

Shoplifting 'sticky' problem for village merchants

A 10-year-old boy sits in the office of a local department store crying, begging the owner for the mercy he will probably not be given. The stern owner and tearful boy sit and wait. Finally, a police officer enters the store. And the frightened boy is escorted to the police station in a squad car.

Shoplifting is a problem in Cass City.

"It is definitely a problem," said Gerald Frieskorn, owner of the Ben Franklin Store. "We really don't know how much of a problem it is; most of them are not caught."

Shoplifting has been a serious problem since the days of the general store. Various methods have been attempted in an effort to combat this activity. But it seems to be a losing battle. "We try to keep clerks stationed throughout the store," said Bill Kritzman, of Kritzman's Clothing Store. "But if they want to take something, they'll take it. You're lucky if you happen to see them."

Nation-wide, women and girls are the major offenders in the shoplifting game. Women do most of the shopping and have, in purses, convenient hiding places for stolen goods. Another factor which contributes to shoplifting among women is the size and cost of cosmetics. Lipstick and other makeup items are relatively expensive, and their size allows shoplifters to conveniently slip them into pockets and purses.

According to local merchants, the major offenders in Cass City are young boys. "The ones that we catch seem to be boys, six to 10 years old," Prieskorn said. "The boys seem to be much easier to catch than girls or women."

The merchants pointed out that shoplifting is heaviest during the holiday season and during noon hour when school is in session. Another bad time is immediately after school is dismissed for the day.

Store owners have tried several methods for detecting stealing. The most common device is a convex mirror located so that a maximum view of the store is possible.

Wood Drug employs this type of mirror. "The mirror assists us in watching browsing customers," Tom Proctor said. "This allows us to assist them and in watching out for shoplifting. The mirrors help, but they are not the answer."

Most merchants in Cass City simply rely on their own alertness in spotting shoplifters.

"I think the more you watch, the more it slacks off," Prieskorn said.

"If you have time to look into mirrors, you have time to watch them," said Lloyd Bryant of the Gamble Store. "If they stand in one spot too long, we ask them to leave. You don't dare leave them alone."

"The mirror may help some," said Ferris Ware of Western Auto. "But we try to watch them all. We don't trust any of them. I hate to have to feel that way, but we have caught kids of respectable families."

Bernard Ross of the Federated Store checks customers in and out of fitting rooms. This, he said, guards against customers hiding merchandise under clothing.

"The ones we catch are mostly high school students," Ross said. "Probably 65 per cent are high school students. The rest are adults."

The incidence of shoplifting and precautionary measures taken to combat it differ among the village merchants. But the action taken upon detection is the same: notify the police.

"We have a set policy," Proctor said. "We will call the police for a stolen bubble gum. This method has been very effective." Prieskorn agrees.

"I call the police and have them come down," he said. "That way I'm not involved with the family or personalities." Merchants expressed the opinion that calling the police is the fairest way to handle shoplifters. They believe this seemingly harsh treatment, even for youngsters, is helping the shoplifter more than it is hurting him.

"As far as I'm concerned, I'm doing them a favor," Proctor said. "We are not helping by taking the stuff away or making him pay for it. He'll just be smarter next time."

Said Kritzman: "I turn them right over to the police. This is the only way--throw a good scare into them. Talking to them and letting them go is no solution."

Only one merchant said he has no problem. This was Mike Weaver, of Mac & Scotty Drugs. Weaver has been operating the store for less than a year. In the short time he has been here, he has caught no shoplifters.

"I don't think I have too much of a problem," Weaver said. "We don't have much traffic in here, and the displays are lower so they can't hide."

Bryant of Gambles said he does lose items occasionally, but he has never caught anyone stealing. He said that shoplifters are just "too smart."

The other merchants interviewed had all apprehended shoplifters and are guarding against further thefts with devices such as mirrors or simply constant vigilance.

Most of the merchants estimated that approximately two per cent of their sales are lost to shoplifters. And the Cass City merchants said the major problem is with young boys who are trying to get away with something.

Merchants in the community feel that the only punishment which is going to curb this activity is turning the offender over to the police--no matter how inexpensive the stolen item.

The first shoplifter apprehended by Ware, at Western Auto, was caught stealing a package of washers, worth 18 cents.

VOLUME 62, NUMBER 15

CASS CITY, MICHIGAN - THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1968

FOURTEEN PAGES

HULA HOOPING youngsters tried to outlast competitors in the Sidewalk Sale hula hoop contest, Friday. Hula Hoopers were grouped according to age. Trophies were awarded to the winners, and each entrant received an ice cream cone.

Sidewalk sales boom

Cass City merchants reported one of the most favorable sidewalk sales in the history of the event here last week.

Most merchants said that results exceeded expectations. The event was helped by two attractions designed to draw the children to the community.

Friday afternoon a hula-hoop contest drew a record number of entries.

Lorraine Bouverette won the seven and under competition; Lisa Zimba, the 8-10 division, and Mark Gohsman, the 11 and over contest. They will receive trophies.

All contestants received free ice cream cones.

Dick Hendrick reported capacity crowds at the free show for kids Friday and Saturday afternoon.

The sale was also helped, most merchants felt, by the local weather conditions that prevailed both Friday and Saturday.

The sale was sponsored by the Retail Division of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

Firemen battle blazes Fri., Mon.

The Cass City Fire Dept. was called to fires on Friday and Monday.

At 10:20 p.m. Friday the firemen answered a call for an assist at Caro. According to Fire Chief Nelson Willy, five men and a pumper were sent to assist the Caro Fire Dept. in fighting a blaze at the Woolworth Store.

A truck was dispatched at 11:30 a.m. Monday to fight a fire which started in a load of hay being transported on a trailer. The hay and trailer were being hauled by a panel

Start Saturday

Postal service cutbacks set

The cutback in postal service made mandatory by the austerity program in Congress will hit Cass City Saturday when minor curtailments in service will be put into effect.

There will be no regular Saturday morning window service under the new regulations but the lobby and box section will remain open.

Saturday collection of mail from street deposits will be adjusted to generally less frequent collection schedules.

Other effects of the economy program will result in curtailment of planned expansions of service. There will be no mail delivery service to housing in new subdivisions and all planned extensions of city and rural delivery have been cut back.

Cass City Postmaster Grant Glaspele said that he has been directed to submit plans by Sept. 1 for changes in the Saturday delivery on village residential routes.

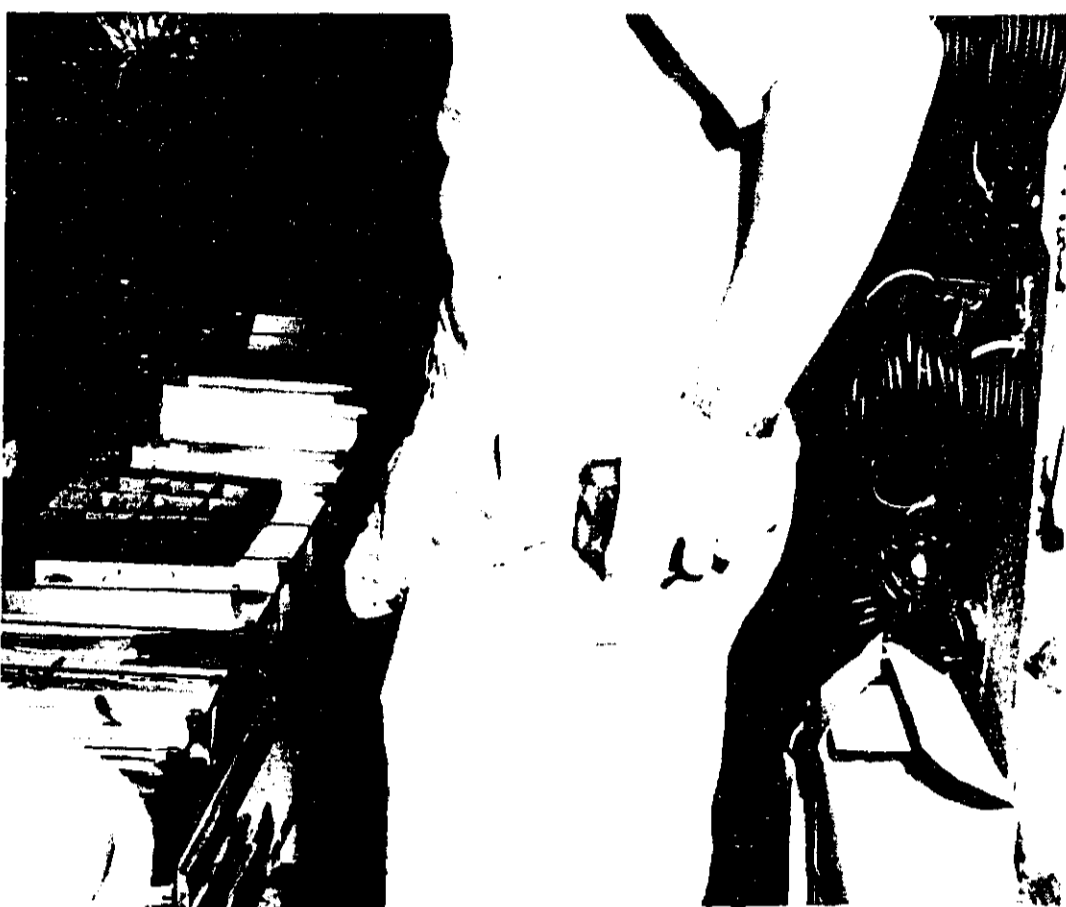

An effective date for the elimination of Saturday residential delivery here and nationally is expected to be established by the department, Glaspele explained.

