

Love-ins, dirty talking, smoking on buses

Drivers protest actions as traffic hazard

AT WORK - Marian Brown (top) and Harriet Creason.

Love-ins, dirty talking, smoking and unruly, undisciplined kids are making riding of buses more hazardous daily, three freshmen lady bus drivers charged this week in an exclusive interview with the Chronicle.

Gravely concerned about the condition and up in arms with the apathy of some parents are Mrs. Marian Brown, Mrs. Harriet Creason and Mrs. Jeannette Lapeer.

Driving a bus is a grave responsibility, they said, and a bus driver's attention should be devoted exclusively to seeing that the children get home without accidents.

But when you have to continually be looking around and telling the kids to sit down, be quiet or watching for vandalism it's impossible to be just watching the road.

The drivers are especially bitter with parents who won't support them with their children. Here's an example of what we are up against, the ladies said. A seat chart was drawn for one bus to place the children where it would be best for all concerned. When a substitute was driving, the chart was taken, crumpled up and destroyed. The boy admitted it and the driver called the parents.

Instead of looking into the matter, the dad said, "you can't prove anything, so don't bother me."

And what's more, Mrs. Brown said, the condition is getting worse. One boy took all of the bolts out of one of the seats. Another is a smoker. It's a common occurrence to have one of the students swear at us, said Mrs. Lapeer.

UNRULY MINORITY

The drivers were quick to point out that it was a small minority who were causing the problem for everyone.

Most of the kids are pretty nice, they feel, but the ones who aren't are making bus driving unsafe for everyone.

If it keeps up there certainly will be an accident, they feel.

THE SOLUTION

What's to be done about it? The drivers say that there has to be more discipline and more help from the parents. The parents have to make their kids mind the drivers and back up whatever the drivers request, they explained.

We get good cooperation from the administration. Mr. (Jerry) Cleland, Mr. (Robert) Stickle and Mr. (Donald) Crouse all do whatever they can to help . . . but it's not enough.

One change that could help if the schedule could be arranged, the drivers feel, is for the younger students not to have to sit in the bus too long before the bus starts.

Some of them are on the bus about a half hour before they leave the school grounds and this makes them restless, Mrs. Creason said.

Each of us took a 12-hour driver training course before we started and the teacher there said that bus discipline was one of the major safety hazards and the major problem confronting drivers today.

How right he was, they concluded.

Suggested safety rules

What should be done to help prevent accidents?

By following simple safety rules, local drivers feel that accidents can be avoided. If parents would help enforce these rules, they said, the problem would vanish.

Twelve safety rules as outlined by a University of Illinois safety specialist are:

1. Get to the bus stop on time. Leave home early. Don't rush.
2. Stay off roads. Whether you are walking or waiting for a bus, don't compete with cars for highway space. Cross only at corners.
3. Use bus handrails. This will prevent slipping, falling, or tripping.
4. Take a seat promptly. A jerky start may throw you into a seat or on the floor causing injury.
5. Keep aisles clear. Hold books, lunch boxes, and other belongings on your lap. Keep feet and legs under your seat so others won't trip.
6. Hold on if you must stand. Generally, there are handles on seats or straps suspended from ceiling.
7. Keep windows closed. Open them only when the bus driver gives permission. Never stick your head or arm outside a window.
8. Keep quiet. It is important for the driver to hear, as well as see, especially at railroad crossings.
9. Save trash. Keep it for a waste can or basket. Never throw things in, at, or out of a bus.
10. Act your age. Don't horse around and distract the bus driver.
11. Stand clear of the bus after getting off. Buses have mirrors so the driver can see you, but only if you stand clear of the bus. If you must cross in front, walk at least 10 feet away so the driver knows when to proceed.
12. Obey the driver. Your life is in his hands.

Pair protest curb costs

Cliff Ryan and Harold Guinther, former councilmen and residents of West Street, appeared before the Cass City Village Council Tuesday night to protest the village's method of charging property owners for curb and gutter.

Guinther and Ryan reported that they had been trying to circulate a petition for curb and gutter on West but had run up against a stone wall of opposition when informed that it would cost the property owner 110 per cent of the cost.

"I can sell owners on paying for the cost," Guinther said, "but not 10 per cent over the cost."

President Lambert Althaver said that the rate was established to cover the cost of seeding and filling back of the curb after the work was done. He also explained that the curb and gutter charge was actually 40 per cent of the total cost of the job.

The backdrop to the curb and the fill and grading work is not charged, he said, as it is in many villages. Both Ryan and Guinther said that it would be much easier to explain if the cost were 100 per cent of the total cost of the job including the work behind the curb, instead of 110 per cent of the curb and gutter cost.

The council agreed to think it over, but in discussion after the two men had left, decided that the wording as presently used more clearly defined the policy and decided not to change the petition wording.

NOW ACADEMIC

In any case, the petition would not have secured any action for possibly three years. There is no money for this in this year's budget and it is third on the list of "must" streets in the council's overall planning.

The council curb and gutter plans this year center around Oak Street.

TREE PLANTING

Bernard Ross reported plans for planting 2,160 pine trees as a screen at the new dump. Planned are seedlings of three species of Pines available from the State Conservation Department. The trees are expected to cost about $90. Ross said that he had promised assistance from Lyle Clarke, agricultural instructor, who said a class would plant some of the trees, and from the Boy Scouts, as a community project.

Planting multiflora rose as a screening hedge was discarded when Trustee D. E. Rawson said that they require a good deal of attention to be effective.

The pines will be planted in three rows with each tree about eight feet apart, if conservation department plans are followed.

Village valuation climbs

Although the tax rate remained constant this year, the village will receive $1,851,200 more money in local taxes due to an increase in valuation. The council set the tax rate at 13 mills in its regular session Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

Mac O'Dell, assessor, said that valuation increased $142,400 during the year.

The figures:
1967	1968
Real $4,884,400	Real $4,941,800
Personal $1,768,206	Personal $1,853,200
Total tax went from $6,652,600 to $6,795,000.

Smoke damage heavy in fire

Heavy smoke damage was reported in a fire Thursday evening at the Darwin Curtis home in Deford. Members of the Elkland Township Fire Department which fought the blaze said that the fire was caused by a defective oil space heater.

A tank truck and two pumps battled the blaze and damage was estimated at $3,000.

Danger of "hard" pesticides outlined

Dirty seven could be fatal

Hard pesticides are the most alarming threat to natural resources that this nation has ever faced, Thomas I. Nederveld, game biologist from the Michigan Department of Conservation, said Tuesday in a talk to Rotarians in Cass City. Threats of fire, pestilence and plague are as nothing compared to the sinister attack of these pesticides which kill birds, animals and may be extremely harmful to humans, Nederveld said.

The biologist said that the "dirty seven" are DDT, heptachlor, lindane, aldrin, endrin, dieldrin and chlordane. He said that non-persistent chemicals are available for insect control that are not dangerous to animals or birds.

He pointed out that the hard pesticides have a half life of 20 years (still retain half of their original potency after 20 years).

The conservation department is waging an all-out battle to have the Michigan legislature pass laws forbidding the use of the hard pesticides.

Farmers use several of the hard chemicals, Nederveld said, but DDT is not one of them. Already DDT is banned around milking parlors as a

Week-end open house at jail

Tuscola County Sheriff Hugh Marr this week reported that there would be an open house at the jail in Caro this week end.

Visitors are invited from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Saturday and 1 to 5 p. m. Sunday, Marr said.

The open house will feature a tour of the recently completed new wing of the facility, the first time it has been opened to the general public.

Marr said that free coffee and donuts would be served to guests.

1000 watt radio station to open

Sanilac county will soon join Huron and Tuscola counties with a radio station of its own, according to an announcement this week by George E. Benko of the Sanilac Broadcasting Co.

The company received approval last week from the Federal Communications Commission for the construction of station equipment. Call letters for the new station will be WMIC and headquarters will be in Sandusky.

The new station is expected to be powered with 1000 watts, the same as the Bad Axe Station. Benko said that the station is expected to cover all of Sanilac and Huron counties and substantial parts of St. Clair, Lapeer and Tuscola counties.

Benko said that the station is expected to cover all of Sanilac and Huron counties and substantial parts of St. Clair, Lapeer and Tuscola counties.

Elkland tops in tax collections

Mac O'Dell, township treasurer, again has the top collection rate in Tuscola county. O'Dell reported this week that 98.39 per cent of all taxes due have been turned over to the county treasurer.

The record is slightly better than the percentage posted last year which also was the county's best, O'Dell explained.

Cable TV seen here in fall

Jim McCoy of Thumb Video Co. reported this week that his plans for supplying cable TV to Cass City are progressing well and he hoped to have a joint operation in Caro and Cass City in operation by fall.

He appeared Tuesday night before the council to tell of the progress. Still pending for the company is formal council approval. It is expected to be passed without difficulty as soon as a couple of minor points concerning performance bonds are established to the council's satisfaction.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

In the past I've boasted that the Chronicle very frequently turns down advertising because it fails to meet the standards of the paper.

Red faced, I'll admit that one slipped by last issue. It was a small advertisement from a reputable advertising agency. . . and I guess a legal ad. But, as I was informed by a half dozen readers, it is a gimmick ad to peddle smut.

The Chronicle has informed the agency to take us off their list.

If there is any rhyme or reason about bugaboos it is that if you have one . . . you're almost certain to have another.

Two weeks ago we ran an anniversary advertisement for Cass City Crop Service. The headline read: Now . . . Years in Cass City and Still Growing.

