

'Heavy' turnout expected for Tuesday's primaries

Tuscola County Clerk Archie Hicks predicts a "heavy" voter turnout of between 12 and 15 thousand for the primary elections Tuesday.

"There appears to be quite a little interest in the elections, due to the fact that this is a presidential election year," he said.

The normal Tuscola turnout is between 10 and 12 thousand, according to Hicks.

Though Hicks is predicting strong voter enthusiasm, there has been a relative lack of interest in balloting for the new county board of supervisors. Only 14 candidates have filed for the seven-district board.

In comparison, 32 are running for the five-man Sanilac County board, and there are 30 candidates in Huron County, which has a seven-district board.

The new board of supervisors was formed in accordance with a Supreme Court ruling which stipulated that one-man one-vote representation must be effected down to the county level. A bill which became law recently provided that salaries for the new board would be set by the members themselves. This, Hicks believes, may be why there has been little interest in the positions in Tuscola County.

"They do not know what the compensation is going to be," Hicks said. "A man has to be financially able to take the job."

A more recent ruling, however, provides that the present County Board of Supervisors will set the salary for the new board.

Candidates for the Tuscola County Board of Supervisors are:

District One (Wisner, Akron, Columbia and Almer townships) -- Carl G. Strand, Democrat, and Frederic R. Bach, Republican. District Two (Elmwood, Ellington, Elkland and Novesta townships) -- Edward G. Golding and Mac B. O'Dell, Republicans.

District Three (Gilford, Fairgrove, Denmark and Junata townships) -- Carl Sherman, Democrat, and Shurford Kirk, Republican.

District Four (Indianfields township) -- Harold E. Johnson, Republican.

District Five (Wells, Kingston, Fremont, Dayton and Koyl townships) -- John W. Sokol, Democrat, Howard Clement, Republican, and Floyd Ducker, Republican.

District Six (Tuscola and Vassar townships and Vassar City) -- Robert Russell, Democrat, and Charles Woodcock, Republican.

District Seven (Arbela, Millington and Watertown townships) -- Richard Saeger, Democrat, and John F. Loomis, Republican.

In other county elections:

Prosecuting Attorney -- James J. Epskamp, Republican. Sheriff -- John A. Horwath, Democrat, James H. Barriger, Republican, Carl A. Palmateer, Republican, Hugh J. Marr, Republican.

County Clerk -- Archie Hicks, Republican.

Treasurer -- Arthur M. Willets, Republican.

Register of Deeds -- Shirley M. Naugle, Democrat, and William J. Proffitt, Republican.

Drain Commissioner -- Leslie E. Lounsbury, Republican, and Quentin Howell, Republican.

Coroner -- J. Benson Colton, Republican, and George W. Clark Jr., Republican.

Roy L. Spencer is running for Congress from the 78th district. In the 84th district, Harry E. Rohlf is opposed by Leon Van Steenhout.

There will be a non-partisan ballot for the Tuscola County primary, and three proposals will be voted on.

Non-partisans John F. Foley, S. Jerome Bronson and Robert J. Danhof are running for Second District Court of Appeals Judge. The propositions are:

Proposal No. 1 -- "Shall the state constitution be amended to establish a judicial tenure commission and to provide for its membership and duties?"

Proposal No. 2 -- "Shall the state constitution be amended to provide for a state officers compensation commission and to provide for its membership, duties and limitations?"

Proposal No. 3 -- "Shall the state constitution be amended to provide that the governor shall fill judicial vacancies and to extend existing constitutional provisions to appointed judges?"

According to Hicks, the most spirited county-wide campaigning is taking place in the race for sheriff.

"For some reason there is always competition for sheriff

Two die, one injured in area traffic mishaps

In two area accidents, a pair of youths were killed in an accident south of Uby, and an Elkton girl was injured in a two-car crash near Laker High School on M-142. Both mishaps were Saturday.

Dean R. Sowerby, 19, Sheridan, and Louis M. Walsh, 21, Marlette, died after their car, driven by Walsh, careened off the road during a 100-mile-an-hour chase.

According to Sanilac County Sheriff Deputies, they were pursuing the Walsh car west on Bay City-Forestville Road at speeds up to 100 mph when the vehicle left the blacktop and hit a culvert. The car then flipped end over end, and the deputies said, and disintegrated in a field.

The car travelled about 100 feet off the road before hitting the culvert, then flew 100 feet through the air before landing in the field.

Diane C. Renn, 18, Elkton, was treated for cuts and bruises after the car she was driving collided with one driven by Phillip Lee Rockwell, 18, Snover.

Miss Renn was reportedly driving west on M-142, and Rockwell was driving east when Rockwell attempted a left turn. The cars collided, and the Renn vehicle skidded 330 feet then rolled over in a ditch.

Rockwell was cited for failing to yield the right of way in attempting a left turn.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

I'll always be convinced that Dr. Marion Hostetter should have been a journalist.

Without formal training or practical experience not one person in a thousand can write a column up to professional standards.

And besides being able to write, Dr. Hostetter enjoyed writing. I know personal satisfaction must have been his reason for writing for the Chronicle as he was grossly underpaid during the years he made such outstanding contributions to the paper. Only a real interest in writing could make him take the time to produce the work he did.

Hostetter bows out this week the same way he bowed in... with grace and flair of expression that marked each of his weekly efforts.

A BLAZING FIRE in this barn cut phone service in most of Cass City Wednesday morning. The barn housed only an old model car.

Qualified observers said that the biggest loss will be the cost of restoring phone service to the community. The fire melted the main cables near the building.

Sam Urchick, Cass City, said that he saw two children about eight years old leave the barn and noticed the fire about 20 minutes later. He called the alarm at 10:30 a.m. The Elkland Township Fire Department, assisted by the Caro Fire Department, kept the fire from spreading.

Wm. Penfold likes quiet life in Wilmot

On a little dirt road in the town of Wilmot, a little old man sits in a little old house.

"Everything's different now," says William Penfold, age 99, "Everything's different."

Men are building silver monsters which will carry passengers through the air faster and faster. A push-button sends a multi-ton rocket roaring into space.

Meanwhile, back in Wilmot, William Penfold could care less.

"I like a quiet life now," he says. "Lots of old-timers come here to visit me," he says. "We sit around and talk about the old times."

And Penfold, who will be 100 years old Feb. 26, has many old times to talk about.

He represents, like the town he lives in, a different age. The prime of his life and Wilmot's were marked by the whine of a sawmill and the rumble of a log-jam when lumber was king.

Besides the lumber business, Penfold and Wilmot were part of the pickle industry. But that is gone too, and today, Wilmot is quiet, just the way its senior citizen likes it.

Penfold was born in Waverly, N.Y., in 1869. He moved to Saginaw late in the century, learned the "saw business" and was hired by the Wickes Brothers.

