Hot summers, warm winters, moderate to heavy precipitation confined to summer season (Havana, Cuba; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Calcutta, India).

3) Low Latitude Steppe: Continuously hot, little precipitation (no significantly large cities).

4) Low Latitude Desert: Continuously hot, negligible precipitation (Yuma, Arizona; Cairo, Egypt).

5) Subtropical Dry: Hot summers, mild winters, moderate to light precipitation confined to winter season (San Francisco, Calif.; Santiago, Chile; Rome, Italy; Algiers, Algeria; Capetown, South Africa; Perth, Australia).

6) Subtropical Moist: Warm summers, cool winters, moderate precipitation in all seasons (Charleston, South Carolina; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Tokyo, Japan; Sydney, Australia).

7) Marine Temperate: Warm summers, cool winters, moderate precipitation with winter maximum (Juneau, Alaska; Greenwich, England).

8) Continental Moist: Warm summers, cold winters, moderate precipitation with summer maximum (Winnipeg, Canada; Chicago, Illinois; Berlin, Germany; Moscow, U.S.S.R.; Peiping, China).

9) Continental Steppe: Warm summers, cold winters, little precipitation (no significantly large cities).

10) Continental Desert: Warm summers, cold winters, negligible precipitation (no significantly large cities).

11) Subarctic: short cool summers, long cold winters, little precipitation (Fairbanks, Alaska; Yakutsk, U.S.S.R.).

12) Tundra: Short cold summers, long extremely cold winters, little precipitation (no significantly large cities).

13) Highland Climates: Generally colder than lowlands in same latitude, precipitation varies (Denver, Colorado; Mexico City, Mexico).

14) Ice Cap: Continuous cold, little precipitation (no cities). A few safe assumptions appear to emerge from the above:

a) If you don't have precipitation, you don't have people.

b) If you're a swinger, you're probably living in a subtropical dry climate, as witness the swinging cities of the world: San Francisco, Santiago, Rome, Algiers, Capetown, and Perth.

c) And finally, is there any significance that the continental moist climactic condition seems to contain most of the "hot" spots of the world, i.e., Berlin, Moscow, and Peiping? Chicago probably qualified, too, in the days of Al Capone.

More highway accidents abroad

Last year's U. S. death rate was 52.6 per 100,000 vehicles, but still well below the annual slaughter in many developed foreign countries, reports Richard Pfister, MSU agricultural engineer. Japan had the highest toll -- 402.2 killed per 100,000 vehicles. Automobile death rates in industrial European countries were double or triple our own. Even comparatively uncrowded countries like New Zealand, Norway, and Ireland have higher auto death rates per 100,000 vehicles than the U. S. The agricultural engineers remind that this is small consolation for our own staggering auto death numbers and advise regular use of seat belts to cut this figure.

Here's a real basketball oddity. . . The inventor of basketball, James Naismith, was not a successful coach in the game he originated. . . After establishing the game, Naismith coached basketball at Kansas for nine seasons, but his overall record was only 53 wins and 56 losses.

Do you know who was the oldest man ever to fight in a professional boxing match. . . The record was set by a heavy-weight named Walter Edgerton who had his last bout at the age of 63. . . He boxed professionally for more than 40 years.

Did you know there was once a baseball player who played on 10 different big league teams in nine years? . . . He was pitcher Dick Littlefield who joined the Red Sox in 1950. . . 1968 Coho, Chinook Planting Sites Shown here are 18 areas recently picked by the Conservation Department to receive coho and chinook salmon plantings this spring. All but four are new. The quartet of previously planted salmon waters includes the Platte, Little Manistee, and Muskegon rivers and Thompson Creek. This spring's releases of 1.8 million coho fingerlings are designed to provide exciting open-water fishing along much of this state's Lake Michigan, Superior, and Huron offshore areas in the fall of 1969 when these fish become adults. At the same time, coho runs from this spring's plantings should yield some bragging-sized catches in the lower reaches of the Ontonagon, Muskegon, Big Manistee, and Ausable rivers. The Department's 1968 releases of small chinook smolts will total about 500,000 in the Manistee area, 300,000 in the Muskegon River, and 50,000 near Marquette. Besides these larger-scale plantings, the Department will stock a small number of chinook in Thunder Bay River under a cooperative study with Alpena Community College. The Muskegon and Manistee areas, first planted with young chinook last year, are expected to have initial "jack" runs of these fish in their stocked streams this fall. First major concentrations of adult chinook are looked for a year later off the mouths of the two areas' planted rivers.

