

TURNING OVER THE TAX rolls to new Elkland Township Supervisor Maynard McConkey (left) is Ed Golding Sr., who officially resigned Friday evening.

First board to establish future patterns-Golding

Policies established by the charter members of the new district board of supervisors for Tuscola County that convenes for the first time Jan. 6 are apt to furnish the guidelines for the new board for years to come.

Now the seven-man board sets up committees, decides procedures and generally functions as apt to be the way the board will operate for years to come, Ed Golding, the area's district representative feels.

And the slim, erect semi-retired farmer has obviously thought a good deal about the advantages and disadvantages of the new district board.

Pensively weighing his words in a Chronicle interview Friday just prior to his resignation from the Elkland Township Board, Golding observed that:

● The new county board will be forced to meet at least once a week or more.

● That the entire board will serve on important committees. For instance, he mused, instead of a committee meeting with the sheriff, I think the procedure will be to have the sheriff report to the whole board to discuss problems and plans of action.

● That there will be a communication problem with constituents under the new system.

● That the seven-man board will reach conclusions easier but not necessarily as well as the previously larger board.

● That finding competent men to be supervisors of townships may prove to be a problem in the years ahead.

New supervisor

McConkey pledges fire hall support

Maynard McConkey, 56, the new Elkland Township Supervisor, said last week that he was in favor of pushing ahead with a new building for the Elkland Township Fire Department.

I can't speak for the rest of the board, McConkey continued, but I feel that if we wait for three years the money we will gain from the one-mill tax will be eaten up by increased costs.

If the board concurs, action could start very soon on the project as the township can borrow the necessary money for building without voting a general obligation or revenue

Sentence pair in Tuscola Circuit Court

Judge James Churchill sent Larry Parrish, 19, of Caro to Jackson Prison for 3 to 14 years for parole violation and placed Thomas Lee Brown, 18, of Vassar on probation.

The criminal cases were heard Tuesday in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro. Parrish had been placed on probation for forgery and uttering and publishing. He had failed to report to his probation office for two months or make restitution as specified in his original trial. Credit for time spent in jail awaiting trial was allowed.

Brown pleaded guilty to breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny. He was fined $200, ordered to pay court costs of $200 and make restitution of $117.95 at the rate of $50 per month.

The first four months of the sentence will be served in the Tuscola County Jail. Credit for 52 days served will be allowed,

The other day, Golding said, I attended a meeting in which an assessor for the entire county was discussed. Take away the assessing and what is left for the supervisor to do?

Golding fears that it is a trend towards centralization of government and deplores the removal of control from the people. As a representative of district two, Golding will represent residents of Novesta, Elwood, Ellington and Elkland townships.

While a per diem payment is expected, Golding would like to see it changed to a salary basis, plus an expense allowance. This would be payment for work that must be done outside of the Caro meetings and would be a fairer arrangement, he explained.

BOARD CHAIRMAN

When supervisors attended sessions as representatives of townships, the chairman of the board was elected on the basis of tenure.

The chairman of the ways and means committee moved up to the chairmanship. If this procedure were followed, Harold Johnson, Indianfields township, would head the board.

On the basis of service Golding is the oldest member of the new board, but he has been chairman of the township board of supervisors.

Whether this will disqualify him for consideration in January will not be known until the new board sets its policy.

That's what I mean, when I say that what we do next year will form the patterns for the years ahead, Golding noted.

Under the old system, Golding continued, a knotty problem was often thrown out to the board as a whole and the discussion of the 25-member board often brought a joint solution.

I don't feel that a seven-man board will do it as well... quicker, perhaps, but not as well, Golding said a trifle regretfully, as he probably thought about the way things were and the changes ahead.

Keith McConkey of Cass City became the fifth person in the village to earn Scouting's highest award, the Silver Beaver Medal, awarded for his 40 years of volunteer service to Scouting.

McConkey joins C. R. Hunt, H. M. Buley, Ray Fleenor and Edward Baker, the only previous winners of the award in Cass City.

He has worked at nearly all levels of Scouting. He served as assistant scoutmaster,

The cost of government will be increased under the system. The new board will set its own salary and $30,000 has been allotted for running it in the recently adopted county budget.

Although nothing can be finalized until the board meets in January, Golding sees per diem of $30 per day for regular meetings, plus a mileage allowance.

At board meeting

Guernseys seek better school-parent relations

Spurred by the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Guernsey at the Cass City School Board discussed methods for improved communications with parents Monday night at the regular board meeting at Cass City High School.

The Guernseys opened the discussion by asking if anything could be done to improve the climate between the board and the parents.

Do you feel, Guernsey said, that the parent interest in the school is at a satisfactory level? If not, what can be done

FROM THE Editor's Corner

It doesn't always pay to advertise.

After the Chronicle's story about city residents' interest in Cass City land for retirement and investment, last week, I learned of an incident that illustrates this interest.

Broker John McCormick was the innocent fall guy. He advertised 220 acres of land in several metro dailies for $55,000. Three of the four got it right but the Detroit Free Press printed the price minus one zero.

The ad broke Wednesday and that night McCormick received two calls. Before he got to work the next morning the phone rang five more times to set the pattern for the day.

Before it was over, McCormick had been called to the phone over 100 times to explain the paper's goof.

But the worst of it was, he said ruefully, that in addition to the calls, five different persons drove all the way here from the city to look at this bargain property.

No, I didn't sell the land, John said, but I did get my money back.

Most television is a glut of trivia and the programs from year to year are predictable in pattern and scope. . . or lack of it.

An exception is the CBS news documentary that runs for an hour at periodic intervals Tuesday at 10 p.m.

A couple of weeks ago the program was devoted to a study and interview of Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black and this week the show looked at sexual assault in prisons and shifting.

It was entertaining and informative. Despite the high caliber of this show the one vast wasteland of television is still editorial opinion . . . or lack of it.

Television has the men and the capability, but it's hamstrung. The electronic communication media is licensed by the Federal Communications Commission.

Without this FCC license stations are out of business.

So rather than risk FCC wrath, television confines its editorials to (1) against sin and (2) for motherhood.

about it?

The situation needs improving, Mrs. Guernsey said, and if there is a "not welcome" feeling something should be done about it.

President Horace Buley said that he certainly hoped that everyone would feel welcome to come to any of the board meetings at any time.

We are open to suggestions as to possible solutions to any parent-teacher gap that might exist," Buley continued.

The Guernseys suggested a committee of parents, teachers and school board members. It was pointed out that the Parent-Teacher organizations died from lack of interest.

Principal Arthur Holmberg said that a series of coffee klatches with up to 25 parents held in the morning at the school to informally discuss school problems and curriculum had proved successful at another school.

Although no formal action was taken, the board generally agreed to this program.

OPEN HOUSE

One definite commitment of the board to better relations with the community is an open house similar to the one held when the high school was thrown open for inspection last spring.

Supt. Don Crouse said that he felt that teacher-parent relations were helped by the teacher conferences held in the intermediate and grade schools.

Good relations with district taxpayers are especially important at this time to the school which will be asking for additional tax money for operating purposes before the start of the next school year.

The Guernseys concluded their presentation to the board by volunteering to serve on any committee or helping in any way possible to further parent-teacher school involvement.

Other than the discussion sparked by the appearance of the Guernseys there was very little business of interest conducted by the board in the portion of the session open to the public.

The board okayed a low bid for a second steam kettle in the high school kitchen at a cost of $1,066. It will be purchased from Clark's Store Fixtures, the lower of two bidders.

Three machines for the business office were purchased from Friden at a bid price of $1,095, some $40 over the lowest bid. The additions are two 10-key adding machines and a printing calculator. Order for two full-day adding machines was delayed pending a bid from Burrough Corporation.

Holmberg reported on the curriculum day held recently at the school.

SECRET SESSION

In the secret session that followed the regular meeting the salary of Mona Phillips, who joined the cooking staff at Cass City High School this fall, was raised to $2.10 per hour.

Intermediate Principal Robert Stickley attended the board session but made no report during the session open to the people.

Board peeks at lab gadgetry

Despite the space age gadgetry used at Cass City High School to teach foreign languages, the school board and visitors learned Monday evening that nothing replaces the traditional study methods with which millions have labored for generations.

