Killed in action

David Graham Vietnam victim

Sgt. E/5 David Graham, 21, of Cass City was killed in action Saturday while fighting in Saigon, Vietnam, according to a telegram received from military officials. He had been in Vietnam for less than a month.

According to his wife, Louise, she received a telegram announcing that her husband was missing in action, followed by another that said he had died in battle.

The young soldier was the first who made his home in Cass City to die in the war. Two others, who were former residents of the community, have been killed in action and brought here for burial.

Sgt. Graham is a 1965 graduate of Ubyly High School where he was a letterman in football, baseball and track. He played two years as a regular on the grid squad, school authorities said.

He entered the service May 9, 1967, and graduated from non-commissioned officers training school. He went overseas April 15, 1968.

He married the former Louise Brown May 4, 1967. An infant son, Paul, lives with his mother on a farm home northeast of Cass City.

Details of the action were not released by the defense department.

Sgt. Graham was born Aug. 18, 1946, in East Detroit and moved to the area in 1960. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Graham of Cass City.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending the arrival of the body from overseas.

Surviving, besides his widow and parents, are: his son; three sisters, Mrs. Fred Peruski, Shover, and Joan and Coleen, both at home, and a brother, Robert of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Cass City plane spotters took war duty seriously

By SANDY DEWAR

"Beginning June 14th the several churches of the community, under the direction of their respective officers of the day, will assume responsibility for manning the watch tower in Cass City."

This article in the June 4, 1943, edition of the Chronicle was the beginning of a five-month surveillance that turned up many American plans but gratefully none belonging to the enemy.

This, however, is not when the plane spotters were organized. The idea for a watch tower began during the week of Oct. 16, 1942, when Village President Walter Mann announced that in compliance with a request by the State Civilian Defense Council, the Sheridan Building would be used for plane spotting. Use of the building was offered by owners L. I. Wood and Dr. P. A. Schenck. They also offered to heat the tower at their expense.

VOLUNTEERED VOLUNTEER

Two weeks later it was announced that the system was almost ready to put into operation. Mrs. C. M. Wallace was named chief observer and immediately she issued a cry for volunteer workers.

"I was playing bridge one evening," Mrs. Wallace recalled, "when suddenly Walter Mann raised his head and said, 'Margaret, you're the one who can manage the schedule,' and there I was."

Forty-nine volunteers were needed to man the tower on a 24-hour basis. A quota of 98 volunteers was established in order to give each observer a PRACTICING FOR PLEASURE - Hector Ross, 83, does not need much persuading to play his violin. Hector's 21 grandchildren are now enjoying the music from the 75-year old instrument, as their parents and grandparents once did.

Violinist for 75 years

Say music maestro please and Hector Ross responds

Thirty years of violin playing, a 75-year-old violin, and an 84th birthday to be celebrated June 16, have fulfilled the eventful life of Hector Ross of Cass City.

After listening to his brother, Phillip, play the violin for a number of years, Mr. Ross "took a notion to learn how to play it." Picking up the violin once used by his brother, he began to seek out notes and chords, until he had taught himself how to play.

Playing by ear, Mr. Ross is able to give renditions of old time Scotch and Irish tunes and the rollicking reels once heard at barn dances. Once in a while he will decide to make up his own tunes.

The Ross family all had a taste for music. Many evenings were spent listening to Phillip on the violin and Hector's twin sister Katie playing the piano. The rest of the family would join in vocally.

Both brothers were widely sought to play at area dances and socials.

Phillip was in his late teens when he bought the violin. At least 75 years old, the instrument was reconstructed in 1906. Though scarred and aged from the many years of use, the violin still produces clear, easy to listen to music.

The treasured instrument was almost lost when fire destroyed Hector Ross' home. Jason Leitch, a neighbor, knew that it was always kept under the bed, and without hesitation ran through the flames and saved the violin.

Born in the Sheridan area, Mr. Ross farmed for many years. He and his wife, the former Mary McMillan, had five children, Mrs. Aldo Fox, Donald Ross, Edward Ross, Mrs. Mary Jeffery and Mrs. Catherine McDonald.

Mrs. Ross died at an early age leaving Hector to raise the children.

The five were brought up to the enjoyment of music, as they listened to their father play during the quiet evenings. The oldest daughter, Mrs. Fox, would perform Scottish dances while her father played. At times Donald would play the mouth organ, and Edward would sing.

Mr. Ross now has twenty-one grandchildren to play his violin for. During the winter he moves to Detroit, visiting his two sons and daughters. As soon as spring arrives he is eager to move back to the "old sod" and home town, where he lives with his daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McDonald.

Remembering the times when violins and fiddles were in great demand, Mr. Ross decided to show people what those times were like, bringing forth a band-clapping, foot-stomping rendition of Turkey in the Straw at the annual Lions Club Talent show April 27.

Suggestion earns Sargent $1,150

Danny Sargent of Vassar, a son-in-law of Harry Bohnsack of Cass City, makes a specialty of winning money from his employer, Buick Motor Division, Plant 31, in Flint.

Sargent received an initial payment of $1,150 Friday from Buick for suggesting an easier method of handling stock, through a conveyor hook.

It was his second award. In 1967 he received a two-week trip with a new Buick to the World's Fair.

Sargent lives with his wife, Judy, and daughter, Bobbi, at 415 Goodrich.

Arraign 5 in Circuit court

Five arraignments and one probation violation were heard in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro, Tuesday, before Judge James Churchill.

Bruce Allen Hendrick of Cass City pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny from a building. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and sentence will be passed July 2. Hendrick was charged with taking articles from a cabin, in Elkland township, owned by Fred Mills.

Benito O. Fierros, charged with assault to do great bodily harm less than the crime of murder, pleaded guilty and the hearing continued to June 4. Fierros is charged with assaulting Marcos Castillo Benavides and Manuel Fernandez Govea in Akron township.

Bernard Walker pleaded guilty to driving on a revoked license. Sentence will be passed on June 4.

Ezequiel Ramos Balboa stood mute to carrying a concealed weapon. A plea of innocent was entered for him.

Probation was continued for Larry Parrish who was brought in for probation violation. Parrish was found guilty of the violation.

