

Chances of keeping local rail service seen 'good'

Although the fight is a long way from over, chances are good that rail service into Cass City can be maintained.

That's the optimistic assessment of James F. Schouman, a Dearborn attorney assisting the Thumb area Rail Users Association in its battle to keep Grand Trunk Western trains rolling into the area.

Schouman made the statement following a day-long meeting of rail users in Saginaw Wednesday, Feb. 19, where the State Department of Highways and Transportation reviewed its planning report on state rail needs.

The attorney said, in effect, that Grand Trunk has failed to make a case for abandoning 66 miles of track running from Imlay City to Caseville which serves Kingston, Cass City, Galetown and Owendale.

"Their evidence just doesn't warrant abandoning it," Schouman said.

The attorney placed much of the blame for the line's problems on Grand Trunk itself, saying it failed to provide needed rolling stock for area industrial and agricultural users.

Data is presently being collected showing rail car need in the area. Facts gathered will be presented before an upcoming Interstate Commerce Commission hearing. Schouman indicated a date for such a hearing should be set within the next 60 days.

Schouman also criticized statements by Grand Trunk that the line would take massive repairs that could cost well over $2 million.

"Show me where there have been rail failures on the line," he said. "What will that kind of expenditure do to help increase train speed? Do you have to spend that much to run trains faster? These are things we don't know."

The attorney said the line is vital, especially for handling agricultural products as well as chemical fertilizers for the large Thumb farming community.

"Grand Trunk has a fine route for hauling anhydrous ammonia for instance," he said. "It's away from population centers and it's a direct route. To me, this seems vital for the agri-business community you've got there."

Schouman said the line could conceivably be saved, even if the ICC approves Grand Trunk's application for abandonment. Under the federal Railroad Reorganization Act, the line could still operate under subsidies provided on a 70 per cent federal and 30 per cent state-funded formula.

"What we want now is for the state to set up guidelines for subsidizing this line as a necessary line," he said.

Since it petitioned to abandon service on its Cass City line, Grand Trunk has reduced its schedule from three trips a week to two, according to Schouman and Clifford Croft, chairman of the Rail Users Association. While the line must maintain some service or be fined by the ICC, it could conceivably let service deteriorate further, the attorney explained.

"The ICC requires the railroad to operate on demand," he said. "If it doesn't, then the ICC can step in with fines."

He said so far, public outcry against the abandonment of this and other lines has had some effect.

"I'm impressed that the public is concerned," he said. "If the public gives up, there won't be any railroads anymore."

DISAPPOINTMENT

Schouman, along with Croft and a contingent of Thumb area rail users who attended the Saginaw meeting, expressed disappointment over the state report on rail planning, since it calls for abandonments of several large sections of track, including the Thumb.

"Frankly, we felt the state was taken in by this report," Schouman said. "This report uses the same data used in the federal government. And it cost Michigan $150,000."

In an earlier letter to Croft, he called the report "a blueprint for abandonment of Michigan railroads."

Croft explained that the Cass City line has been designated a local service line by the state and as such is liable for abandonment at any time under the DOT plan without recourse.

He said statistics for determining whether or not a railroad line should be abandoned are based solely on the profitability of the line and on tonnage carried—not on what is carried.

Both agree the fight to save the line isn't over. Plans are still under way to complete a survey of rail users in the area for the ICC hearing on the abandonment.

The United States Railway Association is expected to release its long-awaited plan for railroad service in the northeast and Michigan Wednesday. Public hearings on the plan will begin in the state March 15.

SURVEY BEGINS

Linda McIntosh, 26, Cass City, began work Tuesday gathering information for a complete survey of area rail users.

Mrs. McIntosh, hired through a special Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) grant, will make a complete survey of who uses the Grand Trunk line, why they use it, how often the railroad is used and if service is adequate.

Mrs. McIntosh has two years of college at Ferris State and has been involved in the Head Start program.

Her husband is a teacher and coach at Cass City High School.

Mrs. McIntosh said she has one year to complete her report, which will be turned over to the Rail Users Assn. In the meantime, information will be used as it is gathered in the upcoming ICC hearing on the proposed abandonment.

EMT course urged

Ambulance service future in Cass City seen clouded

By Jim Ketchum

The days of a privately-owned ambulance service operating in Cass City may be numbered unless outside help is available for training emergency medical technicians and purchasing equipment.

That's the assessment of Roger Little, who provides ambulance service for the area and who is upset over an alleged lack of cooperation from county authorities in setting up financial help for county ambulance services.

The Michigan Legislature recently turned down a bill that would have established strict new guidelines for all ambulances in the state, including two Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT's) in each ambulance and which would have legislated station wagon-type emergency vehicles out of existence.

The bill reportedly died partly due to pressure from rural counties in the northern part of the state who loudly complained that they could not realistically meet the rigid standards.

According to Little, the bill was sent back to committee and may be due for another appearance next year.

In the meantime, Little is pushing hard for an EMT training program in Cass City that would give the area a head start, should the revised ambulance bill become law.

According to Michael Gage, Huron County Civil Defense Director, Tuscola county has no EMT's. Huron county has 24 EMT's licensed, with 36 in training and 22 others not yet certified.

Gage is also concerned that few moves are being made in Tuscola county to upgrade ambulance equipment or training.

Tuscola county chose not to get involved in the ambulance business because, according to Commissioner Maynard McConkey, Cass City, the need did not exist.

"We haven't missed out on anything there," McConkey said. "There's no new law that's going to change anything regarding ambulance service. That bill was turned down."

McConkey explained the board was reluctant to get involved primarily because ambulance services are private businesses and commissioners did not want to interfere with private enterprise.

He said the board preferred to work through a 14-county comprehensive health commission which acts to determine need for expansion of hospitals, nursing homes and ambulance services.

Tuscola County Civil Defense Director Frank Kroswek also said presently, local ambulance services have nothing to worry about regarding new regulations.

"Right now he (Little) has no problems as far as I can see," Kroswek said. "He can continue to operate his ambulance just the way he always has."

He said it's impossible to predict what the legislature might do about the defeated bill, but implied that now isn't the time to worry about it.

"Even if it did pass, they'd give him six months or better anyway to meet the standards," Kroswek said. "They aren't going to do it in 24 hours."

Little, however, remains unconvinced.

COMMUNITY COOPERATION

Presently, his main concern is the training of EMT's. He said to date there are no courses offered in Tuscola county for such training and that no licensed EMT's exist in the county.

He's interested in cooperating with Hills and Dales General Hospital in setting up training, but funding is the problem. The course can cost upwards of $50 for 81 hours of training.

Hospital administrator Randy Howard agrees that such courses are necessary and ought to be set up as soon as possible. But, financially, there isn't much the hospital can do, he said.

"It certainly can't operate its own ambulance service," he said. "And if the one we have goes, I can't imagine the hospital functioning without it."

Without it, he said, hospital emergency services would deteriorate. He said an ultimate answer would have to come through cooperation with either the village council or the township board.

Little could not say exactly how much such cooperation would cost, but he used between $8,000 and $10,000 as a ballpark figure to supplement any federal grants that might be applied for and received.

HURON COUNTY SITUATION

In Huron county, Gage explained the County Board of Commissioners pays each of the county's seven ambulance services $200 per month per operator, primarily for highway accident work. Each service submits a sheet of activities to the county each month and is paid.

He sees these subsidies as not an interference with private enterprise but as helping it survive.

"The county doesn't want to get into the ambulance business," Gage said. "We want to keep it in the hands of private businessmen if we can and I see this as one way of doing it."

Gage said EMT's are trained at a cost of $50 per student for 81 hours of training, plus another 16 hours of extrication training for use in highway accidents. The course is taught at Huron Memorial Hospital.

Money collected for the course goes in part to the hospital and some goes to help defray costs of guest speakers.

The course is taught by Dr. J.N. Brouillette.

Gage predicted the ambulance bill defeated in the Michigan Legislature will reappear yet this year and has a good chance of passage.

"I can see it coming," he said. "And the way I look at it, why not be prepared? It takes a good year to get EMT's trained. So why not be ready for it?"

Under the defeated bill, one EMT would have been required in all ambulances this year and two by 1976. Conceivably, this would have to be altered under a new bill.

Gage agreed that pressure from northern rural counties who could not realistically meet the rigid standards forced the bill back into committee for some refinements.

Gage sees involvement at the township and village level as important if not inevitable. Rising costs, he said, could force private ambulance operators, many of whom are not breaking even now, out of business.

"Many of these are operated as a community service," he said. "Under new standards, a lot of them just couldn't make it without some help."

"I'm not advocating an end to private enterprise. I'm just saying there should at least be a plan to meet what is inevitable."

