

Bid disagreement persists

Nine per cent cost jump to place school in red

Increasing costs are expected to jump expenses at Cass City High School $85,595 and total costs for the 1968-69 school year will reach $927,595, according to a partial budget submitted by Supt. Donald Crouse to the school board Monday night.

The approximate nine per cent cost increase is expected to push the district some $24,000 in the red by the end of the fiscal year, Crouse claimed.

Of the proposed increase in expenses, over $50,000 is for the cost of instruction, reflecting increased salaries and the addition of teachers this year.

While expenses increased generally, in most operations, the students' activities fund decreased.

Athletics, which last year cost $3,858, was cut to $1,500 and general shop was granted $1,000 as compared to $2,261 spent in 1967-68.

Increases in the farm shop and cafeteria boosted total expenses to $4,000 in the budget, $2,499 less than was spent the previous year.

The budget meeting will be combined with the annual meeting and the regular monthly board meeting will be held immediately following.

The board meeting was shoved up a week from its usual meeting date because of a scheduled Wyoming vacation for the superintendent that conflicts with the regular board meeting date.

ACCEPT QUOTES

Bids accepted by the board for milk and meat resulted in a sharp debate among board members and a change in the contract recommended by the bid opening committee.

The bids for meat for the cafeteria caused no problems. Gross & O'Harris was awarded the ground beef contract for 52 cents per pound and Erla's the hot dog sales at 43 cents per pound. Both were low bids.

The controversy stemmed from the awarding of the milk contracts. Originally, bids were received at .065 and .067 for white and chocolate milk from London's and for .0639 and .0689 for the same products from Sani-Seal.

London's was asked to submit a new bid and the final bids were:

For white milk, London's .064 and Sani-Seal .0639. For chocolate milk, Sani-Seal .0689 and London's, .069.

The committee had recommended that London's receive the business and it was awarded on a temporary basis. However, other members of the board said that they could see no reason for the discrimination and voted to take the business from London's and give it to Sani-Seal.

COACH JOHN BIFOSS is more worried about Mt. Morris on Friday the 13th than he is about any unlucky jinx. After all, it's Friday the 13th for both teams. But newly elected co-captains, Gary Vollmar and Tom Guinther, believe in playing it safe. They are determined that any hexes will be on Mt. Morris. For a run down on the team as the curtain lifts see story inside pages.

Board makes hefty wage boosts official

The Cass City Board of Education made official hefty raises for administrative personnel that ranged from $900 to $1,500 yearly for each of six supervisors in the system, Monday night in its regular session at Cass City High School.

The raises had been decided at secret sessions held earlier by the board and passed Monday without comment or discussion.

Total cost of the raises to the taxpayer will be $8,200. The new schedules went into effect July 1, 1968, and will continue through June 30, 1969.

The old and new pay scales are:

UNEXPECTED HELP

The proposed deficit is not as great as originally planned, Crouse said, because of an unexpected increase in enrollment.

It looks as if, Crouse explained, there will be some 40 more pupils in the school this year than anticipated. Total enrollment is expected to be around 1,895 pupils at census time.

Members of the district will have an opportunity to review the budget at the budget meeting slated Monday, Oct. 7, at 7:30 p.m.

UP CHARGES

Because of the recent wage increase, charges for custodians and cooks working at functions of civic groups were adjusted.

The new rate calls for a flat $3.50 per hour for custodians at all schools. Charge for cooks will be $3.00 per hour at the intermediate and three grade schools and $3.50 at the high school.

The previous rate was $3.15 for custodians while the cook rate was upped 50 cents at all schools.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

There is some justification for an accusation of prejudice here in the endorsement of Al DeGrow for State Senator, as DeGrow's younger son dates our elder daughter.

But I knew the father long before we had the son parked in our living room.

With 12 candidates from scattered points through the 28th district it's impossible for all but the most diligent to assess them.

We confess: we can't even name them all, let alone tell about their qualifications.

DeGrow's background is good; you can assess it for yourself in the resume he presents in his ads.

We name him here not because of his record, but because of our personal knowledge of his ability and his penchant for public service.

He has been active in community affairs, often at a large personal expense, throughout the 10 years that we have known him.

If he makes it to Lansing, he will be sacrificing personal income again for an opportunity for public service.

The $12,500-a-year job with $2,500 more in expenses is probably considerably less than his income as a successful store owner.

It's certain that DeGrow will be a young, honest, dedicated and resourceful Senator giving a voice to the Upper Thumb at Lansing; if enough of you favor him at the polls Tuesday.

Marked to my personal attention this week was a letter from John F. Bammel on an impressive Saginaw Steering Gear Division letterhead.

The letter commended the Chronicle in glowing terms for having a writer of Larry Werner's stature on the staff and enclosed a well-written article that Werner produced in behalf

Heirlooms for sale

'Garage sale' fad sweeping Cass City

Are your closets brimming with clothes your children have outgrown? Are grandma's old dishes cluttering up your cupboards? Has your husband outgrown his electric train set? Don't throw these things away.

Have a garage sale.

If you have been listening to the radio, reading newspaper want ads or simply driving through Cass City lately, you have probably noticed that garage sales have become more popular than Denny McLain.

They are not restricted to garages. Mrs. Stanley Guinther had one, and she does not have a garage.

But wherever they are held, they appear to be "the thing" in Cass City. An unofficial count by The Chronicle reveals more than a dozen such sales in the past two weeks.

So what's the story? What is a garage sale?

A thorough investigation of the situation revealed that a garage sale is nothing more than an old-fashioned rummage sale. But, as Mrs. Jon Fahrner pointed out, "Garage sounds better than rummage."

Mrs. Fahrner also pointed out one of the major drawbacks to calling your rummage sale a garage sale.

"One guy stopped by and asked if our garage was for sale," she said.

The advantages seem to outweigh the disadvantages, in most cases. Only one Cass City garage saleswoman said, "I don't think I'll do it again."

That was Mrs. Earl Woolner. She combined the results of housecleaning with that of other women and offered her home as the temporary store. The labor involved in carrying material into the house every night just was not worth it, she said.

"We took 10 boxes of clothes that were left over to Salvation Army," Mrs. Woolner added. Garage sales originate for a number of reasons Mrs. Guinther and Irene Stafford had sales because they had moved recently.

"There were things left in the house into which we moved which we did not want," Mrs. Guinther said. "And there are things we had in the other house which we can't use here."

Miss Stafford has sold her house and is moving to Florida. The expense involved in shipping her furniture and appliances to her new home has inspired a garage sale.

Miss Stafford moved her merchandise into her sister's garage, and the sale was underway.

"It's gone awfully good," Miss Stafford said. "It's better than an auction, since an auctioneer has to let the items go at the top price, I put what I think is a fair price on something. If they don't want to pay it, I keep the item."

Most garage sales result from hand-me-downs not getting handed down or the accumulation of gifts, heirlooms and other valuables. The time comes when the woman of the house decides that enough is enough and out go the old clothes and heirlooms.