On June 16, Hector Ross will be honored on his 84th birthday at a family reunion in Northville. Family members will be bringing back the good times as James McEachin, a cousin from Ubyly, plays the bagpipes, with daughter Florence Fox and granddaughter Ronda performing a Highland dance and nephews James and Donald McIntyre of Detroit and son Edward singing the spirited Scottish Gaelic songs.

Early copy needed for early paper

Mail will be collected on holiday schedules from deposit points.

37 grandchildren hard to keep up to

It was a trying week recently for Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Churchill of Cass City as they tried to keep up with the health and welfare of their grandchildren, after three of their grandchildren received injuries from minor accidents.

Tommy Hunter of Mayville tumbled from his bicycle into a pile of burning brush, badly burning his hand. Dean Stover of Cass City fell from a tree, breaking his arm in three places, and Roland Miller of Elkton required four stitches on his eyelid after being cut by flying glass.

At last report all was quiet amongst the 37 grandchildren.

CHURCH MEMBERS HELP

Mrs. Wallace returned from the meeting with the suggestion that various organizations of the community be asked to volunteer for the watch. As there were more churches than organizations, Mrs. Wallace went to each minister with the suggestion of forming a volunteer watch from the church members. The ministers agreed to go along with the plan and organization began.

Announcement of the churches taking over the watch stated, "It is expected that the people of each church will assume their duties cheerfully and willingly when called upon by their officers of the day."

Response was great. An undetermined but large number of volunteers donated their time, with more to follow as the watch continued. Six churches of the community volunteered, each taking a day of the week. The Boy Scouts were then enlisted to keep watch on Saturday.

Officers of the day were Mrs. G. W. Landon, Baptist Church; Mrs. A. H. Kinnaird, Methodist Church; Mrs. M. B. Auten, Presbyterian Church; Mrs. Dan Hennessey, Catholic Church; Helen Hower, Evangelical Church, and Wilma Terbusch, Church of the Nazarene.

Golding to seek district post

Ed Golding Sr. announced this week that he will be a candidate for representative from the second district in Tuscola county under the newly adopted reapportionment of the county.

He will be the only one of the four incumbent supervisors from townships that form the district to seek the newly created post.

Call Parrott, Novesta township, and Elmer Conant, Ellington township, had previously announced that they would not run for the office and last week Milton Hofmeister, Elmwood township, withdrew his name from consideration.

Just how much the new representatives will receive is still to be decided by the Board of Supervisors which will set the first year's salary for the board.

Golding reported this week that he is now circulating petitions.

If Golding is elected, there will be a vacancy on the township board that will have to be filled by appointment.

SANILAC COUNTY

Sanilac County Board of Supervisors filed and adopted a plan of reapportionment for the county at a meeting held May 16. The plan was adopted by a vote of 18 to 7.

Petitions for Supervisor on the Sanilac County Board are available at the office of Walter Behn, county clerk. Candidates must be residents and registered electors of the district they plan to represent. Petitions must be signed by at least one percent and not more than four percent of the votes cast for that party for Secretary of State in 1966, in the district where they are a candidate. Petitions must be filed with the county clerk on or before June 18 at 4 p.m.

Memorial Day parade planning family affair

Planning for Memorial Day festivities in Cass City next week will be a father and son affair.

The event is traditionally the responsibility of the Elkland township supervisor and the village trustee who is the youngest in service to the village.

That means that festivities this year will be handled by Ed Golding Jr. from the village and Ed Golding Sr. from the township.

The usual program is anticipated. A parade down Main Street will be followed by a memorial program at the Elkland township cemetery.

Complete details will be announced next week.

Another Memorial Day service is scheduled in the area. It will be held Sunday, June 2, at 2 p. m. at the Grant cemetery. Florence Sheuffel, secretary of the Grant Memorial Association, Owandale, will reveal the complete program next week.

Dairymen to vote on market program

A state-wide referendum to establish a new $1.6 million Michigan Dairymen's Market Program will commence on Wednesday, May 22, according to B. Dale Ball, director of the State Department of Agriculture.

Decision to hold the referendum was made following two public hearings on the proposal held recently in Lansing and Marquette.

Ballots will go out to every Grade "A" dairy farmer in Michigan not later than Wednesday, May 22, and must be returned by June 7.

Since individual production is a consideration in the vote, each Grade "A" producer must indicate his "Base" on the ballot (or April 1968 production), sign and return it in order to have his vote counted.

If approved, the new advertising and marketing program would be administered by a 15-man dairy farmer committee, appointed by the Governor from nominations submitted by Michigan dairy farmers' co-operatives throughout the state and the Michigan Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

SPORTS FANS!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

What's the highest batting average a big league player ever made for one season?... The record for a regular player was set by Hugh Duffy of Boston in the National League in 1894... That season Duffy hit .438 for the all-time mark.

Did you know there was once a big league baseball game in which BOTH pitchers hurled a no-hit game?... It happened in 1917 when pitchers Fred Toney and Hippo Vaughan faced each other and each pitched no-hitters for nine innings... Vaughan finally gave up some hits and a run in the 10th, and lost 1-0... Toney finished with a 10-inning no-hitter.

Here's an interesting fact... What's the record for a big league baseball team scoring the most runs in an inning after two were out, and the bases were empty?... The Dodgers set the record in a game in 1954 when they scored 12 runs after they had two out and nobody on base.

Around The Farm

Alertness stressed in farm machinery use

This could very well be a Tuscola county boy from one of our many farm homes in the county. For the sake of a name, let us call him Larry Doe. "We'll never know exactly what did happen. But Larry is gone. That I do know for sure."

Mrs. John Doe, Tuscola county, busied herself as she fixed afternoon lunch for her remaining son and pieced together the story of a tragic tractor accident which took her older son's life.

Strapping Larry Doe was 25 - gentle, considerate and determined to make a go of the farm his father had worked so hard to build.

He finished afternoon lunch at about 3:45 one warm spring day and returned, refreshed, to the field to continue plowing.

In less than an hour, neighbors heard a cry and hurried to the field to find him, his legs crushed beneath a tractor wheel. Larry had been plowing next to the fence row, watching over his shoulder (maybe standing). The machine hit a rock, lurched and plunged him beneath a wheel, which was grinding against the rock.

