

Truck smashed Workers' dispute brings vandalism

Malicious destruction to a pickup truck was reported to the Bad Axe State Police Post, May 22, by Edward Kata of Unionville, owner of the truck.

Mrs. Kata had left the truck on the shoulder of Dickerson Road near Unionville Road just after midnight Tuesday, when the vehicle developed a flat tire as she returned from her job at General Cable.

She told officers that two men in a car had followed her from Cass City, passed by her, and returned when she stopped the truck. She said she became frightened and cut across a field to reach her home.

Mrs. Kata informed the police that she felt the damage might have occurred as the result of a dispute involving overtime between male and female employees at General Cable, stating that certain male employees had been angry because women employees were permitted to work an extra day each week and had vowed they would get even.

When Kata returned the following morning to repair the tire, he discovered that both headlights had been broken, two west coast mirrors had been twisted and shattered, paint was scraped off the left door, the aerial broken off and the gas cap removed. Kata stated he thought something might have been dropped inside the fuel tank to damage the engine.

Over-all damage to the truck was estimated at $75, not including any possible damage to the engine.

Five escape unharmed in minor mishap

Four Cass City residents and one from Akron escaped injury May 23 in a truck-car accident on Elmwood road.

The accident occurred when an automobile driven by Sandra Jean Johnson of Cass City, going east on Elmwood, collided with a west bound pickup truck pulling a wide load. According to the Tuscola County Sheriff Department report, Mrs. Johnson saw the wide load, attempted to pull over to the shoulder, with the left fender of the car striking the truck.

Passengers in the Johnson car were Kathy Richmond, Perry Johnson, and Denise Richmond of Cass City. Wayne Harrington of Akron, driver of the pickup, was cited for having a wide load.

State highway project includes Cass City area

The State Highway Commission will open bids June 5 in Lansing for 48 highway construction and improvement projects in 26 counties.

Included in the 48 projects is the paving of nine and two tenths miles of M-81 between Green Road and M-53 at an estimated cost of $240,000. Completion date of the project, which includes Main Street in Cass City, is Oct. 15, 1968.

PROUD MOTHER - Mrs. Willis Brown proudly displays the pictures of her sons, Sgt. Wayne Brown, left, and Sp4 Morris Brown, right, explaining "If I had to do the whole thing over again I would, if that's what the boys would want." Mrs. Brown is expecting an especially happy Christmas this year when all of her family will be together again.

33 flat tires after truck loses scrap

Thirty-three flat tires were reported Thursday after a trailer load of small pieces of scrap steel was scattered over M-53 near Henmans.

Harold Feldman of Detroit was ticketed for spilling a load on the highway. Feldman had left the Bassett Manufacturing Co. in Cass City with an open semi-trailer load of scrap metal, each measuring 2x2 1/2 inches, when the trailer gate opened, spilling an undetermined amount of steel pieces along the highway.

Mrs. Margaret Hize of Trenton, attempting to pass the truck just as the tailgate opened, came to an unexpected stop with four flat tires and paint chipped from her car.

Feldman stopped his truck and began flagging down approaching cars, but not before 14 vehicles became entangled with the scrap and met with flat tires.

One driver, choosing to ignore the warning, proceeded through the mess, stopping only when all four tires went flat.

State Police from Sandusky, Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies and helpful citizens worked throughout the afternoon to clear the debris from the highway. A large magnet was used Friday to help remove the remaining pieces from the shoulders of the road.

Cass City mother proud to have sons in service

By SANDY DeWAR

"If I had to do the whole thing over again I would, if that's what the boys would want to do." It was not an easy statement to make, and it was said with moist eyes, but Mrs. Willis Brown of Cass City was quite sincere.

Sincere even though she has two sons overseas, one whom she has not seen for two and a half years, the other since November.

Sgt. Wayne E. Brown, 23, is stationed with the U. S. Air Force in Tokyo. Working in administrative affairs, Wayne has been in service for almost four years and recently enlisted for another year. His wife Jill, and his five-month-old son are with him in Japan.

Wayne likes Tokyo and is forever sending china and other knickknacks to his family and friends. Graduating from Cass City High School in 1962, Wayne entered Central Michigan University. He wasn't sure in what field his future rested and on December 4, 1963, decided to enlist in the Air Force. He hasn't seen his mother for two and a half years.

SP4 Morris Brown, 20, enlisted in the U. S. Army shortly after graduating from Cass City High in 1966. He worked at General Cable for a short time, and then facing the draft, decided to get it over with in the shortest possible time.

Stationed in Kentucky, Virginia and Arizona, Morris was sent to Vietnam on November 16, 1967, where he was placed with an enemy reconnaissance team.

Like most servicemen, Morris does not like Vietnam but feels that it is his duty to be there. The G.I. soldier wrote his family that he "knew he was over there for a reason, and if he were to die, it would be with honor."

Soon due for a rest and recuperation leave, he is hoping that the Army will send him to Tokyo for a reunion with his brother.

Mrs. Brown was unable to hold back the tears while talking about her sons. She explained that they are not tears of sorrow but of fondness. "It seems forever since I've seen the kids. So many boys that should have gone have got out of it. Some people ask me why Morris went into service before he had to. They can't understand why he didn't wait for the draft. There is no answer to a question like that. It seems a shame for a boy of 18 or 19 to have to go over there.

"I adore my kids and we've gone through a lot. When Morris was in Kentucky, we went three times to see him. Once he was drilling, and his sergeant asked us what we wanted. We explained and he turned and hollered, 'Morris Brown fall out.' Just the look on Morris' face when he saw us was worth a million dollars."

Mrs. Brown's affection for her sons is evidenced in the almost daily letters she writes, and the weekly package that Morris receives in Vietnam. "He never asks for anything, so I send canned cheese and other food items along with Kool-Aid and tea."

Morris in turn does not want his family worrying so he refuses to write about anything unpleasant. Reading between the lines, Mrs. Brown feels that he is doing a lot of growing up. "He has a much better sense of responsibility now and he has written that he would like to go on to college when he gets home."

Mrs. Brown went with her sons when they enlisted. She now awaits the months of

Memorial Day programs set

Plans for area Memorial Day services have been completed, according to announcements made this week by officials in charge.

The program for Elkland township will feature a parade and address by the Rev. Fred Johnson, pastor of the United Missionary Church.

Festivities will kick off with the annual parade at 10:30 a. m. starting at the corner of West and Main Street, Ed Golding Sr. said.

Boy and Girl Scouts, 4-H, American Legion and Legion Auxiliary will be among the organizations marching behind the Cass City High School Band.

The parade will end at the Elkland Township Cemetery where services are slated to start at 11 a. m.

Master of ceremonies again this year will be Jack Esau. The invocation and benediction will be given by the Rev. Richard Eyer. Cindy McClorey and Mrs. Ed Schwartz will make the presentation of flags and a memorial wreath will be placed for the Legion Auxiliary by Mrs. William Anker, a gold star mother.

A prayer will be presented by Mrs. Glenn McClorey and Don Buehry will represent the American Legion. The committee in charge is Ed Golding Jr. and Ed Golding Sr. Handling the public address system will be Bernard Ross.

