

Discuss changes at high school

Seniors are sure to applaud a decision of the Cass City School Board approved Tuesday night at its regular session at Cass City High School.

The board okayed a plan submitted by Principal Arthur Holmberg that will end school a week early and eliminate final exams for graduating Seniors.

Holmberg said that the plan is designed so that the school can determine whether or not a student is eligible for graduation before the ceremony.

In the past, he pointed out, we sometimes had students listed on the graduation roster and were unable to give them a diploma because they did not successfully complete the work. This plan will eliminate this embarrassment.

The semester grade for seniors will be established on tests given prior to the formal finals held at the school, Holmberg said.

Accordingly, the final day of school for Seniors this year is June 7. Since the Seniors this year will not be taking a trip, it is expected that a Class Day will be held during the final week of school and practice for commencement in the new high school will be held during the free week.

Holmberg also continued a discussion started at the previous month's meeting and cut short by a discussion with Owen-Gage school board.

He explained some curriculum changes contemplated by administrators.

TEACHER LUNCHEON

The board agreed to pay for a teacher luncheon at the end of the year again this year, but the program will be reviewed for 1968-69.

It is possible that the luncheon will be held at the opening of school instead of at the end of the year.

Traditionally, a dinner is held with the new teachers and the board meeting together. This may be replaced with the fall luncheon. Interest in the get-acquainted meeting has been sparse in recent years.

TRACTOR SURVEY

Trustees Ken Maharg and Elwyn Helwig were appointed to investigate a tractor for mowing at the schools. They will report to the board with specifications.

In other business election inspectors were authorized. Four inspectors and an alternate will be named.

Dennis Rienstra signed a contract to teach junior high math. Richard Scoville resigned to seek a varsity coaching job and Mrs. Barbara Tuckey was granted a leave of absence.

SECRET SESSION

Following the portion of the meeting open to the press and the public, the usual secret session of the board was held.

Owen-Gage sets commencement

Commencement exercises for the Owendale-Cagetown High School graduating class of 1968 will be held May 31 in the Owendale gymnasium at 8 p.m. Baccalaureate service will be May 26 at 8 p.m.

Rev. Basil Curtiss of the Owendale and Cagetown Methodist Churches will conduct the baccalaureate service. Tom Goodale of Michigan State University will deliver the commencement address.

In 1965 Goodale was appointed admission counselor at MSU and in 1967 added the duties of director of Orientation Programs.

Of the forty-two graduating seniors, sixteen have made plans to continue their formal education in some way. Three others have made commitments to join the navy after graduation.

Concluded on page four.

THE SUNSHINE SCHOOL now being used by migratory farm workers was badly damaged by fire Tuesday. Cause of the blaze is unknown and is being investigated. Elkland township firemen responded to the alarm. Loss was estimated at $2,500.

Decker Methodist Church celebrates 75th anniversary

For the first time in 75 years a bride-to-be will have the opportunity to walk down the center aisle of the Decker United Methodist Church.

Since its organization in the 1890's there has been no wedding in the church due to the lack of a center aisle and a place for the bridal party to prepare for the wedding.

Recent remodeling of the church has changed all this and now only a bride is needed. Meantime the church is preparing to celebrate its 75th anniversary with a special program on May 19.

Records on the history of the church are sparse. Memories, notes and journals of Decker's first families have been used in an attempt to bring the history together. Unfortunately memories differ as to dates, places and names, thus an accurate history is not available. Mrs. George Scheibner, a resident of Decker for 22 years, has gathered as much information on the church as possible and is largely responsible for the information in this article.

The actual founding of the church is not known. Records do show that services were first held in Pidd's school, a mile and a half south of Decker.

The Ladies Aid Society was founded December 14, 1894. Sometime between 1893 and 1897 a church was built across from the Pidd school and dedicated in 1897. Rev. Temple was pastor at the time, with dedication of the church performed by Rev. Springer, District Superintendent.

BUY PARSONAGE

In 1913 it was decided to move the church building to its present location on Church Street. Seven years later parishioners felt they needed a home for their minister. In 1920 the church board agreed to help buy the church parsonage with surplus bean money. A motion was approved to donate $75 if the parsonage was purchased. In 1921 the parsonage was bought, with Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Pacey as the first occupants.

A growing congregation in a too small building brought forth considerable discussion on enlarging the church. In 1929 the Decker Methodist Church was acquired, moved with considerable trouble, and placed in position joining the Methodist church.

The move was not an easy one. Three and a half miles were involved, over a route of log streets, through mud, and around corners. With the aid of an oil powered threshing machine owned by Newton Auslander, planks and plenty of manpower, the move was completed in four days. A breakdown occurred and the building was left overnight near the farm of John Jickling, now the Wendorf Bros. Dairy Farm. Because of road conditions planks had to be laid in front of the building as it was slowly moved along on rollers.

The buildings were remodeled and on June 9, 1929 the church was dedicated. Attending the dedication ceremonies were former pastors J. Diben, J. Sherlock, Merle Townsend, A. Thompson, W. L. Jones and C. H. Wright. Rev. Bert Ede was pastor.

In 1957 land for a parking lot was donated to the church by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cossin. The Cossins, residents of Florida, had purchased the land to build a new home on. Their plans were changed and the land donated to the church. Mrs. Cossin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will Allen, members of the church for many years.

A two-car garage for the parsonage was built in 1962. During the same year a Baldwin organ was purchased for the church by the Friendship Class, a group of young married couples, in memory of Mrs. Arthur Adam.

Rev. William Burgess, present pastor, was appointed to the Decker church in 1963. Now completing his fifth year, Rev. Burgess looks with pride upon the newly remodeled church.

REMODELING COMPLETED

The ceilings of both buildings have been lowered to an even height throughout. A new ceiling was installed and insulation added to the walls. Paneling, indirect lighting, and windows which appear blue looking in and white looking out, have transformed the double building into one. New pews were purchased and placed into position to form the missed center aisle.

Underclassmen named to the society were: Juniors - Tom Kolb, Neil McCallum, Joan Orzel, Marsha Parrott and Linda Wright.

Freshmen - Carolyn Jones and Jude Patnaude.

At school Question

commendable Federal course

Even though an inspection report revealed that Cass City has a "commendable" Title I program, school administrators are not wholly convinced that the instruction is worth the money it costs.