"I was making 75 cents a day in the mills," he says. "But I advanced rapidly, and, by the time I quit sawing, I was getting $4 a day."

And he points out, "I lived it a day when a dollar was worth a dollar."

Penfold left the lumber business in Saginaw and moved into the settlement of Wilmot, which was also destined to be phased out of the timber industry as light shone in the forests of Michigan and those who cared to move on with the timber moved on.

A pickle factory moved in. In 1902, Williams Brothers Pickle Co. of Detroit built a factory here, he says. "I was appointed district manager."

These were days when neither

Penfold nor Wilmot were as quiet as they are now. Penfold's life has been one of an active businessman and community leader, and Wilmot used to be known as a lively little town.

Penfold worked with the Williams Co. until 1916 when it declared bankruptcy. A Detroit receiving company operated the factory for two years, then sold out to the Libby McNeil Co.

"I worked there until 1938," Penfold says. "Then I got to the age where I had to retire."

Penfold also served as school director for 20 years, was deputy sheriff and a member of the town board.

When discussing the past, a subject on which he is a recognized expert because he has lived so much of it, he smiles and recalls the bustling village of Wilmot.

"Wilmot was a lumber town," he says. "There were two hotels and two grocery stores. It was a thriving little burg."

"The DC and S railroad came in from Bay City. There were eight passenger trains a day through here. They operated until 1944 before they folded up."

Penfold recalls a celebration the day the railroad first came through.

"We had parades, horse races, dances," he says. "My gosh that was an awful celebration."

Then William Penfold leans back in his chair and looks out the window of his little old house and a tear winds its way down the wrinkled, weather-beaten face of the retired lumberman - retired pickle company executive.

For everything is different now.

Penfold boasts that he has led a healthy life, during which he covered many miles and saw much.

"I wore out five Model T's, two Model A's, a Studebaker and a couple V-8's," he says.

And he adds, "I've seen five depressions during my life."

One of the Model A's is still running. Penfold drove it until 1963, then turned it over to one of his grandsons, who is restoring it.

"I bought that car in 1938," he says. "That was one of the last Model A's they made."

Like so many of the long-lived pioneers, Penfold tells tales of "moonshining."

"When I was a boy in New York State," he says, "we could get a gallon of whiskey for 25 cents. There wasn't any tax on it then."

And like so many of the pioneers with a taste for good whiskey, Penfold boasts that he has never really been sick.

However, the old eyes which had seen so much of life began to fail. Penfold. He became nearly blind.

"I had to grope around," he says. "But last Sept. 6 I entered the hospital at Lapeer and had

8th DISTRICT DEMOCRATIC picnic chicken barbecue, Veterans Memorial Park, Harbor Beach, all day Sunday, Aug. 4. Adults $1.50 children 75¢ 8/1/1

OLD TIMERS William Penfold, 99-year-old Wilmot pioneer, sits behind the wheel of his 1938 Model A. Penfold lived a very active life in what used to be an active little village. Now, Penfold and Wilmot live the "quiet life," and like it.

Why I should be elected.....

As you may know, I am seeking the Republican nomination for Tuscola County Sheriff.

As an elector myself, I like to know the background and views of the person who is going to represent me.

My name is Jim Barriger. I am 39 years old, married, and reside with my wife, Ione, and a son David, 19, at 133 Howard St., Caro. I have been a resident of Tuscola County all of my life.

I have also served as a sergeant in the U. S. Air Force, during the Korean War, being an instructor.

My civic duties include active participation in Scouting, American Legion, and Volunteer Fireman.

As an active police officer for the village of Caro and a Deputy Sheriff of Tuscola County from 1960 thru 1966, I have participated in law enforcement in this county. I know and understand current problems facing Tuscola County. (For Example) because of increased pressure being brought by Saginaw, Bay City, Flint and Detroit, police departments, Tuscola County is experiencing a lot more crime-on-wheels than ever before. My experience as a law enforcement officer, coupled with my 12 years as a successful businessman in Caro and my police training as a graduate of the Saginaw Valley Law Enforcement Association and attendance at the Michigan State University School of Police Administration gives me the thorough knowledge necessary to become the effective Sheriff we need.

Jim Barriger
Candidate for Tuscola County Sheriff.

As a salesman of real estate, farm machinery and cars in this community for several years, and as an office-holder for the village of Elkland, I am aware of the problems of local Government and the people which it represents.

Taxes and how they are used are the greatest concern to us, in the office of County Supervisor, which I seek. I believe it is possible under a seven-man board, to now achieve greater economic efficiency in the administration of County business.

Each member of this Board will have closer contact with the work of each committee and with each department, resulting in the possibility of less time spent by each member and a saving to the taxpayers.

The present supervisors on the County Board each represent a Township, and are primarily interested in what can be obtained or accomplished for their township. If placed in this new office, will they not react as they have in the past? For a new board let's put some new blood in it, with fresh ideas and new approaches to old problems, much as the farmer and businessman has done. New tools, to accomplish more and with greater efficiency.

If I am elected I will have no past commitments to individual townships, to overshadow my responsibility to four townships for the benefit of all the people.

Mac O'Dell,
Candidate for County Supervisor, 2nd district.

For the past several years I've had the privilege of serving as the sheriff of your county. During this time the fine men that make up your sheriff's department and I have tried in every way possible to expand the services of your county law enforcement agency to meet the new challenges facing this area.

Heavier traffic patrols, stricter traffic enforcement, increased emphasis on public relations and education programs among youth, adoption of a broadened marine inspection and safety program, a planned program of equipment updating, stricter requirements for deputy candidates, introduction of drunk-driving testing equipment, development of volunteer emergency units for marine, riot and search needs, updating and modernization of the police records and identification bureau, longer license hours . . . these are just a few of the things we have tried to achieve within the money and manpower allotted to our department.

We have a fine modernization program underway in our sheriff's department . . . I sincerely hope that you will give me the opportunity to continue to develop this program.

Your support will be greatly appreciated. My thanks to the Cass City Chronicle and its publisher, John Haire, for allowing me to present this statement.

Hugh Marr, Sheriff

I have 13 years experience in the law enforcement field and have attended various police schools and feel my experience and schooling qualify me for the job of sheriff.

I feel I can make better use of the facilities that are available to the department, then they are presently being used.

I believe the deputies should all attend schooling of some sort in the police field. To date this year the deputies have attended three weeks of schooling. This was for only two men in the entire department.

I believe the Sheriff Department cars should be seen on the roads more, and maybe this would help cut down our fatal accidents (28 fatalities this year).

I believe I can work with the younger people and have the experience to do this better than any of the other candidates. I think it is time we had a sheriff from the Cass City area.

I don't believe I have to dwell too much on my experience and qualifications. For the people in the Cass City area as most of the people in this area know me personally, and I feel that most of the younger set know me even better. I hope I have lived up to their expectation.