"We had so much clothing," Mrs. Woolner said. "People don't appreciate it if you just give it to them, so three of us went in together on a sale."

Grandfather's grandfather clock, the old lamp which never did go with the furniture and those dishes your mother-in-law gave you when you were married may all be collectors' items now. Those who have held sales in the village report that antiques and old dishes are the PSYCHEDELIC. Dorothy Phillips and Marilyn Tyo display one of the more eye-catching bargains at their garage sale.

NO PLACE LIKE HOME. Many American migrant workers do not stay in one place long enough to call it home. Life consists of "following the crops" from one end of the country to the other. When the migrants find growers who need laborers, they move into ramshackle camps like this one at Colling.

The lost people of shanty town

BY LARRY WERNER

AN INSTITUTION

A half dozen children occupy themselves by climbing in and out of an old car while their mother carries water from the camp's centrally-located pump.

The sun is sinking into the rolling farm terrain of Michigan's Thumb as workers, exhausted from another day of "stoop labor," drive into the little settlement.

Supper and sleep are followed by another day of hard work, then return to a shanty town where only small children and a few women remain during the warm summer days.

One day, the tiny, run-down shacks will be empty. The inhabitants of a crude, wooden community on a dirt road in Colling will have moved on to another job and another shanty town.

In a country where computers have found their way into most industries, the migrant worker is still an institution --- doing work too simple for computers, too seasonal for local laborers but crucial as ever to the American farmer.

The migrant works in the sugar beet fields of the Thumb, cherry orchards on the shore of Lake Michigan and potato farms of the Saginaw Valley.

Most common in this area are the Spanish-speaking migrants, whose "homes" are in Texas where they rarely stay for long. For their livelihood is where they can find it, wherever farmers need someone to do the unpopular work of hoeing and hand-harvesting.

Travelling from crop to crop, living briefly --- if at all --- in permanent homes, the American migrant workers are

In many ways a lost people. And they are a poor people, working for a minimal hourly wage or a small percentage of whatever they are asked to harvest.

MCCONKEY CONCERNED

It is these two aspects of the migrant workers --- their lost and their impoverished conditions --- with which a Cass City jeweler, Keith McConkey, is concerned.

McConkey, member and past president of both the Cass City Council of Churches and the Huron Tuscola Migrant Mission, has worked through these organizations to make the migrants feel that they "have a place in the community" and to provide clothing and other items which the migrants lack.

"I used to wait on the migrant workers when I was in the grocery business," McConkey recalled. "I got to know them, and when the time came when there was a way for me to help, I became involved."

The Cass City Council of Churches "adopts" a migrant camp each summer. The council distributes warm clothing to the workers when they come each spring. They arrive late in May, annually unprepared for Michigan weather.

The weather is hard on the southern visitors, and the camp shacks which growers provide for the laborers are usually unheated.

"We've had snow two feet deep when they were here," McConkey said. "When that migrant drives into camp, we are there to meet him and to distribute clothing. They don't have clothing to combat the cold weather."

MESSAGE OF FAITH

The Migrant Mission provides the camp with a Spanish-speaking minister. Children in the camp are invited to Daily Vacation Bible School classes. "We bring them a message of faith," McConkey said. "And they can use it the way they want."

The Council of Churches has solicited used refrigerators and washing machines for the camp. There is but one refrigerator at the camp in Colling. It was donated by the council three years ago.

McConkey and others involved in these projects pay frequent visits to camps. They provide entertainment and instruction.

"We try to make their stay just a little more pleasant," McConkey said.

12 run for senate seat

Twelve candidates, eight from St. Clair County, are on the ballot for the Sept. 17 special primary election, which is being held to find a replacement for retiring State Senator Frank Beadle.

Beadle (R-St. Clair) has resigned with two years remaining on his four-year term. Two candidates, Leslie D. Allen and Lyle J. Mackie, are from Sanilac County. One candidate, Alton Renvey of Akron, is from Tuscola County, and Alvin J. DeGrow is the lone Huron County candidate.

Alexander Wnuk of St. Clair County is the only Democrat in the running.

The rest of the candidates, all St. Clair County Republicans, are: John W. Jensen, William J. Pettengill, Jose Rodriguez, Adolph D. Shay, Richard S. Somerville, Clayton L. Berdan and U. Grant Burch Jr.

The position of state senator in Michigan pays $12,500 a year with a $2,500 expense allotment. According to Tuscola County Clerk Archie Hicks, "about 6,000" of the county's 18,900 registered voters are expected to turn out for the special primary. Less than 9,000 voted in the regular Aug. 6 primary.

Can you always believe what your eyes tell you? An American tourist in a foreign country boasted of the wonders of his own land. "Why, we have telescopes that let us see millions of stars!"

He was jolted by the native's reply, "Maybe you see millions of stars and nothing beyond. We see only a few stars and God."

Are you looking for the stars and missing God . . . or harnessing the atom and losing your security . . . or chasing rainbows and missing the gold?

All of us need to look for what the heart can feel, not just what the eyes can see. We need to find God. Why not look for Him in church Sunday? He is waiting for you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

One For The Road Tri-county needs DeGrow

By Dan Marlowe

On Tuesday, September 17th, the voters of Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola counties will be presented with a rare opportunity.

September 17th is the date of the special election on which voters in the 28th District will go to the polls to select a successor to retiring State Senator Frank Beadle.

The 28th District includes St. Clair County in addition to Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola. Since St. Clair County has more votes than the tri-county area, St. Clair County has been the tail that wagged the dog on matters affecting the district.

In other words, a candidate from St. Clair County had a built-in advantage in the past, and the tri-county area had a bit less representation than it might have liked.

Frank Beadle was a good senator, but he was a St. Clair County man and therefore St. Clair County oriented.

This situation can be changed on September 17th. At the moment of writing, 10 candidates have filed from St. Clair County for the vacated spot. If the numerous candidates split the vote, as seems likely, voters in Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola by uniting behind a qualified man can elect a State Senator from the Upper Thumb area.

A candidate who merits your consideration is Alvin J. DeGrow of Pigeon. A political ad in these pages lists his numerous qualifications for the post, but it is in the intangibles which go to make up the sum total of a candidate that Al DeGrow is outstanding to the point where he deserves your support.

He is hardworking, for instance, as witness his broad background in business, school, civic, fraternal, farm, and veteran affairs.

He is a master of detail who never becomes so involved in detail that he can't see the forest for the trees.

He is a humanitarian, as witness his 17-year involvement in the study exchange program. The Experiment for International Living, Judy and Al DeGrow and their children have hosted well over a hundred foreign students in their home.

He is aware of the problems of the area. His interest in education and the tax structure which induced him to enter the race.

So put a circle around the date of Tuesday, September 17, on your calendars, voters of the tri-county area.

Write down the name of Al DeGrow inside the circle so you can't forget it.

Then vote for him on September 17th.

You'll be doing yourself, your community, your county, and your district a favor.

