

In Circuit Court

Sentence two to Jackson

A total of 34 arraignments, including 20 criminal cases was heard in Tuscola County Circuit Court Tuesday before Judge James Churchill. Two men were sent to Jackson prison and several others confined to the county jail for short periods.

Wellington Chrysler of Vassar was sentenced to Jackson prison on two different charges. He drew a four to five-year sentence for unlawfully carrying a concealed weapon and 7 1/2 to 14 years for forgery and uttering and publishing The State Bank of Vassar checks.

Both sentences will be dated from Dec. 20, the time that Chrysler was first jailed, and will run concurrently.

Clifford Shawano of rural Caro was sentenced to one year and nine months to two years at Jackson Prison for feloniously issuing three or more checks within 10 days. The sentence time will be counted from Dec. 15.

Robert L. Paul of Rockford, Illinois, pleaded guilty of larceny from a building for stealing tools and soda pop from the Rainbow Laundry in Caro. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and sentence will be passed Mar. 12.

Warren B. McVittie of Lexington pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the National Light Metals and Plastic Co. in Caro. Sentence will be Mar. 12 and a pre-sentence investigation conducted.

Charles Fabbro of Vassar pleaded guilty of larceny from the home of Katherine Milhbach in Vassar township.

Scouting booms in Cass City

Cass City Scouts aren't planning any specific activity to commemorate national Boy Scout Week, Scoutmaster James Ware said this week, but the program here has never been stronger.

Always a leader in Scouting, Cass City this year has a record breaking program.

Ware says that there are 57 Scouts in his troop, the largest number in history. The boom is so great that another troop is being formed. There are 12 Scouts registered for this troop and a big flood of Webelos are expected to join this spring. The new troop is sponsored by the Lions. Ware's troop is sponsored by the Cass City Rotary Club.

A well rounded program keeps the boys interested. Trips down the Cass River, summer sessions at Camp Rotary, hikes and polar bear camp outs are among the yearly events.

Another polar bear is scheduled for this week end, 1 1/2 miles south of Cass City.

A service project that local Scouts helped with during the year was building brush piles for rabbits, Ware said. The Scouts worked in cooperation with the Michigan Department of Conservation to build the shelter for the popular small game animal.

DISTRICT GAINS

Not only in Cass City is Scouting on the rise. Last year some 10,500 boys participated in the Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and in the Saginaw Bay Area Council Explorer programs, an increase of six per cent over the previous years.

Cass City was recently switched into the Saginaw district which is considering merging with Midland. A new scout center building is contemplated if the merger is completed.

Much of Scouting's success there can be traced to the in-

Citizens recommend

No change in college plans

The Citizens Advisory Committee for the proposed Tri-County Community College and Vocational High School recommended that the school proposal defeated last June, be resubmitted to the voters.

The action was taken at the first meeting of the group at Cass City High School Tuesday, Jan. 30.

The committee voted to ask the steering committee to seek State approval of the college to cover the same area and with the same facilities that were previously turned down.

Key to the establishment of the unit is a two-mill tax levy. It was defeated by about a 7-5 majority.

The steering committee is expected to confer with the Tri-County Intermediate Boards of Education so that the measure can receive state approval and be resubmitted to the people.

No date or time for the second vote has been adopted or suggested at this time.

The proposed tri-county district will again include all of Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron county school districts with the exception of Millington and Croswell-Lexington districts.

OTHER ARRAIGNMENTS

Two men were arraigned on criminal charges before Judge Churchill Wednesday, Jan. 31. Bruce Wilson, one of a group to be charged with arson for burning a barn owned by Thomas Smith, a half mile south of Colwood, pleaded guilty to arson.

The barn was one of a series of farm fires started in the latter part of July, mostly at unoccupied locations.

Judge Churchill ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Sentence will be passed Mar. 5. Wilson's bond was continued.

Gary Ross of Lapeer pleaded guilty to breaking and entering Legg's Restaurant in Kingston. Sentence will be passed Mar. 12 after a pre-sentence investigation. Bond was continued.

Friday, Feb. 2, Richard Curry's attempt to plead guilty to a charge of unlawfully driving away an auto without intent to steal was denied and a plea of not guilty entered for him.

The case was complicated because Curry cannot speak English and an interpreter was needed.

No injuries in minor area mishaps

Two minor accidents involving drivers from the Cass City area were reported to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department this week.

A car driven by Harold John Kilbourn, 40, of Deford hit a deer Monday on Deckerville Road, a quarter of a mile from Phillips Road in Novesta township.

A dog chased two deer onto the road and Kilbourn was unable to avoid hitting one of them. The front of the car was damaged.

Gerald John Jacoby, 37, of Akron avoided injury when he lost control of a truck he was driving on Deckerville Road near Dodge Road in Novesta township.

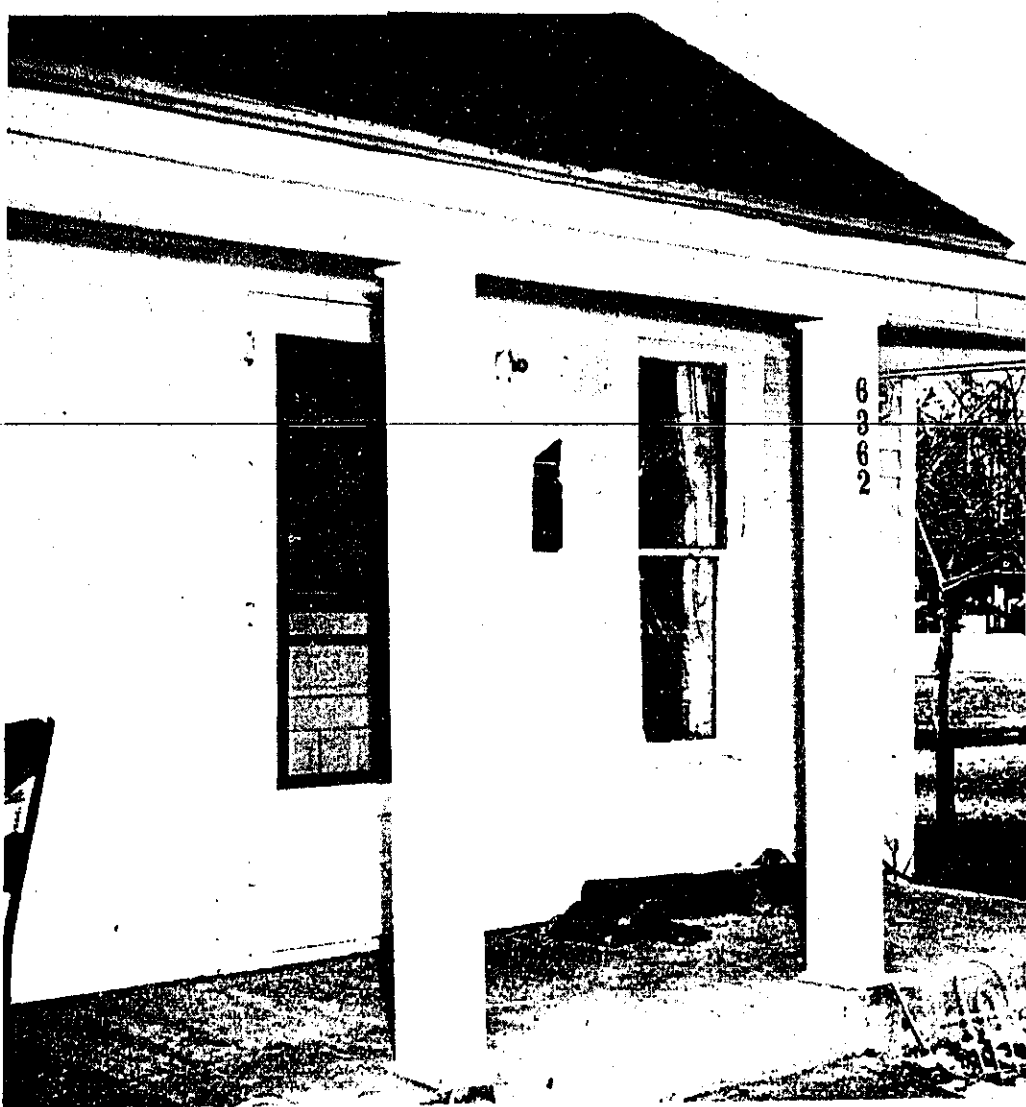

Jacoby said that he was blinded by lights of approaching vehicles and lost control because of deep water on the road.