I believe that after the people read the letter to the voters in this issue of the paper from a former Sheriff of this county that the people will see and understand why I am running for the office of Sheriff.

Carl A. Palmateer
Candidate for Tuscola County Sheriff.

On March 2nd 1850 the Legislature of the State of Michigan approved an Act establishing Tuscola County as a separate unit. Since that time each township has been represented on the County Board of Supervisors by its township supervisor. Now the Supreme Court has ruled that the County Board of Supervisors must be elected from districts of equal population, so, the County Board of Supervisors has re-apportioned the county into seven districts. District No. 2 is made up of four townships (Elkland, Elmwood, Novesta and Ellington) with one County Supervisor to be elected from this district.

I feel that the new County Board should be made up of men who have previously served as Township supervisors as they are familiar with the problems facing County Government and the planning that has already been done, so that, County Government could continue smoothly.

I believe that I am qualified and have the experience for this office having served as Elkland Township Supervisor for the last ten years. Part of my duty has been to attend County Board of Supervisor's meetings to help transact county business. I have acted on all major county committees and was chairman of the County Board of Supervisors in 1966.

I believe in preserving local Government as the most Democratic and economical way of serving the people. I also believe that people can help preserve local government by voting in all elections.

Edward G. Golding Sr.
Candidate for County Supervisor 2nd district.

One For The Road

The eyes
have it

By Dan Marlowe

I read somewhere recently that 15% of the drivers on our highways today have impaired vision to some degree.

Impaired in this sense doesn't mean poor vision that can be corrected with glasses. It means vision with glasses which is still inferior to permissible low-level standards established by motor vehicle authorities.

In some states, the condition ranges from actual cases of individuals who are legally blind but still driving automobiles to long-time drivers with slipping vision who are okayed by sympathetic examiners at license renewal time.

Both the fact and the 15% figure struck me forcibly, as it never had before, during a drive home from Frankfort in a steady rain the other night. My windshield wipers quit on me completely. Attendants at three gas stations where I stopped en route couldn't be persuaded to come out into the rain to correct the difficulty for a stranger.

This testimonial to the absence of good Samaritanism in our day aside, the experience taught me something about driving with impaired vision. I drove approximately 70 miles with a blurred windshield, the equivalent of blurred vision in anyone not measuring up to quoted sight standards. Half the trip was in daylight, half in darkness, and none of it was a pleasure.

The first thing I noticed was the absence of depth perception. Oncoming cars--and later, oncoming headlights--seemed to stay well down the road indefinitely, then were upon me and past me before I realized it. Especially during the interval of driving in darkness, there was no possible way to see far enough ahead to provide against an emergency which required quick-reflex response.

I never used to be able to understand rear-end collisions in slow-moving city traffic. I understand them now. Drivers with impaired vision simply are unable to see that the car ahead of them has slowed or stopped until it's too late to do anything about it. The absence of correct depth perception is what does them in.

I know drivers--and you do, too--who haven't stopped driving until they had the accident which almost killed them or someone else. Surely depth perception and peripheral vision are more important than the ability to read a row of letters or figures on a chart.

I've heard it argued that we live in a society today where the right to drive is a necessity and not a privilege. If this is so, society had better be prepared to endure the 15% of drivers who probably contribute to 35% of the accidents.

It's perhaps utopian to argue that eye examinations should be given by eye doctors, and not by the driver's own eye doctor. But if they were, some of us would be around longer.

Rep. Harvey names
drive co-chairmen

It's a repeat performance for two prominent Tuscola County residents, Mrs. Florence Carpenter, of rural Cass City, and James H. Sparling, of Caro, who have been named as co-chairmen of the Tuscola County Jim Harvey for Congress Committee. Mrs. Carpenter and Sparling served in the same capacity in Congressman Harvey's 1964 successful campaign. No chairmen were appointed in 1966.

Congressman Harvey, Republican, formally announced his candidacy for a fifth consecutive Congressional term a few weeks ago. Former Mayor of Saginaw, County Supervisor and City Councilman, Harvey was first elected to Congress in the 1960 election. In the Congress, he serves on the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Dry beans which include navy, light red kidney, cranberry, yelloweye, pinto, red and several minor types of beans contributed about $50 million in cash receipts to Michigan in 1966 -- making it the second largest single crop enterprise in the state.

By H. M. Bulen

See if you can answer this baseball puzzle. . . Instead of having a first baseman, second baseman, shortstop, third baseman and three outfielders, could a team use, say, only a first baseman in the infield and then put six men into the outfield during a game? . . . Answer is yes. . . The official rules say that outside of the pitcher and catcher the other seven fielders may play anywhere they want as long as they are in fair territory.

Of all the men who have ever pitched big league baseball, which one gave up the most walks? . . . The man who holds the record for issuing more bases on balls than any other pitcher in history is Early Wynn who walked a total of 1,775 batters in his career.

Did you know that Arnold Palmer started playing golf at the age of three? . . . His father gave him his first set of clubs at that age, and he was already playing 18-holes at the age of five! . . . That seems hard to believe but the Professional Golfers Association did research into Palmer's early life and they say it's true.

Village looks for key to Federal funds

Government assistant programs are myriad, the Cass City Village Council is finding out as they seek Federal funds for park development.

Wading through the red tape of governmental bureaucracy is so confusing to the layman that many are turning application details over to professionals.

Village President Lambert Althaver said Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the council that Villan and Lehman (the village's master planners) offer this service for $350 to $500.

Trustee Rawson said that he had a pamphlet on Federal programs and asked for a month to study it.

"If it becomes apparent that we can't get aid without professional assistance we can hire the planners then," he said.

Tammy Helzer dies of accident injuries

Tammy Helzer, 2, daughter of Mrs. Bernadette Helzer of New Baltimore, died Thursday, July 25, in Bay City's Merry Hospital of injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

The accident occurred Wednesday, July 17, at the intersection of Sebawaing and Elkland Roads near Owentale when a small van driven by Mrs. Mary Tavernier of Cass City collided with a milk tanker driven by Clayton Geiger, 47, of Elkton. Tammy's cousin, Mary Helzer, 14, also of New Baltimore, died in the crash.

Second place battle left in Church loop

With the regular season championship all but sewed up by Grant-Fraser, the only race remaining is for the runner-up spot where the Catholics and Shabbona are waging a spirited battle.

The Catholics have the advantage following an 8-2 decision over Shabbona Wednesday, July 24, but either team could still place behind undefeated Grant-Fraser. Al Zawilinski pitched a no-hitter for the Catholics and only a walk and two hit batters allowed Shabbona to get on the scoreboard, Les Severance was the loser.

The Catholics added another victory in the second game Monday, July 22. They easily defeated the Methodists, 14-1. Zawilinski was the winner and Bob Milligan the loser.

Rick Turner and Clark Erla hit home runs for the Catholics. Turner mopped up on the mound after the Catholics were far ahead.

