Elkland twp. a safe place to live, police report shows

Elkland township is one of the safest places to live in Tuscola county, according to a study recently completed by the Michigan State Police from the Caro Post.

Statistics compiled by Post Community Services Officer Donald Reed show Elkland township rates 20th in terms of reported crime out of the county's 23 townships. Only Juniata, Gilford and Columbia townships rate safer, Reed said.

The findings came following a study of crimes reported bers to each crime and rate the problem accordingly. to State Police throughout the county and interviews with school and township officials. The study is part of a new community services program initiated by the State Police Jan. 1.

"Actually, Elkland came Reed said Akron and Inout quite well, considering it dianfields townships tied for has the third highest populafirst place with highest crime tion in the county," Reed said. The township has a ratings in the county. He explained this does not population of 3,171 persons, necessarily mean that these according to the 1970 census.

township are bad checks, larcencies and breaking and and entering ring which has since been broken up by police. He said he expects Kingston's rating to drop rapidly.

Elmwood township ranked 12th in Reed's survey. He said police have been battling a "moderately severe" breaking and entering and larceny problem in the township during the past year.

Novesta township ranks 15th and Ellington township ranks 18th.

The findings are based on statistics gathered over the past year and use complaint reports filed with the Caro State Police post only, Reed said. He vouched for their accuracy however, saying if other police crime reports were added in, the end result would probably be much the same.

PURPOSE

Reed said the reason these statistics are gathered is to help the State Police coordinate patrols better and place manpower in high-crime areas. He said the emphasis of his work is in crime prevention.

'Our department is the first in the state to have a full-time crime prevention unit," he said, adding that federal funding was used to set the program into motion.

"From our studies, we can tell immediately where the most serious crime is happening and can concentrate our patrols there," Reed said.

The survey will be updated monthly, Reed said, to keep a running tab on the crime problem in the county. Reed concentrates much of his work with area schools. If administrators indicate a serious problem, then Reed arranges a presentation to students on crime prevention, geared to their level and using visual aids.

Reed said his services are also available at no cost to interested civic clubs or organizations.

In commenting on area crime statistics, Reed said population is well-divided by age in Elkland township, which helps reduce the crime problem. He said 34 percent of township residents are under 16, 34 per cent are under 45 and the rest, 32 per cent, are 45 or over.

Another factor contributing to the township's safe rating, Reed said, is the fact that unemployment is relatively low, compared to areas closer to Saginaw, Bay City or Flint.

"We found in talking with school officials that in over 30 per cent of the households that have students in school, both parents are working," he said.

He said among recurring complaint reports from the Cass City area are dog complaints and littering.

Heavy spending likely for Cass City school improvements

If all present plans under consideration by the Cass City School Board are realized district taxpayers will be seeing some heavy expenditures for plant and ground improvements this year. The plans reflect the healthy financial condition of the district which under the present State Aid law has poured more money into the district than is needed for regular operating expenses. Three projects under study sure to cost the taxpayer significant amounts are: Lockers and a new gym floor for the Intermediate building, an Intermediate school playground area and revamping of the football field lighting and seating area

Nothing has been suggested for the football field yet although Supt. Donald Crouse reported that a concern has been hired to X-ray the poles and determine how badly they are deteriorated and how long their useful life could be.

drawing the plans cost about $500.

While total costs of these projects are still not determined, one continuing cost was okayed by the board. Trustees voted to hire Alan Luce, labor negotiator, for another year for the same salary as paid the previous year, $4,200.

The board voted to install safety controls on school boilers at a total cost of $765.

TABLE SUGGESTION

The board failed to act on a suggestion by Supt. Crouse that the district employ a consultant firm to deal with unemployment compensation for school employees.

The cost was estimated at $600 a year and for this amount the firm, Frederick Paul, Associates, would rep-

Wigen said he had no ready solution to the problem and wouldn't until perk tests and digging were done on the existing system.

Wigen said he proposed to tear down the 1913 building and place new construction to the east of the 1967 building. He proposed building a new gymnasium at the far east end, nearest the athletic field.

Actual construction would pose two more problems. One would be what to do with students during construction. Supt. Glenn Sanford said the district would probably have to rent or lease facilities which could cost upwards of $50.000.

Costs for the lockers are expected to total an estimated $10,000. While no action has been taken it appears to be the concensus of the board that the 229 lockers on the third floor, the 52 lockers in the boys' locker room and the 68 lockers in the girls' locker room will be replaced.

Development of the Intermediate playground area has been under discussion for over a year but has been delayed while waiting for final papers to be signed transferring the Donahue property to the school district.

While the papers have not been signed the school board voted to go ahead with plans anyway.