Little maintains his ambulance business is not run on a profit basis but as a community service. He charges $30 per run as a base fee plus one dollar a mile. Emergency runs are assessed at $35 plus charges for oxygen and other services.

He said his collection rate runs about 60 per cent.

"I'm not against improvements in service," he said. "They're just coming too fast."

It's excellent to have the equipment and the training, but there just isn't the money to carry it out."

He said the ideal situation for Cass City would be to add a stall at the fire department and dispatch the ambulance from there. At the same time, the hospital could be alerted to the type of emergency and prepare for it.

But for the present, he's more interested in establishing an EMT course in Cass City.

"Even a minimal course for now would be a step in the right direction," he said.

ROGER LITTLE demonstrates a piece of ambulance equipment designed for use in cardiac arrest cases. Little is concerned with the future of ambulance service in Cass City and Tuscola county, and wants to see a course to train Emergency Medical Technicians set up at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Private company wants county tax roll business

Tuscola county's 23 townships could wind up having the mechanical portion of handling property tax rolls handled by a private concern if P.R. Adkins has his way. Adkins, senior systems consultant with Manatron Inc., of Kalamazoo, told the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday that Arbela township has already gone on record in favor of having Manatron handle the compiling of all tax roll information for every piece of property in the township, compiling it on computer records and turning it over to the county, who would still retain taxing powers.

Presently, all information regarding taxes and assessments is turned in to county authorities who must handle all the clerical work necessary to record assessments, property sales, splits, and consolidations, as well as determining tax.

Under Adkins' plan, this clerical function would be taken over by Manatron, for a fee paid possibly by both the townships and the county.

Board Chairman Charles Woodcock told Adkins that presently, it costs about 26 cents per parcel to have the county do the clerical work necessary. He questioned whether or not his firm could do it cheaper or provide more services than the county provides.

Adkins explained the advantage of his system is that property transactions during the year can be recorded on computer tape as they happen, while at the county level, they can be changed only once a year on a metal address plate.

Adkins said with more up-to-date record keeping, a truer picture of valuations could be drawn by assessors and the Equalization Department.

"Would not your system be interfering with the county system?" Woodcock asked Adkins.

"It wouldn't be interfering as much as it would be adding to the services available and reducing the cost per parcel. Concluded on page 16.

MRS. LINDA MCINTOSH began taking a survey of rail users served by Grand Trunk Western Railroad in Tuscola and Huron counties. Her findings will be used in upcoming testimony before the Interstate Commerce Commission regarding abandonment of Cass City's rail line. Mrs. McIntosh's job was created through a federal grant that funds her job for one year.

Council okays budget in short session

In one of its shortest meetings in recent memory, Cass City Village Council breezed through a light agenda that saw trustees give their final seal of approval to the 1975 village budget.

The documented budget was approved exactly as outlined in last week's Chronicle, with general fund revenues and expenditures expected to reach $253,000, a 7.6 per cent rise over the 1974 budget.

The new document as approved includes no new major spending for 1975, other than some increases in wages and fringe benefits. Even street construction will include only curb and gutter work, with blacktop surfacing scheduled for 1976.

Included in the budget are new water and sewer rates which went into effect Feb. 1. Trustees reported no objections have been heard to the new rates.

Much of the hour-long meeting was taken up with a review of the village's financial picture as of Dec. 31 by accountants from Yeo and Yeo of Saginaw.

Basically, they found the village to be operating on a sound financial basis.

While much of their report was technical in nature, they did recommend the village tighten its procedures regarding account payments to avoid over paying or duplicate payments.

They cited no specific instances when such errors had taken place and said the recommendations were meant only as a precaution and not as a comment on present practice.

POOL

In other council business, trustees learned that plans for a municipal swimming pool in Cass City are standing just as still as ever.

Trustee James Ware reported that a check Tuesday with estate executor Robert Keating revealed no substantial progress toward getting accounts settled.

Ware said final okay on the estate could come next week or could come months from now. In the meantime, village officials and disgruntled parents with children will have to wait for the Internal Revenue Service to complete its audit.

Council originally learned it would receive a sizeable donation from the estate of the late Helen Stevens in December, 1973. Since that time, the village has attempted to get state approval from Attorney General Frank Kelley to borrow against whatever the final settlement would be so that construction could begin immediately.

That request was never acted upon by the attorney general, according to trustee Dr. D.E. Rawson.

It is still unknown how much the settlement will be or how much additional revenue will have to be raised before the pool is completed.

In the meantime, officials are worried that inflation-driven costs will continue to rise, requiring more of a contribution from village taxpayers.

The latest update, given in October, 1973, placed the cost of construction at over $200,000.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, council approved a request from Cass City Lions Club for three parking places next to the Gamble Store owned by Lloyd Bryant for use by the "Hearing Mobile" scheduled to conduct a one-day hearing clinic April 9.

Cass City village patrolman Robert Smith was recognized for having completed a course in law enforcement sponsored by the Michigan Law Enforcement Training Council.

No action was taken on the proposed annexation of property at the north edge of the village originally aired at the January meeting.

General Cable

institutes

4-day week

In the wake of the economic downturn, General Cable Corp. of Cass City announced Monday that the plant will institute a four-day workweek beginning Friday.

According to Plant Manager H.W. Ardler, the action will affect both office and manufacturing facilities in Cass City.

In addition, the facility announced that 70 low-seniority employees are being laid off.

In a statement released by General Cable Monday, company officials said the action was necessary "in an attempt to maintain production capability in such an (soft) economy."

Bernhardt K. Rasmussen, Industrial Relations Manager, said the plant will be closed Fridays and Mondays, with the day varying from week to week.

Rasmussen refused to comment on how long the reduced schedule would be in effect.

It is estimated that employment at General Cable presently stands at around 400. It is the largest employer in Cass City.

line Tuesday

High winds caused an estimated $400 damage to a high-voltage power line and pole owned by Thumb Electric Cooperative at the Charles Woodruff residence on Crawford Road, six miles south-east of Cass City around 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Elkland Township Firemen were called to the scene after the line fell into a tree in the Woodruff yard and started a small fire.

Fire Chief Jim Jezewski reported no one was injured and no damage, other than to the line and power pole, was caused.

Firemen remained at the scene about two hours as workmen repaired the line.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Quick quiz for Cass City basketball fans. How many Thumb B Conference games did last year's regional champions lose last season? Before you get the answer here I'll bet a cookie right now that you thought the record better than it was.

The answer: Cass City lost six games, one more than was dropped this season.

Achtung! Bruce Holcomb of Cass City brought in two pieces of a German newspaper dated Aug. 19, 1885, that were found under the plaster of an old house on Sixth Street being remodeled. Holcomb reports large amounts of the newspaper found under one wall were so brittle they broke into small pieces as they were removed.

Himmel!

I'm waiting for someone to tell me that Henry Ford II had a better idea.

T. John Lesinski won't quit that "low paying" job as judge until the end of the year when he becomes eligible for a $25,000 a year pension for time served.

No one ever accused Big John of not having his share of smarts.

T. John is a shirt tail relative of Dick Erla of Cass City. The question is did John get it from Dick or Dick get it from John? They both got it, you know.

Jim Bauer who has looked over the industrial and wholesale scene in Cass City and the Thumb for the last 25 years says that the area hasn't changed all that much in that time.

The reason, says Jim, is that the Thumb lacks good access roads to other areas.

Which may be good or bad according to your viewpoint. It's still a great place to raise kids. . . . but you have to have a job to feed them.

Ken Eisinger returned from a brief Florida vacation and immediately the weather here turned sour. It wasn't too hot in Florida either when I was there, Eisinger confessed.

I swear that I've seen Jim Courtney more since he took that new, bigger job with Gen-Tel at Owosso than I did when he was assigned here.

That's because they just can't get along without me here, says tongue-in-cheek Jim.

All of which inspires pithy comments from the crew he left behind. I won't repeat them because even in this age of new liberties you aren't ready for this.

After all, we're still a family newspaper.

Walbro sales up 16 per cent

Walter E. Walpole, President, Walbro Corporation, reported increased sales and earnings for the Company's fiscal year ended December 31, 1974.

Sales for the year were $15,442,233, up from $13,281,360 in 1973—an increase of more than 16 per cent.

1974 net earnings were $872,201, up from $830,727 in 1973—an increase of 5 per cent.

On a per-share basis, earnings for the year were $1.14 as compared to $1.08 a year ago—a 5 per cent increase.

Special hymnals bring joy at Provincial House

Thanks to the Cass City Ministerial Association, residents of Provincial House are using special large-print hymnals for worship services. And, judging from their response, the association spent its money wisely.

According to Rev. James Van Dellen, pastor of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, the idea began last fall during a meeting of the association. "We had some money left over from our Key 73 evangelistic program and we wondered what we could do with it," Rev. Van Dellen said.