In the opener Monday, Shabbona rapped out a 16-9 decision over United Missionary. The game was tight until the sixth when Shabbona scored six times to win. Severance was the winner and Mark Tuckey was charged with the loss.

Tuesday, July 23, Deford edged United Missionary, 7-4, in a well played game. Gary Kelley hurled for the winners and Rinerd Schember was on the mound for the Missionaries.

In the nightcap, Grant-Fraser continued to roll on with a 20-4 win over Decker. Gary Mellen-dorf hurled the win and Walt Rayl was the loser.

Deford rallied in the late innings to overcome a four-run Cass City Methodist lead and registered a 5-4 decision. Kelley was the winner and Dave Wilson took the loss.

Shabbona stayed in the running for second place with a 11-6 victory over United Missionary. Les Severance got the win. Rinerd Schember was the loser. The Shabbona nine was helped by a home run by Dan Calster.

In the final game of the week, Grant-Fraser continued unbeaten with a 19-2 win over the Methodists. Gary Mellen-dorf's job on the mound was made easy by circuit clouts by Larry Hartwick and Larry Summers. Bob Milligan was the losing pitcher. Miles Profit smacked a round tripper for the Methodists.

Saginaw to face Erla's Sat.

A meeting this week was expected to decide the winner of the Uby Recreation League when the two leaders, Carlings and Erla's, collided Tuesday in Uby.

In two previous games, the clubs split. The Foodmen set the stage for the showdown battle by winning a pair of league tilts during the week.

They breezed by Uby Motors, 11-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Elwyn Helwig Tuesday, July 23, and defeated Nugent's, 3-0, behind Al Bosch Friday.

The first game was settled in the second inning when Erla's collected six hits and six runs to move into an 8-1 lead which allowed Helwig to coast to victory. Every starter on the team collected at least one hit with the exception of Wilson, who started in center field. One of Hillaker's two hits was a circuit clout.

The game against Nugent's was a tense, close game for the first five innings. Neither team scored until the fifth when Bosch helped win his own game when he followed a single by Wilson with a circuit blast after the first two men had been retired.

It was all Erla's ace needed to win, but the Foodmen turned a couple of singles and an out into another run in the top of the sixth. Bosch struck out 16 and the three hits he allowed were scattered over three different innings.

EXHIBITION GAMES

Erla's divided an exhibition double header against Saginaw Black Label Saturday night at Cass City Recreational Park.

Manager Dan Erla announced that another exhibition has been carded here against the Thunderbirds of Saginaw Saturday, Aug. 3. The Thunderbirds are leading their division in one of the fast Saginaw recreation leagues.

The opener of the twin bill against Black Label was one of the best games of the season. Al Bosch went the distance for the victory, striking out 11 in the eight-inning contest.

The visitors scored first on a home run by Jerome in the second. Erla's countered with a run in the third on a circuit clout by LaRouche. Fast broke up the game as he led off in the first extra inning with another circuit clout.

In the nightcap, the visitors had little trouble winning 13-6. They scored four times in the second and added three more in the third and the game was ended for all practical purposes.

Saginaw picked up 12 hits off the slants of Elwyn Helwig and D. Erla while Bob Ryan was combed for nine hits and six runs by Erla's.

Justice Court

Twelve persons were in court to answer to various alleged violations during the week ending July 29.

A citizens complaint signed by Carl Betts Jr. of Mt. Pleasant resulted in two Port Austin men being brought before the justice on warrants charging littering. Nicholas Roy Gembarski, 22, and Robert Hogan, 19, pleaded guilty and each paid fines of $25.00 and costs of $6.00. A charge of consuming beer on the highway against Hogan was dismissed by the justice.

In Tuscola County," Hicks said. "I think the competition is healthy."

Hicks also pointed out that ballots for the primary were distributed on time. He credits the present County Board of Supervisors and the printers for this.

"The Tuscola County Supervisors reapportioned themselves to a seven-man board April 3, 1967," he said. "This cleared up confusion which occurred in other counties."

"And we couldn't have had those ballots ready without cooperation of the printers."

There is very active competition for the positions of county supervisors in Districts Three and Four, Sanilac County, District Three (Argyle, Evergreen, Lamotte, Marlette and Moore townships) -- Cecil Hayward, Republican, Robert Rees, Republican, and Neil Woods, Republican.

District Four (Delaware, Minden, Austin, Greenleaf, Wheatland, Marion, Forester and Custer townships) -- Eugene Carman, Republican, Floyd Purdy, Republican, Edith Kohler, Republican, Lee Nichol, Republican, Arthur Nye, Republican, K. Ward Decker, Republican, John Meyer, Democrat, and Richard Wojtas, Democrat.

In county-wide contests: County Clerk -- Walter Terechuk, Democrat, and Walter Behn, Republican.

Treasurer -- Fred Hirsch, Democrat, and Don E. Ennest, Republican.

Drain Commissioner -- Max Klohn, Democrat, Stuart Armstead, Republican, and Michael John Leen, Republican.

Register of Deeds -- Morris D. Turnbull, Republican, and Edwin H. Comber, Republican.

There will be local propositions in Grant and Greenleaf townships asking for additional funds for road construction and repair.

Vassar man stands mute

George Jean of 3952 Bradleyville Road, Vassar, stood mute at his arraignment in Circuit Court Tuesday on a charge of rape and indecent liberties.

A plea of not guilty was entered, and he was remanded to the Sheriff until a trial date is set.

Jean was accused of committing the crime in Denmark Township during the month of March.

EDITOR'S CORNER

Clerk Archie Hicks is predicting that up to 15,000 voters will be at the polls Tuesday for the primaries.

It would be a 20 per cent heavier vote than normal. Even though the race has been sparked by a stiff campaign for sheriff and drain commissioner, that's a lot of votes for Tuscola County.

Regardless of the issues, there seems to be a hard core of voters who vote at primaries and a few more who turn out for elections.

Hopefully, this year will be the exception and Hicks' prediction will be correct.

But don't count on it.

Tuesday night's council meeting lasted less than an hour. . . one of the shortest of the year.

I always greet this type of meeting with mixed emotions. Happy that the work of the day was about two hours shorter than anticipated. . . sad when I review the week's stories on Wednesday.

Almost invariably, it seems, when there is little of note at the council the rest of the area goes into a news doldrum.

But even worse (for the reporter) is the meeting that drags on interminably when officials talk about the weather, ancient history, golf scores, economic conditions and say practically nothing that makes a story.

We used to have lots of these "remember when" meets at the village council, but in recent years the meetings have been run with dispatch.

Now at least when nothing happens, it happens with dispatch. The routine business is transacted and everyone has the remainder of the night off.

Approve bonds for Gagetown water

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, Chairman of the Municipal Finance Commission, announced today that the Commission approved $119,000.00 of Water System Revenue Bonds for the Village of Gagetown, Tuscola County. Attorney General Kelley said, "The proceeds will be used to defray the cost of improving and extending a municipal water system in the Village of Gagetown. These bonds will run until 2007."