The truck flipped on its side, damaging the left fender and roof.

SUNDAY MISHAP

Mrs. Elsie McBurney of East Cass City Road escaped injury in a two-car mishap Sunday on Dixon Road, east of Graf Road in Columbia township.

According to troopers from the Bad Axe State Police Post who investigated, Mrs. McBurney was attempting to pass a car driven by Mary Ann Brandmair, 16, of Unionville, and failed to notice that the Brandmair car's turn signals were operating.

ONLY THE BROKEN windows remind residents on Fourth Street of the shooting fracas that occurred in the early morning hours Sunday. Two windows in the house were shattered by bullets. The window at the front of the house was shattered by the blast but the one on the east side of the house (lower left photo) shows clearly where the bullet went through.

Walbro-union resume talks Wednesday

The first break in the strike against Walbro Corporation since it was called Tuesday, Jan. 23, was expected Wednesday when the Union and management agreed to further talks on a settlement.

The strikers have maintained picket lines outside the building since the strike was called. Meanwhile, essential production has been maintained by salaried and nonunion workers of the company.

Felonious assault Hold Nichols in county jail

David Lee Nichols, 27, 6372 Fourth Street, Cass City, is being held on a charge of felonious assault following a shooting spree at 2 a. m. Sunday.

Cass City Police Chief Carl Palmateer said that the shooting started after an earlier argument.

Nichols came home and found a dog owned by a next door neighbor, Grady Taylor, running loose in his yard.

He went to the Taylor home, entered without knocking and a fight started. Nichols was reportedly hit in the face and left the Taylor house and picked up a gun from his house. He shot the dog and put four shots through the windows of the Taylor house.

One of the bullets missed a resident of the home by about four inches, Palmateer reported.

Meanwhile, Taylor had secured a gun and answered Nichols' fire with two shots of his own, Palmateer reported.

In the Taylor house at the time of the shooting were: Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Miss Marie Lewis, Irene Bradford and John Grady.

Chief Palmateer said that when he arrived at the scene, Nichols was standing with a shotgun in his hand.

He succeeded in talking him into putting the gun down. Meanwhile, alarmed neighbors had turned the alarm into the State Police. Following Palmateer to the scene were State Police, the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department and Cass City Patrolman William McKinley.

Nichols was arraigned before Justice Frank Rolka and bond was set at $2,000.

Board okays $4,368 for county plan

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors authorized $4,368 as a third share of the first year's cost for establishing a master plan for development of Tuscola county in its regular monthly session Monday.

The amount was necessary so that the county can receive $11,700 from the department of Housing and Urban Development.

Master planning is necessary if the county is to remain eligible for any Federal funds in the future.

The money allotted this year is only about 20 per cent of the estimated total cost of the survey which Vilcan-Lemen, master planners, has estimated at $75,000 to $80,000.

Establishment of the plan is expected to take up to three years, according to a member of the commission.

LEASE LAND

In other activities, the county voted to lease land for a dog pound from the village of Caro. The lease is for 25 years at a cost of $25 yearly.

Purchase of three new police cars from Burton-Moore Ford in Caro and the awarding of a contract for gas was also approved.

971 county pupils at private schools

Tuscola county has five privately supported schools with 971 students, it was reported this week by the Michigan Association Non-Public Schools.

According to the association the estimated savings to taxpayers for educating these students is $582,310.

Both Banks in Cass City will be closed Monday, Feb. 12, a legal holiday.

Owengage isolated

Okay school merger after 6-year battle

After rejecting several previous plans and after six years of study and strife, a merger between Unionville and Sebewaing was finally authorized Monday by voters in both districts.

The vote in Sebewaing was 622 to 389 and in Unionville, 407-311.

First moves towards merger of the two districts started in 1961 when a University of Michigan survey of the Sebewaing-Unionville merger was conducted.

As a result of this study it was recommended that Owengage join with Sebewaing-Unionville.

As a result, many meetings were held with representatives of the three districts, but plans crashed when representatives could not decide on a proper site for the school.

After the three - school merger faded, Unionville and Sebewaing resumed talks.

But Sebewaing was unwilling to give up any of its local school control and at a public meeting voted against a merger, saying that they preferred to build their own school.

This decision apparently opened the door for Owengage, which wanted a larger district for more economical operation, to merge with Unionville. A study was held in the fall of 1964 and early 1965 and a vote held in June 1965. The merger was approved by Owengage but voted down by Unionville.

Meanwhile, Sebewaing proceeded with plans for a high school of their own. Only to be defeated when the issue was placed before the voters.

Back to Unionville came Sebewaing delegates and started another study. Activity was delayed because of the K-12 redistricting in Tuscola and Huron counties, and it was not until last summer that the study started in earnest, resulting in the favorable vote Monday.

Vandals rip 15 mailboxes in area

State Police in cooperation with Cass City Police are looking for vandals who maliciously destroyed 15 mailboxes on North Cemetery Road and on Schwegler Road, north of M-81 Thursday night.

The vandalism was reported by Mrs. Harriet McDonald. According to investigating officers, the boxes were ripped off posts and thrown into a ditch alongside the road. Some of the boxes are still missing.

Several of the boxes were not ripped from the posts but were badly bent and damaged, officers said.

Ruining mailboxes when mail is in them is a Federal offense, authorities explained.

Key to the new district is the site for the proposed new high school, midway between the two towns on M-25 on property owned by Henry Armbruster.

The new district will have an equalized valuation of $28,600,000. (Cass City's valuation is $19,868,000 and Laker district has a valuation of about $41 million.)

The two districts will continue to operate schools on the present basis until the end of the school year.

The voters agreed to have the new district accept the debts of the former individual districts. Unionville's debt was $170,000 and Sebewaing's, $340,000.

The new district will have 1,450 pupils, including 525 in the high school.

Athletic teams will play separately next year.

OWEN-GAGE PROBLEM

The merger poses a problem for Owengage district. All schools in its immediate vicinity have consolidated, leaving the district no place to turn for expansion.

Still possible would be annexation by one of the larger districts surrounding it or a split of the high school district among existing larger districts, if economic conditions made it impossible to proceed alone.

But students drink No drug problem at school-Cleland

Jerry Cleland, councillor at Cass City High School, told members of the WSCS Monday evening that 99 per cent of the pupils at Cass City High were cooperative, but that it was the other one per cent that caused problems.

At Cass City we have no trouble with drugs, he reported, but some of the students have been "experimenting with alcohol", he said.

Cleland was one of a panel of four speaking about the topic "Where Do We Go From Here" under the direction of Mrs. Harry Crandell, moderator.

Others serving were the Rev. James Braid, Mrs. Andrew Kozan and Mrs. Dale Brown.

Two of the recurring themes of the panel were the need for parents to become more involved and the value of the church in a teenager's life.

Forty-two members attended the meeting at the Methodist Church. Group I, Mrs. Alexander and Mrs. Dale Brown, co-chairmen, served the dinner.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Rotary's attempt to bring a cultural series to Cass City has proved successful. Attendance and comments about the first two presentations have been gratifying. Thursday, Feb. 15, the third of the six programs will be offered at Cass City High School.

It is reputed to be the best of the series, James Bauer, publicity director, said when talking about the presentations.

Since the programs are keyed around motion pictures with commentary by the guest speaker, the sound system is important.

All of which is a circuitous way to come to an aspect of the new school that impressed me more than any other.

With new schools all around, one becomes accustomed to the grandeur of spacious gyms, sparkling classrooms, roomy hallways, modern cafeterias and everything else that a new school offers.

Mentally, I was pre-conditioned for this... but not for the excellent sound system. Subconsciously I guess I expected to hear the loud hums, the distorted sound and the static.

And when the sound came out smooth and true, not too loud or too soft, it drives home that everything at the new school is new and top quality.

Frequently you hear parents lament that kids have no idea of the value of money. And they are the world's best at frittering dollars given them by their parents.

But when they start earning it for themselves the picture changes. My kids operate on the theory that my money is theirs to spend and money they earn is theirs to keep.

A neighboring publisher writes that his daughter was given enough money by her grandfather to attend any college for a full four-year ride without stinting. The money is hers without any strings, the publisher reported.

She could blow it on a car, clothes or trips if she desired. The money was HERs to spend.

Instead of going on a spree this teenager is figuring on working summers, taking a spare time job and using the interest on her money to attend school... leaving the principal intact.