"The discussion came up at one of our meetings that we might put it toward some large-print scripture or large-print hymnals. And it just picked up momentum from there."

The association decided in October to go ahead with the project. Technically, the 75 hymnals haven't been purchased. They were donated by the Lutheran Braille Workers of San Francisco.

In appreciation of the donation, the association donated $100 toward the cost of printing, estimated at roughly $1.75 each.

They've been in use at Provincial House since Nov. 3.

So far, according to Van Dellen, the reception of the hymnals has been good. They are used not only on Sundays, but also for song services held during the week.

Member churches involved in the project include Good Shepherd Lutheran, Deford Community, Novesta Church of Christ, the area Missionary churches and the Church of God.

While not an association member, First Baptist church donated $20 to the hymnal project.

"The people at Provincial House enjoyed singing along in the services and before the hymnals, the minister in charge would run off song sheets," Van Dellen explained. "The problem was that these sheets were difficult to read because the print was small."

He said Immanuel Lutheran in Sebawaing had undertaken a similar project at an area hospital.

The hymns are predominantly gospel-type and can be used by every minister conducting services at the home. Pastors serve the facility on a rotating basis, with each pastor serving on the average of once every three months.

The hymnals are soft-cover and contain each song in large type, set on an 8½ by 11 page.

Free transportation in life is usually on the wrong road.

"We really appreciate these hymnals," Mrs. Sue Hoag, activities coordinator at Provincial House, said.

Kingston board to open talks

The Kingston Board of Education will begin teacher contract negotiations next Monday it was determined following the board's monthly meeting Monday night.

The board received a letter from the Kingston Education Association requesting that talks begin, according to Supt. Robert Cameron.

In other business, the board received a letter from teacher Ms. Shirley Herron stating she plans to retire at the end of this school year.

The board also approved use of the high school cafeteria by the Kingston VFW post for a pancake supper scheduled March 15.

Board bills of $70,505.00 were approved for payment.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

In theory the reasons for giving 18-year-olds the right to booze it up sounded all right.

You know the story. They are doing it anyway, so make it legal and control it. If youngsters are old enough to fight and die they are old enough to drink and vote.

Only that's not the way it is. Most 18-year-olds aren't voting (taking after their parents?), but many are drinking and driving. And dying.

Any police officer you care to talk to will confirm that alcohol involved mishaps are a curse on the highways and that drinking has much to do with the serious increases in accidents at the 18-21 age level.

Try as I might I can think of nothing good that has stemmed from the more liberal law. We've made another mistake in judgement. Just as we did with prohibition. The 18-year-old drinking law is as bad for states that have it as prohibition was for the nation.

Whether or not most kids can handle booze at 18 I'll leave for smarter ones than I to decide. It's sure that some can. It's sure that some can't. But then some persons can't handle it at 48 or 68 either.

What really gets me up tight is that when drinking was okayed at 18 almost immediately the drinking age of minors dropped.

It used to be that the 18-21 age group would have their legal-aged buddy buy for them and they drank it in cars or somewhere else where they felt safe from prying eyes.

Now the 18-year-olds are buying for their friends 14 to 18. More than one eighth grader has been temporarily suspended from athletics for drinking in Cass City and the rest of the Thumb as well.

It's unlikely that the law will ever revert back to 21. Changes like this seldom come about. It's easy to loosen the restrictions but virtually impossible to tighten them again.

Practically, we can't do anything about the drinking age. But we can be warned.

Right now there is hot and heavy pressure to liberalize gambling. Make betting on baseball, football, all sports, legal and have the state run it like it does the lottery.

After sports, how about slot machines on every corner? We had that once (never legal) you know and the police finally cracked down because dad was spending the bread money and the family was going without. After the slots it follows that casinos should be allowed in Detroit to attract the tourists. And if in Detroit how could anyone say no to Saginaw, Bay City or Petoskey?

Before you know it the end result is the same as it is in Vegas. Everything goes.

Well, I love to visit Vegas. Like the top shows and, yes the gambling. It's a wonderful place to visit, but no way would I live there.

And no way would I want my kids brought up there.

If that makes me a hypocrite, so be it.

I still feel that adults are better able to handle some things than the kids.

Drinking and gambling are two of them.

"If It Fitz . . ." Jeb is no real crook

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Jeb Magruder, the first Watergate crook to serve time, was on the Mike Douglas show. And one fanny-kissing guest looked admiringly at handsome Jeb and said how brave and marvelous it was that he would admit on national TV that he had been a bad boy.

Mrs. Magruder was there and she beamed at her husband. Jeb looked humbly at his shoes. I yelled for my wife to bring my TV throw-up pot, the one with "Gabor Sisters" lettered on the outside (on the inside it says "Let's Make a Deal"). And then I helped a friend write this letter to Mike Douglas.

Dear Mike:

I think it is wonderful how you are willing to help reformed lawbreakers get back on their feet. You paid Mr. and Mrs. Magruder to come on your show to advertise his book and his lecture tour. It was a nice thing to do, but you can do nicer.

Magruder is a small-timer. All he did was OK a chintzy burglary and then lie about it. When you measure his crime by his punishment — 6 months in a Ramada Inn — it becomes obvious that his evil is hardly worthy of national attention. A pansy like that could be corrupted by being locked up in the same cell with a guy who spit on the sidewalk.

Let's face it, Mike. People don't care what happened to Magruder because not enough happened. He was a bum guest because he's not a big enough bum. Most importantly, Magruder is not bad enough to make you look good enough.

I understand why the TV brains want crooks on talk shows. It goes all the way back to Jesus Christ. He forgave the thief on the next cross and people are still talking about it. Mike Douglas could use the same kind of sympathetic exposure. But you are not going to get it by holding hands with the likes of Jeb Magruder. His hands are not dirty enough.

You need a really evil man on your show, Mike. Someone who really has something to be sorry about. That's why I am writing to you.

I too was blinded by power. I too thought my high position would allow me to get away with anything. I too used "national security" as an excuse for foul deeds. I too got caught and have repented, in that order.

But that's where my similarity to Magruder, Dean, Colson and their ilk ends. I was really bad. When I appear on your show your Nielsen rating will top the Super Bowl. When you tell the world how great it is that I am willing to admit my guilt on TV, the world will look for the spike holes in your palms.

Mike, for the past 30 years I have been secluded in a monastery basement, praying (no Ramada Inn for my kind of evil. Gottenhimmel!) I have shaved off my moustache but I will let it grow back just for your show. All I ask is that you don't have Zsa Zsa Gabor on the same day.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

judge

By Jim Ketchum

It breaks my heart to know that the honorable T. John Lesinski can't cut it on $41,961 a year. When I heard the news that the Appeals Court Justice and former Michigan Lieutenant-Governor was headed for the poorhouse I nearly grabbed my checkbook to write him a tax-deductible contribution.

Luckily, I was standing near the bathroom when I got the news, so it wasn't far to travel to relieve my sorrow.

It seems poor T. John claims his paltry salary can't support himself and his large family. Two of his daughters have reportedly dropped out of the University of Michigan to help the family meet expenses.

This isn't the first time Lesinski has been heard. In the past, he's been in the forefront of a move to provide all Michigan Appeals Court justices with large limousines. His theory is that those 18 justices need the "protection" a big car provides, along with the fact that because of their status, they deserve a limousine, furnished through your tax dollars and mine.

The philosophical Lesinski is taking it all in stride, however.

"If they had kept it (my salary) at $32,000, with a normal escalator-like the auto workers have-to keep up with the rising cost of living, it would have been all right," Lesinski said.

"I'm not complaining. I'm just saying you can't afford me."

Lesinski says he plans to retire from the high court at the end of this year and go into private law practice.

"I may go out and get myself a Mark IV when I'm practicing law," the rotund barrister ruminated.

Life on farm sharp contrast to native Brazil for student Rogerio Alvaregna

Brasilia, the sprawling young capital of Brazil, is the home of Rogerio Alvaregna, 18, foreign exchange student studying this semester at Owen-Gage High School.

It's quite a contrast living with the Duane Ziehm family on their farm on McAlpine Road, four miles southwest of Owendale, compared with life in a teeming city of 700,000 persons. But so far at least, Rogerio seems to like it.

The youth arrived in the United States Jan. 11, after a 10-hour plane flight, with stops in New York City, Cleveland and finally Tri-City airport near Midland. He had little prior knowledge of where Michigan's Thumb was or what life would be like. But to date, the adjustments have gone reasonably well.

"One thing that is different is that it is very cold here," the tall, handsome student said, dressed in a pull-over sweater and jeans. "Back home, it gets up to 110 in the summer and around 80 in the winter."