What happened was that the numeral 3 fell off the ad. . . Bossman Clinton Law said good naturedly that he was still being ribbed about it last week.

The Farm Bureau and other farm organizations seem to be gradually swinging to a philosophy that has been a basic tenet of the National Farm Organization (NFO). It is that the farmer will have to set his price in the marketplace rather than take what the buyer offers.

I've long felt that this phase of the program was bound to be adopted sooner or later. . . and there are signs that the day is not far away.

Ed Deering brought in an article from the Tuscola County Advertiser in Caro that reports the NFO says that the grower gets $1.02 per bushel for corn and a box of corn flakes at 43 cents means that the bushel cost would be $21.07.

Wheat at $1.45 a bushel and a box of puffed wheat at 33 cents translates to $63.36 per bushel to the consumer.

With these figures before them and steadily increasing cost whittling away at farm margins, more farmers are giving thoughtful looks at ways to increase revenue.

There is a limit to what increased productivity will do for income and it's becoming apparent that higher prices are a must.

While the NFO collective bargaining philosophy seems to be a winner. . . another of its aims appears doomed.

Ninth county fatality

Tuscola county recorded its ninth fatal traffic accident of the year Tuesday and its fourth death in two weeks in the Kingston area when James A. Bryant, 26, of DeLong Road, Cass City, was killed at 11:07 p. m.

According to a report from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, the accident occurred on Kingston Road, 1 1/2 miles south of Kingston.

The crash victim ran off the road on the west side, hit a guard rail post, went through a ditch and smashed into a tree.

The tree was 10 feet from the roadway and the car traveled some 200 feet from the guard post to the tree. Bryant was pronounced dead on arrival at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Stevens Nursing home to close Wednesday

One of Cass City's older businesses will be closing Monday when Stevens Nursing Home goes out of operation, Mrs. Helen Stevens, co-owner, announced this week.

Patients now at the facility are being transferred to various care facilities in the area, Mrs. Stevens said. The majority of the bed patients will go to Cass City Hospital, she revealed.

Albin and Helen Stevens have run the facility since September 1946. Mrs. Stevens said that one of the primary reasons that she is closing is because of the antiquated building used for the nursing home.

White Mrs. Stevens made it clear that the facility was not forced to close, the continuing stiffer demands made by the State for nursing homes, made it more and more difficult to operate from an older building.

Mrs. Stevens said that her future plans are indefinite, but that after a period of rest and relaxation, she plans to work. She is a registered nurse.

No injury in minor mishaps

Two accidents were reported involving area persons during the past week.

Saturday cars driven by Walter Nicholas, 61, of Cass City and Walter Burnham Ferguson, 25, collided on the corner of Seeger and Third Streets.

Ferguson was traveling west on Third, according to the report of the Cass City Police Department, and was unable to stop at the Seeger Street crossing and slid into the Nicholas car.

The left rear of the Ferguson car was damaged and he was ticketed for failure to stop in an assured clear distance ahead.

Alcohol center struggles to start operation

The alcohol information center for the Upper Thumb is struggling to get off the ground and needs volunteer help and financial assistance from interested tri-county residents to get off the ground, the Rev. Basel W. Curtiss of Owendale, chairman of the Upper Thumb Council on Alcoholism, reported this week.

The Michigan Department of Public Health Board of Alcoholism is still ready to come up with matching funds to get the unit started, Curtiss said, but we must have local help to start the program rolling.

Curtiss estimated that an information center should average 50-100 letters per day and 25-50 phone calls for guidance, information and requests for treatment.

Plans now call for the opening of an office in a donated building in Bad Axe May 31. Curtiss emphasized that it would not be a treatment center, but an information headquarters where patients could be referred to treatment centers in larger communities or receive literature and advice about problems of alcohol.

Speakers for civic groups are available by calling Owendale 678-4225, Curtiss said.

Name top two senior scholars

Top ranking students in Cass City High School's Class of 1968 were announced by school authorities this week.

Valedictorian distinction was achieved this year by Joan Lynn Maleck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Maleck, Cass City. Miss Maleck has earned an honor point average of 3.548. Her activities during the years have included Band, French Club, two years as student teacher, and the presidency of her class during its junior year. Her scholarship and leadership were recognized by election first to the Junior Honor Society and later to the Senior Society.

Miss Maleck has had a special interest and aptitude in mathematics and science. Although she would like to study engineering, she thinks she may change this to education in her special interest field. She will enroll next fall as a student at Michigan State University.

Salutatorian for 1968 is Kathy Lynn Mark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mark, of rural Cass City. Her grade point average is 3.457. Her club memberships have included the Spanish Club, Future Teachers, and Future Homemakers. She has been a student council member and is now acting as that group's secretary. Kathy, too, has been both a Junior and Senior member of the National Honor Society. Her fellow students elected her homecoming queen in the fall of 1967.

Kathy's future plans include training in elementary education at Central Michigan University and a teaching career.

Village broke; can't borrow

The village of Cass City is still broke and bills now overdue several months will linger at least awhile longer as the village's attempts to borrow snagged on red tape.

President Lambert Althaver said that before the village can borrow it must have a approval of the Municipal Finance Commission which requires filling out a lengthy form. . . . and in Cass City's case two forms since the first one did not meet specifications.

The second form is still under study so the village still cannot borrow and vendors are still waiting for their money.

The village is short of cash because of the lag at this time of the year in tax collections.

Mr. and Mrs. Zapfe were presented with various gifts including a money tree.

Floyd Zapfe and Miss Ida Simmons were united in marriage at Snover by Elder Harmon March 6, 1918.

The couple have four daughters and two sons, Mrs. Gordon Roe (Lillian) of Bad Axe, Mrs. David Baur (Iris) of Saginaw, Mrs. Dan Thaut (Delores) of Au Gres, Mrs. Robert Wurm (Jeanne) of Sebawaing, Orval Zapfe of Livonia and Floyd (Bud) of Farmington. All were present except Bud.

Other relatives attending were nine grandchildren; four great-grandchildren; a brother, Lyle Zapfe of Cass City; two sisters and two brothers of Mrs. Zapfe, Mrs. Earl Cameron of Deckerville, Mrs. Roy McNeil of Cass City, James Simmons of Sandusky and Charles Simmons of Deckerville. Other relatives attended from Reese, Clio, Caro, Shabbona and Decker.

For her wedding, the bride chose a Chantilly lace full length gown featuring scoop neckline and long sleeves. Three tiers of ruffles were trimmed with two rosettes and sequins. A crown headpiece of pearls and rhinestones held her shoulder-length veil.

Miss Sandra Lang of Cass City, the bride's cousin, was maid of honor and Paula Copeland of Decker was bridesmaid. Their aqua floor-length gowns were Empire style.

Best man was Larry Summers of Gageton and groomsmen was Lloyd Vyse of Cass City.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Deford school where 250 guests attended. They left on a wedding trip through-out Northern Michigan.

Cummings is employed at Walbro Corporation and she at Cole Carbide Industries, Cass City.

The couple will make their home near Gageton.

Easter cards cost 6 cents this year

Postage for all Easter Greeting Cards one-ounce or lighter is 6-cents, Postmaster Grant Claspie reminded mailers today.

The first-class postage rate will provide jet flight service for Easter greeting cards destined to servicemen in Vietnam and other overseas locations as well as airtight treatment for most domestic addresses more than 250 miles from the mailing point.

Legislation which went into effect Jan. 7, 1968, eliminated the 4-cent rate for greeting cards.

$818,000 spent on roads and bridges in co.

Robert J. Wellington, Tuscola County Highway Engineer, reported this week that the county road commission spent nearly $818,000 for road and bridge construction in 1967.

Wellington said that the expenditures were $32,000 less than the previous year's when a record amount was spent.

Work included 154 miles of road and the construction of one new bridge and installation of new decks on three other bridges.

The breakdown of the work for the year:

37 miles of engineering, right-of-way, grade base and drainage.

Six miles of gravel over sand or pit run.

Ten miles of prime and double seal over gravel.

Nine miles of bituminous mat over gravel.

60 miles of bituminous mat work over existing blacktop.

32 miles of final sealcoat.

Named to top Mason position

Clark MacKenzie Knapp, Kalamazoo, is the president of the Clark W. MacKenzie 33 degree of the Masons of Scottish Rite Masons; it was revealed in the Scottish Rite News.

The class is named after Knapp's uncle, the late Clark W. MacKenzie of Kalamazoo and a Cass City native.

WAS IT WINTER'S final fling? The snow that arrived Friday night and Saturday morning was one of the season's largest but quickly succumbed as balmy weather arrived Sunday.

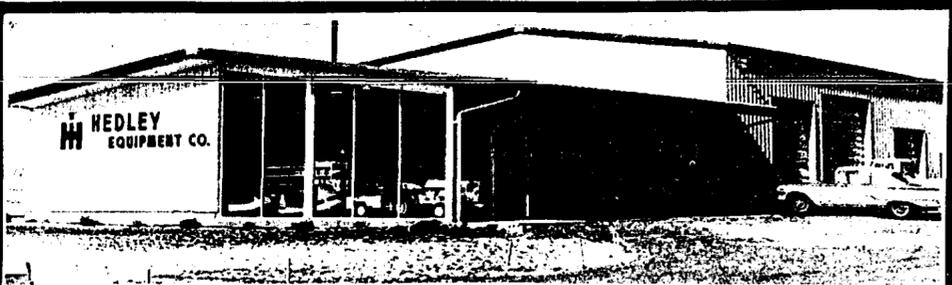

It's spring and Cass City's finest are quick to enjoy the weather

A BALMY DAY and a little sunshine are all the kids need to get out and enjoy the day. Kites, baseball and mudpies are sure harbingers of the spring ahead.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's an amazing oddity about Roger Maris. . . One season Roger hit almost as many home runs as he did singles! . . . In 1961, Maris hit 61 homers, and he had only 78 singles all that year!