He worked to free himself, finally did. Neighbors and family kept him quiet until the ambulance arrived. Two days later he was dead - bone marrow and fat from the crushed limbs had gotten into the blood stream.

"I really don't like to think about it," Mrs. Doe says, "but if it will help anybody else, I will."

"Larry was always careful, but I guess this kind of accident shows a farmer has to be thinking and seeing everything at once - he can't let up for even a minute."

Larry's attending physician, offered these first aid pointers for a crushing injury:

- Get a doctor and ambulance as fast as you can.

- Keep the victim very quiet, especially the crushed parts of the body. The quieter he is kept, the less chance there is for fat and marrow (which act like blood clots) to enter the blood stream. Don't move the victim until an ambulance arrives.

- Cover the victim to help lessen shock.

Larry Doe's neighbors and family did all these things; "his injury was just too severe, but there's something more basic than first aid pointers for laymen," his attending physician goes on. "It makes me mad to think how little training farmers have to handle this big, complicated equipment.

"You need training to drive a car, but anybody with the money can walk into an implement store and buy machinery. You don't even have to be physically fit. Sometimes, even though he isn't certain how a machine works, a farmer is too embarrassed to ask for instructions. I think the best first aid would be some compulsory instruction on new farm machinery."

Safely running a farm tractor isn't difficult if you keep in mind basic tractor safety rules, then put them to work for you while on the job.

Prepare for a safe day at the wheel: (1) get enough rest, (2) dress comfortably, (3) work at a pace within your physical abilities. (Postpone tractor work if you are sick, taking strong medicines or are emotionally upset.)

Keep children off and away from farm machinery. Train older boys to operate tractors safely. Same goes for anyone you hire (but make sure he is at least 16 years old or exempt from provisions of the Bureau of Labor Standards Order).

Keep guards and shields in place. Shut off power before unclogging or servicing machinery.

Courtesy is the key to safe travel on roads. Signal your intentions. Make sure your rig is properly lighted, and is identified with a Slow-Moving Vehicle emblem.

Remember these basic steps to accident prevention: (1) Recognize the hazard, (2) Know the defense, (3) Act in time.

State highway funds increased

Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties will receive a total of $1,085,658 as their share of the first quarter Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections being distributed by the State Highway Commission.

College graduates interested in becoming an AAUW member are welcome and should call Mrs. Carroll Howarth, membership chairman. Barbara Wallace from Birmingham will be guest at the September meeting.

Geraldine Prieskorn, Evelyn MacRae and Marliou Drews will have petitions to amend the state constitution so the judicial branch will not be elected by party vote but by meritorious qualifications. Members interested in signing the petition should contact one of the above members before June 1.

Ask your engine what makes Leonard Premium 500 such a great gasoline!

The engine and fuel system in your car are really the proper critics of the gasoline you use. Some engines, like some people, can stand almost anything. But if yours is a high-performance, discriminating engine, these are the qualities in gasoline it would demand if it could talk:

- Smooth conversion to the proper gasoline vapor-air mixture to give fast starts and warm-up in any season and weather.
- Fast unleashing of high-octane, powerful components like platformate and alkylate into pure energy, with no wasteful knocking and the minimum of engine deposits.
- Clean, dry fuel, free of dirt, moisture and gum which would clog tiny passages.
- Additives that effectively stop corrosion and carburetor icing, that keep the spark hot and strong mile after mile, and that keep carburetors and exhaust parts cleaned to tune-up conditions for long mileage.
- Uniform quality, tankful after tankful, so that the engine is always eager to give top performance.

And, these are the qualities you get in new Leonard Premium 500. Try a tankful - it's a great gasoline!

Holstein produces 678 pounds fat

Qulbro Clara Wiremiss, a three-year-old registered Holstein cow owned by Clara J., Robert J., and Richard Carpenter, Cass City, has produced a noteworthy record of 16,340 pounds of milk and 678 pounds of butterfat in 324 days.

This level of production may be compared to the average U. S. dairy cow's estimated annual output of 8,513 pounds of milk containing 315 pounds of butterfat.

Management profit key on farms today, say Renns

"In order for a farmer to be competitive he must cut corners and become more productive." With this thought in mind Mike Renn and his son Terry made the decision to install the latest model silo at a cost of $13,500.

The silo, a Madison Nutri-matic, is the first in Michigan. It features a bottom unloader with a sweepauger which is entirely independent of the silo wall, thus increasing capacity.

Built for the storage of Haylage, construction of the silo enables the hay to be put in greener. Because it is oxygen free a higher quality feed is produced. The Renns particularly like the bottom unloader. "That way what goes in first comes out first," Mike and Terry both agree that time involved in getting the hay ready for the silo will be cut in half. "We have a lot of hay to put up and sometimes the weather is not favorable. This way the hay doesn't have to be completely dry, thus there is not as much loss. In time this will be completely automatic with none of the feed touched by hand.

The Renns are not afraid to become competitive in order to make the land support their families. "People who fail in farming blame the land and high costs. It's all in the management actually. If you farm only for eight months you have four months empty. A farmer needs to find something to do during those four months to keep going. The sharper you are the better off you are," Terry stated and as an afterthought added, "In order to be a good farmer a person must have a year of college. A farmer has to know finance and chemistry to get along."

"A farmer works 15 hours a day, a factory worker eight hours. It would be hard to figure hourly pay scale, Terry stated, but the farmer makes one half of what a city worker does." Mike agreed with the figures but added that the difference comes in the equity. "We couldn't exist on what we would make by the hour alone. You have to consider what the investment totals."

"When my dad reaches 65," Terry concluded, "he will have a large amount of assets. But he will have worked twice as much to acquire it. When he retires this will be his pension. If he had to sell out and pay the capital gains and income tax, what would he have left?"

by his figures on area farm meetings. In the local area there are a number of young farmers attending. In the outlying areas it is mostly older ones present with the lack of the young man quite noticeable.

"A young person can't get started in farming today unless he goes in with his father or a relative." Terry agreed with his father adding that "you have to have capital to start. A young man starting in farming would need $50 or $60 thousand today. Then all he's got is debt and all he is working for is the interest." Terry believes that industry has had the biggest effect on young men. "Farming doesn't have much to offer them. Seven days a week, 18 hours a day as opposed to an 8 hour, 5 day week isn't very attractive."