Sometimes parents worry too much.

IN SANILAC COUNTY Pringle Road was impassable. Water closed the road to all traffic including a Cass City School district bus. Other flood details, picture, on inside page.

ROTARY'S OBLIGATION TO THE IDEALS OF SCOUTING

When a boy becomes a Scout, he takes an Oath or Promise that "On his honor, he'll do his best TO DO HIS DUTY TO GOD. . . and to keep himself physically strong, mentally awake, and MORALLY STRAIGHT." The twelfth point of the Scout Law states that "A Scout is REVERENT--he is faithful in his religious duties."

What is a boy's duty to God? What is morally straight? How is he faithful in his religious duties? What are his religious duties?

The CHARTER AND BYLAWS OF THE BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA maintains that no boy can grow into the best kind of citizen without recognizing his obligation to God, but Scouting is absolutely nonsectarian in its attitude toward that religious training. Its policy is that the organization or institution with which the Scout is connected shall give definite attention to his religious life.

"In all activities, emphasis shall be placed upon practice in daily life of the principles of the Cub Scout Promise, the Scout Oath, and the Explorer Code. In association with suitable adult leadership, boys registered in the Scout program will be guided to develop traits of character which are expressed in consideration of and help to others, personal courage and above all in lives of useful citizenship."

Cubmasters, Scoutmasters, Explorer Advisors, and men serving on the board of review must impress on boys that living the Oath and Law are as much a requirement as cooking, swimming, camping, or any other skill.

Let us be ever-mindful that our purposes are character development, citizenship training, physical fitness and patriotism; and that all else is simply a means of achieving our aims.

In order for a boy to be a good Scout and to advance, he must recognize his duty to God and do something about it.

Hawks bow to Lakers; prep for Caro Friday

Cass City lost its first conference game in the new high school Friday night as the league leading Lakers of Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port showed too much of everything and posted a convincing 71-56 decision.

The loss chopped Cass City's short win streak at two games as the visitors outbounded, outran and outshot the Hawks after the first quarter.

The Laker game leaves Cass City with just four games left on its regular schedule, against four of the better teams in the league.

Of immediate concern is Friday's game with Caro. Like Cass City, the Tigers have been a hot and cold team, with alternating good and bad nights. Tuesday Frankenmuth comes to town and the Hawks should rate as at least an even bet to win. . . they took the opening game between the two schools.

After Frankenmuth its Marlette Feb. 16 and Vassar, Feb. 23 to close out the regular season.

The Hawks will have to have better nights against these clubs than they did against the Lakers if they are to come up in the winners' circle.

After the first quarter, it was no contest with the Lakers. The Hawks controlled the ball in the first period and exhibited a tight defense. At the end of the period it was 13-11, Hawks.

But this was the last time that Cass City was ahead. The Lakers' aggressive zone defense make Cass City shoot from outside and the green and white controlled the rebounds.

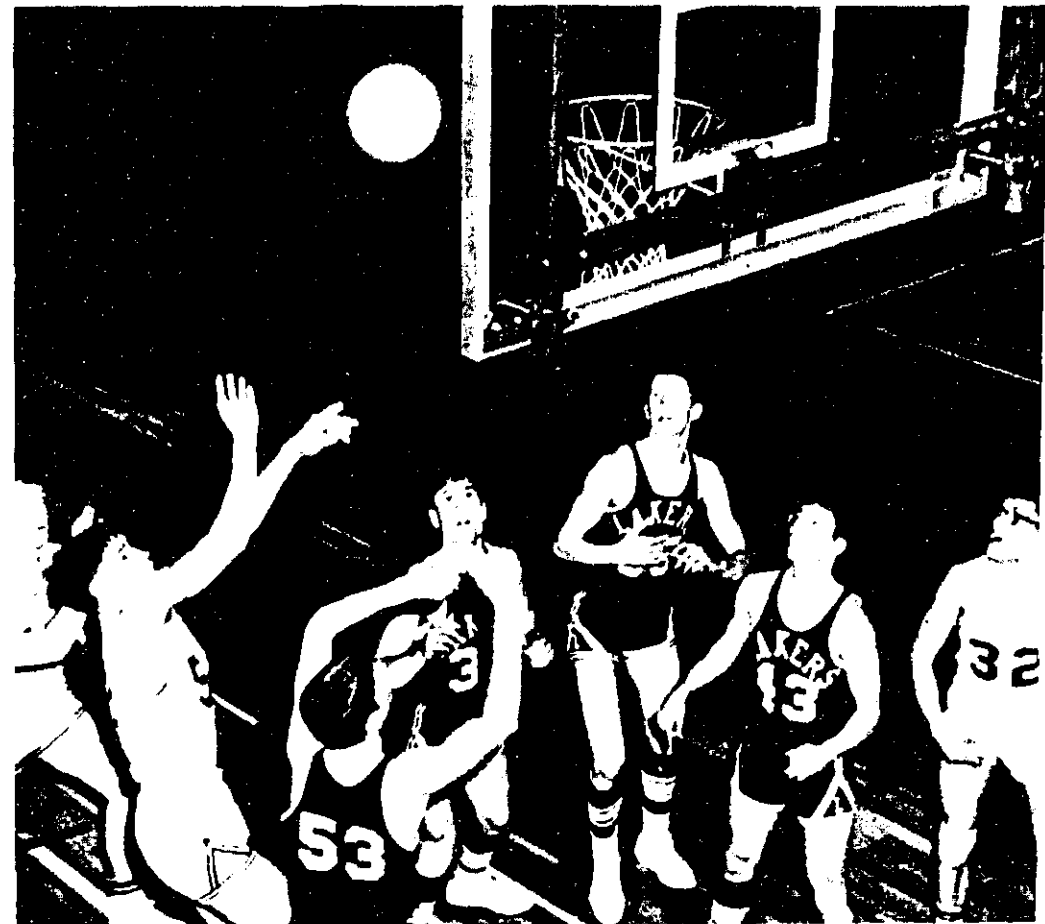

The Hawks were also guilty of defensive lapses in the period and the visitors posted a tremendous 28-11 margin to tuck the game away by halftime with a commanding 39-24 lead.

Cass City held its own in the last half, but it was much, much too late as the visitors coasted home in front.

The Lakers snared 46 rebounds while Cass City was credited with 32. They also sparked from the field with a 46 per cent average as compared to 32 per cent for Cass City. In the free throw department, Cass City posted a slight, 44-42 advantage.

Senior Terry Heck was the leading scorer for the Lakers with 15 points and was a major factor in helping his team control the rebounds. John Maharg posted 17 points for Cass City and Mike Murphy registered 16 points, hitting on his favorite shot from outside the top of the foul circle.

The box score:

Methodists in banner Freshmen bow year; name officers to Frankenmuth

New officers of the Cass City Methodist Church, elected at the annual church conference Sunday, will be taking over after one of the church's more successful years.

The Rev. James Braid, pastor, reported that average church membership increased during the year.

Improvements at the church included complete redecorating of the exterior, new cave troughs, a new furnace pump and many books added to the church library.

Officers who take over in June are: Lay leader, Gih Albee; assistant lay leader, Howard Bacon; co-superintendents of Church School, Richard Dews and Harlan Dickinson, and various commission chairmen: membership, Grant Hutchinson; education, Peg Neltzel; finance, Jack Marshall; Christian social concerns, Doris Jones; missions, Mildred McConkey; worship, Linda Leeson; conference delegate, Keith McConkey, and alternate delegate, Hazel Gallagher.

Others are: treasurer, Elaine Proctor; recording steward, Isabel Wright; hospital and homes steward, Margaret Boag, and secretary of stewardship, Pauline Brown.

Also named were various committees. Chairmen of these committees are: music, John Fahrner; altar, Mildred McConkey; ushers, Stanley Morrell; reception, Jessie Ferguson; pastoral relations, Maynard McConkey; parsonage, Mary Brack; Christian vocations, Helen Baker; nursery, Marilou Dews; auditing, Jack Marshall and Robert Keating; library, Virginia Chisholm.

Senior acolyte is Philip Keating and communion stewards are Mary Hutchinson and Jessie Ferguson.

Frankenmuth's strong Freshman basketball team had little trouble handling Cass City's Frosh raggers, 62-34, last week.

The Eagles jumped out in front in the opening moments of the game and it was no contest after the first period ended. The Hawks were outscored in every period.