In spite of the climatic differences, Rogerio is getting used to life as a foreign student. He came to the U.S. as a "Youth for Understanding" student and originally intended to stay with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Good of rural Gageton, relatives of the Ziehms.

But the lack of students Rogerio's age in the household brought about the switch to the Ziehm home. Now, things are going well.

The additional high school-er didn't necessitate much change for the Ziehms either. "We always have had kids around here anyway, so one extra didn't seem like much difference," Mrs. Ziehm said. They have four children at home.

Actually, Rogerio finished his high school education back in Brazil a little over a year ago, but wanted to come on the exchange program anyway.

"I wanted to come to learn about the United States and to improve my English," Rogerio said. He said he had an older brother who had studied in Rochester, New York, three years ago and wanted to see this country for himself.

He's studied English for about seven years, but admits using it full-time in a foreign country is a lot different from studying it in school. His skills with the language are improving rapidly, however and it shouldn't be long before English becomes as easy as his native Portuguese.

EDUCATION

In his short time in the United States, Rogerio has formed some opinions about the country, especially about education.

"School here is much easier than in Brazil," he said. "In Brazil, I took eight subjects through the week and studied both in the morning and afternoon. Here I take fewer."

He also commented on how much Americans know about their world.

"Americans know much about America, but not too much about other countries, like Brazil," he said.

One thing Rogerio finds he likes about school at Owen-Gage is sports. He said he enjoys all sports, especially action sports. He enjoys football, and basketball here and in Brazil likes soccer, the national sport. Rogerio also likes to take a crack at ping-pong.

FAMILY

Rogerio is one of four brothers in his family. His father works for an insurance firm and his mother is a housewife. His oldest brother works with computers in Brasilia.

He said his own plans for the future are uncertain when he returns home following his six-month stay in America, but he thinks he would like to study general mechanics.

Opportunities to advance his education are broad, with an abundance of colleges, both large and small, in his native Brazil.

One thing he's decided he doesn't want to be is a farmer, Mrs. Ziehm said.

Seems he doesn't like the smell of the cows on the family farm.

Rogerio said homesickness hasn't been too much of a problem since he arrived. He has already met Elizabeth Silva, foreign student at Cass City, and another Brazilian student studying at Lakeland.

He's also gotten to know a number of students at Owen-Gage who manage to keep his time occupied.

He will study at Owen-Gage through the end of the school year, returning home June 30.

Arrest Clarkston man in tavern incident

Cass City Police arrested John Anthony Male, 60, Clarkston, early Thursday morning and charged him with assault with a dangerous weapon following an incident at Jack's Bar.

According to Cass City Police who investigated, Male had reportedly been refused service at the bar. He allegedly broke a beer glass over the bar and lunged for the bartender, and was overcome by other tavern patrons.

Male allegedly returned a short time later with a loaded shotgun. Police arrived shortly after the gun was reportedly taken from Male.

Male was arraigned in Tuscola County District Court Monday. A preliminary examination was set for March 3.

Bond of $750 was posted for Male Thursday. Officially, he is charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, the shotgun, but without intent to commit murder and without intent to inflict great bodily harm.

The incident took place around 1:30 a.m. Thursday.

ASSAULT

A Cass City man appeared before District Court Judge Richard Kern in connection with three felony charges that occurred last week.

William Charles Eberline, 49, of Garfield Street, appeared on charges of breaking and entering, assault with intent to commit rape and felonious assault.

According to police the alleged offense occurred in an apartment on Main Street around 11 p.m. Feb. 16.

Bond was set at $5,000 and a pre-preliminary examination was set for March 10.

ARREST

Eugene Bilicki, Kingston, will be arraigned in District Court Monday on three charges involving breaking and entering and larcenies in the Cass City-Deford area.

Bilicki is charged with injuring a safe at the M&M Block plant on Kelly Road last November, with a breaking and entering of a service station in Deford in November and with larceny from a motor vehicle in Elk and township.

He was placed on $2,500 bond on each of the three charges. He was arrested Monday night.

MALICIOUS DESTRUCTION

Two incidents of malicious destruction were investigated

Sentence 2 in Circuit Court

Two sentencings and four arraignments were heard Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court before presiding Judge Norman Baguley.

Johnathan Wayne Martinez, 19, Caro, was sentenced on a plea of guilty to larceny in a building to three years' probation and fines and costs totaling $400, payable at $25 per month. In addition, he was ordered to serve the first 90 days of his sentence in the Tuscola County Jail, with credit for 43 days already served.

Martinez was arrested in Caro Jan. 10.

Sentencing was delayed for one year for Steve Westerby, Akron, who was found guilty of larceny at the Akron Sports Sales center Dec. 7. He was sentenced to pay court costs of $200 and his bond was continued.

John Robert Titrick, 17, Caro, was arraigned on charges of breaking and entering and larceny in a building. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for March 24, and bond was continued.

Tetrick is charged with breaking into a Caro Community Schools building Nov. 22, and stealing a tape player, a radio and record player. He is also charged with causing damage totaling $238.

Harold H. Wood II, 21, Caro, was arraigned on a charge of felonious assault. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered in his behalf.

Pre-trial examination was set for March 24, and bond was reduced to $2,500.

Wood was arrested in Wells township Jan. 20.

Gary Lee Carlisle, 18, Vassar, entered a plea of guilty to larceny in a building when he appeared in Circuit Court Monday. The plea was accepted by Judge Baguley and sentencing was set for March 24.

Bond was continued at $5,000.

Carlisle was arrested in Caro June 13 and charged with stealing a purse from a Caro laundromat.

Mark Douglas Ney, 18, Caro, was arraigned on a charge of larceny in a building. He entered a plea of guilty which was accepted by the court. Sentencing was set for March 24.

He stands accused of a larceny at a Caro gas station Feb. 9.

A motion to dismiss a count of breaking and entering against Ney was taken under advisement by Judge Baguley.

Found guilty

Jimmy Claeys, Caro, was found guilty Tuesday on two counts of fraudulent sale of a motorcycle and unlawfully removing a mortgaged vehicle from the state.

The verdict came in Tuscola County Circuit Court before presiding Judge Martin Clements.

Sentencing was set for April 14.

Claeys was charged with attempting to defraud the Akron State Bank of Akron last May 1.

Use caution with slow cooker

Did you receive a slow cooker for Christmas or purchase one for yourself? Then take extra caution when using the slow cooker.

Food should not remain in the 40 to 140 degree F range longer than four hours because bacteria grow at those temperatures. This four-hour period includes preparation, room temperature storage and cooking time.

You can test your slow cooker by placing a meat thermometer in the center of the food. The temperature should be at least 150 degrees F after four hours.

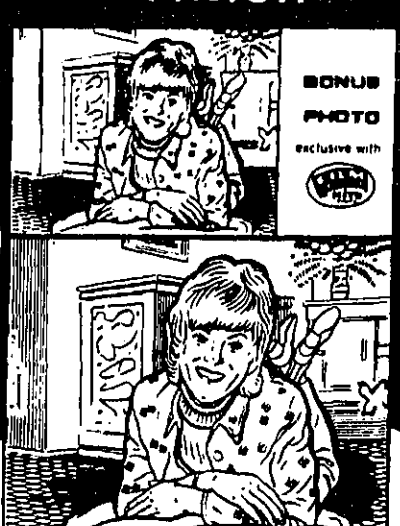

"Never interrupt the cooking cycle," cautions Dr. Kenneth Stevenson, Michigan State University assistant professor of food science and human nutrition. "Keep the slow cooker going continually. If you turn it off for a while or frequently remove the lid, bacteria may begin to grow."

Dr. Stevenson ran tests on a medium-size slow cooker, which indicated they were safe to use for casseroles containing ground beef. Food remained in the danger zone (40-140 degrees F) for less than three hours.

If you are concerned that the food will be in the danger zone too long, begin cooking the meat on the range and then finish cooking it in the slow cooker.

Some slow cookers have a thermostatic control having a temperature range from simmer to 400 degrees F. Again, you could begin cooking the meat at a high temperature and then lower it.

These methods are not as convenient as leaving the meat at the lower temperature all day. However, your food will get out of the danger zone quicker.

Cancer society

sets dinner

meeting

The Tuscola County Unit of the American Cancer Society will hold a kickoff meeting Tuesday, March 4, beginning with a potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the Vassar Catholic Church. Persons attending the meeting are asked to bring a table service and a dish to pass.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Lambert E. Althaver is the new Executive Vice-President of Walbro Corporation, Cass City.

The resignation of Carl Palmateer as chief of police in Cass City has caused several problems for village trustees, it was revealed in the regular meeting of the council Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

A host of unsolicited but appreciated help has flown in to Mrs. Helen Keyser of Cass City, a widow with seven children, since her home was gutted by fire 10 days ago.