The cutbacks were planned when the Post Office Department agreed to the reduction in funds for the 1969 fiscal year that started July 1.

The department is not asking for restoration of any funds cut from its budget, Glaspele said.

The department is under a mandate to cutback Federal employment to the June 30, 1966, level which will include some 83,238 postal employees nationally.

New Baltimore girl dies in crash near Owendale

Five victims of an accident which took the life of 14-year-old Mary Helzer of New Baltimore are recovering from injuries in four different hospitals. Another of the victims has been discharged.

Mrs. Mary Tavernier of Cass City, driver of the vehicle in which her granddaughter was killed Wednesday, July 17, near Owendale, and Rose Marie Helzer, mother of the dead girl, are in satisfactory condition at Hills and Dales Hospital. Madonna Helzer, 13, another daughter of Mrs. Helzer, was transferred from Hills and Dales to Bay City General Hospital in fair condition.

Mrs. Tavernier suffered broken ribs and shock. Mrs. Helzer received lacerations and possible internal injuries, and Madonna entered Hills and Dales in critical condition with a fractured pelvis and internal injuries.

Bernadette Helzer, daughter-in-law of Mrs. Rose Marie Helzer, and also of New Baltimore, is improving at Schaefer Hospital, Pigeon, and Lisa Helzer, 8, daughter of Mrs. Rose Marie Helzer, was discharged from Schaefer. Tammy Helzer, 2, daughter of Mrs. Bernadette Helzer, is being treated at Mercy Hospital in Bay City.

Absentee ballots ready

Tuscola County absentee voters will be participating in the Aug. 6 primary, according to the county clerk's office.

County Clerk Archie Hicks distributed the last of the absentee ballots by Saturday, dispelling fears that delays in the printing of the primary ballots would disfranchise the absentee voters.

Delays caused primarily by implementation of two Supreme Court rulings forced printers to work overtime shifts to print the ballots. But the ballots are now in the hands of the township clerks.

Some counties were slow in complying with the ruling which called for reapportionment to provide for one-man one-vote representation at the county level. A second ruling stated that the names of candidates must be rotated, so that incumbents are not given automatic placement at the top of the ballot.

There were also delays caused by extended filing deadlines for certain officers. Original deadline for the delivery of absentee ballots was Wednesday, July 17.

Mrs. Bernadette Helzer incurred a fractured pelvis. Lisa received head injuries, and Tammy was in critical condition with a depressed skull fracture.

The accident occurred as Mrs. Tavernier and the Helzers were enroute to a Huron County beach for a summer outing, heading north on Elkton Road, then started across Sebewaing Road when it was struck by a milk tanker driven by Clayton Geiger, 47, Elkton, who was headed east on Sebewaing Road.

Geiger said he applied the brakes but was unable to avoid the collision. Officers estimated Geiger was travelling 50 miles per hour when he first applied the brakes, approximately 250 feet from the intersection.

Geiger was uninjured, and no tickets were issued. The accident is still under investigation.

According to Coroner James E. Colgan, Mary Helzer died of a fractured neck.

This latest fatality brought to five the number of traffic deaths in Huron County so far this year.

Sherwood Forest fire damage $500

Fire at the Sherwood Forest Country Club, Gaytown, caused an estimated $500 damage Tuesday night.

Chief Chuck Wright of the Gaytown Fire Department said that the alarm sounded at 10 p.m. The fire broke out in the men's locker room and burned stored paper.

The department was also called to assist at a barn fire in Linkville at the farm owned by Bill Schaper.

Dearborn man drowns in river

Paul Manko, 74, a retired factory worker, ignored warnings of a friend that he should not go swimming immediately after eating and drowned Saturday in the Cass River.

Manko, of 5004 Maple St., Dearborn, was vacationing at his cottage on Elmwood Road, 1/4-mile east of Cemetery Road, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. William Sankuch of Detroit. Manko reportedly finished eating then said he was going for a swim in a swimming hole in the river.

Sankuch claimed that he tried to talk Manko out of it, but Manko went in anyway. Sankuch told Sheriff's deputies that he watched his friend enter the water then go under.

Sankuch contacted the Sheriff's Dept., and skin divers recovered the body in six feet of water at about 10:15 p.m. Justice Frank Rolka pronounced Manko dead at the scene.

Barber Dwaine Peters grooms stock (car) for fair

Preparations for the Tuscola County Fair are underway. Area fair enthusiasts are grooming their favorite colts and preparing other livestock for the many exhibitions. Farmers are growing the largest tomatoes and the tallest corn.

But Dwaine Peters, of Peters' Barber Shop, is preparing in a different way for the annual fair, which begins Monday at the Caro Fairgrounds. Peters is looking for a car he can use to demolish other cars entered in the demolition derby.

Peters and his brothers, Roger and Gordon, have been racing cars for several years. Dwaine attended a demolition derby one day, noticed that the purse was $1000 and decided that this looked like fun.

He has participated in two of the thrill packed races so far. "I was hung-up in one and finished third in another," he said.

On Friday, Aug. 2, Peters will put his nerves and reflexes to the test again when he tries to ram his competitors' autos into immobility and they attempt the same destruction on his car.

Snover farmer dies in tractor mishap Monday

Wallace Alexander McDonald, Snover, was fatally injured Monday at 5 p.m. when a tractor he was driving turned over on the shoulder of South Germania Road, about a half mile south of M-46.

The tractor tipped and plowed him between the vehicle and the ground. According to State Police, McDonald was cutting grass while driving south on the shoulder with a steep incline when the right rear tire slipped into a hole and the tractor overturned.

"It's lots of fun, lots of fun," Peters said. "There is nothing like it. It sometimes takes a few days afterwards to get used to not running into things."

The rules of a demolition derby state that drivers cannot crash head-on into other cars. They must back into the opponents. And drivers are usually forbidden from ramming the driver's side of the vehicle.

"It can be dangerous," Peters said. "The gas tank could blow up, but I've seen cars roll right over without the driver getting hurt."

All that is required is that the cars be equipped with safety belts, that the glass is removed and that the drivers wear helmets.

The cars are not "souped-up" as regular racing stock cars are. "Any car can win," Peters said.

Peters said that he does not brace for collisions while participating in the derbies. He pointed out that a driver cannot know when he will be hit, so it is best to simply "stay loose."

Some cars can be stopped easier than others, he said. With some it takes only one or two hits and other vehicles may endure several strong blows and keep rolling. The most vulnerable spot on the car is the front end.

"Lots of times, you can get the radiator," Peters said. Alertness pays off in this BARBER-RACER Dwaine Peters removes the windshield from an old auto, using a pick-axe. One of the requirements for a car entered in a demolition derby is that the glass be removed. Peters plans to try his luck in the Tuscola County Fair demolition derby.

Behind the Counter Drug Therapy

There is a widespread belief that physicians must limit themselves to prescribing only those drugs that are absolutely safe. And we expect the government and the pharmaceutical industry to provide us with this protection, without realizing that it isn't realistic or wise.

You see, no form of medical treatment is absolutely without risk. We realize this when we're talking about surgery, but many of us don't accept this when it comes to medicines. We expect "wonder drugs" and medical "cures" to be available without any danger of side-effects—and that is almost impossible.

Naturally, we want to keep the danger to a minimum—and the FDA does a good job in providing that protection—but we must realize that each and every drug has more than one effect on the body's complex chemistry. This applies not only to prescription drugs, but to all those others we use without a second thought: coffee, tea, alcohol, tobacco and aspirin.

This doesn't mean we should stop using drugs, or stop searching for the best form of medical treatment. It does mean that the patient must be extremely careful in following the advice of the doctor and pharmacist regarding a prescription. One tablet twice a day means just that: two tablets four times a day won't work any better, and could be dangerous. And it does mean that we must be careful about leaving such drugs around where they can be swallowed by children or "borrowed" by friends and relatives. In short, "take as directed."

Miss Coulter dies after long illness

Barbara Coulter, 82, died Friday in Cass City Hospital after a long illness.