Intermediate Principal Robert Stickle reported that the program uses about $21,000 in Federal funds each year and has shown "some positive results", but wasn't good enough so that he could say definitely that it was an unqualified success.

However, we feel our program is better than 80 per cent of the others in the State, Stickle explained.

But some of the teachers do not like the way the program is administered and there are more and more Federal restrictions each year, Stickle told the board.

President Horace Bulen asked how a State department representative could evaluate a program in a couple of hours. Stickle said that he didn't feel that it could be done.

You must remember, he said, that we are working with the slower learners and these students will not show a great leap in learning regardless of the type program initiated.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that he didn't feel that the taxpayers in the district would vote an extra mill (the approximate cost of the program) to keep the program alive, but since the money was available, he felt it worth maintaining as long as it remained self-sustaining with Federal funds.

Seven seek school posts

Seven candidates will seek the two open seats on the Cass City School Board, having filed their petitions prior to Monday's deadline.

Seeking re-election June 10 to a four-year term is Kenneth Maharg. William Ruhl has announced he will not seek another term. Challenging Maharg are William Bliss Sr., Alice Guernsey, Gerald Hicks, Dean Hoag, Ronald Prefontaine and Arthur Severance.

One injured in accident

Roland Lewis Nicholas of Gagetown was injured slightly when his car went out of control on the Bay City-Forestville road May 12 and hit a tree stump. Nicholas told the Tuscola County Sheriff Department that he did not know what happened.

No injuries were reported in a minor two-car accident May 9 at the intersection of Pine and

Redistricting poses problems

Reapportionment in Tuscola and Sanilac counties is not expected to cause unsurmountable problems, but has resulted in a flurry of activity as supervisors ponder what the changes mean to them politically.

In Tuscola county, the only questions remaining in the new seven-district governmental unit are who will be the representatives from each district and how much they will be paid.

In district two (Elmwood, Elkland, Ellington and Novesta townships) supervisors are uncertain what course to take. The new units of government will not replace the township boards who will carry on essentially as they do today with the exception of attending supervisors' sessions in Caro.

Milton Hofmeister, Elmwood supervisor since 1959, said that he is undecided about announcing his candidacy. "Right now the whole thing is up in the air," he added.

Ed Goding Sr., who fathered the seven-district plan adopted last year by Tuscola county, said that he has "been thinking about it," but hasn't made up his mind.

Elmer Conant, Ellington supervisor for 15 years, said that he will not seek a seat on the board. Gail Parrott, Novesta township supervisor, said he will not seek a district post.

SANILAC COUNTY

In Sanilac county, the situation is not as well defined. Sanilac officials have not yet adopted a redistricting plan. They were to have met Wednesday evening to consider five and seven-district proposals. Candidates from the new districts must file petitions with county clerks by 4 p. m. June 18. The representatives will be elected in November and take office Jan. 1.

The last minute haste by county officials was caused when Attorney General Frank Kelly said that, in light of the U. S. Supreme Court decision upholding the one man, one vote theory, Michigan's counties must redistrict themselves in time for the November election.

Settle street program

Curb and gutter work in Cass City will be completed on Woodland Street, from Main Street south for three blocks, and on Oak Street north from Main to Rose Street. One block of Seed from Oak to Seger is tentatively scheduled if funds are available.

The decision was reached by the Cass City Village Council Tuesday, May 7, after a joint meeting with the planning commission.

The final decision was a switch from the original plans which called for curb and gutter on Oak from Main to Third, but was discarded when the majority of property owners there declined to sign petitions.

The cost of this year's work to the village will be around $20,000. Village President Lambert Althaver reported. Cost to the property owner will be 110 per cent of the price of the curb. The actual cost per foot will not be known until after bids are opened at the regular meeting of the council May 28.

Oak Street will be 40-feet wide because of intermediate school traffic and Woodland Street the standard 32-feet wide.

Hospital week

Note proposed changes at local hospitals

"Hospitals are people" is the theme being used for the May 12 through 18 observance of Michigan Hospital Week. In proclaiming Hospital Week, Gov. George Romney said, "hospitals of Michigan serve as centers for research and health education as well as offering facilities for the prevention and cure of illness."

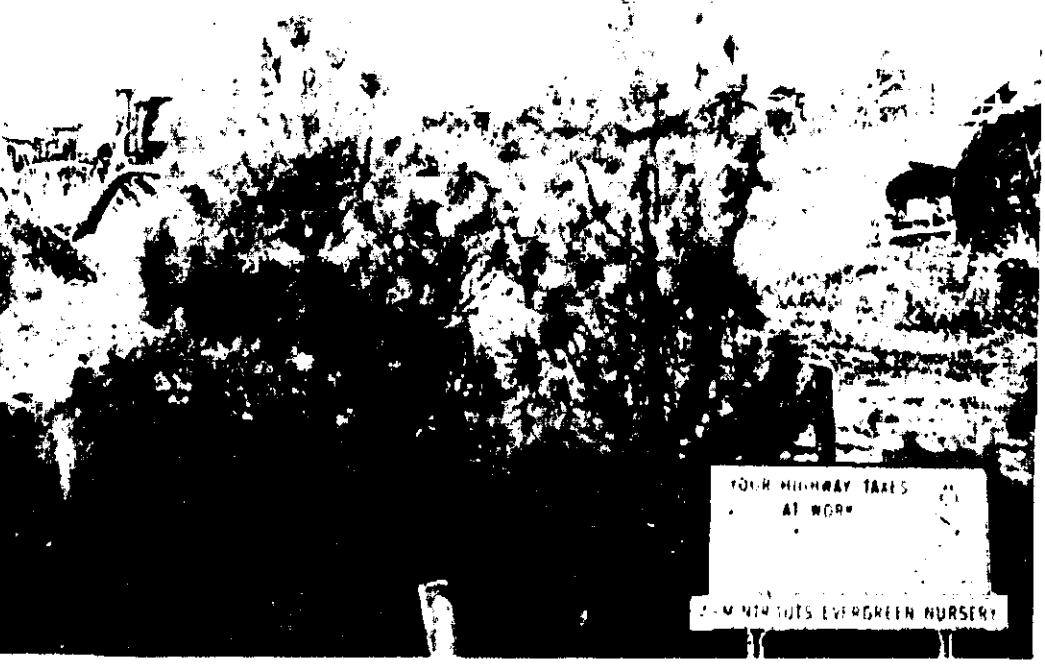

Frank Haythorn, administrator of Hills and Dales General Hospital, feels that times have caused many changes in hospitals. Relation between the hospital and the public is much better. Due to increase in salary and better working conditions, personnel feel different towards their jobs and the patients. Patients are out of the hospital sooner due to equipment and increase of knowledge. Heart patients no longer have to face the long trying stay they once did.