A house is more than just shelter

By Mrs. Ann Ross Extension Agent

A house is more than shelter and a home is more than a place. But how much more is a matter of family choices.

In order to make choices, family members must decide what is desired from housing. And some families may ask, "What should a house be like - or what should it 'do' for you?" Besides the physical, there are some spiritual aspects of housing, according to Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb Extension Home Economist. A home can restore and refresh both the minds and bodies of the family members.

Clutter and clutter are both exhausting. Sound insulation and good storage can minimize noise and piles.

Houses may be mechanized or over-mechanized. There may be a danger of too much machinery - if some of it is dysfunctional or if equipment simply takes up space and is not put to use.

Many families change residences often. This frequency of moving can cause a lack of special interest in the home and grounds. "But mobility is no argument for failing to plant perennials," says Mrs. Ross.

Privacy is important for families living in mass contemporary society. Choosing a site and a home design which allows for privacy may be more important than economic considerations.

If the family remains in the same place as the family moves through the stages of the family life cycle - perhaps internal changes in the house are in order. A family room may become a guest room when the family shrinks.

A home is for living - and housing is a family affair!

3 from area at Farm Bureau training session

Three area men were among a group of Farm Bureau presidents and executive committee members attending an annual workshop conference at Camp Kett Leadership Training Center at Tustin, Mich.

Attending were: Gerald L. Hicks, Deford; Fred L. Black, Fairgrove; and Leon C. Keinath, Millington.

They were told by Dr. Sylvan Wittwer, director of Michigan State University's experiment station, that it is possible right now to produce twice as much food as the world can use.

The men were warned that the farmers of the future must be prepared for great change and that farmers will have to depend on themselves and not public sympathy to progress.

Farm Bureau President Elton Smith said that the organization needs to back positive and aggressive programs which are in the national interest as well as the farmers'.

AROUND THE FARM

Planting time fertilizer best

By Alfred P. Ballweg

Several weeks ago one of our many good Tuscola county farmers stopped by the office to inquire about the importance of planting time starter fertilizer. He was considering the purchase of a new "tool bar planter" and by buying it without the fertilizer attachment, it could be bought for about $500 less. In order to get the latest research data available on the results of using planting time fertilizer vs. no fertilizer placed below and to the side of the seed, such as, on beans, corn and soybeans, I contacted Bus Robertson, Extension Specialist in Soils at Michigan State University. Here is his reply, quote:

"From the standpoint of the crops to be grown, no crop should ever be planted without benefit of a planting time fertilizer, especially in your area where micronutrients are so important.

"Research, both in the greenhouse and in the fields, shows that on the average a person can pick up about 10 per cent in yield from the use of a planting time fertilizer. In most instances, especially with the size of the farms that you have in Tuscola county, this is going to be sufficient to more than pay for the extra cost of the fertilizer attachment plus the cost of the time involved in handling the planting time fertilizer.

"The most ineffective way of using phosphate and manganese that has ever been developed by man involves broadcasting it on the surface of the soil and then using some sort of a tillage tool to work it into the soil. A much easier way and a way that is in complete agreement with the use of the minimum tillage principle is to broadcast the fertilizer and to plow it under.

"I realize that at the present time implement concerns, as well as fertilizer companies, are pushing the concept of custom applied fertilizer and broadcast fertilizer, especially during off-season. I believe that this is a good concept on low fertility soils and for those crops that have high fertility requirements, but this should not be a complete substitute for a planting time fertilizer.

"Fertilizer placed in a tight, dense, compact band two inches to the side and two inches below the seed would represent the ideal placement."

In a followup letter Bus Robertson goes on to point out that "Never plant a crop without the benefit of a banded planting-time fertilizer. The basis of this statement is particularly related to the kind of reactions that take place between phosphate and manganese and the soil."

"One of the real reasons for using a planting-time fertilizer that has been banded is to keep away from the extreme fixation that can and does take place on most soils.

"I summarize these statements primarily to re-emphasize the significance of a banded planting-time fertilizer. In other words, if these statements are valid, a planter needs to have a fertilizer box on it so that a planting-time fertilizer can be used." Unquote.