She was born January 18, 1886, in Evergreen Township, daughter of the late Robert and Mary Cragg Coulter. She was a member of Mizpah United Missionary Church.

Miss Coulter is survived by a sister, Mrs. O. A. Ferguson of Cass City and several nieces and nephews. Five brothers and six sisters preceded her in death.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p.m. Rev. Lloyd Wilson of Flushing officiated. Burial was in Novesta Cemetery.

The fellow who tests his capacity seldom watches the gauge.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Buley

Undoubtedly, the most famous nickname in all of sports was Babe Ruth's -- but, do you know how he got that nickname? ... Babe grew up in an orphanage in Baltimore. ... When he was just 18, and still a resident of the orphanage, the Baltimore baseball team signed him. ... Ruth had never seen much of the outside world up to that time, and looked even younger than he really was. ... Thus, when he joined the Baltimore team, some of the older players spoke of him as a "babe in the woods", and then, naturally, some started calling him "Babe". ... Sportswriters covering the team picked it up, and that nickname became used so often that few people -- then or now -- know that his real name was George Ruth.

Here's a question for you golf fans. ... Who are the only two brothers who have ever won the PGA golf championship? ... They are the Hebert brothers. ... Lionel won the PGA title in 1957 and Jay in 1961.

Did you know that relief pitchers weren't used very often in major league baseball back in the old days? ... For example, in 1904, the Boston Red Sox played 157 games and used relief pitchers in only nine games all year!

A GOOD ENGINE is a prime requirement for a car entered in the Tuscola County Fair demolition derby. Dwaine Peters and other drivers in the derby must keep their cars running despite the beating they receive.

Tuscola County Fair: something for everyone

sport. The driver must avoid being cornered while he is stalking the other cars on the track. He tries to hit other cars but avoid being hit himself while attacking.

"You've got to be on the ball, Peters said. "You have to keep moving all the time, and you can't be slow on the wheel."

If Peters is going to be successful at the Tuscola County Fairgrounds, he feels that he will have to do three things: "Keep moving. Keep hitting. And keep out of the way."

The demolition derby is only one of many events which make for an exciting fair again this year.

The gates open at 9 a.m. Monday "Entry Day," with Happyland Shows providing plenty of action for the younger set. At 6 p.m. the starting gates swing open for the first harness race. Also at 6 p.m. is the Big Bonanza Drawing for free prizes. Midget auto racing begins at 8:30 p.m.

Tuesday is "Kids' Day," and the rides will again be open at 9 a.m. At 1 p.m., a Kid's Day afternoon Fun Show will be held at the grandstand. There will be harness racing and a drawing again at 6 and a Professional Wild West Rodeo in front of the grandstand.

Besides the regular schedule of rides, harness racing and drawings, a Canadian auto thrill show is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, "State Hospital Day."

Thursday is "Farmers' Day." The county tractor pulling championship will begin at 1 p.m. There will be harness racing at 6 and the Tuscola County Bean Queen Pageant at 7:30. For Country Western music fans, the Ferlin Husky Show will be presented at 8:30.

The tractor pulling contest will continue at 1 p.m. on Friday which is "Merchants' Day." At 8 p.m. Friday the thrilling demolition derby will be held at the grandstand.

On the final day of the fair, horsepulling contests will be held throughout the day. Other "Sportmen's Day" activities are motorcycle practice and time trials at 5 p.m. and motorcycle racing and cycle driving at 8 p.m.

Antique collectors will be able to purchase items Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Antique Show and Sale. Feature ride of the fair is the world's largest ferris wheel.

And there will be hundreds of exhibits, from 4-H projects to Future Farmers of America displays.

Retired teachers at Haire home

The Tuscola County Retired Teachers Association heard a report of recent legislation at the regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Margaret Haire.

The 10 members and two guests were told of recent legislation granting public school retirees working in public schools the same benefits granted by social security without loss of retirement pay. Mrs. Ruth Chambers, Mrs. Louise Turner and Mrs. Mary Warren were appointed the nominating committee for 1968-69 officers.

Miss June Andrews of Teen Haven, Vassar, described her work with young persons and said that the Haven was established to provide the right type of entertainment for children who suffered from parental neglect.

The October meeting will be at the home of Miss Lela Kelly.

Democrats schedule all-day picnic

The 8th Congressional District Democratic organization will hold an all-day picnic at Veterans Memorial Park, Harbor Beach, Sunday, Aug. 4. A chicken barbecue will be served.

Entertainment will include games, prizes, swimming and a short program, according to R. L. Hill, Tuscola County Chairman.

Tickets are available from local Democrats or at the picnic.

Coming Auctions

Saturday, July 27 - Wilbur Severn will sell personal property to settle the B. H. Waver estate at the place at 655 State St. in Harbor Beach.

Saturday, Aug. 10 - Ray Graichen will sell cattle and farm machinery at the place located two miles south and a quarter of a mile west of Forestville on Moren Rd.

Feature talented quartet in park Gospel concert

The Cass City Layman's Club, which has successfully sponsored several Gospel concerts, will present another in its series of outstanding professional musical talents Sunday when the Toney Brothers appear at Cass City Recreational Park at 2 p.m.

Most notable of previous concerts have been the New Year's Eve musicals which have attracted large crowds and been outstandingly successful.

The sponsors are predicting that the Toney Brothers will follow in this tradition. The group is headed by Kyer Toney, manager and first tenor. Jim Toney is the second tenor. Rounding out the family group is Gary Toney, bass, and Bob Toney, baritone. Jimmie Talbott is the pianist.

Formed 13 years ago, the group has recorded nine long play albums and appear weekly on radio and TV.

Admission is free and a good will offering will be taken to defray expenses, members of the club reported.

Catholic women slate meet

The summer luncheon meeting of the Huron County League of Catholic Women will be at St. Francis Borgia Parish, Pigeon, Wednesday, July 31.

The most Reverend James A. Hickey, auxiliary bishop of Saginaw, will concelebrate the Mass at 11:00 with the Rev. Father Glenn Cronkite, pastor of St. Francis Borgia Church, and the Rev. Father George Serour, spiritual advisor of the League and pastor of St. Edward Church, Kilde.

Luncheon will be served at the Parish Hall at 12:30. Tickets for the luncheon will be available at the door.

Bishop Hickey will be the keynote speaker at the meeting following the luncheon.

Former teacher now sells home

Long-time residents in Tuscola County will remember Joe Liddicoat of Caro as a former County Superintendent of Schools.

Liddicoat left that job to become superintendent at Crosswell-Lexington High School. He is no longer a teacher. He left the profession to enter the real estate field and county residents will find him daily at Huron Shores Mobile Home Sales Center at Lexington Plaza, at the north village limits of Lexington.

Liddicoat is a salesman for the sales concern which is holding a Grand Opening July 24-28. During the opening, five different makes of mobile homes will be on display, according to Roy D. Gielow, company president.

100 at Loomis family reunion

The ninth reunion of the Loomis family was held at the Tuscola County Fairgrounds in Caro Sunday.

An estimated 100 persons attended. The oldest member present was Mrs. Bertha O'Dell, 86, and the youngest, Christine Marie O'Dell, 3 1/2-month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O'Dell.

Accordion music was played by Dean Bell and readings presented by Mrs. I. B. Kritzman, Mrs. Alger Bush, Mrs. Clare Hanes, Dean Bell, Miss Rhondy Murray and Mrs. Bertha O'Dell.

Officers were elected. President is I. B. Kritzman. Vice-president is Hubert Root and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Raymond Root.

Members were present from Caseville, Cass City, Williams, Birmingham, Otisville, Lapeer and Caro.

Rotary guests of hospital Tuesday noon

The Cass City Rotary Club learned of the physical therapy division at Hills and Dales General Hospital Tuesday noon when the club was the guest of the hospital for its regular noon luncheon.

Dr. H. P. Schwartz of the hospital staff explained how the department was used and the club toured the department after he completed his remarks.

The department was financed by the hospital auxiliary for $5,000.

Dr. Schwartz was introduced by Frank Haythorne, hospital administrator, who said that the Hills and Dales therapy section was the most complete in the Thumb. The closest comparable departments, he explained, were in Bay City and Saginaw.

Rotarians paid their usual dinner fee and the money collected was donated to the Cass City Heart Fund.

Plan reception for Hostetler

Dr. Marion Hostetler will celebrate the sacrament of the Lord's Supper at the Presbyterian Church Sunday at 11 a.m.

The public is invited to a reception at 12:15 p.m. in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Hostetler and family, who are moving to Ohio. The Women's Association of the church has appointed Mrs. James A. Milligan chairman of the reception.

Last Sunday the following committee was elected to nominate a new pastor for the church: George Cole, Edward Golding Jr., Robert Fischer, Mrs. Dave Ackerman and Mrs. Ivan MacRae. Rev. Joseph Ryan of Bad Axe will be the committee's adviser.