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Eulen

Although quarterbacks are supposed to be the brainiest men on a football team, it's surprising how few of them become head coaches. . . In the National and American Football Leagues this season, only 3 of the 26 head coaches are former pro quarterbacks -- New York's Allie Sherman, . . . Washington's Otto Graham, . . . And, Oakland's Johnny Rauch.

Ever wonder why football stadiums are called stadiums? . . . According to word experts, here's the story. . . In ancient Greece, the word "stadium" was used to identify a certain distance, just as we use the word "mile", for example, to identify 5280 feet. . . In Greece, the word stadium meant 630 feet. . . In early Olympic games they had races of 630 feet which were, therefore, called stadium races. . . And the track for the stadium race was exactly 630 feet long and so the track itself also was called a stadium. . . Then, eventually, the Greeks would say they were going to the track, or to the stadium, to see a race. . . It wasn't long before the word stadium was used -- not for 630 feet anymore -- but for any place where people went to see a sports event.

Did you know that many small towns once held franchises in the National Football League? . . . For instance, Marion, Ohio was in the NFL in 1922 and 1923. . . Hammond, Ind., from 1922-26. . . Kenosha, Wisc., in 1924. . . Orange, N.J., in 1929. . . And Pottsville, Pa., was in the league from 1925 to 1928.

Drug Costs

Although we say our health is priceless, there's a limit to the price we can pay for health care.

The average American paid 50% more for medical expenses in 1966 than in 1960.

During the same period, the price of "all items" measured by the C.P.I. rose by 16%.

If you're old enough to remember the drugs prescribed 30 or 40 years ago, you'll realize you're now getting more value for your dollar.

It Seems To Me Foibles of flying for fun By Rev. R. J. Searls

Well, with the passing of Labor Day, my vacation from writing a weekly column ends. You might be interested to know that my work as a columnist started fifteen years ago as a book reviewer.

During one winter month, a year ago, I discovered that I had obligated myself to write reviews of seven different books! I had to read seven different books, write a review of all seven, and mail them to seven different publishers.

Well, how was your vacation this summer? I promise to listen to your summer tales, right after you promise to listen to mine! And, Boy, did we have ourselves a time!

The net result found daughter Marsha and her parents promptly going to the Tri-City airport to buy tickets and make reservations from Tri-City to O'Hare airport, and from there, to Sea-Tac (made up from the two major cities served by the airport -- Seattle, and Tacoma.)

Finally, long after the time when we ordinarily eat our main meal, we were placed on a flight as 'stand-by passengers' after waiting in an office for half-an-hour.

Mrs. Searls thought of the concern, caused by the air lines indifference, to the confused and wondering people waiting at Sea-Tac Airport. After hearing of our experience a stewardess talked to the pilot who in turn talked to the tower at Sea-Tac, who got the pertinent information to those (including my parents-in-law) who were waiting for passengers.

Clean-Water proposal, if approved by voters, will help finance new sewage treatment plants, improvements to existing plants, and loans for new sewers. Some 150 communities are currently in violation of Michigan's pollution control law.

Michigan Mirror

UAW response mixed to proposal

YES BUT NO

Enthusiastic lack of support for Michigan's Quality Recreation proposal was shown by the United Auto Workers union at a meeting of state leaders.

Governor Romney introduced two separate but related programs to the group. One, designed to reduce water pollution, received support from those present, including the UAW.

The second, which finances expanded recreation, was subject for UAW criticism. Serafini, who said he spoke for Walter Reuther, argued that the $30 million designated for local parks was too little and not likely to encourage parks where he thought they were needed most.

He expressed concern that the proposal would not result in parks in the densely populated areas of Detroit, Grand Rapids, Flint and other highly urban communities. Instead, Serafini charged, the parks would be located in suburbs and cities where they would be more available to wealthier people.

The Governor and conservation officials agreed that further consideration of the points he made would take place promptly.

Present plans call for a $100 million recreation proposal and a $335 million water pollution control proposal on the November ballot.

Proponents stress that the bonds can be sold with no increase in taxes. Retirement of other bond issues and economic growth will provide enough revenue to cover principal and interest payments within the present tax structure.

The $30 million earmarked for local recreation facilities would be available to communities on a matching basis with the state paying 75 percent of costs. The remaining $70 million would be spent for state parks, fishing areas, fish hatcheries, forest campgrounds, hunting areas, hiking trails, snowmobile trails, etc.

About $50 million would be earmarked for sewer construction and $285 million for treatment plant construction

Mothers should be glad to know that vaccines for six major diseases have brought a decline in smallpox, diphtheria, polio, tetanus, whooping cough and measles.

The Michigan Department of Public Health reported that in 1967 there were no smallpox cases, only one case of diphtheria, three cases of polio and seven of tetanus. Whooping cough and measles, however, still accounted for major concern.

Whooping cough vaccine has been available for many years. The department points out that over 70 percent of the 1,058 cases reported last year occurred in the central portion of Detroit, largely in the impoverished areas.

Mumps may soon show the decline of other communicable diseases, the department noted. In 1967, some 18,022 cases of mumps were reported; 62 led to postinfectious encephalitis.

Tuberculosis continued to decrease; 1,900 new cases were reported, down 400 from 1966. Venereal diseases increased about three percent over 1966 with 3,905 cases of syphilis and 12,777 cases of gonorrhea reported.

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held August 27th at the Municipal Building. All members were present.

The minutes of the regular July meeting were read and approved.

The financial report for July was reviewed and approved. President Althaver introduced Mr. Ron Jennings, a representative of the Wesley Milk Plant. Mr. Jennings requested that the sewer rates which have been applied be raised at a slower rate until recirculating equipment can be installed.

After the assembly we went to our homerooms where we found out our class schedule, locker number and combination. During the rest of the afternoon we spent about ten minutes in each one of our classes, meeting our teachers, finding out what they expect of us, and in some cases, getting homework assignment. (Bah! School wouldn't be half bad if it wasn't for homework.)

Wednesday was the day everybody had to try to adjust to their new schedule. (After a lazy summer, it sure is hard to settle down to a strict routine!) One group of students who really had a hard time adjusting were the Freshmen. I've never seen a group of more confused, scared Freshmen in all my school days! Naturally, they have it a little rougher the first week what with every upperclassman chasing them around with lipstick, putting bright red "F's" on their faces! (Tee-hee)

The Landfill Committee reported Ellington contract signed and in order and payment made for the use of the facilities. It was moved by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Rawson to appoint Fred Pinney to the Pension Trust Board to fill the vacancy left by Dr. Marion Hostetler. Yes 6, No 0, - motion carried.

President Althaver read a letter from the Michigan Water Pollution Control Association granting a special award to the operator of the disposal plant in recognition of a Superior Safety Record in the Water Pollution Control Industry.

President Althaver read a letter from Mrs. Evelyn MacRae thanking the Council for the use of the park for the Girl Scout day camp.