"In two years we hope to have a complete heart unit within the hospital," Haythorn stated. The unit would consist of defibrillators, monitors, crash cart, and intensive nursing care. In June two nurses, Mrs. Janet Stricken and Miss Doreen Schmidt, will attend a two-week course in intensive care at the University of Michigan. Almost every month we have someone attending special treatment courses. It is necessary to keep up with the changes."

STILL PEAKING OUT from behind the newly planted screen of trees is the junk yard at the corner of M-53 and M-81. The planting was completed early this week by highway department crews as part of the Federal "Keep America Beautiful Campaign". The trees are designed to screen the junk from motorists driving on M-53.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

The Cass City School Board and Supt. Donald Crouse do not believe that the school election this year will draw as many voters as last year's election when the community college was an issue.

I can't report just what the guesses were, but they varied from somewhere in the 400's to over 800.

I guessed that the same number would vote as they did last year. I was judging by the number of candidates for office.

But after looking up the results in last year's paper, I kind of wish that I hadn't said a thing.

Because the 960-odd votes cast last year was a new record for the school district.

Still, there is an off-chance that the interest generated by the candidates will set another new record this year. . . . I don't ask me to bet on it.

Williamston, through its Chamber of Commerce, will perform two miracles May 18. The first is that, according to a press release, an estimated 80 and 90 per cent of the merchants in the community have agreed to paint 80 to 90 per cent of the business community on this day.

That's the minor miracle. The major miracle is finding enough painters and workers to do the job all at once. Long-range plans for the community includes an Early American theme, developing areas of open space and greenery and expanded parking.

Forty of 41 businesses contacted at the time of the press release agreed to the project. It's a good example of co-operative effort by a business community.

Want to feel young again? Better go back to college. According to authorities at Saginaw Valley College, older women get "younger" when they return to school. They start to dress younger and the age differential between themselves and students, young enough to be their own children, fades into insignificance.

And in addition, according to Dr. Samuel D. Marble, president, they do very well in school. In the April graduating class the two students who graduated summa cum laude, with the highest honors, were mature married women.

Maybe life does begin at 40.

Organization changed

17 seniors on honor society

Among the other changes that followed the reorganization of the Cass City School system after the completion of the new high school, was a change in the charter of the local chapter of the National Honor Society. In its 23 years to date, the chapter has included grades seven through nine, while members of the senior chapter have been elected from grades 10-12. With the inclusion of the seventh and eighth grades in the Intermediate School, the senior division will henceforth encompass grades nine and 10, with senior society members selected from the eleventh and twelfth grades.

One result of this change was that no new members were elected this year from the tenth grade since the full quota was reached from this class last year and their membership will be continued to the end of the year.

Eighteen new members, from grades nine, 11 and 12 were recently named to membership in the society and were inducted at a service held Wednesday evening in the high school cafeteria.

Most of the old members of the society had a part in the planning or conducting of Wednesday's program. Among the seniors who participated were Eric Esau, chairman; Joan Maleck, Kathy Mark, Jack Selby, Elizabeth Smentek and Donald Hostetler, who had speaking parts, and Per Peterson, foreign exchange student, who spoke on education in his native Denmark. Membership certificates were presented by Jerry Cleland, high school guidance counselor.

Guiding the Honor Society's activities, and supervising this induction service, was Dave Ackerman, society adviser.

Following Wednesday's program, attended by many of the parents of the honor students, refreshments were provided by the advanced Home Economics students, under the supervision of Katie Jackson, homemaking teacher.

The seniors who will graduate as Honor Society members are: Nancy Auvil, Paula Copeland, Eric Esau, Sandra Geiger, Larry Hartwick, Donald Hostetler, Joan Maleck, Kathy Mark, Mike Murphy, Janet Parrott, Per Peterson, Brenda Powell, Dan Rabideau, Jack Selby, Elizabeth Smentek, Eugene Steinhel and Dennis Stine.

Underclassmen named to the society were: Juniors - Tom Kolb, Neil McCallum, Joan Orzel, Marsha Parrott and Linda Wright.

Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. William King of Deford announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia Joyce King, to Leonard R. Kaake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Kaake, also of Deford. A summer wedding is planned.

Mrs. Darrell Fuller

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, Cass City, was the scene of the May 4 wedding of Betty Jane Grigg and Darrell Fuller.

Rev. Richard Eyer performed the early morning ceremony before an altar decorated with palms, white glads and mums. Mrs. Harold Rutherford, Vassar, sang the Wedding Prayer and The Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Fred Iseler was organist.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Grigg of Cass City, was given in marriage by her father. She wore a bouffant silhouette gown interpreted in organza and French Chantilly lace. Lace framed the gown's bodice which was complemented with a scalloped neckline and tapered wrist points sleeves. The full skirt, styled in redingote effect over a cascade of ruffles to its hemline, was accented with a removable Watteau shoulder train of Chapel length edged with lace.

The bride's butterfly illusion veil of English mist fell softly from a floral and petal headpiece adorned with pearls and iridescents. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and American Beauty roses with white streamers.

Donna Thurston of Caro was Maid of Honor. She wore a blue gown of silk organza over taffeta, styled with a Mandarin neckline, daisy applique empire bodice, banded with daisy lace and a sheath skirt featuring a Watteau panel in the back. She carried a cascade of white and tinted carnations and mums.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Lyle W. Grigg, Munger; Mrs. Eldon L. Grigg, Saginaw; and Mrs. Neal R. Grigg, Munger, all sisters-in-law of the bride. The bridal party wore gowns of yellow, mint green and pink. Miss Pamela Bublitz of Bay City was Junior Bridesmaid. She was attired in an orchid organza over taffeta gown featuring an oval neckline, high rise waist and floor-length skirt appliqued with lace. Miss Robin E. Grigg of Munger and niece of the bride was flower girl.

SPORTS FANS!