The Case Against "HARD" Pesticides

Michigan's Department of Conservation, in an all-out battle against environmental pollution, is calling for an end to the use of such "hard," highly destructive pesticides as DDT, Dieldrin, Aldrin, and Endrin. The weight of evidence against these persistent chemicals overwhelmingly supports the Department's forthright stand. "They have polluted our environment to the extent that we no longer eat any food or drink any fluid without swallowing at least minute quantities of these chemicals," says Conservation Director Ralph MacMullan. Literally thousands of documented cases tell of the danger these chemicals pose for wildlife, for soil organisms, for the purity of water, for all basic elements of the animal food chain. The Conservation Department, hoping to set an example for others to follow, has completely halted use of hard pesticides for all of its programs. Agriculturists can follow the lead by switching to safer "soft" chemicals to combat pests that attack farm crops and orchards. Individual communities can also contribute their fair share by not using highly persistent chemicals in the control of such problems as Dutch elm disease. "Safer, alternative chemicals may be more expensive and less convenient to use and the higher cost of their applications may logically be passed on to consumers and taxpayers. However, the price will be worth it. It's the time to switch and fight for a chemically clean environment," MacMullan challenges. —Mich. Dept. of Conservation

Grant still tops in church loop

Grant-Fraser took a strange hold on the regular season championship in the Church League this week by knocking off the two teams most likely to challenge for the crown and open a two-game gap over the rest of the field.

The big victories were a 2-0 decision over Shabbona Wednesday, July 17, and a 7-3 win over the Catholics Friday.

Saginaw nine to play Erla's at Cass City

Erla's continued to share the Uby Recreation League leads as they posted a pair of victories to keep pace with Carling's with eight victories in nine league outings.

In addition to the loop wins, Erla's rolled over Sebewaing, 15-1, Saturday night in an exhibition at Cass City Recreation Park.

While Sebewaing proved to be little competition for Erla's, a doubleheader exhibition scheduled Saturday against a Saginaw nine promises to be a different story.

The exhibition starts at 7:30 p.m. and the visitors will throw Guy Manke, premier hurler of the valley, against the locals.

In league competition, the Foodmen were easy victors over the Air Base, 7-3, and Nugent's, 8-1.

Ray Fox and Dan Erla combined to hurl for the Cass City nine.

They were touched for six hits in the win over the Air Base, but were tough in the clutch. Erla's hitters helped out with a 10-hit attack including three hits in four tries for Wally Hempton and two hits each by Jim Knoblet and Dan Erla.

The winners were in front with a three-run first inning only to see the Air Base bounce back in the third with three runs to tie the game.

But the Foodmen closed the door after this rally and went on to an easy win.

Fox was at his best in a win over Nugent's Saturday night. He limited the losers to one hit and one run although he issued five walks.

Erla's seven hits were well scattered with only Pete Martin collecting two safeties.

The hitting statistics in the league indicate why Erla's is tied for the top. Among the first 17 hitters in the league, Erla's has four led by Wally Hempton, second in the loop with a .500 average.

Other leading hitters include: Roland Nichols, .363, Jim Knoblet, .347, and Dean Hoag, .333.

Adult swim time

Miss Ann Sheppard, lifeguard, reported this week that the pool will be reserved for adults Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m.

The new adult night starts today, she said.

Tapes to correct speech defects

Twenty-two Huron and Tuscola County school teachers participated in a workshop at Port Austin July 1-16 at which they made video tape films to be used in dealing with speech handicaps. The workshop was financed by a Title VI grant to the school districts from the State Board of Education.

Hoffman learned of the fire when a passing motorist signaled him to pull over, two and a half miles south of Cass City. Cause of the fire is unknown.

The vandalism was reported Monday and an investigation is still underway, authorities said.

Gary Mellendorf was the winning pitcher when Fraser whipped the Catholics. Al Zawilinski took the loss. Larry Hartwick gave Mellendorf all the support he needed when he connected for a grand slam home run.

In the nightcap Friday, DeFord worked its way past Decker, 8-2. Bernie Babich and Dale Churchill homered for DeFord and Gary Kelley picked up the win.

Four other games rounded out the week's action. Tuesday, July 16, the Catholics rolled past DeFord, 10-5. Gary Kelley took the loss and Al Zawilinski went the distance for the victory.

The late game saw Shabbona waltz past the Methodists, 20-3. Les. Severance went the route for the winners and Jim Brown was tagged with the loss. George McKee hit two home runs and Les Severance also connected for the winners.

Saturday, July 13, Shabbona defeated Decker, 13-4. Dan Caister hit two homers off loser Lee Hirsch. Les Severance coasted to the victory.

In the second game, Cass City United Missionary came from behind to defeat the Methodists, 19-14.

Trailing by 10 runs in the sixth, the United Missionary nine rallied behind heavy hitting, including a home run by Jerry Knoblet. Mark Tuckey was the winning pitcher.

Pair faces assault examination

Anna Gabler of Decker and her son, Eugene Petro, were examined Wednesday on a charge of felonious assault in connection with a fight in which Mrs. Gabler's husband, Norman, was stabbed 11 times, suffered a punctured lung and was severely beaten in the face.

Gabler is in good condition at McKenzie Memorial Hospital, Sandusky.

Mrs. Gabler and Petro stood mute at their arraignment in Justice Court and demanded examination. They were arrested after Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies answered a family fight call Tuesday, July 16, in Decker.

According to Deputies James Meyers and Clifford Kenny, they found Gabler walking down the road when they arrived at the corner of Hadley and Decker-ville Roads on their way to the complaint scene. Gabler then rode with the deputies to his home at 3700 Hadley Road, where Gabler's wife and son were standing on the porch.

Mrs. Gabler sent her son inside for a gun, and he returned with a .22 caliber rifle and shotgun. She ordered the deputies to leave. The deputies left, found the other Gabler children unharmed further down the road, and returned to the Gabler home.

The deputies disarmed Mrs. Gabler, but not before she ordered her dog to attack. Meyers shot the dog, then arrested Petro and Mrs. Gabler, and took Mr. Gabler to the hospital.

The two deputies were treated for dog bites. Deputy Wayne Ball and Tuscola County Deputies Ronald Phillips and James Jezewski assisted Meyers and Kenny in making the arrests.

As an editor I was well pleased with Larry Werner's efforts with the marijuana story.

A feature picture about the heat failed to turn out as well. Casting around for something to illustrate the stiflingly hot weather, I took a roll of film of persons trying to beat the heat and they came up blank.

Larry Werner then dreamed up the picture of Sharon O'Connor sunbathing on ice cubes. We shot this picture twice, used up $5.00 worth of ice cubes and when the shot appeared the ice was barely discernible.

Once more, while trying for an unusual angle I climbed on the hood of my car, fell off and wrenched my foot and was not able to walk for two days.

our new & improved gasoline

LEONARD PREMIUM 500

now 5 ways better

1. Better carburetor cleaning. Keeps new carburetors clean and bright, cleans even dirtiest carburetors for better mileage, improved performance.
2. Better ice-proofing properties. On cool, damp days, ice may form on the carburetor throttle plate, causing annoying stalling. The new additive forms a slippery film one molecule thick on the metal surface. Ice never gets a chance to build up.
3. Better rust protection. The same molecular film protects metal surfaces against corrosion — in engine parts as well as the entire gasoline distribution system.
4. Better exhaust emission control. Works on exhaust emission devices, like Positive Crankcase Ventilation just as it works on the carburetor — cleans and keeps clean, reducing the need for expensive maintenance.
5. Better ignition. A special compound in Premium 500 suppresses pre-ignition and sparkplug fouling caused by combustion chamber deposits. Car performance is noticeably improved.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

Putting the cats out

By Marion Hostetler

I've never met Ron Weyer of Unionville, but I wish I could be as decisive as he is. One day last year he put a liner in the Chronicle: TO GIVE AWAY -- three kittens and mother cat.

Now there's nothing unusual about giving away three kittens. Plenty of people have had to do that. But to give away the mother cat—that's really getting at the root of the problem!

Ben Heideman of Deckerville owns an English translation of "The Imitation of Christ," published in London in 1722. That's far from being a first edition—Thomas A. Kempis died in 1471—but it's old enough to be interesting.

Its real value, however, lies not in its antiquity, but in the fact that much of its content is just as modern as tomorrow. Opening the book at random I came upon this passage:

"Every one is ingenious at framing Excuses, and making large Allowances for what he doth himself, and yet scarce any Body admits the Apologies alleged by others in their own Vindication. How much more just and reasonable were our Proceedings, would we but pass a favourable Construction upon the Actions of others, and turn the Severity of our Censure upon our own."

Long before anyone had thought of the word "rationalization," old Thomas hit the nail on the head. Or, as he would have been more likely to say, "Rem acu tetigit!" -- "touched the thing with a needle."