That's the opinion of Mrs. Leone Shaw, foreign language instructor, as expressed to board members visiting the foreign language lab at the school as part of the regular board session.

The members, sitting slightly self-consciously in the students' chairs with earphones attached and microphones at the ready, repeated softly words as recorded on a sound track played with Mrs. Shaw, the button punching maestro, standing in front of the room.

Garbled French and Spanish words came pouring out in unison at the command of the seductively soft voice on the tape or the gentle insistence of Mrs. Shaw.

With the machinery, the board learned, it's possible to have a different lesson for each of the pupils in the class or nearly any combination up to the same lesson for everyone in the lab.

But the gadgetry is not a cure-all, Mrs. Shaw emphasized. It doesn't replace formal instruction. . . simply reinforces it.

It also gives the student an opportunity to hear different voices speak the language studied.

ELEMENTARY STUDY

One of the real answers for a better foreign language curriculum, Mrs. Shaw noted, is to start teaching the subject in the grades. I've fought for 20 years for this. . . and we started it once with success, but were forced to drop it . . . lack of funds, I guess.

It would take another teacher to start the program in the grades now, Mrs. Shaw said.

Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn quizzed Mrs. Shaw about the language curriculum and was told that French and Spanish are offered on alternate years. Two years of each is now offered and the third year is available when enough pupils indicate they want it. There is no third-year language course at the school today.

Since the lab has been in operation just this semester it is still too early for an accurate evaluation of its worth in Cass City.

One major advantage is that it allows the teacher to instruct at the level of development of each student through individual lessons via the earphones.

Another is that the new equipment makes the course more attractive to a higher percentage of students.

And for all who struggled, struggled, struggled with the complexities of language learning this could be the biggest advantage of all.

District tourney play returns to Cass City

For the first time since Caro built its new high school, Cass City will host a district basketball tournament.

Athletic Director Bob Stickley announced that a six-team Class C tournament will be held at the high school in March.

The luck of the draw makes the district one of the easier ones in the area. There are no powerhouse teams. Sebewaing and Frankenmuth, probably the best of C in the area, will play at other sites.

The teams carded for Cass City are: Harbor Beach, Deckerville, Sandusky, Marquette and Uby.

Annual fete for retarded set

Annually in recent years, students attending the school for mentally retarded have been guests in Cass City during the Christmas season.

Dick Hendrick, Cass Theatre owner, reported that arrangements for another party concluded on page 5 scoutmaster and troop committeeman. He is currently the institutional representative here.

He is an active member of the Masons, Eastern Star, Rotary Club, Council of Churches and Chamber of Commerce. He is a past president of Rotary, the Chamber of Commerce and Council of Churches.

A native of this area, he entered business in Cass City as manager of an A & P Store in 1928. He left the grocery chain to open a jewelry store in 1946 which he operates today with his wife, Mildred.

The McConkeys have two children, Mrs. Joseph (Marilyn) Dressel of Midland and Fred of Holland.

Besides his work on various clubs, McConkey has been an active member of the Methodist Church.

The award was presented at the first annual meeting of the Arrowhead District, Saginaw Bay Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, at Saginaw.

Never drunk, but still an alcoholic

Alcoholism is a chronic disease manifested by repeated, suspicion-arousing or marked drinking so as to cause injury to the drinker's physical or mental health as well as his social or economic functioning. This definition - the latest one from the top medical doctors - does not rest solely on the quantity consumed, but rather what it does to the individual's life.

A person cannot be an alcoholic without having been intoxicated by alcohol. Every alcoholic achieves a certain alcohol blood level. There are different mental images of what is called intoxication. Alcoholics may not show it nearly as much as the amateur or social drinker, and may give an impression of being less intoxicated than they are in reality.

Strictly speaking alcoholism is probably a symptom rather than a very definite disease, but it's such a predominant, overwhelming, obnoxious symptom that everyone who has the symptom tends to be clustered into a single group and called an alcoholic.

Certainly the problem of alcoholism is a great one. Economically it is estimated that in this country it cost something like 2 billion dollars a year in terms of time lost on the job, errors in judgement in work and so forth to say nothing of the great social effect this has in breaking up families.

The incidence of this in the United States is 5 million. That estimate is based on the number of autopsies which turn up in people that have definite indications of being an alcoholic. . . for instance, the number of postmortem studies which reveal cirrhosis of the liver, and so on. They are a rather accurate estimate - at least it's difficult to make a better one because of the hidden nature of alcoholism.

There are perhaps 20 to 40 ways in which one can recognize alcoholism in others. The most prominent symptom of alcoholism and one that appears quite early in the development of this illness is the blackout. Here the individual wakes up the morning after one of his drinking bouts and is unable to recall a part or all of the previous evening when he was drinking. Now mind you, he had been conscious and operating during that time, but he is unable to recall a part or all of that evening. In other words, it's an amnesia and it's total and final, he never again recalls that period.

It's hard to recognize an alcoholic by the way he drinks, either in quantity or the duration of time he drinks, or his attitude toward drinking.

The literature abounds with description of drinking - the sneak drinker, the drinker who drinks a great deal and at the same time sort of denies that he's drinking much. These signs are not too reliable, for very often the alcoholic's drinking is almost undistinguishable from other people's drinking. His large intake, is sufficiently subtle, hidden camouflaged by him that those around him aren't really aware of the fact that he is drinking a little bit more. Anyone who has to go on when others in his group have quit, had enough, probably is in the early clutches of alcoholism.

Alcoholism can be viewed as an attempt to escape from some painful situation. Anxiety is universal and there is no question that alcohol is used, and not only by alcoholics, to relieve anxiety, to lower tension and to expand the ability to enjoy certain activities. With alcoholics this ability to extinguish, or lower anxiety levels by alcohol, has gone haywire and they are no longer able to control their need for the drug. They use it to an extent that is destructive to themselves and those around them.

Many people have said that the individual who drinks alone is more apt to be the alcoholic than the individual who drinks at a party or with his spouse, but the experts don't believe that anymore. They find that most alcoholics are very gregarious, often will travel long distances to enjoy the company of a fellow alcoholic while drinking. They are not lone drinkers as a rule. However, the lone drinker who is an alcoholic is often a part of that small segment of alcoholics, less than 5% perhaps, who are in skidrow, the derelict type.

If you take a group of alcoholics and get a family history you will find a significantly high number of alcoholic antecedents in their families, but no one has ever been able to demonstrate that alcoholism is an inherited defect.

By H. M. Bulen

If you want your son to grow up and make a lot of money playing football, what position should you encourage him to play? . . . A survey taken recently in pro football shows that quarterbacks, of course, make the most money. . . The group of players making the next-most are the fullbacks. . . Next come the halfbacks. . . Then come, in order, the centers, ends, line-backers, guards, tackles, and finally the lowest-paid group are defensive cornerbacks and safeties.

Here's an oddity about one of the great backs in football this season, Leroy Keyes of Purdue. . . Can you believe that Keyes did not learn to walk till long after other children his age in Newport News, Va., where he grew up. . . Isn't it odd that Keyes got such a late start in being able to walk, and now is one of the very best runners in the country.

Here's a good football question for you. . . One of the most famous coaches today is Bear Bryant of Alabama -- but the question is: Can you name the man who was the Alabama coach before Bryant? . . . You have to be a pretty good fan to remember this. . . Answer is J. B. (Ears) Whitworth, who coached Alabama from 1955 through 1957. . . Bryant took over in 1958.

Hold line spending, tax may doom parochial aid

LEGISLATIVE STRUGGLE

Proposals for new or expanded taxation and spending face an uphill struggle in the Michigan Legislature next year.

That was assured when Republican members of the Senate agreed to hold the line on present revenues and appropriations.

Meeting in caucus at Cadillac, they expressed fear that unless this fiscal posture was taken,

Michigan might again run up a deficit budget that would equal the infamous payless payday of 10 years ago.

"It's a matter of fiscal stability and integrity," said Sen. Thomas F. Schweigert of Petoskey. "We don't want to paint the state into a corner. We want to continue sound budgetary practices."

PRESSURE FOR SPENDING

The GOP Caucus agreement apparently spells trouble for proposed state tax aid to parochial schools and other new programs. Forces supporting parochial aid have suggested, among other things, raising the income tax to provide the funds.