I
KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

How's this for an oddity... The Chicago White Sox team of 1908 was able to hit only three home runs ALL season -- and unusual as that fact is, here's something even more unbelievable... Even though the White Sox hit only three homers all season, they still finished third in the American League that year!

Do you have any idea how many boys now play Little League baseball? ... There are now over 1-million boys officially enrolled in Little League ball every year. ... And, Little League baseball is now played in a total of 28 different countries. ... Little League ball has grown from one league in one city when it started to now more than 7,000 leagues around the world.

How would you like to get an electric bill every month for $60,000... Did you know that's how much it costs to run the air conditioning in Houston's Astrodome... It costs $2,000 a day just to keep the air conditioning on, and it must be on every hour of every day to protect the building... That figures out to $60,000 for electricity every month!

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held April 30, 1968, at the Municipal Building. All members were present.

The minutes of the regular March meeting were read and approved as read.

The financial report for March was reviewed.

Trustee Albee reporting for the street committee indicated that the petition to curb and gutter Oak street lacked sufficient signatures. The signatures on North Oak represent 80% of the footage and the signatures on the South Oak portion represent only 50%. She explained that in contacting these people the objection faced the first block was the removal of the trees along the side of the Chronicle Office

HOSPITALS NOTE PROGRESS

Concluded from page one. Haythorn has been administrator of Hills and Dales for the past year and two months. "I believe," he mused, "that this is one of the most progressive small hospitals I have ever had the pleasure to be in. Our records were recently examined by Blue Cross, for medicare, and the examiner stated that our hospital is 'far above average.'"

At present there are 50 patients in the hospital. Total number of patients for the year is 860. "We are operating just about at capacity," Haythorn stated, hoping that perhaps a new wing is somewhere in the offing.

The present board of directors consists of James Bauer, president; Alex Ross, vice-president; M. B. Aulen, treasurer; Mrs. Sherwood Rice, Jr., secretary; and Willis Campbell, Archie McLachlan, B. A. Calka, Mrs. James Champion and George Jacoby, trustees.

During Hospital Week pamphlets will be placed on the patient's breakfast tray, pamphlets that state in part, "a machine does not care - in the hospital people care for people."

CASS CITY HOSPITAL. "People care for people." Extensive care patients are in need of people. Many of the patients do not have anyone. Some are placed in the hospital and forgotten. William Stanley, administrator of Cass City Hospital, realizes this need, as do the staff. "Even if it is just someone to talk to," Stanley said, "it helps."

In time the hospital intends to go into extensive care exclusively. The majority of the staff is well acquainted with extensive care, but some in-training will be necessary. To comply with Federal and State regulations, occupational therapy and speech therapy will have to be added. At the present time the hospital is working closely with Hills and Dales General Hospital in physical therapy.

The hospital is presently in the process of completing the first floor. Approximately 10 additional beds will be added, with room for occupational therapy and a recreation area. Tentative completion date for the remodeling is October 1st. Remodeling will also be done to make some of the rooms larger and the nursery will be turned into a two-patient room.

Stanley has been with Cass City Hospital since September. The hospital is staffed with three registered nurses, and is looking for more, eight full time aides and five part time aides.

Heading the board of directors is Jack Esau, president, with Chester Muntz, vice-president, and Mrs. Betty Kinn, secretary. Other members of the board are Edwin Good, Orville Mallory, Clifford Croft, Mrs. Donald Lorenzen, Cecil Brown, Robert Burns and Leo Ware.

Pair win points at Oscoda relay

Two thirteens from Cass City won points in the tough competition at the Oscoda relays Saturday when every meet record but two was broken in Class B.

Jim Selby finished fourth in the two-mile race with a 10:26.6 and Larry Hartwick was fourth in the mile with a time of 4:48.

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A special meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held at the Municipal Building May 7, 1968, with the members of the Planning Commission. The meeting was called for the purpose of reviewing the problems faced in connection with curb and gutter for Oak Street. All members of the Council and four members of the Planning Commission were present.

After considerable discussion Trustee Selby moved that the local street program for 1968 include curb and gutter for three blocks of Woodland bordered on the North by Main and on the South by Third, and four blocks of North Oak bordered on the South by Main and the North by Rose, and one block of Seed between Oak and Seeger if money is available. Trustee Albee supported the motion. Yes 6, No 0, - motion carried.

Iseler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Iseler.

Hawks drop non-loop game

Cass City lost a non-league game to Millington Monday, 8-5, at Cass City Recreation Park. Coach Jim Wynes used the contest to give game experience to the players who will anchor the team in coming years.

Robbie Alexander started on the mound and lasted three and a third innings and was charged with all of Millington's runs... mostly through wildness. Kim Hopper finished and blanked Millington the rest of the way.

Each team collected four hits. Mike Murphy hammered out a pair of doubles and Hopper collected the other two hits.

Millington salted the game away with a five-run scoring burst in the second and a three-run outburst in the fourth.

The Hawks fought back to put the tying run at the plate in the seventh, but the rally fizzled when Millington sent its ace hurler to the mound for the final two outs.

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1968

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR TUSCOLA COUNTY DRAIN COMMISSIONER

LESLIE

(SEVEN YEARS EXPERIENCE AS ASSISTANT TO THE PRESENT
COMMISSIONER)

AUG. 6 PRIMARY ELECTION
PD, POL, ADV.

Name I. Claseman faculty rep. at Port Huron

Irving H. Claseman was elected faculty representative to the newly-formed Port Huron Catholic High School Board of Education.

Membership of the board of education is comprised of eight pastors and eight laymen, representing the supporting parishes, an elected member of the home-school organization, the high school principal, vice-principal and one faculty representative.

Claseman, during his six-year tenure at Port Huron Catholic, has served as social studies instructor, physical education teacher, coach and athletic director.

The Claseman family are former Cass City residents when he was with the Cass City Schools.

Two thousand Michigan firms engage in world trade.

Michigan's public roads and streets would go around the equator four times.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

Tourist,
hurry home !

By Marion Hostetler

Harold and Ione Perry recently returned from a trip to New England. After visiting Wayne, Jane, and Lisa at New London, Connecticut, they made a stop at Bennington, Vermont. There, on a farm that belonged to Harold's great-grandfather Perry, the Battle of Bennington was fought on April 16, 1777.

