

Cass City preps for Yule rush

Christmas decorations on Main Street are expected to be erected this week and Paul O'Harris, president of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, said that the community is rapidly preparing for the Christmas season.

As usual, the Retail Division of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce will be offering free movies for children 12 and under on Saturdays. The first is scheduled Saturday, Nov. 30, and others will be screened Dec. 7-14-21. The first show is an adventure story, "Master of the World". All of the pictures are designed to appeal to the children.

O'Harris said that most stores would be open evenings Friday and Saturday, Nov. 29 and 30, and every night until Christmas eve starting Friday, Dec. 6.

Merchants stocks are at a seasonal peak and store owners are predicting record sales.

Most say that shoppers are starting earlier than ever this season. One reason for the trend, they believe, is that the Christmas buying season is shorter between Thanksgiving and Christmas than it was last year.

There are just four shopping week ends before Christmas compared to five shopping week ends between Thanksgiving and Christmas in 1967.

Owen-Gage outlines plans for vote

A special election to decide whether the Owendale-Gagetown School District will be dissolved has been tentatively set for Mar. 3 by the Owen-Gage school board.

If it passes land in the district will be transferred to Cass City and Unionville-Sebewaing School Districts and the remainder will annex to Laker School District.

The Lakers would receive the majority of the valuation, under present plans. The school board declined to say which property would be transferred to which district. It did reveal that $7,001,869 was slated for the Lakers and $4,900,000 set for Cass City and Unionville-Sebewaing districts.

The exact valuation for the Cass City district will be revealed after a petition is submitted to the Huron County Intermediate School offices Dec. 5. With the petition will be a description of all of the property affected.

The board outlined several points that have been established since planning first started in April.

The initial petition to the Huron Intermediate district cannot be changed before the election after the district acts on it.

All property transfers must be contiguous to other property transferred. No "islands" will be allowed.

Owendale-Gagetown will complete the school year regardless of the outcome of the transfer vote.

Both the Lakers and Cass City have indicated that the Owendale and Gagetown elementary schools will continue to be operated if the dissolution is effected.

The State Board of Education is not forcing a split of the district.

Property owners now in the Owen-Gage district will continue to pay existing bonded indebtedness and will do so until paid. The owners will NOT pay for existing bonded indebtedness incurred by the districts they enter before the transfer is completed.

The district-wide election will decide whether the district should be dissolved.

The current proposal is one of several that has been examined by school officials in Owen-Gage.

A combined Sebewaing, Unionville, Gagetown-Owendale district was studied and abandoned.

A vote was held trying to form an Owengage-Unionville district. It was okayed by Gagetown voters, but turned down by Unionville electors.

Since this time, of course, Unionville and Sebewaing have merged.

Schools increase Elkland tax bill

Early in December 1968 Elkland township tax bills will be in the mail and local property owners will pay more than they did the previous year.

How much more depends upon which school district the township property is in.

Persons living in the Owendale-Gagetown district will pay $27.24 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. . . that's $6.04 more than the $21.20 paid in 1967.

Property owners in the Cass City district will pay $26.85 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. . . up just 35¢ per $1,000 from the 1967 tax bill.

The reason for the jump at Owen-Gage is that taxpayers authorized six mills extra for operating that was not charged in 1967.

Cass City's only change was an increase for the intermediate school from .15 of a mill to .45 of a mill.

All units of government will have more funds to operate with because the assessed valuation of the township jumped $279,000 over the previous year.

Total valuation is now $10,797,100.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Deer hunting today is bigger in Tuscola county than pheasant hunting and most nimrods say that it will be of much greater relative importance in the years ahead. Activity on the local scene tends to confirm these observations.

Friday General Cable closed for deer season and absenteeism at Cass City School was great. The school was open for the opening day of pheasant hunting and there were few complaints.

The Chronicle has sold more "no hunting" signs for the deer season than it did for the bird season.

It wasn't that many were sold but, rather, that practically none were sold for the bird season.

One who challenges these statistics is Russ Schneberger. He thinks the pheasants are coming back. It'll never be like the good old days, he says, but I saw a flock at my home and some on my dad's place and that's the most around here in several years.

I really believe there will be more next year, he says confidently.

It's safe to say that Russ has the minority opinion.

Stan Putnam, the Chronicle's lead reporter when the Free Press is on strike, won't be out of a job if another strike closes the Detroit papers. He resigned recently to take a post as consultant to Wayne State's controversial student newspaper.

The paper is edited by arch left wingers and has been accused of promoting anarchy, licentiousness and treason all in one issue by the former consultant who quit and went back to teaching.

When quizzed about his policy, Stan showed that he is a former reporter with unusual

Homemade the in thing

Cinnamon toothpick fad sweeps school

While a penny doesn't buy much these days it's still possible to get plenty of enjoyment for a red cent . . . provided you like red hot toothpicks.

For cinnamon-treated toothpicks are the latest rage at Cass City schools these days and for a penny you can buy a day's supply.

And buying a supply is the in thing for most of the grade and intermediate school children in Cass City.

Today there is more demand for a toothpick than a whole package of gum.

But not any of those store bought ones. Just because they can be purchased at five cents for a package of 12 doesn't mean that they are good.

To be with it, you make your own. And so many are doing so that last week Mike Weaver at Mac and Scotty said that he sold out of cinnamon before replacements arrived this week and Tom Froror at Wood's said that 72 vials have been snapped up since the sticks became popular.

A 40-cent vial will make about 100 toothpicks and one young entrepreneur was using a couple of vials a day.

He makes the flavored toothpicks by the score and sells them for a penny each to schoolmates. He told me proudly, Weaver noted, that he was making $1.25 per day.

The beautiful part of making cinnamon sticks is that most anyone can do it. Just soak the toothpick in the oil, remove it and let it dry.

Evidently the reason the homemade variety is more popular than the commercial is that they have more tang.