Coach John Bifoss said that the team had numerous shots, but couldn't score. We were also out rebounded, Bifoss reported.

Rob Alexander scored 11 points for Cass City and D. Wilkinson scored 16 for the Eagles.

Slate 7th grade tourney at school

Cass City will host a seventh grade invitational basketball tournament Feb. 19-24 at the new high school.

Five Thumb B Conference schools, Caro, Vassar, Frankenmuth, Lakers and Cass City will compete.

The pairings list Caro vs Cass City at 6:30 p. m. and Vassar vs Frankenmuth at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Feb. 19.

The Lakers who drew a bye will play the winner of the Frankenmuth - Vassar game Feb. 20 at 7:30 p. m.

The semi-finals are slated Feb. 21 and the finals Saturday, Feb. 24, at 7:30 p. m.

There will be a losers' bracket for teams defeated in the opening rounds.

SIGHTS LIKE THIS are common in the spring, but rare in mid-winter. Last week's record-breaking warm weather and heavy rains swelled rivers and ditches. The Cass River on Cemetery Road overflowed its banks and was near the top of the recently constructed bridge at its crest. As always when flood conditions prevail, Crawford Road, near the Cass River east of Cass City was also inundated.

Former resident posts 300 game

A former resident of the area, Ken Mathews, 26, of Pontiac hit a 300-game in sanctioned competition last week in the midnight league at Huron Bowl in Pontiac.

A 158-average bowler, he registered the perfect game after hitting 170-179 in the first two games.

On his way to fame, Mathews' eighth, ninth and tenth balls crossed over to the "Brooklyn" side, but the 11th and 12th were solid pocket hits.

He was mobbed by teammates and league members as a good sized crowd watched the house's first 300 game of the season.

Mathews' previous high game was a 230 three years ago.

Mathews is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Mathews of Deford.

Re-evaluate sprays for insect control

By Alfred P. Ballweg

Last year presented some new crop problems and a continuation of most of the old. We also saw the use of new chemical control materials and their application methods.

To start with, flea beetles caused varying degrees of damage on sugar beets. Some fields were damaged to the point of question whether to work the beets up or not.

Closely following this or about this same time, calls started coming in from the pickle growers. They were having striped cucumber beetle troubles. Next came calls regarding slug damage on field beans and cucumber plant diseases.

About this time we thought we would have a breather but no. The weather started to clear up and the soil started to lose excess moisture for normal crop needs. Then the calls really came in. We had bean root rot damage showing up all over the county. Halo blight on colored beans began to occur also. But, to further compound these information needs by the farm operator, cereal leaf beetle problems became evident on oats in the Tuscola and Richville areas of the county.

After the cereal leaf beetle problem ran its course, new crop problems faded out except for some 2,4-D damage on corn and three fields infested with the corn disease called Gibberella. Now, we have these crop problems so which ones are curable or preventable. Bean root rot cannot be chemically controlled as of now.

It is possible to economically control chemically all the mentioned insect problems except for the slugs. It is possible to chemically control foliage diseases of cucumbers, beans and sugar beets but not Gibberella in corn.

This year we saw for the first time large applications of copper compounds for angular leaf spot control on cucumbers. Lesser amounts were used on colored beans to control halo blight.

In the past, our county farm operators purchased farm spraying equipment for the purpose of applying chemical weed control products. The greatest used were the 2,4-D's. In the last six years many new herbicides were released on the market, some of which were not best applicable with the old 2,4-D sprayer equipment.

Three or four years ago we can remember the excitement over the green clover worm and Mexican bean beetle problem. Many farm operators at this time found out whether their sprayer equipment was adequate at this time to cope with this abnormal bean insect outbreak. Last year some of the cucumber and colored bean producers having foliage disease problems found their spraying equipment inadequate for handling the copper compounds available to them.

What I am trying to bring out is that I surely believe, because we have these crop problems and because many of our farm operators will be confronted with sprayer problems, we need to re-evaluate the problems, cures and control equipment.

For instance, controls for both bacterial and fungi crop diseases can require repeated spray applications.

To facilitate the best control a program of preventative measures is necessary. Insect and weed controls both are done with a once a season application of chemicals. Infectious crop diseases spread by means of their following generations and several generations occur during the season. Therefore one must destroy the bacteria or fungi seed before it starts to grow. Then keep repeating the fungicides and bactericides to kill dormant organisms before they attack their host during the entire growing season.

Keep in mind these problems and avail yourself to the Sprayer Clinic being held on Friday, Feb. 16, at the Akron elementary school. From 1:30 through 3:30 p. m. Robert White of your Michigan State University Agricultural Engineering Department, will present farm sprayer information to bring us up to date on these new requirements and the types of sprayers best needed for your crop program needs.

So place this date on your calendar and attend this Farm Sprayer Selection Clinic. You could find out why your spray is not doing the proper job you are expecting.