Other members of the Municipal Finance Commission are Allison Green, State Treasurer, and Ira Polley, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

WISHFUL THINKING
It takes a lot more than a magnetic personality to get things coming your way.

cataracts removed from my eyes. Now I can see to write letters, read newspapers and enjoy life."

But the life he sees is different now. Enjoying life is talking about the way things used to be, the way Wilmot used to be -- lively, with two hotels and two grocery stores and horse races and celebrations.

"The reason for the decline of these small towns is the timber being gone," Penfold says. "Deford is just as bad as -- if not worse than -- Wilmot. Kingston is trying to keep its head above water."

The whole world is different for a man who has lived in it nearly a century.

And Wilmot, in the world but not really of it, no longer means parades or sawmills or even pickles. It means quiet life, and this is what William Penfold, age 99, prefers.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Holik

Miss Jan Myree Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rae Bell of Fairgrove, and Michael D. Holik, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Holik of Cass City, were united in marriage Saturday, June 15, at the Fairgrove United First Presbyterian Church. The Rev. John Hicks performed the rites at the seven o'clock double-ring, candlelight ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, approached the altar wearing a floor-length gown of white lace over satin. The sleeveless gown featured a scalloped neckline and gathered Empire back, which fell into a wattle train. Her full modified mantilla was secured by a pearl and crystal crown. She carried a cascade arrangement of white miniature roses, white carnations and stephanotis.

Miss Cathie Bell of Fairgrove served as her sister's maid of honor. Also attending the bride were Mrs. Gary Ashbreck of Caro, Miss Gloria Marshall, niece of the groom, of Cass City and flower girl, Miss Gayle Bond, the groom's niece, of Lansing.

The attendants wore floor-length gowns of aqua centered white daisy netting over aqua satin. Their floor-length aqua veils were secured by single aqua-tipped white spider mums.

They carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and aqua daisies. The flower girl wore a floor-length gown of aqua-centered white daisies over white satin. Her headpiece and bouquet were miniatures of the bridesmaids'.

Serving the groom as best man was Lyle Holik, brother of the groom, of Caro. Groomsman were Wilbert Goodall of Cass City and Bill Bell, brother of the bride, of Fairgrove. Ringbearer was Master Robert Holik, nephew of the groom, of Cass City. Ushers were Steve Holik, the groom's nephew, of Caro and Dave Terry of Caro.

The mother of the bride chose a cage gown of light blue daisies over light blue whipped crepe, with matching accessories. The groom's mother chose a gown of pastel blue-grey and green with beige accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white gardenias and stephanotis.

Following a reception in the church parlors, the couple greeted guests at the home of the bride's parents for a buffet dinner.

Returning from a trip through Upper Michigan, Wisconsin and Indiana, the couple are now residing at Murray Trailer Park, North State St., Caro.

Hostetler's Hodgepodge

Bad pitch hurts golf swing

By Marion Hostetler

E. L. Schwaderer has been playing golf with Frank Reid for years, but until a couple of weeks ago he didn't know why Frank doesn't have much of a backswing.

In the early 1900's, several young men from Cass City found employment in the state hospital at Massillon, Ohio. The superintendent of the hospital at that time was a great baseball fan, and it was said that he would give a job to anybody who could play baseball.

Frank Reid was a pitcher on the Massillon city team at the age of 19. One hot summer day they were to play Mount Union, whose team has a reputation as the fastest base runners in the Ohio Circuit. Although Frank had pitched on the previous day, the catcher asked to have him pitch against Mount Union, because he had a very quick delivery which would give the catcher a better chance to put the other team out at the bases.

So Frank went to the mound for a second day in a row. It was the thirteenth inning and the score was 1-1. Frank let go with a fast one . . . and the ball fell to the ground halfway between the box and the plate. He had pulled a muscle in his upper arm, and that was the last baseball he ever pitched.

It was years before the strength came back into the arm. And even today, as I said, his backswing isn't very strong.

A local barber was making conversation with a young customer.

"Do you have a girl friend, Jimmy?" he asked.

"Oh, yes, two or three."

"You must have a radiant personality, to have so many girl friends."

Later, Jimmy's mother saw the barber on the street and asked, "What did you mean by what you said to Jimmy?"

"I don't know, what did I say?"

"Well, Jimmy came home after his last haircut and said, 'Mr. Tyo said I have something I don't think I have.' I looked his head over carefully, and I couldn't find a thing!"

A Doctor of Philosophy had a little daughter who was convalescing from a sore throat. She was supposed to stay in bed, but she kept getting up.

At last her father decided to explain why she needed to stay under the covers - how her body needed rest in order to have the strength to fight the germs that might otherwise make her even sicker, and even though she didn't like it very well just now it would be better for her general health in the long run, and so for her own good she ought to be patient and quiet.

Finally she interrupted him wearily with, "Oh, Daddy, why don't you just make me?"

Hundreds of little girls who are very accomplished at "getting their own way" would be much happier if their parents would just make them do what is right, without dawdling and without complaining.

A hillbilly was visiting her city cousin when, for the first time in her life, she saw two nuns walking down the street in their black habits.

She expressed surprise at this unusual costume, and the city cousin explained, "They are very good, religious women who live in a large house. There is a high stone wall all around the grounds, and no men are allowed inside the wall."

"They live in a place where there ain't no men at all?"

"That's right."

"Lordy, don't they go into deep mournin' about it?"

I have been pleasantly surprised at the number of friends and strangers who have told me they enjoy reading Hodgepodge. Just a couple of weeks ago, when I was in Huron County one afternoon, a man suggested a different, more dignified name for the column, and a woman said she intended to renew her subscription to the Chronicle because she liked to read this. Out of loyalty to the management I didn't tell her that since I am moving away this particular feature would soon come to a close.

But now she knows. And now it has.

It seems to be the rule of life that you receive many more complaints than compliments.

NEW PLANT MANAGER John Lyle, left, and Bill Leverich, former manager, exchange congratulations Friday. Observing is Ivan LaHaie, assistant plant manager of the auto division.

Lyle takes reins at Cass City's General Cable plant

Changes caused by the resignation of two General Cable executives were announced this week at the Cass City plant.

William Leverich and his immediate supervisor, John Scandlos, resigned their Cable posts to become vice-president and president of the Alpha division of the Loral Company in New Jersey.

Their resignation opened the way for the long anticipated rise to plant manager of John Lyle, Caro.

Lyle has been with Cable for two years and his rise to the top post here was rapid. He was made assistant manager a year ago and his appointment to manager had been anticipated since his first promotion.

For the last year, Lyle has been devoting most of his talents to the operation of the main plant while Leverich has been concentrating on making the new auto division go.