GRANT TOWNSHIP

Memorial Day services will be held Sunday, June 2, at Grant cemetery at 2 p. m. The Rev. Charles Bugbee, pastor of the Gagetown Church of the Nazarene, will speak. Participating will be the Owen-Gage marching bands and members of veterans' groups.

Special music will be presented by the Owendale EUB church choir.

The public is invited, Florence Sheufler, secretary of the Grant Memorial Association, said.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

There will also be a service on Memorial Day at the Novesta Church of Christ.

Rev. Milton Gelatt will be the speaker at the 2 p. m. service and there will be a potluck lunch.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

There is one less candidate for the two open positions on the Cass City School Board. This week Ronald PreFontaine announced that he has withdrawn from the race although his name will be on the ballot.

PreFontaine, a school psychologist for the mentally handicapped, has accepted a position in Muskegon and will not be available next year.

That still leaves six candidates and the Chronicle will have a run down on each next week.

It takes a good speaker to entertain a crowd in these days of daily exposure to the best via television and that's what the athletic department of Cass City came up with Monday night . . . a very good speaker.

We don't know if practice makes perfect, but it evidently doesn't hurt. Coach Roy Kramer of Central Michigan said that his Cass City appearance was his ninth in 10 days on the banquet circuit.

Regardless, he seems to thrive on work as he held a packed house enthralled for nearly an hour with tales of athletes he had coached.

One of the guests at the banquet was Walter Hempton, CMU

DISPLAYING A RARE tulip with six blossoms is Mrs. Martin Moore of rural Cass City.

Moore's find unusual six-blossom tulip

It took a picture in an area daily to make the Martin Moores of rural Cass City realize that they had an outstanding flower growing in their yard.

The story told of a tulip with three blossoms and the Moores have one growing with six blossoms.

The couple has been raising tulips at their farm home for 20 years and this is the first time they noticed a multi-blossomed flower in their yard. Perhaps we have had others, Moore said, but until we saw the picture we didn't realize that they were unusual.

"This certainly makes a conversation piece," Mrs. Moore said as her husband hailed a neighboring farmer passing by, to show the unusual plant.

The Moores have lived at the farm since they were married in 1945. Both are natives of the area and Moore has owned the farm northwest of Cass City since 1941.

The couple are dairy farmers, working 100 acres. They have one daughter, Florence, of Bad Axe.

Gagetown school to be demolished, used 74 years

By SANDY DeWAR

By the end of June all that will remain of the Gagetown High School will be the bell. A bell that has summoned children to class since 1894.

In 1893 members of the Gagetown School board decided the small wooden school house was no longer adequate for the growing needs of the school district. The new brick school was considered to be quite a monument to the town, when it opened its doors for the fall term of 1894.

Children attending first to tenth grade classes in the one room school, gaped at the shiny yellow pine walls and floors. The abundance of windows surrounding the room held colorful pieces of stained glass which made spectrums on the wall as the sun shone through. The first day of school began under the direction of Ben Reavey of Caro.

The upper story was used for parent-teacher meetings and gatherings. Four years later the upstairs was made into a large classroom. Mr. Reavey had since left the school and had been replaced by W. J. Eddy.

FIRST GRADUATION

In 1905 the first graduation exercises, with a class of seven, were held. Included in the class was Marion Gill of Gagetown, now Mrs. Wallace Laurie.

Mrs. Laurie recalls that school began at 9 a. m. and ended at 4 p. m. Students were allowed an hour for lunch, with a 15 minute recess for the lower grades.

Graduation for the seven consisted of a program that W. J. Eddy had prepared. Parents and friends gathered to watch Mr. Eddy hand out diplomas to the three girls, each in a new and fancy dress, and four boys, decked out in suits and ties. Other graduates were Hetty Simmons, who is now Mrs. Eugene Livingston of Cass City; Stanley Turner of Caro, Albert Hurd, now residing in the Masonic Home at Alma, Janet Gill, Fred Seeley and Delbert Coon.

HIGH SCHOOL ADDED

Two years after graduation the school board made the decision to become a high school. A young girl, just moving into Gagetown from another part of the state and having finished the 10th grade, entered the newly formed 11th grade. In 1907, Iva Ryan became the first and only graduate that year of the Gagetown High School.

By 1915 the school had been divided into four classrooms. One downstairs room held the first through fourth grades, the other, grades five through eight. High school classes were held on the upper floor. There were three high school teachers and two lower grade teachers. Over the years partitions were added to the different rooms, taken down, built again, and finally removed for good.

School was closed from October 18 to November 1, 1918, due to influenza. Record books found in the attic of the school include the names of Nina Munro, 4th grade teacher at Owendale, Alex Crawford, Superintendent at Unionville, Iva Crawford Proffitt, teacher at Cass City, and Harry Russell, school board member at Owendale for over 40 years.

In 1926 only five graduated from high school. Those receiving their diplomas were Bruce Williams, Delos Wood, Keith Welch, Preston Fournier and Leslie Munro.

Construction of a new building, to provide a combined gymnasium and auditorium and two classrooms, began August 29, 1938. Added to the north side of the school, the addition was 77 by 62 feet in size. The auditorium contained a stage 13 feet deep and approximately 50 feet wide, with the two classrooms connecting with the old building by a corridor and stairway.

By February 11, 1948, school officials were faced with the fact Gagetown High School would either expand greatly in size to become a rural agricultural school or close its doors. 103 students were enrolled at the time, but officials noted that the enrollment would have to be boosted to at least 400 for the formation of a rural agricultural unit.

In a very close election July 24, 1958, Gagetown voters approved consolidation of the high school with Owendale by only four votes. Voters in Owendale approved the measure by the substantial margin of 117.

On July 28 a board for the consolidated district was named. From the former Owendale board, Lloyd Albrecht, Barney Fahrner and Burton Roth were appointed. Representing Gagetown were W. C. Downing and Thomas Laurie.

THE LAURIE FAMILY

After graduation, Mrs. Laurie attended Ferris Institute where she studied to become a teacher. Until she was married she taught in a one-room school with 23 beginning students out of a total of 56 scholars.

"A lot of the students came to school only after the fall work was over and left in the spring when their duties began again," Mrs. Laurie recalled. "Children were not encouraged to continue with their education, as there was no compulsory age for attending school. Some people felt my father was foolish to send us girls to college. They kept telling him that we would only get married."

"Discipline was really necessary. There were times when the boys were bigger than the teachers. Most students knew that what learning they received they would have to get during the short time they had, so they were no trouble."

"I am so glad they have compulsory age now. So many poor children wouldn't get an education today without it."

The school will always remain in the memories of the Laurie family. Mrs. Laurie's son Grover attended school in the old brick building; her grandson, Jack enrolled for four years, and her great-grandson Douglas is presently a first grader.

The school bell will ring for the last time when school closes for the summer. A week later the old building will fall to the wrecking bar.

Children will no longer run up the four wooden steps into the school. They will no longer drink from the out of place modern drinking fountain mounted on a yellow pine knotted

The fourth graders of Campbell Elementary presented a Michigan Week pageant Friday afternoon. The story of Michigan - its history right up to the present - was told through songs with the help of a narrator. Many parents attended the show to hear the students sing such songs as, "Michigan, My Michigan," and "This Land Is Your Land."