Five hundred dollars saved today on the cost of a planter without fertilizer attachment could mean the loss of several thousand dollars in reduced crop income in years to come.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule.

All at once Cass City's game with the Thumb B Conference leading Lakers of Pigeon-Elkton-Bay Port has assumed new significance.

Although even the most partisan fan wouldn't call it the game of the year, the outcome can no longer be regarded as nearly a foregone conclusion.

Cass City is the most improved team in the league and has been knocking off or coming close to teams that regarded them as a breather in the opening games of the season.

One after another, Cass City has turned on their tormentors and started evening accounts. The Hawks defeated Bad Axe the second time around and then repeated the performance against Sandusky Friday, 71-62.

Coach Jim Wynes said that the victory over the Redskins was due to a better defensive and rebounding effort in the second half.

Cass City opened with a rush for a five-point bulge in the first period, 18-13, only to see the visitors come charging back to post a 21-15 advantage in the second quarter and leave the floor with a narrow one-point, 34-33, advantage at intermission.

It was in the third quarter that the Hawks staged the rally that won the game. They continued to score well and Sandusky turned ice cold from the field, scoring just seven points while Cass City netted 17. At the end of three quarters, the Hawks had a commanding 50-41 lead.

When both clubs scored 21 points in the final period, Cass City had registered another conference victory.

The Hawks were paced to victory by another outstanding individual performance by Senior John Maharg. He scored 32 points and snagged 11 rebounds.

On defense he held Ed Kosanke, one of the league's top scorers to just 10 points and blanked him in the first half.

Maharg has a 22-point scoring average for the season.

JOHN MAHARG

Both teams shot well from the field. The Redskins hit at a 40 per cent clip. Helped by a torrid second half when they hit 54 per cent from the field, the Hawks registered 44 per cent for the night.

From the charity circle Cass City converted a creditable 75 per cent while the visitors were able to hit just 55 per cent. Rebounding was nearly equal. Cass City was credited with 30 while Sandusky picked off 28.

The box score:

	FG	FT	Pts.
Sandusky	5	0-0	10
Kosanke	4	1-3	9
Gorringer	5	5-6	15

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Hawks made it a clean sweep with a victory in the preliminary game over the Sandusky Junior Varsity, 48-38. Larry McClorey netted 14 points while Joe Hillaker and D. Ashmore each scored 11.

Hawk frosh win

Big second and third quarter margins were enough for Cass City Freshmen to post a 52-43 decision over Bad Axe Frosh.

Coach John Bilfoss said that the Hatchets were held to two field goals in the first half and the rebounding has improved in the last few games. Cass City led at the end of three quarters, 41-24. Rob Alexander netted 14 points while Dan Calster, Kim Hopper and Jude Patnaude each scored eight points.

Vaporizing liquid fire extinguishers, banned recently by Michigan legislation, are ineffective and have caused numerous injuries from toxic fumes. While the most common of these is the pump-type brass cylinder containing chlorinated hydrocarbons, the ban also includes glass globe types which are designed to shatter at critical temperatures or be thrown at the fire. MSU agricultural engineers say 2-1/2 to 3-pound pressurized dry chemical extinguishers are four to eight times more effective. Before buying any fire extinguisher, look for Underwriter Laboratory or Factory Mutual Laboratory approval on the label, the agricultural engineers caution.

Beaches complete course in Korea

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Beach, former residents who are now missionaries serving in Korea, recently completed a two-year Korean language course at Yonsei University in Korea.

The pair were two of five foreigners to complete the language institute.

Learning the language and customs of the country is expected to aid the couple in their work.

Beach is working as a teacher with native farmers. He is helping them to develop 2,500 acres for farm purposes.

Following her graduation, his wife, Mary, returned to Yonsei University, this time as a member of the staff.

She will teach English at the university.

Beach is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Beach of Gageton and Mrs. Beach is the daughter of Mrs. Albert Leslie of Decker.

Mandatory driver education seen

Mandatory driver education courses for all new drivers, regardless of age, will probably become law during the current legislative session. A bill has already passed the House and is under study by the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The legislation ties-in with the Federal Highway Safety Act of 1966. This act contains 13 provisions which states must either adopt or lose up to 10% of Federal highway funds. Mandatory driver education is one of the provisions.