The first step will be to hire Warren Holmes, architect, to develop plans for the area. Crouse's suggestion to hire the architect was questioned by J. D. Tuckey and Dean Hoag.

These trustees felt it was an unnecessary expense for moving dirt for the playground area. Crouse said that if the job was to be bid, it had to have specifications. He said that when the playground area at the high school was bid there was a difference of over $5,000 in the two bids received. The savings amounted to 50 per cent of the job total, he added, and uties. Also serving with McConkey on the committee are Richard Dehmel, Caro, and freshman Paul Nagy, Fairgrove.

McConkey was also named to serve on the Public Affairs and Departmental control committees.

Nagy was appointed chairman of the County Affairs Committee which deals with taxation, equalization, legislation, planning and resolutions.

Another freshman, Mrs. Margaret Wenta, Fostoria, was named chairperson of the Departmental Control Committee.

Aside from organizing Tuesday, the board revised its rules which, among other things, will allow for a tentative agenda for the first time in the history of the commission.

Establishing an agenda has been a pet project of Cmmr. J. Benson Collon, Caro, for over a year.

Under the formula presented to the board Tuesday, an agenda will be mailed to commissioners a day or so prior to the meeting.

As the new board term got under way, Chairman Woodcock said he looked forward to a year of cooperation with all county departments.

LABOR SITUATION

During a recess, McConkey said no substantial progress has been made in labor talks with courthouse employees. He said he expects to hear a report on progress later this week.

"If I don't, I'm going to find out why," he said, implying he is anxious to get the talks off dead center.

The company will continue to operate in Auburn, Walpole says. No changes are contemplated in management staff, employees, marketing, and manufacturing procedures. This most recent step in Walbro's growth and expansion program, the Walbro-Auburn Die Cast "marriage", brings together two leading suppliers of the chain saw industry, Walpole points out. Walbro is a major manufacturer of chain saw carburetors; and Auburn Die Cast is a major producer of die castings for such outstanding companies as Beard-Poulan, Campbell-Hausfeld, Homelite Division of Textron, Inc., Roper, Terry, etc., in the same industry.

"If It Fitz . . . " Laughing in church BY JIM FITZGERALD

Is there any hope for a grown man who goes to church on Christmas Eve and laughs at the creche?

But the Christ Child wouldn't stop crying. So the Chief Singing Angel came down from on high and whispered urgently into the Virgin Mary's ear. One of the shepherds had YMCA stenciled on his turban and a Wise Man wore a beard you wouldn't believe. My son whispered that the beard was actually a wig borrowed from an angel.

These changes will not be started until the 1976 graduation year. This year the program will be the same as in the past except that no speaker from outside the community will be hired.

Sometimes it's the stupid newsman that is responsible for errors in the paper and sometimes it's not.

In a couple of recent issues I can report one of each that I learned about.

I cut short Elkland Township Fire Chief Dick Root's term by nearly a month in this column of trivia last week. He's ready to retire in four weeks, not four days, he explained after the paper came out.

The second error was in a feature story about The Ambassadors,-a-singing-group.-The-Chronicle-reported-that they would be heard over radio on the Grand Ole Opry show from Nashville. They didn't, Dorland Kuntz said, because the show was cancelled because of the very poor advance ticket sale.

Most of the writing in the paper is by News Editor Jim Ketchum. . . . I consider it just bad luck that the stories with boo-boos were written by the publisher.

Okay all you women's libbers. Let's hear it for Cass City's two newest doctors. Dr. Efren M. Dizon and his wife announce the opening of their offices here this week.

When patients want her they ask for Dr. Perla A. Espino (her maiden name).

I can't say of course whether she continues using her maiden name in social life but it should avoid confusion in her professional career. Who said the women's revolution was all bad?

Ed Ackerman of Mt. Pleasant was one of the few all-A students to graduate from Cass City High School a few years

The other day he reported to his dad, Dave Ackerman of Cass City, that he thought an "Editor's Corner" dealing with retirement was simply outstanding.

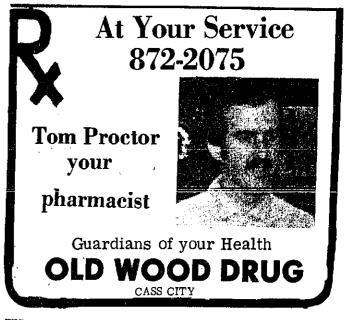

With rare discerning judgement like that, no wonder he was such an outstanding student.

Raymond Schweikart should live to a ripe old age. . . . if heredity means anything. His mother, Edith Schweikart, will celebrate 101 years Feb. 13.