Place a treated toothpick in your mouth and before you know it the roof of your mouth is on fire.

"It's worse if you take a drink of water to cool your mouth," Loren O'Harris volunteered. "And if you have a cracked lip or tongue it really hurts."

The O'Harris youngster claims that a well oiled toothpick can last and last and last. If you just suck on them, a couple will retain some flavor all day, they feel.

Another added bonus of the toothpicks in the eyes of the students is that there is no law at school that prohibits having toothpicks in the mouth. It's against the rules to chew gum, Scott Hartel explained, but not to suck toothpicks.

I suppose that it won't be long before they have a rule about the toothpicks, too, Scott sighed.

Somebody will always spoil a good thing.

Buck luck

Bob Watson got a 210-pound, 10-point deer near Wickware Saturday.

A. J. Murray of Williamston bagged a spikehorn southeast of Cass City Sunday morning. It weighed about 175 pounds.

Alvin Hutchinson bagged his first buck Saturday morning while hunting northeast of town.

Jim Daley, 14, of Deford got a nine point buck Sunday. It weighed about 200 pounds. His first try, he was hunting in the Deford area.

Gordon Bigham of Cass City reported bagging his first buck Saturday. Hunting near Whisperring Pines on Shabbona Road, he got a 3-point buck, weighing about 140 pounds, at 7:30 a.m.

Dick and Chet Szarapski downed an eight-pointer at 9:00 a.m. Saturday. They were hunting northeast of Cass City. Chet was sitting on the same stump from where he shot one last year.

Louis Walsh of Ubyly shot his deer opening day about 4 p.m. It was an eight-point, which he got in the area where he lives. Carl German of Deford, hunting in the Deford State Game Area, got his buck about 4:30 p.m. opening day, Nov. 15. It was an eight-pointer.

NOTHING'S SACRED anymore . . . not even the deer hunting camp. Mrs. Millie Miracle showed up the men, including her husband, with this eight-point buck shot Saturday morning in the Upper Peninsula. It was Mrs. Miracle's first trophy in six years of hunting. . . but well worth waiting for, she said.

Time for Santa letters

Extra copies—early paper set

The Chronicle's annual Christmas shopping edition will be presented next week.

Every home in Owendale, Ubyly, Gagetown, Decker, Snover, Deford and Kingston will receive a sample copy of the paper.

So that shoppers can check ads for Christmas lists, the paper will be published a day early and distributed before Thanksgiving.

All news and advertising deadlines are advanced accordingly. Your usual fine cooperation will be appreciated.

It's time, too, for the annual letters to Santa. Just mail them to the Chronicle and we'll see that they get published and sent on to Old Saint Nick before he makes his traditional trip to the homes of boys and girls everywhere.

What's more, if black and white pictures are enclosed, no larger than one column, we'll print them with the letters. Sketches are also welcome, but subject to approval of the paper.

With high protein diet

Wilda's will power sheds 100 pounds

Weight watchers rejoice. It is possible to lose weight . . . and keep it off.

Mrs. Wilda Nemeth of Kingston is the living proof.

Two years ago she was fat, fat and 30 . . . not a little fat, but very, very fat. Only 30 years old and wobbling with eight pounds for every year . . . a gigantic 247 1/2 pounds.

Today she tips the scales at a svelt 150 pounds and the 100 pounds she lost brought a new outlook on life.

"You have no idea how depressing it is to be heavy," Mrs. Nemeth said. The psychological effect of not being fat is exhilarating!

Now you can sense the zest with which Mrs. Nemeth faces each day. Charming, with a ready smile, she radiates when talking about her former weight problems or her work as a secretary at Kingston High School.

Mrs. Nemeth started gaining after she married. When she graduated from Cass City High School (the former Wilda Zomke of Deford) she weighed 130 pounds.

But after marriage and four children the weight started to pile on and pile and pile on . . . Diet after diet started and failed.

The problem was compounded because she prepared meals for the family: Jim, 13, Sherry, 12, Susan, 10, Scott, 6, and husband Ed, who are not fat and eat without ill effect. He (Ed) can eat anything, Wilda said good-naturedly, and not gain weight.

What was the key to success after so many failures? A combination of factors, Mrs. Nemeth said.

But the biggest is that you have to make up your mind that you are going to reduce.

My program started when I visited a doctor in Sandusky. He gave me some pills, and put me on a high protein diet.

I eat all the meat I want, all the vegetables I can cram down and as much fresh fruit as I desire. But that's everything. Nothing between meals and no pies, cakes, ice cream, potatoes, gravies or other foods.

The hardest part of a diet, is getting started, Mrs. Nemeth smiled. Once you've established the routine and the pounds start to melt off it encourages you to keep going.

The first six months I lost 10 to 12 pounds a month. Then I settled down to about six pounds a month.

Watching the weight go was wonderful.

I needed three complete changes of clothing and many alterations, she recalled. I first bought a new outfit when my friends started to tell me my clothes looked like bags.

One of the nicest compliments to the new Wilda comes when she walks down the street and former friends fail to recognize her.

I went back to the doctor and the receptionist thought I was a new patient, she said.

Today, the worst of the diet is over. There are no more pills, but the weight watching continues. It's gain a few pounds and then see to it that they come off again.

Occasionally she eats potatoes or starches now. . . but never as a regular part of her diet.

Mrs. Nemeth feels "just great" these days and has no intention of returning back to the size 24 1/2 dresses.

For her, a combination of high protein and will power means that the size 16 is here to stay.

Strategy

It's Tim's move, and he is taking a long time thinking it over. In chess, if you're a good player, you don't play quickly. If you do, your opponent may outwit you.

Military strategy, they say, is based on the rules of chess. So are many of the "higher games" in business and finance. Yet, when it comes to life itself, the rules of chess apply in only a limited way. In life, you can't be totally objective. You can't exist on logic alone.