One of the great baseball teams of all time was the 1951 "Miracle" Giants -- and this is a team to remember because they came from 13 1/2 games behind in August to win the pennant. . . Can you recall the regulars on this team? . . . Infielders were Whitey Lockman, Eddie Stanky, Alvin Dark and Bobby Thomson. . . Outfielders were Monty Irvin, Willie Mays and Don Mueller. . . Catcher was Wes Westrum. . . And the leading pitchers were Larry Jansen, Jim Hearn and Sal Maglie. . . .

What was the biggest long shot ever to win a horse race? . . . The U. S. pari-mutuel record was set by Wishing Ring in a race at Latonia, Ky., in 1912. . . This longest of all winning long shots paid $941.75 to $1.

Fulcher wins coveted spot on amateur show

Tom Fulcher, a junior at Cass City High School, has been selected to compete in the Sound of Youth USA program in Flint in Whiting Auditorium Saturday, Mar. 30.

Fulcher, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Fulcher of Cass City, was selected for the competition after he was auditioned by show authorities.

The top four acts in each of three categories made it to the finals Saturday. Fulcher qualified as a male vocalist. Other categories are female vocalist and groups.

Fulcher will sing "Green, Green Grass of Home" and accompany himself on the guitar. If he wins he will receive cash prizes and be eligible for the State finals Saturday, April 27, in Flint.

State winners compete in the national show June 24. National winners will get a big boost towards a professional career with TV and recording contracts and cash awards.

Saturday's show starts at 8 p. m.

President sets village committees

President Lambert Althaver appointed standing committees for the year at the regular meeting of the council Tuesday evening at the Municipal building.

Clinton C. House was re-appointed village attorney.

Dr. D. E. Rawson is president pro-tem. Others are: finance, George Dillman and Rawson; street, Mrs. Gladys Albee and Bernard Ross; park, pool and tree, Rawson and Albee; police, Rawson and Dr. William Selby; fire, Dillman and Ed Golding Jr.; landfill, Ross and Dillman, and building, Selby and Golding.

Also re-appointed were members of planning commission. Lester Ross and Mrs. Evelyn MacRae will serve three-year terms and Selby was named to the commission from the council. E. L. Schwaderer was reappointed to the planning board of appeals for three years.

Special services in progress

The Cass City Church of the Nazarene is having services through March 31 at 7:30 p. m.

The Rev. Gerald Laing, graduate from Trevecca Nazarene College of Nashville, Tenn., is the evangelist. He has traveled extensively in evangelism and is now pastoring in Jackson, Mich.

Mrs. Laing will give Scene-O-Felts in the 10:00 a. m. Sunday School Hour and the 6:45 p. m. Youth Service on Sunday evening.

The Rev. Richard Spencer, pastor, extends a welcome to the public.

Jackson Prison for theft of $9.70

Robert L. Paul of Rockford, Ill., was sentenced to two to four years in Jackson Prison for stealing $9.70 in change, some tools and soda pop from the Rainbow Laundry in Caro Tuesday by Judge James Churchill in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro.

Credit for 99 days in the Tuscola County Jail was to apply against the sentence. Paul had pleaded guilty when previously arraigned.

Also heard Tuesday were charges against Eugene Schmitt, Almer Street, Caro. Schmitt pleaded guilty to gross indecency with a 10-year-old child.

Judge Churchill ordered a pre-sentence investigation and sentence will be passed April 9.

Larry E. Davis of Snover was found in contempt of court for failure to make support payments. He was sentenced to 27 days in the county jail or until he makes payment of $270. A day's credit was granted for time already served.

Plan school sign-up

Mrs. Bernard Freilburger, grade principal, this week announced that kindergarten students will register and parents visit the school on the same day at Cass City Schools.

Previously, she explained, the children were enrolled on one day and the parents visited with the new students on a different day.

Enrollment will be Thursday, April 4, for students at Campbell Elementary School and Friday, April 5, for Deford and Evergreen schools.

The complete schedule: Campbell Elementary: Thursday, April 4, parents will register rural children in the Campbell Elementary gym at 9:30 a. m. Dismissal will be at 11 a. m. Village children will register in the gym at 1:30 p. m. and dismissal will be at 3 p. m.

Deford: register children at 9:30 a. m. and dismiss at 11 a. m. Friday, April 5. Evergreen: register children at 1:30 p. m. and dismiss at 3 p. m. Friday, April 5.

Mrs. Freilburger stressed the importance of a good start for children in kindergarten and said that this start often determines success or failure in school life.

She reminded parents that they must bring birth certificates showing children will be five years old by Dec. 1, 1968. Required immunizations must be completed by Sept. 1, she said.

Regular kindergarten classes will be cancelled for the day of the visitations.

To explain County agencies in meet

The ways in which the Probate Court functions in Tuscola county will be explained by Mrs. Beatrice P. Berry when she speaks on "Jurisdiction of the Probate Court". This will be the first part of a two-part lesson in understanding what county agencies do to help families.

Mrs. Berry is the probate register for Tuscola county, a position she has held more than 14 years.

Edward A. King will be the speaker in the second half of the meeting. King, Executive Director of Catholic Family Service for Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties, will detail the purposes and programs of this agency.

He comes to this area, having had work experience in social work in penal institutions, rehabilitation industries, medical and psychiatric hospitals and family counseling agencies.

The talks by Mrs. Berry and King will be in the Civil Defense room of the new jail at Caro Tuesday, April 2, at 1:00 p. m.

The meeting is open to the public without charge and is part of the Cooperative Extension Service Family Living Education program. There will be opportunity to ask questions relating to the speakers' topics.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

VOLUME 61, NUMBER 50

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1968

Erosion not just summer problem

Wind erosion is not just a summer problem. During February and March this year there were tremendous losses of soil due to wind erosion in Michigan according to Alfred Ballweg, County Extension Agricultural Agent.

"Many people complained about having to drive with their lights on in areas where soil filled the air," he said. A great part of the problem, he said, was that the surface of land was relatively dry and not proected by snow. Where fields had been plowed and smoothed and not protected by vegetation, strong winds caused extensive soil loss.

According to Russell G. Hill, Michigan State University soil conservationist, wind erosion can be expected where the soil is finely divided and bare; the surface loose, smooth and dry, and the wind strong and without obstruction.

The problem of wind erosion in Michigan is increasing, the agent explained. One reason is an increase in intensive cultivated crop farming. The number of livestock in some areas is decreasing, and so there are fewer pasture and hay fields, Hill said. The land is used instead for cultivated crops which, once harvested, expose the soil to wind activity.

"Likewise, there has been a trend toward larger fields to accommodate large, efficient equipment," Hill explained. "In many areas natural windbreaks such as woods and fences have been removed, leaving larger areas open to wind activity."

Extensive fall plowing has also increased wind erosion, Hill said. Soil left over winter without crop residues or cover crops is at the mercy of the elements for several months, he said.

Understanding these conditions will help in understanding how wind erosion occurs, concluded the county agent.

Cass City Extension Group hears lesson on safety and health

The Cass City Extension Study Group met with Mrs. Frank Meiser Monday evening, March 25, with Mrs. Zella Vyse presiding. Mrs. Avis Youngs and Mrs. Ella Croft presented a lesson on safety and health.

A film, "Poison Proofing Your Home", was shown. The group was told that more children die from overdoses of aspirin than from any other poison and that every home contains items dangerous to children. Various common household substances that can be poisonous were listed and parents were advised to keep all such poisons out of reach of children.

Plans were made to attend Homemakers Night April 25 in the Elementary School at Caro.

Officers elected for 1968-1969 were: president, Mrs. Zella Vyse; vice-president, Mrs. Ella Croft; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Avis Youngs; councilwoman, Mrs. Frank Meiser, and alternate councilwoman, Mrs. Marion Hostetler.

The group will meet April 22 at Crossroads Restaurant for dinner and a lesson on "Agencies Help Families." Mrs. Ed Rusch will be hostess and this will be the last lesson until September.

AROUND THE FARM After reading this feed it to the cows

By Alfred P. Ballweg

An old friend of mine, Ralph Scott of Jamestown, North Dakota, has written a news column for many years for the Jamestown Sun. He is a farmer, 4-H leader, State legislator and active in many community activities. He uses as the heading for his column "Looking at Things Country Style." I ran across one of his columns recently and am quoting him in part as follows:

"We all know that there must be tons and tons of old newspapers and magazines that are disposed of by burning or thrown out with the garbage. Scientists from Penn State University just recently reported that old newspapers may have a value in the form of livestock feed. They ran a 56-day experiment where they fed newspaper (two and one-half pounds per day) along with corn silage and molasses to dairy cattle. They found the newspaper to be a cheap, nutritious food supplement for livestock.

"This experiment may result in some interesting situations: like a fussy old milk cow preferring only the ladies' section of a Sunday paper or a lively young bull only nibbling on the sports section. As one analyst, who was looking for significance in the experiment asked: Would dairy cattle, fed a daily ration of Readers Digests, produce condensed milk?"