Since returning here Harold has made quite a study of Revolutionary history. He finds that at Bennington, John Stark and an army of 1500 New Hampshire citizens routed a force of British soldiers and Hessian mercenaries who were moving south out of Canada.

These professional European soldiers were dumbfounded by the fact that in this country all sorts of able-bodied civilians were eager to take up arms against an invader. Back in Europe they had been accustomed to think that they could move through the countryside with impunity until they encountered the army of the enemy. Civilians would either flee to the woods or cower in their cottages.

Harold has a book about New England that tells about one Reuben Stebbins of Williams-town, Massachusetts, who had "not seen fittin' to turn out" until he heard the noise of the fighting across the state line at nearby Bennington. That helped him to make up his mind. He saddled his horse, called for his musket, and remarked as he rode off, "We'll see who's goin' to own this farm!"

This meant, "Do . . . you . . . love . . . me?"

If she gave him a single squeeze in return, it meant "No" . . . but what girl in her right mind would say that to any guy who was willing to hold her hand? So she would give him three squeezes, which meant, "Yes, I do."

Then his two squeezes meant, "How much?" Her single squeeze in reply indicated by its enthusiasm either "Very much" or "Just a little."

Oh, to be young and foolish again, now that spring is here!

If you want to give a good travel talk to your friends when you come back, don't stay anywhere too long. That's the advice of Dave MacRae and Les Searls, who are home after spending four months as students in England.

"When we first went to London with sixty other students from Oakland University, I went around snapping pictures of all the famous landmarks," says Dave. "Later, I lost the roll of film that had all those views on it."

"But by that time we had decided to go native. We let our hair grow longer so we would look like Englishmen; I even raised a beard. We started saying 'Ta' when we meant 'Thank you.' Instead of wearing only a casual shirt, we began to wear woolen sweaters or Harris tweed jackets on the street." (They were very cheap -- you could buy a good sweater for the equivalent of $5 and a hand-woven tweed jacket for $15, according to Les.)

"But that's what ruined us as tourists. We felt so at home that we didn't feel the urge to take pictures of public buildings, any more than we felt like snapping a slide of the Pliny State Bank when we were in Cass City. Instead, things British began to look 'normal' to us, and we began to wonder about some of the senseless things going on in the American colonies that we read about in the 15 or 20 daily papers that are published in London."

Michigan has a greater variety of minerals-metallic and non-metallic-than any area of comparable size in the world.

School scribbles

By L. H.

W. Campbell Elementary

Early Wednesday afternoon, May 8, it rained. Therefore, the students in Mrs. Cardew's room wrote some original poems about rain. Here are a couple of examples of their work:

"RAIN"
by Steve Ballard
Grade 2

There I was in my bed
All of a sudden ka-boom!
Then I heard little noises.
I looked out the window

And I saw little diamonds
Falling from the sky.
And those little diamonds
Took all my problems away.

"RAIN"
by Mark Spencer
Grade 2

The rain fell on my lawn
Then I had to cut it all day long.

It fell on the big trees
It fell on the blue seas.
It fell in the big woods
It fell on flower hoods.
Then I saw a little light
Then it was a beautiful sight.
Mrs. Stickle's class had a nature study class. Actually it wasn't planned, but it more or less just turned out that way when some of the students brought animals to class. Vicki Vandiver brought ten tadpoles, a fresh water clam, two snails with "blue mouths", and two frogs; Eddie Schwartz brought six tadpoles and two fish; Janice Heckroth contributed a butterfly; Alan Crouse brought a chameleon, and Joey Windy brought a painted turtle.

The Stanford Achievement Tests were to be given in grades one through four of the Campbell Elementary School on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, May 14, 15, and 16.

Cass City Intermediate

The eighth grade class had a class meeting Friday to discuss their trip to Greenfield Village. (The eighth grade trip to Greenfield Village is more or less a custom at Cass City.)

C. C. H. S.

Last week a number of college representatives came to CCHS to talk to interested juniors and seniors. Mr. Seeley, admissions counselor at MSU, and Mr. Kuba, admissions counselor at the United Electronics Institute, were on hand Tuesday, and Mr. Danielson, from Miami College, was present Thursday.

Also on Tuesday, a number of teachers dismissed their classes to go see a movie, which was sponsored by the Future Teachers Club. The movie was to have been the story of "Mike" - a potential dropout, but as it turned out, everybody ended up listening to a speech by LBJ because the wrong film strip was sent to the school!

Every night last week there was play practice from 6:00 p. m. to about 11:00 p. m. Would you believe that after awhile it catches up with you? The play was presented Friday and Saturday nights, May 10 and 11.

CLUB NEWS

The Spanish Club had a taco party at the home of Mr. Leonard Rabideau Tuesday night. After the party, a business meeting was held and Sandy Schuette was elected as next year's president.

The G.A.A. had a softball practice Tuesday evening at 8:30 p. m.

Mrs. Ross speaks at annual meet

Mrs. Lois Humphrey, Michigan State University Extension Program Leader, explained "Extension in Michigan" by introducing three area extension home economists, including Mrs. Margaret Ann Ross, at the annual Michigan home economics association meeting.

Mrs. Ross described the elderly project in Sanilac county, which is a study to assess needs of this age group. She also detailed a series of three lessons on sex morality recently held in Reese with Reese physician, Dr. George Gugino, as resource person.

The theme for this annual state meeting was "Voices of Home Economics".

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
Bug Hookum announced at the session at the country store Saturday night he had given powerful thought to the world money situation and had now come up with the answer.

What we got to do, Bugallow-ed, is ferget all this talk about cheap dollars and high price of gold and come up with a new money. He said he had figured the thing up one side and down the other and had decided tobacco is what we ought to use.

Congress and I long been convinced the only answer to Congress is prayer.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Two things you can depend on:

Changing weather and Leonard farm service!

You know Michigan weather: if you don't like it right now, don't worry, it will change! But, Leonard farm service never changes. You get what you need — top quality and complete dependability. You get DEEP POWER gasoline, golden Superheat fuel oil, quality motor oil and lubricants — when you need them — bright days or bad days, day or night. Try us and see!

Evergreen reunion planned for June 1 at Shabbona school

The annual school reunion of Evergreen school will be held June 1 at the schoolhouse in Shabbona.

Teachers, pupils, and friends of the school are invited to attend the reunion which begins at 11:00 a. m. A potluck dinner will be served at noon.