The Church teaches that though we surely need logic in order to live successfully, we also need compassion, tolerance, love, understanding, and the strength that comes with faith.

Although life is not a game, we must have the help and strength of the Church to discover those rules that will determine our ultimate destiny.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Can you imagine a man who was blind in one eye -- and often couldn't see half the field when he went back to pass -- becoming a star passer in pro football... Tommy Thompson quarterbacked the Philadelphia Eagles to the National Football League championship in 1948 and 1949 and led the league in passing statistics in 1948 even though he was blind in his left eye!... Thompson stands as a great example of man being able to triumph over adversity.

Do you know the real name of the Oregon State football coach, Dee Andros, is Demosthenes Andreopolous. . . Andros says, "I changed the name because I couldn't say it or spell it!"

Here's one you may not have known about Jim Nance, the great runner in the American Football League. . . When Nance was in college, at Syracuse, he won more honors in wrestling than he did in football. . . He won the national intercollegiate heavyweight wrestling championship two different years and won 91 out of 92 varsity wrestling matches in college!

Erie pollution breaking treaty

By Rev. R. J. Searls

I remember my first sight of the Great Lakes! I had been taught that these lakes were larger than some oceans or seas -- but, frankly, I didn't believe it. Now we are told that Lake Erie the smallest of the Great Lakes, is heavily polluted. Because it is a shallow lake and therefore relatively warm, it is least able to withstand high pollution levels. Last year some 5.5 billion cubic yards of polluted material from Lake Erie harbors was dredged and dumped into the lake by none other than the U.S. Government! A large contributing factor is sewage draining from the many rivers that run into the lake from port cities!

There is an international legal aspect that also enters the situation. It seems that back in 1909 a treaty was signed by our government and that of Canada protecting the lake against just such a condition. What our country is doing then, is in direct violation of the treaty and a threat to good relations with our neighbor to the north. Most people and many organizations see a news item like that above, shake their heads and wring their hands and say, "I can't really do much. What power can I bring to bear on this bit of evil?"

Well, the election is over and we can go back to doing whatever it is we do. A lot of us learned that the electoral system is now completely outmoded as a system to determine just who are the winners in a nation-wide vote. Even locally, we are all indebted to a small group of our friends and neighbors who had to stay up until five o'clock to record the votes!

There is, inevitably, talk about abandoning our present techniques to record the people's will. There was a time when Richard Nixon was losing the election. It also looked for a dismal few hours that, because of the closeness of the returns, neither Nixon or Humphrey could win by normal means. The election would have to go to the House of Representatives which would have had the 'say-so' as to whom would be declared to be president (and vice-president.)

Chaos was avoided this time, but many concerned voters would change this 'horse and buggy' system before the American people must vote again for the leader of our nation! THIS IS CRUCIAL AND SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED TO LIE AROUND until we have a full-blown constitutional crisis on our hands! The time to correct this grave oversight is right now! If it is left once again to a national election time, there is a grave doubt that the system will work just 'because it always has'!

In a little-publicized speech at the University North Carolina Law School, William C. Sullivan said Communists have failed miserably in wooing American Negroes.

Anti-civil rights groups, like the John Birch Society, will not be able to brush his comments aside lightly for Mr. Sullivan is no ordinary police official, but assistant director of the FBI.

"Charges have been made that the Communist USA, has been very successful with the American Negro," Mr. Sullivan told the law students. "These are false and ought to be rebutted."

THINK TWICE!

"Always be tolerant with those who disagree with you. After all, they have a perfect right to their ridiculous opinions."

A sidewalk interviewer asked one of our old-timers what he thought of the two candidates for an election. "When I look at them," said the old-timer sorrowfully, "I'm thankful that only one of them can get elected."

Four persons settled traffic tickets during the week ending Nov. 18. All tickets issued by State Police included a ticket to Alan L. Zawilinski, 19, of Cass City for defective brakes. He paid a fine of $10.00 and costs of $6.00.

Lawrence D. Guinther, 35, of Cass City, ticketed for defective brakes on the equipment being operated by him, paid a fine of $10.00 and costs of $6.00.

Randon Scott Doerr, 19, of Cass City, exceeded the speed limit by 10 mph at night and paid a fine of $10.00 and costs of $6.00.

Marie Elaine Young, 19, of Ortonville, ticketed for overtaking and passing on the right side on an untraveled portion of the road, paid a fine of $10.00 and costs of $6.00.

Award G. Merchant Infantryman's Badge in Vietnam

There is one Army badge that only combat infantrymen can wear -- the Combat Infantryman's Badge. It was awarded to Specialist Four Grant L. Merchant, 20, near Duc Co, Vietnam, Oct. 28.

Spec. Merchant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Merchant of Cass City, is assigned to the 4th Infantry Division as a team leader.

SPEC. GRANT L. MERCHANT

The CIB has been awarded since late in World War II for sustained ground contact against an enemy. It is not awarded to members of other combat arms, such as artillery, armor or engineers.

Co-ed killed in motorcycle crash

A daughter of a former Cass City resident, Miss Carol Jean Kollath, 19, of Grosse Pointe Woods, was instantly killed Saturday afternoon when a motorcycle on which she was a passenger struck a car on US-131, south of Big Rapids.

5-day sentence for Vassarite

Franklin Abbott Goodman of Vassar was sentenced Tuesday to the Tuscola County Jail for five days for driving with a revoked license.

Circuit Judge James Churchhill also ordered Abbott to pay a $100 fine and costs of $100 or spend 30 additional days in jail.

Also killed in the crash was the driver of the motorcycle, Douglas J. Waldo, 23, of Amble.

Miss Kollath was a second year student at Ferris State College.

People who talk to themselves hear a lot of compliments.