But Schweigert, president pro tem of the Senate, and Majority Leader Emil Lockwood of St. Louis said they don't look for increased income taxes.

"There are two routes open to the 1969 Legislature," Schweigert said. "We can raise taxes and fund some new programs, or we can stay within the present program and revenue framework. I would say the consensus is for the latter."

Lockwood did not entirely rule out parochial aid, but he acknowledged its chances for approval next year are very slim.

"The only logical way parochial aid could develop is through new taxes—and I don't know of anyone who wants that," he said.

Schweigert said there could be another effort to raise the state cigarette tax from 7 to 10 cents per pack, but this would not produce a long range solution to the need for more money to fund new programs.

Two years ago, the Legislature rejected a three-cent cigarette tax hike plan. It was estimated then that this would raise $30 million a year.

ASSIGN JOBS

The GOP caucus filled several key leadership and committee assignments.

Lockwood was re-elected senate majority leader; Sen. Robert Vanderlaan of Grand Rapids, majority floor leader, and Schweigert, president pro tem.

Sen. Milton Zaagman of Grand Rapids was named to replace Sen. Gilbert Bursley of Ann Arbor as assistant president pro tem. Bursley reportedly is headed for a federal post in the Nixon Administration.

Other new assignments included Sen. N. Lorraine Beebe of Dearborn, assistant majority floor leader, succeeding Sen. Charles O. Zollar of Benton Harbor, and Sen. John F. Toepf of Cadillac, majority whip, replacing Zaagman.

Zollar was selected permanent chairman of the powerful Senate appropriations committee, succeeding Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair, who resigned from the Legislature this year.

Beadle's seat on the committee was awarded to Sen. Gary Byker of Hudsonville. Sen. Robert J. Huber of Troy was named chairman of the state affairs committee.

Other major assignments included Sen. George W. Kuhn of Birmingham, chairman of the municipalities and elections committee; Sen. Anthony Stamm of Kalamazoo, chairman of the education committee, and Sen. Harold W. Hungerford of Lansing, membership on the Legislative Council.

The Senate's newest member, Alvin J. DeGroot of Pigeon, was given the chairmanship of the agriculture committee and membership on the state affairs committee. He was elected Nov. 5 to succeed Beadle.

HIGH PRICED

Michigan's lawmakers may become the second highest paid in the nation if they receive the $18,000 in salaries and expenses recommended for them by the new state salary commission.

The eight-member commission also recommended the Governor be given a $25,000-a-year expense account to go with his $40,000-a-year salary. The Lieutenant Governor would receive $3,000 in expenses in addition to his present $22,500 salary.

Legislative salaries for the 110 representatives and 38 senators are now divided between $12,500 in pay and $2,500 in unaccountable expenses. The lawmakers would receive $15,000 in pay and a maximum of $3,000, or $20 per day, for food, lodging and mileage expenses during the legislative session under the commission schedule.

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held Nov. 26, 1968 at the Municipal Building. All members were present except Trustee Dillman.

The minutes of the regular meeting held Oct. 29 and a special meeting held Nov. 12 were read and approved.

The financial report for Oct. was reviewed and approved. The park committee reported that the football field had been freshly covered with dirt and newly seeded. The North Park area work has not been started yet but will be at the earliest possible time.

Council discussed with residents of the Kennebec Drive area, the installation of lights in that area. The type of lights to be installed, costs, area, rights of way, and recommendations of Detroit Edison were discussed at length. Further investigation will be made before the final plans are made. The order has been entered with Detroit Edison but delays in installation are anticipated.

Members of the Planning Commission were present to recommend that the Council accept for final approval the Hills and Dales No. 3 sub-division plat. It was so moved by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Golding. Yes 5, No 0, motion carried.

President Althaver introduced Mrs. Marian Keating, President of the Library Board, who presented the plans for a library building that they hope to be able to build in 1969. Members of the township board, and the Planning Commission were present and after considerable discussion, it was suggested that a committee be formed by members appointed from the Council, Township board, and the Planning Commission to help with the continuation of the program that has been started.

Trustee Rawson moved that the bills as reviewed by the financial committee be approved. Trustee Albee supported the motion and it was duly carried.

There being no further business to come before the council Trustee Ross moved to adjourn. Trustee Selby supported the motion and it was carried.

Girl Scouts in many projects

Juniors of Troop 170 have been selling Girl Scout calendars. The girls have also completed about 84 badges. The troop had a tour of Hills and Dales Hospital at Thanksgiving time when they took tray favors for the patients. Leaders Mrs. Don Eria and Mrs. Virginia Kelley met with the girls Dec. 2 at the scout room to salute Juliet Lowe, founder of Girl Scouting. The girls wore costumes and brought food from other countries, representing Girl Scouts the world over.

Brownie Troop 764, under the leadership of Mrs. Tom Herron and Mrs. Hank Nolan, made bead necklaces for 50 girls in cottage 17 at Caro State Hospital for Thanksgiving. A tree was donated by Frank Beutler and placed in the Scout Room last week.

Mrs. Duane Rushio and Mrs. Wayne Brinkman, along with Mrs. Raymond Spaulding, took Brownie Troop 644 to the Featherstone Nursing Home in Caro where the girls presented Thanksgiving gifts. They met the patients whom they will be doing things for throughout this Scouting year.

Frosh cagers nip Bad Axe, 65-49

Cass City's Freshmen cage squad turned in an opening game victory Thursday with a 65-49 decision over the Frosh from Bad Axe.

Nine boys shared the scoring for Cass City. Jim Wentworth carded 21 and Bob DeLong and Karl Zawilinski chipped in nine points each.

Coach John Blfoss said that fine team play and passing resulted in several high percentage close-in shots. Hustle and rebounding made our fast break work, Blfoss said.

Bob Arch led Bad Axe with 16 points. The next Frosh game will be at Marlette Thursday, Dec. 12.

Marr: record case load by year's end

Although Sheriff Hugh Marr has not compiled the official figures, 1968 promises to be the busiest year on record for the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Marr said this week that he estimated there would be 2,000 more complaints this year than there were in 1967.

Compounding the increased case load is a shortage of men that will be more acute starting Jan. 1 when deputies will go on 40-hour weeks.

The sheriff said that five or six new men will be needed to operate the department at full strength under the new work schedule.

We are suffering now on call backs of some types of complaints. A percentage of these cases could be solved if more follow up time were available.

Hugh Munro dies in auto crash

Hugh C. Munro, 56, civilian chief of the mortuary branch of Air Force headquarters at the Pentagon, was killed Thursday, Dec. 5, in a head-on automobile collision on Route 95 near Dumfries, Va. His home was in Alexandria.

Smith cited for cost reducing tip

Alvin C. Smith, U. S. Soil Conservation Service technician, assisting the Tuscola Soil Conservation District at Caro, Michigan, received a special award for making a suggestion which resulted in the improvement and economy of operations in the SCS.

This award was in the form of a Certificate of Appreciation from the U. S. Department of Agriculture and was signed by Verne Bathurst, State Conservationist of the Michigan Soil Conservation Service. It also included a cash award.

Mr. Smith suggested an improved method of running topographical surveys which are required for many soil conservation practices, particularly tile drainage. His suggestion will save the SCS many dollars and time.

Born in Elk Rapids, Mich., Mr. Munro lived in the area since the end of World War II and worked for the Air Force since 1948. For 13 years before moving to Washington, D.C., he directed and operated the Munro Funeral Home in Cass City. He was a 1933 graduate of Worsham College of Mortuary Science in Chicago. He attended Air Force Management School at George Washington University in 1953.

Mr. Munro was a director of the Suburban National Bank of Virginia and a member of Elmer Timberman Masonic Lodge 54, the Kenna Temple and Court of Jesters of the Shriners, and the Kiwanis Club.

He leaves his wife, the former Mildred McQuarrie; three sons, Hugh Jr., Craig and Kirk; and a sister, Mrs. Roger Moon, and brother Dugald, both of Traverse City.

Funeral services were held Monday at the Pearson's Funeral Home, Falls Church. Burial was Tuesday in Elk Rapids.

Letters to Editor

Mrs. Keating berates story

Mr. John Haire
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan

Dear Sir:

The following are errors which occurred in the December 5 article on the Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library. Will you please publish this letter so that residents of the five townships we serve will have a more accurate and less garbled version of the meeting.