She gets around pretty good these days and is mentally alert, says her son.

And if you are waiting for a picture of our area centenarian, don't hold your breath.

Mrs. Schweikart hasn't time for reporters or any of that foolishness and absolutely refuses to let us take her picture. We offer our congratulations anyway. Ain't it wonderful?

> The Crestwood School district decision in Circuit Court must have been as heartening for the teachers as the Reese School episode a few years ago was disheartening.

> When the court supported the teachers' position by a 2-1 vote last week giving them in essence the right to strike, it would appear that the teachers gained the upper hand in school administration.

But it's only the first inning. Already implementation of the order saying it is illegal to fire teachers has been delayed by the Court of Appeals. Regardless of whether the teachers win or lose, the issue will probably be finally resolved in the legislature. It will be interesting to see if the Michigan Education Association has sufficient clout to sway congressmen into voting a favorable law in the face of adverse public opinion.

In this area every person that I've talked to without a special interest has sided with the school board in the Crestwood school fight.

My cereal didn't jump through a hoop the other morning, so I'm returning it for a refund.

You can do that these days, thanks to consumerism. Ralph Nader and his crew have made it possible and I think it's high time we saluted them.

Actually, I didn't realize I could do it until my good wife began reading the cereal box. This is her pastime in the morning. While some husbands bury their face in a newspaper or spend most of their energies trying to cope with early morning, my wife prefers reading cereal boxes.

That's how we got our china, glassware, silver service and maybe even our baby. Come to think of it, that last package that arrived was pretty big.

Anyway, while devouring both cereal and box, my wife informed me that you could get a refund if "the cereal does not meet your standards of taste or performance."

Performance? "How does a cereal perform?" she asked

I don't know, I replied. See if it'll jump through a hoop. Maybe it'll roll over, sit up, beg or play dead.

It only succeeded in doing the last trick, which you have pudding. Those little beauties to admit is pretty dumb anyway. So, since it didn't perform, back it goes.

Actually all I have to do is rip off the box top and send that in. That means I can get a refund and still have my dumb cereal

You can't beat a deal like that, can you? But imagine, if you will, what would happen if these performance standards were applied to other foods.

Take for instance, cashews. Obviously, now that she has nothing to do at home but take care of a baby, my wife tried to make a bottle of cashews, given me as a Christmas present, do one-and-a-half gainers off a diving board. Failing to make them perform, she proceded to make them do back flips off the tips of her fingers into her mouth. Before long, she had devoured the entire jar without yours truly getting so much as a whiff.

Unfortunately, I can't re-taliate. Besides, I'd look pretty silly wearing her chiffon gown she received for Christmas.

Now that the cashews are long-gone, I don't think it's right to demand a refund for lack of performance. I didn't get a chance to read the jar to see if they were guaranteed.

Or how about steak? (You remember steak. That's the red or brown meat that used to taste good and at one time most people could afford to buy it).

I'll admit if a steak is rare enough, it may squawk when you jab a fork into it. With some encourgement, it might even run around the plate a few times just to show you there aren't any hard feel-

Is this kind of performance guaranteed? I wonder.

The only thing I ever had walk around my plate were the raisins on some rice really performed. No way could I ask for a refund there,

This whole issue of food performance guarantees undoubtedly requires more intensive study. I promise to keep my readership informed on any discoveries we find at the breakfast table. Excuse me, I think my cereal just rolled over.

People buy complete sets of Funk & Wagnalls encyclopedias for lots of reasons. But the number one reason is Volume 1. With Funk & Wagnalls, you can pick up the first volume for just 49¢, and let it convince you to buy the rest of the set, a volume or two a week. You don't buy a full set all at once, so we make every volume good enough to keep you coming back for more.

The Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia contains 183,000 indexed subjects. It has over 7,000 illustrations-including a full-color World Atlas. It's bound in sturdy, elegant covers.

It's written in clear, simple English. (The Funk & Wagnalls is a family encyclopedia, designed to help students, not stump them.)

And Funk & Wagnalls publishes annual yearbooks to keep your set up-to-date.

Read what Saturday Review says about the Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia:

"Can a good encyclopedia be bought in a supermarket? Decidedly, if it's the handy-sized Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia... the number of illustrations and maps (more than seven thousand) are remarkable achievements, especially when you consider the hargain price."

-Saturday Review of Literature

One thing you don't get with Funk & Wagnalls is a salesman. It's sold direct to you through supermarkets. And no salesman could convince you the way you can convince you.

Buy Volume 1 of Funk & Wagnalls New Encyclopedia now at our supermarkets. Invest 49¢ and check it out. Instead of investing a lot in a set of encyclopedias someone says is terrific, invest a little and decide for yourself.

do da Vinci painted her? Was she smiling? Some say that she was actually closer to tears!