The fifth grade Sports Club has been holding an Olympics in which the different fifth grade classes are competing against one another. To distinguish one class from another - each room has a "team" color. Mrs. Milligan's room color is light blue; Mrs. Grenevitich's - yellow; and Mrs. Goodall's - navy blue. The schedule of events has been as follows:

May 13 - Kickball
May 15 - Four-square
May 20 - Track
May 22 - Volleyball
May 27 - Chinese
May 29 - Game races

Ribbons have been made and trophies are ordered for the winners of the events. The awards will be presented on the last day of the Olympics. Since some of the Olympics took more than one night, the planned schedule is a little bit off. However, the first three events have been held and the results are as follows:

Kickball
1st place - Mrs. Grenevitich's room.

2nd place - Mrs. Goodall's room.
3rd place - Mrs. Milligan's room.

4-Square
1st - Mrs. Goodall's room.
2nd - Mrs. Grenevitich's room.

3rd - Mrs. Milligan's room.
Track
1st - Mrs. Milligan's room.
2nd - Mrs. Grenevitich's room.

3rd - Mrs. Goodall's room.
Friday night was the carnival night which ended Kaos Week.

Booths in the carnival included a cake walk, a spook house, wrestling, throwing silly putty at the teachers' silhouettes, and many more.

C. C. H. S.

Last Monday a number of students from CCHS went to Caro for the final Thumb B Student Council meeting of this year. (After the meeting the annual picnic was held.) The business meeting and the picnic lunch were held at the VFW hall in Caro, but when the weather cleared up in the afternoon, the picnic moved to Enos park where dessert was served and a recreational period was held. However, the fun and games ended at about two o'clock due to a hail-rain storm. Bah!

For the Juniors, last week was really busy in that we were getting ready for the prom. Friday and Saturday an all-out effort by the whole class was put forth to get everything ready. This year it was decided by the Junior class that the Seniors should be charged for the prom, but not for the banquet, which is put on in honor of the seniors. The Seniors, who had tried to charge last year's Seniors to get into the prom, but couldn't, really put up a storm of protest when they found out that they were to be charged.

Last week it got to the point where no seniors were coming to the prom and none of the juniors cared. (It wasn't so bad as all that, but things were pretty edgy!) So, Thursday after school, the officers of the senior class met with the prom committee and a compromise was reached after an hour and a half of discussion. It was decided that any senior couple from CCHS could get in for $3.00 (the admission per couple was $5.00), but if a senior was taking an underclassman or someone from another school, or going with an underclassman, the full admission price was to be paid. Friday morning the Junior class had a meeting to vote on the compromise. It passed with only a few dissenting votes.

CLUB NEWS

The G.A.A. had a practice session Tuesday night for their baseball game against Bad Axe Wednesday afternoon. Bad Axe defeated Cass City 11-6.

The Future Nurses had a tea for their mothers after school Tuesday. At the tea Mrs. James Ballard, who is the club's sponsor, was honored with an orchid corsage and some carnations. Also at the meeting Jean Butler, the new president-elect, was initiated.

The Future Homemakers had their final meeting of the year after school Wednesday.

TID BITS

All day Wednesday 60 students from the Chemistry and Physics classes went on a field trip to Michigan State University in East Lansing. The group ate lunch in Kellogg Center, visited the museum, and attended some lectures at the chemical engineering college.

At least once each marking period, the students in Mr. Dave Ackerman's social studies classes have what is called "identifications." This is a contest in which the students have to identify, from pictures, well-known people.

Thursday afternoon, the top eighteen people from about one hundred and seventy students, had an inter-class contest of identification. The results were as follows:

1st - Paul LeValley.
2nd - Eric Esau.
3rd - Terry Hille.

The prizes were candy bars. This was the thirteenth year that this contest has been held at CCHS.

HELPING OUT with the decorations of the Junior-Senior prom were Joan Orzel, left, and Kathy Turner.

JUNGLE ANIMALS created by Art I at Cass City High School decorate the halls at Cass City Schools. Rick Lorenzen posed with a giraffe created by Jeri Bartlett and Lois Kaake. The spider was constructed by Susan MacDonald and Sharla Crawford. The hippo was made by Linda Johnson, Leslie Merchant and Susan Tuckey.

Volunteer firemen sign for duty because the job has to be done

Ask a volunteer fireman why he has taken on such a duty and chances are good that he will answer, "It's a job that has to be done."

A job that has to be done because of the huge expense involved in maintaining a full-time department, an expense that smaller communities cannot meet. A department of 18 men, such as the Elkland Township Fire Department has, would cost the local government $135,000 a year based on local pay scale.

The backbone of the volunteer fire department consists of 18 men who go to work every day and run like blazes when the whistle blows. Present members include a mailman, photographer, sheriff deputy, village employees, candy salesman, carpenters, gas station operator, garage mechanics, and men from Detroit Edison, a farm elevator and a lumber yard. When the fire siren is activated they leave their business personalities behind and become trained firemen.

PRESENT OFFICERS

Nelson Willy is chief of the department. Jerome Root Jr., is assistant chief, Eldon Stoutenburg, captain; Richard Root, captain; Robert McArthur, secretary, and Jim Jezewski, treasurer. The department is backed by four auxiliary men.

Regardless of why a man decides to become a volunteer fireman, it is almost certain that money is not the main objective. The men are paid at the rate of $16 for the first hour and $8 for every hour after. This figure is not per man, but is split between the 18 men, with each receiving 88¢ for the first hour and 44¢ for the second.

Volunteers are also paid $4.16 per month for attending the regular meeting. If a volunteer were to report to every fire and attend every meeting, he would end the year with $132.

FIRE EQUIPMENT

Three pumps, a 1944 Ford, holding 250 gallons of water and pumping 500 gallons per minute; a 1949 Ford, holding 650 gallons of water, pumping 500 gallons per minute with a high pressure pump; a 1968 Ford, holding 750 gallons of water and pumping 750 gallons per minute with a high pressure pump capable of producing 860 pounds of pressure, and a tanker holding 1200 gallons, are used by the department.

Beside the hoses and ladders, the trucks are equipped with Co2 extinguishers, brooms and Indian tanks for grass fires, hand lanterns, two axes per truck, an assortment of accessories to allow for different connections and hookups for the hoses, two self-sustaining masks on two of the trucks, and radios in the tanker and pumper.

CONSTANT TRAINING

From April to October the men attend two training sessions a month. They go through a general fire operation, laying of lines, and operation of the pumps. Every four years a ten-week course is attended for two hours a week. The course is offered through the University of Michigan Firemen Training Division and after being completed an exam must be taken. Those qualifying receive a training certificate.

Some of the firemen also attend a two-day, three-hour session on arson in Bay City. This course is also offered through the U of M and the State of Michigan Fireman's Association.

The actual time a volunteer fireman devotes to duty varies considerably. The average is 48 fire runs per year, 20 of which are grass fires, the rest buildings. Four tornado watches a year are averaged, with firemen standing by at the firehall. If a tornado is sighted, a two-minute whistle is sounded for alarm. Three short blasts signal an all-clear. But fire is unpredictable. In 1967 the fire department attended 43 fires. With only five months of 1968 passed, the number is already at 41. "What the rest of the year will bring is anyone's guess," Chief Willy stated.