When Coach Jim Wynes sends his charges against Vassar Tuesday, Dec. 3, all of the starters from last year's basketball team will be missing.

Despite the rebuilding job ahead there appears to be a better than even chance that Cass City will be better than last year when the club finished with a 5-11 record.

The biggest task ahead for Wynes will be replacing All-Conference John Maharg, who was Cass City's leading everyting last year.

Also gone are Mike Murphy and Dave Sherrard, starting guards, and Ron Weippert and Joe Graham from the front line. Henry Ashmore, who moved into the starting rotation late in the season is too old to play this season.

With the heart of the team lost via graduation, why is there a chance for a better record?

Two reasons. The first is that the boys playing this year have had a year under the system that Wynes stresses and the second is that the league over-all is weaker.

Frankenmuth should be in a class by itself with height, talent and a year's experience for the towering front line. The Lakers lost heavily via graduation but another strong JV squad moves to the varsity and by the time the year ends they will be a team to be reckoned with.

The rest of the teams should be about on a par with Cass City . . . with any school able to knock the other off on any given night.

Cass City will have two veterans returning with extensive game experience. Juniors Joe Hillaker and Marty Zawilinski should be more effective with a year's varsity competition under their belts.

Hillaker is the tallest player on the squad at about 6 feet, four inches. Zawilinski is a guard who is quick and aggressive on defense.

Sophomore Rob Alexander has demonstrated that he can shoot and is a good rebounder for his size. He will probably see plenty of action.

Terry Brinkman is a Senior who was a reserve last season. He has the height but little experience, and has still to demonstrate that he can score. Senior Tom Guinther failed to report last season and the year's absence hurt his progress.

A Junior that Wynes is watching closely is Tony Davis. Up from the reserves, Davis suffered last season because of a broken leg. By the time he was fit to play, the season was half over and he spent the year trying to overcome the handicap.

Wynes said that the competition for all posts is still wide open. Pressing for starting positions are: Dale Ashmore, John Biss, John Smentek, Bruce Eshelman, Bruce McLeish, Tom Kolb, Glen Miracle and Jerry Mozdien.

Present plans call for the freshman senator to get an apartment in Lansing and come home week ends.

Attending the ceremonies will be the DeGrow family: Mrs. DeGrow, Mike, 17, and Jane, 14. An elder son, David, 19, is in the Air Force at Tampa, Fla.

Mrs. Rockwell Heads Thumb OES

Mrs. Iva Rockwell of Decker was elected president of the Thumb Association, Order of the Eastern Star, at the 72nd annual session Saturday, Nov. 16, in the Masonic Temple, Bad Axe.

Other officers named were: Vice-presidents, Mrs. Ethel Cronover of Mayville and Laverne Slewke of Millington; secretary, Mrs. Florence Schrader of Uby; treasurer, Mrs. Winifred Swanson of Lexington; marshal, Mrs. Mary Hutchinson of Cass City and chaplain, Mrs. Joan McDowell of Bad Axe.

About 150 OES members and guests from Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties were present for the meeting.

The Thumb Association is second in the State, behind Wayne county, in raising funds for college scholarship grants. Wayne has 60 OES chapters and the Thumb group, 25 chapters.

The spring meeting for 1969 will be at Marlette while the next annual fall meeting will be at Decker.

Mrs. Rockwell is the former Iva Eskilsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Eskilsen of Cass City.

People who talk to themselves hear a lot of compliments.

4-H offers programs for all

Experts tell us that no comparable period in history has seen greater and more significant changes than the past 25 years. We have seen man's conquest of the atom, which opened a new world of energy and power. We have seen man's conquest of space, which has even added new words to our vocabulary. We have seen man develop knowledge to conquer such age old problems as hunger and disease which have plagued him for centuries.

But along with new developments come broad social and economic problems of adjustment which bring new challenges.

When the 4-H idea was first introduced men of vision saw in the new program a way to help youth but also to introduce scientific research to skeptical adults. Those early-day educators gave boys improved varieties of seed corn and taught them improved cultivation practices, which finally resulted in many of those new practices being adopted by adults in their communities.

The story is similar with girls, starting a little later, in growing and canning tomatoes. Results were much the same.

However, it didn't take long for the educators to realize that something of great value was happening in the boys and girls as they worked at learning and applying the scientific principles.

POSSIBLY BECAUSE of the wet weather on opening day it was not until 11 a.m. that the first successful report by a deer hunter reached the Chronicle. The kill was credited to Jim LaRoche, left, but Louie Pierce Sr. and Bill Kolacz had a hand in it. The three were moving to a new location after two hours without sighting a deer when they spotted this seven-pointer in an open field. They all blasted away at a distance of about 200 yards.

Minor injuries in area crashes

Three minor accidents were reported in the Cass City area during the week to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Delores E. Ruby, 19, of Pigeon struck a buck deer on Cemetery Road, a quarter of a mile north of Bay City-Forestville Road. The car was slightly damaged.

Wednesday, Nov. 13, Henry John Gludavatz, 20, lost control of his car on Cass City Road, about six miles west of Cass City.

The car went into a ditch and rolled over on its top. Gludavatz escaped injury, but the car was wrecked.

The driver reported that an unidentified car came over the crest of the road and forced him to the shoulder.

Two persons were shaken up in a crash Thursday morning at 1:30. John Arthur Walker, 25, was chasing a car driven by Russel D. Irvine, 20, of Mayville on Bruisee Road, 200 feet from Bliss Road in Indianfields township.

The police report said that Walker had sounded his siren and blue lights were flashing. Irvine stopped and then started again. The Walker vehicle rammed the rear of the Irvine car.

Walker and Frank Babcock, 34, of Cass City were shaken up. Irvine and Joe Binienda, 16, Utica, were uninjured.

Frank J. Jordan, 47, Cass City, suffered bruises and

A picture this week of Jim Knoblet of Albion College makes him look grim and forbidding as an all-conference grid star should.