Place your cleanest pan here.

If it's this clean, you don't have to read this ad.

You probably have an electric range already.

There's no flame with an electric range. So there's no sooty combustion to dirty up pots and pans or soil kitchen walls and curtains. It's the cleanest way to cook.

With many electric ranges, you can forget messy oven cleaning. They clean themselves, automatically, for about 7 1/2 cents per cleaning. There's free installation, too. Buy now at any retail dealer and Edison will pay installation cost. (As long as your electric range is installed on Detroit Edison lines in any existing residence up to and including a four-family flat.) And Edison repairs or replaces electric operating parts—no charge for parts or labor.

For a bright difference in your pots and pans—and maybe even in your family's appetite—switch to an electric range. EDISON

Around The Farm*Know products when seeking bargains

By Don Kebler

All of us shop for bargains and at the same time seek quality. To achieve this goal we must know all about the commodity we purchase.

Two visits last week were good examples of price alone buying and not knowing the commodity best suited for the need.

The first concerns fertilizer buying, the second chemical weed spray.

The person with the fertilizer questions was trying to compare quality to needs to price. The many blends, granulated, bulk and bagged products on the market had him really confused. He had a soil test and when he said he wanted a fertilizer for planting time I mentioned Michigan State University research on the advantages of high water solubility phosphorus when applied in a band at planting time. When it was explained that the higher phosphorus analysis fertilizers were most apt to be of greater water solubility, we went into comparing the different fertilizers he had been investigating.

He asked about bulk blends and granulated fertilizers to which I replied with the comments of Bus Robertson, your MSU soils specialist. Bus' comments on this subject are that except for the physical forms, fertilizers of equal analysis give basically the same results if used in the same manner. Granulated fertilizers may not be as dusty as bulk blends when handling in the field. So the buyer's selection really depends on convenience, preference, service price and what's available.

When we compared prices of the several dealers he had visited, there were differences as expected. He commented on one of the bulk blend prices being high. On closer examination it was found the price was actually one of the lowest on the basis of nutrients supplied for the cost. This particular dealer was selling his blend fertilizer with no added filler. So even though the price per ton was higher than a competitor's equal analysis blend the user would apply lesser amounts of the fertilizer not having the added filler, supply the same, plant food and at a lower cost. Besides he would be handling less fertilizer to accomplish the same job.

HERBICIDES

The second example involved which crop herbicide would be best suited for the operator's needs. This operator had applied atrazine for quackgrass control in 1967 and had achieved a real good kill. He plans to plant corn on this field in 1968, harvest the corn as silage and make a fall band seeding of alfalfa. With the quackgrass control obtained he felt his real weed problems would come from annual broadleaf weeds. After comparing our recommended corn weed control herbicides, the next two crops and the type of weed problem, he decided to apply 2,4-Damine post emergence when his corn is 6 to 8 inches high. The rate he would apply would be 1/2 pound active ingredient per acre. Following this plan he could effect a good control at a saving because he didn't believe even a band application of the other herbicides recommended would meet his needs.

What's wrong with our thin wheat fields this spring? Here is what we have determined to have caused the thin poor stands of wheat in the county. Basically these affected wheat fields are the cause of winter kill and this is what has happened.

The wheat plants do not show the appearance usually associated with winter kill but, winter kill is not always observed as an outright killing of the plant.

In the case of this year's winter killed wheat, we find the lower root crowns killed with no new roots developing this spring. The leaves are living from the food stored in the upper crown last fall and not from this spring's root uptake.

So, unless new spring roots develop the leaves will run out of stored food and die out. So if your wheat doesn't appear normal dig up some affected plants and examine the root structure. If no new white roots are developing that wheat plant is living on borrowed time. This winter kill is generally found more on the poorly drained fields. The soil in these fields was unable to dry out sufficiently last fall to allow the young wheat plants to harden off before winter set-in.

For thin wheat populated fields not being worked up, winter annual weeds can be a more serious problem than in a good stand. Applied herbicides when the wheat is fully tillered and before the boot stage may pay off.

MSU slates new animal program

A new program, animal technology, has been announced by Michigan State University Institute of Agricultural Technology and College of Veterinary Medicine. This program will begin on September 23 and applications are now being accepted for the program, which is designed to meet the unprecedented demand for technically trained specialists in laboratory animal care and pet health.

Colleges, universities, drug companies, research firms, hospitals, animal breeders, zoos and veterinary hospitals are hiring people to care for their animals, comments Bernard Jarodot, Extension 4-H Youth Agent in Tuscola county. The number and variety of job opportunities will continue to increase rapidly during the coming years.

Michigan State University is one of the few schools in the country offering training in animal technology. Experimental use of small animals by industry and health service institutions has grown at an annual rate of 15 to 20 per cent over the past ten years.

Training in the Michigan State University program will take one or two years, depending on the curriculum followed. During the spring and summer terms, students will receive actual on-the-job training in private industry, offering them an opportunity to earn while learning.

Interested youth may well consider background training in the 4-H Youth program projects, such as veterinary science, animal science, and dairy science projects along with small animal projects. Also training in vocational agriculture in local high schools can be of great help in the preparation for such a career.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross

The credit card is a modern convenience - but treat it with proper care and respect. You could save money in the long run, says Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb Extension Home Economist.

It pays to keep tabs on your credit cards. Losses piled up from the misuse of lost credit cards have been figured around $30 to $40 million every year. Your key to protection is prompt reporting of a lost credit card. Keep a master list of all your credit cards and their numbers for handy reference if you need to notify the company. Knowing which ones you had with you when you went shopping will make reporting quicker and easier should you lose one.

Haste does not make waste in reporting a lost card. Phone or telegram the company right away; then write them a letter as well. Otherwise, they will bill you for any charges made on the card regardless of who makes them.

You can get insurance to cover losses from bills charged to a lost card. It is usually in the form of a small premium added to a regular homeowner's insurance policy. Saving all charge slips from credit card purchases makes a handy cross-reference on the company's billing accuracy, too. Then you can compare your records with the itemized bill the company sends at the end of the month.

Echo Chapter OES Donates to 2 funds

The meeting of Echo Chapter OES was held May 8 when officers conferred the degrees on a new member.

During the business meeting, members voted a $50.00 contribution to the Thumb Association scholarship fund and $10.00 to the cancer fund.