MISLEADING FACTS

Many misbeliefs revolve around the fire whistle. Some believe that firemen can determine the direction of the fire by the sound of the whistle. This is not true. Others are under the impression that the call is received in Cass City, while actually it is taken by the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department in Caro, with 14 other phones ringing at the same time.

The whistle is an automatic one, shutting itself off after it has run through six cycles. Occasionally the siren will be activated at the fire station and then by the Sheriff's Department, thus causing it to go through an extra cycle or two.

Fear of the call not getting through should not be a worry to a person reporting a fire. Once the number is dialed, 15 phones ring at once. One is located in the Sheriff's Department, one in the fire hall, and 13 in homes of the firemen.

Those firemen at home also listen into the call and are alerted to the location of the fire when they reach the station. The first two men arriving at the "fire" station leave immediately in one of the pumps. The next four go in their own cars, and the next two in the tanker. The rest of the men reporting remain at the station to supply assistance if needed, or to answer another alarm.

If the whistle were to fail when activated or "tripped" by the Sheriff's Department, it can be activated by hand at the station. If there are moment were to occur that none of the 13 phone firemen were home, their wives would answer the call, noting location of fire, name of person making the call, and property owner where the fire is located. The wives then call one of three numbers, ST&H Oil Company, Wood Rexall Drug, or the Telephone Company, and someone from these businesses would activate the siren and stay to inform the firemen where the fire is.

NO GLAMOR - SOME FUN

A volunteer fireman does find time for activities other than fire fighting. Occasionally the department will hold a fund raising campaign to pay for new uniforms. Work is forgotten in July when a picnic in the park is held for the wives and family of the volunteers; at Christmas when the auxiliary, regulars and retired members of the department get together for a "men only" party, and in January when the women are honored for their part, at a dinner just for the wives. While the fun is going on all fingers are crossed that the whistle doesn't blow.

Little glamor is offered to those thinking of joining the department. In fact the benefits are rather discouraging if a volunteer were to think of the risks of accident, loss of sleep, loss of work hours. The job is definitely time consuming. A recent barn fire brought a call to the Sheriff's Department and the tripping of the siren at 10:32 in the morning. Fourteen men answered the call and within 15 minutes the equipment had rolled from the station, traveled 7 1/2 miles, and were set to fight the fire. The men remained at the location until 2:40. Receiving a signal from the chief that everything was under control the men headed back to town at a slower pace and stayed at the station until 3:10, cleaning up the equipment, filling the tanks, hanging up wet hoses and placing dry ones back on the trucks. Their pay - $2.60 - but then "it's a job that has to be done."

Footsteps will cease to be heard on the flight of steps to the second floor, steps that show the strain and wear of the many feet traveling it daily. The floors groan with age. Paint has peeled in the classrooms, and the plaster is cracked and falling. The coat hooks on the walls will soon be emptied for the last time and the last school lesson will remain on the black boards. The stained glass windows, now mostly cracked or replaced, will soon be shattered.

The bell will be taken down before demolition begins. If possible it will be permanently mounted in the school yard. As it rings for the last time it will herald the beginning of a new addition, for after the building is down and the land cleared, a crew will begin construction of a modern seven classroom school with a general office and new heating system.

EDITOR'S CORNER

Concluded from page one. star athlete, looking fit and ready and hoping for a professional baseball offer after an outstanding season with the Chips diamond nine. Hempton chatted briefly with Ed Retherford, another former Cass City star athlete.

Both young men are former winners of the Paul Smarks trophy at the school and the presentation to John Maharg must have brought back memories for each.

There are 100 kids in the Minor League and a full roster of players in the Little League so the program must be good. However, there has been discussion about how much some of the lesser talented boys get to play.

Under the present rules, team members just have to "get in" the game for an unspecified period... as a runner, for one play... anything as long as their name is in the boxscore. Advocates say that sports all along the line in school follow the same procedure and that the boys should start becoming ready for it.

The other school of thought is that the boys should be allowed to play a specified length of time in each game regardless of ability as the program is designed to teach boys to play ball.

I haven't been associated with the program long enough to form an opinion other than to observe that some boys don't want to move up to Little League even when drafted because they are afraid that they won't get to play enough.

An extension of this policy, obviously, would kill the program. Perhaps a compromise may be necessary with every boy assured of at least a time at bat.

CMU slates 2 summer courses at Bad Axe

Students in the Thumb area may enroll in two courses programmed this summer at Bad Axe by the Central Michigan University's Off Campus Education. Both are two-week courses and enrollment is scheduled for 9 a. m. the first day of each period at Bad Axe High School.

Physical Science 415 will be given July 1-12. Titled Workshop: Elementary Science, the course earns two hours credit and will be taught by Kenneth Wright. Students will be concerned with the construction of equipment for use in the teaching of science courses. Scheduled for July 15-26 is Geography 421, Geography for Teachers. This course earns three hours credit and is being taught by Dr. Robert Marple. The emphasis will be on materials and methods used in teaching geography.

Staff members from CMU's Off Campus Education office will be at Bad Axe High School the first day of each period to assist in registration and to answer any questions regarding the University's degree programs.

Capacity crowd sees athletes feted at annual all-sports banquet

Athletes at Cass City High School were feted Monday night at the annual all-sports banquet at Cass City High School where parents and friends of the athletes gathered to see the boys honored and hear Roy Kramer, football coach at Central Michigan University.

Kramer, an outstanding speaker, held the largest crowd ever to attend the banquet enthralled as he explained what it takes to be a good athlete and a good citizen by giving examples from among some of the "most unforgettable athletes that he had coached."

He pointed to a boy with a limp who refused to be cut from the squad and later became all-state and starred at Michigan State as an example of the never-give-up spirit that makes a winner.

He used one of Cass City's grid greats, Walter Hempton, as another example for the boys to follow. He recounted how "Wally" had been a scoring star last year and switched to a blocking role for the good of the team this year as an example of the unselfishness and team play necessary in athletics.

Kramer illustrated the traits of self sacrifice, a positive attitude and the facing and accepting of responsibility by recounting the exploits of other boys he had coached.

He closed by pointing out that none of his most unforgettable athletes were boys of tremendous physical strength or speed, but became accomplished athletes because of their character traits.

He said that if Cass City athletes were going to succeed they could do well to pattern themselves after these boys.

FOOTBALL AWARDS

Get a picture of what you want to do in your mind now for next fall, Coach John Bifoss told his gridders, and the results will become apparent on the field.

Bifoss introduced the football co-captains, Ron Weippert and John Maharg, the team's most valuable player. Also recognized were the lettermen: Mick Miracle, Dave Hennessey, Dennis Stine, Dick McRae, Bill Klinkman, Gary Vollmar, Bruce LeValley, Don Wernette, Dave Sherrard, Tim Rabideau, Jim Kloc, Ron Weippert, Neil MacCallum, Fred Ryan, Jack Selby, Jack Hillaker and Tom Guinther.

BASKETBALL AWARDS

Coach Jim Wynes presented the varsity basketball awards. He told the parents that in his six years of coaching he always had fine boys to work with and that this year's squad was no exception.

He pointed to the fine team effort of the squad who worked together in his system that revolved around John Maharg. The boys constantly worked to get the ball to him and were willing to sacrifice personal glory for the good of the team, Wynes said.