Unless he has changed a great deal since his Cass City High School days, the picture is misleading. Despite his size, agility and strength, Jim was always quiet, courteous and friendly.

Except on the football field where he earned "most valuable" and All-Conference honors as a Senior in 1964.

"If It Fitz..."

A modern day hero

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The note starts out: "Write something about modern day heroes."

I wrote the note myself several years ago. Then I stuck it in my tattered "column ideas" file and forgot it. Until right now, when I went looking for the note, hoping it would help me to write what I want to write about a friend of mine named John.

John is that forgotten soul, the small businessman. The guy with the small inventory who fights the huge chain stores. The guy with the whopping mortgage who works 8 to 12 hours every day, 6 days a week.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

General
State of Michigan, Probate Court for the County of Tuscola.
Estate of Elsie J. Denocour, deceased.

File No. 20296
It is Ordered that on November 27, 1968, at 10:30 a.m., in the Probate Courtroom, Caro, Michigan a hearing be held on the petition of Calvin W. MacRae, executor, for allowance of his final account and for assignment of residue.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule.

Dated: October 30, 1968.
C. Bates Wells, Judge of Probate.

Clinton C. House, Attorney for Estate, 6484 Main Street, Cass City, Michigan.

A true copy.
Beatrice P. Berry, Register of Probate.

and will open up on Sunday to do a favor for a friend. The guy who sweats and strains but somehow survives under an incredible burden of taxes - city, county, state, federal, income, property, sales, business activities and on and on. Filling out the hundreds of forms and keeping all the books is almost as hard as paying the taxes.

Oh, it's not all bad. John is his own boss and he makes a decent living. But he could make as much, or more, working for one of those big chains - and he would work and worry a lot less hours per week.

John started out as a salesman in the big city Sears store 30 years ago. If he'd stayed there, what with stock purchases and a sweet pension plan, he'd have been able to retire comfortably in just a few years. Now he probably won't retire until he's too old to enjoy the leisure time.

"Is it worth it, just to be your own boss?" I asked John 4 years ago. And John gave me the answer which prompted me to scribble that note dubbing him a modern hero who should be written about - someday.

John freely admitted he would have had an easier life if he hadn't gone into business for himself. He'd have fewer wrinkles and a nicer home. He'd have driven sharper cars and maybe learned how to ski, or taken a trip to Hawaii.

"I would have had a lot more time for fun. And without that big mortgage, I'd probably have had more money to spend," John admitted. "But, when it was all over, I'd have nothing to show for my life except some pleasant memories. I wanted to have something more to give to my son. He can take over a paid-for, established store in a nice town. It'll be much easier for him than it was for me. It will be a fine life for him."

And that was it, really. John was sacrificing so much, and working so hard, for his son.

I didn't tell John, because he'd have been embarrassed, but I thought he was pretty heroic. Not as ruggedly brave, perhaps, as the oldtime knights who slew dragons to protect their families. Not as heroic as the pioneers who fought Indians and the elements to make homes for their kids. But, still, John was heroic.

So I wrote that note and forgot it until now, when I pulled it out of the ragged file - the day after I heard that John's son had been killed in Vietnam.

Heavy advance sale for Harlem Globetrotters

Advance ticket sales had already reached $500 early this week and Athletic Director Robert Stickle said that indications are that a sell-out crowd will see the Original Harlem Globetrotters Monday night at Cass City High School.

Students received an advance glimpse of the world-famous Trotters when two members of the team staged a clinic Monday afternoon.

MEADOWLARK LEMON HARLEM GLOBETROTTERS

It is the first time in recent history that the court magicians have appeared in a community as small as Cass City.

Stickle said that the school was able to book them on an open date between engagements at larger cities.

The visitors will receive 70 per cent of the gate. Confident of their ability to attract paying customers, the organization required no guarantee. Promotional expenses will be paid by the Varsity Club, which sponsors the event.

Name Knoblet to all-MIAA all-star defensive team

JIM KNOBLET . . . . . all MIAA

Jim Knoblet of Cass City, a bulwark on defense all year for Albion College, was honored last week when he was named by the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association football coaches to the All-Conference team.

An offensive and defensive all-MIAA honor squad was selected. Knoblet and Rick Bensing of Birmingham were the two Albion representatives on the defensive team.

Knoblet is a Senior and played linebacker. He is 6-foot, one-inch and weighs 195 pounds.

He recently was named MIAA lineman of the week for his work in stopping the league's leading rusher.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Clem Webster announced to the fellers at the country store Saturday night that once agin them science fellers has improved on nature. Clem had saw in his farm journal where them folks at North Carolina State University had decided a sow makes a pore mother and they had made a machine to replace her.

This mechanic pig Mama is called the Autosow, Clem said, and them science fellers claims it does a better job of feeding and perfecting the pigs than their real Mama.

For instant, Clem said, one of the big mistakes nature makes with pigs is too many to the litter. According to nature, when a sow has more pigs than she's got places at the table the weak pigs that can't git to the table starve or grow up runts. The Autosow, Clem said, feeds all the pigs automatic and the same.

The Autosow treats everybody alike. Them science fellers found that pigs raised in a "free environment" was open to all kinds of risks and sickness, but the Autosow had brung equality to the pig world, was Clem's words. And the pigs was so young when the Autosow gits 'em they don't never know they had a real Mama.

Ed Doolittle thanked Clem for his fine report. Ed said the wimmen folks had been using the Auto-Ma fer years and he was glad we had worked out somepun fer the pigs. Based on what he had heard from the wimmen folks, Ed said he figured the sow would be mighty glad the Autosow came along.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed, was of the opinion that the Autosow would do fer the sow what nursery, kindeygarden, television, and throw-away dippers and bottles had done fer wimmen. In the old days, said Zeke, the Mama had to nurse her young'uns and look after 'em day and night but now she can farm 'em out and have time to git her hair fixed three times a week and with the bottles, she figgers her husband can feed the baby. They take the attitude, said Zeke, that, after all, the baby is as much his as hers.