"I can recall where old newspapers were connected with livestock several years ago. Pig raisers had found that their young pigs needed exercise, and someone came up with a simple solution. They put crumpled up newspapers in their pens. We even tried it on the Scott farm and they really went for it. Those little pigs jumped on those newspapers and grabbed mouthfuls of the paper, shaking it like a terrier dog shaking a caught rat.

"Those little pigs certainly got their needed exercise and even seemed to get in fights over certain parts of the paper (it wasn't the comic section either). I remember once that what they did to Drew Pearson's column would have made a couple of senators in Washington want to give them a medal of honor award.

"Pigs born in early spring are often kept inside away from the cold weather and because they are confined, need exercise to keep them from becoming lazy and still in their leg joints. They didn't actually eat the old newspapers, but to them it was a lively game of 'Who's Got the Newspaper!'

"Now with dairy cattle getting old newspapers in their rations and pig raisers keeping their young pigs supplied with old newspapers to keep them healthy, there should be a fairly good demand for this once wasted product. There may come a time that every milk cow and old mother pig will subscribe to a daily newspaper so they are sure of a dependable supply of paper for their own use."

Mrs. Robert Sawdon was hostess to the RLDS Women's Department Thursday evening, March 21.

The March theme is "The Hope of Salvation" and Mrs. Maude Holcomb led the worship service.

Thirteen members answered roll call by naming a favorite painting. Mrs. Edward Brauer was a visitor. Leader Mrs. Howard Gregg was in charge.

Mrs. Dean Smith taught the lesson from "Power to Become". Mrs. Don Smith gave a report on the life of Virginia Graham.

A bake sale will be held April 6 at the church annex. Mrs. Curtis Cleland and Mrs. Floyd McIntosh acted as auctioneers for the white elephant sale. Lunch was served by Mrs. Sawdon, assisted by cohostess, Mrs. Don Smith.

The April 18 meeting will be a brunch at 11 a. m. at the home of Lillian Dunlap of Caro.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kroetsch were Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Mabel Bailey and Lois. Enjoying Sunday dinner at the Crossroads restaurant were Mr. and Mrs. Otis Dorland, Mr. and Mrs. Curt Lambert of Marlette, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mitchell of Uby, Rev. and Mrs. Harold Knight and Mrs. Margaret Mitchell. The occasion was in honor of the 18th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Dorland.

The Shabbona Extension group will meet April 1 at the home of Mrs. Leslie Severance. Mrs. Nick Miller will speak on "Rural Public Health Problems" and roll call is a first aid suggestion.

4-H NEWS

Evergreen Guys 'N' Gals held their monthly social and business meeting Monday evening, March 18, at the school.

During the business meeting there was a discussion of county Spring achievement, which was held March 23 at Deckerville.

"Any 4-H article may be exhibited at the fair even if it was not exhibited at achievement," states Mrs. Emerson Kennedy, leader.

Local achievement and Share-the-Fun talent show will be Friday, April 19, at 8 p. m. at the school. Parents and neighbors are invited. There will be a potluck lunch following the program.

All 4-H girls and mothers are asked to meet at Mrs. Kennedy's home April 4 at 7:30 p. m.

First rehearsal for the talent show will be April 5 at 7:30 p. m. at the school.

During the social part of the evening Sally Masten, Darlene Wentworth and Rosanna Peters performed with hula hoops. Susan and Linda Sherman pantomimed a song and LuAnn Kennedy and Tammy Vatter called a square dance and led the members through the positions and changes.

4-H Spring Achievement for the northern part of Sanilac county was held March 23 at the Deckerville Community School.

Winning county honor roll in clothing were Mary Jane Phetteplace, Sherry Turner and Ellen Morgan from the Evergreen Guys 'N' Gals club. Sherry and Ellen also won style revue honors. Diane Leslie won county honor roll in knitting.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severance attended the annual MMPA meeting Tuesday in Lansing. Mr. and Mrs. Severance were given formal recognition as the outstanding young dairy couple from region 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McIntosh spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smith and Cindy. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clair Auslander.

Esther Gray and Pat Rogers, students at Central Michigan University, Mount Pleasant, spent the week end with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arlington Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Rogers.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Severance were in Lansing Thursday when Mr. Severance was a delegate to the annual MABA meeting. Mrs. Severance spent the day with Mrs. Robert Comb and Sara.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Murray spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bigham of Royal Oak.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Kritzman and Mrs. Clarence Roback were Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kritzman of Argyle.

Mrs. Charles Woodward, Mrs. Bill Woodward, Mrs. Ron Peters and Mrs. Phyllis Linderman were hostesses at a kitchen shower for bride-elect Marian Linderman Sunday in the Linderman home in Cass City. Guests from this area were Mrs. Carl Geister, Mrs. Del Woodward, Mrs. Fred Linderman and daughter Freda and Mrs. Henry Lessman and granddaughter, Maureen O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Dorman and family of Caro were Friday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Voyle Dorman.

Fabric blends contain two or more fibers, but a minimum of 25 per cent of any one fiber is needed to improve the fabric. A smaller amount is used occasionally for design effect. According to Michigan State University home economists, they should be washed or cleaned according to the most heat sensitive fiber.

INTERNATIONAL PROMOTION effort has been started by the Michigan Bean Commission. Three representatives of European canners listen to a tape presentation by Alfred Ballweg, Tuscola county agricultural agent. From left, clockwise: A. B. Jaffe, Alberts, Holland; Maynard Brownlee, secretary-manager of Commission; Glen Harrington, Akron; Ballweg; Eugene J. Huybrechts, Belgium, and Brian P. Wilmot, European representative for Michigan Bean Shippers Association.

Beans seen as convenience food in European market

There's a great developing market in Europe for "convenience foods," because housewives, like their American counterparts, are spending less and less time in actual preparation of meals.

Michigan white navy beans -- as baked or pork and beans -- fit this pattern well, but selling the idea in Europe won't be easy, or quick, and there are plenty of competitors who are trying to do the same thing.

That was the consensus of 12 European canning company officials who are spending two weeks here as guests of the Michigan Bean Commission, and the Michigan Bean Shippers Association. Purpose in bringing them here, frankly, was to put more Michigan beans on European tables.

To do this, the American hosts showed the Europeans technical aspects of bean preparation, put on by the food science department of MSU, commercial canning techniques, advertising, marketing and promotion procedures at all levels of foods selling, brokerage, wholesale and retail. And the visitors were shown bean elevators, buying, delivery and storage equipment, electric-eye grading machines and inspection methods for quality control.

The Europeans, who came from Belgium, France, Germany, Holland, Italy and Great Britain, expect convenience foods to develop rapidly, and they seemed pleased with the various American methods of canning and serving beans -- baked, in tomato sauce, with pork, and other recipes. Many Europeans have never seen white navy beans canned in any other way except in salt water, with almost no flavoring or seasoning.

The different American recipes could make a tremendous impact, they agreed. While the consumption of canned beans is climbing in Europe, there has been a drop in use of dry beans, which must be soaked, then cooked. "Too slow," the canners said, "takes too much time for preparation by European housewives, so they buy bags of dry beans in the markets." Canned beans, on the other hand, fit the need for something nutritious, quick and still economical.

Several canners said they could fit bean canning into their seasonal schedule, to keep their factories busy during the off-season when there are no fresh beans, carrots and other vegetables for canning.

But the European market isn't just one rosy picture, either, the Europeans told their hosts.

Fluctuations in the supply of Michigan beans causes considerable variations in price, as in 1967-68, when the short crop forced prices up over the previous year. Then, there are competitive beans that come to the European market fast -- Bulgarian and Rumanian growers are always waiting in the wings to step in with their supply, and in recent years, Ethiopia has become one of the major suppliers.

The visiting canners were quick to agree that Michigan beans mean "quality," something the others don't guarantee. But the European housewife hasn't learned to read the small print on the canned beans she buys, so she doesn't realize that Michigan beans are superior, and that they are quality controlled. The words "Michigan Navy Beans" on a label means something good, but the European housewife isn't aware of it yet, they concluded.

Said Maynard Brownlee, secretary-manager of the Michigan Bean Commission, "Our job is to convince the European shoppers that "Michigan beans" mean quality -- but at the same time quality costs a little more."

Eugene J. Huybrechts of Belgium added, "Your price isn't too high for the quality, but the housewife is just buying a can of beans, and she's not acquainted with what quality means."

The answer to it all, according to Brian Wilmot, London representative of the Michigan Bean Shippers Association, is better advertising, more promotion and increased in-store selling at retail level. In this connection he hailed the Association's and Bean Commission's participation in International Food Fairs, such as the one held last fall in Cologne, when the Michigan bean industry handed out more than 55,000 samples of Michigan beans, and received highly favorable responses.

Bean shippers, Commission members and European visitors agreed that the answer is quality all the way around -- by growers, at marketing points, by the processors, -- and all this, must be coupled with a steady program of promotion and advertising.

It can't be an overnight job,

STUDY PROJECT

Increasing competition for land between the population of Kenya and large African wildlife herds will be the basis for research by two Michigan State University professors.

Dr. Harm J. deBlij, professor of African geography, and Dr. George Petrides, professor of fisheries, wildlife and zoology, will investigate how the Kenya government is trying to protect the balance between wildlife and changing land use.

Their work is supported by the Midwest Universities Consortium for International Activities, Inc.

RABIDEAU MOTORS, 6513 Main St., Cass City

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
The session at the country store Saturday night was took up mostly with Congressmen and crooks. Not that they were any connection between the two, and the fellers wasn't meaning no disrespect to our Congressmen, but things don't have to have no connection to git on the agenda at the store.