He cited Maharg for his many honors including All Conference, All Blue Water Area, All Saginaw Valley second team and All State honorable mention.

TRACK AWARDS

Robert Watson, track coach, said that he felt that his track team has produced a significant achievement for coming in second in the Thumb B Conference after being tabbed as also rans when the season opened.

He introduced his players and told of the events they competed in to win points to qualify for a letter.

BASEBALL LETTERMEN

Coach Wynes introduced the baseball letter winners and pointed out that two of the boys were Freshmen and several were underclassmen. We should be strong in future years, he told the group.

CHEER LEADERS

Mrs. John Bifoss introduced the various cheer leaders. She pointed to the work of Capt. Kally Pine as outstanding and said that Debbie Boylan, Pep Club president, was also very helpful during the year.

Varsity members are: Linda Brown, Barb MacRae, Miss Pine, Brenda Powell, Gloria Stine and Carla Calka.

In addition to the varsity letter winners, Junior Varsity and Freshmen players were introduced. Less Ross of Cass City was the master of ceremonies.

Hawks win, lose

Cass City dropped a Thumb B Conference baseball tilt to Vassar Tuesday, May 21, 12-5 and split a doubleheader with Sebewaing Friday, winning 7-1 and losing 8-1.

During the season the Hawks won one game in the Conference and two non-league games. A bright spot for the club was the performance of underclassmen. Freshmen Rob Alexander and Kim Hopper came on strong in the latter stages of the season and Tom Kolb also performed well. The young players should form the nucleus for strong teams in future years.

Vassar staged a six-run second inning rally to salt away the victory in a hurry. John Maharg started for Cass City with Rob Alexander pitching in the fourth and Kim Hopper taking over in the sixth.

Maharg and Alexander, with two hits each, accounted for all the Hawks' batting punch while the Vulcans hammered out 13 safeties.

Alexander picked up a victory for Cass City as he limited Sebewaing to one hit and coasted to an easy 7-1 decision in the first game of the doubleheader. Alexander struck out 11.

Leading the attack for Cass City were Alexander and Kolb who smacked two hits each. The Indians turned the tables on the Hawks in the nightcap as they pounded out an 8-1 decision. The winners nicked starting pitcher Kim Hopper for three runs in the first inning and were never behind. Maharg took over in the fourth and completed the game. He was touched for three runs in the fifth and two tallies in the sixth.

Alexander slammed three hits and Kolb rapped two hits in the losing effort.

Trouble-shooting on area farms

By Don Kebler

Last week my farm visits can be chalked up as trouble-shooting calls. I visited two operations with sugar beet problems on stand, emergence, herbicide and disease possibilities.

The first farm I visited had several fields planted to sugar beets. Some of these fields had good emergence, some fields had strips of both good and poor emergence and different herbicides were applied.

The second operation had an emergence and stand problem on several fields also and this operator had used the same herbicide material on all the fields.

On both operations the poor emergence appeared to be of a common cause. The germinating beet seedlings were having great difficulty in breaking through the ground. We found all seedlings growing in a twisted and curly manner and not straight upward. These seedlings had lengths of at least two inches. What seems to have happened here was that there was considerable covering up of the rows with rain washed soil right after planting which placed the seed much deeper in the soil than desirable. This coupled with cold and wet weather presented abnormal germination and emergence problems. Very little black root was in evidence at this time. It was very difficult to really substantiate the main cause of the problem to be that of herbicide and the seed planted by each operator was of the same lot respectively. These two operators didn't have the same seed lots either.

I made a call at Clifton Lotter's to examine his alfalfa as he wondered why he was not getting the growth expected. The first field examined had a good green vigorous appearance normal for the area and year. There was some kill in the low areas due to heaving last winter. A tissue test revealed both phosphorus and potassium levels to be between medium and low. This level may not be sufficient for alfalfa needs. The second alfalfa field definitely was stunted, had a poorer stand and the alfalfa was spindly yellowish with positive leaf symptoms of potassium deficiency. Tissue tests on this alfalfa showed both phosphorus and potassium levels to be low.

Both fields had been recently limed and it appears that fertility is the problem.

While we are on the subject of alfalfa production, let's look at one of the ways alfalfa can be harvested, prepared, stored and handled.

I will refer to the method of putting this feed up as silage whether it be feed beef or dairy animals.

On Wednesday, June 5, (June 6 if it rains) a joint tri-county Hay Day is being sponsored by the Extension Offices of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties with the cooperation of machinery dealers.

This all-day program, from 10:00 a. m. to 3:00 p. m. will be held at the Clarence and Jim Meissner farm, located 2 miles east of Forestville and 1/2 mile south on Schock Road. I'll be going and I plan to see field demonstrations of mowers, choppers, windrowers and unloading wagons. During the noon lunch hour I'll hear our Extension Specialists' latest word on growing alfalfa, haylage in livestock rations, making good haylage moisture testing plus other useful information.

For those of us who don't plan to bring our lunch, we will find lunch available on the grounds. I hope to see quite a few of our good Tuscola county livestock feeders and dairymen there also.

The Cassland Farm Bureau Community group held its monthly meeting at the Clare Carpenter home last Thursday evening.

Harold Perry led the group in discussing youth labor, opportunities and restrictions. Alfred Goodall reported on legislative matters affecting the farmers.

Mrs. Carpenter led a discussion on happenings within the county and state Farm Bureau including news of the County Women's Committee.

She announced a one-day bus tour to Canada sponsored by the women's group, scheduled for June 19. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Stanley Lagos, Cass City. The cost is $6.00 and interested persons have until June 10 to place reservations.

JUST HUMAN

A great many people would rather be thought rich than be considered rich in thought.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

I have to hurry to keep up

By Marion Hostetler

Just about the time I think I'm up to date on modern inventions, I find somebody else is ahead of me.

I phoned Cass City a few weeks ago from my sister's home in Columbus, Ohio, and no operator asked from what number I was calling. Even that bit of information is now recorded electronically.

I'd think the next step in streamlining our local system would be to eliminate the necessity of having the operator ask for my number when I am dialing for information... since they don't intend to charge me for that call anyway.

huge fork whose tines fit into the holes in the blocks when they are stacked neatly together. The man in charge can hoist a stack of blocks, swing them around in either direction, and set them down exactly where the customer wants them... all by flicking an electric switch.

When it comes to ingenuity, surgeons are among the most inventive of men. Only a few years ago, the only cure for Meniere's Disease was to remove the labyrinth from the inner ear. Rev. Melvin Vender has this operation performed on his left ear sixteen years ago. It successfully eliminated the objective vertigo--the condition in which the whole world seems to be swirling around and around the person who suffers from this syndrome. But the operation completely destroys the hearing in that ear.

Now a new operation has been pioneered at the Mayo Clinic, in which a tiny steel pin is implanted in a bone of the inner ear. This seems to control the vertigo without destroying the hearing. Mr. Vender had this operation on his right ear in a Saginaw hospital on May 14, and we're glad to report that his is able to be up and around again.

There are all kinds of things you can do with money: you can earn it, spend it, save it, give it away, waste it, invest it, inflate it, or loan it to a friend.

But one of the most remarkable of modern financial operations is "raising" money.