Elkland Township Supervisor Maynard McConkey announced this week that new laws affecting senior citizens' tax exemptions are now in force.

An anticipated five per cent increase in valuation in the village property tax will be all that is necessary to maintain a record-size budget in 1976, according to details revealed at the regular Cass City council meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

TEN YEARS AGO

Gov. George Romney has appointed Clinton House of Cass City, Tuscola County Circuit Court Commissioner, it was announced Wednesday.

The Cass City Centennial received official permission to use village facilities for Cass City's 100-year celebration this July at the regular meeting of the village council Tuesday night.

The supporters of Warren Wood and Leland Rabideau are girding for an all-out sticker campaign at the general village election March 8 and said Cass City seems to be in for a rip-roaring political campaign.

An estimated 200 persons attended the morning services Sunday at which Cass City Methodists dedicated new church pews and an altar cross.

Cass City Boy Scout Mike Root came a few steps closer to winning scouting's coveted Eagle Scout badge Wednesday night at the annual Blue and Gold Banquet at the high school. Root was awarded eight merit badges and a Star Scout badge. All that is left for the youth are the Life and Eagle levels.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

The Cass City Rotary Club and Gavel Club each passed a motion Tuesday to sponsor and send a boy from Cass City to the Wolverine Boys' State at Michigan State College this summer.

Program chairman Cliff Croft showed color slides he took while on a motor trip through Iowa, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and California during the Gavel Club program Tuesday night. Dr. D.E. Rawson also showed slides taken in Cass City and in California while he was stationed there with the navy.

There were 13 present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Zinnecker Monday evening when the Elkland Farm Bureau was organized. Maynard McConkey was named chairman and Ed Karr was named vice-chairman.

The Cass City Chamber of Commerce set March 9 for their annual meeting and dinner at a gathering Tuesday night.

A Yellow Taxi Co. cab stolen in Saginaw Monday was recovered in Cass City several hours later.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

"The election in November next will determine the political, industrial and economic destiny of the United States," declared Hon. Everett McKinley Dirksen of Pekin, Ill., congressman from the 16th Illinois district, at the beginning of his address before more than 600 persons representing the Upper Thumb at the Republican rally of Tuscola, Huron and Sanilac counties, held in the high school auditorium in Cass City Tuesday evening.

Rev. Frank B. Smith informed members of the First Baptist Church in Cass City Sunday that he had accepted the call which was given him last week to serve as pastor of the church here.

Five new styles in postage stamps are being sold by Postmaster Arthur Little and his assistants.

The Tuscola County Farm Bureau is putting on an active campaign this week to increase the membership in the county.

The first local contributor to the crippled children seal sale for 1940 was Robert Foy, with Stanley Striffler and Alfred Fort next in line.

Daniel Guigar, Sr., 57, dies

Monday

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Daniel E. Guigar Sr., 57, Bad Axe, and a former resident of the Holbrook area, who died Monday, Feb. 24, in Huron Memorial Hospital, Bad Axe, after suffering a heart attack.

He was born Sept. 10, 1917, in Austin township, Sanilac county.

He married Miss Sabina Dybilas Nov. 27, 1937. The couple lived in Sheridan township since their marriage.

He was an employee of Active Industries in Elkton. He is survived by his widow; five sons, Joseph of Caseville, John, Daniel Jr., Richard and Elmer, all of Bad Axe; three daughters, Mrs. Ralph Behnke of Harbor Beach and Miss Anna Guigar and Miss Sabina Guigar, both of Bad Axe; five brothers, Stanley of Detroit, Clarence and William, both of Uby, and Henry and Glenn Guigar, both of Minden City; and 15 grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted from Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Bad Axe, with Rev. Raymond Oswald, pastor of the church, officiating.

Burial was in the church cemetery. Wake services were conducted Tuesday by Fr. Oswald at Zinger Funeral Home, Uby.

Name CMU

students

Twenty-two students from the Cass City area have been named to the academic honors list at Central Michigan University for the fall semester of 1974. In addition, two area students have been honored by CMU for achieving straight "A" averages for the semester.

To be eligible for the academic honors list a student must have a cumulative grade average of "B" or better for his or her entire college career.

The straight "A" list is based upon fall semester grades without regard to cumulative averages.

In addition, Miss Stevens also achieved all-A's for the semester.

Tuscola SCD holds meeting

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District Board of Directors held their February meeting recently.

The Tuscola Board set up their 1975 annual plan of operation. It included the following conservation practices to be installed in the designated high priority area. The practices discussed were grassed waterways, diversions, erosion control structures, critical area seeding and no-till.

No-till is a new and important practice to be considered when growing continuous corn on sloping land.

The board elected the following officers for 1975: Leon Keinath, chairman; Donald Loomis, vice-chairman and Bruce Ruggles, secretary and treasurer.

The Tuscola SCD will again sponsor a scrapbook contest on soil and water conservation for students in grades three through eight.

The next board meeting will be held at 10:00 a.m. March 3. There is still time to place orders for red pine, Scotch pine, Austrian pine, white spruce, Colorado Blue Spruce and Autumn Olive at the SCD office at 852 S. Hooper in Caro.

Goals for AARP members told

Melvin Thompson, State AARP Director, was a guest speaker at the local AARP meeting held Feb. 13, at the Elkland Township Fire Hall.

Thompson outlined six goals for the future for the 43 members present. They include greater civic involvement, striving for a higher standard of living, better health programs, more human services, providing more opportunities for the older citizen and procuring agencies to assist in the problems of aging.

Hostesses for the day were Mary Kirtson, Lena Patch, Avis Youngs and Mildred Herr.

Ernest Beardsley was appointed chairman of the insurance committee and Clara Eberts is chairwoman for volunteer programs.

The next meeting will be held March 13, at 12:30 p.m., at the fire hall. Gertrude Falkenhagen, Charles and Rose Simon will be in charge of the program.

BETTER HEALTH New treatment for hemorrhoids

Described by a wise old philosopher as the only possession all men carry with modesty, hemorrhoids are unknown among four-footed animals. If man walked on all fours with his tail in the air, and his back parallel to the ground, the varicose veins of his anal canal would collapse.

But man insists on standing up straight, and part of the price he pays for his lofty stance is a dependent set of veins around his anal outlet that can hurt and sometimes bleed.

Most persistent hemorrhoids that are causing symptoms can be controlled by warm Sitz baths and measures to control constipation. One effective measure to soften the stool and ease its passage is to increase the amount of roughage (really "softage") in the diet, with a bran-containing breakfast cereal.

Ointments containing anti-inflammatory adrenal steroids (cortisone) often will relieve itching and inflammation. Most suppositories do little for the anal ring because they tend to slide up into the rectum beyond the area where the trouble is.

If such conservative local measures do not quiet things down, there has been little to turn to except surgery until recently.

The simplest and a sometimes effective treatment is to inject the offending veins with their lining and causes them to seal off. This is best done only by a very experienced operator who knows how to avoid excessive scarring of the anal outlet.

Surgical removal of the hemorrhoids is painful, but in about 90 per cent of cases, the results are good. You may spend only four or five days in the hospital, but convalescence is often prolonged.

To avoid anesthesia and hospitalization, some clever surgeons have had very good results by simply snugging a rubber band around the base of a hemorrhoid to cut off its circulation. The hemorrhoid dries up and falls off. Most patients required three or four treatments done at two- to four-week intervals, but no anesthesia or hospitalization is required and no time need be lost from work.

Another new method, for certain carefully selected patients, requires hospitalization and anesthesia, but no cutting. The anal canal is simply widely stretched, while the patient is under anesthesia. In a well-controlled trial in 100 patients, it was about as effective as surgery and required less time lost from work.

The last new technique is to destroy the hemorrhoid with a freezing device. This does not require general anesthesia and is said to be painless. An unpleasant discharge may last for about a week in some patients, but other complications are said to be rare.

Some surgeons combine freezing with the rubber-band treatment and report better results than with either treatment alone.

So there is progress in the management of this miserable ailment, but I must add one warning to all men and women who think they have bleeding hemorrhoids. Such bleeding can never be assumed to be caused only by hemorrhoids. Direct examination of the rectum with a lighted instrument and X-ray of the lower bowel by means of a barium enema should always be part of a checkup for rectal bleeding in order to be sure there is not a more serious cause for the bleeding.

Owen-Gage band members in Caro festival

Eleven Owen-Gage Senior High band members participated in the Solo and Ensemble Festival held in Caro Saturday. Four of the six entries received Second Division ratings (on a scale of one to five) and were awarded red medals.