In its present form the bill forces all new drivers to pass an accredited course in driver education. The course may be taken from either a commercial driving school or through a local school system.

A companion bill which sets standards and licenses private driver education schools has also been introduced.

Total dollar needs, source of funds and problems of administration must be decided before the bill can be brought to the Senate floor for a vote. Michael LaPere, executive vice-president of the Inter-Industry Highway Safety Foundation of Michigan, estimates the appropriation would run between $50,000 and $75,000 annually. Although a small amount of revenue could be derived from licensing commercial schools, the legislation would be largely financed from the state's general fund.

LaPere points out that Michigan presently has few private driving schools and that most need upgrading. He admits that private lessons are expensive and that the bill could overload both the public school systems and commercial training establishments. It is possible that increased demand could prompt development of more private schools. In isolated areas applicants would have three alternatives, two of them "unacceptable": rely on public school training, temporarily relocate to areas which had commercial schools, be denied a driver's license.

Improved driving performance and a better safety record for new drivers should result from this legislation. But LaPere is critical of many driver education courses currently being taught in public and commercial schools.

He says a few schools are doing an excellent job, but many driver education courses "are terrible." He cites one example of students driving in a makeshift, circular course while the instructors played softball inside the circle. Other schools put students behind the wheel for long trips to give them the mandatory six hours driving all at one time.

The foundation is attempting to improve the quality of driver education and make it uniform throughout the state, LaPere stated, but is faced with monumental problems. The Michigan Department of Education, which surveys the quality of local driver education programs, is faced with a manpower shortage. Most driver education instructors have not had enough up-to-date training. Many school administrators look upon driver education with disdain.

Improvement is needed as shown by a study made in 1966. MSU's Traffic Safety Center conducted the only state-wide survey ever made of driver education and found most courses sadly lacking in quality.

Since then the safety foundation has sponsored two seminars to draft a model curriculum for preparing instructors to teach driver education. The foundation also offers full summer scholarships for teachers who want better driver education preparation. Response has been slight, however, because most teachers spend the summer teaching driver education.

LaPere feels the solution to improvement lies in making driver education a part of the regular school curricula. This would lift the course out of its present after-school, on-week ends, during-summer category. Since many administrators would object to such a move and many instructors use the after-hours course for additional income, LaPere feels that the change would have to be legislated to be enforced.

Lansing School District has already adopted such a policy and has experienced little difficulty. LaPere also stresses that the number of instructors needed to teach driver education would decrease since students would no longer be "bunched" into limited time periods.

Registered teachers now number 3,200, but about 2,200 are "actively involved" in teaching. Of this number, LaPere estimates only 400-500 teachers "have their hearts in it."

Inadequate finances also contribute to poor course quality. The state spends approximately $4 million annually to finance driver education in public schools at the rate of $30 per pupil. This still leaves a deficit of $15 to $20 per pupil which must be made up with local funds.

LaPere points out that cars are furnished free of charge through a manufacturer-dealer arrangement. Michigan led the nation in the '66-'67 school year with 2,154 automobiles provided under this arrangement. Any district which finds it cannot obtain free automobiles from local dealers should contact the foundation at 1500 Kendale Blvd., East Lansing. LaPere says, "We'll get them the cars."

Always remember, motorists, you'll never quit regretting if you run down a child.

Times are always hard for those who insist on trying to keep up with the Joneses.

Success exacts many penalties and headaches, but failure is still much more severe.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

Once an Indian always an Indian

By Marion Hostetler

Here it is, first of the month again . . . when the mailboxes are full of the envelopes with the little windows. It's a good thing that God doesn't send out bills. If we were expected to pay for sunshine, starlight, the fresh air of Tuscola county, the rain that waters our fields, and the opportunities brought by each new dawn . . . we'd never be out of debt.

Today even youngsters find it tough going to keep up with the times. Lori MacAlpine is five and a half, and can hardly wait until she's six . . . because all her friends are six. Her Mom hasn't had the heart to break the bad news: when Lori is six, those same pals will be going on seven.

It won't be long until the Hawks are so accustomed to the new gym floor that they will be asking themselves, "Gosh, do you remember when we played on that tiny floor in the old building?"

Sportsmen with longer memories can recall when the basketball games were played in what is now the Cultural Center. As one of them says, if you played on that little floor all year, then went to a floor like the one in the IMA auditorium in Flint, you felt as if you were lost on the prairie!