I thought about this when I read an advertisement that said, "Raise $40, $200, $300 or more for your church or group with this 6-in-1 pair of kitchen and household shears. You don't spend 1¢ of your own money."

That last sentence is what got me. If my church or group needs $40, what's wrong with spending 1¢ of your own money to meet the need? The sensible thing to do would be for the members to contribute the $40 since the need for it is their idea.

Instead of contributing it, though, some member of the group will probably suggest that we "raise" the money. This means that we'll try to horn-swoggle our friends and neighbors (who don't belong to the group and didn't think up the project) into paying for our project. Why not let each group pay for its own projects, and quit trying to raise money from those who don't belong to the sponsoring group?

Braille books given to library

The reference section of the Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library was increased this past week by the addition of a new 30-volume encyclopedia set, the Americana.

Also new at the library is a two-volume set of the four Gospels, in Braille. This set is a gift from the Cass City Lions Club to the library and is available for loan to any person in the area who reads Braille.

Poisonous Plants

Most people know they should avoid poison ivy, but they often don't realize that the buttercup and sweet pea are the really poisonous plants in the field and garden. Wyeth Laboratories recently sent a booklet to your family physician that lists 56 common plants and trees which contain substances that, when eaten or allowed to come in contact with the skin, cause physical harm.

The major area of concern, the booklet notes, "hinges on the natural curiosity of childhood. The most toxic parts of poisonous plants are usually the most attractive to children, who are prompted to experiment with roots, fruits, flowers and stems, whether they happen to enjoy the taste or not."

Also, there are still thousands of people who experiment with wild plants and berries as foods, "teas" and in various homeopathic medicine. These persons can harm themselves if they don't know exactly what can be safely used.

The booklet lists a half-dozen sensible safety tips:

- 1) Never eat any part of an unknown plant.
- 2) Eat only properly-prepared foods from well-known sources.
- 3) Never chew on jewelry made from imported seeds or beans.
- 4) Never use anything prepared from nature as medicine or "tea."
- 5) Learn to identify the poisonous plants in your neighborhood and home.
- 6) Firmly impress these rules on children.

All by itself, EPTAM® has become the most widely used selective herbicide for the control of annual grasses and many broadleaf weeds in dry and snap beans. What makes EPTAM so different?

EPTAM is the only selective herbicide that controls nutgrass (nutsedge) and controls it effectively. In addition, EPTAM controls: hairy nightshade, fox-tails, lambsquarters, pigweeds, pigeon grass, nettleleaf goosefoot, barnyard-grass (watergrass), and many, many more. Controls them all... regardless of weather. Controls them alone... without help from other chemicals. Controls them without leaving harmful soil residues to interfere with crop rotation.

EPTAM is simple to use. Apply it... liquid or granular... at planting time. Mix it immediately into the soil. Plant your dry or snap beans. That's all there is to it.

You get more beans per acre, with fewer cultivations — if any at all are needed — lower production costs, and fast, easier harvest. Even your machinery benefits. With EPTAM at work, there is less trash to cause plug-ups.

Put your dry beans to bed this season with EPTAM... the best growing partner they've ever had. See us.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle give the fellers at the country store a real shock Saturday night. Ed, that is on record as agin everthing the Great Society has ever done, announced that the Administration final is trying to make a move he is agreed with. He said he had saw where the General Accounting Office has a crew of 150 men working to find out where the Government money goes.

The GAO, claimed Ed, has a reputation for economy, and if them 150 men can come up with ways to save enough to pay their wages they'll do more than any of them. Government agencies has done since Cal Coolidge ordered the White House saddle horse sold.

Ed said he had saw where they was $776 in the Federal budget for ever man, woman and child in the country and he ain't received a cent of it and he figgered the Government must be waiting to send it with his $3,000 annual wage as soon as this gits to be law. Anyhow, allowed Ed, he hoped this new GAO team would find out what happened to his $776.

Zeke Grubb said he had been thinking about this new $3,000 guaranteed wage and he was wondering if they was fixing to pay a feller the same fer working as fer not working. Zeke said they had ought to work out a plan where a man would be paid according to the kind of work he don't do. Fer instant, Zeke said it don't look fair to give a feller the same wage fer not bar-boring as fer not burning down stores and apartment buildings. It was fer shore, said Zeke, the country was better off paying more fer not setting fires than fer not cutting hair. Long hair is more in style right now than house burning, was the way Zeke put it.

Bug Hookum said he was agreed with Ed and Zeke, said he had saw in the papers where one bunch of them folks arrested fer looking and burning last month had a average of $300 in cash on them, and Bug was wondering if they had done started gitting their part of that guaranteed wage.

The storekeeper butted in to say he was strong in favor of this crew they was setting up to see where our money went. He reported he had saw in the papers where our Government was paying $80 a yard fer cotton material that the factory was selling retail fer less than $6, and that the Government had give a $7 million contract to the same construction company that the Government was suing fer $5 million because of unsatisfactory work they had done on their last contract.

I wasn't prepared, Mister Editor, to quote no figgers at the session, but I went home and said my prayers fer that new GAO investigating team.

Yours truly,

Uncle Tim

Plan tour to MSU for women's meet

The Associated Country Women of the World will hold their triennial meeting on the Michigan State Campus, September 3-14, 1968. ACWW is the international organization of programs similar to the Extension Study Groups in America.

September 5 has been designated as USA Day when 5,000 women from all over the United States will be able to attend the conference.

The Tuscola County Extension Council is sponsoring a charter bus to this event. Anyone interested is invited. Along with association with many women from throughout the entire world, special features of the day will include President Johnson, the MSU Band and Indian Dancers from Arizona.

Total charge for the day will be $11.50. This includes bus fare, registration, and luncheon and dinner tickets, according to Judith Schroeter, Extension Home Economist.

Interested persons should contact Extension office for more detailed information. Registration deadline is June 7.

Stand anywhere in Michigan and you are within 85 miles of one of the Great Lakes.

FLAVOR FIRST--To make sure you're getting the best flavor from your chicken, use fresh chicken within two days after you purchase it or else freeze it, Michigan State University home economists advise. Frozen chickens can be stored up to 12 months at zero degrees, but when you take them out for cooking it's best to thaw them in the refrigerator for about one day.

"If It Fitz..."

Racists cause unending pain

BY JIM FITZGERALD

I was standing with a friend in a drugstore in Colorado Springs when I first heard Dr. Martin Luther King had been shot. We overheard a young boy excitedly relaying the news to the clerk at the cigar counter.

"Good," said the clerk, who had his back to us. "Now if they'd just shoot the rest of the niggers, we'd all be better off."

I looked at my friend. He is a PhD from Wayne University. He is very black. He looked away. He walked away.

I felt sick. That was almost 2 months ago and I have not yet erased this little ache from my stomach. I could have ignored one bigoted clerk in a hotel drugstore. But my nation is full of people who agree with him; full of people who hate and don't know why. This is a sickness. I guess my little ache is my share of the sickness.

The exhaustive report from the Kerner commission said it like it is, plain and simple: white racists are the biggest reason for the terrifying racial problems in this country today.

Don't blame poverty or lack of education or the Negro who raped the neighbor's daughter. These are results of the problem. The cause is the white man's blind hate; his disrespect; his patronizing; his "ok but-not-next-door-to-me" attitude.