First off, Ed Doolittle reported he had saw where 7 Congressmen was going to Australia to study how they build roads. Ed was shore the fact that it was terrible winter in Washington and summer in Australia didn't have nothing to do with it. And he said he knowed they didn't have nothing to do with the President's plan fer Americans to travel at home and quit spending their dollars in other countries.

was that if they was anything in the world we didn't need to know about was how to build roads. He thought they had ought to be holding conferences in Washington on how to save some land fer the farmers and ranchers. He said we was fast coming to the time when they was more acres in them strips of land between four-lane highways than we got fer grazing and cultivating.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, allowed as how Americans trying to learn how to build roads from engineers in Australia was like a doctor putting a mustard plaster on a wooden leg.

Bug Hookum said he didn't have time to worry none about them 7 Congressmen, that what was worrying him was them 9 men we got on the U.S. Supreme Court. He was of the opinion crime has got complete turned around in this country. It used to be, said Bug, when a feller put a gun on you and took your money he was a criminal. But now, allowed Bug, he was a pore, misunderstood feller that was raised in a rundown section of town and never had a chance to work fer a living, and it was only fair you hand over your billfold.

Even Clem Webster of the Great Society was agreed with Bug. Clem said if a crook robs a store and is arrested, it's hard to git him in court. First off, if he confesses they'll turn him loose because his Constitution rights to remain silent was violated. And if you final git him to court the victim has to spend a month away from his store waiting fer the case to come up in court. By the time the case is called the victim has done lost more at the store since it was robbed than he lost in the robbery.

The storekeeper butted in at this point, Mister Editor, and announced the fellers had forced him to take to those tranquil pills and he had got so tranquil he didn't care how many Congressmen went to Australia or if his store was robbed or not.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Durand to be first state school to operate 12 months

EXTENDED SCHOOL

A 12-month school year will be adopted by the Durand School District in the fall of 1969. The district, located between Flint and Lansing, has an enrollment of 3,000. Progress of the extended school year will be closely observed by professional educators and school officials throughout the state. It is believed to be the first year-round program used by a Michigan district since 1934. Although similar plans are under study, Durand is the only district to begin definite implementation of such a system.

Details have to be worked out, but the general concept is that students will attend only the 180 days of school per year required by law. Vacations would be staggered to smooth operation of the plan.

A committee of educators, civic leaders and parents will determine the most workable program. Problems such as coordinating vacations for families with many school children and increases in teachers' salaries will also be studied. The committee will consider four basic programs and variations from each: an 11-month operation; a quarterly system; a trimester system, and a "staggering-type" plan which involves a complex system of classes.

Reduction in overall costs is usually cited by advocates of a 12-month school year. Arguments in favor of such a plan include: use of school buildings throughout the year; full-time employment of teachers; smaller classes; diminishing need for new buildings; full use of facilities by communities. But it is not assured that these benefits will result.

While favoring a pilot program like Durand's, the Michigan Education Association worries about pitfalls of the 12-month system. Rather than the four-quarter system or the 11-month operation, the MEA feels an "extended summer school program" is more effective. Karl Ohendorf, assistant executive secretary of the MEA, points out that while the association favors experimentation in education, studies in Georgia, Florida and California have largely disproved the cost-savings theory. However, the most recent study is 10 years old. All have been conducted in warm climates, which adds air conditioning to the costs of summer sessions. Ohendorf admits, "Just because the plans haven't worked in other areas does not mean that it won't work in Durand. But expected savings won't necessarily occur." There is much evidence to support the MEA's contention.

and harvesting of crops. This need is no longer important, but the nine-month school system has remained.

School officials in Durand note that the year-round system is currently in operation in New York and Florida. Community and teacher participation in planning the Durand program may make it more acceptable. If the move does prove successful, other Michigan districts will certainly consider adopting the 12-month system.

AAUW hears local panel Wednesday

Changing values and family relationships was the discussion topic Wednesday, Mar. 20, at a meeting of the Cass City Chapter of the American Association of University Women. Arthur Holmberg, Cass City High School principal, moderated a panel including Chuck Vesser, Catholic Family Service in Bad Axe; Robert Cubbitt, Bad Axe attorney, and the Rev. Richard Eyer, pastor of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Cass City.

After the program, refreshments were served by Mrs. L. Althaver and Mrs. Robert Tuckey, cohostess.

The April meeting will be held in Caro.

REPORT CARD FOR SALMON-TROUT CATCH

FILL IT OUT AND YOU CAN HELP PROVIDE BETTER FISHING.

Starting April 1, Michigan fishermen will have to use new "report cards" to record their catches of trout and salmon in the Great Lakes and designated inland streams. The new record-keeping requirement, set by a law passed last year, continues through November 30 in the Great Lakes. Trout and salmon caught in designated streams must be tallied on the new forms during the early trout and salmon season from April 1 through April 26 and during the extended fall season from September 9 through November 30. By filling out these catch report forms, anglers will provide the Conservation Department with the kind of information it needs on fishing to improve its trout and salmon program. The forms, available at fishing license dealers throughout the state, are patterned after those used successfully in the West to evaluate salmon management programs. Lists of designated streams covered by the record-keeping rule may be obtained free from the Department's field offices and its Publications Room in Lansing (Zip Code 48926).

by Barbara Dorland & Darlene Wentworth

The honor roll for the fourth marking period at Evergreen includes:

5th GRADE

- Janet Auvil, Kim Copeland, Bill Fleming, Eddie Lowe, Nora Massingale, Sally Masten, Diane Sefton, Debbie Smith

6th GRADE

- Nancy Langenburg, Diane Leslie, Paul Sefton, Glenda Smith, Randal Smith, Rodney Smith, Ann Turner, Darlene Wentworth

Until last Saturday's snow storm, all the students at Evergreen were enjoying spring along with its games of softball and jump rope.

On March 18 Evergreen held its talent show and a 4-H social meeting.

W. Campbell Elementary

Mrs. Howarth's students have been busy in their art class lately. They have made flowers out of egg cartons and origami (folded paper) birds and flowers. The students have also written space stories and made story booklets.

Mrs. Stickle's fourth graders presented three plays. The first play was about spring. Parts portrayed were:

- Miss Rabbit - Mary Stilson, The Sun - Mari Elliott, Brown Bear - Daniel Henderson

South Wind - Joey Windy (His last name must have gotten him the part!)

Mrs. Robin - Eddie Schwartz, Sponsor - Janice Heckroth, Mr. Owl - David Speirs

The second play was a puppet show about the "Monkees." (The surging, TV-type Monkees). Lori Tuckey's puppet was Mickey; Pam Gallagher's - Mike; Mari Elliott's - Peter, and Lauren Althaver's - Davy. Leah Creason's puppet was the producer of the Monkees show.

The third play was also a puppet show about the "Chipmunks". Christina Pierce, Lona Mellendorf and Kathy Richardson played the parts of Marvin, Alvin and Theodore, respectively.

Last week the kindergartners went on a trip to Mr. Dean Hutchinson's farm to see him shear a sheep and to see the lambs. They also stopped to see Mr. Lester Battel milk a cow. The students wish to thank Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Battel for showing them around.

Cass City Intermediate

Last Wednesday the Girl Scouts from Troop 113 presented a play, "The Small Crimson Parasol," to the elementary school.

Also on Wednesday, the 7th and 8th grade boys had their first track practice for this year.

Friday night the Junior Band sponsored a Junior High dance featuring the "Cautions", a band composed of Junior High students.

Since Thursday was report card day, and report card days are usually the most popular days to be grounded on, I wonder if there were many at the dance?!

Would you believe that a Pep Club meeting for the Junior High was planned for last Tuesday? Not that that's so odd,

File No. 20188

Estate of Elsie Southworth, Deceased.

It is Ordered that on June 13th, 1968, at ten a. m., in the Probate Courtroom in the Village of Caro, Michigan a hearing be held at which time all creditors of said deceased are required to prove their claims. Creditors must file sworn claims with the Court and serve a copy on Howard Brock, executor, of Mariette, Michigan R #2 prior to said hearing.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule.

but it was supposed to be held at Konrad's Bakery!?

C. C. H. S.

Monday was the Thumb B student exchange day. Peg Chandler, Gary Vollmar, Sally Geiger and Cindy Strickland went to Caro and four Caro students visited Cass City.

When the Cass City students were asked to comment on their visit to Caro, they all decided they liked the idea of a floating class, but they were undecided as to whether or not they liked the idea of 70-minute class periods!

A student council meeting was held Thursday. It was decided that the two student-teacher basketball games are to be held on Tuesday, April 2.

Friday morning fifty students from the Biology II, Physics, and Chemistry classes piled (and I do mean piled) on one bus for a field trip to Ann Arbor.

We had to sit three or four in the seat, which made it hard to play cards, but we somehow managed (naturally).

The bus arrived in Ann Arbor at about 11:30 a. m. and everybody kind-of decided that it was lunch time.

After lunch at the Union Building (on the U of M's campus) a student from the University took us on a guided tour around the campus.

However, the major part of our trip was visiting the Phoenix Nuclear Reactor and the Museum of Natural History. College students were waiting for us at both places to show us around and explain certain things.

The guide at the nuclear reactor did a good job of explaining, but the mile-long words will confuse you every time! Especially when you don't even know what the purpose of a nuclear reactor is! In fact, one of the students came out and asked the guide, "What's this for?" Surprisingly enough, he thought it was a good question and went on to explain.

Throughout the day, we began to learn more about the University and its students. For example, it really seems that, besides learning what is in the books the students are constantly finding out new things on their own - as if they were already well-known personalities in their particular field!