Mike could only repeat, "who is going to farm unless more young people get into it?" was backed

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Zeke Grubb was telling the fellers at the country store Saturday night about this insurance collector stopping by his house last Friday night after supper. Zeke said he learned a heap about modern family life from this collector.

First off, Zeke said the insurance feller told him the only time he could get any work done was right after supper and afore the mamas and papas left fer their night jobs, church meetings and the like. About all a family does nowadays, Zeke said, was eat and sleep in the same house and a lot of them do that at different times. The insurance feller said he had been working in the city and was just recent assigned to this territory. He said he was having trouble now getting used to the schedule of small town folks.

under 20 and over 70 ain't wanted around the house so they wander away and turn into things like juvenile delinquents and senior citizens.

I didn't git a chance, Mister Editor, to point out to the fellers that our crowd was in the senior citizen age. The big difference is all us fellers has got homes and stick pritty close to our old lady's apron strings, and instead of learning to weave baskets and wear out a rocking chair in them Government rest homes we git our pleasures in life by discussing everthing and solving nothing ever Saturday night at the country store.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Bean cooperative seeks support

The board of directors of the Michigan Bean Growers Marketing Cooperative have for the past couple years been working hard trying to get support and cooperation of individual bean growers and major farm organizations--Michigan Farm Bureau and National Farmers Organization--in urging all bean growers to unite as bean growers to secure a stronger price for their beans.

The dry bean advisory committee of the Michigan Farm Bureau recommended to the State Farm Bureau that Farm Bureau support the efforts of the Michigan Bean Growers Marketing Cooperative.

The cooperative has been assured of support from the cooperative elevator system and some of the independent elevators. Major canners have not expressed opposition. The membership includes farmers from all farm organizations, both Farm Bureau and NFO.

The Michigan Bean Growers Marketing Cooperative is now half-way to its goal of 75% of the navy bean production under membership agreement. With the help of bean growers and farm organizations, cooperative members feel that 75% of the navy bean production can be reached this summer.

Estimates are for a crop of 563,000 acres of navy beans this year. Normal yields on this acreage will mean a crop of 7 1/2 million bags. This means, the cooperative feels, prices at the support price level and below cost of production.

SCHOOL STUDY

Spencer resolution calls for a five member committee to look into school financing of the Kindergarten through 12th grades; to study the status of teachers, and to provide for an education tax fund.

"I have been convinced that something must be done to re-evaluate our school financing," Spencer said. "The property owner in this state can no longer handle the total burden."

The resolution is now being considered by the House Policy Committee.

First income tax refund due in county

According to Representative Roy L. Spencer, Republican, 78th District, the first quarterly reimbursement from the state income tax to the local units of government will be in the hands of the County Treasurer before the end of the month of May.

The first quarterly reimbursement will amount to $1.52 per capita which will be divided one half to the county and one half to the cities, townships and villages on a per capita basis.

If the present revenue estimations hold true as they appear to, it can be expected that the total per capita refund will amount to approximately $6.00 on an annual basis or a total amount of reimbursement from the state to local units of government from the state income tax of approximately 45 million dollars. First quarterly payments are as follows: Lapeer county, $60,856.24; Tuscola county, $64,355.28; and Huron county, $51,608.56.

Cass City should receive nearly $1,000 from the tax refund, based on its population and the estimated reimbursement.

FARMING PARTNERSHIP - Mike Renn, left, and his son Terry formed a partnership to insure a successful farming venture. The Renns are inspecting the bottom unloader auger of a new silo recently constructed on their farm. They feel the silo will reduce working hours considerably.

FAMILY FARMING

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Renn Sr. started farming in the Elkton area after arriving from Germany. They cleared the land and built a home and in 1922, feeling the need of more land, moved to another farm on Gelger Road. Here they raised a family of five boys and five girls. In 1937 Mike Sr. bought a farm on Stein Road in Pigeon. Two years later Mike Jr. was married and moved onto the farm. He farmed there until 1964 when his son Terry was married. Terry and his bride moved into the home and Mike moved back to his parents' homestead.

Father and son formed a partnership involving both farms. They have 72 dairy cows, plus young cattle and raise corn, hay, and some oats and wheat.

Keeping up with modern techniques the Renns built a milking parlor with a pipe line to the tank in 1957. Following a fire in 1959 which destroyed the old dairy barn, the Renns erected loose housing pole barns with free stalls, a device they feel keeps the cows cleaner with less chore time involved. Next year they are thinking of building a calf barn with maternity pens and a vet stall.

Terry figures that within the next 15 years everything will be automated. "Field work will be made easier with tractors and machinery beyond imagination." As it stands now he added, "anything three years old on a farm is obsolete."