The new manager came to Cable with wide experience in plant work. He was an executive at Midwest Rubber Co. in Dekerville immediately prior to accepting a position with Cable.

Many residents recall his efforts at Walbro Corporation where he worked for several years.

Supervising the auto division here will be Ivan LaHaie, who joined Cable two weeks ago from a position in industry in Bay City.

Leverich was feted at a farewell party at the company offices Friday afternoon where he was presented a wrist watch from office and salaried employees.

While expressing his appreciation, Leverich said that he owed whatever success he had achieved in Cass City to the persons who worked with him.

"It was your efforts," he said, "that have made Cass City the number one plant in the corporation."

The reunion will be held at the same place the fourth Sunday in July, 1969.

Cass City coed at CMU orientation

Barbara J. Langenburg, Route 2, Cass City, attended the eighth pre-registration and orientation clinic of the summer at Central Michigan University.

Miss Langenburg is one of 300 CMU freshmen to register for fall classes and become acquainted with campus life during the July 30-31 period.

Presbyterian preachers listed

Preachers at the Presbyterian Church for the upcoming Sundays have been announced by James A. Milligan, clerk of the church session.

John Schubel of Grindstone City, a Methodist lay preacher and prosecuting attorney of Huron County, will preach Sunday. On Aug. 11, Rev. Aaron Hyde of Port Huron will speak. The Rev. Mr. Hyde has been active in youth work as a Presbyterian minister.

Rev. Donald Thiel of Pennington, N. J., will be vacationing in the area and will preach on Aug. 18. Aug. 25, Arthur Holmberg, Presbyterian elder and Cass City High School principal, will preach.

Rev. Melvin Vender, pastor emeritus of the Presbyterian Church, will be heard on Sept. 1.

All services begin at 11 a.m. The public is invited.

A man feels put out when he discovers he has been taken in.

Building fund and county fair

By Alfred P. Ballweg

The Youth Building Committee fund drive has now reached about the half-way mark, thanks to many individuals and organizations who have made contributions. It pleases me to know that people and organizations representing people have faith in the present and future generations of young folks who will use the new exhibit facilities at this 1968 fair and other fairs that will follow for many years to come.

Organizations and individuals who have made contributions so far, to name a few are: Tuscola County Farm Bureau, Tuscola County National Farmers Organization, County 4-H Council, 4-H Mothers Club, 4-H Service Club, Tuscola County Soil Conservation District, State Representative Harry Rohlf, Vocational Agriculture Department of the Akron-Fairgrove School, Other business groups and individuals have contributed.

A certificate entitled "An Investment in the Youth of Tuscola County" will be made out and sent to all donors as soon as time and help will permit. Many other organizations and individuals have still to be contacted before the fund drive is completed and the goal of $6,800.00 is reached. I also hope that we can publish in all county papers when the drive is completed the names of all donors to this worthy project.

The 1968 eighty-seventh Tuscola County Fair is now under way with all of the excitement that goes along with a truly county fair. Fairs like everything else have changed with a changing agriculture. We need only to view the livestock exhibits, especially dairy, to see how the number of dairy exhibits at the fair has gone down with the number of dairy farmers in the county. The same is true of other livestock such as swine, sheep and poultry. While projects like dairy, beef, swine and sheep have gone down, light horse projects have gone up for many 4-H groups throughout the county. This type of project does not have the economic value for example that a dairy project would have. It does provide the kind of project adapted to 4-H work throughout our county. The horse can draw the interest of youth and keep them active in doing worthwhile activities.

A county fair is a beehive of activity by a lot of people. One need only to observe the endless hours of work put in by local leaders of 4-H groups. This actually starts right after the fair is over and reaches a peak before the next year's fair gets under way.

In our new office location at the Civil Defense Center I have had an opportunity to observe the large number of 4-H and Vocational Agriculture leaders who even stood in line to make their club entries and to get answers to questions about member participation in the fair. This service to youth by leaders and others is all done on a voluntary basis without pay. The only compensation is satisfaction for having extended a helping hand to some interested boy or girl. This is what has helped to build a better America and an agriculture that is second to none. Come and visit the Tuscola County Fair and while you are there, take a good look at the new Youth Exhibit Building.

"If It Fitz..."

1,2,3--count those bodies

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Like the man who flipped over Marilyn Monroe because he liked her voice, too many people are still getting excited about the right things for the wrong reasons.

For example, take Lt. Col. Richard McMahon, an army intelligence officer who made all the newspapers recently when he blasted the body count. That's the incredible system whereby the U.S. somehow counts the enemy dead and then uses the bloody statistics to gauge the progress of the Vietnam war.

The result is a daily report to the public, telling how many Viet Cong have been killed in the past 24 hours. There's nothing about regaining lost ground and liberating occupied cities, as in World War II. The obvious conclusion is that the U.S. is in Vietnam simply to kill and keep close count of the bodies - every rifle platoon must have its own scorekeeper. Of course, there's another, more valid conclusion: The U.S. is desperately trying to prove it is winning a game it should not be in, and can't possibly win. And we are reduced to weighing blood to prove that the good guys are ahead.

So it was gratifying to read that an intelligence officer disapproved of the body count. But my gratification turned sour after the first paragraph. I deplore the count because it is a ghastly spit in the face of civilized man. But Col. McMahon is against it for a far different reason - some of the counters are cheating. They are padding the figures - watering the blood, you might say - thus upsetting battle plans, for goodness sake.

No kidding. McMahon said the body count was started as "an attempt to make sure that only enemy dead physically observed would be reported." This was to prevent hearsay evidence. You can't say your buddy splattered 2 Cong on the other side of the hill. You have to go see those Cong yourself, or don't report them. I guess each corpse is chalked X to make sure it isn't counted twice. At any rate, all of this was OK with McMahon. He didn't get bugged until it became apparent that some of the boys were bragging more than they were killing.

"Some American and many South Vietnamese units began submitting estimates which reflected favorably on their prowess," McMahon explained. Please note how he said just "some" Americans but "many" South Vietnamese were claiming more blood than they were spilling. Our white hat might occasionally get soiled along the brim, but it is still the whitest hat in the world, by golly, and you'd better believe it. Actually, it's those little gooks who counted most of the bodies that weren't there.

McMahon urges that the body count be dropped altogether because battle plans based on "exaggerated enemy casualties can result in disaster."

In other words, a U.S. platoon might attack a village where there is supposed to be only 10 Cong because 50 were killed there this morning. Cpl. Cribber counted them himself. But the corporal was bucking for sergeant and he multiplied when he should have added. There's actually 30 Cong in the village and the U.S. platoon is wiped out. And the Cong will probably count it as a regiment, thus proving that killers can be liars on both sides of a war.

I can see why Col. McMahon is unhappy with the body count and he has my grudging sympathy. But I wonder if he, like too much of the world, sees only digits and less firepower when he reads that "89 Viet Cong were killed this morning."