NFO Schedules supper in Caro

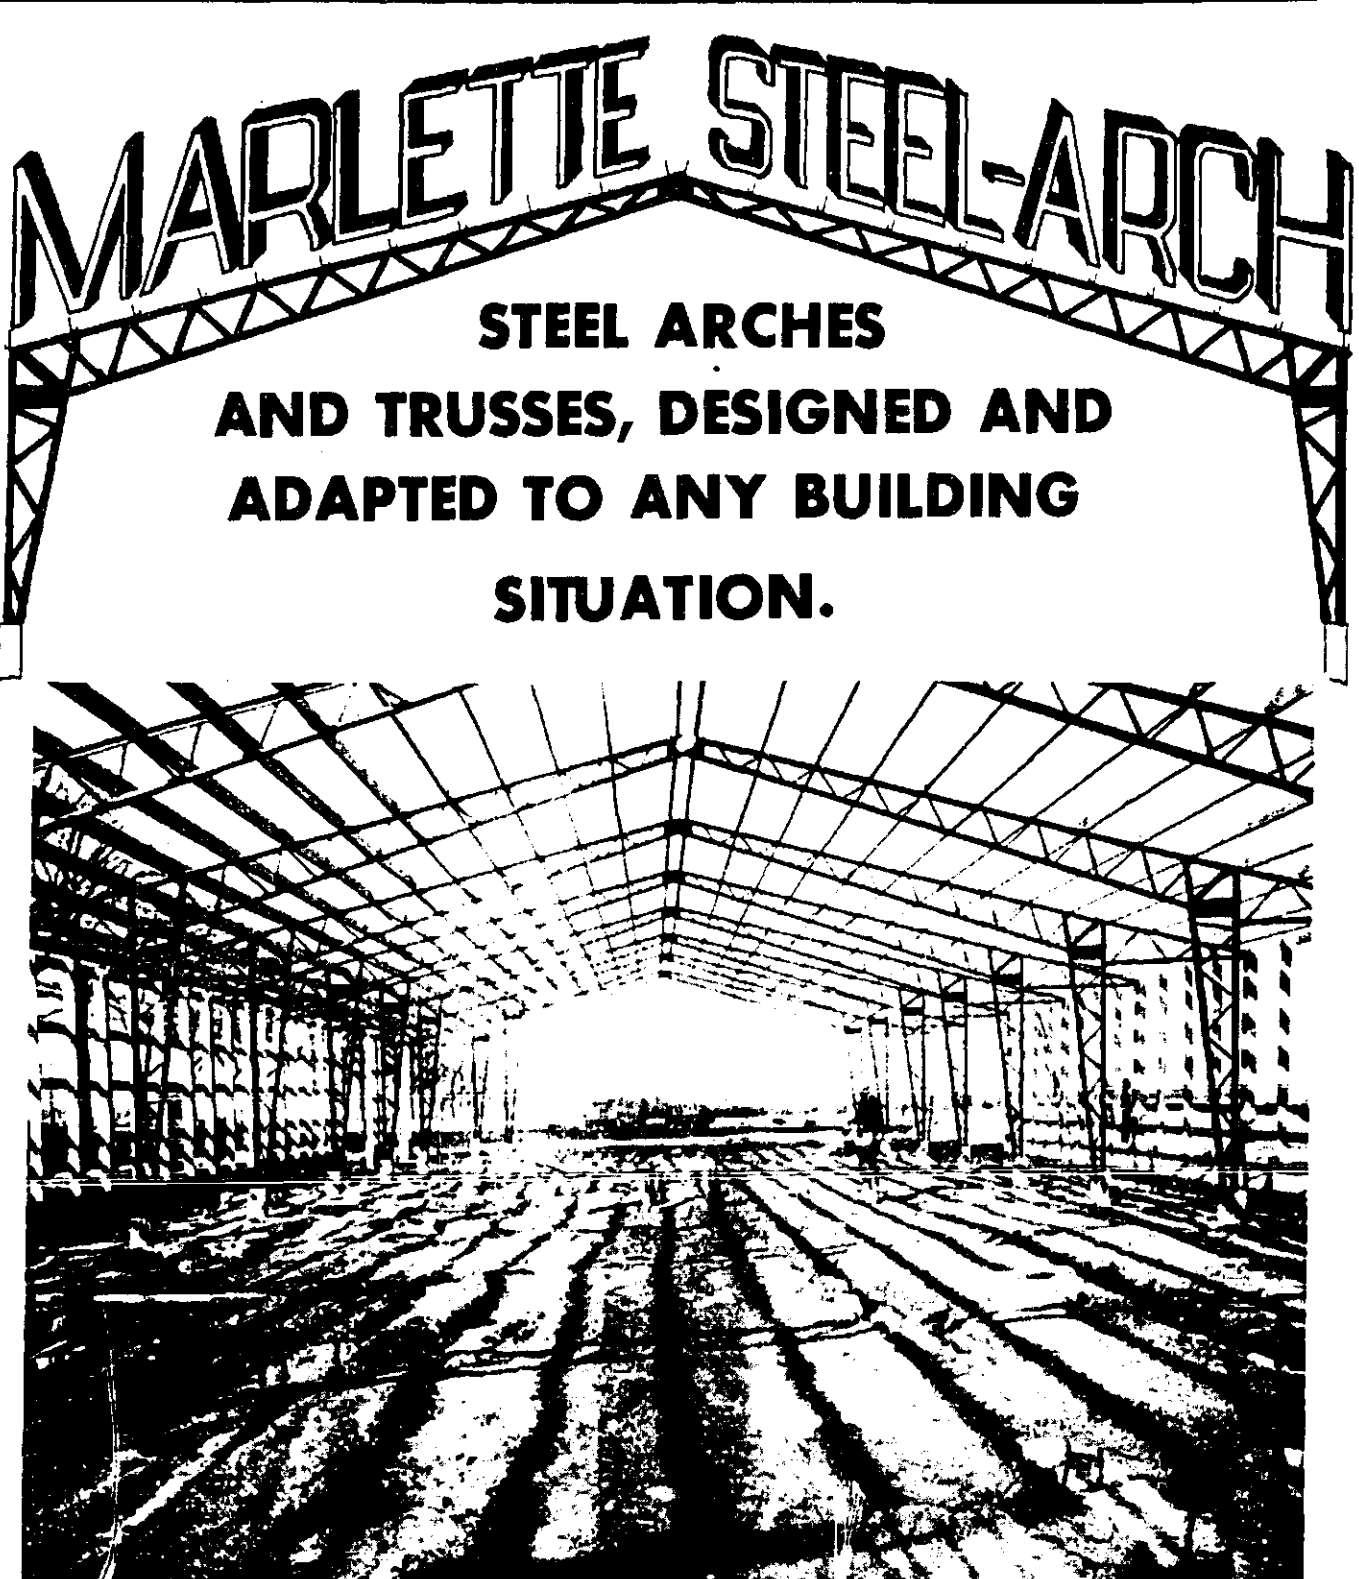

Enard Pfingsten, NFO national vice-president, will be the guest speaker at a ham and beef supper Saturday, Feb. 10, at Caro High School.

Pfingsten joined the NFO at its beginning and has served on the national board of directors since 1960. He has been a national vice-president since 1962.

The dinner in Caro is sponsored by the Tuscola County NFO.

The guest speaker is a farmer in Western Iowa, attended college in Kansas and is a World War II veteran.

Real Estate

KINGSTON AREA: 140 acres of rolling land with a good four bedroom home, nice new storage shed, deep man-made lake ready to plant to fish. Nice wheat crop to go with sale of property.

LARGE BUILDING with living quarters, two bedrooms, full bath, dining and living area, could be enlarged for more living area for rentals or antique shop or you name it. Also has an extra lot. Full price only $6,000 cash.

LARGE HOME in the country, plenty of room for the growing family. This has a barn, garage, granary and has good garden soil. Come in and let's talk price on this one.

ELKLAND TOWNSHIP: 60 acres with a barn and tool shed, well and nearly all tillable. Add this to your present farm for more efficiency. Get more details at office.

79 ACRES with buildings, good clay loam with a good drain for tiling. $23,200 with $11,500 down and $800 per year and interest at 5 1/2%.

120 ACRES worth the asking price of $36,750. Some land is tilled and outlet for more tilling. $10,000 down and $1,000 per year and interest. Why pay the high dollar for buildings that are outdated?

GRANT TOWNSHIP: 80 acres of flat land that could be like a garden to farm. Take a look at this land that would cost you at least $400 per acre in the Saginaw valley, and here the price is $21,000.

120 ACRES with a house and barn with lifetime roofs; land is very good for pasturing beef cattle; about half is tillable. The full asking price is $21,000.

NEAR CASS CITY: 100 acres with some tiles, home with three bedrooms, old barn, good silo. Remember that you are not buying the buildings alone but some good land you can raise cash crops on. $35,000 with $7,000 down and $1,000 interest annually. See me today.

300 ACRES recreational land with about 1 1/2 mile of river through property. Comes with a three-bedroom home and with plenty of other spots that are beautiful to build homes on.

FOUR-BEDROOM home with kitchen with cabinets, living room, dining room, utility off kitchen, full bath and shower, Lennox furnace in basement and one-car garage. If you want a roomy home, see this one at $11,500 with $2,000 down.

THREE-BEDROOM home with two lots, kitchen, pantry, full bath with shower, utility, basement with oil furnace and tank and garage off alley. Full price with two lots $8,000, $2,000 down, or less with one lot.

OLDER HOME that needs some work, three bedrooms, two baths, living room, partial basement, 80 gallon hot water heater. Only $400 down on this. Full price $5,500.

NEARLY NEW home with three bedrooms, excellent kitchen, utility room, living room, all natural gas setup, breezeway and garage. If you are looking for both comfort and economy, don't miss this one. $14,000 with terms.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

VOLUME 61, NUMBER 43

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1968

Pvt. D. Schember completes infantry training in La.

Army Private David R. Schember, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schember of Cass City, completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training Jan. 26 at Fort Polk, La.

His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises including simulated Vietnam conditions and other specialized training.

He is now on furlough and is to report Feb. 19 to Oakland, Calif.

Pvt. Schember was honored at Fort Knox, Ky., at the end of basic training. He was high-scoring in his company for physical proficiency.

Lutheran women install officers

The installation of officers was the opening ceremony at the Lutheran Ladies Aid meeting Monday evening, Feb. 5, at the church. Mrs. Dale Iseler led the installation service.

Mrs. R. C. Eyer, program chairman for Women's Missionary meeting, which followed, led group discussion comparing women in Old Testament times with today's.

Fifteen members attended and the business meeting included plans for group projects this spring.

Mrs. Frank Butler and Mrs. Eyer were hostesses.

Mrs. Gauer hostess to WWS circle

Sixteen were present Monday evening when the Mary Circle of the Woman's Society of World Service, of Salem EUB Church, met with Mrs. Ralph Gauer. Mrs. John Biffoss presided at the business meeting and the lesson, "Faith of Mankind," was presented by Mrs. S. P. Kinn. Mrs. Richard Gaffney was named secretary-treasurer for the group to fill a vacancy. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

THIS WEEK'S free week-end holiday winner is the George McKee family of Decker. The winning ticket was deposited by Mrs. McKee at Croft-Clara Lumber Inc. Presenting Mrs. McKee with the card for the trip is Clifford Croft.

The McKees have two children, Gene, 4, and Paul, 2. Mr. McKee works at Pontiac Motor Co. The family has not decided which of the various Pick motels they will use for the holiday.

Gleaner life membership for Mrs. Turner

Mrs. Kathryn M. Turner of Decker has been awarded a life membership in the Gleaner Life Insurance Society's Viking Club for outstanding field representatives. The announcement was made by John W. Dressler, field vice-president of the Society.

Dressler said Mrs. Turner is one of 14 midwesterners who qualified for annual memberships in 1968. She received the lifetime membership by qualifying for annual memberships for five consecutive years.