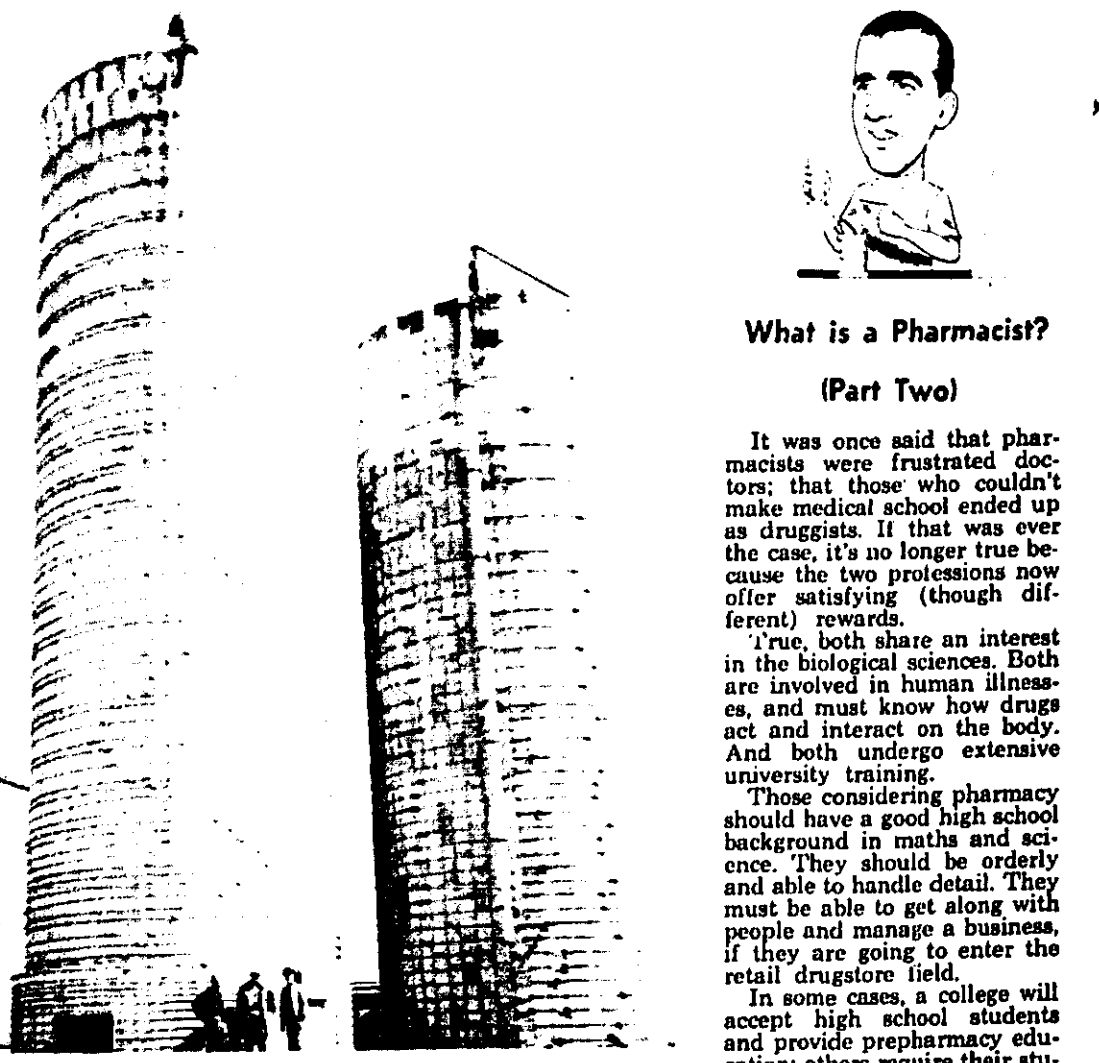

BORN FARMERS

Mike and Terry are born farmers. For a short time Mike worked in Detroit but felt he just couldn't manage with that type of life. He returned to the farm. Terry was born and raised with farming and stayed with it. He feels that the population growth will not affect the farming in this area. "The land is much too valuable to be used for residential. Land along the state highways will be used but not properly back off the highways. Farmers being pushed from the lower part of Michigan are going to the northern part of the state. Land around here is too expensive. I do feel that the farmers have reached a turning point as far as a decline is concerned. One thing for sure, you won't see the end of the farm family within the next two decades. There will be less labor and more management involved."

What is a Pharmacist?
(Part Two)

It was once said that pharmacists were frustrated doctors; that those who couldn't make medical school ended up as druggists. If that was ever the case, it's no longer true because the two professions now offer satisfying (though different) rewards.

True, both share an interest in the biological sciences. Both are involved in human illnesses, and must know how drugs act and interact on the body. And both undergo extensive university training.

Those considering pharmacy should have a good high school background in maths and science. They should be orderly and able to handle detail. They must be able to get along with people and manage a business, if they are going to enter the retail drugstore field.

In some cases, a college will accept high school students and provide prepharmacy education; others require their students to arrive with this already completed. In an accredited college, the course covers five years and some schools now require six. The pharmacy student learns about the preparation, quality, uses and effects of drugs; anatomy, biochemistry, physiology, mathematics and law.

After graduation, the student must have at least one year of practical experience under the supervision of a registered pharmacist. Then he must pass a series of examinations conducted by the state's Board of Pharmacy, in order to be a registered pharmacist.

This may sound like a lot of preparation—but pharmacy is a career worth every bit of it!

Sheriff Marr to seek re-election

Sheriff Hugh Marr announced Monday that he would seek re-election as sheriff of Tuscola County. The veteran sheriff will be a candidate in the Republican primaries this August, seeking a four-year term as head of the county's law enforcement agency.

Marr is a native of the Mayville area where for many years he was a farmer and for eight years operated a livestock business. He served as Dayton township supervisor for two years and was active in township and county government.

HUGH MARR

He was appointed a deputy sheriff in 1958 and operated the county license bureau for four years following the retirement of the late Deputy Vern Everett. He also operated the county jail for one year before being elected Tuscola County Sheriff in 1963.

The sheriff is presently completing his second term in office.

During his administration, the county's law enforcement agency has been modernized, including the opening of the new jail and sheriff's department headquarters, the re-vamping of the records system, formation of the sheriff's posse and water rescue squad and the addition of a larger patrol force and modern police equipment.

Mrs. Marr is the former Melissa Walker of Mayville. Sheriff and Mrs. Marr have two children, Mrs. Richard Bertrand of Caro and Larry Marr of Howell.

Hawks 2nd in Thumb B

The Cass City Red Hawks made a surprisingly strong showing in the Thumb B Conference track meet Wednesday, May 15, when they finished second behind the Lakers who won the league crown for the second straight year.

The only individual winner for the Hawks was Jim Selby, who captured the two-mile run. Cass City's mile relay team established a new school record of 3:34.4 while finishing second behind Frankenmuth in the event.

Cass City's chances for an upset victory were killed by weakness in the field events. The Hawks failed to win a point outside of the track competition.

The Lakers, led by Dave Clabuesch's 20 3/4 points, won with 69 points. Cass City was second with 43 and Frankenmuth third with 40. Others in order of their finish were: Vassar, 34; Caro, 34; Marlette, 34; Bad Axe, 32, and Sandusky, 24.

Clabuesch won the Clarence Durman award given to the outstanding athletic of the meet as judged by participating coaches. He won the 100-yard dash and the broad jump and was second in the 220. He was a member of the winning 880-yard relay team.