I wonder what basketball will be like in 1999. Will there be a new gym with an even bigger floor? Will the average player be 7 feet tall? Will there be an electronic timer inside the ball to set off a buzzer when a player holds the ball too long? Or will a basketball game consist of two apes tossing a coconut back and forth?

One old codger said, "I've seen many changes in my lifetime, and I've been agin every one of 'em."

Indians resist change even more than white men do. Leslie and Eva Townsend tell about visiting an Indian village near Tucson. The Indians had been contented to dwell in adobe houses (made of dried mud bricks) until these were washed away by floods in December.

Now the government has replaced the houses with prefabricated buildings, erected with Indian labor. But in order to keep the people happy, they have to be made as nearly like the old houses as possible—four walls, one door, three sliding windows, and a hole in the roof to let smoke escape. The concrete floor has a hole in the center for a fire. The Indians sleep on the concrete, with all feet toward the fire. In most homes the only light at night comes from the fire. Some Indians make tallow candles from animal fats . . . but none of them has any desire for electricity. "Once an Indian," they say, "always an Indian."

I'm so Scotch that I hate to waste anything—even words. That must be why I'm bothered more than I ought to be when I read the minutes of some organizations. To put it in current jargon, I have a hang-up about redundant minutes.

You're wasting time and ink if you say: Moved by John Smith and seconded by James Jones that the treasurer be authorized to buy a new notebook. Motion carried.

It is sufficient to say: Motion prevailed that the treasurer be authorized to buy a new notebook.

If the motion carried, it means that the body as a whole is responsible for the action, and the names of the mover and seconder add nothing to the authority of the action.

If there is any good reason for writing down the name of every person who makes a motion, will somebody please tell me what it is?

When I see a house with snow on the roof I know the owner is keeping warm; either he has good insulation in his attic, or he's gone south for the winter.

I found out why I like to write this column, and why you like to read it. Edward Newton wrote, "The formula for complete happiness is to be very busy with the unimportant."

Is everybody happy?

Dear Mister Editor: The fellers at the country store Saturday night passed a resolution not to make no reserlutions for the New Year...

Isaac said he had put "Just Resting." Ed claimed this would be a great mistake, that the first thing them Government folks would do when they got the report would be to put Isaac to work...

Evergreen

by: Kathy LaPeer & Ann Turner

The students at Evergreen are learning to be creative in their art work. They found that they could make interesting pictures from strings dipped into water colors.

Mrs. Johnson's fourth and fifth graders had some snapshots taken of themselves and their artwork at Christmas time, which arrived last week.

Friday morning of last week I went to the Intermediate school to pick up some papers. Everything looks exactly as it did before except the hall guides are so much younger, and all of a sudden, without warning, the students were dismissed to go to their next class.

I've heard that none of the third floor lockers are being used and all of the students that have third floor classes have first floor lockers.

Today the seventh and eighth grade boys take home ec, while the girls are taking shop.

Since Mr. Cleland has moved to his new office in the high school, the intermediate school doesn't have a guidance counselor.

Mrs. Seeley, Mr. Stickle's secretary, has now got a desk of her own. She said that during "the move" all the intermediate teachers were running around calling dibs on some of the stuff left at the school and she managed to get herself a desk!

I'm glad to see that basketball training has been started in the fifth and sixth grades instead of waiting for the boys to enter junior high.

A week ago last Monday Cass City had another Curriculum Study day. In other words - no school for students.

Back to the grind! To miss a day during the last week of a marking period to the teachers is fatal.

Tuesday the hall guides had a meeting, in which some new rules were laid down and some of the old rules were stressed.

On Wednesday the Library was ready to be opened. During the day all the English classes went to the library for half of their class period so Mrs. Starman could familiarize the facility to them.

All day last Thursday and Monday of this week pictures have been taken for the school annual. It's just mass confusion on picture days!

Last Friday morning the junior prom committee had a meeting. The theme for the prom has been set and some of the work has begun.

Friday afternoon a pep assembly was held. The spirit stick has now been converted to a half-deflated basketball.

For some unknown reason the juniors lost last week's point

Club News

On Tuesday of last week the Ski Club of Cass City High School was organized. The elections of officers were held.

The storekeeper butted in to say he was predicting 1968 would see the greatest changes in this nation since Washington crossed the Delaware.