It is centuries since Leonardo and his model lived, but throngs still stand before the painting in the Louvre and wonder at it. It is much smaller than people expect, but that in no way diminishes its attraction. For the Mona Lisa symbolizes the mystery of life. No matter how great our curiosity, we can never know all the answers.

There is a great deal of mystery in the Church too. Often this bothers those who would seek a logical explanation for everything. That is where we need faith-for faith is, in part, an acceptance of what we inherently feel but can't prove in ordinary, everyday terms.

Where to find faith? Admittedly, it can be quite a quest. But a good place to start that quest is in church. Tuesday Wednesday Thursday Friday Saturday Sunday Monday Psalms Zechariah I Peter Matthew Matthew Ephesians 65: 4-8 8:1-5 1:1-5 3: 13-17 18: 1-6 2:1-7 0 + ((D) + ((D) tions under Title VI are based on October unemployment and census figures. He said unemployment figures for the county must be gathered as well as Sandusky and said an error may have developed along the way.

TITLE 1 FUNDING

Under Title I funding, the consortium would receive a total of $567,100 for the year. Broken down, the biggest single area funded would be four work experience programs which would receive a grand total of $328,000. These include adult programs, $141,800; youth inschool, $60,600; youth out of school, $54,100, and summer work programs, $71,500. Classroom and occupational training would receive $166,900, on the job training $48,100 and consortium administration, $24,600. Commenting on proposed Title I funding, Allen said 33 available slots would be open for adults in the coming year. He called this inadequate and said 45 would be better.

He said school dropouts are from Port Huron and Bad Axe one of the most difficult segments of the population to deal with. "Most of them are extremely disillusioned and defensive," he said. "Yet, they need a great deal of assistance. They are, as a class, the ones most likely to eventually become welfare recipients or prison inmates.

They are usually the first to become unemployed."

Allen said a summer pro gram has been operated in the Tri-county area for siz straight summers. The pase two summers, there have been over 300 youth served by the program, but next sum mer this will have to be dropped unless Congrest passes a special allocation. He suggested this could be tied to the in-school program and this be made into . year-round-youth-program.

to the Editor Watergate trial wasn't justice

Letter

To Jim Ketchum, I usually concur with your fine column "Ketchum's Knapsack'', but you sure blew it this time with "Here's to Justice''. "Justice". How can you even say that what happened to Erlichman, Haldeman, Mitchell, etc. in that farce of a trial was justice what with all that publicity (and don't tell me that that jury didn't have their minds made up long before they found them guilty). There was no human around who didn't have his mind made up. We all knew how the trial was going to end up. So was it justice? Americans have forgotten its meaning. I do hope for true justice that these men's appeals will be heard and honored.

It is so injust. The so-called Watergate investigator violated almost all the rules put down by the 5th amendment, were so ruthless and pecked, pecked, pecked till they found one tiny infraction to pin down Mr. Nixon and boosted him out of office just to boost their own stinking egos

"What's good for the goose i 1-14-75 also good for the gander." What was Watergat really? Do you know? Doe anybody? As one man put it so we "Power exists to be used" "If Watergate is as it alleged to be, an intelligence gathering operation of on group of persons who wer seeking power, or to keep (Republican) against anothe group of persons who we seeking to acquire powe (Democrats) and won,"that all it was. That's how politics wor By forcing a good ma (Nixon) out of office, Amer ica hasn't become better. fact things are far, far wor since the 4 months that M Nixon resigned.

We are paying dearly that blunder. Run away i flation, higher unemplo ment, at the brink of war! didn't help at all.

So how can you call justice? There is no justice i this crummy world any mor and we sure don't get it from our government.

True justice comes from but one source - God. We wi find out what true justice i and it won't be what

Hawks still in it! team bounces back after loss to Frankenmuth

It was a beautiful night Tuesday for the Cass City Red Hawks and their fans. The Hawks rolled over Marlette in a laugher, 73-57, and Frankenmuth topped the Lakers to move the Hawks back into contention in the Thumb B Conference title battle.

It's still a long, long, long shot for Cass City. It's not probable that the team will win the remainder of its games but if it does Cass City could do no worse than tie for the championship. The team now doesn't have to depend on anyone else in its title chase.

The Hawks didn't know this of course until after the game with the Red Raiders was about over.

Long before the results were in the outcome of Tuesday's game was decided. The Hawks used a pressing defense to jump to an early favored over the Vulcans. lead and were never headed. It was 14-6 at the end of the first quarter and 39-21 at the end of the half.