An unsigned letter was read from the Houghton St. Committee complaining about the condition of the two blocks west of Seeger street. It was explained that the reason for not doing anything is that there is much preliminary work to be done and coordinating with other streets in order for the job to be completed.

Superintendent of Public Works informed the council that Kennebec Drive was in need of an inch cap to preserve this street. He estimated that the cost would be about $1,400.00 to do the job. President Althaver suggested that we approach the Kennebec resurfacing with one eye on the budget.

Mr. Joe Fredrick complained to the council about the large freight trucks that park in front of his building. He explained that the exhaust from these trucks is insufferable and asked that something be done about it. This will be referred to the Police department.

Trustee Bernard Ross moved to adjourn the meeting. Trustee Selby supported and it was duly carried.

Cass City Intermediate

Cass City Intermediate School began with a short assembly last Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Stickle went over the rules for this school year. One new rule stated that the students would not be allowed to go up-town for lunch! As can be expected, this really brought a groan from the student body, but Mr. Stickle told the students that they make their own rules by the way they behave.

Mr. Stickle then introduced the new intermediate teachers to the student body. They are:

NEW JOURNALISM CLASS This year a new journalism class has been formed. The class is taught by Mrs. Karen Wallace. It will take the place of the Annual and Newspaper staffs as it will be in charge of publishing both. There seems to be a genuine interest in the subject.

STUDENT COUNCIL UNDERWAY Gary Vollmar, this year's student council president, has been very busy all week trying to organize the student government. The officers for this year's student body are:

President -- Gary Vollmar Vice-president -- Phil Keating Secretary -- Marilee Turner Treasurer -- Barb MacRae Parliamentarian -- Neil MacCallum

Friday morning homerooms were held to elect representatives to the council. The first meeting should be sometime in the very near future.

This year there won't be any set representatives to the Thumb "B" Student Council with the exception of Gary since he is the only one who has the power to vote for our school. (Each school in Thumb "B" gets one vote.) Gary hopes to give more students a chance to take part in Thumb "B" by rotating the representatives.

Juvenile crime up 25 per cent in county - Wills

There has never been a minor youth prosecuted in Tuscola County Probate Court for the crime of murder but Tuscola Judge Bates Wills said Tuesday that he will not be at all surprised if one occurs at any time.

Speaking to members of the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel, Wills said that crimes of violence and juvenile delinquency have been increasing sharply in the county.

State Police resolution approved

A resolution requesting a State Police post to be located in Tuscola County was unanimously approved by the County Board of Supervisors at the regular monthly meeting, Monday.

The resolution asks that the State Legislature allow for the new post in the 1969 state budget.

County Clerk Archie Hicks will forward copies of the resolution to senators, representatives, Governor Romney and the Michigan State Police.

In other business, $10,000 was approved to be placed in the 1969 budget for Tuscola County planning.

Advertise in the Chronicle.

The major crime since I have been in office has been arson last year, but I fully expect more serious ones before long, Wills explained. The number of juvenile cases has increased about 25 per cent this year, as have the mentally ill cases, Wills continued. The tragedy, according to Wills, about the mentally ill cases is that there is no place to put them. He recounted a case of a psychopathic elderly woman who was forced to remain in a general hospital for three months because no beds were available at State institutions, for the criminally insane.

SHOPLIFTING

While auto theft causes a major portion of the juvenile problem in the cities, it has not been as serious in Tuscola county.

One big problem is shoplifting and the other is abandonment of children.

Girls shoplift beauty aids and similar articles all over the county, he said. Boys are not as serious a threat.

One of the biggest problems comes when the court is forced to take children from parents who simply will not care for them, Wills claims, or when they simply bring the kids in and say "here, we don't want them, you take care of them."

The number of common-law marriages are growing by leaps and bounds, Wills said, and when these people get tired of living together they split and toss the children into the laps of the court.

We have had youths as old as 14 years from these situations, he said. Some of the children we have taken from this environment have written and thanked us, Wills concluded.

2 injured in village accidents

Two Deford residents were injured and five cars were slightly damaged in a pair of village accidents.

William Johnson, 21, and Louis Molnar, 45, both of Deford, were treated at Hills and Dales General Hospital Monday, Sept. 2, after a mishap on South Seeger, a block north of Garfield.

Molnar was sitting in his car, which was parked on the side of Seeger, when a car driven by Johnson struck the Molnar vehicle. Both cars were damaged.

Molnar was treated for a whiplash neck injury, and Johnson for bruises and contusions. Johnson was ticketed for failing to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

On Friday, a car driven by Alvin Beach, 89, of Gagetown struck cars owned by David Mathews of Decker and Alex Tyo, 4391 Brooker, Cass City.

The accident took place in a parking lot behind 6497 Main St.

Beach was backing his car when he struck the two parked vehicles. Beach had left the scene. He was located at home and cited for unsafe backing. A motorcyclist was the only person injured in three area accidents.

Randy Allen Whittaker, 16, of Deford was treated at a doctor's office for injuries received when a pickup truck struck Whittaker's cycle Friday. The accident took place at the intersection of Bruce and Frutchee streets, Deford.

Frances Marie Wilkinson, 19, of 3138 Warner Road, Cass City, told sheriff's deputies that she was headed east on Bruce Street when the bike pulled in front of her from Frutchee, and she was unable to avoid the accident. Whittaker was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way.

The other two mishaps involved one car each.

Judith Ann Anker, 23, 5016 Cedar Run Road, Cass City, lost control of her car on Milligan Road, 1/4-mile west of Koepfgen Road, Elkland Township, Sunday, Sept. 1.

The vehicle hit a bridge railing on the north side of Milligan Road, bounced off and went through the railing on the south side.

The car was extensively damaged, and Mrs. Anker was cited for driving too fast for conditions.

Dawn April Anker, 1, and Rodney Allen Anker, 2, were passengers in the car driven by their mother.

A car driven by Leo Russell, 46, of Owendale was damaged when it was allegedly forced off Colwood Road by an oncoming auto, Sunday.

The Russell car was headed north on Colwood at 50 miles per hour when a southbound car reportedly crossed the center line. Neither Russell nor his wife, Shirley, 30, a passenger in the auto, were injured. No tickets were issued.

Approve plan for special ed pupils

High School Principal Arthur Holmberg received approval of the Cass City School Board Monday to present special diplomas to students graduating under a special education program.

The course, as authorized by Holmberg, for these students will take into consideration the capabilities of the students and stress on-the-job training throughout the high school years.

The work experience starts in the 10th grade with an hour a day during school time. In the 11th, two hours will be allowed and as a senior three hours daily of work time is contemplated.

One credit will be given for each 180 hours of work experience. A report will be given by the employer at regular intervals. Work that will assist the student in getting a job after graduation is the goal of the on-the-job training.

In addition, these special education students will receive two hours of individual instruction weekly from the consultant and a half unit of credit per semester will be granted for this work.

Students with an IQ range of 50 to 75 are eligible for this program.