Reno is a great dairy center. The cream of society goes there to be separated.

Every family should have a divorce . . . between the parents and their adolescent children.

I heard about a woman who said, "I saw a terrible accident yesterday. It's a good thing I took that first aid course . . . or I wouldn't have known to put my head between my knees."

Jack Kellogg of Owendale likes the story Bill Nye used to tell about a man who once charged him a dollar for a sandwich (back in the days when most sandwiches were fifteen cents). Nye wondered whether this was the beginning of some new business boom or unique condition. Taking the man aside, he asked him in strictest confidence why he asked such a high price.

"Well," said the man, "I don't mind telling you in confidence. The fact is, I need the money."

This leads to a consideration of one of the most perplexing questions in the world: "What's the right price for anything?"

Cerald Whittaker points out that heavy steel machinery usually costs $1 a pound -- a five-ton tractor will weigh 10,000 pounds and cost $10,000. A pound of water isn't worth that much--unless you are dying of thirst. A pound of diamonds is worth more than that--if anybody has any use for a pound of diamonds.

Which ought to get the biggest pay: a baseball pitcher, an obstetrician, or a truck driver? It depends on which kind of delivery you're interested in.

Each of them probably thinks he ought to get more than he does. One observer reports reading two signs on the tailgate of a truck. The sign on the left said, "Crime doesn't pay." The sign on the right said, "Neither does trucking."

It seems most school boards in the Thumb think a beginning teacher with a bachelor's degree is worth about $6,500 his first year. A beginning teacher with a master's degree may get $400 more than that. It usually takes a year of full-time study for a bachelor to become a master. So a man who earned his master's by the time he was 23 and taught from then until he retired at 65 would earn an additional $400 for each of his 42 years of teaching -- a total of $16,800. But he did lose the $6,500 he could have earned the year that he was working on his master's, so the net profit would be some $10,000.

If a dentist or minister goes to professional school three years beyond the bachelor's degree, his first year earnings at that rate should be $7,700.

Snover man dies at Hills and Dales

George Albert Wheeler of Snover died Thursday, July 18, at Hills and Dales General Hospital after a long illness. He was 62.

Mr. Wheeler was born in Argyle Township and married Jesse Hill, Aug. 20, 1939 in Applegate. He was a mechanic and farmer and a member of St. John's Church, the Odd-fellows and I-o-b-ekah Lodges in Sandusky.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Mrs. John McKee of Chesapeake, Va.; two grandchildren; two brothers, Clayton and Alex, both of Snover, and four sisters, Mrs. Nellie Vrooman, Lansing, Miss Grace Wheeler, Snover, Mrs. Clarence Bullock, Mayville, and Mrs. DeWayne Kyser, Shepherd.

Services were held Monday in Sandusky, Rev. Fred Milburn officiating. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, Sandusky.

Tuckey reunion held at local park

The annual Tuckey family reunion was held Sunday at the local park. Fifty-five relatives from London, Ont., and Michigan attended.

Mrs. Newman Tuckey of London presided over the business meeting and was in charge of games.

Officers elected for the coming year were: president, Hugh Connolly, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Charles Tuckey. The 1969 reunion will be held near London.

A prize for the youngest person in attendance went to Bethany, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Tuckey.

A simple rule for buying lamps

If you buy lamps only by looks, you miss more than half the purpose.

While lamps are a decorative addition to your home, their main purpose is to provide light, where and when you need it.

As you shop for lamps keep one simple rule in mind: table height plus lamp base height (to the lower edge of the shade) should equal the height of the seated individual using the lamp.

Eye height, of course, will depend on the height of the chair or sofa seat and the height of the person seated, so one definite lamp height could not apply to everyone.

However, for an average person to see comfortably, the lower edge of the lamp shade should be about 40-42 inches above the floor. With this in mind, if you already have a low occasional table, you should have a lamp that is taller than average to bring the light into the right area. If the table is high, then you need a lamp with a shorter base.

A lamp that provides proper lighting can still be a decorative addition to your home.

If you want light for atmosphere or conversation areas, the source of light is not as critical as it is for reading or sewing. But, since many tasks are done in the same rooms, flexible lighting on several different types of lamps would be the best answer.

Letter to Editor

Cass City, Mich.
July 21, 1968

Dear Mr. Editor,

I was not only surprised but shocked that our local paper should devote a whole half page to such a title as "Why not pot?" That is a lot of free advertising. I wondered what men should be called who would write so favorably and lightly of its use.

Today in the Port Huron Times Herald on page 12 of Sec. A I think I found the answer. Since you have started this discussion, in all fairness I think you should print in a prominent place the real answer. This is by a recognized authority, the American Medical Association. It is entitled, "Medics Blast Use Of Drugs," and deals particularly with marijuana.

I am enclosing the article. The heading of II Tim. chap. 3 is, "He foretelleth the wickedness of the last days and describeth the enemies of truth." It is a realistic picture of the days in which we live. Verse 13 reads, "But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving, and being deceived."

The changes I've seen in the sixty years since I was in H.S. are ample proof of the fulfillment of this scripture. To mention a few: Sabbath desecration; the nakedness on our streets; the increasing filthiness on the screen; the greatly increased use of narcotics, drugs and alcohol by both sexes and all ages; vandalism and riots even in our places of higher learning.

The only hope of the Christian is found in Luke 21, verse 28.

Yours truly,
Jason A. Kitchin

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Vandals broke into a storage shed at Whispering Pines, the Girl Scout day camp at Deford, and looted the building. Thieves took a pup tent, tin snips, a lantern and other items.

Rev. Melvin Vender was honored by the members of the Cass City Presbyterian Church when they named him "Pastor Emeritus." He came to Cass City from Crosswell in 1943 and was active in the civic and cultural activities of the community. He was forced to retire in 1959 after a heart attack at Marietta, Ohio, where he was pastor for two years. He then moved back to Cass City.

Two major improvements for Cass City High School, a new roof and a new boiler, have been contracted by the Cass City School Board at a cost of approximately $25,000.

TEN YEARS AGO

Rev. John Hall Fish, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will be ordained and installed in ceremonies Sunday. Participating in the service will be several pastors who assisted Mr. Fish while he was preparing for the ministry.

The 20th reunion of the class of 1938 at Cass City High School was held at the school's elementary gymnasium. Thirty-seven members of the class attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bayley celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a family dinner and open house. Mr. Bayley was born July 4, 1877 in Ontario and moved to Cass City when he was a year-and-a-half old. Mrs. Bayley was born in Cass City Mar. 9, 1887.

One of the largest votes in the history of the district is expected as electors of the Gagetown School District go to the polls to decide whether or not to consolidate with Owendale.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

"If we want a better way of living, we must share it with others," said Mrs. S. P. Kirn in her talk to the Rotary Club. Her discussion was on the racial problem in this country. "We will rise or fall as the colored man here rises or falls and if we want to preserve democracy we must deal intelligently with the race problem."

Karl J. Story of Flint has rented the garage on East Main Street, between the McLellan

Hatchery and the West Welding Shop and will open a general repair shop and sell used automobiles.

A community hospital was discussed at the meeting of the village council, and President W. L. Mann was authorized to appoint a committee to make a thorough investigation of such a plan as a post-war project.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Stockholders of the Cass City Grain Co., who merged with the Michigan Bean Co. in 1930, have dissolved this merger and incorporated under the name Frutchey Bean Co., with elevators at Cass City, Clifford, Deford, Greenleaf, Kingston, Mayville, Pinconning, Saginaw and Decker.

Gloria May Hootner, 2 1/2 year-old daughter of Gordon Hootner, was struck by lightning and died on the family farm near Caro. She was standing near a window inside the family home when a bolt of lightning struck the window.

Audree Bliss was leading Bernita Taylor in the race for the position of Miss Cass City. Miss Bliss had 2035 votes to Miss Taylor's 1047. Other contestants were Virginia Day, with 581 votes, and Loma Reagh, with 527.

Sapien completes maintenance course

Private Manuel J. Sapien, 20, son of Mrs. Theresa I. Sapien of Kingston, has completed an automotive repair course at the Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

During the 14-week course, he was trained in the maintenance and repair of engines for the Army's tracked and wheeled vehicles.

Tuckey delegate at church merger

Clair Tuckey of Cass City was one of the delegates to the conference at which the United Missionary Church merged with the Missionary Church Association at Fort Wayne, Ind., last week. Separate votes were taken at general conferences of the two denominations. The United Missionary conference was held in Elkhart, Ind., and the Missionary Church Association conference was held in Fort Wayne.

After the merger was approved, representatives of the two churches met together in Fort Wayne.

The new denomination will be known as The Missionary Church. It supports 354 churches in the United States and Canada with more than 50,000 members. It will support 200 overseas missions in 19 countries. The church operates two educational institutions in the United States and two Bible colleges in Canada.