Plans were made for a Friends' Night meeting to be held June 6.

An invitation has been issued by Tyler Lodge F & AM to Echo Chapter and Job's Daughters to join in annual Memorial services Sunday, May 26, at 11 a. m. in Cass City Methodist Church.

It Seems To Me

Race riots-such a complete waste

By Rev. R. J. Searls

Such a complete waste! I am thinking about the race riots as I write this. Every news telecast shows one more picture of neighborhoods with which I am familiar. In most cases these neighborhoods were slum housing, way back to the days when I was in high school. Our protectors were the police patrolmen. But even then a sincere person could forecast 'Trouble Ahead'. As any classes in history taught us, there was 'Trouble Ahead'.

Cutting through the colored section to attend the baseball game at old Griffith Stadium, we began to feel unwanted and unsafe. Our love of watching the Senators lose yet another baseball game, or watching 'Slinging Sammy Baugh' throwing fantastic passes for the Redskins, I knew that we were watching another era go by, as Negroes began to buy larger and larger proportions of the boxes, and the bleachers, as well! 'Trouble Ahead'.

It is no longer a satisfactory answer to prate about keeping the Negro in his 'place.' 'Trouble Ahead!'

And then at the (morally) right time, Martin Luther King was raised up to become the truly educated leader. 'Trouble Ahead'. Now he is dead -- the victim of an assassin's shot. The cause he gave his life for must begin the almost hopeless task of selecting a successor to lead the civil rights movement. 'Trouble Ahead! Or, so 'It Seems To Me.'

Oh, Mother, may I go out to swim? Why not, my lovely daughter, You're so darned near naked anyhow. You'd look better in the water.

Pete: Why Repeat, you've got your socks on wrong side out. Repeat: Yes, my feet got hot so I turned the hose on them.

Parents in two St. Paul suburbs are protesting against sex education courses in public and Parochial schools. One group of parents is suing the school board to allow their children to be excused from attending that class. Leading the protestors is Mrs. Robert Murphy. Miss Genevieve Damkroger, family life consultant for the Minnesota State Department of Education, said the new curriculum integrates human growth and reproduction into science, social studies and health from kindergarten on. She stressed that the schools are not trying to "take the place of the home" or to teach their own brand of morality or leave out religion, as some parents have feared.

Having worked in this branch, on and off through the years, I have watched the churches that protest evade presenting for their children a meaningful, Christian interpretation of sex instruction. The truth of the matter is that if this special topic were interpreted in the home with both parents participating (having gone to special instructions beforehand from their church) the problem would soon fade away. Or, so 'It Seems To Me.'

The Rev. Melvin Vender is this columnist's expert on geriatrics (The art of living in the ebb tide of life -- sometimes known as the art of growing old gracefully.) He passes along some things you can do about arthritis. More than nine out of ten people over 60 show some form of arthritis. Most of this is "Osteoarthritis", a form of the disease that is simply the result of wear and tear in the joints (stay out of those joints!) While it is often mild and not bothersome, it may become painful and prove to be a physical handicap if left untreated. You can find out more about this illness by sending for "Osteoarthritis, A Handbook For Patients" free through Mr. Vender. And, see your doctor, too. 'It Seems To Me.'

Methodist and EUB lay agencies gave special attention to clergy salaries. Anticipating the coming union of the two religious bodies they proposed that the General Board of the Laity "develop a means by

King article exposes a nerve

By Dan Marlowe

The telephone calls have stopped, but the letters are still coming.

The column on Martin Luther King produced more letters to the editors in the papers in which the column appears and more letters directly to me than any column in three years.

My contention that King had changed two years ago from a man of peace to a misguided rabble rouser seemed to strike an exposed nerve. The response was both prompt and vehement. It ranged all the way from outright approval of my stand (70%) to unsigned diatribes consigning me to exterior darkness (2%). To the remaining 28% who took me to task in well-written, closely-reasoned arguments, I address myself today.

First, let's qualify the witness, as the lawyers say. What is my background to speak on the subject at all? In high school I played baseball and football on the same athletic teams with colored players. Later I lived and worked for 13 years in Washington, D.C., supervising colored employees. I have seen the problem at first hand. I have lived with the problem.

A more important qualification, perhaps, is that I'm now a councilman in a small community. I'm sworn to uphold law and order in that community. And I will tell you as bluntly as I know how that if anyone appeared in the community preaching the incitements to disorder that flavored the late speeches of Martin Luther King, I would do my legal best to stop him. As for King himself, we live in a tinderbox world, and the man who makes a match of himself can hardly expect to escape unscathed.

The majority of the dissenting letters to me contained the thread of a single argument: that King had to do what he did. That he had to break the law because the law was wrong. I reject the argument totally, because that way lies anarchy. Whether the individual likes it or not, and whether it is to his particular benefit or not, our laws are made with the idea in mind of the greatest good for the greatest number. It's perhaps superfluous to point out that our laws are all that separate us from the animalism of the Middle Ages.

Wilful lawbreaking is a deliberate challenge to the framework of society. King broke not only local put-down-the-colored laws; he broke the highest laws in the land. At least one of his trips to jail was the result of a decision by the United States Supreme Court. He was defiant. He was bellicose. He won a Nobel Peace Prize in 1964, but we are speaking of 1967 and 1968. In those years he was NOT a man of peace.

It's impossible, of course, to cover the ramifications of the subject in this column or in letters to the editor. That way lies over-simplification. I feel strongly enough about the subject, though, to make the following offer: I will debate anyone of the opposite persuasion at any time before any audience of his choosing.

I may not convince such an opponent, but I will be very much surprised if I can't show him the speciousness of some of his arguments.

What is a Pharmacist?

(Part One)

"Just what is a pharmacist? I mean, what does he do?"

I don't know whether you've ever asked to define the work you do, but it's something you come to expect in our profession.

Well, first of all, a pharmacist dispenses drugs and medicines, filling prescriptions as ordered by physicians, dentists and other medical practitioners. He no longer does much actual mixing of drugs to form solutions, ointments, pills, capsules and powders, because many medications are now manufactured in the form in which they will be used.

However, he must understand the nature and effect of the drugs he sells, and be able to test them for purity and strength. He provides information as to how they should be used, and sells many other medicines which can be bought without prescription.