Hostetter's Hodgepodge

Breast feeding-a national trend

By Marion Hostetter

The average man never gets any formal education for the most important role he will fill in his lifetime--being a father.

But in Cass City this need not be the case. Any expectant father in the area may receive free instruction about how to be a good father to his new baby . . . with the compliments of Hills and Dales General Hospital.

I'm sorry to be late in bringing this up, but the first of the four sessions of this course was held on Feb. 6. There will be a meeting for women only on Tuesday, Feb. 13; and both parents are invited to attend on Feb. 20 and 27, at 8 p. m. in the hospital.

"Even those who are already parents will find the prenatal classes helpful," says Mrs. James Champion, R.N., who teaches the course. "Once I had a mother in the class who had already had fifteen babies. I told her she ought to be teaching the class in place of me. In the class we share our experiences and learn from one another."

The course includes exercises for the wives, to strengthen and relax their muscles. There's a tour of the hospital facilities, a movie showing a normal delivery, and information about birth control and marital relations. Descriptive literature about equipment for the nursery is available, and the instructor gives hints about how to save money by improvising instead of buying everything new.

The men in the class often respond more noticeably than the women, according to Mrs. Champion. At their first session they sit back with arms folded and an expression on their faces that says, "Well, you dragged me here, but you can't make me like it." Then, as they gradually become aware of the important part they are going to play in the unfolding drama of life, their expressions soften, the couples move closer to each other, and by the end of the class they may be holding hands.

Mrs. Champion attended a four-day conference on the subject last summer in Jackson, and she reports that there is a national trend toward breast feeding. She herself is enthusiastic about this. She thinks this makes for sturdy, good looking babies and trim, well rested mothers. She suggests to her classes, "Why not give breast feeding a try? It won't cost anything, and you may find it to be one of the most gratifying experiences of your life. You can always change to the bottle later if that seems advisable."

Sound-alikes: Zora Day and Laura Reagh, Zella Vyse and Ella Price, Karla Stine and Kally Pine, I'll give a prize to anybody who suggests others.

David Hostetter spent the Christmas holiday touring in the French-speaking part of West Africa with three other Peace Corps Volunteers. He tells us that when it's time to eat in those countries you have only two choices. You can buy a good European meal for the equivalent of $2 or $3. If you decide on African food from the native market, you can eat quite well for a dime.

"One day we had some fried yam, cooked peanut paste (something like peanut butter), bananas, and an orange apiece --total cost 12¢ for the four of us. We drank water flavored with iodine tablets (for water purification)."

A good book for those prenatal classes would be "Husbands and Pregnancy," by William Genne, who lived in Flint before moving to New York. I heard him say that he often asks young people why they want to get married. The usual answer is, "To be happy."

"Wrong answer," says Genne. "If you aren't happy before you are married, a wedding won't transform you. The real reason for marriage is to grow. Learning to live as a couple, then as a family of three, watching children come and grow up and leave home . . . all these will bring you to maturity, and make life rich and full."

One thing that makes you grow up, if it doesn't break you, is to find that real love is much different from the romantic imagining of novels and movies. As one young mother said, "We knew where babies came from, but we didn't know what they were like."

Two things you can depend on:

Take-aparts -- solid state -- copiers -- these might be new ideas you will encounter in shopping for small appliances, says Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb Area Extension Home Economist.

"Take-aparts" are a convenience for the person who wants to repair-it-himself. They might be compared to a child's snap-together toy. Each part of the appliance is a replaceable unit that can be purchased and easily interchanged with the worn out part. You may find a coffeemaker, toaster or iron of this type.

"Solid state" appearing on an appliance indicates it's engineered with an electronic device controlling its speed or operation. Among other things this means the appliance can operate at constantly uniform speeds and at an infinite number of speeds. Instead of an abrupt change from low to medium to high speed, with "solid state" control it can increase in speed as smoothly as your car when you step on the gas.

In equipment with the "solid state" control, several moving parts are replaced by one "solid" or non-moving part. This means the equipment can be smaller and lighter in weight. In the houseware line, it's being used in some mixers, blenders and electric knives.

"Cordless" equipment makes kitchen appliances more mobile. Electric knives, portable mixers and kitchen clocks are among the appliances available in the cordless style. However, the added batteries tend to make the appliances heavier.

Two types of cordless equipment are available -- those with disposable batteries and those with rechargeable ones. Usually featured with disposable batteries are novelty items such as towel dispensers or flour sifters. Heavier, more costly equipment usually relies on the rechargeable batteries for operation.

To prevent thefts of cash, telephone pay stations use remote money banks in which the deposited coin is released into a steel tube that is built into a nickel stainless steel back-board.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

On account of February being the month of birthdays, the fellows at the country store Saturday night was saying a few words about Lincoln and Washington and such February heroes that went to their reward long afore what Ed Doolittle always calls the "Dread Dawn of the New Deal."

It was Ed that right off wanted to git Abe Lincoln on the agenda. So while he still had the floor from reporting on the Groundhog predictions for February weather, he went on to recall some of them "immortal words" from Lincoln. Clem Webster says Ed always uses that term when he sets out to quote Lincoln.

Anyhow, Mister Editor, Ed said ole Abe always enjoyed telling the story about the bullfrog, so he used that for the

Hold services for Mrs. F. Hartwick

Mrs. Olive Hartwick, 77, of Deford died in Hills and Dales Hospital Friday, Feb. 2. The widow of Fred Hartwick, she had been hospitalized five weeks in Flint and Cass City.

She and Mr. Hartwick were married in Clifford April 22, 1908, and they made their home in Novesta township where he was a lifelong resident. Mr. Hartwick died June 12, 1948. Born in Sanilac county June 23, 1890, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Gihlard.

Survivors are: one daughter, Mrs. Robert (Doris) Jordan of Flint; four sons, Arthur and Harry, both of Deford, Grant of Flint and Commander Gordon Hartwick, stationed at Jacksonville, Fla.

Others are: two sisters, Mrs. Etta Haines of Clearwater, Fla., and Mrs. Walter Petrie of East Jordan; one brother, Russell Gihlard of East Jordan; nine grandchildren, and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Monday, Feb. 5, in Little's Funeral Home. Arnold Brown of Detroit officiated at the services and burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Lincoln lesson of the year. It seems this bullfrog fell into a wagon rut and couldn't jump out no matter how hard he tried. He called for his friends and they pulled and pulled on him but couldn't git him out. Final, the friends went off and left him. The next day the ole bullfrog was at his usual place on the banks of the pond. His friends was surprised, and they said they thought he couldn't git out of the rut. "I couldn't git out," said the bullfrog, "but I heard a wagon coming and had to." Ed was of the opinion we got a heap of them bullfrogs living off the country simply because they ain't never heard the wagon coming.

Clem said he was glad to git the Lincoln lesson out of the way for another year. He said he didn't know where the bullfrog story come from on account of Ed give Lincoln and the Bible credit for everthing he heard. Clem was ready to change the subject, so he announced he was planning to change his name from Webster to Aaron. When the fellows wanted to know how come, Clem said he would live longer.

He explained he had saw where folks that has names beginning way down the alfabet has more ailments than them with names like Adams and Brown. He said the world was gitting so crowded folks had to stand in line for everthing from groceries to Communism. They usual line up alfabetically and the Websters had to wait till the cows come home, and they wind up with heart attacks, very close veins and such, Clem said he reckoned that was why ole Josh Clodhopper was so healthy. Josh said he didn't know nothing about this alfabet study but said he ain't never wanted nothing bad enough to stand in line for it except his discharge from the Army in 1919. Ed said he was glad to hear about the study on account of he'll git the last word at the sessions. Clem Aaron, he said, would be the first one out the store door.

Personal, Mister Editor, I'm going to keep my name and take my chances.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Friday Deford met Evergreen in a game of basketball. The lead was bounced back and forth between the two teams until the finish. Finally Deford defeated Evergreen 42 to 38. Top scorers for Deford were Danny Whittaker and Donald Karr.

Evergreen

by: Kathy LaPeer & Ann Turner

Well, Evergreen students have started to make their Valentines since February is here. They are also making silhouettes of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington in their art classes.

Evergreen students had exams last week! It seems kind of odd, since most students at Cass City don't start taking exams until they are in seventh grade. On the other hand, it will probably give them an advantage over their classmates when they are in seventh grade in that they will have a better idea of what to expect.