It is too bad the body count statistics can't include such information as: "One of the 89 killed was Joe Wong, 22-year-old father of 2 children. He never saw his baby son. He is also survived by his wife and parents who loved him. Joe Wong had planned to complete his university studies and become a research scientist. He might have discovered the cure for cancer. Or he might just have lived to be 72 and have 3 more children and some grand-children and be happy on a lot of days, and sad on other days. He might have caught some fish with that son he never saw."

Before the hawks start sticking me with pencils, let me hasten to say - I know it works both ways. I would like to see the counts of American bodies published the same way. I don't for one minute say the Viet Cong are right and the Americans are wrong. I say they are both wrong; civilization is horribly wrong. When a people can count crushed young bodies the same way they'd count fallen logs, something is grievously wrong.

While stuffed shirts hold endless peace talks in Paris, boys are being killed and only the immediate survivors weep. And we have people getting excited about the correct way to count their bodies.

For God's sake, let's get excited about the killing.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross

Grandparents can make a rich contribution to family living.

Both "mothers-in-law" suddenly become lovable grandmothers with the birth of the first baby, and they answer more emergency calls than public services.

Distances make a difference, but grandma appears when there is a sudden illness and she can keep the children when parents go on a planned vacation. When she lives nearby, she can answer the call for a babysitter.

But grandmothers shouldn't always be available for babysitting. Remember, Grandmother, you have a life of your own, too.

Home economists agree that both grandmother and grandfather have a meaningful contribution to make. They can give an extra measure of love which can be a real tonic to a child. They offer a chance for the child to "get away from it all." It can be a precious emotional change for a child to have an adult all to himself, especially when there are several young children in one family. Grandparents can tell stories of times when they were young to give children a picture of another generation in another setting. Grandparents have time to listen, something which busy young mothers cannot always do.

But grandparents must be practical and remember that the parents are responsible for their children. Grandparents can help build confidence by being interested in what the parents are doing. Since they have lived through all stages of childrearing, they can help both young parents and grandchildren over some hurdles.

Make being a grandparent an avocation, not a career. Be as courteous to others as you'd like others to be to you.

Behind the Counter Skin Disorders

An American drug company recently conducted a survey to see how much we spend on six common skin disorders: acne, dermatitis, eczema, fungal diseases (such as athlete's foot), psoriasis and warts. The study included only prescription drugs, but the annual total was over 100 million dollars.

In addition, millions more are spent on other skin disorders, such as hives and impetigo, and on over-the-counter lotions and remedies, such as zinc oxide and calamine. Despite the wonder drugs and new treatments, skin disorders are still a major medical problem.

Dermatologists have some helpful advice for those suffering from such disorders:

1) If a rash or sore continues after the suspected cause has been removed, or if any growth, bleed, becomes sore, increases in size, or changes its color or appearance - seek medical help. Applying home remedies may only mask the true condition, or convert a simple problem into a chronic one.

2) Avoid scratching as much as possible, since this speeds up inflammation. Calamine lotion is better than a back scratcher.

3) To avoid a rash spreading or re-occurring, discard or disinfect anything that has come in contact with the affected area.

4) Never borrow another person's medication. Both your condition and your reaction to the drug may be different.

5) If you have a dry skin itch, you may be taking too many baths. Cut them down to one a week, plus daily sponge baths.

Passing Through

If you can't lick 'em...

BY LARRY WERNER

There has been much talk about the generation gap in this country, but there has been little done to close that gap.

While sitting at my desk in the Chronicle office, watching the bustling activity on Main Street and listening to the sound of my hair turning grey, I decided that before I'm too old I am going to do something about the now-proverbial gap between the generations.

Initially, I asked myself what I could do to restore harmony between the older set and my generation. Secondly, I got into an argument with my boss about the racial problem and whose generation is doing more to solve it. Thirdly, I decided that if I can get into an argument like this while trying to close the generation gap that my project is futile.

I decided that there is no generation gap. It's a generation wall. And, baby, it's higher than the Great Wall of China and thicker than the collective heads of the older generation.

So what now? They say, "If you can't lick 'em join 'em." And this is what the younger generation does. It joins the older generation.

By the time appeals of the original free speech demonstrators at Berkeley came to court, the young radicals were no longer young, and no longer radical. So they paid their fines and went home to their screaming kids and television soap operas.

It's sad, real sad. But that's life. Exciting, dynamic ideas die as exciting, dynamic thinkers get older, more apathetic and less productive.

Leaping the generation wall seems to leave little energy for saving the world. The wall still exists, but suddenly you, my young friend, are on the other side.

As long as I cannot fell the generation wall---or close the generation gap, if you prefer that terminology---let me offer some tips to those who are wondering, as I am, if perhaps they are starting to "join 'em," starting to get old.

I think I am a capable counsel on this subject. Having recently reached my 21st birthday, I feel sort of in the middle of the two ages, in a modified "twilight zone."

You are getting old when you start shopping for a Volkswagen with power steering.

You are getting old when a suggestion that you look young sounds good.

You are getting old when you train your dog to stand up and hand you the stick during a game of fetch 'em, so that you won't have to bend over to take it from him.

You are getting old when you find yourself using your hand to lift your foot from the accelerator onto the brake.

You are getting old when you buy a felt-tipped pen because it's easier to push.

You are getting old when you start acting like a kid because you realize that you no longer are one.

You are getting old when you find yourself chewing apple sauce.

You are getting old when you join a softball team even though it is less fun than it used to be and it hurts more.

You are getting old when you begin to attend church more frequently even though you don't believe any more fervently than you did before.

You are getting old when rain hurts.

Finally, you are getting old when you become so obsessed with the phenomenon of aging that you feel compelled to write about it.

So, au revoir oh days of dynamism! Farewell productive youth! The stagnant years are just the other side of the generation wall, and I feel my tired old bones fast approaching.

The sure sign came yesterday. I agreed with my father.

No man is fully educated until he learns to read himself.

People who are quick to take offense can always be certain of a plentiful supply.

'Three-day' scum called duckweed

By Alfred Ballweg

Troubled by a bright green "scum" on your pond or lake about three days a week?

The "scum" is probably thousands of tiny aquatic plants called duckweed which float and drift with the wind.

Sometimes duckweed enters a pond from an adjoining marsh or stream. Any means of keeping it from entering the pond will alleviate the problem.

These tiny weeds, about an eighth inch in diameter, may nearly cover a pond one day and the next day be blown into thick windrows on the shore. If left on the bank, duckweed will rot and create offensive odors and sights.

In areas where duckweed is not a nuisance, it should be allowed to grow as food for wildlife. Where it does create problems with other uses of the pond, it should be eradicated.

Duckweed reproduces rapidly by the division of parent plants, which makes control difficult.

During an experiment conducted at Michigan State University last summer, duckweed grew at the rate of one ton (wet weight) per acre per week. The amount present on a pond or lake may exceed three tons (wet weight) per acre.