There are two seniors in Cass City now under the program. Their diplomas will read: This diploma is granted for completion of a modified course of study as prescribed for the special education program.

The meeting is slated at the home of Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn, Kennebec Drive, and will include a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m.

Mrs. Goldner is expected to tell purposes and responsibilities of club membership and comment about the Conetta Scott King Education Fund Drive.

The AAUW has pledged $150,000 in a "Campaign of Conscience" as requested by the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King. The money will be used for education of young women of particular concern to Mrs. King and for awards for Afro-American history, non-violence and peace work.

Locally, it was announced, Mrs. Holly Althaver is chairman for "30 Contemporary Drawings" an art exhibit made available through the Michigan State Council for the Arts and to be shown free at the Cultural Center Oct. 4-13.

Other topics set for the year include: Growing gap between rich and poor nations, by Mrs. Stanley Kinn; society's reflection in the arts, by Mrs. Edward Scollon, and planned programs on changing values in a changing society, by Mrs. Prieskorn.

Mrs. Ann McDaniel, publicity chairman, said the membership is open to any woman who holds a college degree. Interested persons can join by calling Mrs. Carroll Howarth or Mrs. Prieskorn.

HELPING HAND. Keith McConkey, Cass City jeweler, has been working through the Council of Churches and the Huron Tuscola Migrant Mission for 15 years in an effort to make the stay of migrants in the area "just a little more pleasant."

Missions aid migrant

But efforts to improve their lot are sometimes resented by the head of a migrant family. He may see this help as a glimpse of a better life, a life which a young migrant may prefer to picking potatoes and cherries.

Loss of a young worker to that better life means a loss of dollars to the family, which works as a unit for the daily bread.

"The father and mother don't want us to take that son away," McConkey said. Occasional disappointments have not discouraged McConkey, however. He and his wife have remained involved with the migrants and their problems for 15 years now.

"Mrs. McConkey and I love these people," the village businessman said. "We think it is the Christian thing to work with the migrant, an individual who has not been recognized by our society. He is lost, and he has no one to go to but for him."

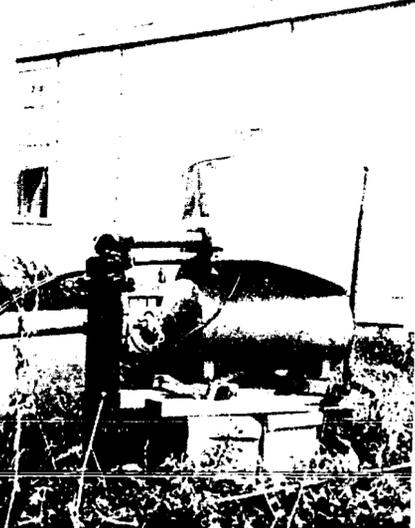

McConkey pointed out that the migrant is an economic necessity to the economy.

"Our state would be literally bankrupt if these people failed to come back for even one year."

ANOTHER OASIS

Most of the workers have left the camp at Colling. The bees in the area are hood clean, and, like the Nomads of the African desert, Colling's migrants move on to find another oasis.

Films screen doors hang on rusty hinges in the little shanty town. The electric water pump sits idle until late next spring when the little community is populated again with little children playing, old women fetching water and, after sundown, the tired, migrant worker.

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE. But in the migrant camp at Colling, a centrally-located water pump provides the entire camp with its water needs. Besides being without running water, the run-down house in the background is unheated.

Negro history play slated at school

The Cass City Board of Education agreed Monday night to co-sponsor a play featuring a group called Afro-American Historians who will be asked to present a play, "Pride in the Past" at assemblies at the school at a cost of $100.

The assemblies will be open to the public and the Negro students who form the play cast were loudly lauded by Andrew Eubank, speech correctionist for Tuscola county who lives in Cass City.

Eubank said that he saw the play in Battle Creek. It was very high caliber, he claimed, it lasted for about 30 or 40 minutes and you were sorry when it ended. It deals with Negro history.

The cast includes junior high, senior high and college Negro students who are well trained and talented, Eubank explained.

Hawks warily optimistic on eve of new grid season

A sprinkling of sophomores, an increased squad toughness and a fine showing in a scrimmage against Millington have made Coach John Biffoss guardedly optimistic as the Cass City Red Hawks prepare to lift the curtain on the 1968 grid season Friday at Mt. Morris.

After the non-conference opener, the Hawks will plunge into the Thumb B schedule with a home game with strong Frankenmuth and continue against league schools until the final game of the year when they close in a non-league tilt with North Branch.

One of the brightest features of the pre-season drills has been the performance of the sophomores who moved up to the varsity and are pushing the upperclassmen for starting positions.

Put stars of the future marks behind the names of Marty LeValley, who is bidding for a position at guard; Kim Hopper challenging at tackle, and Scott Guernsey, making a strong effort for an end slot.

Another sophomore with huge potential is Rob Alexander who is out with a broken collar bone. LeValley's competition for the guard slot is Harvey Francis, a senior. Hopper is battling Phil Keating, a junior, and Guernsey is in a three-corner battle with Fred Ryan and Terry Brinkman for the two end positions. Ryan was one of the leading pass receivers in 1967.

A fixture at the other tackle is Neil MacCallum. Senior Mick Miracle was all-conference honorable mention at guard last year.

At center John Dillion and Tim Karr are being tested and Biffoss didn't know Tuesday which of the two would be the starter Friday.

At quarterback it will be Tom Gunther, senior letterman, or junior Tony Davis.

Four other boys will see plenty of action at the three other backfield positions. Tom Fulcher, John Smentek, Gary Vollmar and Larry McClorey all figure high in Biffoss' plan for the varsity this season.

Vollmar provided an offense spark in a dreary season last year at fullback when he won all-conference honorable mention.

THE DEFENSE

Six boys are expected to be

Ironman, two-way players, this year. Miracle will be at defensive end, Smentek is slated to start as linebacker and Vollmar is scheduled to be a tower of strength at halfback.

MacCallum is a two-way tackle and John Dillion is the middle guard, Guernsey will be a starting linebacker.

Fred Hicks, a junior, will see service as a linebacker and Tim Rabideau, senior letterman, will be a defensive tackle.

How the rest of the defense will stack up, Biffoss was not prepared to say Tuesday.

It is probable that there will be a good deal of switching and testing of talent as Biffoss views his charges in actual combat for the first time this season.

Although Biffoss and other close observers of the team look for improvement this season, the Hawks do not figure to challenge for the title.

Most fans would be happy if the team could win as many as it loses in this rebuilding year.

One thing seems certain, it is not likely that the team will experience the kind of playing conditions that it did last season when virtually every Friday was marred by rain or miserable playing conditions.

The 1968 schedule:

- 9-13 ... Mt. Morris ... There
- 9-20 ... Frankenmuth ... Here
- 9-27 ... Bad Axe ... Here
- 10- 4 ... Sandusky ... There
- 10-11 ... Vassar ... Here

Caro man guilty of check-forging

Morton McTaggart of Caro pleaded guilty at his arraignment in Circuit Court Tuesday to forging a check.