Teachers like industrial tour

Dear Mr. Haire,

The Cass City teachers wish to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Crouse, the management and employees of General Cable, Walbro, and Anrod for the excellent tours which we received Monday. It was evident that these tours were very well planned, at a great expense to the companies involved. We appreciate the sacrifices which these companies made to make these tours possible.

We were very happy to discover the great interest which industry has in education in Cass City. It was encouraging to hear about the educational programs which these industries have.

We feel that the half day which we spent was very profitable. We have discovered some of the things which make Cass City the place where we enjoy teaching. We have gained much knowledge and can now feel more a part of this community. Some of us did not realize the large number of products which Cass City produces. Some of us didn't know Anrod even existed or what was produced at Walbro's.

The deepest regret, which I sensed from my fellow-teachers, was the lack of time. We found things so interesting that we could have spent a full day and still not have all of our questions answered.

Once again to all those people who planned and made this possible, we say thank you.

Dorland R. Kuntz
Cass City Education Association.

1. The Library Board appeared before the Village Council, Township Trustees and Zoning Commission to present their blueprints for approval, suggestions and advice; and to ask to have several people appointed to the Building Program of the Library so the responsibility does not rest on just four persons when it comes to building a new library.

2. The library did not purchase a 66' by 132' building -- they purchased a 66' by 132' lot at the southwest corner of Seeger and Pine streets.

3. This lot was not purchased for about $12,000. It was purchased for $12,000 right on the nose.

4. The library does not have expenses of $10,000 per year. Their expenses run between $3,000 and $6,000 per year.

5. It does not cost the Village of Cass City $300 a year to heat the one room which the library occupies; it does cost the library $300 a year rent which is paid to the village each year.

It was surprising to me that three very important discussions which occurred that evening were completely omitted from your article. The first was the desperate need of the library for expansion to serve just the present population. It is a very poor practice to pack books in boxes for storage in order to make room for the newer material that is coming out. This is what the library is forced to do in their present housing. Secondly, nothing was printed to show that plus owning their own property, the library has nearly $8,000 in a building fund. Thirdly, nothing was printed to show the three ways mentioned to give Cass City a new library. They were: Borrowing money -- which has to be done under the name of the Township or the Village; doing a fund raising campaign; or asking for one mill. Any of these ways are legal.

I hope this clears up what must have been a lot of confusion in the minds of whoever read the article of last week.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Robert Keating
Cass City and Elkland Township Public Library Trustee

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Chronicle stands corrected on saying building instead of site. The paper listed expenses as approaching $10,000 because the library's financial statement printed in April 1968 listed the previous year's expenses (not including building and site fund money or expense) as $8,837.81, and is happy to learn that they are considerably less now. We plead innocent to the charge of saying that it cost $300 a year to heat a room as the story read: "The library portion of the building is furnished and heated by the village for $300 a year."

Kingston band needs coupons for French Horn

The Kingston Band Boosters are working towards the purchase of a French Horn through the Gold Bond Stamp program. They ask that when you turn in your books for gifts, to ask for the coupons for the group. They are given free, but you must ask for them.

They do not need to be filled in. Just send them to the Kingston Band Boosters, Kingston, or they may be turned in at the Superintendent's or Principal's office. The Boosters can also use unwanted stamps.

Latin theme for Extension group

A Christmas Fiesta was sponsored by the Extension homemakers of Tuscola county on December 4 at the Ben McComb School in Caro.

Mrs. Leonard Russell, chairman of the county council, welcomed the guests in Spanish. She wore an authentic costume from Guatemala.

Mrs. William Tonkin shared her experiences as a voting delegate to the Triennial Conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. She attended the conference in September along with 1850 women from 65 countries.

Extension Home Economist, Ann Ross, also in authentic Guatemalan costume, presented a program on the theme, "Understanding Latin Americans." Through slides from Mexico and Guatemala she presented some insight into the lives and cultures of our southern neighbors.

Enchiladas, tacos, guacamole (avocado dip), refried beans, and Mexican chocolate were sampled by the guests and recipes were available. The Latin American theme was continued into the refreshments with Mexican tea cakes and tarts being served with coffee.

Make deals now for fertilizer

Farmers can save money by buying lime and fertilizer within the next few weeks when competition for sales of these products is greatest, reports Alfred Ballweg, County extension agricultural agent.

"Take soil samples of your land now," he suggests. "From the test results, figure rates of application for winter, spring and fall. Then, make the best deal you can for the fertilizer and lime you need."

Research shows that these purchases will be a worthwhile investment. Michigan State University studies revealed these increases in yield when fertilizer was applied according to soil test recommendations: bean yields up 15 percent, corn yields up 41 percent, pasture improved 120 percent, potato yields increased 81 percent, soybeans up 31 percent, and sugar beets up 21 percent.

Fall soil tests and immediate fertilizer purchases can help Tuscola County farmers get a "head start on 1969," says the agent.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Clem Webster reported to the fullers at the country store Saturday night that he had saw where one college now has the dial-a-coach service. You dial a number and get a conversation on the players and predictions on how things was looking for the next game. This was special good, Clem claimed the report said, for newspaper writers that needs a quick interview. Ed Doolittle was mighty interested in Clem's report. He was of the opinion we would soon be using computers instead of coaches and it would cut down on ulcers and heart trouble. A computer figures the plays, a tape recorder talks to the players and sports writers, a student riot will be recorded and played back for the cheering and the whole thing can be put on television without nobody doing nothing but the players.

Zeke Grubb said all this business of putting everything on the automatic was giving him the cold sweats over politics and government. First thing, we'll get dial-a-President and have two different answers, depending on which party we git on the line, Democratic or Republican.

Ed butted in to say he had already saw where the Democrats has set up a self-service welfare where you put in fer your own benefits and he's expecting any day now they'll have a machine right on the spot to print the money so they won't be no waiting period.

Furthermore, claimed Ed, what we'll have in Washington is buildings full of computers and flashing lights and government running on the automatic. We'll have automatic tax collections and if we git upset because the tax is 101 per cent of the income we can ring dial-a-Congressman and git a 24-hour fillabuster on how we're spending billions helping all them pore foreign countries git on the automatic.

Bug Hookum claimed that afore long a feller can git picked up fer public drunk by one of them breath testing machines on wheels, can put $20 in a mechanic judge box, be declared guilty and draw his sentence.

But Ed told the fullers he saw one advantage, that we'll git these political campaigns on the automatic dial-a-speech and git rid of the human reporters that has been serving as a link between the candidates and the voters. Candidates claims their messages git jumbled from the time it goes to the reporters ears until it comes out their pencils.

Clem put the stopper in the jug, Mister Editor, when he said we can probable come up with a can of concentrated stuff to be used fer instant education or instant politicking. All we'll have to do, Clem said, is open a can of confusion.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

BOOKSHELF
3M GAMES

Twixt involves chess-like strategy as each player attempts to build an uninterrupted chain of linked pegs "twixt" his borders before his opponent can do the same. For 2 players or 2 teams. Bookshelf case contains large fold-away board, pegs, links and instructions. (GA-110)

PHLOUNDER is the action word game in which players race to build the right word and to be the first to ring the bell. Special dice allow children and adults to play together. For 2 to 6 players. Bookshelf case contains playing board, letter tiles, bell, special dice, score pad and instructions. (RA-100)

Consider home economics college degree program

By Mrs. Ann Ross

Extension Agent

'Career talk' runs rampant in the fall as this year's high school seniors begin to think of career choices - and college choices for next fall. Parents, too, are sharing the concerns in this decision-making process.

Careers in Home Economics are sometimes overlooked because of the stereotyped idea that this field encompasses only "sewing and stewing".

In reality, a four-year college degree program in Home Economics is a key to a thousand and one career possibilities.

The graduate home economist applies her unique training to human problems as she works with people in a variety of ways: teaching handicapped homemakers how to manage a home and adapt living arrangement in line with disabilities; helping emotionally disturbed women in management of time to relieve tensions on the home front; or doing research to discover basic facts on food, fiber, shelter, child science, family relations and family economics.