In most community drug stores, a pharmacist spends much of his time in a variety of managerial duties: training and supervising his sales staff; sending out bills—and paying those that come in; checking the inventory and ordering supplies; and meeting with drug company salesmen, many of whom bring new information on the products they handle.

Once in a while there's a medical emergency in which the pharmacist becomes involved, such as the mother who phones for help with a sick child. The druggist must both provide first-aid information, and rush emergency help to the home.

All in all, it's a full and satisfying job!

Mission program for Lutherans

A glimpse of a missionary couple's life in Ghana, West Africa, was presented at the May 6 meeting of the Lutheran women's group at Good Shepherd Church.

Mrs. Theodore Zelle of Flint was the guest speaker. She displayed curios and showed slides of a two-week stay she and her husband made last fall to visit their daughter and her husband, Rev. and Mrs. Arnold Brammiller, stationed at Wamusi.

Mr. Brammiller is a classmate of the Rev. R. C. Eyer of Cass City and Mrs. Eyer is a former deaconess at the Flint church where the Rev. Theodore Zelle is pastor.

The Brammiller will return to the States in July for furlough.

In the African church, mostly men attend the services. Compared to an attendance of 30 adults, however, is the Sunday School where about 250 children attend. English is the official language of Ghana.

Mrs. Milton Hofmeister and Mrs. Adolf Sattelberg were hostesses at the dessert luncheon following the meeting. Guests for the evening included Mrs. Arthur Fortress, Mrs. Oscar Nixon, Mrs. Anthony Klopp, Mrs. Hedy Kessler and Mrs. R. E. Eyer of New Jersey.

The June 3 meeting of the group is Lutheran Women's Missionary League.

It was recently voted to continue meeting during the summer months this year.

Today in the United States, there are about 25,000,000 people with living TB germs in their bodies.

Legion Auxiliary meets Monday

Eighteen attended the American Legion Auxiliary meeting Monday evening, May 13, at the Legion hall.

In the business meeting, with Mrs. Albert Keller Jr. presiding, members voted a contribution to the cancer fund and made plans to participate in the Memorial Day program. The Department of Michigan state convention will be held July 18-21 in Lansing.

Membership chairman, Mrs. Garrison Stine, reports that membership for the current year is 81.

The president appointed to the nominating committee, Mrs. Stine, Mrs. William Anker and Mrs. Arthur Little. Election of officers will take place at the June meeting.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed following the business meeting.

Bird hunters should never miss

BY JIM FITZGERALD

They laughed when I stepped up to the skeet range. They were still laughing when I quit shooting.

The next day the laughter got a look at my black-and-blue mark and they laughed even louder. It was nearer to my elbow than my shoulder.

But that's ok. The meek shall inherit the earth and, when it comes to grappling with the earth's creatures, no one is meeker than I.

It all began like this: A bunch of the boys were lapping it up at Preston Mann's hunting preserve in Metamora where the rich Detroit people kill for fun. A hunting preserve is operated on the same principle as a butcher shop, except with fresh air. Fish and birds are stocked so you can order what you want. All you have to do is shoot it, or hook it - and pay for it. If you go home empty-handed, you shouldn't feel any less dumb than the husband who lost the grocery list.

Anyway, considering the surroundings, it is not unusual that the conversation should turn to shooting. There was considerable surprise registered when I revealed I had never shot a shotgun, not even once. In fact, the only time I'd triggered any sort of a firearm was during World War II, 25 years ago, when even little old ladies were prepared to fight.

The joker behind a neighboring bottle decided it would be fun to have me shoot a trap. He was even willing to wager that I might hit a target once or twice, by accident, and he had no trouble finding someone to bet I wouldn't hit a thing. I agreed to the experiment, mostly because they were buying the drinks. Besides, I was not required to risk any money myself. I was strictly a paid warrior, a novice doing battle.

Mrs. John Weber named St. Michael's Mother of the Year

St. Michael's annual Mother and Daughter breakfast was held May 12 with 116 mothers and daughters attending.

Mrs. Vida Champagne was toastmistress with the welcome to mothers given by Miss Nancy Walkowski. The welcome to daughters was given by Mrs. Ann Lewicki. Gifts were presented to Mrs. Mary Lou Burns, mother with the youngest daughter; Mrs. Margaret Thane, youngest grandmother; Mrs. Catherine Wolak, oldest mother, and Mrs. Leo Legg, Mrs. Mary Kopko and Mrs. Catherine Wolak, grandmothers with the most attending granddaughters. Mother of the year was Mrs. John Weber.

The planning and serving of the breakfast was done by the men of the Ushers Club, with Mrs. Elmer Champagne in charge.

for the edification of veterans who had been there and back. I felt like a Pfc pitching pennies against the Pentagon.

I don't know how trapshooting got its name and I'm not going to look in a dictionary to find out because my arm is so sore to be lifting the dictionary. The thing is, you stand in a spot and point your gun in the air and holler "pull" at the attendant who is still laughing because he had to load your gun for you and tell you how to take the safety off.

Immediately, a hunk of clay jumps out of a little house and blurs across the horizon, wish. "You should have shot that," someone said.

"I didn't even see it," I explained. But I got better and, after awhile, even nicked some of the clay which is called a pigeon, the same thing you might call a guy who'd bet on my shooting. Anyway, at the first sign of my success, they changed the rules. They started lofting 2 pigeons at once, each from a different direction, and said I was supposed to shoot them both. Which is ridiculous.

The biggest laugh of the day came when I shot late at a pigeon after it had disappeared behind one of those stupid little houses where the pigeons live. Fortunately, I shot my curve and the clay flew, bam!

"How could you have hit that pigeon?" someone asked. "You must have shot right through the house."

"I didn't even see it," I explained.

But I ended up hitting 10 out of 25 pigeons, more than enough to win my promoter's bet. It was an education: I learned that shotgun shells burst into a wide, wide pattern and it's no wonder there are no pheasants left. It's like hitting the side of a barn with a handful of pebbles.

Given any amount of practice, a bird hunter should never miss. If I had that much margin for error on the golf course, I'd be Arnold Palmer. And, as my bruise proved the next day, I wasn't even holding the stupid gun correctly.

Now that I've made all you hunters happy, would anyone be interested to learn that I have never, not even once, tried to catch a fish?

Glub, blub.