Sentencing was set for Oct. 8.

McTaggart wrote a $120, check payable to Caro Gas and Oil on July 9.

He signed the name Dick Moore to the check.

Balls receive "2nd chance"; cash in on opportunity

The christening of the USS John F. Kennedy last week was highlighted for the Grant Balls by a four-hour tour of the largest aircraft carrier in the fleet, with their son, Donald, as guide.

As the parents of a serviceman aboard the ship, the Balls received a special invitation to attend the ceremony at Newport News, Va.

After the formal ceremony, highlighted by the appearance of Mrs. Kennedy, the guests were entertained by a flying show featuring the Blue Angels.

An oddity for the Balls was that the invitation to see the ship turned over to the navy from its builders, was their second.

When another son, Wesley, was in service, the USS Holland was christened. We were invited, but didn't make it, Ball explained.

This time we made up our minds that we would and we are glad we did.

It was a revealing experience, he concluded.

best sellers.

Another drawing card at garage sales is old furniture.

"Furniture sells well," Mrs. Fahrner said. "People like to redo furniture, antique it."

Antiques sell so well that one Cass City resident sells nothing but antiques in his garage.

Erwin (Pat) Binder retired and began repairing "old-time stuff." He began selling the antiques in his garage and found that there was considerable interest. And so, Binder now buys and sells antiques.

"It's like trading horses," he said. "I may have some stuff too high, some too low. I'm just playing with this as a hobby."

It would be hard to determine who started the garage sale craze in the village. But it is becoming crystal clear that in Cass City garages are being used for something other than a place to keep the car.

If the latest fad in Cass City continues to gain popularity, the garage may become a place to sell the car.

of the Soap Box Derby that was printed in the Jaycee Michigander.

Such terms as "fortunate in having the assistance of one of your staff members, Larry Werner ..." and "reflect the high caliber of the Cass City Chronicle staff" were sprinkled throughout the letter.

Jestingly we asked Larry if the writer was a former buddy of his at Michigan State.

"I should hope not," he said indignantly. "I never went to school with that guy."

But he is my brother-in-law, he said sheepishly.

Passing Through
The wonderful world of words
 BY LARRY WERNER

Supercalligraphicexpialidoculus.
 Ever since I've seen "Mary Poppins" I've wanted to use that word in a column.
 Words are fascinating. At one time my life's ambition was to command a vocabulary so large that I could speak without any understanding me.
 Then I figured it would be easier to learn a foreign language. I struggled through a year of college German, so that now when I speak German no one can understand, not even Germans.

My love of words and the desire to speak without being comprehended was enriched by another class in college, a course in Advanced Reporting. My prof was a nut on "general semantics." The first thing we learned was that a word has no meaning; the meaning is contained in the mind of each person who says or hears the word.
 In other words, the meaning of a word is relative to the referent each person possesses for that word in the "real world."

In other words, communication is futile.
 Consider a few real world examples of what I am driving at.
 Lyndon Haines Johnson says, "We must achieve an honorable peace in Viet Nam."
 He means, "How do I get out of this mess without admitting that I've made a jim-dandy mistake."

When Hubert Humphrey talks about "an honorable peace," he means, "Do you really expect me to criticize Big Daddy Lyndon while he has the power to ruin my political future?"
 When South Vietnamese President Thieu uses this same generality, he means, "If you guys get out now, I'll be tarred and feathered by my own countrymen."

And so it goes. We talk, but no one understands. Everyone thinks he understands, but words mean so many things that, in the final analysis, they mean nothing. Nowhere is this more evident than in politics.
 "Law and order" is one of my favorite examples.
 Consider what law and order mean to the following personalities.
 George Wallace: "Put them thar Nigras back in thar places."
 Richard Daley: "Beat some sense into those filthy hippies."
 Hubert Humphrey: Absolutely nothing.

Vocal noncommunication is not restricted to the wonderful world of politics, however. Mothers rival politicians for saying what they don't mean. Or is it meaning what they don't say?
 "Instance."
 "You don't have to do the dishes. I'll do them."
 They mean: "If you don't do those dishes I'll slap you silly."
 Or,
 "Honey, don't you think you should date some other boys. Get to know more people. Don't restrict yourself so."
 The sheltering mother is really saying, "Drop that long-haired creep and find yourself a nice backward boy."

As I said, words are fascinating. There is no limit to the number of people you can confuse by simply talking. And no one talks more than women, over backyard fence, over coffee or over the telephone.
 "My gosh," one will say, "did you see the short dress Andrea was wearing at the party?"
 In other words, "I wish my legs were nice enough to wear mini-skirts."

Probably no one has mastered this art better than the teenage son or daughter. The politicians may have fooled some of the people some of the time with their double-meaning lingo, but teenagers have fooled an entire generation by using the English language to its absurd extent.

I hope my teenage readers will forgive this expose of their unique brand of parent psychology. But try to think of it as a confession by someone who has only recently emerged from those wonderful years, as Pat Boone used to say, "twixt twelve and twenty." I used the following techniques and used them well while I was trying to guide my parents through my adolescent years.

In the following, the actual statement will be followed by the actual meaning in parentheses.
 "Dad, I need $10." ("I really need $5, but I won't get it unless I ask for $10.")
 "You've got to let me go. Everyone else is going." ("No one else has much of a chance of getting permission, but their chances will be better if we all use this old line.")
 "Don't worry, I'll be in by midnight." ("Don't wait up, I'll be sneaking in some time after 1 a.m.")

Teenagers use this psychology on each other as well. "She has a real nice personality." ("She looks like eight miles of bad road.")
 "She has a real nice figure." ("She's ugly as sin.")
 "She has a real cute face." ("She's big enough to play left tackle for the Green Bay Packers.")

The jungle of words is a thick one. You chop through the thick foliage of suggestion and implication to what you think is understanding, and the jungle jargon springs up as fast as you can chop it down. After many years of trying to interpret my native language, it was rather refreshing to find a place where subtle implication is as rare as the Dodo bird. I have finally found a place where one needn't read between the sound waves to find the intended meaning.
 I'm speaking of The Chronicle office.

When my boss says, "This story stinks," he means, "This story stinks."
 It's not the most pleasant type of evaluation: a mild double-meaning reprimand wouldn't shatter the ego quite so much. But I sometimes think that if our peace negotiators in Paris were a little more like my blunt boss, if a true expression of feelings replaced the rhetoric and the tired old lines, the farcial escapade in Southeast Asia would be ended much quicker. Or at least positions could be more clearly defined.
 And think how pleasant it would be if politicians could tell the truth and keep campaign promises.
 But that is not the way it is. Words are tools of people who are trying to accomplish something with those words. Consequently, words are used skillfully, with meaning adjusted to suit the goal.
 As they say in Germany, "Das ist der Weg es geht."