Not many people will read the Kerner report. They don't have to. You are surrounded by its truth. All you have to do is look around you. Or look inside yourself. You'll see the white racist in all his ugly foolishness. That Colorado clerk is everywhere.

Just 4 examples:

A Lapeer businessman recently told a good customer that he might some day hire a Negro saleslady. "When you do, you lose my business," the customer said.

A high school football coach confided to me that Negro boys ran so fast because they are yellow - afraid to be tackled.

I asked a high Detroit official if there was any truth to Negro charges of police brutality in his city. "Certainly there is truth to it," he answered. "But it is not the physical brutality that is so common and so terrible. It's the police attitude. If we could just get policemen to stop calling colored people 'niggers' we would be making progress."

A newspaper columnist compared Martin Luther King to Hitler because King broke laws. This is so ridiculous it deserves no answer. I am ashamed to admit I obeyed some of the neck laws that Dr. King broke. But 70% of the columnist's readers agreed with him. He has become somewhat of a hero in righteous circles. It wouldn't surprise me if they found a spot for him on the Wallace ticket.

I could fill this page with examples of white racism. So could you if you were honest, and made the effort. But that's enough for now. Let's get back to the black doctor from Wayne University.

One night I shared a hotel room with him (The next morning I was prejudiced against men who snore). The doctor has a big brain and I was delighted to pick at it. I wanted to know how he felt about the Negro nuts who preach hate and violence; the black racists. His answer was interesting:

"Men such as Stokely Carmichael and Rev. Cleage and Milton Henry do NOT speak for the vast majority of black people," he said. "The average Negro had never heard of Rap Brown before the white press began following him around. These violent men scare us Negroes just as much as they scare you whites. They couldn't get elected dogcatcher in the Negro community. They have tried and failed."

"The black power extremists had a national convention in Detroit the other day. There are 600,000 Negroes in Detroit alone. Less than 200 attended that convention. But the white press gives all the publicity to these few violent men who are NOT leaders. And the white men identify us all with Rap Brown just because his skin is the same color as ours."

It was a few days later that the doctor and I shared the news of Martin Luther King's death. "Judge me by the actions of a few violent Negroes," he said, "and I will judge you by the white man who killed Dr. King."

"Or would you rather be judged by that clerk who wants to shoot all 'niggers'?"

On my darkest days I think I'd rather go live in a zoo. My stomach might quit aching.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross

Extension Agent

Money is as integral a part of teenagers' lives as it is of the lives of parents, claims Mrs. Ann Ross, Cooperative Extension Service home economist in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

Surveys show that America's teenagers have billions of dollars to spend each year. Learning to spend his share wisely can help your teenager become better equipped to solve many of the complex problems of his adult life. You can provide training in establishing sound financial habits.

Basic money spending habits should be formed before youngsters reach junior high school, possibly through the experience of managing an allowance, she said. By the time he is in his teens, a child should be able to comprehend the relationship between his own economic needs and the total family income and expenses. He should appreciate both what money can and cannot do.

You can expect young people to want to spend money in much the same way as other members of the same age group. There is the constant question as to when to let your teenager stand on his own and accept the consequences, good or bad; and when to impose your own judgment.

If you are looking for ways to counteract group influences you feel are not desirable, one of the most effective ways is to have set a good example all along by taking needs, wants and income of the family into consideration when making your own decisions. If you plan your own spending, it is easier to convince our teenager he should plan.

Parents would do well to encourage their teenagers to make their own decisions, earn money, spend it, save it and keep records of their financial transactions. Saving and spending should be viewed not as ends in themselves, but as steps to desired goals. Suggestions to aid money management are available for parents of teenagers in a new publication, "Money World of Your Young Teenager," available without charge from the Cooperative Extension Service Offices in the Thumb.

New ship to help study Great Lakes' marine life

Problems and behavior of Great Lakes marine life can be studied with greater precision because of a new Michigan Department of Conservation work vessel. The ship, christened "Steelhead" May 2, is a 63 ft., steel hulled, floating laboratory.

It is equipped with modern electronic gear, has a range of 1,000 miles and can remain at sea for five days. The Steelhead has a crew of three: a captain, a marine biologist and a fisheries aide who also serves as a deck hand. The ship is permanently assigned to the department's fisheries division.

Rehabilitation of sport fish in Great Lakes waters prompted construction of the vessel. According to Conservation Director R. A. MacMullan, scientific management of such a large-scale program encompasses far more than just planting fish from state hatcheries.

"We need to know about migration patterns, food utilization habits of fish, survival levels of planted fish and contributions to fish population made by hatcheries as compared to natural reproduction," he said.

Location and numbers of forage fish, such as the alewife, must be determined if sport fish like the coho, chinook and lake trout are to have an adequate food supply. Data collected on the Steelhead will provide this information.

A biological laboratory on the enclosed deck is equipped to handle dissection and other tests necessary to determine age and growth of fish, parasitic activity, food analysis, egg and scale examination. A freezer preserves tissue samples for later investigation of pesticide residue.

MacMullan points out that the Great Lakes suffered virtual elimination of all sport fish in recent years. The lamprey, coupled with exploitation by some commercial fisheries, set the stage for an explosion of alewives and other forage fish.

The primary objective of introducing new predators to the Great Lakes waters is to reverse this biological imbalance and develop new game fish for Michigan sportsmen.

Some legislators question the value of the Steelhead at her $105,000 price tag. MacMullan recalls numerous "jokes" passed among some of the lawmakers. "They weren't very funny," he says.

Michigan is the second Great Lake state to have such a vessel. Ohio already has one in operation and MacMullan expects others to follow suit. The Steelhead will be based at Charlevoix and will operate in Lakes Michigan, Huron and Superior.

FRAUD ALERT

Another warning was issued by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley to Michigan residents. Kelley notes that two promotional schemes which defraud consumers are gaining momentum in the state. Home fire alarm systems and "free" stereos are the latest gimmicks used by fast-talk artists and unscrupulous operators.

Sanilac County Clerk to seek re-election

Walter Behn, Sanilac county clerk, this week announced that he was a candidate for re-election to that post in the August primaries.

WALTER BEHN

Behn, an active Republican, has served as clerk since 1963. He is former supervisor of his home township of Sanilac, resigning that position when he was elected clerk. He is a former chairman of the board, and served as township treasurer of Sanilac township before advancing to supervisor. He is former member of the Port Sanilac Harbor Commission serving on that body when the harbor was being constructed in the middle fifties.

He was born in Sanilac township, graduated from the Carsonville high school and has farmed in the township all of his life in addition to the government positions he has held.

He is married, has three children, one of whom still resides at home. He is a member of St. John Lutheran church, Port Sanilac, and has been an active sportsman, being an avid bowler.

Besides his position as county clerk, Behn also serves as Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, Friend of the Court, and Clerk of the Circuit Court.

"If re-elected, I shall endeavor to give the same courteous service through the office as we have in the past," Mr. Behn said this week in making his announcement.