Ed Doolittle announced he aimed to spend part of the New Year helping the Great Society find 791 needed employees.

Isaac Confodder, that usual didn't have much to say at the sessions, told the fellers he was too busy laying plans for that income tax report farmers has got to mail in afore February 15 to worry about anything else.

It Seems To Me
Only the kids
REALLY enjoy snow

By Rev. R. J. Searls
As I write the column for this week, I'm ahead of schedule and, therefore, am writing the column for Feb. 1 on Jan. 15... which is not so unusual in itself but may affect the items in the column. For example, there is a lot of snow both on the ground and swirling at everyone's heads right now. It is the winter's first blizzard and, we hope, it is also the winter's final one.
There are few adults who really enjoy such a storm, but once they are sure that school is closed for the day (and that the fathers have shovelled out the driveway) our school-age

For total performance, try our new & improved gasoline

LEONARD PREMIUM 500

now 5 ways better

1. Better carburetor cleaning. Keeps new carburetors clean and bright, cleans even dirtiest carburetors for better mileage, improved performance.
2. Better ice-proofing properties. On cool, damp days, ice may form on the carburetor throttle plate, causing annoying stalling. The new additive forms a slippery film one molecule thick on the metal surface. Ice never gets a chance to build up.
3. Better rust protection. The same molecular film protects metal surfaces against corrosion — in engine parts as well as the entire gasoline distribution system.
4. Better exhaust emission control. Works on exhaust emission devices, like Positive Crankcase Ventilation just as it works on the carburetor — cleans and keeps clean, reducing the need for expensive maintenance.
5. Better ignition. A special compound in Premium 500 suppresses pre-ignition and sparkplug fouling caused by combustion chamber deposits. Car performance is noticeably improved.

Alma grads to spark annual fete

Dick Wallace and Dennis Stolz, who were fraternity brothers at Alma College a few years ago, will be seeing each other on Washington's birthday at the Father and Son banquet of the Presbyterian Church. Wallace will be toastmaster and Stolz is the speaker of the evening.

Sportswriters of the Associated Press picked Stolz as Michigan's small college coach of the year after his Alma football team copped the MIAA championship at the end of an undefeated season last fall. Stolz came to Alma in 1965 from Eastern High in Lansing to take over a squad that had been near the bottom of the ratings for several years. In 1966 the Scots won a majority of their games, and with the 8-0 tally of 1967, Stolz' three-year record stands at 16-9. The banquet at 6:30 on Feb. 22 will be served by the women of the church, with Mrs. Edward Doerr as chairman. All men and boys are welcome. Tickets are available at the church office.

Location important for egg production

If you are considering a new egg production unit, there are at least ten questions you should ask about the location, according to Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent. Michigan State University poultry scientists suggest asking the following questions:
What are the land costs in terms of acreage for manure disposal near an urban or a city location?
What will be the tax rate on a specific classification of a specialized egg production farm, buildings, equipment, land and birds?
What is the quantity and quality of the water supply? Can manure disposal be made on considerable land acreage and away from populated areas?
What are the present and future trends of urbanization in the area? Check the zoning restrictions with local city, township and county boards. Will the local city businessmen, creditors, and neighbors accept a poultry business in the area?
What will be the transportation costs concerning delivery and pickup of the eggs, road conditions, routes and proximity of feed supply?
MSU poultry scientists suggest investigation into availability, competence and reliability of labor.

Enough energy is wasted in useless worry every year to light the cities of the world.

Good dairy records one key to profits

Dairymen want to increase profits and the amount of milk sold without increasing the cost of production.

Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent, advises that dairymen can increase production per cow or add more cows to herd to get more milk.

A Michigan State University dairy extension specialist, Clinton Meadows, says that of first importance in breeding and management is up-to-date records on cows in the herd through a production testing program.

He adds, "Breeding agencies have complete production information on each bull used, but unless dairymen keep complete production information on each cow in the herd they cannot remove chronic low producers early in their unprofitable careers."

Ballweg points out that three production testing programs are available to dairymen in the area. The DHIA testing program is the most inclusive and costs about 60 cents a cow a month, but returns about three times that in added income, according to research.

The Extension office or Barney Hoffman, Cass City, the dairy production tester in the area, can give complete information to dairymen interested in greater profits, the county agent explained.