CLUB NEWS

The GAA had practice sessions last Tuesday night and Saturday morning for their game against Caro, March 26.

The Future Nurses had a meeting Thursday night at 8:00 o'clock to see a movie, "A Cap for Katie".

TID BITS

After lunch Friday, some of us who went to Ann Arbor, went to look for some helium-filled balloons that were supposed to be handed out on some part of the campus. During our travels, we walked smack-dab in the middle of a protest march against Israel! (Oh well.)

The Seniors had a class meeting Wednesday. They decided that they wanted to go to New York City for their Senior Trip, but it will cost them about $70 each, so they're not sure how many will go.

Friday the Hall Guides had a meeting. They're always having meetings, but this one was different - they were all fired!!! I guess the teachers decided that they were partying too much!

One position was kept - the number one post at the entrance of the school. So . . . now the hall guide at that post has to do all the work - such as collecting all the absentee reports.

Saturday was the State solo and Ensemble Festival. Well, with the snow we had Saturday it proved to be quite a trick for the students to get there.

If it wasn't for the Bad Axe bus, Cass City's students wouldn't have been able to go at all. Even with a bus, it took five and a half hours to get to Ann Arbor. Would you believe it took about an hour to get to Caro from Cass City and ten minutes just to go through Caro?!

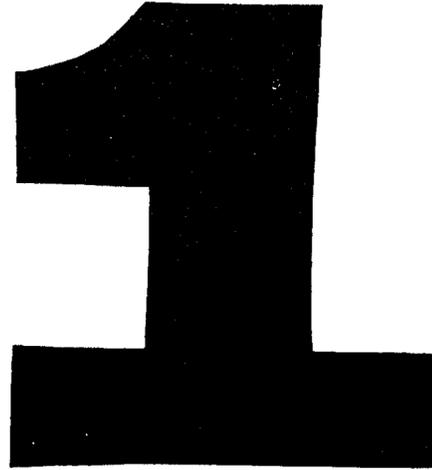

Happiness is being three hours late for your event! But, it really didn't matter if you were late or early for your event because there were so many cancellations. As it turned out, a lot of events such as trios or sextets ended up being duets or quintets!

Word has it that we might not have any final semesters this year? It's hard to believe, but it sure would be nice.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

VOLUME 61, NUMBER 50

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1968

Behind the Counter Tranquilizers—

Tranquilizers have become one of the most widely-accepted of the newer drugs, especially those used for non-psychotic patients who experience occasional anxiety.

Whether or not a person receives these drugs is decided by his physician. But while tranquilizers are prescription drugs, the doctor has no control over the number of pills that a patient takes at any one time. If he ignores the doctor's orders, the patient may become "intoxicated"—drowsy, confused and irritable. He has impaired judgment and movement, and has difficulty in thinking clearly. He is more apt to get into a fight, or to be involved in an automobile accident.

Tranquilizers have proven to be too valuable for them to be abandoned because of occasional abuse. They are widely accepted as safe, effective and non-addictive, when taken in small doses. The "major tranquilizers" have been helpful in treating mental illness. Others, who are not ill enough to be put in an institution, can function effectively with "minor tranquilizers."

It is the patient's responsibility not to misuse this (or any other) prescription drug. He should consult his doctor if he intends to drive, drink alcoholic beverages or take other drugs while taking tranquilizers. And he should not attempt to refill the prescription without his doctor's instructions.

Hostetter's Hodgepodge

Mrs. Gregory had had enough

By Marion Hostetter

When cars first came out it was almost as adventurous to drive from Caro to Cass City as it is to fly to the moon today. Here's a reminiscence from the 1934 Rotarian newspaper which I mentioned last week:

Remember that Roman-nosed horse P. S. Gregory used to drive and how he used to charge up the street and around corners with Mr. Gregory pulling the reins, while Mrs. Gregory sat calmly, composedly, and serenely at his side with utmost confidence?

Well, this confidence was a trifle shattered at a later date when Mr. Gregory got to driving autos. One day the two started out from Caro for Cass City; all went well until Mr. Gregory tipped the car over in the ditch somewhere about midway between the two towns. Some men came along, shoved the car back on its wheels and out of the ditch, and on they bravely caned.

In front of Miller's, however, Mr. Gregory again landed overturned in the ditch; it was slippery. Mrs. Gregory got out of the car and watched; more men got the car straightened up. But when Mrs. Gregory saw her husband back the car out of one ditch only to back too far and go upside down in the ditch across the road, she turned about and walked home.

"Enough is enough," was Mrs. Gregory's motto. But the motto of horse traders in those days was "There's always tomorrow," as illustrated by this story from the same paper.

David Harum was a real Zontians hear of foreign countries at regular meet

The program for the March meeting of Cass City Zonta Club was an International theme. Two members and a guest presented accounts of their trips to foreign countries.

Miss Agnes Milligan told of England and Scotland and Mrs. Helen Agar showed slides on Holland, France, Belgium and England. Mrs. Tresa Tutwiler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Konrad Konwalski of Cass City, demonstrated two Hawaiian dances. She had been in the Philippines three years while her husband was stationed there.

Meeting at the New Gordon Hotel Tuesday evening, March 19, members discussed the club's annual rummage sale of which Mrs. Edith Little and Mrs. Konwalski are cochairmen.

The nominating committee presented the following slate of officers for the new year: president, Mrs. Helen Agar; vice-president, Mrs. Edith Little; first vice-president, Mrs. Lottie Konwalski; treasurer, Miss Agnes Milligan; secretary, Elaine Romain, and new board member, Mrs. Mildred McConkey.

Miss Mary McIntyre is a new club member and Mrs. Mary Ann Opansko and Mrs. Weaver of Ypsilanti were guests.

Winter term enrollment at Michigan State University, the state's largest university, is 36,265.

Mrs. Little attends librarians meet

Mrs. Arthur Little was among Thumb area public librarians who attended a meeting March 20 in the new headquarters in Caro for the Thumb area branch of the Saginaw Public Library system.

Present also were Stanley Tanner, head of the Saginaw system, Miss Jenie Kuhlberg of Bay City, consultant for the Thumb area branch, and from the Michigan State Library in Lansing were Miss Jean Legg, consultant for this area, and Miss Helen Kremer, director of state aid to public libraries.

Forenoon and afternoon sessions were devoted to hearing talks from the consultants and question and answer periods.

The new headquarters, at 124 N. State St. in Caro, will be open to Thumb area librarians three days of each week. Miss Kuhlberg will be present Wednesdays only.

Persons holding a card in the Cass City and Elkland township public libraries are reminded that they may secure a card from the Saginaw Public Library without cost to them but they should have credentials from the local librarian before asking for a card in Saginaw.

The next meeting of the Thumb area librarians is set for April 18.

About 25 attended the meeting Wednesday.

Hold final services for Alice Jackson

Funeral services for Mrs. Harold (Alice) Jackson, 66, of Cass City were held Friday, March 22, at Little's Funeral Home, following her death March 20.

A lifelong resident of Cass City, she was born Sept. 20, 1901, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sam F. Bigelow.

She married Harold Jackson in Cass City in 1926 and the couple made their home in Cass City. He died Nov. 20, 1958.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Richard (Sally) Patnaude of Gagetown and Mrs. James (Florence) McCoy of Caro; one son, Thomas of Cass City; six grandchildren; one sister, Miss Laura Bigelow, and one brother, Charles Bigelow, both of Cass City.

The Rev. James Braid officiated at the final services and burial was in Elkland cemetery.

Promote Vargas to Tech. Sergeant

Rosario M. Vargas, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Vargas Sr. of Galveston, Texas, has been promoted to technical sergeant in the U. S. Air Force.

Sergeant Vargas is a fabric-leather-rubber repair technician at Offutt Air Force Base, Neb. He is a member of the Strategic Air Command.

The sergeant previously served in Vietnam.

He completed requirements for his high school diploma after entering the Air Force.

His wife, Willa, is the daughter of Mrs. William Toner of Doerr Road, Cass City.

Petula's beat awakened a bigot

By JIM FITZGERALD

I wonder if the beat would go on if Petula Clark quit holding hands with Harry Belafonte and kissed Pete Seeger?

Or: TV can be beautiful. You just have to know when to laugh.

Right now I am laughing at Bob Rierison, program director of WJBK-TV in Detroit. Also at Doyle Lott who used to manage advertising for the Chrysler-Plymouth division.

Both men recently stubbed their touchy toes in TV land and landed in the news. Rierison censored a song sung on the Smothers Brothers show. Lott thought Plymouth sales might suffer if TV viewers saw Miss Clark touch Belafonte on the arm.

Let's laugh at Rierison first for no better reason than he was the first to make an ass of himself. He rubbed out the last few lines of an antiwar song sung by Pete Seeger on the Feb. 25 Smothers show. I watched the show on the Lansing channel and heard the entire song. The forbidden lines implied President Johnson is a big fool for letting American boys die in Vietnam. Big hairy deal. At last report, the Lansing TV station is still standing, unstoned. So are the hundreds of other stations that carried the song.

And WJBK brass must be wondering how Rierison mistook a pebble for a bomb.

Rierison and his fellow executives mouthed the usual nonsense about not wanting to insult the office of the President, no matter what they might think of LBJ personally. They sounded as if they'd been careful not to track mud on the White House carpet. Good Lord! It is impossible to rap an office without bruising the man who currently sits in it. And vice versa. Any clown who doesn't realize this shouldn't be a censor.