EXTENSION CLUB TRIP

Twelve members of the Shabbona Extension Club went on the annual trip to Port Austin Wednesday, May 22. Upon arrival in Port Austin they were met by Mrs. Earl Hauser, a member of the Port Austin Extension Club, who accompanied them during the day. First stop was at the Port Austin Level Co. The company was formed in 1947 and through steady growth has expanded from 15 to 43 employees and from one building to five.

and are manufactured from wood, aluminum and magnesium. The wood is Honduras mahogany and pine. The demand for mahogany is six times greater than the pine.

Besides the United States, products are sold in several foreign countries. Yearly payroll exceeds $150,000.

Each visitor was presented a 9-inch level.

Following lunch at a Port Austin restaurant, the group visited the Radar Air Base where they were taken through the kitchens and food storage areas by Sgt. Troy, who is in charge of food supply.

Lt. Roland Crowl spoke to the group and explained the objectives and missions of the base.

One For The Road

Try orienteering for the waistline

By Dan Marlowe

Did you ever hear of the sport of Orienteering?

It's one of the fastest-growing sports in Europe. It's also beginning to catch on in the United States.

Orienteering adds challenge, purpose, and competition to a walk or run through the park, the forest, or the neighboring hills. In many respects, it's a walking road-rally which requires no expensive equipment.

Nature has laid out the course and transportation is by "shank's mare." Exercise-seeking adults will find that a larger appetite for living and a smaller waist-line are just two of the more obvious bonuses.

Primary requisites in Orienteering are ability to read a map properly and to use a compass correctly. With map and compass, the orienteer makes his way from one indicated point to another. He uses the 5 D's of map-reading (Description, Details, Directions, Distances and Designations) to plot his course. He uses his compass to make sure he doesn't veer from his designated course.

The challenges are many. Where are you, precisely? How can you proceed most quickly to the next checkpoint, exactly? Around the hill directly in front of you, or over it? Can you find your way, with map and compass, all around the course?

In short, can you orient yourself with your physical environment?

Orienteering originated in Sweden in 1918. It's now such an ingrained part of the landscape that it's taught in the Swedish schools. A recent promotional contest involved 182,000 people (men, women, and children), or about one in every twenty of the entire population.

There are neighborhood competitions, national competitions, Nordic races (involving teams from Sweden, Norway, and Finland), and international meetings.

Never a country to do things by halves where exercise and sport is concerned, Sweden has divided Orienteering into two categories. In summer meets are scheduled as described above. In winter it's the mixture as before except that skis are added. It's seldom that the best skier (or cross-country runner) wins the contest. Proper planning and correct judgement give everyone a chance.

I first learned of Orienteering through a tape exchange with a goldsmith in Ljusdal, Sweden. He kept telling me that he spent his weekends Orienteering. I asked for details. He referred me to Bjorn-Kjellstrom, a Swede now in this country preaching the gospel of Orienteering.

Kjellstrom's book, BE EXPERT WITH MAP AND COMPASS (published by the American Orienteering Service, Laporte, Indiana), will make an expert of the novice. Another book, John Disley's ORIENTEERING (Stackpole Press, Harrisburg, Pa.), nicely complements Kjellstrom's detailed instructions. The two books form both a history and a manual of the fast-growing sport.

For outdoor types seeking an additional excuse to desert the armchair in front of the fireplace, Orienteering has much to recommend it.

SAD FAREWELL—Automation may replace the thumb—that well-known device shoppers use in order to evaluate peaches, tomatoes and plums. U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers have developed an instrument to test fruits and vegetables in the market. Eventually the instrument may tell producers when to harvest their crops and packers when to take the produce out of storage.

Engineers are using sound to measure firmness. A normal product allows sound to pass through it at a certain frequency. If the frequency varies, it's a sign the product is either too firm or too ripe.

Michigan ranks fifth or higher in production of more than 20 major food crops, although ranking only 22nd in land area.

Michigan businessmen adopt British Honduras

"PARTNERS"

Interest in the tiny country of British Honduras is increasing among Michigan businessmen and professionals. The emerging nation, to be called "Belize" when it attains independence from Great Britain in the near future, was "adopted" by Michigan two years ago.

Michigan is one of 34 states participating in the National Association of the Partners of the Alliance, formed for the purpose of developing Central and Latin America.

Belize, Michigan's "partner," is bounded on the north and west by Mexico and on the south and west by Guatemala. Its eastern boundaries face the Caribbean. Its total area is only 8,866 square miles, roughly the size of the "Thumb" of Michigan, and population totals only 110,000.

A delegation from Michigan visited the country in February to discuss the most pressing problems and develop a program of assistance. According to Judd Arnett, Detroit Free Press columnist who accompanied the delegation, "It was 'investors'—rich Americans with money for speculation—that the Belize Partners, brass band and all, awaited at the airport that first Sunday in February. The Michigan delegation, many innocent of the roles expected of them, did not live up to advance billing."

"Intentions were honorable; goodwill was rampant; fellowship never fell into more concerned hands; but of money in large quantities there was a definite paucity. That was the status of the Michiganders as the Belize Times, owned by Premier George Price and his political party, trumpeted the opening of the conference—'Investors Arrive.'"

Opportunities for investment appear in many areas, Arnett reports, but one enterprising man from California cautions that on-the-scene management is even more important than risk capital. The country is handicapped by lack of such basic necessities as roads. Many parts of Belize are accessible only by plane or pack animal, and those roads which do exist are abominable," says Arnett.

This underdevelopment makes the Belize dream of becoming a tourist Mecca impractical in the foreseeable future. Investments in farming, cattle raising, light industry and commercial enterprises seem to offer more opportunity.

Many fine things have already been accomplished under the Alliance plan, notes Arnett. Doctors, educators, vocational experts, agriculture extension agents, business executives and specialists in many fields have been sent there at Partner expense, or have been encouraged to go on their own. A steady stream of materials and equipment has been moved southward. There is a place and a need for everything.

Sault Ste. Marie has "unofficially" adopted the Belize city of Orange Walk Town as its sister city.

A few Michigan businessmen are seriously considering investing in various enterprises. But for all of the activity, Arnett suggests that the state's assistance may be "too little and too late." He feels the country needs much more assistance than Michigan partners of the Alliance can give it. Leaders in the state who have given much time and resources to the project hope he is wrong.

CELEBRATES TRICENTENNIAL Three hundred years ago this summer a French Jesuit Missionary, Father Jacques Marquette, founded Sault Ste. Marie, the oldest city in the state.

Tricentennial celebrations will make Sault Ste. Marie especially attractive to tourists this year. Commemorative events began last New Year's Eve with a Tricentennial ball and fireworks display. An extensive winter sports program was held through the cold months and spring ushered in a new slate of attractions. Summer will bring more.

Many historical sites are being restored this year, and the restoration may continue for another decade. Father Marquette's original mission, Fort de Repentigny, built by the French in 1751, a water-power sawmill, the home of a prominent fur trader who married an Indian princess, restoration of Water Street, the main street of the Sault in 1820, plus other sites will be reconstructed.

The Soo Locks are the city's most famous attraction. Four locks are operated by the U.S. Corps of Engineers; the fifth lock, on the Canadian side of the St. Mary's River, is controlled by the Canadian government.

Three observation towers allow tourists to view ships as they are raised or lowered 21 ft. into and out of Lake Superior. This year the new Poe Lock, four years in construction and the largest on the Great Lakes, will be opened for shipping. Dedication ceremonies are set for June 15.