Herbicides will control duckweed if applied early in the growing season when the affected areas are small. But it may be treated at any time of the year.

The duckweed on the water and wet pond margins should be thoroughly and directly covered by a fine spray. Aquathol, Diquat, Hydrothol 47 (Conservation Department permit required for use if water empties into natural watershed) and Hydrothol 191 are recommended at a spray concentration of one cup per four gallons of water. The restrictions on the label should be read and carefully observed.

MSU scientists are experimenting with fish which eat duckweed readily, but this type of control is still only a hope for the future.

Man's toughest fight is trying to beat his way through life.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Good sense. Your Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association reminds you to pay heed to these words of wisdom. Make sure you get your regular medical check up. Enjoy good health.

Municipal income taxes provide needed revenue

CITY INCOME TAX

Demands for more city services have forced nine Michigan municipalities to adopt a city income tax. Other cities are sure to follow suit. The income levy has been found to be an effective means to raise needed revenue without adding burden to property taxes.

Taxation of income by local government, although not used in Michigan until Detroit's adoption in 1962, actually began in 1939 in the District of Columbia, notes Avon M. Dreyer, Professor of Economics at Central Michigan University. By the end of 1967, some 171 cities in eight states had begun to levy income taxes.

Indicates that Michigan Supreme Court Justices, who receive $35,000 per year, are the fourth highest paid in the nation. New York pays $39,500; Pennsylvania and Illinois pay $37,500. All four states have seven high court judges. Michigan had eight until Justice Theodore Souris resigned earlier this year.

$32,500. Arizona and New Mexico pay the least, $18,500 per year. The average salary across all states is $27,118.

A pessimist is a sentimental optimist who expected too much.

Don't ignore persistent coughing or shortness of breath. Your Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association advises these symptoms may indicate the presence of a respiratory ailment. See your doctor. Protect your health.

Compensation for "intermediate" Appellate Court judges shows the same variation: New York, $33,500 to $40,000; Pennsylvania, $35,500; Illinois, $35,000; Michigan, Uniformity of a sort was provided by the 1964 City Income Tax Act. The legislation permits municipalities to levy a flat rate one percent tax on residents and one-half percent on non-residents working within the city limits. Other provisions deal with business and industry profits. The act was deemed necessary to prevent a wide variation in bases and rates and to control maximum rates established by cities.

Cities have found the income tax somewhat difficult to administer. Critics charge that it is an "upside down income tax," based on the inability to avoid rather than the ability to pay. While it is comparatively easy to determine city residents, enforcing the tax on "outsiders" can be difficult.

Non-resident taxpayers must pay only that portion of wages earned within the city. Employees hired on a contract basis, or those with more than one place of employment present difficult problems. Renters who work outside of the city present other problems. Statistics on the amount of non-taxable insurance, annuity, and retirement income are not readily available. Corporate profit figures are not published on a local basis.

These problems and others make the city income tax costly as well as difficult to collect. A study of Mt. Pleasant in 1966 indicated that the collection cost would run as high as 13 percent, a direct reflection of the need to establish a separate tax office, staffed by competent personnel.

The blow of a city income tax may be softened by two factors: a reduction in property taxes, and a legal deduction against both state and federal income taxes.

Any property tax reduction depends upon the action of city government when the income tax is adopted. A substantial reduction was granted to Lansing residents, but the tax expert cautions that a city adopting the tax probably does so to wipe out deficits or increase service. In most instances, it is the school rather than the city which accounts for the major burden on property.

Dreyer notes that city tax reduces the taxable income for state and federal purposes. For example, a married man with two children who earns $10,000 a year and is taxed $76 at the city level would find his state and federal income taxes reduced by $29.66. The "real" cost of the city tax would be $46.34.

The tax is not a popular one, and ten percent of the voters can bring it back for voter reconsideration. Dreyer reminds that the tax is one of the very few ways cities can meet demands for more services with present revenue.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mr. Editor,

Ed Doolittle started off the session at the country store Saturday night by predicting the next President would be a Republican and the odds on him getting appointed Commissioner of Agriculture was improving every day.

Clem Webster of the Great Society said they wasn't no chance on a Republican making it for President in 1968 but on account of him believing in free speech, he was willing to let Ed offer some more of his program for Agriculture.

Ed had his clippings ready, Mister Editor, and was quick to take to the stump. First off, he said, "people on farms and ranches has dropped by half since 1950 and during that time agriculture production has more than doubled. He reported the price supports and hand-outs had cost the taxpayers $51 billion in the last 35 years. He claimed three-fourths of the farmers say they want the Government to get out of farming, but the more the people say they don't want the hand-outs the more Government gets into it. They'll set a limit on how many acres of cotton a farmer can grow and turn right around and hire three new experts to tell the farmer how to raise more cotton to the acre.

Farthermore, said Ed, he had saw where they have added 1,400 more people to the Agriculture Department payroll since September 1, 1967, and he didn't see no chance of easing off on the taxpayers with that kind of program.

Zeke Grubb said he was disagreed with Ed on price supports, claimed they ain't much profit margin in raising chickens, for instance, when you get less for the chickens than the feed costs to raise 'em.

Seeing as how he was gitting a little help from Zeke, Clem butted in to say he had saw in his pamphlet from the Department of Agriculture where a farmer would have to have 170 per cent price increase to get back from his investment what he could fit in any other line of work. If it wasn't for price supports, said Clem, we would have a "poor farmers" march on Washington and the place wasn't big enough to hold 'em.

They ain't no way, Mister Editor, to run this country that'll make all the fellers at the country store happy. I was reading where the U. S. Public Health Service spent $39,500 on a survey to find out what makes people happy. They come up with three things, youth, health, and money, and the fellers at the store was short on all three.

I didn't report on this item Saturday night, Mister Editor, on account of Ed would've had a fit over that $39,500 and maybe announced he was passing up Agriculture for a chance to be Commissioner of Public Health.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

H O W I believe a supervisor should conduct himself or herself in office.

Honest desire to serve all the people in the district. Honesty like charity begins at home and I think it is unlikely that we can be honest with someone else if we can not be honest with ourselves.

Open mindedness is a prevailing attitude that should not be turned on and off. If a supervisor is to constantly seek and do the will of the people he or she must maintain an open mind.

Willingness is a virtue that is necessary to get the job done. I believe that whoever is eventually elected should be willing to seek new avenues and explore new methods and means of solving the many community problems that will be facing us in the times ahead and those that are upon us now.

Now legend has it that the Indians used the word HOW as a friendly greeting, and I am saying to you now, H O W, and by His divine grace I shall try to practice the meaning of HOW. If you also like HOW and would like a supervisor to practice these principles -- remember me. When ? Aug. 6th. Where ? at your local voting booth.

The next time we meet, will you give me the H O W sign? thanks