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't agreed with the fellers on this trend of putting everthing on the automatic. I may be old fashioned but I figger a Mama had ought to be looking after her young'uns more and using the auto less. And I ain't too shore but what this new Autosow won't change the taste of hog meat afore they git through with it, change it fer the worse. I was reading this piece in the papers yesterday where them science fellers might be able to control the weather in another 10 year. I figger nature was coming closer to suiting everybody with the weather than a Government agency could. And if I know anything about them agencies, it shore will be a heap cheaper.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

BET SUGAR INDUSTRY OF MICHIGAN

AGRI-BUSINESS IN ACTION...

Sugarbeet growers in Michigan's Saginaw Valley have played a vital role in the agri business economy of our state since the turn of the century. Their progressive efforts combined with those of the state's two processing companies have boosted the dollar value of the sugarbeet crop to nearly $35 million dollars annually. In 1968 farmers in 17 Michigan counties harvested over 84,000 acres of beets. A crop that will produce nearly 350 million pounds of sugar for the Michigan market.

If you live in the Saginaw Valley-Thumb area of Michigan, you no doubt know someone that helps fill Michigan's "sugar bowl" each year. It makes good sense to buy a Michigan grown product. Help yourself to Michigan Made Pure Sugar the next time you shop. Ask for it by name—Pioneer or Big Chief. These brands in the red, white and blue bags represent the finest that Michigan agri-business has to offer.

AROUND THE FARM

Prescription

farming—a reality

By Don Kebler

Prescription farming is not a theory but a practice reality even though our farm operators don't view it this way.

Dairy operators feed their milk cows and calves separate rations based on the animal's requirements. Poultry, beef, swine and sheep operations manage their operations using time-tried and experience-proved methods. Cash crop operations fertilize, apply herbicides, select seed, etc., according to their achieved knowledge.

Where do these operators receive the information best adapted to their operation? Top operators gather their information from all sources, screen it and adopt the most favorable ideas to their needs.

Much of this information received originally came from a recommendation made at some time or other. Some of the original recommendations actually were made to solve specific problems. These recommendations we can specifically call farming prescriptions.

With the advent of blended fertilizers for instance, the door is now open all the way for more specific fertilizer prescriptions. This is because of a wider possible spread in the almost unlimited number of analyses that can be formulated.

Don't misinterpret this to mean prescription fertilizer use was not possible before blends came available because fertilizer manufacturers offered enough analyses selection to meet the needs. Besides this fact, every time a soil test-based fertilizer recommendation is made, this recommendation is in reality a fertilizer prescription based on the soil and crop demands.

As soil tests became more accurate and crop need more specific we are finding our regular long-time fertilizer analysis and ratios won't meet all the fertilizer prescriptions made.

An example of this would be where a fertilizer, to meet a wheat crop's total needs, was recommended to contain 50 pounds of nitrogen, 30 pounds of phosphorus and 150 pounds of potassium per acre. The soil is a sandy loam so we don't recommend plowing down the additional nitrogen not furnished by planting fertilizer. We would recommend plowing down 200 pounds of 0-0-60 per acre, plant with a complete fertilizer supplying 30 pounds of phosphorus and 30 pounds of potassium per acre. The additional nitrogen we would recommend as a late winter or early spring application.

This is a total prescription procedure for a crop for a specific soil.

Down the road we can expect prescription farming all the way from business management to crop and livestock production. This will occur because a small error in the operational procedure could well mean a big loss to the business. Prescription farming could prevent this.

Many lives depend upon blood bank

A blood bank is a rather modern concept in terms of the history of medicine and in terms of the history of civilization. There were no blood banks in the 19th century. In fact the blood bank at the University of Michigan was not begun until 1939. Actually the Russians got the credit for the whole idea of storing blood in one central location for issuance to the population as a whole.

Many changes have occurred in clinical medicine because of the presence and availability of a blood bank in the modern hospital.

Although function of the blood bank is still the storage of whole blood, other things are stored and prepared. Among these are platelets which is a fraction of whole blood used in the clotting mechanism, plasma compounds, including albumen, whole plasma and various factors for treatment of hemophilia. Also commercial preparations in the blood bank are made from a large number of patients blood units for treatment of various clotting defects.

Probably the largest impetus toward blood banks came from World War II and the Korean conflict because this made the entire population of the world aware of the urgent need for blood. . . blood properly typed and properly matched.

Something like 13 to 14 million units of blood were given in the United States during the second world war. People gave blood at the various red cross centers throughout the United States. The blood was centrifuged and the plasma was separated from these units of blood and cooled. It was then processed and shipped overseas. Because of the risk of hepatitis in the plasma, albumen was substituted for plasma in late 1944 because it has virtually no risk of hepatitis.

Today, blood banks and their personnel also perform an educational function, do diagnostic functions and advise on treatment of patients.

The educational functions are primarily those of educating technologists so that they may learn how to properly handle blood in hospitals. But they also educate pathology residents and residents in hematology so that they in turn may become medical directors of other blood banks.

The diagnostic function of the blood bank is to find out what is wrong with the patients who may have one or more of various diseases regarding blood. One of the most vivid examples of this is the infant with hemolytic disease of the newborn, so-called erythroblastosis. In this instance the blood bank has to find what the antibody is in the mother that will destroy the red cells of the infant. Also if there is an antibody present, the bank has to provide blood for the exchange transfusion that will occur shortly after the infant is delivered. More recently it has had to determine what the antibody is so that transfusion may be given in the uterus of the mother.