A few days later, Rierison ate crow but tried to make it look like steak. Seeger's censored lyrics were played on a WJBK news program. The pompous explanation was that it is ok to criticize the President on an informational program, but not on an entertainment show. Good lord again! Using the same foggy reasoning, a newspaper should print my opinion of LBJ on the editorial page but refuse to quote Pete Seeger's opinion on the entertainment page. Bobby Kennedy should quit smiling for votes on the Johnny Carson show, Senator Dirksen should quit making those horrible records, Governor Reagan should resign, and Will Rogers should have been shot.

All of which is a frivolous fringe of the important point: WJBK, at least on one black Sunday, decided it was unacceptable for an entertainer to say the President is pursuing a foolish policy in Vietnam. It is not necessary to be anti-Johnson to see where such thoughtless censorship could lead: the next step could be to allow only good news from Vietnam and only love kisses for the President. The people's right to know would be limited by a TV station's right to employ stuffed shirts.

Now about Doyle Lott, the Chrysler-Plymouth ad man. He was in charge of the Petula Clark TV show, just taped for airing April 2. Lott's stomach, or something, was upset when he splied Miss Clark hanging on to Belafonte's arm while they sang a duet. Petula is from England and perhaps she didn't know that Lott-type Americans are all for civil rights but, goodness, their women don't actually TOUCH Negro men. Lott demanded that the scene be shot again, with no further contamination of the master race, please.

(It's too bad Lott wasn't running the Johnny Carson show a few days earlier. Belafonte was host and Miss Clark was his guest. She planted a kiss right on handsome Harry's chops. That would have shocked the stuffing out of Lott's sheet.)

Anyway - Belafonte and a lot of other people objected to Lott's bigotry. The story hit the newspapers. Caught with his Klux showing, Lott mouthed some feeble excuses which impressed no one. He was fired from the Plymouth account and it is hoped that the beat will still go on, even in Harlem.

The funniest thing about guys like Lott is that they usually call themselves liberals. They'll march and carry signs to win justice for the Negro. They'd stand in line to kiss Lena Horne. But, by God, they don't want any black boys messing with their white girls.

Any we are certain that Bob Rierison and other WJBK executives would preach loudly in favor of free speech and the right to dissent. Just don't do it between 9 and 10 p.m. Sundays, please. That time is reserved for fighting Bonanza. TV can be beautiful. You just have to know when to laugh to keep from crying.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Taxes in Cass City will jump over seven percent this year as Village Assessor Mac O'Dell reported a total assessment of $4,227,200 to the village council. There has been no general reevaluation of property this year and the increased revenue will not be reflected in most property owners' tax statements. Much of the increase will come from taxes levied on new personal property and real estate in the village.

Four Cass City High School students were awarded medals as the exhibitors of best projects during the school's Science Fair. They are: John Herhalt, first; Fred Reid, second; Bonnie Spencer, third and Bob Spencer, fourth.

The way that the NFO has captured the interest of area farmers is illustrated by two Deford meetings. At the first, 25 farmers attended. At the second, 75 heard the facts about a farm union.

An overheated oil stove at the home of Theron "Whitney" Hopper, 5795 Bruce, Deford, caused extensive smoke damage Tuesday evening about 6:45. Ed Retherford was named to the 10-man Thumb B All-Conference basketball team.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Krug celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday, April 7. They were married March 26, 1913.

Two Cass City youths enlisted in the Navy. They are Leslie R. Schram, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Schram, and Alan L. Guilds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Guilds.

TEN YEARS AGO

Miss Jean Ann Parish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Parish of Fairgrove, became the first Tuscola county dairy princess.

The 10th anniversary of the Cass City Teachers' Club was observed at the home of E. B. Schwaderer Thursday, Mar. 20.

Mrs. Homer Hower was re-elected president of the Tri Sigma Class of the Evangelical United Brethren Sunday School. Other officers chosen are: Vice-president, Mrs. Charles Wendt; secretary, Mrs. Hiller; treasurer, Ray Silvernall.

Dick Osentoski of Uby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Osentoski, received the State Farmer award at the annual State FFA Convention.

The Tuscola County Pioneer Times, Vassar newspaper, was sold by R. H. Colladay to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Belleville.

Three Cass City High School students, who qualified in district competition, played at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival at Michigan State University. Craig Winters and Theresa McCormick were placed for their drum duet and Nadene Winters for her saxophone solo.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Eva Jane Somes and Grant Little have the leading roles in the junior play, "Ring Around Elizabeth."

Samuel H. Heron, 68, was found dead in the barn on his farm in Grant Township.

Mr. and Mrs. Omar Gaspie entertained 40 friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. John Guinther at the Gaspie home, in honor of the silver wedding anniversary of the Guinthers.

Guy W. Landon, known to local bowlers as "Grandpappy" Landon, with an average of 186, leads the Community League of 70 players with the highest average.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bohnsack have received word from their son, Pvt. Harry E. Bohnsack, that he is in a training group at St. Petersburg, Florida.

Edward Fischer of Gagetown, who has had a meat market and grocery business in the Purdy Block for several years, has moved his stock to the corner store owned by Mrs. M. P. Freeman.

FARM BUREAU

Twenty members of the North Elmwood Farm Bureau held their meeting Tuesday, March 12, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Goslin.

The group received an invitation to the Tuscola Farm Bureau to attend the 50th anniversary March 23 at the Caro High School.

The topic for discussion was "School Financing" and was led by Richard Ziehm.

Cards were played and Mrs. William Goodell and Patrick Goslin held high scores. Mrs. Harold Koch won the traveling prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ziehm will be hosts for the April 9 meeting.

The Junior Girl Scouts met Wednesday, March 20, in the dining hall of the Methodist Church. Janet Reivert was a guest. Plans were made for a play to be presented later in the spring.

Mrs. Archie Mark, Robert and Timmy of Flushing spent Wednesday with her mother, Mrs. Anna Kehoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Merton Hendershot have purchased the property on State St. owned by Mrs. Anna Kehoe and will move from their home on Gage St. in the near future.

Miss Margaret Wald of Saginaw, Mrs. Harriet McDonald and Mrs. Gertrude Schwaderer of Cass City, Mrs. Floyd Werdeman, Mrs. Vincent Wald, Miss Mary Wald, Mrs. C. P. Hunter and Mrs. Carroll Hunter were guests Thursday at Miss Rosalia Mall. The occasion was her birthday. A cooperative dinner was served.

Earl Russell and Mrs. Arthur Freeman are patients in Hills and Dales Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Comment, who spent the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla., arrived home Friday.

Mrs. Bert Bain of Drayton Plains spent last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Gleno Straw of Gardena, Calif., announce the birth of a son, David Michael, born March 1. Mrs. Straw is the former Janet Hull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hull of Gagetown.

One For The Road
A smart pet?
Try a pig
By Dan Marlowe

You say you have a memory like an elephant? Better be careful in the future to whom you say it. According to two University of Georgia veterinarians, the elephant's memory is over-rated. The huge beasties don't rate nearly as high on the "smart" scale as some of the other members of the animal kingdom. Neither do some of man's best friends. The dog is well down the list. So is the cat, and so is the horse. Could it be that men prefer to keep around themselves animals less smart than they are so they can feel superior by comparison? For a really smart house pet, how about a pig? They outclass poor old Fido completely, and they don't rate too badly on the entire scale. The dog isn't much smarter than the chicken, which is faint praise, indeed. Don't forget that the dog is still smarter than the cat and the horse, however. A horse rates slightly higher than a guinea pig, but is hardly entitled to take howls on that account. The elephant? He's smarter than the rhinoceros, but that's not terribly difficult, intellectually. Mr. Rhino is No-whereville. For his size, he has one of the smallest brains extant. The veterinarians, Charles N. Dobbins, Jr. and William C. McMullan, state that the consensus among investigators of animal intelligence is that directly behind man on the scale comes the ape, the monkey, the fox, the raccoon, and the pig. On this list only the pig is a real surprise. The ape and the monkey are our country cousins, according to some recently published books. And the fox and raccoon have always had a reputation for sagacity. After the top five, the intelligence level drops off rather sharply. It includes the dog, sheep, goat, birds, rat, rabbit, cat, horse, guinea pig, opossum, and turtle. There is room for argument here, it seems. Can it be possible that a sheep is more intelligent than a cat? The cat has made a handsome living for centuries by going his own way and ignoring man's attempts to teach him what man wishes him to learn. Whether this is unintelligent is certainly questionable. The raccoon might rate even higher than the fourth place assigned him by the vets. The

Book Review
The people give life to story
By Rev. R. J. Searls

You're probably one of the thousands who read "The Last Angry Man" by Gerald Green. If so, you were charmed at both the skill and the appeal of the descriptions of the people that were what gave life to the story. His ability in that book now shines through this one, "To Brooklyn With Love." Green turns a deft hand at making a literary phrase, but only when it really fits; never just to show off his ability. As it was in the "Last Angry Man," the setting is in Brownsville, a decaying yet stubbornly vital neighborhood of old two-story homes and crumbling tenements. The time is the American Depression and the action takes place on a single breathless day in July, 1934. The primary character is Albert Abrams, 12, near-sighted, cursed with weak ankles and flabby muscles and undersized. His father -- an embittered physician in this slum area -- having been the same sort of nothing when a boy, now has the body of an Atlas, which he gained with exercising. Even though Albert boasts the highest IQ in the history of Public School 133, he is scorned by the athletes and wildmen. Albert finds strength in reading Kipling, Conrad and Jack London. Moreover, he is the greatest score-keeper in the annals of Longview Avenue sporting events such as punchball, stickball and "indoor" baseball. Albert longs to be part of the gang-life which surrounds their dreary existence. Occasionally he became the envy of the neighborhood ball players, by virtue of owning the only new ball. When this sort of thing happened, he literally walked on air -- even when a bigger boy would steal the ball, knowing that Albert could not or would not risk a fight to regain possession of the ball. Near the conclusion of the story, he has to slug it out with another boy from the area, and from somewhere came the knowledge that this time he could win the fight, which gave him enough confidence to win the bloody fight. He won! His father had been a doctor of promise, while he was still in Medical School and chose this neighborhood in which to practice medicine. Too outspoken to suit many of his patients, he had watched his practice fall apart, not to mention that of his patients, most were unable to pay their bills; and Albert had grown up in the era when his father was experiencing empty waiting rooms. Still a good doctor, he

Lenten service at EUB Church
A change in the schedule of the community Lenten service is announced for Sunday evening, March 31. It will be held in Salem Evangelical United Brethren Church instead of the Presbyterian Church, as originally announced. The service begins at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. James Braid, pastor of the Methodist Church, will be the speaker. The concluding service of the series will be conducted in the Presbyterian Church on Palm Sunday at 7:30 and will feature the Lenten message by the Rev. Richard Spencer, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene. Special music for these services is furnished by the host church choir. The offerings will be used for Daily Vacation Bible Schools in the community.