Those receiving Third Division Ratings were Mary Goodell and Arlene Kunderling, playing a clarinet duet; and Sally Peters, Jennifer Putman and Debra Lenda, playing a clarinet trio. The Second Division red medals were awarded to Mark Schwartz, Jennifer Dae and David Burrows on a cornet trio, Sandy Howard on a bass clarinet solo and Janice Ellicott and Cindy Peters, each playing a piano solo. The band is under the direction of Miss Jeri Blough.

Learn this lesson well—there is no reward for finding fault.

Your neighbor says TV is pretty frank

Has television gotten too frank? Some viewers and station managers think so. A station manager in Cincinnati, Ohio, has rescheduled one program, "Cher", to 11:30 p.m. because he thinks it shouldn't be seen by young viewers.

Mrs. Gene Cook of Cass City thinks a lot of what's on TV these days isn't fit for young viewers. She particularly dislikes profanity and scenes depicting drinking. "I'm the kind of person that likes family-type shows, like 'The Waltons', she says. 'I'd rather have programs shown that show how people can love each other.'"

She objects to violent programming. "There are some movies I won't even watch," she says. Mrs. Cook has been a resident of Cass City the last 10 years. Her husband is a lifelong resident and is a builder. The couple have three children.

Mrs. Mellen dies Feb. 8

Melvena N. Mellen, 81, a former Cass City resident, died Feb. 8, at Glen Acres Nursing Home, Pontiac.

She was born Jan. 19, 1894, in Cass City, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell.

She resided in Cass City until she married Charles Floyd Mellen in 1914. The couple then moved to Pontiac, where they made their home. Survivors include one son, George of Pontiac; two grandsons, Leon and Mike; and several great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held in Pontiac Feb. 12. Rev. Phillip M. Somers Sr. officiated. Services were also held Feb. 12, at the Elkland township chapel, with burial in Elkland cemetery.

It's mighty easy to go astray; most paths lead that way.

Program set on children's clothing

The Cooperative Extension Service will present a program entitled "Buying Children's Clothing". This program is designed to help you understand all aspects of buying clothing for children. The program will be presented in Huron county March 11, Sanilac county March 12, and Tuscola county March 13. All programs are to be held in the evening. Cindy Crain, Extension Home Economist, will be teaching all the programs.

Buying for children involves more than you think. A good fit and easy care clothing are important to mothers. But did you know clothing also affects how a child adjusts emotionally. Permitting children to help select their own clothing gives them the opportunity to express themselves and gain confidence. Opportunity for self-expression in clothing is one way children can develop an awareness of themselves as a person.

If you wish more information contact your local Extension Service.

OPENING DOORS

A jigsaw puzzle of a church was Billy's project for the afternoon. He worked diligently as the church took form. But one section was missing—the door. "A church has to have a door," he said. At last he found it.

As Billy grows older, he may discover that the Church has many doors which can open to him:

Gratitude for his home, his family, his friends
Knowledge of God, his Creator
Sensitivity to spiritual life
Inspiration from Bible accounts of dedicated lives

Experiences in sharing his beliefs with others
Development of his character
Foundations of a sustaining faith

Open these doors to your child so that he may grow spiritually. Take him to church each Sunday.

Volleyballers end year with win

CASS CITY'S Junior Varsity volleyball team gained valuable experience this year in a 10-game schedule.

Cass City High School's Girls' Volleyball team ended its season on an upbeat note taking a pair of victories from Marlette Wednesday night, Feb. 19, at Cass City High School.

The team, playing a double-header to make up for a match cancelled earlier in the season, took victories in both varsity and JV competition.

In the varsity contests, the Hawks swept the four games of the two matches 15-3, 15-4, 15-3 and 15-2.

Deb Selby scored 18 points for the Hawks in the two matches. With Beth Erla scoring 17. All 22 team members saw action.

The JV wins came a little harder. In the first match, the junior Hawks took 15-2 and 15-12 wins. The second match went to three games.

The Hawks won the first contest 15-11, but faltered in the second, losing by a 15-8 count. The squad turned things around in the final game, however, taking a 15-7 win.

The varsity squad finished their season with a 6-4 record.

Color 'goes to bat' for baseball

Television did a lot for baseball and vice versa.

The "national pastime" became a prime means of promoting the new medium of color television in its infancy. In Cincinnati, for example, the Reds' baseball games were put on the air in living color and Cincinnati became one of the hottest color TV markets in the land.

A Cincinnati tavern owner, whose establishment was equipped with a color TV set, reported a baseball colorcast meant an average of $100 in additional business.

Battel most valuable

By Coach Dale McIntosh

The Cass City Junior Varsity finished the season with a 10-8 record over-all and a 9-5 record in Thumb B Conference competition. The finish was good enough for a tie for second with Lakers. Frankmuth was first with a conference mark of 13-1.

Cass City was first in the league in defense giving up 727 points and scoring 762. The low defensive total is attributed to a very effective man-to-man defense which the young Hawks used a great percentage of the time throughout the season.

Cass City relied on two Freshmen to lead them in scoring with Paul Battel averaging 11 points per game and Clarke Haire averaging 10.8 points per game. Mike Lowe, a sophomore, was third in scoring, averaging 9.5 points per game.

The team selected Paul Battel as most valuable and Chuck Hendrick as most improved.

Laming qualifies for regionals

Cass City's grapplers concluded their regular season with an easy 53-9 win over a green Sandusky team to up the season's record to 8 wins, 4 losses and a tie.

The Junior Varsity won, 30-0.

In other action, Friday, Feb. 21, the wrestling team competed in the district tournaments. Walt Laming qualified to go to the regionals Saturday, March 1.

The results:
Walt Laming pinned John Potestivo, 1:23.
Rick Doerr, forfeit.
Dave Langmaid pinned Gregg Staffen, 1:57.
Rick Rabideau pinned Rick Spiegel, 3:46.
Randy Rabideau pinned George Mata, 3:17.

Tom Smentek pinned John Galvan, 1:40.

John Mocan pinned Rich Gerstenberger, 1:54.

Skip Speirs drew with Jerry Laeder, 4-4.

Mike Ertman (S) decisioned Wayne Brooks, 6-1.

Frank Stapleton decisioned Gasper Sanchez, 7-4.

Stan Grabitz (S) decisioned Tim Dorland, 14-3.

Third row: Rich Hollis, Ron Ziehm, John Tuckey, Jesse Groth, Durrell Caister and Coach Jim Mastie. Missing is Dean Alexander.

USA GRABS a rebound. It was the Patriot's board strength that proved decisive in Tuesday's game. It was the last game for Jerry Toner, right. Ken Lowe, number 32, played an outstanding game for Cass City.

Patriots board strength decisive

Cass City pushes USA to limit in district opener

CHARLIE WALSH goes up for a shot against USA Tuesday. It was his final game of the year for the Hawks and closed out Walsh's high school career.

Assist public transportation

Despite all the attempts to assist car sales in Michigan, it seems to be a return to public transportation—and a demand for better services—that Gov. William Milliken says is "greater than at any time since the late 1940's."

Thus, he's asking the legislature for more than $22 million in 1975-76 for Dial-A-Ride, Amtrak and other transportation projects. The money would come from the General Transportation Fund.

That money, the executive office says, would generate some $31 million in federal funds for new and expanded local bus, train, Dial-A-Ride and intercity bus services.

"This operating assistance is the first step of a program whose eventual goal is to offer portal-to-portal public transportation throughout Michigan," the governor says.

In addition, Milliken is recommending up to $175 million in revenue bonding to meet "immediate public transportation capital needs."

"This two-part financing package, involving the gas tax revenue and the revenue bonding, will allow us to begin programs that cannot be postponed any longer while we develop a long-term general obligation bonding program of greater magnitude," Milliken contends.

Cass City Red Hawks and USA, the fourth ranked class C school in the State, had a shoot-out Tuesday in the opening round of the district tournament and USA won, 80-66, in a game that was much, much closer than the final score indicates.

So close in fact that just two points separated the two teams midway through the final period. But USA showed the class of a good team by stemming every challenge that the Hawks threw at them to win.

Cass City often came close but was never able to pull even or ahead in the final two periods.

The game started off as if the Patriots might just run the Hawks right out of the Uby gym. The team raced to a 6-2 lead in the opening minutes before Cass City found itself.

But the Hawks got back on the right track in a hurry and played its best basketball of the night in the final five minutes of the opening canto.

With Ken Lowe, a demon on the boards and on offense all night, showing the way, Cass City poured it on to move in front 23-18 by the end of the first quarter and visions of an upset danced before the eyes of Hawk fans.

But it was not to be. In the second quarter USA put on a charge that proved to be decisive. The winners ripped in 10 straight unanswered points and with 4:08 left in the second period moved in front, 34-24.

The Hawks regrouped and got part of that margin in the next four minutes to close the gap to 43-37 at the intermission.