This requires the closest liaison between the obstetrician, pediatrician and the person in the blood bank. As soon as the baby is born the doctors are notified. They get a sample of the mother's blood, as well as the baby's blood and obtain appropriate units of blood for the exchange transfusion. Since this is a newborn infant they try to give relatively fresh blood. They match it with the mother's blood, making sure that they are compatible. If it is compatible with the mother it will be perfectly suitable for the infant.

Since dollars are not transfusable the doctors have to have blood and therefore depend on human beings. A large pool of donors are registered with blood banks. As many as 1500 to 2000 are listed for a single bank. These people are typed, not only in their ABO and RH systems but for a variety of other types and they cooperate at a very short notice for donations.

There are many other activities of blood banks but these are enough to illustrate their great importance in the health care of today's world.

Crib Deaths

More than 20,000 sleeping American children die each year in a rapid and mysterious way. The mother sees the child drifting off to sleep and—sometimes only a few minutes later—the baby is found to be dead, for no apparent reason. Much of the present research into these sudden, unexplained infant deaths is centered around the virus theory. Most deaths occur during the winter and spring, when respiratory infections are common, and parents sometimes recall a minor cold or snuffle that neither they nor their doctor was worried about.

Experts say crib deaths most often strike infants between two and four months of age; boys more often than girls; and they appear to be most common among people living under poor and crowded conditions. They discount the idea that a baby will smother in its blankets, or that a sleeping mother will roll over on her child.

The problem is so mysterious, researchers admit they don't really know where to begin their search.

But they have trouble convincing parents that they aren't to blame. Other children in the family sometimes unconsciously share their parents' sense of guilt. Doctors and baby sitters are sometimes blamed. Neighbors have shown an alarming degree of suspicion, spoken and unspoken.

Of all the theories connected with crib deaths, only one is considered generally true: the parents had nothing to do with them, nor could they have prevented them.

Wall of flame in fire of 1881

By Dan Marlowe

Area residents interested in learning more about the early days of their communities would do well to obtain a new book by Gerard Schultz of Elkton. Titled WALLS OF FLAME, it is the detailed, authenticated history of the great Michigan fire of 1881.

Gerard Schultz has a statewide reputation as a meticulous researcher, and the volume does him credit. His sources were primary: newspaper accounts of the period, eyewitness reports of survivors, and letters and documents of the various agencies dealing with the fire's aftermath. A number of illustrations are included.

People tend to remember the catastrophe as applying only to the Thumb of Michigan, but actually the fire ranged from southern Arenac to portions of Lapeer, Genesee, and St. Clair counties. Moving from west to east, however, the fire became progressively worse. Eastern Tuscola, northern Sanilac, and eastern Huron counties received the full force of the fire-storm.

Roderick Park of Bad Axe, 21 years old in 1881, is quoted in Mr. Schultz's book. Park said among other things "that from Bad Axe eastward, the onrushing flames would leap high into the air, then descend to the ground like a bouncing ball, burn everything before them, then rise for another leap. Under the arch made by the leaping flames, the area was unscathed, thus some buildings in the path of the fire were not burned. Where they struck there was utter destruction. Farming implements had every particle of wood burned off. Handles were burned from the ploughs left in the furrows. All that was found of wooden harrows were the iron teeth. Any tree of four inches in diameter was struck by the descending flames withered into nothingness, and this destruction went on until stopped by the waters of Lake Huron."

Or, in a few cases, it was stopped short of the shoreline villages by a sudden shift in the wind. It might be added that it wasn't only trees or houses that withered into nothingness when struck by the descending flames. It was human beings as well.

Hindsight says there was sufficient advance warning about the danger of the situation since there had been fires in an increasing area for two weeks prior to the fatal day during that drought autumn of 1881. The lack of speedy communication proved devastating, however, when winds of near hurricane force united scattered small fires into literal "walls of flame."

A sidelight of the book is its revelation that among the relief agencies which rushed to help was the Red Cross in their very first disaster effort. The book goes into detail about the efforts (sometimes conflicting) of various relief agencies to aid families who had been burned out completely and were facing the rigors of an oncoming

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A special meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held November 12, 1968 at the Municipal Building. All members were present.

President Althaver read a petition concerning the installation of lights on Kennebec Drive, requesting that further consideration be given to the matter. Considerable discussion followed with certain residents of the street. The council took no action to rescind the original motion to install the lights.

There being no further business to come before the council, Trustee Ross moved to adjourn. Trustee Golding supported the motion and it was duly carried.

MPSC rules determine phone, gas, electric bills

PUBLIC WATCHDOG

Government watchdogs in Lansing are supposed to see to it that the electric, gas and telephone companies don't gyp their customers.

That's the job of the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC), the agency which screens public utility requests for rate increases.

It has the duty to allow rate levels high enough to provide a fair and reasonable return to utility shareholders, but no higher.

The MPSC's accountants, engineers, economists, auditors and other specialists have their hands full most of the time with rate petitions.

****

"Each petition is given thorough consideration, including a public hearing," said Knight D. McKesson, commission secretary. "The ratepayer's posture is always on the commissioner's mind."

Some utilities file requests for immediate fee increases, with the stipulation they will roll them back if the commission rejects the petition.

But under the law, "partial and immediate" rate relief can be granted only on solid evidence of need, notice to ratepayers and an opportunity for full and complete public hearings.

As state agencies go, the MPSC is peanuts. Before transfer of 89 truck weight regulation workers from the highway department, it employed only 97 of the nearly 44,000 on the state payroll.

The commission's size hasn't changed appreciably in 10 years, and repeated requests for more manpower are routinely rejected in the legislature. Utility lobbyists seldom weep about this.

The commission's chairman, Peter Spivak, a Republican Detroit attorney, draws $20,500. Commissioners Willis Ward of Detroit, a Republican, and William Boos Jr., of Bay City, a Democrat, each get $19,000.

Real watchdog unit within the commission, the public utilities division -- or "staff" as it is known in rate cases -- consists of 27 persons.