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross

Got the late-morning droops, Mom? It might be because you missed breakfast this morning. And if your children didn't eat breakfast, they're probably feeling "droopy," too.

Remember, school has started now and good school performance can be the road to your child's success in life. Children who miss breakfast are more likely to develop a poor attitude toward school. Why? Tests show that by late-morning they're slowing down.

But when the day starts with a good breakfast, they can turn out more late-morning work. That's because their mental reactions are faster and they don't tire as easily.

Parents need to be a good example by eating a good breakfast and then watching their child follow suit.

The menu doesn't always have to be the traditional "bacon and eggs." Make it quick and simple to fix -- like fruit, cereal, milk and toast. Most important, give him things he likes to eat so he'll enjoy breakfast. Peanut butter, strawberry shortcake, cheese sandwiches, egg nog or soup can be on a good breakfast menu.

Once you've shown him how good-tasting the morning meal can be -- as well as how it can help him feel better all morning and all day -- he may fall into the swing of regular breakfast eating. It's a good life-long habit to start early.

Revenge may give satisfaction, but try and collect on it.
 Know yourself -- it's no misfortune to tumble to your faults.

"It's a great gasoline!"

The young man in the rallye jacket is Doug Limes, rallying enthusiast and member of the Detroit Region Sports Car Club of America. The last big rallye Doug drove in was really brutal — for the gasoline. He drove in low temperatures with high humidity, perfect conditions for throttle icing in cars. He used Leonard Premium 500 gasoline and reports, "I didn't have a bit of trouble. It's a great gasoline!" Try a tankful — and you'll agree.

Silage corn yields high-grade cattle

Beef cattlemen can get greater profits from each acre of corn by feeding steers and heifers "only corn silage" rations instead of rations supplemented with shelled corn. Recent research by Drs. Hugh Henderson and Barrie Purser, Michigan State University animal husbandry specialists, showed that heifers and steers fed an all corn silage ration produced more beef per acre (2,016 pounds vs. 1,262 pounds). These animals also returned more profits ($516.09 vs. $335.06 per acre) than cattle fed a full feed of the same corn silage plus one pound of shelled corn daily for each 100 pounds of body weight.

"Cattle full fed corn silage with no added grain gained about 15 per cent slower and required nine per cent longer to reach the identical slaughter grade of high Good," the scientists reported.

"But the feed cost per 100 pounds of gain was 17 per cent lower for the cattle fed the all silage ration."

The carcass grade and degree of marbling were identical for the two groups of cattle fed the different rations. Each group had a modest level of marbling and graded high Good. These trials, conducted with 96 heifers and 124 steers, represented the sixth and seventh MSU experiments making comparisons with all silage vs. all silage plus shelled corn rations, said Drs. Henderson and Purser, and the results are in complete agreement with the five previous trials.

"If It Fitz..."
Will there be any more questions?
 BY JIM FITZGERALD

The last 2 weeks I've made notes on my shirttail of the questions most often asked me. It is now time to change the shirt but first, folks, here's the tale off the tail:

Q - Would you rather write funny columns or serious columns?

A - I'd rather not write any at all. This usually surprises people. They think writing is fun, or compulsive, or ego-fattening, or something. They think I'd do it even if I weren't getting paid, just for the pleasure of seeing my words in print. That's ridiculous. I had 3 other jobs before turning to journalism. I failed on factory assembly lines because I couldn't work as fast as the other fellows. I flopped as a substitute mailman because I couldn't walk as slow as the regulars. I was fired from a brewery for gaining too much weight on the job. That left writing and here I am, writing for bread and no other reason. As for serious or funny columns, I don't write either kind. I just have serious or funny readers. Right now, are you smiling or aren't you? See?

Q - Do you think the Tigers will win the pennant?

A - They'd better. I have been aching, rooting, bleeding Tiger fan since I can remember. I inherited the disease from my father who was that marvelous voice in the crowd that the robber empire always heard. But the important thing is not that the Tigers win the pennant for us old crocks. They'd better do it for the young people.

Fans over 40 can remember, dimly, the glory days of 1934, 1935, 1940 and 1945. For the past 23 years we have been faithful enough, or dumb enough, to keep hoping the tiger might turn vicious again. We've put up with a lot of pussycats and, if Detroit purrs in second this September, we oldsters are stupid enough to come back for more next year. But most of the nation is under 25 years old, and this includes Michigan. These youngsters don't know what a baseball champ is. If the Tigers turn the trick this month, they'll wrap up a huge new crop of fans for the years to come.

But if the Tigers blow it, after having a 9-game lead, oh woe is them. The only crowd in Tiger Stadium next year will be on Senior Citizens Day. And most of them will be booing.

Q - You talk very seriously about the Tigers. Don't you know baseball is just a little boys' game sometimes played by grown men in knickers? There is war and poverty and disease in this world. Don't you feel silly rooting for a baseball team?

A - Shut up.

Q - Was that your wife I saw you with last night?

A - Yes and no. It was Pat but it was not her wig. She traded wigs for awhile with a kooky friend. The borrowed wig is streaked gray and the bangs were trimmed with a jackknife. Pat thinks it is cute. If this is not sufficient proof she has flipped, now hear this: Again this summer she is growing huge watermelons in a peazied garden behind our home. The vines and melons cover the sidewalk and porch. Last week the meter reader got lost in the jungle and I had to send a white hunter in to guide him out. If you think I'm kidding, come take a look. Watch out for Pygmies with blowguns.

Q - Does your wife ever get angry at you for some of the things you write about her?

A - Yes.

 HOLMES REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Spencer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spencer attended the Holmes family reunion at Forest Hall in Dryden Sunday.

About 80 persons attended from Grand Haven, Grand Rapids, Desmond Beach, Fla., Ohio, Cass City, Tyre, Uby, Romeo, Armada, Utica, Pontiac, Almont, Washington, Mich., Flint and North Branch.

A cooperative lunch was enjoyed at noon. It was voted to hold another reunion at the same place the second Sunday in September, 1969.

 Mr. and Mrs. Grant Ball returned Sunday evening from Newport News, Va., where they attended the commissioning of the "John F. Kennedy." McNamara, Sen. Ted Kennedy and Captain Rates spoke. Several other dignitaries were in attendance. Caroline Kennedy sponsored the ship and presented Captain Bates with a duplicate of the sword of George Washington. Officers and members of the crew presented her with a jewel box and dresser set. The Blue Angels, a flying squadron, gave a demonstration over the flight deck. On Sunday spectators were allowed to view the ship. The Balls were able to visit their son Donald's compartment on the ship. About 10,000 persons attended the commissioning.

It is ordered that on September 19, 1968, at 9:30 a.m., in the Probate Courtroom in the village of Caro, Michigan a hearing be held on the petition of Frederick H. Pinney for the allowance of his final account.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule.

There are several other examples that might be used but space does not permit. The County A.S.C.S. Office will be glad to figure out programs that may fit any grower.