USA still was in front by 10 with 4:51 left in the third period when Cass City rallied again. They cut the USA lead in half with 4:51 left in the third quarter and then poured on the coal to move within three with 32 seconds left in the third period as Chuck Bliss headed a fast break good for two quick buckets.

But again the Patriots were equal to the challenge and scored two quick hoops of their own to move in front 59-52 at the three quarter mark.

The Hawks' final charge came midway in the final quarter with a charge that closed the gap to two, but that was as close as Cass City could get.

USA spurted again and with 3:28 left in the game was in front 69-62. The winners then went into a stall and steadily widened the margin against a desperate, pressing Hawk defense.

Lowe led all scorers with 25 points. Eight other players added to the Hawk totals in the game. Cass City's Jerry Toner played the game below par because of illness.

In the final analysis it was the brute board strength of USA that spelled the difference. The second and third shots earned by Mark Gainsforth, Thomas Koch and Dennis Dunckel, combined with the outside shooting of David Bitzer, propelled USA to the win.

Bitzer netted 18 points. Dunckel had 19 and Gainsforth, 17.

Break earns Hawks win over Vassar in tight tilt

A jerk in the stands whistled and play on the floor stopped in the final minute of Friday's basketball game against Vassar and the untimely fan action presented the Red Hawks with a major break to set up a 71-68 victory for Cass City.

The break in the game came with Cass City trailing the Vulcans by a single point and less than a minute to go.

When the whistle sounded both teams thought that the referee had blown the action dead and as a result the Vulcan guard with the ball was called for steps and Cass City took possession.

When the Hawks were able to go down the floor and score to take the lead on a basket by Ken Lowe the Hawks were in command. It was the second narrow win for Cass City in a row. Last week the team won over Marlette by two points.

The wins were essential if the Hawks were to finish third in the Thumb B Conference.

Most observers expected a tough game with Vassar, a team that defeated Cass City in the first meeting between the schools, 76-61, and they were not disappointed.

Cass City started fast and moved into a first period lead, 15-10.

But the middle two quarters belonged to the Vulcans.

Featuring balanced scoring the visitors moved into a halftime tie and in the third quarter burned the nets for 25 points as Paris Currington whipped in 16 points to show the way.

At the end of three quarters, Cass City trailed 54-51.

Facing a possible loss of third place, the Hawks rallied behind Jerry Toner and Lowe to snatch the victory. Each scored seven points in the decisive final period.

Cass City was better than usual at the free throw line, netting 61 per cent and adequate from the field with 41 per cent.

It's a rumor

Contrary to what you may have heard, you CANNOT pick up lottery winnings at Secretary of State branch offices.

Richard Austin notes that although some branches do work with the Lottery Bureau, they are not authorized to pay out any money.

"These offices are only authorized to accept, certify and forward to Lansing winning tickets for prizes less than $50," Austin says.

He explained that, somehow, the story about getting lottery cash from the branch offices had been circulating and was even carried by a radio station in southern Michigan. "This is not the case," he says.

The season's statistics

If you go by records, this year's Cass City basketball team wasn't a bad shooting team. . . but it wasn't outstanding either.

By most standards, a 41 per cent average from the field is acceptable.

Forty-one per cent is good but it wasn't as good as the combined average of Cass City's opponents this season. The teams the Hawks faced shot 42 per cent. In the free throw department the season's average was 56 per cent for Cass City and 60 per cent for Hawk foes.

Ken Lowe was the leading scorer and leading rebounder for Cass City.

Poem says thanks to a family who cared

When you find happiness in life, especially at age 16, you want to do unusual things to express it. Sometimes you even write poetry about it.

That's what Nancy Cole did. And, in a way, it surprised even herself.

She lives with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Hennessey of 6181 Milligan Rd., and has for about a year. What made her so happy was that she found out what love was all about and that people do care.

"I don't know," she quietly said, peering through her wire-rim glasses as she sat next to Mrs. Hennessey on the arm of an overstuffed chair in the family living room. "I just wanted to tell them how I felt and I couldn't do it in words. So I wrote a poem."

The poem reads:

"To give my thanks is hard to do,
"How do I say it to people as you?"

"I thank you for your kindness,
"I thank you because you're you,
"I thank you for curing my blindness.
"I thank you for everything you do."

What inspired her to pen this tribute to "parents" she's known not more than a year? Simply, she says, because she's happy.

Life didn't start out this way for Nancy Cole, however. Born in the southern part of Sanilac county, her experience with the world amounted to frustration and sadness.

She came to Cass City over a year ago to live with another relative, but, according to Mrs. Hennessey, this didn't work out either.

In the meantime, as a student at Cass City High School, she came to know Sue Hennessey and a friendship began to grow. It grew so large that finally all agreed that, if she wanted, she could live with the Hennessey family.

"We didn't ask twice," Mrs. Hennessey recalled. "We've been real happy with the decision ever since."

Nancy came to live with the Hennesseys in May. Since then, it's truly become home for the attractive blonde. After a few initial adjustments both Nancy and the Hennessey family knew it was the right decision.

"We all enjoy doing pretty much the same things together," Mrs. Hennessey said. "We like to take hikes, to travel and to do things together as a family."

Among family activities is pool. A table at home provides hours of recreation and has turned Nancy into a crack shot.

"I just consider them family," Nancy says. "I feel at ease here and that I belong."

Nancy said her ideas of what love means now are much different than they were before she arrived.

"Love didn't have much meaning to me before I came here," she said. "Then I met these people who are so full of love. I think I'm more open to it now and can give it easier."

Her experience with the Hennessey family has led her to consider a career in social work when her education is completed. She said she would like to work with children and families to help them find what she's found.

For her part, Mrs. Hennessey is pleased that the family could help Nancy through a difficult time in her life.

"We're so happy to have her," she said. "When I'm able to help someone like Nancy, then I'm happy, too."

This isn't the first time the family has opened its doors to help others. They have provided a home for two other young persons through the years and helped make their lives productive.

Mrs. Hennessey said she enjoys helping people. To her, that's a basic part of life.

She is employed as a nurse at Provincial House and worked at the old Cass City Hospital for eight years.

"I enjoy being a nurse," she said. "When your whole heart is there, you put all you have into it. It's helping people and I enjoy it."

Mrs. Hennessey looks at Nancy's arrival as a blessing for the family as much as for anyone.

Her reaction to Nancy's poem summed it up.

"We're blessed again," she said.

Private company wants tax roll business

processed," Adkins replied.

He told the board his firm does not handle assessments or setting of taxes. All it does is the clerical work involved in printing tax rolls.

"If you're interfering with a service offered by the county at a nominal fee, then I'm against it," Woodcock said.

Adkins told the board his firm handles such tax work in 38 counties in Michigan and employs about 100 persons.

He said he would have a full report for the board in approximately two months.

DOG WARDEN

In other business, County Dog Warden Michael Franko presented his annual report showing that his department has really gone to the dogs in the past year.

In 1974, Franko said, his department picked up 1,436 animals and shipped out 2,339. This compares with 826 picked up in 1973 and 1,874 shipped out in 1973.

Last year, the shelter disposed of 43 animals, compared with 26 in 1973. The pound sold 242 animals last year against 178 for 1973.

Franko reported his department sold 329 dog licenses last year against 59 the previous year.

To handle the load, employees traveled 42,572 miles in 1974, against 18,941 in 1973.

The problem is the same—more dogs and cats to handle. No solution was offered.

WCTU meets

Feb. 19

The Women's Christian Temperance Union met at the home of Mrs. Edith Toner Wednesday, Feb. 19.

Mrs. Beatrice Soldan and Mrs. Walter Anthes presented readings. Devotions and scripture reading on the topic "Love One Another" were presented by Mrs. Leveret Barnes.

Mrs. Toner served a luncheon.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, Circuit Court Judge Martin Clements appeared before the board asking for an increase in salaries for circuit judges.

Presently, he and Judge Norman Baguley receive $26,500 from the state, and $2,000 each from Tuscola and Lapeer counties.

Clements did not name a figure for an increase. The request was referred to committee for study.

County Road Commission Chairman Robert Wellington also appeared before the board to report on the status of Title VI funding under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

He told commissioners that of 129 applied for, 96 have been filled in the county.

He also revealed that another $50,000 will be available to the county, coupled with $18,642 not yet earmarked from the last grant.

Move under way to save

Michigan's eroding shore

Ugly, angular metal chunks jutting from the tiny beach at Point Betsie on Michigan's western "coastline" may do nothing for the seascape. But their goal, to cut shoreline erosion, more than balances the blight.

Shore erosion, the loss of land because of the energy of waves and currents produced by large wind storms, has been such a problem in Michigan that the Legislature authorized the Department of Natural Resources to take "action to avert catastrophic consequences" in 1973.