Also, she may specialize in communications and work for radio, television, magazines or newspapers. She may develop materials for product promotion campaigns. Or she may work directly in selling products to distributors and consumers in many areas of the world.

The graduate home economist may enter the world of fashion in order to design clothing, textiles or displays. She may plan design and decorate interiors of homes or other buildings.

She may hold such titles as administrative dietitian, community health consultant, extension agent, family financial counselor, home service director, kitchen designer, nutritionist or 994 more.

At least eleven Michigan colleges and universities have undergraduate home economics programs with enrollments ranging from 35 to 1,350, and including both men and women.

*For the gal who wishes to train for a 'double life' of career homemaker and career home economist, the field of home economics warrants special consideration.

CITY LEAGUE

DEC. 2

Cole Carbide team came to life as they submerged the Bartnik Five 2668 to 2331 for their first four point win of the second round. Captain Mary Irer lead the attack with 173, 201, 200 (574). Evans Products topped Walbro with four points and Deford slipped by Dan's Sunoco, three points to one. Cass City Lanes stopped L & S Standard's progress by taking three points to tighten the race for the 2nd round winners' circle.

WCS circle Wednesday enjoyed a chicken dinner at the United Methodist church on the Martha Circle Wednesday. The WCS met at noon on Dec. 4.

The business meeting reported contributions to the church homes for the aged.

Muriel Addison presented for the month topic, "Christ as Seen in the Bible." Several assisted her in the presentation. Mrs. Ira Wood presented several vocal numbers.

Legislature may decrease Civil Service pay hikes

HEALTHY HIKE

The Michigan Civil Service Commission has settled on an average 6.9 per cent salary hike for the state's 43,000 classified employees. The package will cost taxpayers $24.1 million.

Included in the new pay plan is $2.67 million in additional fringe benefits. This encompasses liberal overtime compensation provisions.

Last year the commission authorized an average raise of 6.3 per cent, costing $19 million overall. It was widely accepted by the employees—but considered short of their goal.

The new proposals can be amended or rejected by the 1969 Michigan Legislature. There are indications that support is building for a reduction of the increase.

Commission officials said the new pay plan dollar spread includes:

About 23,000 state employees in the five lowest grades, who would get $9.85 million.

An additional 1,074 employees in the six highest grades, who would get $1.43 million.

Another 18,407 employees in seven middle grades, who would get $12.89 million.

Commission Chairman Richard L. Milliman said, "Wage comparisons with public and private employers, recent negotiated labor settlements, the cost of living, and requests of departments and employee groups were weighed against public resistance to increasing public payrolls" in setting the wage rate increase.

"We don't expect everybody to be satisfied, but we think this package realistically approaches the public need for a reasonable level and quality of service in a tight labor market and an expanding economy," he added.

The commission report said above average increases were recommended in employment groups where there was continued large demand and short supply, or where there was high turnover. These groups included trade classes, teachers, physicians, psychiatrists and some unskilled and semi-skilled institution service classes.

More than 600 teachers, including those in special education and rehabilitation trades, received increase recommendations ranging from nine to 11 per cent. Above average hikes were also proposed for institution service workers (Grade 1), 9.7 per cent, and for nurse (Grade 3), 7.3 per cent.

Regular clerical and administrative adjustments range from 5.2 to 7.1 per cent; labor and trade classes from 6.9

to 8.2 per cent; social welfare classes from 6.9 to 7.7 per cent, and physicians, psychiatrists and dentists from 6 to 8 per cent.

A NEW WAY?

Public financing of private industry for vocational-technical training in Michigan is under study by the State Board of Education.

The survey was prompted by board member Charles E. Morton of Detroit, who believes industry is better equipped than most government agencies to handle vocational education.

Dr. Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction, called it a "brilliant" idea and said it should be included in future budget requests.

SILENT DEATH

State Police warn against the dangers of carbon monoxide poisoning in cars and homes this winter. Several deaths have been attributed to this gas already. Drowsiness is one of the first symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning. This is accompanied by nausea and vomiting.

Officers suggested the following precautions in guarding cars and home heating systems against carbon monoxide leaks: Have car exhaust systems thoroughly checked for winter driving and inspect for leaks into the passenger compartment.

Properly ventilate the car at all times, whether driving or parked, and avoid running the engine when sitting in the car for any length of time.

Do not run the car engine in a closed garage. Have flame-type heating appliances properly inspected.

Huron farmer lauds new type disposal

By Don Kebler

Not too long ago I saw an entirely new type of home sewage disposal system being tried on a Huron county farm.

It is a revolutionary system based on long known information and if this system does what it is supposed to do, it could well be an answer to many rural and urban clean water sewage problems.

Actually this sewage disposal-water purification system is so simple, it is really a wonder why it had not been put into use before.

How does this system work and what is the principle behind it? First of all, our long time septic tank-drain field systems depended on the anaerobic bacterial action to digest organic wastes. These bacteria live in the absence of oxygen and die in the presence of oxygen.

We have another type of bacteria that digests organic matter only in the presence of oxygen. These are called aerobic bacteria. Balanced aerobic bacterial action caused no disagreeable odors. Anaerobic bacterial action caused odors.

This new system makes use of the oxygen living aerobic bacterial action to decompose the organic waste materials in the septic tank. So what is done to destroy anaerobic bacterial action and induce aerobic bacterial action? We just bubble air containing oxygen through the organic waste materials in the septic tank. This is the principle behind the entire system.

According to the owner of this system, it has been in operation several months now and has been under close supervision by health department officials. The discharge water from the system empties into a ditch. This water has been tested and the bacterial count hasn't been any greater than the well water for the house according to the owner. The most noticeable things about this system is the clarity of the discharge water and the complete absence of odor in the entire system.

This system is not really available yet but if it is successful small communities would not necessarily need municipal sewage disposal systems. They would need sewer systems to discharge clear clean water into natural streams, ditches, etc. Each home owner would have his own unit which would be inspected periodically for oxygen and bacterial level. Each unit will discharge its clean water into the sewer system.

This aerobic home sewage disposal system if acceptable by governmental health regulations, would certainly ease if not eliminate subdivision drainage field problems if an adequate discharge area above ground is available.

In theory if this system does its duty properly, the discharge water going into our rivers could be cleaner than some surface runoff water now feeding these rivers.

Mrs. Shaw elected Lael club president

The monthly meeting of the Lael club of the Baptist church was held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Fay McComb.

The lesson for the evening was presented by Mrs. Clifford Owens.

Members packed three Christmas boxes to be sent to young men from the church who are serving in the armed forces and completed a work project of making toy animals to be sent for use at Shepherds, a retarded children's home in Wisconsin.

Election of officers for the coming year was held. Elected were: president, Mrs. Richard Shaw; vice-president, Mrs. Fay McComb; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. James Perry, with Mrs. Richard Canfield as assistant; project chairman, Mrs. Elwyn Helwig, with Mrs. Clare Smith as her assistant, and reporter, Mrs. Stanley McArthur.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Perry.

Hold annual sugar beet banquet

The annual 4-H and FFA Sugar Beet Banquet was held on Monday, December 9 in the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building. This banquet is sponsored by the Sugar Beet Growers Association.

The following factory-premier grower awards were presented to 4-H members: Judy Campbell, Fairgrove; Michael Findlay and Russell Keimath, Caro; Shelbra Brinkman, Unionville; Ricky Russell, Akron; Daniel Buchinger, Reese; and Gary Palmreuter, Vassar. The FFA Factory Premier Grower winners were: Patrick Stine, Unionville FFA; Mark Monti, Akron-Fairgrove FFA; Timothy Bierlein, Stuart Bierlein and Bill Palm of Reese FFA, and Edward Sergeant and Vernard Sergeant of Millington FFA.

These sugar beet award winners will attend the State Sugar

Beet Banquet at Bridgeport High School on January 13 to find out which members will be selected for the State Sugar Beet Award Trip.

The Tuscola County 4-H Service Club selected their officers for 1968-69 as follows: President, Judy Campbell; Vice-President, Fred Peters; Secretary, Linda Trudeau; Treasurer, Karen Darbee; Reporter, Helen Thayer, and Refreshment Committee, Grant Gettel and Dave Lalko. Their next meeting will be a Christmas Party on Monday, December 16, at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building.