Points for Cass City were won by: Jim Selby; Hartwick, second in mile run; Gulnther, second in high hurdles; Jack Selby, second in 880; Vollmer

Three area ministers take new positions

Three Cass City ministers have announced they will be leaving the Cass City area within the near future.

Rev. Harold Knight, who has served the Mizpah United Missionary Church since July 4, 1965, has accepted an appointment to the EUM in Davison. He will leave for his new assignment the first part of June. In his parting statement to his congregation, Rev. Knight said, "we have enjoyed the growing work here and obviously will be leaving many good friends behind. I am sure that God has moved within this new situation."

Also leaving Cass City are Rev. Fred Johnson and Rev. James C. Braid. Their new assignments are not known at present.

Mr. Johnson was pastor at Mizpah and Riverside U M churches and under his leadership a United Missionary Church was established just west of Cass City and a new church building erected.

Mr. Braid has served the Methodist church since his arrival in June of 1962. He has served both the church and the community and is presently president of the Cass City Ministerial Society.

By working together these three men have furthered their joint ministry through the chaplaincy offered to both the local hospitals. Their service has witnessed the further goals of inter-denominational co-operation.

Cass City hospital auxiliary meets

Twenty-three members of the Cass City Hospital Auxiliary met Monday evening for dinner at the Crossroads Restaurant.

The committee in charge of the recent rummage sale reported proceeds of slightly more than $200.00.

There will be no further meetings of the Auxiliary until September.

Mrs. Harry Falkenhagen became a club member.

Reports of the State and County conventions will be presented.

During the week of October 8, 1943, information was released by the daily press and radio that "voluter civilian portions of the Nation's Aircraft Warning Net were virtually eliminated."

Most of the operation was then placed on an alert status, operating only a few hours, one day a week. In this way the organization was kept together in order to be prepared to return to full duty at a moment's notice.

Mrs. Wallace received official notice from Colonel Norman N. Nelson of Fort Brady. In order to maintain a trained organization, the post resumed active operation from 1 to 5 p.m. on October 13, 1943, and continued operation each Wednesday thereafter. The church volunteers then rotated Wednesdays until the watch was dissolved, a short time later.

During a time when many people were doing their part to protect their country, little recognition was given to the volunteer plane spotters. Those who attained 50 hours of service were given a wing shaped pin.

Mrs. Wallace, for her part in organizing the group and acting as chief observer, received a sterling silver pin.

The final paragraph of the June 4 article is fitting as a tribute to the volunteers, "Let all remember that this obligation is a wartime necessity and a duty incumbent upon everyone. Let us not fail our country in this project."

Michigan has more than 11,000 inland lakes and more than 36,000 miles of streams.

The watch tower, located on the southwest corner of the Sheridan building, was a round wooden structure with windows all around. The journey to the tower alone, three flights of stairs and then a ladder into the structure, should have warranted some type of commendation for the volunteers both young and old.

TWO SPOTTERS

Two plane spotters manned the tower at all times. Occasionally a group would gather for a friendly game of bridge to while the time away. The table for the bridge games was acquired by the midnight watch and after the operation was phased out, was presented to Mrs. Wallace.

According to Mrs. Landon the tower was equipped with chairs and a telephone. Each spotter had a pair of binoculars and while on duty was to continually search the skies for planes, reporting any that were sighted.

If a plane were detected, the spotter immediately dialed a special number connecting Cass City to the Soo headquarters and reeled off a code consisting of numbers and planes. Using the code, the spotter would identify his location and tell how many planes were spotted, how many engines the planes had - if possible to detect, which direction it was coming from and what direction it was headed.

"Some took it seriously," Mrs. M. B. Auten recalled, "others didn't feel that it contributed much to defense." Mrs. Auten took her watch with Ruth Mann. Also volunteering were her husband, Meredith, and her sons, Charles, 16, at the time, and Frederick, 18.

Mrs. Wallace had the 7 a.m. shift. "A cat walk had been erected around the tower," she reminisced. "It was so pleasant to watch the town wake up. First one light would come on and then another. I rather enjoyed it."

No injuries were reported in a two-car accident May 14 on Garfield, two blocks east of Doerr road.

Patricia Zaverucha was cited for failing to yield the right of way after her car crossed Garfield from a driveway and struck an automobile driven by Edward Golding Jr. of Cass City. Passengers in the Zaverucha car were Sandy Salgat of Caro, Karen Thompson of Ubyly and Linda Croch.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

The best day for fishing is...

By Marion Hostetler

Which is the best day of the week for going fishing?

An old gentleman I met a few days ago says it is Sunday, and he backs up his opinion with this story:

When I was a boy in Texas, my brother and I decided to go fishing one Sunday morning. We dug some worms, went to a nearby lake, and there we caught the finest string of bass I've ever caught in my life. We took them home, cleaned them, and put them in a tub of water on the back porch with some cool, and ice to keep them cool. "I didn't see you in church," said my mother when she came into the house. "Where have you been?"

So I asked her to come to the back porch, and I showed her the fish. They were a fine looking lot of fish, and my mouth was watering to eat them.

"You go and get a shovel," she told me, and then she said that Bill and I should bring the tub to the garden and she would show us something.

When we got to the garden, she said, "Now I want you to dig a nice square hole and make it just about so deep--and she measured with her hands how deep she wanted it. I dug it very carefully, making the walls straight up and down and the corners square, just the way she said I should.

Then she told me to get down into the hole, and she made Bill hand me the fish one by one. She told me to lay the fish down side by side in nice neat rows... and by this time my tears dropping all over the fish, because I could see I was never going to get to eat those beautiful bass.

"Now, boys," she said, "I want you to remember as long as you live that in our family we never eat fish caught on Sunday, because the Lord wants us to remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy."

I'm an old man now, and I've never forgotten what my mother said... but I still think Sunday is the best day of the week for catching fish!

Mr. Peters was lying down flat in a reclining chair when I first came into the room, and he explained that he had had a stroke. But by the time he had finished the story of the fish, he was sitting upright; and without pausing for breath he launched into another story about something that happened on a Sunday in Texas a long time ago.