We hear many growers say they cannot afford to grow wheat at present market prices. How true this is. But if you as a grower do grow wheat then you better take advantage of the government subsidy. We often hear the statement that "if you can't beat them, join them." I believe this pretty well applies to farmers' efforts to get a better market price for wheat. It has not been successful.

Around The Farm
How to beat price of wheat
 By Alfred P. Ballweg

Wheat planting time is just around the corner and with present market prices, wheat growers have little choice other than to comply with the Federal 1969 Wheat Program. The program is similar to the 1966 program. The Michigan allotment has been reduced by 162,489 acres. For Tuscola County this figures out to a reduction of 7,169 acres out of a total 1968 county allotment of 55,125 acres.

To comply with the 1969 wheat program a grower must: (1) Have a wheat allotment, (2) Sign up for the program at the County A.S.C.S. Office during sign-up time, (3) Plant wheat within the allotment, (4) Diversify without payment and put to a conserving use an acreage equal to 15% of the farm allotment, (5) Maintain farm conserving base, (6) Stay within the allotment on other farms in which you have an interest, (7) You can choose to substitute wheat for feed grains on a farm if you sign up to participate in both programs, (8) If your farm has an oats, rye or barley base, you can request at sign-up and become eligible to substitute wheat for oats, rye or barley by diverting to conserving uses without payment 15% of the oats, rye or barley base.

Benefits to the wheat grower for complying with the program include: (1) Price support loans on the entire farm wheat production at county loan rate, (2) Diversion payments for diverting below the farm allotment. Rates are based on 50% of the 1968 county wheat loan rate times the farms yield. Maximum diversion for payment

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says

Dear Mister Editor:

It's like they say, I reckon, great minds run on the same track. Ed Doolittle come up with a problem at the country store Saturday night, and Zeke Grubb come up with the answer.

Ed reported to the fellers he had been doing some reading on this rural-urban life and he was of the opinion folks has got to choose between living and making a living. We've just run out of room where we need it, allowed Ed, and they ain't no way to do both.

For instant, said Ed, we got cities with more cars than parking places, more sick people than hospital beds, more folks at conventions than hotel rooms, more mouths to feed than food and more crooks than cops. We run out of sideways space a long time ago and now we was running out of straight up room. Trouble is, Ed allowed, we got millions of acres with nothing on 'em then we got millions of people on a few acres.

Then Zeke broke in to say he had done some study on this problem and he had come up with the Zeke Grubb Group Plan. All it is, said Zeke, was what them science fellers calls "mass movement." What had got him on this plan, reported Zeke, was where he had saw that by 1985 we will have a average work week of 22 hours and workers will be retiring at 38 year old.

We got to copy the ants, Zeke explained. Keep the workers in the ant hill cities and git the deadwood out on land that ain't being used. Instead of all that public housing in the middle of the cities where land is scarce, put it out on the deserts and mountains and on all that land in the soil bank. We would have people's pastures for all the worn out folks over 38, was Zeke's words. Take all retired folks out of the cities and we'd have room for them under 38 that has to work.

And the Zeke Grubb Plan, he said, would take care of that problem we got now when retired folks was living so long. Them that had retirement income could take care of the farms and ranches and not starve to death while they was doing it.

Ed butted in to say he special liked the Zeke Grubb Plan on account of the retired folks would have plenty of parking space and more'n 10 foot ter burial space.

All the fellers, Mister Editor, took to the Zeke Grubb Plan. Even Ed said it might work if the Government didn't git ahold of it. I figger the fellers at the country store went along with Zeke on account of we're already out in the people's pasture and the only move we got to make under the plan is to the cemetery.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Letters to Editor

Sept. 9, 1968

Dear Editor:

Jim Fitzgerald has come up with another interesting and challenging column in the Chronicle edition of September 5. I concur with him that it is timely and in my judgment "fit."

Another thought provoking article is the one on "Law and Order" by Larry Werner. While it does not have the depth of analysis and perception as one might expect in a similar article in the Detroit News by the wide-experienced Ralph McGill, and the lead editorial in the Saginaw News "The President's Commission Should Get the Facts," it was nevertheless very well presented. I find Larry's articles reflecting or mirroring my own social thinking by and large.

We need to have young leaders of such promise. It betokens well for the future. It is stimulating, necessary and valuable to have writers and other community leaders, such as the Rev. Mr. Eyer, out in front on the cutting edge of our social, political and religious provincialism, endeavoring to broaden social horizons leading to truly democratic and Christian attitudes and actions.

The community is enriched to have had the Negro children in some homes, and in our midst, if only for a week. It was the Galilean Rabbi who said, "a little child shall lead them."

Mrs. Vender and I know from first hand experience, abetted by the response of our church young people and adults. Many will recall that during the last half of the seven years, of my pastorate we personally entertained foreign students in our home for eight or nine days at the Christmas and Easter vacations. In all, we had thirty-one students from 21 countries, who were attending M.S.U. and the U. of M. Such projects very quickly were expanded in the community at large.

I recall once when the M.S.U. staff at the International Student Center were debating whether or not they could include some African students in a group of twenty-four to the area. Mrs. Carpenter of the staff said, "I know they will be welcome at Cass City, for we already have sent some there."

Respectfully yours,
Mel Vender

Mr. John Haire, Editor
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan

Dear John,

This letter comes from the pastor who's "smiling a lot lately," about the program involving Negro children from the city. I can't help thinking that this image presents me as a naive, silly goose who feels he has arrived in his goals for civil rights in Cass City. Needless to say (and perhaps few would), this is not the case. May I express a few of my feelings on acceptance of the Black man without passing judgment on anyone else? My wife and I, as well as others who participated in the program, learned a lot about the Negro and a lot about ourselves. I for one began to ask myself whether I could accept this child as an equal adult. Or would I be deprived of being able to "do something" for the oppressed. It isn't too difficult to reach down to help someone, but it is difficult to reach straight out with a welcome hand.

The day is coming when the Black man will not want to send his children to the White man's home. What do we do then with civil rights? Will commitment be harder? Will we be able to accept a (Black) man who has as much pride and self-respect as we do? I pray that I can and do! Our community program with the Negro children was a successful first step in civil rights. The long journey is still ahead. I hope that the positive voices of the community who call for a JUST unity in our nation between Black and White will continue to be heard.

Acceptance is the key word, not patronage. Let's continue to spread the word of acceptance among all who come to our community—either to visit or to live.

Cordially,
Pastor Richard Eyer

How soon will she marry?

Chances are, she'll marry younger than her mother married. And start raising a family sooner. Will she be ready for the responsibilities of marriage and motherhood? Unfortunately, many girls are not. And one sad reason, according to official reports, is that they have poor nutritional habits. And the result, too often, is lasting damage to young mother and child. Most lacking: Vitamin C and calcium.

Fresh milk, of course, is the richest source of calcium. So necessary for sound bones and teeth. It is essential to everyone's diet—male or female, young or old. But especially girls who may soon be mothers.