Three 4-H members from Tuscola County attended the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. They were state project winners as follows: Judy Campbell in Safety, Deborah Ortnier in Food Preservation and Allan Herman in State Soil and Water Project.

Also Dennis Opperman went on the National Dairy Conference trip to Chicago. He also was selected to participate on the program.

The Michigan 1968 4-H Livestock Judging team placed 18th at the National Judging contest at Chicago. One of the team members was a Tuscola County 4-H member, Tom Jickling, Kingston.

Message for Today

A giant radio telescope picked up bursts of static from a galaxy 2000 light years away. In them, scientists discovered these simple words:

"Earthmen, your planet is in danger. As your morals decay, your great cities slowly crumble. You will see wars and civil strife."

"But we offer you hope," the ancient message continued. "A new world. We can give you knowledge and bring you the peace for which you have searched so long..."

Science-fiction?

Not entirely.

There is a message that originated in a distant place over 2000 years ago. It describes the world as it is today, and it offers hope for the future.

The Bible, inspired by God, is a very real message, one that you can begin reading today. Then go to church on Sunday and meet the Author there.

Deford

Since it's getting close to Christmas, the fourth graders are busy decorating their rooms. The students drew names in order to exchange Christmas gifts during a party the last school day before the long (yet too short) Christmas vacation.

The new teacher at Deford is Mr. S. a m u e l "Sam" Wells. He was born in Cass City, Michigan, where he still lives with his parents. His hobbies are outdoor sports. He attended Ferris State College.

The kindergartners in Mrs. Smith's room are also getting ready for Christmas. They are busy making Christmas ornaments and have also decorated a paper Christmas tree on their bulletin board.

The first graders in Mrs. Bailey's room have begun reading their new book, "Fun with Dick and Jane."

The third graders in Mrs. Wain's room are studying Language and Arts. They have begun writing conversations and commercials to be read over their "radio."

Miss Stauffer's fifth graders are making a product map. Her fourth graders are trying to start an ant farm for science class, growing alum crystals, and writing letters to Santa Claus.

Mrs. Gray's fifth and sixth graders have made chalk and charcoal pictures for their bulletin board.

Those who were on the honor roll for the second marking period are:

Miss Stauffer's room:
Sandra Palace
Philip Bader
Sally Smith
Jo Ann Mardick
Delores Peters
Rana Turner
Colleen Leslie

Mrs. Gray's room:
Janet Auvi
Kim Copeland
Jerry Frederick
Nora Massingale
Carl Peters
Debbie Smith
Christine Strace

These names were omitted from the first marking period's honor roll:

Creativity has taken hold of Mrs. McGrath's class! One of the reading classes made candy to treat the whole room. The class also made a guitar out of a cheese box and rubber bands.

The elementary school has really been busy lately. All of the classes are working on projects -- some of which are secret -- for a Christmas open house Monday, Dec. 16 from 6:30 p.m. to 8:00 p.m. Everyone is invited to come see the students' displays.

The eighth grade basketball team played Bad Axe last week. They were defeated 38-35. Paul Bliss was high point man for Cass City with 15 points. Kip Hopper made 10.

The seventh graders also played Bad Axe and were led to victory by their coach, Mr. Mac Tavish. The score was 50-28. Scott Hartel was high point man for Cass City, scoring 16 points.

C. C. H. S.

Tuesday all Home Ec III students were required to take the Betty Crocker Future Home-maker Search test. The test lasted for approximately 40 minutes, after which participants were required to write a short answer to the question, "How can the homemaker fill her responsibilities as wife and family maker and still assure each person his individuality?" That question made some want to write "Don't get married!", while others decided to switch to Duncan Hines. Also on Tuesday a student council meeting was held. The council decided to sponsor a coat-check at basketball games and to buy two Ping-pong tables to place in the gym during the lunch hours for recreation.

The activities committee, which is in charge of all activity forms, was given the new power of reviewing the activity forms and deciding whether they should be passed or not. The committee will recommend favorably or unfavorably the forms to the council for a vote.

It used to be that the forms were separately introduced and read to the council, discussed and voted on. It is hoped that the committee's action will save a lot of the actual meeting time.

Another important decision at the meeting was that of having executive meetings before the student council meetings to plan the agenda. The executive meetings will consist of the student council officers and class presidents. Each of these executives, in turn, is to bring one guest to the meeting for more student representation.

During last hour Tuesday, a pep assembly was held for our first conference game, which was against Vassar. Coach Wynes introduced the Varsity players and the Varsity cheerleaders presented a skit to the student body.

Wednesday morning home-rooms were held. The minutes from the student council meeting were read and suggestions as to what the students would like to see the council do in the future were called for.

Thursday morning hopes were high for school being called off because of the snow storm, but no such luck -- we had to go and get our report cards anyway. However, school was dismissed early -- at 3:00!

The sophomore class officers had an executive meeting Friday afternoon to discuss and plan future class activities.

TID BITS

All day Friday group pictures were taken for this year's annual. It's really funny how a small club of maybe fifteen can become a club of about forty on picture day!

Cass City has received word that three exchange students from South America, two girls and one boy, will be coming in January to stay for about seven months. It is quite possible that we will receive one more exchange student to make a total of four. Mr. Cleland, guidance counselor, expects more information on the students soon.

CLUB NEWS

The Spanish Club had a meeting after school Tuesday, Dec. 3. The treasurer reported an $18 profit on the noon candy sales, which the club sponsored Nov. 25 and 26. After the business meeting, the members participated in a word down. The moderator gave the participants Spanish words to translate. It seems the Spanish II students didn't know as much as the Spanish I students! (Así es la vida.)

There was a Varsity Club meeting Wednesday afternoon. Tom Guinther was elected to fill the vacated president's seat. Neil MacCallum, secretary, took over Tom's former position of treasurer, and became the club's secretary-treasurer. The Varsity Club seems to be one of the best organized and most effective clubs at CCHS -- with about $1600 in its treasury to help it operate efficiently.

The Ski Club had a meeting after school Friday. Skiing trips to Caberfue or Bear Mountain were discussed for Dec. 21.

The Future Homemakers are sponsoring a bake sale at school. Members are taking orders for Christmas cookies, which will sell at 50¢ a dozen. The Homemakers will make the cookies in the kitchen of the Home Ec room at the high school. (If you would like an order, call Jean Butler, Anne Bulen, Janet Koepfen, Sue McDonald, or Mrs. Thomas Jackson.)

Legion Auxiliary exceeds quota

Twenty-six attended the monthly meeting and Christmas party when the American Legion Auxiliary met Monday evening.

President Mrs. Philip McComb presented membership pins to two new members. With a quota of 81, the unit is two over quota with 69 senior members and 14 junior members enrolled.

The unit has provided Christmas gifts for five men serving in the armed forces and for seven Gold Star mothers.

Mrs. Garrison Stine, Junior activities chairman, has announced a meeting for Junior Auxiliary members to be held at the Stine home Wednesday evening, Dec. 18, at 6:45 p.m.

Mrs. Hazen Guinther won the afghan in a drawing. There was a gift exchange and secret pal names were drawn.

Dessert refreshments were served.

Behind the Counter

House Calls

Every once in a while, we hear complaints about a doctor's reluctance to make a house call, and this is often condemned as poor medical practice. We asked one of our medical colleagues about this, recently, and it seems there's been a lot of misunderstanding about all this.

First of all, doctors do make fewer house calls than in the past, and they do ask that more patients be brought to the office or hospital. One important reason is that medicine is no longer practiced out of a little black bag.

Your doctor has quicker, more efficient and more complete laboratory tests and aids than were once available. These are more important than just treating the symptoms of an illness -- giving an antibiotic just because a child's throat is red.

In other words, the patient receives more scientific, accurate and complete service in the office than in the home.

The reason you really phone a doctor is to seek his advice as to the best thing to do. You may not be an expert at making a diagnosis, but as you describe the symptoms the doctor can decide whether the patient should be brought to the office, be taken to a hospital, or remain at home.

If you trust your doctor, you'll leave the decision up to him. If you don't trust your doctor, you should be looking for another family physician.

End seen near for Yule enchantment at Kaedings

Erwin Kaeding, 57, who lives a half mile east of Unionville, would have fitted well with the Christmas Town that was Cass City a decade ago.