Six members and two guests of the Art Club met for dinner at the Fraser Presbyterian Church Wednesday, March 20. Guests were Mrs. Frances Kennedy of Uby and Mrs. Marjorie Strayer of Grosse Pointe. The business meeting and social hour were held at the home of Mrs. Hazel Rusch, where refreshments were served. The club plans a trip for the April meeting.

Thought For Lent Have we outrun our soul?

By Rev. Ira Wood
"He restoreth my soul." (Ps. 23:3) "What shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?" (Mark 8:36)

Through a rapidly increasing technical knowledge, greater progress in conquering space has been achieved during the last century than has been possible during thousands of previous years. We glory in our scientific advances and accomplishments. But might we not well pause to inquire whether or not our incredible technical advance has brought with it moral progress as well?

William G. Cole related a story of a group of white hunters in the African jungle who, for several days, had pushed forward as rapidly as they could. Finally, wearied by the burden and speed of the trek, the native porters staged a sit-down strike, and refused to budge. The hunters pleaded and threatened, but without success. At length one of the porters explained that they had been traveling too fast; they had to wait for their souls to catch up with their bodies. Can it be that is the trouble with our world? Has it outrun its soul?

Serious reflection reveals the tragic fact that much of modern culture has been running away from its moral and spiritual foundations. The spirit of science is the spirit of the age. But has the increase of knowledge automatically improved our lot?

What the world needs most in this frustrated age is a soul. Society, in a large part, has no purpose, no meaning, no ends for which it strives. Man is busy making a living. What more does he want out of life than a new car, a new home, better furnishings, and better clothes?

The tragedy is that he doesn't know.

Perhaps the only soul our society has, the only purpose in life, is personal advancement, the gaining of wealth, power, and prestige. Is not this the very core of the illness of our age? Is it not evident that unless something occurs to change the hearts and lives of men and women individually all over the world we are doomed? Better power politics, or better blueprints for world order is not the solution to the problem. What is needed is a radical transformation of mind and will. What is needed is a soul, a sense of meaning and purpose. What is needed is fellowship, brotherhood, soul.

The most obvious way that the world has outrun its soul is the awful sense of futility which holds us in its grasp. We do not become concerned or involved because we feel that there is nothing we can do about it.

What would have been the result had those who were assembled in the upper room in Palestine nearly two thousand years ago possessed the same feeling of futility which is so much observed today? But they had faith, compassion, concern, vision, hope, soul, and because of them and their victory we are blessed today. Such faith, zeal, and activity is needed today. Only Christian faith and enthusiasm can provide the world with the purpose and meaning it so desperately needs. The effort we put forth individually and collectively can not fail if it be linked to the eternal purposes of the Creator of heaven and earth. Only God can give this world a soul. And He can do it only through His creatures who will give Him their lives. God needs you! Will you give Him your life? Then the world may find its soul.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross
Extension Agent

It's a mechanized world -- from supermarket doors that open automatically to ovens that cook dinner while you're gone -- and you may soon find it affecting the way you pay your bills and manage family finances, says Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb Extension Home Economist.

A checkless, cashless society may sound a bit "futuristic" now, but a trend in this direction is already appearing in the banking world.

Pay checks that are sent directly to the bank from the employer; bank credit cards that allow the holder to charge purchases in a variety of stores and extend credit in a predetermined amount; automatic monthly payment of electric bills, and state-wide and area-wide computerized credit-rating systems are in effect already.

An Eastern bank has even installed a touch-telephone system in its 14 branches that enables bank personnel to call the bank's computer, using a red identification card, and obtain information on customers' accounts. It's also testing a professional billing service that would, for example, let a doctor telephone patients' charges at the end of each day to the computer which in turn would bill the patients; a supermarket-to-bank phone that would deduct funds from a customer's account and credit them to the store's account, and punched cards that enable you to dial for credit.

What does this all mean to you? For one thing more convenience as it will eliminate a lot of tedious paper work. No more bucking traffic to make a deposit at the bank; no more monthly tussle with balancing a checkbook and writing checks; no more forgotten insurance premiums.

On the other hand, caution will have to be the watchword in using the system for a great many families, says Mrs. Ross. Overspending and over-borrowing will be easier to do. Debt-resistance will be lowered with many people finding a larger percentage of their income being drained off in interest. You'll also need to watch that bank balance -- when you pay a bill via computer it will be transferred instantaneously from your account, not 24 or 48 hours later. You also won't be able to delay for several days or a week the payment of such periodic bills as utilities, insurance, rent, mortgage, etc., as they will be automatically transferred on their due date.

Home-for-Aged group meets

Members of the Home-for-the-Aged group met March 6 at the Farm Bureau building, East Ave. Twenty-one persons were present.

Mrs. Nelson Severn, president, conducted the business meeting and six new members were added to the roster.

Mrs. Iva Hayward of Huron county bureau of social service was guest speaker.

The next meeting of the organization will be in May.

During 1966-67, grants to Michigan State University totaled $12,123,150 to support 567 research programs.

ECONOMIC EXPANSION

Michigan compares quite favorably with the national average in economic growth, and all indications point to continued expansion during the next decade. These are findings of the Michigan Office of Economic Expansion in its annual report for the year ended June 30, 1967.

Growth accelerated in 1963 and has increased at a rate "well above the national average," the report discloses. Michigan excelled in family spendable income, total labor force, capital investments and Gross State Product.

Population figures for 1966 show Michigan with an estimated 8.5 million residents. Although the birth rate fell, Michigan added 117,000 people that year. Many were attracted to the state because of the favorable economic climate, the OEE maintains.

The auto industry accounted for 80,000 new jobs in the four year period 1963-66, but other sources brought an additional 240,000 jobs to the state's economic climate. Major expansions in mining, chemical, wood, cement, electronic, furniture and other industries indicated that Michigan will continue to benefit from programmed growth in years to come.

Defense contracts pushed military spending over the $1 billion mark, the first time since the Korean War that defense spending exceeded $600 million. During 1966, some 450 companies announced plans to expand facilities, construct new sites or move new production facilities into the state.

The OEE notes that a considerable amount of expansion was stimulated by legislative action and cooperation between the state and industrialists. Legislation has been enacted which assists industry to meet competition from other areas in the nation in production costs. Tax recognition was granted to industries which have excessive costs in tool and design changeovers. A municipal bonding act now permits communities to build and equip plants for lease to industry. Funds were provided for research which denotes economic advantages in various areas of the state.

The growing Department of International Trade and Port Development and others serve to stimulate industrial expansion and economic growth. Coupled with natural resources, technical know-how, and an ample supply of skilled labor, it is easy to see why Michigan industry has made such an impressive record.

have already been received in support of the current aid to non-public schools issue. Letters opposing the legislation arrived later. While lawmakers do not have time to personally assess every bill, several thousand letters will assuredly bring a second and closer look at proposed legislation.

Personal insults serve no purpose in letters and may cause a negative reaction, the lawmakers agree. Letters are usually more effective than telephone calls or telegrams. They should be personally written. The best letter will point out exactly what action is requested and why, in terms the lawmaker can understand and consider reasonable.

COMPENSATION CLIMBS

Concerned citizens may wonder what will happen to the state's unemployment benefit fund if a large number of workers are ever unemployed. Some 94,000 more people were employed in Michigan in 1967 than in 1966.

Nonetheless, payments to the unemployed rose 80% in that one year, from $62 million to $111 million! The Michigan Employment Security Commission attributes the increase to three major factors: liberalizing eligibility and length of pay periods; raising the ceiling of payments; cutbacks in automobile production with accompanying layoffs.

All three factors resulted in more claims for benefits in '67 than in 1966. Most of the increase came from the Metropolitan Detroit area.

"DEAR SIR"

Letters to legislators can have an important impact on pending laws. Lawmakers are generally sensitive to feelings of their constituents and many look to mail from "the folks back home" before deciding whether to support legislation or oppose it.

This is especially true if the issue is "hot." Last year's Daylight Savings Time and abortion bills are good examples. Letters ran so strongly against legalizing abortion that the bill never got out of committee.

The volume of mail on a particular bill is very important. It is estimated that between 70,000 and 100,000 letters