Bishop Kinsolving was a great giant of a man--he wore size 16 shoes--and we all loved him. One Sunday when I was 16 he was coming to our Episcopal church and I was to be confirmed. The only other person to be confirmed that day was a young man who was the son-in-law of a very wealthy family.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross
Extension Agent

Consistency is the password for a happy bedtime routine with your preschooler, says Mrs. Ann Ross, extension home economist. And consistency in time for bed is only one part of a general routine to help children relax and face a night's rest more easily.

The pattern of predictable events is like a "security blanket" for young children, becoming especially important during the second year. The simpler the routine, the better.

There is usually a set time and way for pajamas to go on, then perhaps a short story and quick drink. The old-fashioned bedtime story or quiet music are all-important "unwinders" from the child's play-filled day. Children need a restful break as part of bedtime preparations to help them calm down and be "ready" for sleep.

Consistency mixed with a certain amount of flexibility may save you unneeded struggles. Occasionally you may adjust the bedtime to changes in your family routine, such as the presence of guests. Comfortable sleeping garments and a quiet, well-ventilated room are as important to a child's sleep as they are to yours. However, there's no rule that children must sleep with the door closed or with a light on or in the dark. Their routines won't be upset so easily when they're away from home if they can adjust to different conditions.

Heavy eating before bed really can interfere with peaceful sleep; however, a small drink of milk may be enough just before you tuck them in.

"If It Fitz..."

The sudden death play-off

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It might have been the sudden death play-off in Howard Johnson's. Or maybe the kid with the spray can on the Atlantic shore. I really can't decide what furnished the biggest laugh while I motel-hopped to Miami and back with 2 nutty kids and 1 wife made giddy by her escape from the kitchen. Take your choice...

One morning I got out of bed remarking how well I'd slept. "You can't beat the marvelous sound of that ocean. It soothes me right to sleep," I said. "You can't hear the ocean from here," my wife said. "That sound was the air conditioner."

Oh well. You just can't beat this modern living. This was the first southern trip to add a little color to my normal pool-room pallor. It wasn't the sun. Many motel bathrooms now have sun lamps and I turned one on by mistake.

And then there was the restaurant which had a big sign bragging: "The best beef in town. You be the judge." So the Fitzes did a jig into the place, chanting "Here come de judge, here come de judge."

Or: my wife brought along her new wig which travels on a dummy head carried in a huge wicker basket which she bought from a retired charmer of snakes. To make room for it in our bulging car, I had to drive with my left leg and arm hanging outside the window.

The wig was necessary, Pat said, so she could swim with abandon all day and still dine well-coiffed that evening. By the 6th day she was still wading at the kiddie end of the pool. For a frustrated husband, the only answer was to throw the wig off the diving board.

My wife did a lot of reading. She read speed limit signs and our speedometer. Pat moves her lips when she reads and can be heard clearly by the driver. She rattles off the common 65-miles-per-hour signs in ho-hum fashion but displays considerable animation for "Radar Controlled" and "Speed Limits Strictly Enforced." The sign that excited her the most was in Georgia. Its said "Patrolled by Unmarked Cars." Pat gave that one such a dramatic reading that 9-year-old Eddie had to comment: "Boy, Mother really liked that sign, didn't she?"

And then there was that little boy who found a dead, stinking fish floating in the Atlantic. Before burying the fish he sprayed it thoroughly with deodorant. All of us at the funeral were grateful although it was disturbing when the boy's father interrupted the services hollering "Who stole my Right Guard?"

Honest, I'm not making these things up. I just ran around with a strange bunch. Read on:

To amuse the kids while eating 3 meals a day in restaurants, I devised a new game called "Guess-the-Bill." Contestants must not study the menu prices. You can cheat, but it doesn't help much. No one reveals his order until the menus have been safely returned to the waitress. This way you might peek at the price of your own meal but you'd have to memorize the entire menu to know the cost of every item ordered. I've seen my kids eat spaghetti for breakfast, and corn flakes for dinner, so it's impossible to plan ahead. The kids never knew if I'd have steak or a strawberry soda for lunch.

The object of the game is to look at every player's food and then guess the total cost of all the meals, including tax. No fair changing your guess when you discover that's not lemonade Dad's drinking, it's a Tom Collins. You are disqualified if you knock down the waitress while trying to get first look at the bill. The winner gets a cash prize and the losers get to accuse the winner of cheating.

Once in South Carolina, Eddie and I tied. "We'll have a sudden death play-off," Eddie said. "We each order another meal and guess again."

"Not until we have an instant playback, in slow motion, of the first game," I said. "I think you broke the 3-second rule looking at the right side of the menu."

And that's how it went, meal after meal, for 2 weeks. When we returned home, everyone remarked how strange it seemed to eat and not play the game. And another difference was also pointed out: we were once again saying grace before meals.

"How come no one ever says grace in Howard Johnson's?" Eddie asked.

I thought about our sight-seeing drives off the main highways and the miserable shacks and the dirty kids and the beaten adults who sat on rickety porches at 10 o'clock on a Tuesday morning. And I thought about the goodies my kids ordered to confuse the game, and then nibbled and left on their plates.

"From now on we'll say grace in restaurants," I said. And that's no laugh. That's Onward and Upward.

SP-5 Hartwick at Fort Benning

Sp/5 Roger Hartwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hartwick, reported for duty at Fort Benning, Ga., May 8 after spending a 30-day leave with his parents.

Sp/5 Hartwick recently finished a two-year tour of duty with the 89th Transportation Co. in Germany. He enlisted in the U. S. TB skin testing finished in Tuscola

The tuberculin skin testing program in Tuscola county schools has concluded, announced Robert E. Rowe, M.D., Director of the Thumb District Health Department.

A total of 3,470 students in grades 2, 5, 9 and 11 were tested. The total number of tuberculin reactors found was 12, or .35 percent. Three were in Caro, one in Reese, one in Akron-Fairgrove, two in Cass City, two in Mayville, two in Millington and one in Kingston. No reactors were found in Unionville or Vassar.

Dr. Rowe said students reacting to the test will undergo further tests. Usually this includes chest X-rays to see if damage has been done to the lungs. No further tuberculin tests are needed by the reactors as they will always react to the test. However, he added, annual chest X-rays are recommended for these persons as a precautionary measure. Parents and persons close to the reactor will also be advised to be examined.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

That Cass City Schools will end the school year in the black is probably the most significant fact that emerges from the welter of facts and figures in the financial statement and prognostication for the final months of the school year.