After two weeks in Marlette hospital, Mrs. Bailey has returned to school. Everyone is glad to have her back, no doubt. The students were also happy to find that Mrs. Waun is going to continue as second and third grade teacher for the second semester.

Monday a new semester began. Along with the change of semesters came a change in school reporters. Beginning next week, there will be two new reporters for this section of the column.

Kathy and Ann did a wonderful job during the first semester and I wish to thank them for their help!

CAMPBELL ELEMENTARY

The fourth graders are studying Africa. To add to their studies, they had a special treat Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Margaret Scoville brought curios and slides that she and her husband had collected while they were teaching in Africa.

The whole school is beginning to take on the "February Look." Pictures and silhouettes of Lincoln, Washington, and Edison can be found throughout the school - not to mention the valentines! Mrs. Profit's third grade has a very nice bulletin board decorated with designs of all descriptions using the red, white, and blue colors of our flag of the United States.

Since this is the month of many famous people's birthdays, many of the teachers are using it to have their students read biographies. (Some excuse!!)

The Elementary school had a filmstrip taken of their decorations and rooms at Christmas time. The filmstrip turned out great, and everyone enjoyed seeing all the rooms as they were in December. Some were thinking that February might be a good time to make another filmstrip!

CASS CITY INTERMEDIATE

The schedule for the seventh grade basketball tournaments has been set up. The games will be held Feb. 19-24. On Feb. 19 Caro will play Cass City and Vassar will play Frankenthum. The rest of the schedule will be built on the winners of these games. The finals will be on Feb. 24 at 7:30.

In the showcases of the Intermediate School there are some examples of the leather work that some of the Junior High students have made in their Industrial Arts classes. The students have to design their own material and do everything from scratch - Quite a bit different than making something out of a ready-made kit!

C. C. H. S.

Last week was something else! It was the week of semester exams. The exams were given on Wednesday and Thursday, and Monday and Tuesday were taken up for review. The semester exams count one-fourth when it comes to averaging out the semester grade, so you might say they're important.

The best part of the two-day test schedule is that during one of the two days you could sleep in until at least ten. That's because instead of having our first hour tests the first thing, the students which have a fourth hour class have theirs first. On Thursday the students who had a fifth hour class went first. (Fourth and fifth hours are lunch hours, and those who had lunch didn't have to come for the first hour of school!)

We had an hour and twenty-five minutes to write each test. If we got done before that time (in other words if we gave up) we still had to stay in the classroom until the "hour" was over.

Cass City didn't have school Friday because the teachers had to correct their tests, average grades, mark the report cards, enter them on a file, not to mention all the other odds and ends! I think for the next January semester, the exams should be given on Tuesday and Wednesday so the teachers can have Thursday and Friday to work. I'm sure all the students wouldn't mind having a two-day semester break instead of one!

Would you believe half of the school year is over? Only about 4 1/2 months to go. (It's still too early to count the days.)

CLUB NEWS

The French Club had its first meeting in the new school Tuesday.

Thursday night (6:30-8:30) the GAA had another practice session. The Juniors and Seniors challenged the Freshmen and Sophomores to a game of basketball - Naturally, the Juniors and Seniors won!

TID BITS

Some students always luck out! Quite a few had fifth hour lunch and sixth hour study hall, so they could sleep in until noon Thursday!

The nice part about the exam schedule was that we had an hour for lunch. A lot of students took advantage of it and went down town to eat.

I think Mr. Peterson, the Chemistry teacher, got his semesters mixed up. He must have given his Chemistry classes next semester's test instead of this one, because it was Greek to us!

There's more hard work than luck in most success stories. Advertise it in The Chronicle.

Stanley E. Hoppe finishes basic Seaman Apprentice Stanley E. Hoppe, USN, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Hoppe of Hadley Road, Decker, has graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center at Great Lakes, Ill.

In the first weeks of naval service he studied military subjects and lived and worked under conditions similar to those he will encounter on his first ship or first shore station. He studied seamanship, as well as survival techniques, military drill and other subjects.

Check grain to avoid storage loss

Many farmers put three to fifteen thousand dollars worth of grain in storage in the fall, and then seldom or never look at it during the winter months, says Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent.

The result can be costly reductions from dollar per bushel market prices to 50 and 60 cent per bushel feed prices in a matter of two or three weeks, under severe conditions.

Ballweg lists the following warning signals to look for: --Crusting in top grain layers

--Condensation, frost or ice on crib walls or roof
--Darkened grain or surface spots
--Odors -- of -- mold-growth, heating or sourness
Evidence of these conditions indicates insufficient aeration in the storage, the county agent warns. Sufficient aeration is being maintained when airflow ranges from 1/40 to 1/10 cubic feet per minute per bushel.

Proper airflow is possible with several systems. Before the grain is put into the bins, floor or vertical ducts can be placed in the bins and small fans will supply necessary air movement.

Once the grain is in storage, an auger-type tube unit can be put into the grain from the top or side for aeration. After literally "drilling" its way into the grain, the unit draws air from the grain through perforations in the side of the tube.

Or, if grain quality is threatened, grain can be moved from one bin to another or from the bottom to the top of the bin by mechanical equipment. The county agent stressed the importance of checking grain storages regularly.

Too many farmers turn off the drying system, and don't bother to check the grain again. This could prove extremely disastrous this year when moisture content was particularly high.

You have to travel fast today just to stay where you are.

It pays to watch the time, but that doesn't mean the clock.

An obstacle is the thing that always shows up when you take your eyes off the goal.

Tractor program for 4-H Club

A 4-H Tractor program has been organized as a division of the Cass City 4-H Livestock Club, according to their leader Dick Carpenter.

The project club has an enrollment of 16 farm boys who are interested in tractor operation and maintenance.

"The workshops stress care, more than repairs of modern tractors and farm machinery," Carpenter said. The group has met at Marshall Implement and Rabideau Motors, with Damm's slated for the next meeting, to give "on the spot" demonstrations.

In the first part of the program, members learn about safety, the operator's manual, air cleaners, cooling systems and others. Later they will have experiences with the care, adjusting and operation of farm implements.

Habits form the rails on which the train of life travels.

Torino...for people who know there's more to a performance car than painted stripes.

1968 Torino GT Fastback (Top)
1969 Torino GT Hardtop (Bottom)

Anyone can paint stripes on a car. Ford's performance champs earn their stripes the hard way. Torino swept the first five places in the Riverside 500. It's the Pace Car for the Indy 500. It's the hottest-selling new car in the country! Fairlane took first place in its class for braking and for economy in the Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials—in fact, Ford Motor Company cars won more classes than all other manufacturers combined! If it's performance you want, ride with a winner! See the man with Better Ideas... your Ford Dealer.

FACTS ABOUT THE 1968 TORINO

When Torino takes the first five spots in the Riverside 500, first time out, you know it's tough! These cars, of course, were driven by professionals and were modified to meet the special demands of competition. But, the same kind of basic durability and maneuverability are built into every Torino we make. So if you want stripes, get 'em on the car that gives them meaning! Choose from three GT models—fastback, hardtop and convertible. All with a 289-cu. in. V-8, wall-to-wall carpeting, all-vinyl interiors, styled steel wheels and wide-ovals. Or choose the regular hardtop or 4-door sedan. Like the GT's, they've got a new, longer, 118 in. wheelbase for smoother riding comfort, more room and more trunk space. You can even have a Torino Squire wagon, with 2-way Magic Doorgate. See America's hottest newcomer at your Ford Dealer's soon!

Law limits enforcement of snowmobiling in Michigan

Snowmobiling, Michigan's newest winter sport, has growth pains similar to those suffered by the boating industry a few years ago. The burgeoning business has reached $150 million in national sales and Michigan will have nearly 75,000 units skimming across the snow by the end of this winter.

The exploding industry has also brought public concern over lack of regulations governing use of the snow machines. Michigan State Police indicate they were flooded with complaints last year, the first season of popular snowmobiling in the southern part of the state. Lieutenant Bryce Gray said the complaints included driving on public highways; racing across pine plantations, breaking off tops of seedling pines which kills young trees; breaking fences to travel cross-country. Two other problems are recognized: the noise of the vehicle and its ability to reach isolated cottages, making them easy prey for burglary.

Little has been done to regulate snowmobiling, although some state agencies recognize the growing problems and the need for control. A Department of Conservation spokesman pointed out that discussions of the situation have resulted in few programs. The department wants to maximize the enjoyment of the sport but minimize public damage and inconvenience.