For the stocky farmer with the wind burned face spends many of his free hours creating animated Christmas displays. Kaeding has been providing enjoyment for countless thousands with his front lawn artistic creations since 1963 and today some of his former displays are decorating the lawns of several area residents.

I just make them for the fun of it, he reported proudly. One of my best I sold this year to a farmer down the road. It was a picture of Santa going up and down his chimney and stopping at the top and bottom for brief intervals.

But his front lawn is still covered with displays. Kaeding's creations differ from those that highlighted the efforts in Cass City in its heyday.

Most of the beautiful animated works in the village were of papier mache. Kaeding makes his reindeer, santas and scenes from wood.

The first reindeer were of concrete, he recalled, but now I use only wood.

It's hard to estimate the time it takes to make a display. Kaeding feels that he spent perhaps a week on his Santa and chimney creation. I do it because I like it and don't keep much track of the time.

I figure if I get my materials and $1 an hour for labor for the displays I'm lucky, he explained. The Santa display brought $50.

But it isn't the money that's important. Kaeding works 55 acres of his own land and rents land from a neighbor to provide a living for himself and his wife. The Wisconsin native moved to Sebawa in 1933 and to his present farm home in 1940. He creates because he enjoys it.

NEARING END ?

It may be that the days of enchantment on the Kaedings' front lawn are nearing an end. The displays are heavy and the cheerful Unionville farmer isn't as young as he once was.

That's why his current scenes are for sale. When they are gone it's likely that there will be no more on the front lawn.

But they will be working wherever they are and the skill, dedication and pride that went into creating them will not be part of the sale.

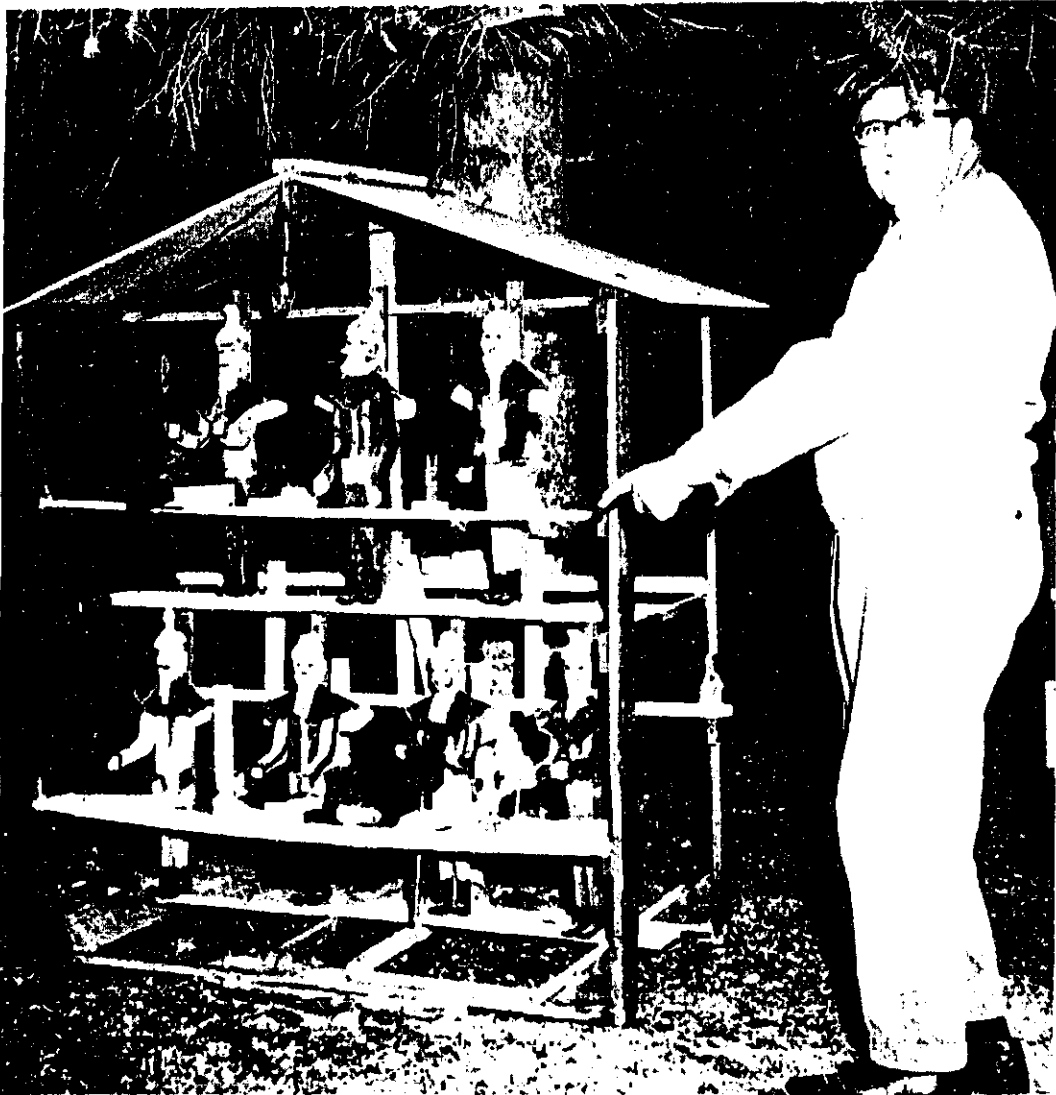

In a sense they will always belong to Kaeding.

"If It Fitz..."

Look out below

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Dick Canaan, a Detroit Dodge man, is looking for a good guy to go into the hole for him. For 102 days Digger O'Neil couldn't do it. I think I can.

You probably read about Digger, or heard him on the radio. He was buried alive, 12 feet down, in a comfy grave dug next to the Canaan dealership. Digger was supposed to stay down there 102 days, thus setting a new world's record (the old mark of 101 was set in 1936 by the forecaster who picked Landon to beat Roosevelt).

But Digger pooped out. He came to the surface after only 78 days, just as people were getting interested enough to kick a Dodge tire. Digger said water was leaking into his grave.

Canaan said nuts. In newspaper ads seeking a replacement for Digger, Canaan claimed there was no water in the hole, only "all the comforts of home, including 2 phones, TV set, radio, electric blanket, bed light, etc. Isn't there some stout hearted male or female who will go down and break the 101-day international record that the Digger was supposed to smash?" Canaan asked.

All my life I've wanted to read WAR AND PEACE. This may be my chance. January, February and March would be perfect. Those are lousy months when nothing happens, anyway. The football season is over and baseball hasn't begun. Basketball is ridiculous because they score too many points and hockey is boring because they don't score enough. There are, however, a few conditions which must be met before I occupy Digger's grave. The radio and TV must go. I don't want to hear a peep from the outer world. I already know I'm going to be angry when President Nixon names his brother Secretary of State. I know there'll be no progress in the peace talks because the negotiators love Paris in the springtime. I know I will be left off the list of Ten Best Dressed Men of the Year, at least 3 Ford girls will make the female list, and a new list will be started by Tiny Tim. I do not need Walter Cronkite to tell me these things.

Also, there's no need for the phones. I only get 2 types of phone calls. The first are from my wife, telling me to bring home a loaf of bread. The second type comes from anonymous readers, telling me to go jump off a cliff. None of these calls would be practical to a man buried alive for 102 days.

I realize that Digger constantly got phone calls from disc jockeys who relayed his deep (12 feet) philosophy to millions of listeners. I'll have none of that. Disc jockeys are among the things I want to escape for 3 months. I swear all they ever play is "Your Next Car is C-H-R-Y-S-L-E-R-R-R-." (My next car will be Dodge, mighty cheap, or I'm not going down.)

All I want below with me is a warm comfortable bed, good light and all the books I would have read the past 5 years if I'd had enough fortitude to resist TV and enough sense to send the kids to camp.

Let the people on top spin their wheels in the slush and ice. Let them get snow up their sleeves and wind down their necks. Let them adjust the green out of Rowan & Martin's faces. Let them yap at the kids and go to work every morning. I'll be up in the spring, with the flowers. Look for me in Ed Sullivan's audience.

All I've got to do is find someone to bring my wife a loaf of bread every other day. And then it's Onward and Downward.