The first general conference of the new church will be held in Detroit during March of 1969.

Around The Farm

Root rot strikes again

By DON KEBLOR

This past week many inquiries came across our desks pertaining to crop irregularities with beans taking the far from.

The same conditions have generally occurred this year as last to cause great stimulation of bean root development and retarded bean plant growth.

Some of these bean growers asked if it would pay to spray with zinc to stimulate these bean plants growth and even foliar feed with complete liquid fertilizers.

Right now there is no conclusive research showing that foliar feeding with trace elements or complete plant food will cause the root rot infected beans to overcome the disease any faster than no spray at all. I have some plots at Harold Hickey's where I plan to foliar feed some beans with 5 applications.

Basically our research information causes us to say the beans affected with root rot have lost their capability to take food and water because of reduced root feeding area. We also know that foliar intake of nutrients is very limited per application and the greater the nutrient requirements are the less chance we have of supplying those nutrients through leaf feeding process. We can do a fairly good job in foliar feeding trace or micro-nutrients such as manganese and zinc but not nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium in the forms we have.

So until we come up with a better solution the best practice we can recommend for those root rot infected beans or any beans is cultivation and throw the soil to the bean plants.

We're having some halo blight appearing in our colored beans. We are recommending the following copper compound applied at 30 to 50 gallon of solution per acre and at 1 to 2 week intervals. Kocide 101 at 3 pounds per acre and Col Cop at 1/2 gallon per acre.

I looked at several fields of corn suffering from the effects of 2,4-D damage. Every field had 2,4-D applied before the corn was 12" high. Some were sprayed with the amine formulation and others with the ester formulation of this chemical herbicide.

One farmer sprayed two different fields at the same stage of growth, on the same date and with the same rate and material. One field was damaged, the other not.

Some of his neighbors said it was hail and not 2,4-D damage and were incorrect because anytime we see these following symptoms on corn they are caused by 2,4-D: 1) Unrolled leaf sheaths looking like spears projecting rigidly upward, 2) curved stems, 3) nubbed brace roots, 4) cancerous growth on leaf bases and stems and 5) very little stalks.

The reason one field was affected and the other not stems back to a temperature condition. The undamaged corn was sprayed during the warm part of the day while the damaged corn was sprayed in late afternoon and evening.

The spray applied under the warmer conditions evaporated faster with the plants' absorption of the chemical being less than those plants sprayed under cooler conditions when evaporation of the spray mixture was slower. Thus the slower evaporation conditions allowed for sufficient 2,4-D penetration to cause damage.

Passing Through

There's no place like....

FY LARRY WERNER

There is something about a small town which keeps it that way.

I lived in Bay City for 18 years, and by the time I left for college I was glad to rid myself of the "small-town" atmosphere and after three years away from a small town of 54,000 I took a job in Cass City, population: 2,143 (count 'em).

So figure that out.

I haven't taken time to decide whether I like working in Cass City or not. I haven't even decided whether I like working or not. But answering those questions isn't going to do me any good because I have to work and here I am and that's that.

As Ernest Hemingway said: "I don't want to understand it. I just want to learn how to live in it."

And spending a good deal of my time this summer in a small town, when I've always thought I've despised small towns, has forced me to try to learn how it is that one gets by.

Initially, I find that I must improve my sense of direction. In the city one is told, "go to the third stoplight and turn right. Go three blocks and turn left. And you can't miss it."

Since I've come to Cass City all I've heard is, "Go two miles east, one mile north and 10 miles east."

I've often been tempted to ask the friendly Cass City direction-giver exactly what street I am supposed to go east on, which one I am supposed to go north on and what in the hell I should do if my mileage indicator is broken? (I suppose I could go three miles west and two north where I could get it fixed at the service station so that I will know how many miles I am going in any given direction.)

The second thing to learn if you are planning on working in a small town is: scratch the word "who" from your vocabulary.

For instance: "Chronicle, Larry Werner speaking."

"This is Mrs. Swartzwinkle. I want to place an ad. For Sale. Three ugly ducklings, a rusty potato digger, two coats and a 1903 sewing machine. Charge it."

"Who?"

"Mrs. Swartzwinkle. Everybody knows me. Good bye." Yes. Everybody who is anybody knows everybody in a small town. And if you don't know everybody, you're nobody. So don't ask anybody who is known by "everybody." "Who?"

I thought everyone in Cass City liked Cass City and the way it is. But I soon found out differently.

I didn't think there was room enough for a gap in any town as small as this, but I found one between the generations when I struck out on my marijuana research.

In preparing a story on the controversial drug, I spoke with representatives of both sides, generations. The law enforcement officials and school superintendent, of course, were very much opposed to the use of "pot" and were quite sure that there was little or no use of the drug by the village youth.

Then I met with the younger generation and found that not only had they used the drug but they knew where the best place to get it was and how much it costs and would I like some.

School Superintendent Don Crouse espoused the virtues of the small town: "Ample recreational and employment opportunities."

The young people said there is nothing to do. "Cass City is a cemetery with two stoplights." And this is what keeps small towns small.

There is a certain kind of person who enjoys living in a small town. The "small town" person enjoys personal contact with members of the community and prefers a casual, easy-going life style. He fears the anonymity of the big city and abhors the break-neck pace of the urban rat race.

Those who enjoy this kind of life, live and die in Cass City.

Most of the restless youth leave for the exciting city, wonder who their neighbors are or perhaps don't care, and take their place in the great American rat race.

Back in the village the people who prefer to know their neighbors also know every vice and family problem their neighbor has ever had. And the neighbor takes consolation in the fact that he, in turn, knows about every rotten apple in his neighbor's family barrel. And life goes on.

Finally, the most unpleasant part of being new in a small town is the fact that everyone knows you are. New that is, "New here, huh?" they ask. "What brings you to Cass City?"

Well I was looking for a job and someone said, "Go five miles north and 40 miles east." And here I am.

Vernon Carpenter dies in hospital

Vernon J. Carpenter, 84, died Wednesday, July 17, at Cass City Hospital. He had been a breeder of purebred Holstein cattle before his retirement.

Mr. Carpenter was born in Byron Center, June 23, 1884. He married Lena M. Sowden Jan. 25, 1907. The couple celebrated their sixty-first wedding anniversary in 1968.

He is survived by his widow; a daughter, Marguerite of Caro; two sons, Clare of Cass City and Norman of Detroit; five grandchildren, a great-grandchild and a brother, Orrie of Byron Center.

Services were conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday, Rev. Donald Turbin officiating. Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

PERSONAL INCOME UP

Personal income in all states increased considerably over a year ago, but Michigan was third from the top in percentage increase. Alaska and Hawaii both enjoyed a rise of 12.8% while Michigan scored a 12.1% gain. The national average was 7.9%. Statistics were compiled through April of 1968.

Some of the increase was due to higher Social Security payments and the higher minimum wage, but business also moved along at a steady clip on all fronts. Hard goods industries in Michigan produced at full tilt while auto production went into overtime. Construction also blossomed out.

The new income tax surcharge, strikes and an expected drop in employment is expected to soften the gains in economic activity for the next quarter.

COURT REORGANIZATION

District Courts in Michigan will replace present Justice Courts and Circuit Court Commissioners January 1, 1969. The 1963 Constitution granted the Legislature five years to design a judicial system. The lawmakers took the full five years to fulfill the mandate.

Senator Robert Richardson (R-Saginaw), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, notes that the District Court will be the court with which most people have contact. Highlights of the new system, according to Sen. Richardson, include:

182 attorney-judges in 99 districts apportioned on population and caseload experience, with annual state salary of $18,000 (local supplement to $27,500) and uniform state court rules. Candidates must file non-partisan petitions or $100 filing fee with the Secretary of State by 4:00 p.m. on July 2.

Independent financing of county and city-metropolitan districts to insure local control of operation and capital outlay. Local option for 57 cities in 3rd Class (metropolitan) districts to exempt that district from the system if the city or cities comprise 50% or more of the district's population, retaining all municipal courts within such a district, eliminating a possible total of 80 district judges.

A magistrate system in all counties electing less than two judges by itself to assist the judge in arraignments, bonding and sentencing of most traffic, fish, game, and conservation violations in order to promote efficiency and accommodation, especially in sparsely populated areas. Magistrates would be provided in other counties if recommended by the judges and approved by the Board of Supervisors. Compensation set by Board not below $5,000 annual salary or per diem of $20 per day, $10 per half-day.

Criminal jurisdiction of all misdemeanors, including those now handled by Circuit Courts, such as negligent homicide, and exclusive civil jurisdiction up to $3,000, twice the amount now allowed in Municipal Courts, relieving some Circuit Court backlog. Appeals to Circuit Court will be on record, eliminating a new trial in Circuit Court as now required.