These include six accountants, two economists, 11 engineers, an engineering technician and seven administrative and clerical personnel.

This handful monitors 30 electric utilities counting co-ops, 11 gas companies, 72 telephone companies, 15 private water companies and, in a limited way, 26 gas pipeline firms.

The staff runs a continuous rotating check on the value of utility assets -- generators, utility poles, switchboards and pipe lines.

In a rate case, the value of plant and property used to provide service is a crucial concept. Reasonable returns to investors is figured on a percentage of plant investment.

After the petitioning utility finishes its testimony, the MPSC staff develops an entire case on its own. In 1960 when the MPSC granted its last general rate increase to Michigan Bell Telephone Co. of $4 million, the staff recommended a rate reduction of $4.1 million, and was backed by one commissioner, the late James Lee, a former assistant Detroit Corp. counsel.

Where does John Q. Ratepayer figure in MPSC proceedings?

He can write the commission a letter or postcard, attend a public hearing in person and give his views, or join with others in submitting a petition.

As one out of 2 1/2 million, his impact is likely to be slight. Rate cases are highly complicated and specialists are almost a necessity. It is not enough merely to say "I don't want to pay more."

****

Only a big city with experienced attorneys, engineers and accountants experienced in ratemaking concepts has the know how and financing to conduct a skillful intervention.

Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley, who has a staff assistant assigned to the MPSC, can intervene in any rate petition case on behalf of Michigan ratepayers.

The state government directly pays tens of millions of dollars annually in telephone, electric and gas bills, and thus is a leading customer of the major utilities.

And, the state government is comprised of the people.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross
Extension Agent

Have you checked the label on your table salt lately? If you don't find the word "iodized," you'll want to look twice when you purchase the next box of salt.

You can't always be certain that the foods you eat supply enough iodine. And an adequate supply of iodine is necessary to keep the thyroid gland working properly.

The amount of iodine in fruits, vegetables, cereals, meats and fish varies greatly in different parts of the country. One of the best natural sources of iodine is sea foods found in salt water. Michigan, however, is in the "goiter belt" where the foods grown and the water supply are deficient in iodine content.

A goiter epidemic 40 years ago brought to the public's attention the necessity of including iodine in our diets to prevent this thyroid disease. At that time an extensive publicity campaign was conducted to urge people to purchase iodized salt. It worked -- the epidemic ended. But today many people are lax and don't always bother to check the label to see if iodine is included in their salt.

Iodized salt can usually be found side-by-side on your grocer's shelf with the non-iodized salt. Both are sold at the same price. Use it every day in your cooking and have it handy on the table. It doesn't cost you any more to be safe.

C. C. H. S.

Last Monday afternoon the Biology II students went on a field trip, which took them to Kingston and Westward. The class learned about and saw the Mayville Moraine, a huge ridge left by the glacier; the Kingston Kome, a cone-shaped earthen deposit; an Esker, a huge ridge which is the remains of a river under the glacier; and a pit lake (Cat Lake), which was formed by a huge chunk of ice that broke off the glacier. The class also learned that Deford school is built upon the beach of the lake that once covered the Thumb area.

After visiting the Deford school, the students were taken to the "Stone Wall," which crosses M-53 just south of M-81. This "wall" consists of a chain or line of boulders and rocks. Mr. Hirn, Biology instructor, informed the students that it was the aftermath of a shallow lake which once covered our area.

Thursday an experimental Honor Study Hall was initiated. In this study hall the students are on their honor -- they actually have no restrictions as to where in the school they may go or as to how they are to study. To qualify for this position, the students must have made the honor roll last marking period.

Friday eleven girls in Mr. Woody's shorthand II class were taken to Northwood Institute, Delta College, and Saginaw Business school by Mr. Woody and Mr. Cleland. The purpose of the trip was to look the schools over, to see the classes they have to offer, and to just become acquainted with the schools in order to help those who went choose which school they would want to go to for a business education.

The girls visited the dorms, classrooms, and various C.C.H.S. students who now attend these schools.

The eleven who went are: Yvonne Briolat, Linda Canfield, Cheryl Dorland, Karen Gaffney, Marsha Geister, Mary Nicholaw, Elaine Powell, Pam Randall, Pat Rutkowski, Lori Smith, and Kathy Turner.

CLUB NEWS

The Future Teachers Club held a special meeting Tuesday, November 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School Library in observance of American Education Week.

Carol Clarke, president, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Dale Hines, Director of Education -- Caro State Hospital. Special guests were teachers and parents. Refreshments were served.

The FTA also sponsored a book sale in the front hall of the high school last week in recognition of American Education Week and to raise money for future projects.

TID BITS

Last Wednesday, November 13, Miss Isbister's tenth grade English class presented a play entitled "Under the Harvest Moon". The characters were: Kathy Dorland ----- Pumpkin Cathy Field ----- Ghost Cheyenne Turner ----- Black Cat Cindy McClorey ----- Witch Sharon Crawford ----- Wise Old Owl Susan Turner ----- Tom Joyce Karr ----- Ruth Special props and costumes were made for the play, which was presented to the English class and to Mr. Woody's shorthand class.

The senior class is sponsoring a semi-formal Christmas prom Saturday night, December 14, at the High School. This year the class hopes the public will attend, as a band was chosen to please their as well as the students' tastes. The cafeteria will be decorated around the theme of "Christmas Magic". We're asking adults to forget the so called "generation gap" and to come and celebrate the joyous Christmas season with the youth of C.C.H.S.

Last week, the gym was opened to students during the lunch hour to play basketball or listen to records. This provides a place for the students to relax before their next hour class.

Meet Mrs. Weaver. Originally from Mt. Pleasant, Mrs. Weaver attended Central Michigan University where she majored in Home Economics and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Applied Arts and Sciences.