A Demonstration Erosion Control Program, involving the University of Michigan Coastal Zone Laboratory, resulted.

Anyone who owns shore property and has experienced or fears erosion might well take a look at what that program is doing, because one principal aim was to help private land owners make decisions about protecting their property.

In fact, a particular effort was made to find "reasonably effective methods which could be constructed by the property owners themselves."

Research began with selection of more than a dozen sites around the state where there are severe erosion problems.

Then some type of protective method—sand fill, groins, revetments, sea walls, offshore breakwaters—was installed and its effectiveness evaluated with respect to reduction of erosion rates, cost, construction difficulties and durability.

Those evaluations now are available in a comprehensive report, complete with photographs and specific diagrams. Folks who want a copy of that report can obtain one by writing to: Water Development Services Division, Department of Natural Resources, Mason Bldg., Lansing, Mi. 48926. Ask for: Michigan's Demonstration Erosion Control Program Evaluation Report.

The report cautions that the one-year study cannot come up with final conclusions. "Many shore installations appear to perform well temporarily but fail after several years," it notes.

Thus, the report recommends the monitoring portion of the study continue for five years.

But it does contain some clues for property owners who may have taken to the water in bathing trunks to shore up their shores with sand bags.

POINTS FOR SPEED?

Are penalty points an incentive to slow down? State Rep. Ernest Nash, R-Dimondale, an 18-year veteran of Michigan's State Police force thinks they are, and he's trying to renew legislative consideration of applying points to drivers caught violating the 55 mph limit.

"Lawmakers thought the 55 mph limit was only temporary when they adopted it almost a year ago," Nash points out. "Its purpose was to save gasoline during the shortage and they didn't want to penalize people for something that was only temporary."

But now that the federal government has made the 55 mph limit permanent, Nash figures it's a different story.

"People didn't pay any attention to the lower limit," he says. "In order for (that) limit to have any effect, it's going to be necessary to put points back in the system."

Nash's proposal calls for two points to be added to the record of a driver caught doing 10 miles or less over the speed limit. Anyone going 10-15 miles over the limit would be penalized three points, and that would be boosted to four for exceeding the limit by more than 15 miles an hour.

WHAT LIES AHEAD?

Michigan needs to look ahead, develop long-range goals and identify potential problem areas—and that's something the Legislature is not equipped to do.

So says House Republican Leader Dennis Cawthorne of Manistee.

Cawthorne says legislative bodies "are primarily equipped to meet problems on a piecemeal, crisis-by-crisis basis." What's needed in addition he says, is a "commission on the future."

Proposing a bipartisan commission, similar to one operating in Minnesota, Cawthorne asks such questions as:

—What should our state be like in 25 years?
—How do we get there?
—A commission on the future could provide our citizens and legislature with specific long-range policy

Cub Scouts hold 25th anniversary dinner Monday

CUB SCOUTS advanced to Webelo status during ceremonies Monday night included (first row) Stewart Batts, Tom Kaczor, Scott Geiger and Robbie Kerbyson. Shown standing behind their sons are (from the left) Mrs. James Batts, Mrs. Roberta Kaczor and Jim Torzewski, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Geiger and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kerbyson. Also advanced was Dale Keyser.

CHUCK REYNOLDS, District Representative for Boy Scouts, presents local Cubmaster Bob Witzke with a 25-year charter, recognizing that Cubscouting has been active in Cass City a quarter-century. The presentation came during the Blue and Gold Dinner held Monday night at Campbell Elementary School.

Mother's March needs volunteers

The Cass City Mother's March for the March of Dimes may not be much more than a slow walk this year unless the organization finds some volunteers fast.

According to Al Jones, an organizer for the campaign, there's a severe shortage of willing mothers for the march. Plans to begin the campaign the first week in March have already been cancelled, although it's hoped that canvassers will still be able to make rounds before the month's end.

Jones said Monday that out of 25 calls made by Sandy Piechotte, area chairperson for the drive, only three persons said they would volunteer if no one else could attend.

Ideally, 36 volunteers are necessary to canvass the Cass

City area.

"The chapter hasn't been active in recent years and we're trying to get things moving again," Jones said. "Ideally, each person would have to call on 15 homes."

Jones said if the mother's march is not held, the organization will wind up about $400 short of its $3,000 goal. Other monies will be collected through mail-in campaigns and canisters in various Cass City businesses.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the campaign can call Jones in Caro at 673-7178 or Carolyn Benscoter evenings in Cass City at 872-2633.

Marlette driver shaken in Sunday mishap

A 17-year-old Marlette youth was shaken up early Sunday morning when the car he was driving went out of control and landed in a ditch on Cemetery Road a half-mile north of Deckerville Road in Novesta township.

Steven Dale Shaw of Deckerville Road, Marlette, was headed south on Cemetery Road at the time of the mishap. He told Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies who investigated that a heavy fog made it difficult to see the road.

Shaw crossed the centerline, ran off the road on the east side and landed in a ditch.

He was taken to Hills and Dales General Hospital by his parents where he was treated and released.

The accident took place at 2:20 a.m. Two area drivers were unhurt late Saturday afternoon when their cars collided on M-81 a mile and-a-half west of Cass City.

Neither driver was ticketed. The accident took place at 8:05 a.m. Cars driven by Felicia Pearl Carr, 26, of 5150 Jacob Rd., Gagetown, and Helen Lynn Randall, 28, of 4176 Maple St., Cass City, were westbound on M-81 when the Carr vehicle slowed to allow another vehicle to make a left turn and was struck from the rear by the Randall auto.

Ms. Randall told Sheriff's deputies she did not have time to stop.

Neither driver was injured and no ticket was issued. The accident took place at 5:40 p.m.

Two Cass City drivers escaped serious injury Friday morning when their cars collided near the intersection of Main and Maple Streets in Cass City.

A car driven by Edward Paul Neal II, 17, of 4923 Milligan Rd., was headed south on Maple Street and was struck by a car driven by Dawn Marie Russo, 16, of 6761 Houghton St., as she made a left turn into a gas station.

Neither driver was ticketed. The accident took place at 8:05 a.m.

Name DeGrow

investigation

State Senator Alvin DeGrow of Pigeon has been appointed to a special committee to investigate the P.B.B. poisoning of Michigan livestock.

The poisoning, caused by accidentally contaminated feed, has caused widespread damage among beef and dairy cattle, hogs and chickens at scattered sites throughout the state.

In a rather unusual move, Democratic leaders of the Senate chose Republicans from agricultural areas to form a majority on the committee.

In addition to DeGrow, the committee includes Republicans John Welborn and Gary Byker from western Michigan, and Dick Allen from central Michigan. Welborn, from Kalamazoo, introduced the resolution requesting the special committee and was appointed chairman.

DeGrow said the committee will attempt to establish the facts surrounding the feed contamination, economic consequences for Michigan farmers, human health hazards, and means of avoiding such disastrous mix-ups in the future.

Tapering off on a bad habit is nothing more than kindling a fire for a new start.

Abortion stand 'irresponsible'

Dear Mr. Haire, Read your Editor's Corner last week and found it to be a very irresponsible article. You favor abortion; I favor male vasectomy. Put another way, you favor murder, I favor prevention. If a couple does not want children or if they have all the children they want a vasectomy is much simpler than tying a woman's tubes. A child is a child at the time of conception. If a couple does not want children they should do something to themselves not the child. They are responsible.

Apathy hurts scouting

February 14, 1975

Dear Mr. Haire, Having read your "Rabbit Tracks" on scouting, I couldn't resist sending this on to you when it arrived the following day.

The problem seems to be the same everywhere, and has been our experience here in Port Austin.

Sincerely, Mary E. Gardiner

Editor's note: Enclosed with this note was a bulletin from a Detroit suburb sponsor of Scouting telling of the same problem.

Balanced budget

Michigan taxpayers may wonder why the state considers hiking its income tax rate just as the federal government discusses rebates and lowered income taxes. Democratic House Speaker Bobb Crim has the answer:

"The federal government can deficit spend," he says "while Michigan cannot. That means basically that the U.S. government can spend more than it has, but Michigan's constitution prohibits such an approach, declaring that state spending must be when it looks like income won't meet outgo."

NEWS FROM District Court

Preliminary examination was set for March 3, for Alan Jeffrey Dandron, Kingston, charged with delivery of PCP. The incident allegedly took place at the Tuscola County Jail when Dandron reportedly tried to smuggle some of the drug in to an inmate.

In other court action, Scott Guinther, Cass City, pleaded guilty to possessing an open container of alcoholic beverages in a motor vehicle. He paid a $15 fine and $20 costs.

Also charged with the open container offense were William Zimba, Deford, and William Fleming, Decker. Both paid $15 fines and $20 in costs.