A Small Claims Division for civil actions up to $300. If both parties wish to use this service, they must waive rules of evidence, jury, attorneys, and appeals and abide by the decision of the Court. This has worked well in several other states.

****

"The Legislature will undoubtedly watch operations (of the District Court) very closely in 1969 to see where improvements can be made. I believe we have the structure for a good beginning," he concluded.

OLDER CITIZEN AID

Assistance in solving many problems faced by Michigan's older citizens is available, often only a short distance away. The knack is knowing whom to contact and where, reminds the Michigan Commission on Aging.

A new "Directory of Services" is offered free of charge by the commission with data compiled on a county basis. General information outlines programs and assistance available to older people, how to apply for such benefits as the Homestead Tax Exemption, and opportunities in employment, recreation and education.

County facilities are listed alphabetically for major areas of concern and make it convenient to find what services are available locally. The directory may be obtained by writing the Michigan Commission on Aging, 1101 S. Washington Ave., Lansing 48913.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night give mules a vote of appreciation, but they couldn't decide what to do about the mule's partner, the farmer and rancher, that was getting extinct too. Them items was part of a full program on agriculture that Zeke Grubb brought up at the session.

Zeke said he had saw where them pore folks that marched on Washington looked all over Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi for 600 mules to pull their wagons but they didn't find but 20 at last count. He allowed as how it was a sad thing that the mule was getting extinct, but he was of the opinion man was getting about as scarce on the farms and ranches as mules.

Ed Doolittle was agreed with Zeke, said folks was now using plows for mailbox holders and wagon wheels for making light fixtures in them fancy eating places. The only thing that ain't retired is the man, and he has got to keep on digging. With all this new fangled farm machinery, said Ed, the dirt farmer and his mule was more outdated than home-cranked ice-cream.

Furthermore, allowed Ed, the Government was missing a good idea in not doing somethin' about the extinct mule. For instant, he said, all them people leaving the country and moving to town was creating all kinds of housing and other problems. At the same time, the Government was having to pay farmers not to grow too much of certain crops. So Ed figgers the Government can come out cheaper by going back to the mules. We can cut down on production, give the pore folks work so they don't have to march to Washington at Government expense. And, Ed said, if the mule don't slow down production snuff, we can cut out fertilizer and them chemicals for a year.

It was at this point, Mister

Editor, that the storekeeper butted in to offer a resolution that Ed run for U.S. Commissioner of Agriculture. But Clem Webster of the Great Society was agin the resolution on the grounds that a Republican like Ed that ain't never even crossed the New Frontier yet ain't got no business roaming around in the green hills of the Great Society. Clem said that personal, he would vote for Ed, but becaln he wasn't eligible.

But Ed got in the last word. First off, he said he aimed to continue his campaign for office at the next session, and in the meantime he was offering his program. He said, if elected, he would set up a 40-acre working farm with plows and mules as a piece of living American history, so's the children of tomorrow can go there and see for themselves that milk bottles don't come direct from the cows and that they ain't really no Jolly Green Giant to pick the peas.

All the fellers, Mister Editor, was anxious to hear more about Ed's program.

Yours truly,

Uncle Tim

"If It Fitz..."

How to keep a clean kitchen

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It was freezing out the other day, but my wife cooked steaks on the outdoor grill and then rushed them inside to eat. "I don't want to get the oven dirty," she explained.

I ate the steak with my fingers, so as to not dirty silverware, and that night I suggested we sleep on the floor, so as to not muss up the bed. And I was thinking how neat the hospital would be if the patients would just go somewhere else to be sick.

A week later I noticed something new spinning slowly on the outdoor barbecue spit (and isn't "spit" a lovely word for a cooking utensil?). It was a sort of wire cage, cylinder shaped. "I bought that at Yankee's," my wife explained proudly. "You just fill it with chicken thighs and legs and then attach it to the spit and it revolves slowly over the fire. It's better than spitting a whole chicken."

"Gee," I said. A few minutes later I heard a terrible scream, followed by sobs. The door on the revolving cage had flipped open and all the thighs and legs fell into the charcoal fire.

"As a chicken cooker," I told my distraught wife, "you do not remind me of that white bearded Kentucky colonel who always smiles as he produces delicious chicken on TV. But this is probably because you shaved this morning."

"I will wash this chicken and then put it back in the cage," she said. "No one will taste the difference."

"Certainly," I said. "And scrub it good. There is nothing I like better than Rinsco chicken with a charcoal flavor. It's like taking a bath in the fireplace."

"You are a riot," my wife said. "It doesn't even occur to you that this is your fault. In other families, the husbands do the outdoor cooking. If you had been out here watching, the chicken wouldn't have fallen in the fire."

"That's right, Daddy," said 2 little brats. "Other dads do the outdoor cooking. How come you don't?"

"It's because I'm afraid of the wild outdoors," I explained. "I might get attacked by a bear or something. Gee, the last time I went alone to our outdoor cooking spot I almost got lost. I had to follow the extension cord back home."

Which brings us to the incredible part of this open air cooking mania which is swiftly burying our nation in charcoal dust. I wouldn't mind if these nuts wanted me to go to an old-fashioned picnic in the woods. I would simply refuse, explaining I have still not recovered from World War 21st-century fatigue. I got my fatigue while battling to keep the peas out of my peaches and the rain out of my coffee. I forgave the Germans and the Japanese long ago. But I have never forgiven the cross-eyed mess sergeant who splotted a whopping spoonful of creamed crud into my pocket containing a scented letter from my girlfriend.

Any patriotic American must understand my refusal to risk opening old wounds with a rusty can opener, around a campfire, swatting bumblebees, sitting on burrs, 30 feet downwind from a newly dug john. But that is not what outdoor cooking means today. The modern picnickers never leave home. They do their grilling and spitting on the patio, 10 steps from a $500 GE oven which is turned on every Christmas. During blizzards, some families cook in the living room fireplace. The important thing is to NOT cook in the kitchen.

A sane man might well wonder why an electric civilization is returning to the open flame of the cave men. The most often heard reason is that charcoal food tastes better. This is hokey. Most outdoor-cooked meat is either burned or raw. The only way you can stomach it is to drench it in sauce made from hot peppers and brimstone. And the only way you can sleep that night is in an Alka Seltzer bottle.

The one big reason for the popularity of outdoor cooking is the cunning of the female. Mabel wants to move the mess out of her kitchen and into the yard, so she doesn't have to "get the oven dirty." With the aid of Sears Roebuck and national advertising, she has convinced her husband there is something rugged about preparing meals in the fresh air. It feeds his ego to don a corny apron and play Mrs. Tarzan of the patio. He thinks it is man's work, so the big clown does it. It is really Mabel's work but she has escaped it by moving the pots and pans outside.

Mabel is no dope. But her husband is. Backward and downward.

Need a new heating system?
Take comfort.

This certificate entitles you to a one hundred dollar trade-in allowance on your old heating unit when converting to electric heat. Clip and save it.

How does it work? Simply phone or stop in at your nearest Edison office and we'll give you the names of several Edison approved and trained electric heating contractors in your area who'll honor the certificate. (We'll also supply informative literature if you like.)

The contractor you call will make a no-obligation survey of your heating needs. He'll answer your questions about electric heating and explain the unique operating cost guarantee that applies. Then he'll quote you a firm estimate on the cost of converting. You deduct $100—the value of the certificate.

Now for some additional reasons why you should call about the offer. No other type of home heating is as (1) comfortable, (2) clean, (3) quiet, (4) modern as electric heat. It pays to convert.

One For The Road

No business

like pet business

By Dan Marlowe

Trends of the times:

A newspaper squib announced that Liggett and Myers Tobacco Co., manufacturers of Chesterfields and other brands of cigarettes, has purchased the Allen Products Co., makers of Alpo dog food.

This purchase is in line with a diversification trend among major cigarette companies. Not only is it a hedge against the hammering the tobacco companies have been taking concerning the health hazards of their product, it's also an indication that the cigarette makers have no objection to making money.

In other words, dog food is big business these days.

The feeding, clothing, and pampering of the pets of America is an industry that grosses $1.5 billion a year. Not million, friends. Billion. Dogs, cats, birds, rabbits, hamsters, goats, ponies, and tropical fish outnumber humans. The dog population alone in this country is nearly 30,000,000, and they are hard put to stay ahead of the cat and the combined parakeet and canary populations.

The Wall Street Journal reports that Americans spend twice the amount on cat and dog food each year that they do on baby food. And of course no significant estimate has ever been made of the cost of the additional food acquired a morsel at a time by artful canine and feline beggars at the dinner table.

One mail-order firm sells $500,000 worth of dogs each year through its catalogue. The average price is $50. The amount that Americans spend for new pets this year will exceed $100,000,000. And as every pet owner knows, it isn't the cost, it's the upkeep.