Visiting dignitaries from Reading in Hillsdale County were royally treated in day-long festivities that marked Mayor's Exchange Day during Michigan Week. Attending the various functions were Mayor and Mrs. Emmerson Foor and Councilman and Mrs. Art Gibler.

Art Club meets with Zella Vyse

Nine members of the Art Club met Wednesday, May 15. After dinner at the Fraser Presbyterian church, the business meeting and social hour were held at the home of Mrs. Zella Vyse. The club welcomed members who had recently returned from Florida. They voted to make a donation to the Cancer Fund and a homemade quilt was given to a family that had experienced a fire. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Gladys Fort.

Cass City Intermediate

On Wednesday, the Intermediate School had a Student Council meeting. The rules and plans were made for "Kaos Week." (The same thing as Twirp Week in the high school.) Kaos week was to have started Wednesday, May 22, and last until Friday, May 24. The administration of the Intermediate School wouldn't allow the students a full week of "Kaos" and they set down a number of rules to guide the students. Some of the rules include: no tag day and no pop is allowed in the building. Tag day was banned because some of the teachers felt it promoted dating and that fifth and sixth graders were just too young! The schedule for "Kaos Week" is as follows: Wednesday is hat day. Students are charged 3¢ if they don't wear hats. The teachers may assign certain students to take over their class for a student-teacher exchange day. (This idea used to be a regular part of Twirp Week for many years, but after awhile the idea got stale.) Thursday: Scrub Day. (I wonder if scrub day was the students' or the faculty's idea?) Friday there will be an assembly during the last half hour of the school day. Friday night there is going to be a carnival, which will be open to the public. The carnival is also going to be a "History Night." Various students have had to make projects for their history class, so it was decided to show them to the public much the same as the science exhibits were displayed "Science Night."

Homerooms were held Thursday morning to relay all these ideas and rules back to the student body. Last Friday night the Junior High held a dance from 7:00 p. m. until 10:00 p. m., featuring the "Cautions."

C. C. H. S.

A Student Council meeting was held last Wednesday. Many ideas for thanking the taxpayers for our school were discussed. Finally, it was decided to have an essay contest. A committee was established to set down the basic rules. During the meeting, two amendments to our constitution were proposed. One was changing the clause that states you have to be a junior (senior in office) to run for Student Council president - to the clause - any freshman, sophomore or junior may run for Student Council president. This amendment was proposed because some felt that if an underclassman was qualified for the job, wanted to undertake it, and if the student body elected him, then there is no reason why a senior should have the office. However, the tricky part is - "if the student body elects him," since, even if this amendment goes through, many students will still oppose it.

The amendment passed the council by a simple majority, but to be written into the constitution, it has to be passed by a 2/3 vote of the homerooms. The other amendment was to eradicate the clause that said a student can't hold more than one office at a time. The reason for this proposal is because so many students hold more than one office at the present that it's really a useless amendment. However, this amendment failed to be passed by the council.

Homerooms were held Thursday morning. The minutes from the student council meeting were read and the students voted on both of the amendments even though the one didn't pass the council. As expected, the one changing the requirement for running for student council president met the most opposition in many of the homerooms, where the one about holding an office passed in quite a few of the homerooms. (The council and student body should get together on this!)

CLUB NEWS

The Future Teachers Club had a very important meeting last Tuesday evening in which they elected next year's president. The first president-elect of the new club is Joan Orzel. The club was addressed by guest speaker, Ron Lader, who spoke about going to college and how important good speech is there.

The G.A.A. had a baseball practice session also last Tuesday. The club was to have played softball against Bad Axe Monday, but the game was postponed because of rain.

TID BITS

Would you believe that the track teams had a beautiful day last week for their conference track meet? (No rain or anything!) The track meet was held in Caro last Wednesday. Our guys did a fine job and came home with second place! - Quite a few also came home with sunburns.

The senior class has decided to rent Sherwood Forest Country Club for a party instead of going on a Senior Trip. The party will be formal and on a school night. With the rest of the money in their treasury, the class plans to do something for our school.

Last Wednesday night the Honor Society Induction was held in the High School Cafeteria at 8:00 p. m. The induction programs in the past were held during the school day in an assembly. However, last year it was decided that an evening program would be better all the way around, since parents could attend and only the students that were interested would attend, instead of the whole student body having to.

Saturday evening was the Junior-Senior Banquet. The toastmaster of the program was Fred Ryan. The entertainment included solos by Vivian Englehart, Tom Fulcher, and Lori Smith. A piano duet was played by Pam Dobbs and Lynn Hairre, and Mr. Roger Parrish and Tom Fulcher, as a team, sang three favorite selections. Tom Kolb, president of the junior class, addressed the seniors, and Eric Esau, vice-president of his class and in Dan Rabideau's place, gave the senior president's speech. Mr. Robert Hlrm, biology teacher at CCHS, gave the Faculty Toast.

The prom is this coming Saturday night featuring the band, "The Kings Four" of Saginaw.

In Typing I class, each day is begun with a conditioning practice to get you "warmed up." In these practices there are often little bits of wisdom - for example:
- True merit is like a river - the deeper it is, the less noise it makes.
- Often persons are lonely because they build walls instead of bridges.
- The full value of happiness is gained through sharing it with someone.
- A smile is the curve that can very often set a lot of things straight.
- For many people their only exercise comes from jumping to conclusions.
- A man shouldn't drop his mind into neutral and let his tongue idle on!
- It is said that no two people are alike, and both are quite glad of it!

Would you believe that as of the date of this paper there are only 13 more days of school?!! Alright!!

Lord and Lady Roote's daughter, Sally, wanted to marry at Hungerford parish church on March 30 at 2:45 P.M. But when it came to arranging the ceremony it was found that the local blacksmith's daughter, June Barrett, had booked her wedding for 2:00 P.M. It would have been running things too close to have another wedding three-quarters of an hour later; the guests from the two very different kinds of weddings might have found themselves mixed up. So Miss Barrett was prevailed upon to change the time of her wedding. (Daily Mail)