BPW Club holds Christmas party

The December meeting of the BPW was held Wednesday, Dec. 4, at the New Gordon Hotel. Guests attending were Waukena Ryland, Amor Richardson, Kathy Tuckey, Donna Profit and Theda Seegar.

An invitation from the AAUV was read inviting the club to their meeting Dec. 17 at the high school.

The members voted to give another scholarship this year in addition to the club's annual scholarship. Grace Nemeth, Katie Crane and Martha Knoblet were appointed to make plans for a spring outing.

A gift exchange was held and Christmas carols were sung. In charge of entertainment were Helen Bartle, Laura Bryant and Enid Craig.

AROUND THE FARM

Squanto, the first agricultural agent

By Alfred Ballweg

A few weeks ago a very friendly lady sent to my office a booklet containing a story of the first County Agricultural Agent, an Indian named "Squanto." One of the tools that was used successfully in the early years of agricultural agent work was the "method demonstration" approach to show how something is done. The Indian, Squanto, was the first to use this simple method -- how to prepare, fertilize and till the soil to raise a crop of corn.

Squanto's greatest service to his new friends, the Pilgrims, had to do with the Indian corn, or maize. He instructed them in the selection of the proper ground for planting it and in methods of setting and fertilizing the seed to bring the greatest increase.

The battle against starvation of the colony was won in a corn field. Leading the forces of survival was this lonely, friendly Indian, Squanto. Before the time of planting, when food was very scarce, the Pilgrims accidentally came across a buried store of corn, about fifty bushels of it in huge baskets which were laid out on woven mats in the Indian style of preservation, covered with earth. The storehouse seemed to have been abandoned. The Pilgrims took the corn for their great need, later found the Indians who had left it, and paid them for it in trading commodities.

When planting time came, the colonists gathered at one of the fields to receive instructions. Squanto showed them how to place three fish with their heads pointing in and their tails out like the spokes of a wheel and the seed planted in the center. This was that first method demonstration, the first agricultural extension work ever recorded in American history. His words of instruction were along this line:

"My good friends, the time for the planting of the maize has come. The geese have left the river and the bay for their summer home in the Northland. The robin and his mate have returned from the southland, are nesting in the trees. The earth is warm and the moon but a shadow in the heavens. The first early flowers of spring have faded and the violets, bluebells, and sweet williams scent the air. The giant oaks have begun to unfurl its leaves. By these signs and many others, my father and my father's father have learned to know the proper time for the planting of maize has arrived."

They set twenty acres of Indian corn in this manner. They also sowed six acres of barley and peas with seeds brought from England. The barley and peas did poorly. The Squanto-planted twenty acres yielded bountifully. Someone wrote to a friend in England that "there are no such great and beautiful ears of corn I suppose anywhere else to be found but in this country, being also of a variety of colors, as red, blue, yellow, etc."

Indian corn still is raised to a limited extent and the colored ears, tied into a swag, are used as decoration, especially on house doors at harvest time. The tradition of the red ear goes back to those Pilgrim days. The corn husking, done by groups, was made a festival occasion. The young man who found a red ear could use it to claim a kiss from the girl of his choice.

In November, 1622, while Squanto was with Governor Bradford's party on an expedition around Cape Cod he fell sick of an Indian fever and within a few days died at Chatham Harbor.

It's the fiction in politics that causes most of the friction.

Local AAUW has fourth birthday

The Cass City Branch of the American Association of University Women is celebrating its fourth birthday Dec. 9.

Some of the Association's accomplishments during its four years include: acting as casting consultants for the Centennial, sponsoring a lecture series for three years, sponsoring a book discussion group, sponsoring a performance of "Rapunzel" for school, a trip to Merrill Palmer and Detroit Art Institute and hosting at High school open house.

The group's next meeting is scheduled Tuesday, Dec. 17, at 8 p.m. in the high school. Mrs. Arthur Placeway of Lapeer, a vocalist, will present the program. She is working with "La Boheme" presented by the Flint Opera Company, and her choir is performing "The Messiah" at the Lapeer Presbyterian church Dec. 15 at 4 p.m.

Anyone interested in the book discussion group may call Ann McDaniel, 872-3353, or Corky Parrott, 872-3355, for information.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Larry Shagena, rural Cass City youth, is recovering from a stomach wound suffered when a rifle he was cleaning went off. Rev. Richard Spencer, new minister of the Cass City Church of the Nazarene, moved with his family to the village from Sandusky.

Candidates for the village's "meanest thief" award made their bid Saturday night by breaking into the Chamber of Commerce's Santa House and taking several stuffed toys.

Gary Jones, Richard Czekal, Eugene Kloc and Dean Hoag were named department managers at General Insulated Wire Works, Inc. of Cass City.

A search for a superintendent for Cass City Public Schools got underway following the surprise report by Principal Arthur Holmberg that he did not wish to be considered for the post.

Eight Cass City school children escaped injury when their school bus and a Tuscola County Road Commission truck collided at the intersection of Hurds Corners Road and M-81.

Bob McArthur, an employee at Cass City IGA Foodliner, won first place and a $25 savings bond for an apple display erected in the store.

TEN YEARS AGO

Milton Hofmeister, Elmwood Township farmer, was appointed Elmwood Township supervisor to replace Grover Laurie, who has resigned to accept a position on the county highway commission.

An estimated 35 persons attended the December meeting and Christmas party of the American Legion Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Frank Alward. Willard A. Burdon of Gages town was instantly killed when he lost control of his car on Owendale Road, just south of the Huron County line, and crashed into a tree.

Ben Glanton and John M. Lyle employees of the Walbro Corporation completed a course for industrial supervisors in Wittenberg College's Management Development Program.

James Champion will be the new manager for the branch office of the Secretary of State in Cass City, it was unofficially revealed by authorities.

An estimated 240 friends and relatives attended the open house in honor of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Thompson of Owendale.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

A. J. Murray of Cass City showed an Angus steer at the Jr. Livestock Show at Detroit which not only was first in its class but also was champion steer of the show. Don Karr exhibited an Angus steer that was second in its class.

Guests met at the Arleon Retherford home to celebrate the silver anniversary of Mrs. Retherford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norris Boyne of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Turner received word their son, former Flight Officer Dwight Turner, had been promoted in rank to that of Second Lieutenant.

Charles Austin Smith, who lived with his family in rural Cass City, was fatally injured in an industrial plant in Saginaw, where he was employed.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Cass City Community Club, Frank Reid was elected president; Rev. S. P. Kinn, vice president; Rev. Dudley Mosure, secretary and Albert Gallagher, treasurer.

Corp. Veron Hoadley of the United States Army Paratroops Division, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hoadley, has been awarded the purple heart for injuries suffered during the establishment of the Salerno, Italy, beachhead.

Sgt. Floyd O'Rourke has been transferred from a hospital in Alliance, Neb., to the Fitzsimmons General Hospital at Denver, Col.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Calster of rural Cass City celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary. William Parrish suffered injuries when an automobile, driven by Peter Fredericks, struck a hand car on which Parrish was riding, at the railroad crossing south of town.

Honoring the football team that brought honors to Cass City by winning the Thumb Championship this fall, the 35 members of the football squad were guests of the Cass City Community Club.

Fire of undetermined origin badly damaged the William Parrish house on Garfield street. Mrs. George Kastruba and brothers, John D. and Harry Palmer, were renting the home. Coal has been reached at the new mine at Unionville. Eight inches of a fine quality of kenel coal lies on top of over five feet of good quality soft coal.

Harry Crandell Sr. of Bad Axe, probably the largest individual winner of awards at the Ogden Livestock Show in the sheep division, will show again at Ogden, Utah.

Officers of the Tyler Lodge No. 317, F. & A. M., were elected at the annual meeting. Officers elected were: Worshipful Master, Warren Wood; senior warden, A. N. Bigelow; junior warden, Willis Campbell; treasurer, Doris Benkelman; secretary, Alex Henry.

Hobby Club has Christmas meeting

About 20 Hobby Club members met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Basil Quick. Hostesses for the seven o'clock dessert meeting were Miss Katie Crane, Mrs. Clifford Croft and Miss Caroline Garety.

Mrs. Quick showed a film "Christmas Around the World" and Mrs. Paul Murray read a Christmas story.

There was a gift exchange.