Another article points out that additional millions are spent annually on cages, carrying cases, kennel charges, dog and cat hospitals, and animal medicines. The cost of animal vaccine is often far more than for shots given to people.

It's in the extras for the pet world, however, that Americans display their true, pet-loving colors. $800,000,000 a year is spent on non-food items ranging from beds to toys to cosmetics. A spray dentifrice for dogs retails at $1.35 an ounce. A perfume turns a doggy-smelling dog into a fragrant member of the family. It's even possible to produce a gardenia-scented animal. And toenail polish is available in 11 different shades.

Clothing is available, too. Clothing? Yes. One firm produces Halloween costumes for dogs. The family pet can make the trick-or-treat rounds with the children attired as a witch, pirate, clown, or skeleton. Another firm offers a Santa Claus outfit consisting of red-flannel coat, red cap, and beard.

Dogs--and other pets--best friend surely must be man.

Forest Dewey, 52,
dies in Caro

Forest Dewey died at Caro Community Hospital Tuesday, July 16, after an illness of seven months. He was 52.

Mr. Dewey was born in Sheridan Township, Huron County, April 22, 1916, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis and Hazel Bird Dewey. He married Mrs. Geraldine Overhiser in 1951 at Napoleon, Ohio. He was an employee of General Motors Corp. of Saginaw.

Mr. Dewey is survived by his widow; two stepdaughters, Mrs. William Spade of Cass City and Mrs. Doyle Spencer of Millington; two stepsons, Ronald Roberts, at home, and John Beyer of Detroit; a sister, Mrs. John Gruber of Cass City; three brothers, Arthur, Wayne and Carl, all of Cass City, and nine grandchildren.

Services were at 1 p.m. Friday, Rev. Paul Cowan officiating. Burial was in Ellington Cemetery.

RLDS WOMEN MEET

Shabbona RLDS Women's Department met Thursday afternoon, July 18, at the home of Mrs. James Doerr.

The meeting was opened by leader, Mrs. Howard Gregg. Mrs. Bruce Kritzman presented the worship service in the absence of worship leader, Mrs. Voyle Dorman, by reading two poems, "The Widower's Mite" and "Recompense Earned."

The July theme is "The Validity of Good Works" and roll call was "What I Appreciate most about my Country."

Mrs. Luella Smith was a guest. Mrs. Curtis Cleland gave the special report on "A Good Book," concerning the interesting stories and excellent literature contained in the Bible.

The next bake sale will be Aug. 10 with Lillian Dunlap and Maude Holcomb in charge. A bake sale will also be held Sept. 14.

There will be no July meeting. Members were reminded of the bazaar in October.

Mrs. Holcomb read the lesson from "Power to Become" in the absence of teacher, Mrs. Dean Smith.

Mrs. Hubert C. Fuller and daughter Patsy of Phoenix, Ariz., are vacationing with friends and relatives in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Auslander were at Oak Beach over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kurtz and family and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tetel and family and Linda Mika, all of Saginaw, were week-end guests in the John Mika home. Sunday afternoon visitors of the Mikas were Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Mozdzen and family of Detroit.

Mrs. Wilford Calster had major surgery July 18 at Hubbard Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe. She is in room 201.

BROWN-MENEREY REUNION

The 44th Brown-Menerrey reunion was held Sunday, July 14, at the Yale City Park.

A cooperative dinner was served at 1 o'clock. During the short business meeting officers were elected for the 1969 reunion.

Elmer Menerrey of Flint and Herman Jess of Port Huron were elected co-chairmen. Marie Meredith will be secretary-treasurer.

Letters were read from Senator and Mrs. Frank D. Beadle and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Menerrey, who were unable to attend.

Guests were present from Port Huron, Swartz Creek, Pontiac, Flint, Royal Oak, Troy and the local area.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hendrick and family were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Schrader and family of East Lansing.

KRITZMAN REUNION

The first reunion of the family of Peter and Maude Wheeler Kritzman was held Sunday, July 21, at the Cass City Park.

Fifty-six members attended from Phoenix, Ariz., Warren, Saginaw, Deckerville, Elkton, Argyle, Cass City and Decker. A potluck dinner was served at 1:30 and the park facilities were enjoyed.

Officers for the 1969 reunion are: Bruce Kritzman, president, and Mrs. Hazen Kritzman, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pallas and children recently returned from a vacation trip around Lake Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hendrick and family spent Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lewis of Colling to visit their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Surine and family of Rutland, Sask.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kritzman, with their guests, Mrs. Hubert Fuller and daughter, were in Port Huron Monday to visit at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. David Tetreau and Mr. and Mrs. Adam Harris.

BIBLE SCHOOL ACHIEVEMENT

The Shabbona Methodist Bible School Achievement was held Friday evening at the church. Enrollment was 58, with an average attendance of 45.

Classes and their teachers were: nursery class, Mrs. Gene Chapin; Mrs. Gene Vatter and Rosalie Jones; kindergarten, Mrs. Robert Bader; Mrs. Leslie Severance; Carolyn Jones and Ruby Burk; middlers, Mrs. L.D. Severance and Olive Innes; primary, Mrs. Clare Auslander; Mrs. Lloyd Bader and Mrs. Arthur Calster; juniors, Mrs. Arthur Severance, June Wendorf and Mary Jane Phetplace; youth, Mrs. Arley Gray and Doris Hendrick.

A music and story time was presented by Rev. and Mrs. Chapko.

THE SCORE

It's better to be known by the company you keep than by the friends you give away.

Statistics from the U. S. Public Health Service reveal 15 percent of people between 40 and 65 years of age have some sort of chronic disease, and the figure rises sharply to 77 percent for those who are 65 or older.

and family. The Evergreen Guys 'N' Gals 4-H foods girls attended the Edison picnic Tuesday at Sandusky, accompanied by their leader, Mrs. Clare Auslander.

ELECT JIM BARRIGER
REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE for SHERIFF

Dear Ladies & Gentlemen of Tuscola County:

As you may know, I am seeking the Republican nomination for Tuscola County Sheriff.

As an elector myself, I like to know the background and views of the person who is going to represent me.

My name is Jim Barriger. I am 39 years old, married, and reside with my wife, Ione, and a son David 19, at 133 Howard St., Caro. I have been a resident of Tuscola County all of my life.

I have also served as a Sergeant in the U.S. Air Force, during the Korean War, being an instructor.

My civic duties include active participation in Scouting, American Legion, and Volunteer Fireman.

As an active police officer for the village of Caro and a Deputy Sheriff of Tuscola County from 1960 thru 1966, I have participated in law enforcement in this county. I know and understand current problems facing Tuscola County. (For Example) because of increased pressure being brought by Saginaw, Bay City, Flint and Detroit, police departments, Tuscola County is experiencing a lot more crime-on-wheels than ever before. My experience as a law enforcement officer, coupled with my 12 years as a successful businessman in Caro and my police training as a graduate of the Saginaw Valley Law Enforcement Association and attendance at the Michigan State University School of Police Administration gives me the thorough knowledge necessary to become the effective Sheriff we need.

I feel that only a man with the knowledge of the operation of good government, business, and awareness of current problems can bring you, the people, the law enforcement you need. I will be a representative of all the people, Republican or Democrat, alike, and I will not be a "yes" man to any pressure group.

Let us put a man into office who is aware of the problems of our county and who can effectively represent all of the people.

For these reasons I solicit your support and vote in the Primary Election. I can only promise not to let you down. Let us choose capability and experience and a forthright attitude on August 6, 1968.

Thank you

Sincerely,

Jim Barriger

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross

Extension Agent

If all your children do is fight, fight, fight -- they're completely normal.

To parents, it seems like their children are forever teasing one another, tossing a "name" in anger or sulking for days on end. No matter how it appears, it's often a result of the jealousy children feel for their brothers and sisters -- sibling rivalry.

Just understanding that sibling rivalry is normal is a big step in dealing with it. Your children's actions won't mystify you so when you recognize that there are characteristics common to different age levels.

At certain ages, boys are especially aggressive and show it by taking a poke at sister. Girls reach a stage where they feel very sophisticated and "look down their noses" at the younger children. And all children reach an age when they feel a great need for privacy and so shut out the others. These behavior patterns occur at different ages -- and parents need not become overly concerned about the conflicts that normally arise.

Privileges are also a point of conflict. Parents can grant other children the privileges they are responsible enough to take. For example, you'd send a 12-year-old to camp but not a three-year-old. Your explanation should go farther than "you're too little" and "you can go to camp when you get older."

The three-year-old needs something special to do now to recover from what he might feel is favoritism for the older child. Helping Dad wash the car might be a way of making him feel important.

Since each child is an individual with unique needs and interests, parents will have to respond to each as an individual. This may result in treatment that appears unfair or unequal, as your child may well point out. But he will grow and learn when you explain the differences in age and maturity and when he learns to accept them.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

State of Michigan, Probate Court for the County of Tuscola.