Letter to Editor

Dear Mr. Haire,

I have a question to ask you about the three Saginaw youths arrested following several larcenies in Ubly. Why was it that the Bad Axe paper had a much better write up about it than you did? The Chronicle said nothing about Chief Carl Palmateer pulling his hat over his eyes and being slumped in the patrol car as if sleeping as traffic passed by him. When he saw the license number in question gave chase. Later when Palmateer pulled them over the driver told Palmateer that the officer in the last town was sleeping on the job. Palmateer corrected their misconception and placed the trio under arrest.

I would think our local paper would of had the best write up rather than Bad Axe since they were arrested over here. Unless the Bad Axe paper is wrong.

Yours truly,
Earl Woolner

It developed 18 snowmobile trails in the northern part of the state and is in the process of laying out trails in southern Michigan. The U. S. Forest Service also has developed trails on Federal lands.

Only two conservation laws currently apply to the sport. One prohibits hunting from the vehicles. The second limits vehicle travel in certain northern state areas.

Lack of law limits police enforcement. State troopers have been instructed to ticket any snowmobile operating on a public highway for not having license plates. If the vehicle owner figures some way to register his snowmobile and affixes plates, he will be ticketed for insufficient equipment: brakes, taillights, stop lights, etc.

The Secretary of State also feels snowmobiles should be kept off public roads. James Palmer, legislative agent for the office, says snowmobiles cannot be licensed under present laws because they do not meet requirements of the safety vehicle code. Legislation which may be proposed should consider registration of the vehicles, minimum equipment standards, and mandatory safety inspection prior to use, Palmer suggests.

Two bills currently under legislative consideration provide for registering and defining snowmobiles but do not include operating restrictions.

Recognizing the need for public control, the Michigan Snowmobile Association suggested legislation and recently met with legislators and state agency personnel. The association proposes that snowmobiles be prohibited from all public highways; that a minimum operator's age be set; that the vehicles be registered with the state and carry visible registration numbers, and that other restrictions which normally apply to moving vehicles be considered.

Marshall Sayles, publisher of the Michigan Snowmobiler, maintains that most snowmobile operators are responsible citizens, "usually family men." He supports this contention by pointing to the large investment required to purchase a snow machine and popular use of the vehicle for family sport.

Sayles feels that violations do exist and that regulation is necessary if the sport is to continue in popularity and gain public support.

resorts. Some of Michigan's summer "dude ranches" have already made plans to remain open as snowmobile lodges.

These will operate similar to ski resorts, offering guests board, lodging, racing tracks and wilderness trails. Such attractions can do much to get snowmobiles out of populated areas, away from pine plantations and other restricted public lands.

The compact nickel-cadmium batteries used for cordless household appliances need no maintenance and can be recharged thousands of times simply by plugging them into conventional outlets.

More than seven tons of nickel, it is estimated, are contained in each cubic mile of sea water. Efforts are now being made to recover the versatile metal economically.

"If It Fitz ..."

Could I be 17th best dressed?

By JIM FITZGERALD

Gov. George Romney has been named one of the country's 16 best dressed men by the Fashion Foundation of America. I was left off the list again.

That burns me. That really burns me.

I was watching George on TV the other day. He was campaigning in New Hampshire. It was January and it was cold. George was outside and you could see his breath. You couldn't see his topcoat because the gorgeous man wasn't wearing one.

George was surrounded by people bundled to their ears. A couple of them could barely see between their wool mufflers and their fur hats. But there shivered our governor in a lightweight suit. He couldn't even put his hands in his pockets because he was busy shaking strange mittens.

My mother and the TV commercials insist this is a sure way to catch a cold. It would be terrible if Romney got sick. Who would run Michigan? (A little humor there, folks).

If you asked Romney why he courts pneumonia along with votes, he'd probably tell you he's more comfortable that way. Don't believe it. The truth is, the governor is only doing what most politicians do. The idea is to stand out from the crowd. If you're campaigning on a beach full of bathing suits, wear an overcoat. If you're chasing the Alaskan vote, wear a Palm Beach suit. If it's a formal party, attend in shirt-sleeves. No matter what the occasion, never wear a hat unless it has 3-foot feathers in it.

All of which is politics, and ok with me. I can appreciate the value of packaging a product so that it stands out from the rest of the canned peas on the shelf. When someone asks, "Which one is the governor?" he should not get the answer: "He's one of those 15 birds in the dark suits and tweed hats." Instant identification is desired, such as: "He's the guy wearing shoulder pads and helmet to play marbles."

Well. But what's with the Fashion Foundation of America? Romney may well be a cleverly dressed candidate, but if he's one of our country's best dressed men, I'm a slob. And I can't be a slob because I recently bought a double-breasted suit.

I couldn't believe it when the smooth salesman suggested I "slip into the latest thing, a double-breasted." The last time I wore a double-breasted was about 20 years ago. It was semizoot, with the coat hanging almost to the knees and the lapel stretching from my left shoulder to my right thigh. And the padding in those shoulders! I remember meeting a girl at a party while I was wearing that magnificent suit. She was obviously impressed with my build. The next time I saw her I was in my shirt-sleeves. She said she remembered meeting my big brother at a party.

Anyway, I am intimidated by suit salesmen. I figure they have got to know a lot more about menswear than I do because I buy 3 suits in 7 years and I don't read Playboy for the Botany facts. This guy said double-breasted were it and no, I didn't look fatter in it, I looked dignified. When my friends saw me in this suit, he said, they'd know that here was a man who knew how to dress at the height of fashion.

So I bought and here I am at the height of fashion, and there is George wearing no coat in New Hampshire in January. But he's best dressed and I'm just another slob, ignored in my double-breasted suit. I didn't even get honorable mention.

I was brought up reading Horatio Alger books, believing firmly in the democratic way of life where the lowest shoe shine boy can reach the top if he tries hard enough. Therefore I refuse to believe the Fashion Foundation chooses its best dressed men by who they are, rather than what they wear.

After all, the other 15 best dressed included such unknowns as General Westmoreland, Frank Sinatra, John F. Kennedy Jr. and Lyndon Johnson.

Now look what I've done. I've thrown up all over my new double-breasted suit.

When you stop to think, don't forget to start again.

Behind the Counter
Vitamins-

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has just completed a ten-year study of American eating habits. It was found that one-fourth of the diets were low in calcium, one-fifth were low in vitamin C, and one-sixth were low in vitamin A and iron. This doesn't mean we are an under-nourished nation but that much of the food we eat doesn't meet our basic health needs.

For example, it was noted that the consumption of artificial fruit juices (without vitamin or mineral additives) had doubled in the last decade, and that we are eating 65 percent more sweet baked goods. Filling, but not particularly healthy.

Food, in addition to providing human system with nourishment should also contain elements that enable the body to use these nutrients. This is the process scientists call "metabolism." What worries the nutritionists is that many of the most popular foods in our diet lack the vitamins and minerals that are needed to metabolize those foods. In other words, they provide us with calories but no nourishment.

The nutritionists are in favor of enriching food with nutrients, and they also point out the need for supplementary vitamins to combat the intake of "empty calories." Your doctor will be happy to recommend one of the many high-quality multivitamin products that are now available. We stock most of these because they are essential for good health, and yet cost only a few cents a day.

A Fortress services held Wednesday

Arthur R. Fortress, 65, of Kelly Rd., Cass City, died Sunday, Feb. 4, in Hills and Dales Hospital where he was a patient for five days.

Born in Chicago, Ill., Jan. 6, 1903, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fortress. He married Miss Hilda Kempf in Utica Nov. 22, 1939, and they made their home there moving to this area 17 years ago.

Surviving are his widow; two sisters, Mrs. Mazie Snider of Corunna and Miss Hazel Fortress of Detroit, and one brother, Henry of Roseville. Funeral services were to have been held at Little's Funeral Home Wednesday afternoon. Rev. James Braid officiated and burial was to be in Utica cemetery.

Local FFA plans corn sales day

The Cass City FFA chapter met Thursday, Feb. 1, at 8:00 p. m. The group decided to have a roller skating party Feb. 15 at Bad Axe.

FFA plans to schedule a corn sales day when the club will sell seed corn to area farmers. A summer trip was also discussed.

District contests were to be held Feb. 8 at Caro. Included were contests in demonstration, public speaking, farm forum and parliamentary procedure.

There are many stop signals on the road to success.
